entire freedom in the baking trade of Paris from September next. No limit is to be placed to the number of bakers, and all absolute restrictions are to be replaced by control sufficing to insure fairness in the weight of bread and excellence of quality. It is said that the new Minister of Public Works will undertake the task of establishing a complete network of internal navigation throughout the country, the use of which, as of the land roads, is to be based upon the principle of entire freedom of transit, without tolls. M. Rouland has been nominated first Vice-President of the Senate. M. Schneider and M. Vernier have been appointed Vice-Presidents of the new Corps Législatif, and M. Hebert and M. Romeuf have been appointed Questors. An Imperial decree has been published, creating the office of Superintendent-General of the Theatres. M. Bacciochi has been nominated to this post. The Pays contradicts the assertion of foreign papers that large armaments are in progress in France in view of certain eventualities which may take place in the north of Europe. The Nation publishes a rumour to the effect that negotiations are taking place between England and France to settle the agreement between the two Powers, and concert their mode of action in the not impossible case of the Polish question passing out of an exclusively diplomatic sphere. The Nord states that the complaint of abuse of authority laid against the Archbishop of Tours has been withdrawn. A great fire occurred on Tuesday at Nantes, which destroyed 15 large factories in the Rue Châteaubriand and on the Versailles Quay. Some persons were injured. The destruction of property was enormous. The Emperor's visit to Cherbourg is postponed until the end of this month. The iron-cased frigate Solferino is now ready for sea in that port. She is described as a ship of war of most formidable proportions, and is armed with a spur, which is so arranged that it becomes part of the entire vessel, so that any shock it has to support will be felt throughout the ship. The shaft of the screw is, by an ingenious mechanical contrivance, protected from injury arising from the shock caused by the spur, and can recede in such case without causing any inconvenience. The trial of M. Casimir Perier and M. Maisonville, the manager of the journal Impartial Dauphinois, at Grenoble, for publishing an article on the finances, has terminated in an acquittal. A crowd accompanied the defendants, crying "Vive Perier!" Prince Polignac, the son-in-law of M. Mirès, died on Monday night from an attack of small pox.

SPAIN.—A number of bishops having demanded that the publication of "Les Misérables" should be stopped, the Council of State has requested them to point out what portions of the work they think of a dangerous tendency.

PORTUGAL.—The Cortes were closed on Tuesday by the King in person. The Speech from the Throne contained nothing of especial importance. The Portuguese railway to Badajos has been opened, amid much popular enthusiasm.

HOLLAND.—The Dutch Government has officially announced to the Swiss Federal Council that war will probably break out with Japan within a short time.

DENMARK.—The hereditary Prince Frederick Ferdinand of Denmark, heir to the Danish Crown, born in 1792, died suddenly on Monday morning. The Prince was uncle to the King of Denmark, and great uncle to the Princess of Wales.

PRUSSIA.—The Chief of the Provincial Government of Posen has published a letter from the Crown Prince of Prussia, dated the 28th ult., thanking the inhabitants for the warm reception given to his Royal Highness on his recent journey through the Grand Duchy and during his stay in the city of Posen.

AUSTRIA.—In the Lower House on Friday the debate on the Address was resumed by Count Rechberg, who stated that the policy of the Government in all foreign questions was a policy of peace, combined with defence of the integrity of the Empire. M. Thiers was received by the Emperor in private audience on Tuesday, and dined with his Majesty on Thursday at the Castle of Laxenburg.

RUSSIA.—A great part of the summer residence of the Czar, the palace of Zarskoe-Zelo, has been burnt. The cause of the fire is unknown.

POLAND.—Executions continue to take place almost daily by order of the Russian Government. Macewicz, Ancypa, and Korsak were shot at Mohilew on the 18th, and Zetinski was executed at Kiew. Czarnecki, Micewicz, and Bokiewicz have been hung at Siedlce and Piotrkow. Count Sierakowski was hung at Wilna on the 27th ult. Among the most recent victims of General Mouravieff at Wilna are Countess Plater, sister of Count Leon Plater, who was lately executed; and Madlle. de Terlecks. The execution of these young ladies so exasperated the inhabitants that they attacked Mouravieff's palace, and not finding the general, who had taken refuge in one of the casemates, they destroyed the palace. Archbishop Felinski has been banished to Jaroslaw. Monsignor Krasinski, Bishop of Wilna, has been banished to Perme. Count Victor Starzenski, Marshal of the Government of Grodno, and well-known for his intimate relations with the Imperial family, has been imprisoned in the citadel of Wilna, preparatory to being exiled to Siberia, for having sent in his resignation on the outbreak of the revolution, which he had in vain endeavoured to avert. Three hundred landed proprietors have been arrested in the government of Mohilew, and their lands confiscated. It is asserted from various quarters that wounded Poles were buried by the Russians at Lubar, in Volhynia, in the same grave with their dead companions, and that General Mouravieff has taken the wife of a refugee as a hostage, and threatened to have her put to death if her husband does not return within a given time. The Archbishop of Warsaw was strongly guarded in his late visit to St. Petersburg. Though he was allowed to have part of a railway carriage to himself, an escort of gendarmes was in the adjoining compartment, and in the next carriage were 30 soldiers. The reply of the Polish National Government to the Notes of the three Powers was despatched on Saturday to the proper quarters. The National Government has appointed Government Commissioners to be attached to every military command, and has decreed that all Poles remaining in the service of the Russian army within the frontiers of Poland as existing in 1772 after the 1st of August next shall be exiled, shall be deprived of their civil and political rights, and be declared to have forfeited their honour as citizens. Another decree has been issued by the National Government, ordering the stoppage of all traffic on the Warsaw and St. Petersburg and the Wilna and Eydkuhnen railways. All telegraph officials, engineers, guards, porters, and workmen employed on these lines are directed to leave immediately. The telegraph officials are ordered not to forward any messages, and private persons are forbidden to travel on these railways. All persons acting contrary to these orders of the National Government are threatened with severe punishment. The Polish leader Taczanowski had a sanguinary engagement with 2500 Russians near Widawa on the 20th ult., in which the latter lost six guns. A detachment of Polish cavalry had an encounter on the 24th ult. with the Russians near Radomsk. A murderous encounter occurred in Podolia on the 23d, and on the same day an engagement took place at Orany, in Lithuania, terminating in favour of the Russians. Two other sanguinary conflicts have occurred at Krolowymost and Lucinki, in Lithuania. The Russians have fallen back upon Suwalki. The insurrection in Podlachia continues undiminished; and an engagement took place on the 23d. The Polish leader Andruszkiewicz has occupied Lomza, Styczn, and Grajewo, in the government of Augustowo. A sanguinary engagement occurred at Serolk on the 22d. A railway train, conveying Russian soldiers, has run off the line. The insurgent leader Wysocki, at the head of 1400 infantry and 100 cavalry, crossed the Russian frontier into Volhynia near Radziwilow, and occupied that place on Wednesday night. On the 2nd he had a sanguinary engagement at Perzajow, in which he succeeded in piercing the Russian lines. He afterwards marched in the direction of Krzymeintel. Jawadzki, at the head of two detachments of Polish cavalry, encountered the Russians on the 29th ult. at Dobra, in the palatinate of Kalisch. An engagement ensued, lasting 10 hours. About 300 Poles, with arms and ammunition, and 70 wounded, have been taken into Brody. The Russians have reoccupied Radziwilow. A desperate engagement took place on the 26th ult. at Podborze, in the palatinate of Kalisch. The Russians sustained considerable losses in an engagement on the 24th at Kolo. The insurgent leader Suzin defeated the Russians in the Government of Augustowo on the 23d ult. Suzin was, however, killed. Two engagements took place in the government of Plock on the 22d and 27th ult. Numbers of wounded Russians have been conveyed to Praga, and the suburbs of Warsaw.

ITALY.—Judgment has been pronounced at Turin against the defendants in the criminal suit brought against certain clerical tutors in public educational establishments. Fathers Ignorantelli and Arcadius were found guilty of offences against morality, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. Two other tutors, equally guilty of offences against decorum, were acquitted in default of civil prosecutors. Sentence in contumaciam was pronounced against three other defendants, who had evaded justice by flight, Father Theoger being condemned to 15 years' imprisonment, and Fathers Narcissus and Telesphorus to confinement for eight years and six years respectively.

GREECE.—The last sittings of the National Assembly have been very stormy, owing to attacks of the party of M. Bulgaris upon the Ministry. The resignation of the latter is expected. The National Assembly intends to declare King George of age.

TURKEY.—Sir Henry Bulwer has addressed, in the name of his colleagues of the Diplomatic Body, a protest to the Porte, referring to the indemnity due by the Turkish Government for the persons killed in Syria. The Turkish Government has announced its intention of granting two years' pay and a free passage home to all Polish officers and soldiers leaving the service of the Porte. This measure is not intended to apply to Hungarian troops.

SERVIA.—The Prince of Servia has demanded the evacuation of the forts upon the Dwina occupied by Turkish troops, and the removal of the Turkish inhabitants. The Porte has refused to comply with the demand.

MADAGASCAR.—A revolution broke out in Madagascar on the 12th of May. King Radama was strangled, and his Ministers hanged. His widow Queen Rabidon was proclaimed as Sovereign of Madagascar, and Lambert's concession, the cause of the revolution, was annulled. The treaties concluded with European Powers were suspended, and the reign of the late King was declared null, and mourning prohibited. Religious liberty is still to be maintained. The Queen has signed a constitution in conformity with the views of the old Hova party. Much discontent prevails throughout the kingdom, and fears are entertained of civil war. The Paris evening papers state that the Ministers of the murdered King, the officers of the Palace, and the commander of the King's Guard were foreigners. La France says that the Queen and her Ministers were the instigators of the revolution, and are devoted to the English.

INDIA.—The Patrie and the Pays assert that Herat is not yet taken. The chief of the Affghans has offered a principality to the Governor of the town if he will consent to its surrender. The Governor is stated to have refused the offer. A Persian army is said to be advancing to relieve Herat.

JAPAN.—News from Kanagawa to the 11th May has been received through San Francisco, confirming the announcement that the English Admiral had demanded of the Japanese Government a large indemnity, and the surrender of the murderers of Mr. Richardson; failing in which before the 26th May England and France would declare war against Japan. Thirteen British vessels of war and the flagship of the French Admiral were lying at Kanagawa.

UNITED STATES.—The interest of the war news has suddenly changed from Vicksburg and Port Hudson to the Confederate invasion of the North. On Sunday the 14th ult. non-official information reached New York from Washington that the army of General Lee, numbering nearly 100,000 men, had crossed the Rappahannock in three divisions, and was marching northward towards the Shenandoah Valley. It was added that General Hooker had struck his camp, and was hastening by a forced march to Fairfax Court House, with his whole army, to intercept General Lee's advance. Telegraphic despatches from Washington on the 15th confirmed this news, and stated that the Confederate advance cavalry, under General Stuart, 10,000 or 20,000 strong, had crossed the Potomac at Nolan's Ferry or Ford, and occupied Hagerstown in Maryland. General Milroy, commanding at Winchester, Virginia, thought to dispute the progress of General Lee's main body, but, finding himself surrounded, abandoned his guns and baggage, cut his way through the Confederates, and escaped to Harper's Ferry, with the loss of 2000 men: the rest dispersed in their flight. The Federal force at Martinsburg also retreated to Harper's Ferry, while General Reynolds was driven from Berryville to Bunker's Hill. On the 16th the capture of Chambersburg and Greencastle, in Pennsylvania, on the previous evening, was reported from Harrisburg; the Confederates thus menaced the cities of Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. The President immediately issued a proclamation, calling upon Maryland to furnish 10,000, Pennsylvania 50,000, Ohio 30,000, and West Virginia 10,000 men, to repel the invaders. The men who rally to this call are to serve without bounty for a term not exceeding six months, and will be accredited to the several States on the account of the draught that is to be made for three years' men. Governors Curtin and Tod also issued proclamations exhorting the people to respond promptly to the President's call. The Government, at the same time, called upon Governor Seymour, of New York, to order out 20,000 militia to assist in the exigency. Governor Seymour forthwith summoned the several Major-Generals of the State Militia to consult upon the necessary steps to be taken, and several regiments of Militia have left New York for Pennsylvania and Maryland. The Unionists in Eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina have organised a powerful force to hold the mountain region against the Confederates. The Governors of all the Northern States are organising all the militia they can send. On the 16th, the Confederates were at Chambersburg, awaiting reinforcements. They had destroyed the bridge at Scotland, on the Harrisburg Railway, six miles north of Chambersburg. General Jenkins, the Confederate commander, ordered all private property to be respected, and compelled the merchants to receive Confederate money in payment for the goods taken by his soldiers. Correspondence from Washington, published on the 17th, purporting to be based on information derived from Confederate sources, states that General Lee's army numbers 100,000 men, including 30,000 cavalry, and that it is generally thought that the capture of Washington is the object of his campaign. He is advancing upon Hooker's army in three columns, his right under Hill, by way of Occoquan and Wolf Run Shoals, his centre under Ewell, by way of Thoroughfare Gap, and his left under Longstreet, by way of Leesburg. General Hooker's army at present occupies the old Bull Run battle-ground, and the line of the Orange and Alexandria railroad. His head-quarters are at Fairfax. His forced march from Falmouth to that place was attended with great hardship, all the streams being dried up. The woods were full of stragglers, who could not be kept in the ranks, and numbers fell upon the road through exhaustion. The New York Tribune publishes a special Washington despatch, dated the 19th, asserting that General Lee has moved in force upon Centreville, and defeated the Federals at that point. On the 18th Generals Lee and Ewell occupied Thoroughfare Gap, which they hold. General Longstreet is threatening Leesburg, and General Hill was at Dumfries. On the 18th the Confederates transported their stores across the Potomac to Hagerstown, making that place their head-quarters for raids into Pennsylvania. Twenty thousand Confederate insurgents are reported to have offered to join the Federals if a military post was established at Raleigh. An attack was apprehended in Baltimore on the 17th ult., and the north and north-western roads leading to the city were barricaded with tobacco hogsheads. During the night of the 17th the Confederates crossed the Potomac at two points, and drove the Federals from Point of Rocks and Catoctin station, afterwards capturing a military train running between Harper's Ferry and Baltimore. General Bragg has been reinforced, and there are indications of his uniting with Gen. Buckner to invade Kentucky. General Sherman's corps have pushed their approaches to within 20 yards of the bastions at Vicksburg. The Federals still hold the Black River Bridge, and it is said that there are no Confederates within 30 miles of General Grant's rear. Reinforcements and supplies for Gen. Pemberton in Vicksburg are said to be sent across the Mississippi from De Soto during the night. The reported capture of the Pocataligo Bridge between Savannah and Charleston by negro troops, was untrue. Several Federal expeditions have been made from Port Royal into defenceless portions of the country, and private residences and property have been destroyed and plundered. The Federal gunboats have ascended the Chickahominy to within 50 miles of Richmond, a land force of 15,000 men co-operating. Preparations were making to repel any attack. The popular clamour for the appointment of General M'Clellan continues. The Philadelphia and New York municipalities have proposed resolutions, urging the President to reinstate him. The New York German committee has requested Mr. Lincoln to permit Generals Fremont and Sigel to issue a call for volunteers for the defence of Pennsylvania. The President replied that the Governor of New York was sending troops, and it would cause confusion for the administration to set to work independently of him. Serious resistance has been offered to the enrolment in Ohio. A collision has occurred between the military and 500 armed insurgents. Another enrolment officer has been shot in Indiana, and a public meeting, held at Montgomery, in that state, has appointed a committee to inform the enrolment commissioners that they would enrol at their peril. The President has acknowledged to the Committee of the Vallandigham meeting, held in Albany on the 16th ult., the receipt of a copy of resolutions adopted on that occasion. In his reply he asserts that Mr. Vallandigham was not arrested for treason, but for labouring to discourage enlistments, to incite desertion, and to leave the Government without adequate military force to suppress the rebellion, and declares that he would gladly release him if he believed the public safety would not suffer thereby. He argues his right to suspend the Habeas Corpus, and declares the freedom of speech demanded by the Democratic party was calculated to keep up a corps of spies, informers and supplyers—aiders and abettors of the Confederate cause in a thousand ways; that the time will come when he will be blamed for having made too few arrests, instead of too many; and that it is his duty to employ all measures that may seem to him to be necessary to provide for the public safety. The British Consul has arrived at Fortress Monroe, from Richmond, from which place he has been expelled by the Confederate Government. The Confederate Secretary of State has addressed an official despatch to Mr. Mason on the subject, of which the following is an abstract :—

"President Davis's decision to revoke the Consul's exequatur was mainly influenced by the Consul denouncing unofficially the Confederate Government as indifferent to cases of great and atrocious cruelty. These remarks referred to the enlistment by conscription, of two British subjects, who by their acts had acquired de facto citizenship. Protection and respect will be continued towards foreign consuls who possessed the Federal exequator, prior to the secession, as long as they do not seek to evade the legitimate authority of the Confederate Government. But Lord Lyons assumes the power to issue instructions and exercise authority over British consuls residing in the Confederate States, thus ignoring the existence of the Confederate Government, and implying the continuance of relations between that Ministry and British consuls residing in the Confederate States which existed prior to secession. This is also the assertion of a right by Lord Lyons to exercise the authority of a Minister accredited to and officially received at Richmond. President Davis, therefore, forbids further direct communication between neutral consuls in the Confederate States and functionaries of neutral nations residing in the enemy's country. In future all communications between the British consuls and foreign countries, neutral or hostile, must be restricted to vessels arriving from or despatched to neutral ports."

News was received in Washington on the 14th of the capture of six vessels by the Clarence, acting as tender to the Confederate steamer Florida, between the 7th and 12th ult. Two of the captures were made within 45 miles of the entrance to Chesapeake Bay. Three of the vessels were burnt, two released upon giving heavy bonds, and the sixth, the Tacony, received the guns and ammunition of the Clarence, and was turned into a privateer, in the place of the Clarence, which was destroyed. The Federal Naval Department has despatched several vessels of war in search of the Tacony.

MEXICO.—General Ortega, with five other Generals or superior officers, escaped from Orizaba on the 25th of May, and proceeded to the city of Mexico. The Mexican Congress had been occupied in discussing the question whether the Government should remain in the city of Mexico or transfer itself to some other place. The President, however, had expressed his determination to remain in the city. He had issued a fresh manifesto to the nation, urging the continuance of the war, and promising to defend the capital to the last extremity, and not to entertain any proposals of peace attacking the sovereignty and independence of the nation.

Parliament.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

FRIDAY.—The Slave Trade. — Lord BROUGHAM asked Earl RUSSELL whether he intended to communicate to the Spanish Government the report of Commodore Wilmot in reference to the slave trade. He was sorry to perceive that that Government had not yet abolished the slave trade, and though they had received 500,000*l.* compensation for doing so, 23,000 slaves were imported annually into Cuba.—Earl RUSSELL said he had no objection to forward the report referred to. The Spanish Government, however, were doing something to suppress the slave trade, although he admitted that they were not as active as they might be.—In answer to the Marquis of CLANRICARDE, Earl RUSSELL said that there was no truth in the report that the Emperor of the French had recently renewed his proposition for recognising the independence of the Confederate States; his own opinion on that subject remained unchanged. The African Slave Trade Treaty Bill, the Security from Violence Bill, the Inland Revenue Bill, and the Militia Pay Bill were read a third time and passed.

MONDAY.—Lord BROUGHAM withdrew the Suitors Conciliation Bill, and presented another with the same object.—Lord LYTTELTON presented a petition from Taranaki, New Zealand, on the subject of the distress brought upon the inhabitants by the native war, and called attention to the military defence of the colony. He traced the history of ancient and modern colonisation, and contrasting them one with another, strongly urged upon the colonists the necessity of self-reliance and self-defence, while at the same time he thought the Government was bound to see the colonists out of the difficulties in which they were involved through no fault of their own.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE explained the policy he had laid down in his despatches in regard to the military defence of New Zealand. From the wise and firm policy pursued by Sir G. Grey, the present Governor, he entertained the most sanguine hopes that no disturbances would occur, but that a most brilliant future was opening on the colony.—Earl GREY thought that unless a more effective and decided policy were adopted, New Zealand would remain in the state of a slumbering volcano. He examined the effects produced by the Act of 1852 in New Zealand, and expressed his opinion that, to prevent a renewal of the war, we must to some extent retrace our policy by a modification of the representative institutions of the colony with a view to the conciliation of the Maories. He considered the Government had kept the country in ignorance by their delay in producing papers on this subject to the House.—Lord LYVEDEN dissented from the remedies suggested by Lord Grey. —Lord LYTTELTON having briefly replied, the subject dropped. —Earl RUSSELL requested Lord Clanricarde to postpone the motion on Polish Affairs of which he had given notice, as in the present state of the negotiations it would be prejudicial to the interests of the country.—The Marquis of CLANRICARDE complied with the request.—The Earl of DERBY thought that if the House of Commons were allowed to express their opinions on this topic, the same liberty might be accorded to the House of Lords. He contrasted the conduct of Lord Palmerston in the House of Commons on this subject with that of Lord Russell, and suggested the propriety of some arrangement in regard to these matters between the Prime Minister and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.—Lord GREY also objected to the silence imposed on the House.—After a few words from Lord RUSSELL in explanation, the subject dropped.

TUESDAY.—Poland.—Earl RUSSELL stated, in reply to the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, that an order had been issued by General Mouravieff imposing penalties upon ladies wearing mourning in Poland; but there was no truth in the assertion that those who were unable to pay the penalty were to be subjected to the punishment of the knout. Mediation in America.—In answer to Lord STRATHEDEN, Earl RUSSELL said that the French Ambassador had that evening called upon him with the information that there was no truth in the rumour that the French Government intended to make any communication to her Majesty's Government in reference to mediation between the Northern and Southern States of America.—The Sheep and Cattle (Scotland) Bill, the Oath Relief in Criminal Proceedings (Scotland) Bill, and the Postmaster-General (Sale of Land) Bill were read a second time.—The Earl of DERBY, in moving for a copy of the proclamation issued by Sir H. Storks, for the Annexation of the Ionian Islands to Greece, took occasion to protest against the doctrine laid down by Lord Palmerston that, as these islands had been placed under the protection of Great Britain, the English Parliament had no interest in any question which involved the cessation of that protectorate. He considered that it would be an act of folly and danger to relinquish the costly fortifications of Corfu, and that the cession would be eminently disadvantageous to the Islands themselves, and was not likely to conduce to the harmony of European arrangements. He wished to know whether in the cession about to take place any arrangement had been made for the payment of pensions and allowances hitherto granted; and what provision had been made for the repayment of the loan made by this country to Greece.—Earl RUSSELL thought that the desire for annexation was only a natural one on the part both of Greece and of the islands themselves. He denied that the loss of Corfu as a military and naval station would be disadvantageous to this country. On the contrary, instead of causing a diminution of our strength, he thought that strength would be greatly augmented by our having only one great station in the Mediterranean in time of war. It was necessary to consult the great Powers who were parties to the protectorate before it could terminate, and it was intended to hold a conference to consider the subject. With regard to the fortifications at Corfu it would be matter of consideration whether they should not be destroyed, as they were of too great magnitude for a weak power to maintain, and might afford temptation for aggression to a strong Power. In respect to financial arrangements the utmost this country could lose would be 4000*l.* a year, and he did not think the people of England would regard that as a sacrifice if the result were to render Greece happy, and to secure for her people a free constitutional Government.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE stated that no proclamation had been issued by Sir H. Storks, announcing the annexation, but the people themselves had got up a religious ceremony on the receipt of news that Prince William had accepted the Crown of Greece.—Lord STRATFORD DE REDCLIFFE believed that the abandonment of the protectorate would lessen our influence in the East.—After some remarks from Lord TAUNTON, the Marquis of NORMANBY, and the Earl of HARDWICKE, the motion was withdrawn.—Lord CHELMSFORD called attention to the paper on the Removal of the two Ionian Judges, and severely condemned the Government for sanctioning such a measure.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE said that the two judges were political demagogues, who, having secretly plotted to bring the Government of the islands to a dead lock, had in consequence not been continued in office. He was compelled by the imprudence of Lord Chelmsford, in justice to other individuals, to make this statement; but if a motion were made for further papers he should plead the exigency of the public service and decline to produce them.—The Earl of DERBY said it was unjust to bring such charges against the two judges, unless it was intended to produce the papers on which they were founded. The subject then dropped.—The Earl of SHAFTESBURY moved an address to her Majesty praying that an inquiry into the physical and moral condition of the Milliners and Dressmakers be made by the Royal Commission now sitting on "the state of children and young persons in trades and manufactures not regulated by law."—Earl GRANVILLE stated that the subject had been already referred to the Commission. The motion was consequently withdrawn.

THURSDAY.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE moved the second reading of the British Columbia Boundaries Bill, and said that the Government of the colonies of British Columbia and Vancouver's Island would now be separated altogether. It was not, however, thought desirable to give to the former, with its present fluctuating population, representative institutions, but it would have a legislative council on the model of that of Ceylon. Arrangements were nearly completed for a road and telegraph through British America, to join the roads in British Columbia, which now reached practically to the Rocky Mountains, and negotiations had been entered into for the sale of the interest of the Hudson Bay Company to the International Financial Association, which intended to issue two millions of shares for the establishment of another company.—The Earl of DONOUGHMORE thought that as there was to be a transfer of the rights of the Hudson Bay Company, the present was a favourable opportunity for ascertaining what those rights were.—Lord TAUNTON doubted whether the contemplated transfer of the interest of the Hudson Bay Company would be any improvement. He believed the new company comprised the names of many gentlemen who were Americans, either by birth or interest, and he should be sorry to see the seat of the direction changed from this country to New York. With respect to British Columbia, he did not think it was yet in a position to justify the Government in entrusting it with representative institutions. After some further discussion the Bill was read a second time. The Officers of Royal Naval Reserve Bill, the Sale of Mill Sites, &c. (Ireland) Bill, the Volunteers Bill, and Regimental Debts, &c. Bill, were read a third time and passed. The Land Drainage (Provisional Orders) Bill was read a second time.

FRIDAY.—The British Columbia Boundaries Bill, the Jurisdiction of Justices Bill, and the Oaths Relief in Criminal Proceedings (Scotland) Bill passed through Committee. Academical Subscription.—Earl RUSSELL presented a petition from certain heads of colleges, professors, fellows, and tutors of the University of Oxford, praying for the removal of the subscription at present required for academical degrees. He thought there was danger in multiplying declarations now unnecessary, and thought the Universities should throw their doors open to all, without requiring from them a declaration of assent to the Thirty-nine Articles.

[Left sitting.]

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

FRIDAY.—On the order for going into committee of supply, Mr STIRLING called the attention of the House to the papers in the Jessie M'Lachlan Case, and complained of the course pursued by the prosecution.—The LORD-ADVOCATE defended the course he had pursued, and contended that it was contrary to the practice of the law of Scotland to place a person on his trial for a capital offence who had been examined in a court of justice in reference to a case in which he was supposed to be an accomplice.—Sir G. GREY justified his interference on behalf of the prerogative of the Crown, although he admitted that the evidence given at the trial warranted the conclusion at which the jury had arrived.—Serjeant PIGOTT said that if capital punishment were to be continued a tribunal ought to be established to which an appeal might be made in cases in which fresh evidence might come to light, or in which there was good reason to suppose that there had been a miscarriage of justice. —After some remarks from Mr. BLACKBURN and Mr. MURE the subject dropped.—Mr. OSBORNE next moved that a select committee be appointed to inquire into the present Ecclesiastical Settlement of Ireland. In the face of the late Irish census it would be impossible for Parliament to refuse any longer to deal with the anomalies and abuses of the Established Church. Indeed, the time had arrived when it could no longer be maintained without extensive reforms and new adaptations. Having referred to the opinions of Lord Palmerston, Sir George Grey, and Lord Carlisle on the Irish Church, he disclaimed any intention to destroy or uproot the Church, although he was prepared to say that it was to a great extent a pious fraud. In Ireland there were dioceses which contained but a few hundred episcopalians, while the salaries of the bishops varied from 4000*l.* to 6000*l.* a year; there were parishes in which there were no member of the Church of England at all, and there were congregations limited to a solitary policeman, while there were many parishes in which the rector was never seen. He recommended that the suggestion of Vice-Chancellor Page Wood should be carried out, and that the number of the bishops should be cut down from 12 to 6, and their salaries be reduced to 1500*l.* or 2000*l.* a-year. If something of this sort were not done, the whole bench of bishops would be swept away. Another beneficial change had been suggested by Archbishop Whately, namely, that the territorial system should be abolished and the congregational set up in its stead. The late Sir G. C. Lewis had approved of this proposal, and had urged that the number of bishops should be reduced, not to six but to four, namely, one for each province. —Mr. CARDWELL said that the course which the Government intended to take in this matter was to ask the House to resist the motion. After the manner in which Mr. Osborne had denounced the Irish Church he was surprised to hear him say that he had no desire to uproot it. His proposition was not for a Committee of Inquiry; but to obtain an abstract resolution of the House condemning the Irish Church. He believed that the House would never surrender the principle of an Established Church, nor consent to alienate the property of the Irish Church from the ecclesiastical uses to which it was devoted. He thought it would be mischievous to both Ireland and England to appoint a committee of inquiry without the smallest expectation of its arriving at a sound and satisfactory result.—The O'DONOGHUE contended that there never could be a sincere and lasting union of Irishmen so long as the great principle of religious equality was ignored, and the whole revenues of the Church were monopolised by an insignificant minority.—Mr. GRANT DUFF moved the adjournment of the debate.—Mr. NEWDEGATE said the motion pretended to aim at reform, but was nothing but a phase of agitation. If the House was to reconsider the Article of the Act of Union he trusted it would reconsider the Union altogether.—After some remarks by Sir G. GREY and Lord J. MANNERS the debate was adjourned to Monday. The Misappropriation by Servants Bill passed through committee.

MONDAY.—On the report of the Public Works (Manufacturing Districts) Bill, Mr. BENTINCK asked if the security on which the money was to be advanced rendered it certain that the money would be repaid; and whether the distress in the manufacturing districts was not as much the result of over-trading as of a deficient supply of cotton.—Mr. FERRAND asked what was to become of the enormous mass of unemployed factory operatives during the ensuing winter.—Mr. VILLIERS said the Commissioners never advanced any money without examining the security. As to the question whether the distress was occasioned by overtrading, he did not think it his duty, when he found great distress existing, to inquire whether the people had been the victims of overtrading. As to whether the Bill would provide a permanent source of relief, it was a temporary measure, intended to mitigate distress, not in the hope that it would put an end to it. In conclusion he expressed his belief that there would be sufficient funds during the winter.—Sir H. WILLOUGHBY called for explanations, which were given by the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER. After some further discussion the report was agreed to, with amendments.—On the report of the Committee of Supply, Mr. PEACOCKE called attention to the interference with our Trade with Matamoras by the capture of British vessels by Federal officers, and by the proceedings of the American Prize Courts, giving the details of particular cases in which, he contended, the vessels had been illegally condemned. Under these circumstances the trade with the port in question would be gradually transferred to the ships of another nation. He concluded by moving for papers.—The SOLICITOR-GENERAL opposed the motion, and pointed out the facilities of the port of Matamoras for carrying on a trade in contraband of war, observing that in the cases referred to the remedy, in the way of appeal, provided by the law had not yet been gone through, so that they were still sub judice. Her Majesty's Government, he said, applied to the United States the same principles that were applied to other nations in former wars.—Lord R. CECIL insisted that, in existing circumstances, the decisions of the United States' Prize Courts were not entitled to the respect they formerly enjoyed, some of them laying down a doctrine repugnant to international law. He charged the Foreign Office with neglect of the interests of British commerce, and with partiality towards the Federal Government.—Mr. COBDEN said that when it was known that the contraband trade was carrying on largely from England, it was unreasonable, it was affectation, to stand up and assume that we were the aggrieved party. Those who carried on the trade might do so, but they did it at their own risk.—Mr. S. FITZGERALD said the legitimate trade had been interfered with in a manner he held to be utterly unjustifiable, and that the condemnations were contrary to the rules of international law laid down by Lord Stowell and Chancellor Kent. The motion was then negatived.—Mr. HORSMAN called attention to the state of the negotiations on the subject of Poland, and urged that no time should be lost in laying the answer of Russia to the notes of the three Powers before the House.—Mr. B. COCHRANE called attention to the recommendations of the Diplomatic Committee, and asked whether it was the intention of the Government to carry them out.—Mr. LAYARD admitted that the diplomatic service was, on the whole, underpaid. All the recommendations of the Committee, however, but one, had been carried out in whole or in part.—Mr. DISRAELI objected to the country being put to expense by special envoys.—Sir G. GREY justified the sending of special missions under special circumstances. After some remarks by Mr. S. FITZGERALD, Mr. DODSON, Sir M FARQUHAR, and Mr. A. SMITH, the report was agreed to. On the order for going into a Committee of Supply, the adjourned debate on the motion of Mr. Osborne, for a Select Committee to inquire into the present Ecclesiastical Settlement of Ireland, was resumed by Mr. DUFF, who supported the motion. There was no other part of the world in which an established Church existed receiving so much and doing so little. As a missionary church, it had failed. What was the remedy? He did not advocate half remedies. There was only one remedy—that which Cato proposed for Carthage.—Mr. DAWSON said it was impossible to deny that anomalies in regard to religious endowments existed in Ireland, but it was dangerous to attempt to remedy these anomalies, and the very attempt would strike at the existence of Ireland as a component part of the empire.—Sir R. PEEL said that Mr. Osborne had drawn upon his imagination for a terrible picture of the state of the Irish Church, which he called a political blunder and a pious fraud. Yet he had told them that he did not desire to uproot this product of a pious fraud. This question had often been the battle-field of political strife; but it had been interred in 1838, and there was no necessity for resuscitating it now. What was the object of the motion? To appoint a Select Committee in the month of July. By the Act of Union the Irish Church was united to the English Church, and any change must be effected by the concert and combined action of Churchmen in both countries. He accused Mr. Osborne of errors and exaggerations in his statements of the revenues of the Irish bishops, the numbers of Protestants, and upon other points; and from statistics he drew conclusions differing from those of Mr. Osborne, who had said that the clergy in Ireland were too highly paid. In Scotland they paid their ministers, under the voluntary system, a higher rate than that at which the Irish clergy were paid. He was certain, he said, that the House would adopt the view taken by Mr. Cardwell; that it was impossible for the Government to give their assent to this motion, which, if carried, would be a preliminary to an inquiry into the Church establishment of this country.—Mr. HENNESSY said that the Missionary operations in Ireland had been a failure, and that there had been a falling off of Protestants there every year.—Sir H. CAIRNS said this was not a motion to amend or improve the Church of Ireland, which could not be improved by a motion of this kind. It was not shown that there was anything extravagant or unnecessary in the expenditure of the Irish Church, and the number of Episcopalians had increased relatively to the aggregate population of Ireland.—Sir G GREY gave his decided opposition to the motion. It had been avowed by a supporter of the motion that his object was to abolish the Established Church in Ireland, and this and other wild notions it was proposed to submit to 15 members upstairs—Colonel GREVILLE moved the adjournment of the debate (which was negatived on a division by 228 to 67.—Mr. MONSELL said the real question was whether the Irish people were to be treated as the Scotch and English people determined to be treated.—After a few remarks by Mr. SCULLY, Mr. LANIGAN moved the adjournment of the House, which was agreed to without a division.

TUESDAY.—The Salmon Fisheries (Ireland) Bill was further considered in committee, and the clause was struck out by which it was proposed to give compensation to the owners of stone weirs for allowing a free gap for the ascent of the fish to the upper waters—Mr. HORSFALL asked whether the British ship Gibraltar, bound for Nassau, had been refused a clearance by the customs authorities at Liverpool; if so, on what ground the refusal was based, and whether it had been done at the instigation of Mr. Adams, the American Minister.—Mr. LAYARD replied that the Gibraltar was the famous Sumter under another name, and that when the Government heard that large guns had been put on board her, they made inquiries though not at the instigation of Mr. Adams); but, on ascertaining that the guns were not such as could be used for the armament of the ship, they directed the authorities at Liverpool to give her clearance. Recognition of the Confederate States.—Mr. W. E. FORSTER inquired whether any communication had been received by the Foreign Office from the French Government relating to the recognition of the South.—Mr. LAYARD replied that no communication either for recognition or for an armistice, had been received since last autumn from the Emperor of the French—Mr. ROEBUCK then moved an address to her Majesty, praying her to enter into negotiations with the great Powers of Europe, for the purpose of obtaining their co-operation in the recognition of the independence of the Confederate States of North America. In bringing forward this question he was quite aware that he would incur obloquy from a certain party, but he was quite prepared to accept any unpopularity which might attach to him on that account. The Americans, who considered themselves the salt of the earth, having obtained their own independence by a revolution against a stubborn and silly King, laid down two great principles—one, the right of nations to assert their independence, as they themselves had done; and the other, the right of nations to recognise conceded States. The Federals had, however, since the outbreak of the civil war ignored those principles altogether, and now denied the right of the Southern States to self-government, and the right of the great Powers of Europe to acknowledge an independence which had been achieved by heroic valour in the field and profound sagacity in the council. The victories which had crowned the Southern arms were continuous and indubitable. The Confederates had swept the invader from their soil, and Washington was now in greater danger than Richmond. To say that negro emancipation was the object for which the North had gone to war with the South was simply absurd, because if the South would come back into the Union to-morrow the North would join her to rivet the fetters of the slave yet more firmly. With regard to the feeling of the Emperor of the French, he had reason to know that his Majesty was still mose anxious to co-operate with England for the recognition of tht Southern States, and that he had directed Baron Gros to intimate as much to Earl Russell. At the same time the Emperor felt aggrieved by the conduct of her Majesty's Government in having sent his despatch of November last to Washington, where Lord Lyons showed it to Mr. Seward. His Majesty would not again subject himself to such treatment, and he gave him (Mr. Roebuck), full liberty to state the fact to the House. Having referred to the privations which the operatives in the cotton districts were suffering, he concluded by appealing to the House to disregard the hypocritical cry of the Manchester party, and to assent to his proposal.—Mr. LINDSAY seconded the motion.—Lord R. MONTAGU moved as an amendment, "that this House earnestly desires that an impartial neutrality should continue to be maintained by her Majesty's Government during the present unhappy contest in the States of North America." He felt quite as much sympathy for the South as Mr. Roebuck, but he did not wish to deprive her of the glory of achieving her own independence in her own way. He also objected to recognition, because he believed that it meant war, and would be as injurious to this country as it would be to the Confederates themselves.—Mr. C. CLIFFORD seconded the amendment.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said there could be no doubt that the sympathy of the vast majority of the people of this country was with the Confederates in their struggle for independence, and that there was an equally general desire for a cessation of hostilities. He for one, did not believe that the restoration of the Union was attainable, or that the emancipation of the negro could be achieved by bloodshed. At the same time, he could not give his sanction to a premature recognition, which the experience of history showed was generally followed by war. Intervention at this moment might arouse a strong patriotic reaction in the North, and impart to the people that defensive energy which was the secret of Southern success. He thought the time had arrived when the war should end, but he had more faith in the gentle action of public opinion than in diplomatic action, which might lead to complications terminating in war.—Mr. W. E. FORSTER supported the amendment, contending that premature recognition would be a breach of neutrality, and that if it were not followed by war, it would be a pompous nothing. The action of France had induced Congress to pass the conscription law, and any approach to intervention now would weaken the peace party in the North.—Lord R. CECIL supported the original motion, believing it vain to suppose that the North could conquer the South, and therefore the continued prosecution of hostilities was a gigantic crime—Mr. BRIGHT criticised the speech of Mr. Roebuck, which he considered to be illogical and inconclusive. The war in America was more likely to abolish slavery than anything else that could have happened; but even that end would not justify interference on our part in a struggle which was purely internecine. He did not believe that the North would subjugate the South, but, if a separation should occur for a time, he believed that the interests, sympathy, sentiments, and necessities of the entire continent would at no distant period unite them again under one central Government. He warned the House not to commit itself to the course indicated by the motion, for if it did, when the war was over, a wound would be left in the hearts of a great people which a century might not heal.—Mr. PERCY WYNDHAM moved the adjournment of the debate.—Sir G. GREY said that Mr. Roebuck's assertion that the Emperor of the French had again invited the Government of her Majesty to co-operate with him to obtain the recognition of the South, was at total variance with the information which had reached the Foreign Office.—After a few words from Mr. NEWDEGATE in opposition to the motion, the debate was adjourned until Thursday next. Several Bills on the table were advanced a stage.

WEDNESDAY.—Mr. W. EWART moved the second reading of the Weights and Measures Bill, the object of which was to decimalize our weights and measures, making them correspond with those of other countries. Pages, he said, might be filled with a list of the varieties and anomalies in our measures of quantity and length, which not only embarrassed our internal trade, but our transactions with other countries. The proposed system would rest upon the metre, or new yard, whereby all other measures of extension were to be derived and computed, the units of measures of capacity and weight having relation thereto. The Bill was founded upon the report of the Select Committee of last year, and would not come into operation for three years.—Mr. HENLEY believed that the change would cause greater evils and inconveniences than it would remove.—Mr. LOCKE, Mr. P. URQUHART, Sir M. FARQUHAR, Mr. ADDERLEY, and Mr. BAINES, supported the Bill, though they objected to its being made compulsory.—Mr. HUBBARD thought the commercial advantages expected from the decimal system were exaggerated, and that there would be great difficulty in carrying the system into effect unless it was enforced by penal laws.—Mr. COBDEN said that the weight of authority in the evidence taken by the committee was immensely in favour of a decimal system. The French system was entirely cosmopolitan, and might be adopted by us without any concession to France. It was opposed only by the vis inertiæ, all admitting that the present system was bad. The people would be reconciled to the decimal and metrical system by the saving of time it would effect, and the young would in time influence the old in its favour. He strongly felt, however, that this matter must be dealt with by a body like the Board of Trade.—Mr. FERRAND thought that compensation would be required by the small traders who had bought weights and measures under the present law.—Mr. M. GIBSON did not feel sanguine as to the people of this country being induced to conform, without great resistance, to any change of our weights and measures. It was also a question whether the House ought to assent to a compulsory measure enacting that, after a certain time, every person in the United Kingdom who did not use in the transactions of trade the metrical system should be liable to a penalty. Though he approved the metrical question, he could not consent to making it compulsory, and if Mr. Ewart would withdraw this Bill, he would support a measure of permissive character, as a first step to the object in view.—Mr. BAZLEY was of opinion that the difficulties of the change of system had been exaggerated.—Mr. ROEBUCK suggested that the Bill might be read a second time, so as to affirm the principle.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said it would be idle to attempt to pass a Bill, the principle of which was compulsory.—Mr. HODGSON suggested that Mr. Ewart would disarm much opposition if he would make the Bill in committee permissive, and not compulsory.—Mr. EWART said he had no objection to alter the measure in conformity with this suggestion. On this understanding the House divided, when the motion for the second reading was carried by 110 to 75. The Bill was then read a second time.—Mr. HOLLAND withdrew the Sheep, &c., Contagious Diseases Prevention Bill, and Mr. BRUCE, on the part of the Government, undertook to bring in a Bill to continue for another session the powers of the existing statutes to prevent the spread of contagious diseases in cattle. The Nuisances Removal Act (1855) Amendment Bill was read a second time. The Stipendiary Magistrates Bill, the Poor Law Continuance Bill, and the Loan Societies Bill passed through committee.—Mr. VILLIERS obtained leave to bring in a Bill to extend for a further period the provisions of the Union Relief Aid Act.—Mr. STANSFELD obtained leave to bring in a Bill to enable provision to be made, out of the funds of Greenwich Hospital, for the widows of seamen slain, killed, or drowned in the sea service of the Crown.

THURSDAY.—Mr. Roebuck and the Emperor of the French.—In answer to questions from Mr. W. E Forster, Mr. LAYARD made a statement in reference to the assertions of Mr. Roebuck on Tuesday evening, that the Emperor of the French considered he had been badly treated by the English Government, which had sent his private despatch of November last on the subject of mediation in America to the British Minister at Washington, by whom it had been shown to Mr. Seward before a copy had been received by the French Minister in that capital. He distinctly denied that the English Government had been the first to publish the despatch in question, and said that the French Government had published their note in the Moniteur before they had received the answer from London; that it was not Lord Lyons, but M. Mercier, the French Minister at Washington, who had communicated it to Mr. Seward, and that it was Mr. Seward, and not Lord Lyons, who spoke first on the subject.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER moved a vote of 105,000*l.* for the purchase and part alteration of the International Exhibition Building. He said that if the House were to accede to this proposal, he should give notice to introduce a Bill to authorise the separation of certain collections in the British Museum. The three urgent wants which the Government had to supply were—a national portrait gallery, a museum of patents, and a place for the reception of the natural history collection now in the building at Bloomsbury. To meet these it was proposed to retain the picture galleries and the refreshment rooms looking into the Horticultural Gardens, and, in fact, to deal with the interior of the building and the four and a-half acres of land on which it stood, leaving the domes, the decoration of the exterior, and the remaining 12 acres of land, for the future consideration of Parliament. The cost of this arrangement would be 290,000*l.*, and the Government were prepared, under all the circumstances, to recommend it, on the ground of economy and expediency. There was no obligation upon the contractors to remove the building within a certain time, and if the Government removed it they would have a great architectural question to deal with, besides a great money question, while serious inconveniences would result from the unavoidable delay.—Lord ELCHO moved the rejection of the vote, on the ground of the utter impossibility of metamorphosing the present hideous building into anything either creditable to the nation or useful for the purposes intended. He contended that the scheme would be a fruitful source of expenditure, disappointment, and annoyance, and called upon the committee in the name of sound sense, sound economy, and good taste, to negative the vote.—Mr. TITE said that the Institute of British Architects had satisfied themselves by a careful examination that, independently of all artistic considerations, the adaptation of the building in the manner proposed was absolutely impracticable.—Mr. BENTINCK insisted that if any serious difficulties were likely to arise with the contractors respecting the removal of the building, Parliament was released from obligation to purchase the land, as the vote for that purpose had been carried by a false pretence. If, on the other hand, the purchase was a good one, the best thing that could be done would be to sell the land again as soon as possible. He believed that if the building were purchased there would be no limit to the expenditure which it would entail.—Sir J. SHELLEY could not conscientiously vote for the purchase, and expressed his opinion that the best economy would be to pull down the building.—Mr. COWPER supported the vote, contending that it would not commit the House to any extravagant expenditure.—Mr. C. BENTINCK declared that if it had been known that any obstacle would have been raised by the contractors to the removal of the building the House would never have agreed to purchase the land. He opposed the proposition as extravagant, irrational, and discreditable.—Lord H. LENNOX supported and Mr. GREGORY opposed the vote.—Sir S. NORTHCOTE next endeavoured to address the committee amid a scene of some confusion, but was compelled to resume his seat.—Mr. DISRAELI and Mr. LOWE also endeavoured to obtain a hearing, but with no better result.—Lord R. CECIL besought the committee to conduct the debate with greater moderation.—Mr. HENLEY said that the Chancellor of the Exchequer's speech had removed all doubt from his mind, and compelled him to oppose the vote.—Mr. DISRAELI, amid loud calls for a division, explained that the object of Sir S. Northcote in rising was to move that the subject be referred to a select committee.—Sir S. NORTHCOTE subsequently moved as an amendment that the vote be reduced by 25,000*l.*, so that 80,000*l.* might remain for the purchase of the building only.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER recommended that the amendment should be withdrawn.—Sir S. NORTHCOTE complied, and the committee divided amid a scene of unusual excitement, when the numbers were—For the vote, 121; against it, 287; majority against it, 166. The vote was then expunged amid the enthusiastic cheers of the majority. The Committee on Fortifications and Works was postponed. The Duchy of Cornwall Management (1863) Bill was read a second time. The other orders of the day were then disposed of.

FRIDAY.—At the morning sitting several Railway Bills were read a third time and passed. Fisheries (Ireland) Bill.—The House went into committee on this Bill, and the consideration of the [illegible] the remainder of the sitting. The House resumed at six o'clock.

[Left sitting.]

City Intelligence.

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at 92½ for Money; Three per Cents. Reduced, 92 to 91¾; New Three per Cents., 91¾ to 92; Bank Stock, 236 to 235; India Five per Cent. Stock, 108¾ to ¾; Ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 10[illegible] to ½; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 107¾ to 107; Ditto Five and a Half per Cent., 116½; Exchequer Bills, March, 4s. dis.—FOREIGN: Brazilian, 1859 and 1860, 100½; Danish, 1862, 88½; Ditto 1864 Bonds, 89; Egyptian, 101½; Greek, for Acct., 34¼ to 34½; Ditto Coupons, 16¼ to ½; Italian (Maremmana Railway), 78, ex div.; Mexican, for Acct., 36¾ to 37; Russian, 1822, 96½; Ditto, 1862, 93¾ to 92¾; Sardinian, for Acct., 8[illegible]; Spanish, for Acct., 24½, ex div.; Ditto New Deferred, for Acct., 48¼, ex div.; Ditto Passive, 24; Ditto for Acct., 33¾ to ¼; Ditto Certificates, 12¾; Ditto, for Acct., 12½; Turkish, 1858, for Acct., 70½; Ditto, 1862, 67¾ to 68, ex div.; Ditto, for Acct. 67½ to 68, ex div.; Venezuela, 1862, for Acct., 57.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued.. .. .. | £2[illegible] | Government Debt .. .. | £11,[illegible] |
| | | Other Securities .. | [illegible] |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 14,221,383 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. .. | — |
| | £2[illegible] | | £2[illegible] |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,[illegible] |
| Rest .. .. | 3,[illegible] | Other Securities .. | 2[illegible] |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of National Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | [illegible] | Notes .. .. .. .. | 7,[illegible] |
| Other Deposits .. .. | [illegible] | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 866,911 |
| Seven days and other bills | [illegible] | | |
| | £44,[illegible] | | £44,[illegible] |

July 2, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY, June 26.—BANKRUPTS.—[illegible]

[illegible]

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

THE GUARDS' BALL.—The grand ball, given by the officers of the Brigade of Guards to the Prince and Princess of Wales, took place on Friday night, and was by far the most magnificent entertainment of the season. About 2000 invitations were issued, chiefly among the highest aristocracy. The company began to arrive at 9 o'clock, the earliest arrivals including the members of the Royal family, the Princes of the ex-Royal family of France, the Foreign Ambassadors, and the members of the Government, the general company having been requested to assemble before the arrival of the Prince and Princess. All the company were in plain evening dress, the Guards alone, as the entertainers, wearing full uniform. Before 10 o'clock every part of the room was crowded, and it became evident, as at Guildhall, that there could be no great amount of dancing. Precisely at half-past 10 the guests of the evening arrived with their suite in three of the Royal carriages, their approach being literally heralded from afar by the prolonged cheers of the crowd outside. On alighting their Royal Highnesses were received by the Committee, with the Duke of Cambridge at their head. The Duke conducted the Princess of Wales, the Prince giving his arm to the Duchess of Cambridge, while the Princess Mary was escorted by Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar. Amid a silence that was marked and deep, but amid the most profound salutations of respect, the Royal party passed along to the Princess's boudoir, where the Princess remained for a minute to admire its beautiful interior, and then the Royal party proceeded at once to the dais beneath the throne, passing through a double line of the officers of the three regiments. For a minute there was a pause as the Princess with deep curtseys acknowledged the homage of greeting with which she was received. The Princess wore a mauve silk slip, over which fell a skirt of the richest Valenciennes lace, a wreath of hand roses interspersed with diamonds, and the necklace presented by the Corporation of London. The Prince of Wales wore plain evening dress, with the ribbon and star of the Order of the Garter. The ball at once commenced with a quadrille of 16 couples, the Duke of Cambridge, as first among the entertainers, leading forth the Princess of Wales while the Prince danced with the Princess Mary. Dance after dance followed, until at a little before 1 o'clock the band played the National Anthem, the heavy curtains at the head of the room were drawn aside, and the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess and Princess Mary of Cambridge, followed by the most distinguished guests, passed down the ballroom to the apartment where the supper was laid out with more than regal splendour. As a spectacle, it was one of almost unequalled magnificence. The room had been decorated by Mr. Stone entirely with military trophies. Four great stars, formed entirely of weapons, occupied each side of the room, each star requiring the martial equipments of almost an entire regiment to complete it. Some were of immense weight, all were of great size and beauty, and those towards the centre of the room were encircled with wreaths formed of sabre blades, which had a most beautiful effect. Between these trophies, which glittered from a thousand different points, were groups of flags with men in armour at the bases, while at the head of the room, in the alcove where Foley's great statue of Caractacus stood last year, was one of the finest ornamental military trophies ever seen. It consisted of a group of figures in full suites of tilting armour, with visor down and lance in hand. The centre knights supported shields bearing the Prince's plume and motto, and the cross of the Dannebrog. Behind them were grouped a superb collection of ancient weapons—a perfect thicket of bristling points and blades, battleaxes, brown bills, two-handed swords, halberds, partisans, with helmets, gauntlets, shields, greaves, and breastplates, mixed up with spears and wall pieces that had done duty from the Wars of the Roses to the time of the Ironsides of Cromwell. Behind all was a star, composed of nearly a thousand ramrods, its centre formed of a small glass device representing the crosses of St. George and Andrew, with the badge of the Brigade with its motto "[illegible]." This magnificent trophy was raised about 10 feet from the floor, and its base of [illegible] was enriched with a magnificent collection of gold plate lent by the Dukes of Cambridge, Wellington, and Buccleuch, the Marquises of Exeter, Salisbury, and Londonderry, the Earl of Derby, and, indeed, most of the chief nobility famous for the rarity and value of their collections of plate. The centre piece was Flaxman's celebrated Waterloo Shield, the largest, and, probably, the finest work of art in gold in Europe—the first time that it had ever been lent by the Duke of Wellington. On the table itself was a gilded monument in silver, belonging to the Duke of Buccleuch, while on every side were massive piles of silver-gilt cups, salvers, and candelabra. Some idea may be formed of the glittering profusion with which these costly ornaments were shown on this occasion, when it is stated that the value of the plate lent for the fête amounted to nearly two millions sterling. After supper the Royal party returned to the ball room. Not a minute did the Prince lose after his return in recommencing the festivities of the evening, and again figure after figure succeeded each other rapidly, the Prince with his untiring vivacity and kind genial humour standing up in every set, and the Princess also dancing often, but not waltzing. It was getting well on to the gray of dawn before their Royal Highnesses quitted the room, when not even the severest rules of etiquette could entirely check the loyalty of the visitors as they retired. Their example of retiring early was not, however, by any means generally followed, and the clear dawn of Saturday morning found the entertainment almost in the zenith of its gaiety and beauty.

NATIONAL CONSERVATIVE REGISTRATION ASSOCIATION.—The anniversary dinner of this society took place on Friday evening at Willis's Rooms, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot in the chair. About [illegible] guests sat down to table, including Mr. Disraeli, the Earl of Cardigan, the Earl of Malmesbury, the Marquis of Waterford, the Earl of Carnarvon, the Earl of Sheffield, Lord Redesdale, Lord Sondes, Lord J. Manners, Mr. Walpole, Mr. Henley, and the bulk of the Conservative party in the House of Commons. The usual loyal toasts were received with much enthusiasm. The Earl of Cardigan, on the part of the Army, replied to the toast of "the Army," and in doing so briefly adverted, amid much applause, to the recent trial in which his name was brought so prominently before the public. Sir J. Hay replied on behalf of the Navy. The toast of the evening was "Our leaders, and success to the Conservative cause," to which Mr. Disraeli responded. The right hon. gentleman contrasted the principles of the Conservative party with those of their opponents, described the adverse circumstances under which his party had twice taken office, the growth of Conservative opinions in Parliament and the country, and encouraged his hearers to do their duty at the coming registration. The following are extracts from his speech:—

"It has always appeared to me that the great political struggle which has prevailed during the last 30 years is, in fact, a struggle between popular principles and liberal opinions. The institutions of the country—our limited and limited but still real monarchy, our national Church, our estates of the realm, our colonial empire, our hereditary tenure of land, our ancient corporations and endowments, the vast and complicated fabric of our local jurisdiction and administration—all involve, represent, and secure popular principles and popular rights. It is by their united aid and agency that we enjoy that security for our persons and our properties which to the same degree, and in the same manner, is enjoyed by no other country and no other State. It is by their united aid and agency that the public liberties are preserved, that an education, secular and spiritual, is provided for the great body of the people, and that the rights of labour and the claims of industry are recognised in the scheme of the constitution. It is in short by their united aid and agency that the government of this country is carried on, by the benign assistance of local [illegible] influence, and not by the rude authority of a [illegible] police. It is by their agency that the national character has been formed. A professor of Liberal opinions, on the other hand, is an individual who is of opinion that he ought to be liberated from the control of these institutions. If he has a [illegible] he is for reducing the sovereign to the position of a chief magistrate. If he be a Dissenter, quite forgetful of the indirect advantage of an Establishment and a national Church even to himself; quite forgetful even of the direct advantage of a national Church to the millions of his fellow-subjects, he is desirous of reducing that Church to the position of a rival sect. If the House of Commons is an obstacle to the success of his political schemes, he is for reforming the House of Commons. If he is successful in the House of Commons, and the House of Lords is the obstacle, he will abrogate the House of Lords. To him the colonial empire is only an useful burden. To him corporations is only an expensive [illegible] for [illegible], and endowment for [illegible]. The tenure of land, which in forms of [illegible] and [illegible], external or domestic, offers something around which men may rally and save the State, is to him only the remains of the feudal system; and as for the great system of our self government, no one so much as the professor of Liberal opinions is [illegible] in showing you the imperfections necessarily inseparable from the political scheme, or can prove with such irresistible logic that the same thing can be done much better and much cheaper by a system of centralised administration founded on the principle of competitive examination. Gentlemen, the Tory party is only in its proper position when it represents popular principles. Then it is truly irresistible. Then it can uphold the Throne and the Altar, the majesty of the Empire, the liberty of the nation, and the rights of the multitude. There is nothing mean, petty, or exclusive about the real character of Toryism. It necessarily depends upon enlarged sympathies and noble aspirations, because it is essentially national. The moment that Toryism deviates from that great fundamental principle it is in danger. From that moment Liberalism flourishes, for Liberalism is the consequence of our errors, and often their corrective. When Lord Derby reluctantly accepted the Queen's commands n 1852 there was an absolute majority against us in the House of Commons of 200. When Lord Derby took office in 1858 there was an absolute majority in the House of Commons against us of 140. Do you believe that under such circumstances those whom you entrusted with your confidence were ignorant of the immense risks they ran? Do you suppose that those to whom you still look up with a confidence, which is their greatest pride, were not prepared in either instance for the great probability—perhaps for the positive certainty—of great personal mortification? All this we had to consider when we accepted office under conditions which never before were offered to English statesmen. But we had a sense of duty to guide us, and we had to ask ourselves this,—Shall we still struggle to preserve the great traditions of English political life, or shall we say that the system of party Government, to which we owe, in our opinion, English liberty and all those blessings that have marked out this realm among nations for so many years—shall we at once say that from the fear of personal mortification we will lose such a choice for the kingdom and for the people? No, with great reluctance, as is now well known, with a true sense of danger which all might have imagined, we confronted on both occasions that [illegible] peril, and in time, I confess, we yielded to it. But this I hope I may say in passing, that, accepting office under such conditions, at least we performed its duties in a manner not disgraceful to ourselves, and not dishonourable to you. But, what was the cause of our fall? On both occasions there happened that which in the history of this country, rich and long as are its political annals, never before was equalled, for which there is no parallel, and which the future, perhaps, would have no instance to compare with. We fell before the most peculiar coalition that ever existed, or probably ever can exist even in England. The Liberal party defeated us in 1852 because they coalesced with the pupils of Sir R. Peel, and the Liberal party defeated us in 1859 because they coalesced with the pupils of Mr. Bright. But, gentlemen, don't you see the moral of this? The powers of coalition are exhausted. In the purgatory in which the Liberal party found themselves they first applied to celestial archangels, and then they descended to the lowest abyss of Hades. But a lower abyss there is not. Their means are exhausted. Coalition has nothing to fall back upon. Then, I tell you, and I tell the country this, for it is an important truth, that in a country like England, a coalition produces the same effect as in continental lands is produced by a coup d'état. It suspends political life, and from such a state of affairs there is an inevitable reaction which no nation can escape. That reaction will come in countries where coups d'état have succeeded as it will come in countries which are still ruled by the remnants of exhausted coalitions. But when that inevitable reaction comes, it is the duty of the Tory party to be prepared. And if during a long period you have endured mortification and disappointment, if you have been betrayed by those in whom you have trusted, if for a moment the principles which bind you together seemed to be loosed, I trust that the moral experience of those years have brought you back to a due sense of the true value and eternal character of the principles by which a great national party in England can alone be maintained.

CONSERVATIVE DINNER AT THE MANSION HOUSE.—On Wednesday evening the Lord Mayor entertained at dinner, in the Egyptian Hall, the leading members of the Conservative party in both Houses of Parliament. There were present the Earl of Derby, Mr. Disraeli, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Malmesbury, Lord Chelmsford, Lord Stanley, Sir E. B. Lytton, General Peel, Mr. Walpole, Mr. Henley, and about 250 other guests. In returning thanks for the toast of the evening, the Earl of Derby spoke at great length on the prospects of the Conservative party in connection with the present state of the country and of Parliament. The following are extracts:—

"I thank you cordially for associating my name with that great and noble Conservative party with which it is my happiness to be associated. I can assure you I am far more grateful for this association with that noble party than I could be for any compliment whatever, however high and unmerited, which might be paid to me personally for any services I might be supposed to have at any time performed. For I venture to say there is no language which can adequately express, or, at all events there is no language which could exaggerate the merits of the conduct—the forbearing, the firm, the patient, the self-denying, the patriotic conduct which has been pursued for the last four years by that great party. I beg to be forgiven for recalling to the recollection of this company the position in which that party has been placed for the last four years. It is that length of time since that party—numerically far superior to any of the sections into which what is called the Liberal party is divided—numerically far superior to any of these, and not very far though somewhat inferior to all of these sections put together—that party found itself ejected from office by what I may, without offence, call a pretext, which pretext, as soon as it had served its purpose, was at once abandoned. And what was the course of the Conservative party on that occasion? Did they give way to the indulgence of idle vexation, to revenge, to retaliation? Did they immediately occupy themselves in forming combinations and coalitions to overthrow the Government which had succeeded in their stead? They did nothing of the kind. Far from entering into such combinations and coalitions, the course they have been pursuing for the last four years has been that of adhering steadfastly to their own fixed principles; but, at the same time, not only not opposing, but even supporting, against their own more violent supporters, that very Government by whom they were ousted from office. It is with parties very much as it is with troops—it is not the active campaign, it is the heat of the engagement which tries the real mettle of the troops; but it is the long protracted inaction; it is the lying exposed to fire with the enemy in your front, and not being permitted to make an attack; it is the waiting for the moment when victory may be achieved, when it would be lost by being too early anticipated;—it is this which tries the temper, the forbearance, the real courage of the soldier. That is the trial of the temper, the forbearance, the real courage, the true patriotism of a political party. Such, gentlemen, has been the course which for the last four years has been pursued by the Conservative party in this country. Feeling themselves able at any moment, could they but stoop to such combinations as they have been charged with, to overthrow the Government, they have yet studiously abstained from any risk of throwing the country into disorder or confusion, and have been satisfied by maintaining their own principles, and often supporting the Government against their own more advanced political allies. I must say that it is most vexatious and annoying to a great party to see during the long period of four years every political office, every office in Church and State, and all the little minor patronage of the country appropriated entirely to those who are their political opponents, and themselves deprived of any portion of the influence derived from the possession of that patronage. Except the great Conservative party, there is no party which under such a state of things could have passed that long period of inaction without materially dwindling in their numerical force and spirit as a party. But, so far from this being the case, I am proud to say we reckon in the House of Commons at this moment a greater number of Conservative members than I could claim the assistance of when I was First Minister of the Crown. From the period when the so-called Liberal Government succeeded to office, for the most part the advanced Liberals have been very well satisfied to leave their favourite projects in abeyance; and, with the exception of those renewed assaults on the Church of England—which I am happy to say, owing to the vigour, firmness, and determination of the Conservatives, have been constantly repelled, as I trust they will continue to be repelled—the supporters of her Majesty's Government have had the somewhat unpleasant surprise of seeing some of their more favourite projects either faintly supported or quietly abandoned, or even almost hooted out of the House of Commons. Well, as long as the advanced Liberals were satisfied to remain in office, and to see their favourite principles discarded, and all their pet projects laughed out of the House of Commons, we, as good Conservatives, were, under existing circumstances, satisfied for the present with that arrangement. I do not say that is an arrangement which is satisfactory, because it is always unsatisfactory when power and office are in different hands. A weak Government is the greatest possible misfortune for a country, and it is therefore unfortunate that at the present moment the Government of the country is so far from being able to keep its own course and to take its own time that it is constantly relying, not on the forbearance, but even on the support of its political adversaries, while those political adversaries, thus wielding the real power of the country and directing its affairs, have yet not such a numerical absolute majority as to enable them, in their turn, to form a strong Government, and to hold as well as to take possession of the reins of power. I say this is an unfortunate state of things; but if you ask me or any member of the Conservative party whether they would rather be connected with a strong Opposition or a weak Government, I must say for myself, I have not the slightest hesitation in saying, for the benefit of the Conservative party, for the benefit of the country, for the benefit of the conduct of affairs, let us be not in a weak and feeble Government, relying on the forbearance of our opponents, but let us be in a strong Opposition, able to control the action of Ministers—to be held forth as a bugbear to the advanced Liberals by the heads of that party, and also effectually to prevent their combination from operating dangerously to the country. There can be no greater misfortune than that the Conservative party should attain office with such a measuring-cast majority, if any majority at all, which would place them day by day at the risk of any combination or coalition that might be formed against them by the various elements which, if they cannot work well together, are sure to agree well enough to oppose them."

SCIENTIFIC BALLOON ASCENT.—Mr. Glaisher and Mr. Coxwell ascended in a balloon from Wolverton on Friday, in the presence of a number of scientific men, who went down purposely from London in a special train placed at their disposal by the North-Western Railway Company. The balloon left Wolverton at 12 minutes after 1, and descended about eight miles beyond Ely at 28 minutes past 2. The highest point reached was four miles and a half, and the balloon at times travelled at the rate of 70 miles an hour. At an elevation of three miles it encountered a snowstorm, and came in contact with the clouds at various intervals.

SINGULAR DISCOVERY AT STOKE NEWINGTON.—On Tuesday morning several coffins containing the bodies of infants, and a pauper coffin of an adult, but without a corpse in it, were discovered concealed under a quantity of rubbish, on the premises of Mr. H. Chapman, undertaker, at Stoke Newington. At present there is no explanation of the circumstances, but Mr. Chapman states that he will be able to produce medical certificates to prove that the deaths were not the result of foul play.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.—The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that in the week that ended on Saturday, June 27, the deaths in London were 1158. The average number in the corresponding week of the 10 years 1853—62, corrected for increase of population was 1,236. The present return is therefore 78 below the average. During the week the births of 1025 boys and 934 girls, in all 1959 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1912.

Provincial.

LEEDS.—Nine persons have lost their lives by the explosion of a large steam boiler at the woollen cloth manufactory of Messrs. Hirst & Sons, Hem Brigg Mill, Morley, near this town. The boiler exploded on Saturday morning, at the time when the mill was stopped for breakfast. Parts of it, with portions of the attached machinery, and the materials of the mill and boiler-house, were thrown to great distances with immense force. Six persons were killed at the time, and several others were so seriously injured that three of them have since died. It appeared from the scientific evidence at the inquest that the safety-valve was out of order. The jury returned a verdict of "Accidental Death."

LIVERPOOL.—The Great Eastern sailed from Liverpool on Tuesday morning for New York, under the command of Captain Paton. She took out about 6000 tons of cargo, 130 cabin and 600 steerage passengers. She was to call at Queenstown, where it was expected that she would embark about 500 more passengers.

MANCHESTER.—At the meeting of the Central Relief Committee on Monday, Mr. Commissioner Farnall reported a further decrease in the number of unemployed operatives to the extent of 2613, making a diminution of more than 100,000 since the 6th December last. The chairman, Sir J. Kay Shuttleworth, took a gloomy view of the prospects of the district, and said that next winter the distress would be fully as great as it was last, minus the number of those that might find employment on the public works.

NEWARK.—On Monday morning a shocking suicide was committed at this place by a Frenchman called Viscount de Maires, on the Great Northern line. He entered the booking-office at Edinburgh, and took a through ticket to London by the early mail train. When the train was approaching Newark station his fellow-passengers were startled by the report of a pistol, which he had discharged with deadly effect into his head. On the train stopping at this place the body was removed from the carriage, which was covered with blood and brains. The jury at the inquest returned a verdict "that deceased took away his own life, but there was no evidence to show the state of his mind."

Law.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH: Dickson v. Lord Combermere and others.—This action, which has occupied the Lord Chief Justice and a Special Jury for 8 days, was brought by Colonel Dickson, formerly Lieut. Colonel of the 3d Tower Hamlets Militia, against the Earl of Wilton, formerly Colonel-in-Chief of the same regiment, Viscount Combermere, Lord-Lieutenant of the Tower Hamlets, and General Peel, Secretary for War under Lord Derby's Government, charging them with having conspired together to procure, by means of false and malicious charges, the dismissal of the plaintiff by her Majesty from the command of that corps. A second count in the declaration charged each and all of the defendants with the false and malicious representations, without the allegation of conspiracy. At an early period of the trial, the Lord Chief Justice intimated that there was no case against General Peel, and on Saturday the jury, without leaving the box, and after a consultation of only a few minutes, returned their verdict for the other defendants.

BIRTHS.—On the 27th ult, at Edwinsford, Carmarthenshire, Lady WILLIAMS DRUMMOND, of a son—29th ult, at 7, Mansfield Street, Madame DE COMYN, the wife of the Spanish Minister, of a son—28th ult, at 30, Norfolk Square, Hyde Park, the wife of Lieutenant-Colonel Hon. CHARLES POWYS, of a son.

MARRIAGES.—On Tuesday, the 30th ult, at St George's, Hanover Square, the Hon. GERARD NOEL, M.P., to AUGUSTA MARY, second daughter of Colonel the Hon. HENRY CECIL LOWTHER, M.P.—27th ult, at the Old Church, Caterham, Surrey, the Rev. GEORGE M. GAY, M.A., eldest son of the late George Gay, Esq., of Biddlesden Park, Northamptonshire, to CHARLOTTE MARIAN, youngest daughter of the late Sir JOHN KEY, Bart.—30th ult, at St. James's, Piccadilly, Captain T. P. BERTHON, Royal Artillery, eldest son of P. H. Berthon, Esq., of The Forest, to AMELIA CAROLINE HURD, eldest daughter of the late Major-General MILES.

DEATHS.—On the 24th inst, at Cantley, ANNE, the wife of JOHN WALBANKE CHILDERS, Esq., aged 60—29th ult, at 32 Hyde Park Gardens, JOSEPH MARTINEAU, Esq., of Basing Park, Hampshire, aged 77—25th ult, at Dix's Field, Exeter, Captain JOHN BINGHAM, R.N., aged 78—26th ult, in Down Street, Piccadilly, Commander HENRY RICH, R.N., aged 74—23d ult, at Hythe School of Musketry, Lieutenant JAMES EDMUND BRYMER, H.M.'s 83d Regiment of Foot, aged 24—24th ult, at Perth, Ensign WALTER STANHOPE SHERWELL TROUP, 92d Highlanders, eldest son of Major General Troup, aged 22—25th ult, at Clifton Park, Birkenhead, the Rev. JAMES DICKSON DIXON, M.A., late incumbent of Bramley, Yorkshire, aged 47—25th ult, at Blandford, the Rev. W. HARTE, rector of Blandford, aged 48—30th ult, at his residence, Cossna House, Surbiton, the Rev. WILLIAM JAMES WALL, M.A., eldest son of the late Rev. Daniel Henry Wall, formerly rector of Clonmel, Tipperary, Ireland, aged 50.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, July 4.

Vegetables of all kinds are now most abundant, and fruit is also becoming very plentiful, especially Peaches and Nectarines. Of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is likewise sufficient for the demand. Strawberries are abundant and good in quality. Cherries of foreign growth are fetching from 5s. to 6s. 6d. per basket, weighing about 24 lbs. each. Some good English grown Cherries may also now be obtained. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good supply, and Oranges are plentiful. New Potatoes realise from 8s. to 11s per cwt. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Calceolarias, Fuchsias, Violets, Stocks, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 6s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s 6d to 8s | Oranges, per box, 30s to 40s |
| Strawberries, p. lb., 6d to 2s | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Apples, per doz., 9d to 1s 6d | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Figs, per doz., 6s to 8s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Peaches, per doz., 15s to 30s | Walnuts, do., 10s |
| Nectarines, do., 8s to 18s | |
| Melons, each, 3s to 7s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d |
| Green Peas, per qt., 1s to 1s 6d | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Cauliflowers each, 3d to 6d | French Beans, per 100, 2s |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 90s to 99s | Asparagus, per 100, 2s to 5s |
| " Flukes, do., 100s to 120s | Shallots (new), p. bunch, 6d |
| " Rocks, do., 60s to 80s | Rhubarb, p. bundle, 2d to 4d |
| " Cups, do., 75s to 85s | Garlic (new), per bunch, 6d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 4d to 8d | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Carrots, do., 8d to 10d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Horse Radish, p. bun. 1s 6d to 4s |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 2s 6d |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |

NEWGATE.—July 3.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Best Fresh Butter | .. .. | 13s. per dozen lbs. |
| Second do. do. | .. .. | 11s. " |

Pork, 4s 0d. to 4s 4d. per 8 lbs.

HOPS.—BOROUGH MARKET, FRIDAY, July 3.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report a fair consumptive demand for the better descriptions of last year's growth at firm rates. The reports from many parts of the the plantations are not so favourable, vermin increasing, followed by honey-dew.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, June 29.

The number of Beasts is rather larger than on Monday last, but the average quality is scarcely as good. Trade is active for the choicest descriptions at about that day's quotations. Other kinds are rather lower. The supply of Sheep is shorter, and they are readily disposed of at late rates. Lambs are more plentiful; there is however a demand for them at nearly late rates. Calves are selling at about the same as on Thursday. From Germany and Holland there are 1060 Beasts, 4460 Sheep, and 298 Calves; from France 35 Calves; from Scotland, 96

Beasts; from Ireland, 130; from Norfolk and Suffolk, 1650; and 700 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 10 to 5 2 | Best Long-wools .. | — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 8 — 5 0 | Do. Shorn .. | 4 6 — 4 10 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 6 — 4 2 | Ewes & 2d quality .. | — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | .. — .. | Do. Shorn .. | 3 8 — 4 4 |
| Do. Shorn .. | 5 0 — 5 2 | Lambs .. .. | 8 — 6 4 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 6 |
| | | Pigs .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 4330; Sheep & Lambs, 24,340; Calves, 399; Pigs, 310

THURSDAY, July 2.

The number of Beasts is smaller than on Thursday last, Trade is consequently brisk, and Monday's quotations fully maintained. We have about an average supply of Sheep and Lambs. The demand has rather increased, and prices in some instances have advanced. Calves are plentiful; some of the choicest make rather more than on Monday, but inferior kinds are not selling any better. Our foreign supply consists of 375 Beasts, 2130 Sheep, and 540 Calves, Milch Cows, 85.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 10 to 5 2 | Best Long-wools. .. | — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 8 — 5 0 | Do. Shorn .. | 4 8 — 4 10 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 8 — 4 4 | Ewes & 2d quality .. | — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | .. — .. | Do. Shorn .. | 4 0 — 4 6 |
| Do. Shorn .. | 5 0 — 5 2 | Lambs .. .. | 5 2 — 6 4 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 1055; Sheep & Lambs, 11,580; Calves, 735; Pigs, 190.

COAL MARKET.—July 1.

Byass's Bebside West Hartley, 15s. 3d.; Lambert's West Hartley, 15s.; Walker Primrose, 12s. 6d.; West Hartley, 15s. 3d.; Wylam, 15s. 6d.; Walls End Harton, 14s. 6d.; Walls End Riddell, 14s 6d.; Eden Main, 15s.; Walls End Braddylls Hetton, 15s. 6d.; Walls End Haswell, 17s.; Walls End Hetton, 17s.; Walls End Russel's Hetton, 15s. 3d.; Walls End South Hetton, 17s.; Walls End Stewarts, 16s 6d.; Walls End Cassop, 15s. 6d.; Walls End Hartlepool, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Kelloe, 15s. 9d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 15s. 3d.; Walls End South Kelloe, 15s. 9d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 19s 6d.—113 ships at market.

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

SMITHFIELD, THURSDAY, July 2.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 70s to | 80s | Clover, old .. .. | 90s to | 126s |
| Superior do. .. | 80 | 90 | New Clover .. | — | — |
| Inferior do. .. | 45 | 60 | Do. second cut .. | 80 | 115 |
| New do. .. .. .. | — | — | Straw .. .. .. | 26 | 34 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | — | — | | | |

HARVEY & EASTON.

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, July 2.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 92s | Prime Clover .. | 118s to | 126s |
| Inferior do... .. | 75 | 80 | Inferior do... .. | 100 | 110 |
| Prime New Hay.. | 60 | 70 | New do. .. .. | 80 | 90 |
| Inferior.. .. .. | — | — | Prime 2d cut .. | 115 | 123 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 32 | Inferior do. .. | — | — |

BRITISH WOOLS.—London, July 3.

A fair demand continues for all descriptions of combing wool at full rates, but at the prices demanded by the growers the consumers merely supply their recurring wants.

| | s. d. s. d. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ to 1 10 | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto.. | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ — 1 9 | Combing Skins | 1 4 — .. |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 — 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 4 — .. |
| | | Blanket ditto .. .. | — .. |

MARK LANE.—Monday, June 29.

There was very little English Wheat at this morning's market, nevertheless it met a slow sale at the prices of this day se'nnight. Foreign was in limited demand, and where it was necessary to force sales ex ship a slight decline had to be accepted. Barley, Beans, and Peas bring late prices. The Oat trade is quiet. Good sweet Corn is in fair demand at late rates, but out-of-conditioned parcels are very difficult to sell and cheaper. In Flour there is but little doing, and prices are unaltered.

| Per Imperial Quarter | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk.. White | 46—56 | Red ..... | 42—50 |
| — — fine selected runs..ditto | 47—54 | Red .... | 42—52 |
| — — Talavera .............. | 48—60 | | |
| — Norfolk ..................... | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign ...................... | 35—62 | | |
| Barley, grind. & dist, 23s to 30s.. Chev. | 34—38 | Malting .. | 31—34 |
| — Foreign.. grinding and distilling | 23—27 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| Oats, Essex and Suffolk ........... | 21—24 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—26 | Feed .... | 21—23 |
| — Irish ..................Potato | — | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 18—22 | Feed .... | 17—22 |
| Rye ...................................... | 35—37 | Foreign .. | — |
| Rye-meal, Foreign ................. | — | | |
| Beans, Mazagan....30s to 31s.. Tick | 31—32 | Harrow .. | 31—32 |
| — Pigeon .... 34s to 38s.. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ................. Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 32—34 |
| Peas, White, Essex and Kent.. Boilers | 35—37 | Suffolk .. | 37—40 |
| — Maple .... 42s to 43s .... Grey | 36—37 | Foreign .. | 30—38 |
| Maize ........................White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| Flour, best marks delivered.. per sack | 42—47 | | |
| — 2d do .................... ditto | 32—44 | Country .. | 32—40 |
| — Foreign ............ per barrel | 20—28 | Per sack | 34—48 |

FRIDAY, July 3.

The weather since the 26th ult. has been very fine, excepting only a few insignificant showers, but the temperature was not high for the season. Business in Wheat has been very restricted with a lowering tendency in the prices, which are quoted 1s. cheaper in many important markets. Spring Corn of all kinds was very dull of sale, and Oats have again declined in various parts of the kingdom. The sale of Flour has been very limited, and in some instances a slight concession in value has been submitted to. Since Friday last 43 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has remained dull; the prices of Wheat and Maize have declined 6d. to 1s, and have still a downward tendency. In Paris (July 2), the Flour trade has been very depressed, and prices have declined about 1s. 6d. per 280 lbs. The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 38s. 9d. per 280 lbs. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 8680 cwt. Sellers are willing to submit to a reduction on Wheat of about 2s. 6d. per 480 lbs., but this is still 1s. and 1s. 6d. above the prices buyers are willing to pay. The arrivals of all descriptions of grain this week have been small, but of Flour large. This morning's market was again very badly attended, and only a minimum business was transacted in Wheat. Prices remain nominally the same as on Monday for both English and foreign. Spring Corn of all kinds was a slow sale at Monday's rates.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 720 qrs. | 40 qrs. | — qrs. | 570 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | — | — ,, |
| Foreign .. | 8390 ,, | 5060 | 18,050 ,, | 1170 ,, 22,020 brls |

Liverpool, June 30.—Wheat met a limited sale at about previous rates, although in some cases 2d. per cental cheaper. Flour neglected and easier to buy. Indian Corn, under an immense arrival, was freely offered at 27s. for mixed, without buyers over 26s. 6d.

Friday, July 3.—The market was thinly attended. Wheat only a retail demand, at a decline of 1d to 2d. Flour neglected at late rates. Indian Corn without change. Egyptian Beans in better demand. Oats and Oatmeal very dull.

| Averages | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| May 23.. | 46s 8d | 33s 9d | 22s 7d | 34s 6d | 38s 6d | 36s 5d |
| — 30 | 46 5 | 33 8 | 22 8 | 40 2 | 38 11 | 35 9 |
| June 6 | 46 10 | 31 11 | 22 10 | 32 5 | 39 10 | 36 8 |
| — 13 | 46 11 | 32 4 | 22 10 | 34 10 | 39 8 | 36 11 |
| — 20 | 46 9 | 30 7 | 23 0 | 32 8 | 40 4 | 37 10 |
| — 27 | 46 5 | 31 2 | 22 10 | 35 9 | 39 8 | 36 1 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 8 | 32 3 | 22 9 | 35 0 | 39 6 | 36 7 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

To Seedsmen.

WANTED, a really first-rate MANAGER of a General Seed business (not Wholesale), in one of the highest and most popular Horticultural Establishments of the day. There is already a first-class business in Vegetable and Flower Seeds, and as it is now intended to embrace Agricultural Seeds, it is necessary that this branch be fully understood as well as the others. Ample salary will at once be given, and arrangement made for an increase, on the business improving through the exertions of the person engaged. A person acquainted with London habits of business preferred.—Address to A. B. C., care of Messrs. Cooper & Bolton, 152, Fleet Street, E. C.

Steam applied to Agriculture.

WANTED, a competent MAN, conversant with Agricultural Machinery, to take charge of Steam Ploughing and Thrashing Machinery, and manage them in work and repair. If character and capabilities are suitable, the engagement will be permanent.—Apply, stating age, qualifications, previous occupation, references, and wages expected, to C. Sherwood Newman, C. E., The Green, Sherborne, Dorset.

WANTED, a FARM BAILIFF (Working), in a Sussex Farm, about 200 acres. He must well understand the Drilling of Corn and Root Crops, and Stiff Land Cultivation, and possess a thorough knowledge of Rearing and Fattening Stock.—Apply by letter only, stating age and other particulars; good character indispensable.—A. Y., care of Mr. Basely, Stationer, Throgmorton Street.

WANTED, a PERSON to manage a Seed Shop; must have a good knowledge of Clover and Grass Seeds, and be a good Bookkeeper.—Apply by letter, stating antecedents and salary expected, addressed Seedsman, Post Office, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

WANTED, a SHOPMAN, in a Provincial Nursery, a trustworthy experienced steady Man not under 30.—Address, stating where he has been employed, wages required, and other particulars, to A. B., Messrs. Hurst & Son, 6, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. Henderson & Son, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 35, married; a scientific practical man in every department of Horticulture.—A. R. M., Messrs. Rollisson & Son, Tooting, London, S.

GARDENER (Head), to any nobleman or gentleman.—Age 30, married, one child; a thoroughly practical man in every branch of his profession, and can be highly recommended. Five and three years' good character.—J. Marsden, Englefield Green, Egham.

GARDENER (Head), married, no incumbrance.—F. Butler, Gardener to R. T. Adderley, Esq., of Barlaston Hall, near Stone, Staffordshire, is at liberty to engage with any gentleman in want of a practical man.—Address as above.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30, married; 14 years' practical knowledge of his profession in its various branches and perfectly understands it. Highly recommended by the gentleman he has just left.—C. J. B., Mr. Chapman's, Wells Road, Upper Sydenham, Kent, S.E.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 33, single; W. Howard, Gardener to B. Edgington, Esq., Lavender Hill, Wandsworth, S W. A first-class Plant and Fruit Grower, and good general Gardener. Can be highly recommended by several leading horticulturists, also by his present employer.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 36, married; has a thorough knowledge of his profession in all its branches. Six and a-half years' unexceptionable character from last situation.—H. L., Messrs. Osborn & Sons, Nurserymen, Fulham, S.W.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 32, single; well experienced in Forcing Fruits and Flowers, the Management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens, Laying Out and Improving Grounds. Would undertake the Management of Stock and Meadow Land. Good character.—A. Z., Mr. Andrews, Victoria Place, Croydon, S.E.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30; thoroughly acquainted with the Early Forcing of Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables, as well as the Flower and Kitchen Gardens, the Management of Grass Lands, Plantations, &c. The highest testimonials from the gentleman he has just left.—G. B., Downie, Laird & Laing, Stanstead Park, Forest Hill, London.

GARDENER (Head) with any nobleman or gentleman.—Age 37, married; has had 22 years' experience in his profession in all its branches, viz, the Forcing and Management of Flowers, also Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Strawberries, Melons, Cucumbers, and all sorts of Vegetables, and is a good Kitchen Gardener. Can have a first-rate character from the gentleman he has just left, with whom he lived six years.—E. Mitchell, Post Office, near Woolton, Liverpool.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, married; has had 24 years' experience in Early Forcing of Vines, Pines, Peaches, Melons and Cucumbers; thoroughly understands Orchids, Foliaged, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, the Orchard House, Flower and Kitchen Garden, Laying Out, Erecting and Heating Horticultural Buildings, also Park and Plantation Work. Character unexceptionable.—T. H., Mr. Williams, Paradise Nursery, Holloway, N.

GARDENER (Head), or GARDENER and BAILIFF.—Married; understands Forcing and Flower and Kitchen Gardening. Is competent to take charge of Land and Stock. Good testimonials as to character and abilities.—E. N., Goode's Library, Cambridge Street, Pimlico, S.W.

GARDENER (Head, or good Single-handed).—Age 28, single; thoroughly acquainted with his profession. Unexceptionable character. A religious family preferred.—O. M., 14, Ormond Row, Smith Street, Chelsea, S.W.

GARDENER (Head or Single-handed).—Age 34; married, no incumbrance; practical knowledge of his profession. Good character. — A. B., 26, North Street, Edgware Road, W.

GARDENER.—Age 24, single. Can Milk. Good character.—G. M., Langford House, East Dulwich.

GARDENER.—Age 24, married; well acquainted with the general routine of Gardening. Good character. O. P., Mr. Pearsh, News Agent, Wimbledon, S. W.

GARDENER. — Age 26, single; well acquainted with all branches of his profession, and can be highly recommended by his present employers.—O. P., Post Office, Dorking.

GARDENER.—Age 31, single; 16 years' practice in Vines, Orchard or Greenhouse, Wall Trees, Cucumbers and Melons, Kitchen and Flower Garden. Good character.—W. S., 5, Wells Terrace, Wells Road, Upper Sydenham, Kent.

GARDENER.—Age 32, married, no incumbrance; understands Vines and Flower and Kitchen Garden. Single-handed place preferred. Can have a good character. Leaves his present situation in five weeks' time.—J. W., Post Office, Croydon, Surrey.

GARDENER, in a gentleman's family, or KNIFE-MAN in a Nursery.—Age 32; many years experience.—F. C., Post Office, Horton, Wimborne, Dorset.

GARDENER (Single-handed).—Age 33, married; can Milk, and willing to make himself generally useful. Four years' character.—A. B., Post Office, Upper Edmonton.

GARDENER, FORESTER, &c.—12 years' character from present employer. Will be at liberty the beginning of August.—L. Roby, Bury Hill, Dorking.

GARDENER, where assistance is occasionally given.—Age 21, single; understands Fruit, Kitchen, and Flower Gardens, Greenhouse and Orchard-house. Wages 18s. per week.—X., Post Office, Carshalton, Surrey.

GARDENER, under a Foreman, where there would be a chance of improvement. To be in the Houses preferred. Ten years' good reference from present employer.—F. B., Dewsbury, Yorks.

GARDENER (Under, or Foreman) to any nobleman or gentlemen.—Age 23; thoroughly understands the Management of Ferns, Stove, New Holland Plants, Early and Late Forcing. Good character.—A. B., Post Office, Aberdare, Glamorganshire.

GARDENER (Under).—Age 26, single; steady. Has had several years' experience under good Gardeners. Two years' good character from last employer.—Mr. James Hawkins, Holly Bush House, Wansted, Essex, N E.

GARDENER (Under) or PLANT GROWER.—Age 22; six years in one of the principal Nurseries in England.—J. P. D., Mr A R Clarke, Godalming, Surrey.

PLANT GROWER, or to Manage a small Nursery.—Well understands the Cultivation and Growth of Plants, such as Hard and Soft-wooded, Greenhouse and Stove Plants. Has grown Plants for Market at last place for four years.—A. B., Mr. Sherman, Seedsman, Newington Butts, S.

FOREMAN, in a gentleman's or nobleman's Garden.—Understands Forcing Fruits; first-class Grape Grower; Orchids, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Lycopods, Kitchen and Flower Gardens. Has served in some of the leading Gardens in England, where the highest testimonials can be given.—C. Sonders, 41, Warwick Street, Ryde, Isle of Wight.

PROPAGATOR (General), FOREMAN, &c.—Second to none in the Trade; proof given of ability, with good references.—Alpha, Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

To Nurserymen and Head Gardeners.

IMPROVER, in large Garden or Nursery.—A youth.—J. N., Messrs. Eaton & Son, College Street, Worcester.

APPRENTICE, to a Nurseryman and Seedsman, or to a nobleman's or gentleman's Head Gardener.—Age 15; a small Premium given.—Mr. Ashmall, Hammerwich, near Lichfield.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

LAND STEWARD.—Has had the Management of a large Estate in one of the Midland Counties for many years; will be at liberty in July. He has had many years of practical experience in the Management of Land, Timber, Woods, Plantations, and the Superintendence of Repairs; also a large Farm, Stock, &c., and the general business of an Estate. Testimonials and the most unexceptionable references can be given.—C. M., Post Office, Canterbury.

To the Wholesale Trade.

TRAVELLER. — Has represented two London Houses. Eighteen years' practical experience in the Trade.—A. B. C., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

CLERK.—Age 20, well educated; has had some experience in a Nurseryman's Counting House, and can give good references. — H. S. E., Mr. Evans, Nurseryman, Chichester.

SHOPMAN, &c., in the Seed, or Corn and Seed Business, by a respectable Youth, who has had four years' experience (eight months of which were spent in a first-class London Seed-house). Willing to make himself generally useful in shop or counting-house. Good references.—C., Post Office, Cheltenham.

COWMAN.—Age 33, married, no incumbrance; is a good Milker, and thoroughly understands Stock and Poultry. Can kill Pigs and Sheep. Good character. At liberty in a month.—J. W., 7, George Street, Croydon, Surrey.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1863.

WILLIAM BARRATT, Landscape and Ornamental Gardener. St. John's and Newton Moor Nurseries, Wakefield.

SHAW'S TIFFANY. For samples and prices apply to J. Shaw & Co., 29, Oxford Street, Manchester.

HAVE YOU a LAWN?—Use BELCHER'S PATENT PLANTAIN EXTRACTOR; which neatly removes Plantain and Daisies, and replaces them with fine Turf. Price 6*s*.: to be had of all Ironmongers.
Wholesale Agents, S. & E. Ransome & Co., 31, Essex Street, Strand, W.C.

PULHAM'S ROCKWORK FERNERIES, WATER-FALLS, CAVES, BANKS of STREAMS and PONDS, executed in the only way it should be, i.e., to imitate Natural ROCKS. Worked with pockets, for plenty of plants to grow about it.
References to works executed in 10 counties, some by the recommendation of W. B. Thomas, Esq., and R. Marnock, Esq.

THE FARMER'S BAROMETER, 50*s*., a New Instrument by Negretti & Zambra, will correctly indicate whether the Barometer falls for Rain or for Wind.
Particulars by enclosing stamp to 1, Hatton Garden, E.C.; 59, Cornhill, E.C.; and 122, Regent Street, W.

WASPS. — Haythorn's HEXAGON and CHISWICK GARDEN NETS are guaranteed to protect all kinds of Fruit from Wasps, Flies, Birds, &c. These Nets are used and recommended by all the principal Gardeners.
For Testimonials, Patterns, and Prices, please direct to Mr. Haythorn, Nottingham.

TANNED NETTING, at reduced prices, 1*d*. per square yard; 200 yards, 14*s*.; 500, 30*s*.; 1000 yards, 50*s*. SCRIM CANVAS, for Wall Fruit; GARDEN MATS; GREEN-HOUSE SHADES.
Be particular, Frederick Edgington & Co., Rick Cloth Manufacturers, Thomas Street, Old Kent Road, London, S.E.

TANNED GARDEN NETTING for preserving Seed Beds, Fruits, Strawberries, from frost, blight, birds, &c., and as a Fence for Fowls, &c. 1 yard wide, 1½*d*.; 2 yards, 3*d*.; 3 yards, 4½*d*.; and 4 yards, 6*d*. per yard run, in any quantity, may be had at Chas. Wright's, 376, Strand, W.C.
VARNISHED FLOWER STICKS:—1 foot, 3*d*.; 1½, 4*d*. 2, 5*d*.; 2½, 7*d*.; 3, 10*d*.; 4, 1*s*. 6*d*. per dozen. DAHLIA do., per dozen:—3 feet, 1*s*. 6*d*.; 4, 2*s*. 3*d*.; 5, 3*s*.; 6, 3*s*. 6*d*. An allowance to Nurserymen.

Netting for Fruit Trees, Seed Beds, Ripe Strawberries, &c.

TANNED NETTING for Protecting the above from Frost, Blight, Birds, &c., 2 yards wide, 3*d*. per yard, or 100 yards, 20*s*.; 4 yards wide, 6*d*. per yard, or 50 yards, 20*s*. NEW TANNED NETTING, suited for any of the above purposes, or as a Fence for Fowls, 2 yards wide, 6*d*. per yard; 4 yards wide, 1*s*. per yard; ¾-inch mesh, 4 yards wide, 1*s*. 4*d*. per yard.
Can be had in any quantity of Eaton & Deller, 6 and 7, Crooked Lane, London Bridge, E.C.

WHY NOT PRESERVE YOUR HAY?—Benjamin Edgington, Rick-cloth, Marquee, and Tent Manufacturer, 2, Duke Street, London Bridge, S.E. PAVILIONS and TEMPORARY ROOMS for Royal and Noble Parties.
A quantity of SECOND-HAND MARQUEES, TENTS, and RICK-CLOTHS, at greatly reduced prices. An Illustrated Catalogue sent free per post.
Address, Benjamin Edgington, 2, Duke Street, Southwark, S.E. No other Establishment.

For Watering Gardens, Lawns, and Washing Windows, Carriages, &c. India-Rubber Hose-Pipes and Tubing.

JAMES LYNE HANCOCK, Manufacturer, has a large Stock of all sizes. Also BRASS HAND-BRANCHES, with SPREADERS, STOP-COCKS, JETS, and UNION JOINTS to connect the HOSE to CISTERNS.
INDIA-RUBBER FIRE-ENGINE HOSE for Private Houses, Mansions, and Breweries, and also the necessary FIRE-BRANCHES and UNION SCREWS.
Illustrated Price Lists on application.
James Lyne Hancock, Vulcanized India-Rubber Works, 266, Goswell Road, London, E.C.

Terra Cotta.

MARK H. BLANCHARD and CO., Successors to Coades, Established 1769, Terra Cotta Manufacturers to her Majesty, the Commissioners of 1851, the Board of Works, the Admiralty, the Trinity House, the Royal Horticultural Society and the Department of Science and Art, South Kensington, Recipients of the Prize Medal for Terra Cotta at the '51 Exhibition, and the only Recipients of the Two Prize Medals at the '62 Exhibition, for Terra Cotta and Pottery—beg to inform the Nobility, Gentry, and others, that the whole of the beautiful Columns to the Arcades, Vases, Tazzas, and other Terra Cottas at the Royal Horticultural Gardens were executed by them, and they are prepared to supply Vases, Tazzas, Pedestals, Statues, Terminals, Balustrading, and every other decoration in this invaluable and imperishable material, suitable for the adornment of the Conservatory, Flower Garden, and Grounds, at prices which defy competition, as the works of this Establishment have stood the test of time.
Works and Show Rooms, Blackfriars Road, London, S.
Estimates furnished and Illustrated Catalogues forwarded on the receipt of 6 Postage Stamps.

Roses.

In reply to numerous inquiries, Thos. Rivers begs to announce that the Eighth Edition of THE ROSE AMATEUR'S GUIDE, price 4*s*., will be ready in a few days.
To be had of Messrs. Longman & Co., and post free from the Author, Sawbridgeworth.

BARR and SUGDEN, Seed Merchants, 12, King Street, Covent Garden, W.C.
Just Published,
The ILLUSTRATED GUIDE to the KITCHEN GARDEN, with a Descriptive List of the best Vegetables, &c. 1*s*.
The ILLUSTRATED GUIDE to the FLOWER Garden, with an extensive Descriptive List of Flower Seeds, Ornamental Gourds, Grasses, Trees, Shrubs, and Ornamental Foliage Plant Seeds.

This day is published, much Enlarged and with Numerous Illustrations, price 1*s*. 6*d*.,
A New Edition of
SEA FISH: and HOW to CATCH THEM. By W. B. Lord, Royal Artillery.
London: Bradbury & Evans, 11, Bouverie Street, E.C.

In fcp. 8vo., with Frontispiece in Colours, price 5*s*.,
THE INDOOR GARDENER. By Miss Maling, Author of "Indoor Plants."
London: Longman, Green, & Co. Paternoster Row, E.C.

This day, with Frontispiece and numerous other Illustrations, handsomely bound in cloth gilt, 400 pp., price 2*s*. 6*d*.,
YOUNG WOMAN'S COMPANION. This Volume, prepared with great care, aims to be the Young Woman's Companion in Plain and Ornamental Needlework, Letter Writing, the Sick Room and Nursery, the Parlour, the Kitchen, the Laundry; Moral Readings for Leisure Hours, including beautiful Poems and Tales, and Four Hundred Golden Rules of Life.
 No better gift for Maid and Matron exists than the "Young Woman's Companion." It should be in the hands of all. London: Ward & Lock, 158, Fleet Street, E.C.

Text Books of Geology and Physical Geography.
By DAVID PAGE, F.R.S.E., F.G.S., &c.

I.
Fifth Edition, price 1*s*. 9*d*.,
INTRODUCTORY TEXT BOOK of GEOLOGY. With numerous Illustrations and Glossarial Index.

II.
Third Edition, revised and enlarged, price 6*s*.,
ADVANCED TEXT BOOK of GEOLOGY, Descriptive and Industrial. With numerous Illustrations and Glossary of Scientific Terms.

III.
In Crown Octavo, price 6*s*.,
HANDBOOK of GEOLOGICAL TERMS and GEOLOGY.

IV.
Just published, price 2*s*.,
INTRODUCTORY TEXT BOOK of PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY. With Illustrative Sketch Maps and Glossarial Index.
W. Blackwood & Sons, Edinburgh and London.

Just published,
BRITISH MOSSES. Description of all the Species inhabiting the British Isles. By the Rev. M. J. Berkeley, M.A., F.L.S. Coloured Figures and Dissections of 158 Species, from Original Drawings by Fitch, in 24 plates, 1*l*. 1*s*.

BRITISH FLORA. By G. Bentham, F.R.S., P.L.S. ILLUSTRATED EDITION, with fine Wood Engravings of every Species. Part VII. 2*s*. 6*d*.

FLORAL MAGAZINE. Figures and Descriptions of Popular Garden Flowers. 4 coloured plates and Companion, 2*s*. 6*d*.

BOTANICAL MAGAZINE. Comprising the Plants of the Royal Gardens of Kew, and other Botanical Establishments, with suitable Descriptions. By Sir W. J. Hooker, K.H., D.C.L., &c. 6 coloured plates, 3*s*. 6*d*.

Re-Issue of Prof. Harvey's Great Work on British Seaweeds.
PHYCOLOGIA BRITANNICA: A History of British Seaweeds. By W. H. Harvey, M.D., M.R.I.A. A Re-Issue of this important Work being called for, the Proprietors have arranged for its publication in Monthly Half-a-Crown Parts, each containing 7 Coloured Plates with Text. The Work to be completed in 50 Parts. Part I. now ready. Complete Copies, in 4 vols., arranged systematically, may still be had, price 6*l*. 6*s*. These magnificent Volumes contain a Coloured Figure, of the natural size, of every Species of British Seaweed, with highly-magnified Views of its Structure and Fructification. An entire Plate is devoted to each Species, the number of Plates in the Work amounting to Three Hundred and Sixty.
"The 'History of British Seaweeds' we can most faithfully recommend for its scientific, its pictorial, and its popular value."—Annals and Magazine of Natural History.
"The drawings are beautifully executed, the dissections carefully prepared, and the whole account of the species drawn up in such a way as cannot fail to be instructive, even to those who are well acquainted with the subject."—Gardeners' Chronicle.

PORTRAITS of MEN of EMINENCE in LITERATURE, SCIENCE, and ART. With Biographical Memoirs. The Portraits photographed from Life. In Monthly Parts, each 2*s*. 6*d*.
Part I. contains Portraits, with Memoirs, of
Earl Stanhope | Sir Charles Lyell | J. H. Foley, R.A.
Part II. contains Portraits, with Memoirs, of
W. M. Thackeray | Sir R. I. Murchison | David Roberts, R.A.
Part III. on August 1, will contain Portraits, with Memoirs, of
Dr. Whewell | Professor Owen | Gilbert Scott, R.A.

ESCULENT FUNGUSES of ENGLAND. By the Rev. Dr. Badham. New Edition. 12 Coloured Plates, 21*s*. [On July 31st.
Lovell Reeve & Co, 5, Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, W.C.

Price 4*s*. Quarterly. Annual Subscription, prepaid, 12*s*. Post free.
THE NATURAL HISTORY REVIEW. No. XI. (July, 1863).
Contains Reviews of Carpenter's Foraminifera—Agassiz, Natural History of the United States, Vol. IV.—Saporta's Tertiary Flora of Provence—Caspary on the Vessels of Plants—De Candolle on the Juglandeæ—Anderssen's Vegetation of the Galapagos Islands—Triana and Planchon's Flora of New Grenada—Hoffmeister's Botany of Ceylon, the Himalayas, &c.—Huxley's Man's Place in Nature—Bates' Naturalist on the Amazons—Burmeister's Mammals of La Plata. Also the following original articles, viz: on the Embryology of the Echinodermata, by Professor Wyville Thomson, F.R.S.E.; on the Ancient Shell-mounds of Scotland, by John Lubbock, Esq., F.R.S.; and an Account of the Proceedings of the lat. Conference in France on the alleged Discovery of a Human Jaw-bone in the Gravel at Moulin-Quignon; including the Procès Verbaux of the Sittings of the Conference, with notes by H. Falconer, M.D., F.R.S.; George Busk, Esq., F.R.S., and W. B. Carpenter, M.D., Vice-President of the Royal Society.
Williams & Norgate, London and Edinburgh.

Seventh Edition, 10th Thousand, price 2*s*. 6*d*.; free by post, 32 Stamps,
DISEASES of the SKIN; a Guide to their Treatment and Prevention, illustrated by Cases. By Thomas Hunt, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square.
"Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.
London: T. Richards, 37, Great Queen Street.

AGRICULTURAL and CHEMICAL COLLEGE, 37 and 38, Lower Kennington Lane, London, S.
ASSAYS and ANALYSES promptly attended to by J. C. Nesbit, Lansdell & Co.

AGRICULTURAL and CHEMICAL COLLEGE, Kennington.—Manufacturers and others engaged in making Artificial Manures may obtain every necessary instruction for their economical and efficient preparation by applying to J. C. Nesbit, Lansdell & Co., 37 and 38, Lower Kennington Lane, London, S.
Analyses of Soils, Guanos, Superphosphates of Lime, Coprolites, &c., and Assays of Gold, Silver, and other Minerals, are executed with accuracy and despatch.
Gentlemen, Farmers, or others, desirous of practical knowledge in Chemical Analysis or Assaying, may receive instruction at the College, where the extensive Laboratories give ample facility for pursuing their studies, and there is accommodation for a limited number of Resident Students.
Full particulars of terms will be forwarded on application.

Drainage, &c.

MR. JOSEPH BEAUMONT, Land Agent, Surveyor, and Drainage Engineer (for several years Assistant to Mr. Josiah Parkes), undertakes the Planning and Execution of Works of Drainage, and Estate Improvements generally; including Embankments, and River Works; Reclamation of Marshes and Waste Lands; Irrigation and Warping; the Erection of Farm Buildings, Labourers' Cottages, &c., either at the private cost of the Landowner, or through the medium of the various Land Improvement Acts.
Estates Surveyed and Mapped, or Inspected and Reported upon for contemplated Improvements. Valuations made for Sales, or the re-letting of Farms.
22, Parliament Street, Westminster, S.W.

THE LANDS IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.—Incorporated by Special Act of Parliament in 1853.
2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, S.W.
To Landowners, the Clergy, Estate Agents, Surveyors, &c. in England and Wales and in Scotland.
The Company advances money, unlimited in amount, for the following works of Agricultural Improvement, the whole outlay and expenses in all cases being liquidated by a rent charge for 25 years.

1. Drainage, Irrigation and Warping, Embanking, Inclosing, Clearing, Reclamation, Planting, for any beneficial purpose, Engines or Machinery for Drainage or Irrigation.
2. Farm Roads, Tramways and Railroads for agricultural or farming purposes.
3. Jetties or Landing places on the sea coast or on the banks of navigable rivers or lakes.
4. The erection of Farm Houses, Labourers' Cottages, and other Buildings required for Farm purposes, and the improvement of and additions to Farm Houses and other buildings for farm purposes.

Landowners assessed under the provisions of any Act of Parliament, Royal Charter, or Commission, in respect of any public or general works of drainage or other improvements, may borrow their proportionate share of the cost, and charge the same with the expenses on the lands improved.
No investigation of title is required, and the Company being of a strictly financial character do not interfere with the plans and execution of the Works, which are controlled only by the Government Enclosure Commissioners.
For further information, and for forms of application, apply to the Honourable William Napier, Managing Director, 2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, S.W.

LOANS.—THE BRITISH MUTUAL INVESTMENT, LOAN, and DISCOUNT COMPANY (Limited), is prepared to GRANT LOANS, in sums not exceeding 1000*l*., upon approved personal or other security, repayable by easy instalments, extending over any period not exceeding 10 years.
Forms of Proposal, Prospectuses, and every other information, may be obtained at the Offices of the Company, 17 and 18, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.
Charles James Thicke, Manager.
Joseph K. Jackson, Secretary.

HAMPTON LUCY GRAMMAR SCHOOL, WARWICK.—Head Master the Rev. George Henslow has VACANCIES for two or three BOARDERS. In addition to the usual Course of Classics, Mathematics, Divinity, &c., special instruction is given in Botany and the Principles of Agricultural Chemistry and Geology. Terms, 60 guineas. No extras. There are two Exhibitions at Oxford.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

In the House of Lords on Friday, Earl Russell presented a petition from heads of colleges, professors, fellows, and tutors of Oxford University, praying the removal of the present subscription required for academical degrees, and expressed his hope that a Bill would be introduced on the subject in a future session. The Earl of Derby, the Earl of Harrowby, and the Bishop of Oxford opposed the object of the petition; the Bishop of London and Earl Granville supported it. Several Bills were advanced a stage. On Monday, on the motion of the Earl of Shaftesbury, the petition presented on Friday by Earl Russell praying for the removal of academical subscription was ordered to be printed. Earl Grey gave notice that on Monday week he will call attention to the affairs of Poland On Tuesday the Statute Law Revision Bill was read a second time. The Sheep and Cattle (Scotland) Bill, the Public Works (Manufacturing Districts) Bill, and the Thames Embankment (South Side) Bill, passed through committee. On Thursday Lord Chelmsford moved for copies of the charges on which the two judges of the Supreme Court of the Ionian Islands were removed from office. The Duke of Newcastle protested against reopening the question, but after some remarks by the Earl of DERBY, Earl RUSSELL, and Earl GREY, the motion was agreed to in a modified form.

In the Commons on Friday Mr. CAIRD called attention to the supply of cotton, and moved for a Select Committee to inquire whether any further measures could be taken, within the legitimate functions of the Indian Government, for increasing the supply from that country. After a long discussion the motion was withdrawn. On Monday Mr. AYRTON moved that the purchase-money of the land at Kensington should be applied by the Commissioners of the Great Exhibition of 1851 towards discharging their liabilities, and that their property should be vested in the Crown, and the Commission cease. The motion was opposed by Mr. LOWE and Mr. BARING, and negatived on a division by 165 to 42. Lord NAAS called attention to the state of affairs in China, and condemned the policy of her Majesty's Government in that country. Mr. LAYARD and Lord PALMERSTON defended the policy of the Government, and after a long debate the subject dropped. Lord PALMERSTON moved a resolution for raising by way of terminable annuities a further sum of 650,000*l.* for the fortifications of the ports and dockyards. After a short discussion the resolution was agreed to. The Greenwich Hospital (Provision for Widows) Bill was read a second time. On Tuesday the House went into committee on the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, and passed the remaining clauses. Mr. B. COCHRANE moved that the large sums annually voted for public buildings and improvements in the metropolis are not expended in a satisfactory manner, and that the Office of Works should be re-constituted on a different basis. Mr. COWPER opposed the motion, which was negatived on a division by 116 to 24. Lord A. CHURCHILL obtained leave to bring in a Bill to amend the law relating to the recovery of Church-rates, by doing away with penalties for their non-payment. Sir F. KELLY moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the claims of His Highness AZEEM JAH to the title and dignity of Nawab of the Carnatic. The motion was seconded by Mr. SMOLLETT, who had scarcely commenced his speech when the House was counted out. On Wednesday Mr. PAULL moved the second reading of the Poisoned Grain Prohibition Bill, the object of which is to prevent the sale and indiscriminate use of poisoned wheat and other preparations for the destruction of small birds. Sir G. GREY said that the Bill went far beyond its professed object, and contained provisions which would require material amendment. After some discussion the Bill was read a second time, on the understanding that it should be committed pro formâ, and reprinted with the proposed amendments. Lord RAYNHAM withdrew the Casual Poor (Metropolis) Bill, and the Domestic Servants' and Apprentices' Protection Bill. Mr. LAIRD moved the second reading of the Anchors and Chain Cables Bill, the object of which is to provide by tests a more effectual security that the material of which anchors and cables for the merchant service are made should be of the best quality. Mr. M. GIBSON opposed the motion, which was carried on a division by 119 to 44. The Navy Prize Agents, &c., Bill passed through committee. On Thursday Lord PALMERSTON moved the second reading of the Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill. Mr. F. SMITH moved as an amendment that no further expenditure be incurred at present upon the fortifications of Portsmouth and Plymouth, except such works as are in an advanced state of progress. After a long debate the amendment was negatived on a division, by 132 to 61. The Bill was then read a second time. Lord PALMERSTON moved the second reading of the Augmentation of Benefices Bill. Mr. BARNES moved that the Bill be read a second time that day two months. On a division, the amendment was negatived by 179 to 29. The Bill was then read a second time. The report of the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, as amended was considered and agreed to.

Home News.

THE COURT.—The Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, and Princess Beatrice, left Windsor on Saturday morning for Osborne, where they still remain. Prince and Princess Leiningen arrived at Osborne on a visit to her Majesty. On Sunday morning the Queen and Princesses attended Divine service at Osborne. The Rev. G. Prothero officiated. On Monday morning the Queen walked in the grounds. In the afternoon the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa and Princess Leiningen, drove out in a carriage and four. On Tuesday the Queen walked and drove. Prince Leopold arrived at Osborne from Windsor. On Wednesday the Queen, accompanied by Prince and Princess Leiningen, drove out. The Duke of Somerset arrived from London, and had an audience of her Majesty. Miss Van de Weyer arrived at Osborne. On Thursday Lord W. Paulet, and Sir Michael Seymour, the military and naval [illegible] arrived at Osborne, and had an interview with her Majesty.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—On Saturday morning the Prince rode on horseback. The Princess visited the Horticultural Gardens. The Princess Mary of Cambridge visited the Prince and Princess. The Duke of Montpensier paid a visit to the Prince. In the afternoon the Prince went to Twickenham and dined with the Duke of Aumale, at Orleans House. The Princess took a drive in an open carriage. In the evening the Queen of Prussia visited the Princess. On Sunday morning the Prince and Princess attended Divine service in the Chapel Royal. The sermon was preached by the Rev. R. Harvey. In the evening the Queen of Prussia and a select party dined with their Royal Highnesses. On Monday morning the Prince and Princess accompanied the Queen of Prussia to the Bricklayers' Arms Station, and took leave of her Majesty on her departure for Germany. In the afternoon the Prince rode on horseback. The Princess took a drive in an open carriage. In the evening the Prince honoured the Royal Italian Opera with his presence. On Tuesday the Prince honoured Mr. Frith with a sitting for the picture he is painting of his Royal Highness's wedding. The Countess of Zetland had an interview with the Princess, and presented to her Royal Highness specimens of woollen manufactures, presents from the Islands of Shetland. The Duchess of Cambridge, the Princess Mary, and the Duke of Cambridge, visited their Royal Highnesses at Marlborough House. The Prince and Princess honoured the Duchess Dowager of Sutherland with their company at an afternoon party at Chiswick. On Wednesday morning the Prince went to the Hall of the Mercers' Company, in Cheapside, and received the freedom of the Company. The Prince and Princess afterwards took a carriage drive. On Wednesday the Duke and Duchess de Chartres paid a visit to the Prince and Princess. In the evening their Royal Highnesses left Marlborough House for Frogmore, travelling from Paddington by the Great Western Railway to Windsor.

THE QUEEN OF PRUSSIA took leave of Her Majesty on Friday and left Windsor for the residence of the Prussian Embassy in Carlton House Terrace. The Prince of Wales paid a visit to her Majesty at 5 o'clock. In the evening the Queen, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, honoured the performance of the Royal Italian Opera with her presence. On Saturday her Majesty paid a visit to the Duchess Dowager of Sutherland, at Chiswick, and in the evening attended the performance at the Lyceum Theatre. On Sunday morning the Queen attended the early service at Westminster Abbey, and subsequently attended Divine service at the German Chapel, St. James's. Her Majesty afterwards received at luncheon at Prussia House the Prince and Princess Edward of Saxe Weimar, Count Pahlen, and the Countesses Dowager of Jersey and Westmoreland. In the afternoon her Majesty visited the Zoological Gardens, and afterwards drove to Richmond. On Monday morning the Queen left the Prussian Embassy on her return to Berlin. The Prince and Princess of Wales visited her Majesty previously to her departure, and accompanied the Queen to the Bricklayers Arms Station of the South Eastern Railway. Her Majesty left the station about half past 11 for Tunbridge Wells to pay a visit to Queen Marie Amelie, accompanied by the Prince and Princess Edward of Saxe-Weimar, the Prussian Ambassador, and the members of the suite. The Queen left Tunbridge Wells at 2 o'clock for Ramsgate, where her Majesty embarked in the Vivid, Government steamer, for Ostend, on her way to the Hague and Brussels.

THE PEERAGE.—The Queen has directed a writ to be issued under the Great Seal summoning Edward Adolphus Ferdinand Seymour, Esq., commonly called Earl St. Maur, eldest son of the Duke of Somerset, to the House of Peers, by the title of Baron Seymour.

THE CABINET.—A Cabinet Council was held on Saturday at the official residence of the First Lord of the Treasury in Downing Street.

CONVOCATION.—On Saturday the Prolocutor presented to the Upper House the reports agreed to by the Lower House, with the resolution they had adopted on the subject of the proposed change in the burial service. The Archbishop of Canterbury said the Upper House were about that very day to invite the Lower House to consider this subject, and they gladly adopted this voluntary offer of co-operation. Convocation was then adjourned to the 18th August.

THE CHANNEL FLEET, under the command of Rear-Admiral Dacres, arrived at Spithead on Tuesday in two divisions, the wooden-screw ships Edgar, 71; Emerald, 35; and Liverpool, 39, under plain sail; and the iron-clads Black Prince, 40; Royal Oak, 35; Defence, 16; and Resistance, 16; under steam. The Warrior iron frigate joined them on Thursday, and the whole fleet was under orders to leave Spithead yesterday for the Downs and the North Sea.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—The Emperor left Fontainebleau on Tuesday for Vichy. On the previous day a Council of all the Ministers, presided over by the Emperor, was held at Fontainebleau. During the absence of the Emperor M. Billault will preside at the Council of Ministers. Prince and Princess Napoleon have arrived in Paris from Egypt. The rumour that the Emperor intends going to Cherbourg to hold a review of the fleet is without any foundation. The Moniteur of Sunday contains the following:—

"[illegible] have been [illegible] an occurrence which recently took place in the House of Commons. Messrs. Roebuck and Lindsay visited Fontainebleau to engage the Emperor to take official steps at London for the recognition of the Southern States. The Emperor expressed his desire to see peace re-established [illegible] but observed that, England having declined the proposal of mediation [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] His Majesty [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Emperor has not attempted, as certain [illegible] pretend, to influence the British Parliament [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Emperor saw no reason to refuse."

In consideration of their eminent services in Mexico, General Forey, the chief of the expeditionary corps, has been appointed a Marshal of France and General Bazaine will receive the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour. M. Vaillant and the Marquis Gricourt have been created Senators. A grand dinner was given on Wednesday at the Hotel of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs. Marshal O'Donnell and the Duke of Saldanha were present. General Oudinot, Duke of Reggio, eldest son of the Marshal of that name, has just died in Paris of apoplexy in his 70th year. A report to the Emperor by M. Rouher, the President of the Council of State, and the approval of its object by his Majesty, have been published. The report dwells upon the necessity of developing professional instruction, and recommends the establishment of a commission to discuss the most effectual means of attaining this result. La France says that it has every reason to hope that the answer of Russia to the Notes of the three Powers on the Polish question will be favourable, but it is not expected to arrive before eight days hence. The Nation asserts that if the proposal for a conference be accepted by Russia, M. Thouvenel will represent France, Earl Clarendon, England, and Baron Hubner, Austria. The Pays publishes an article, signed by the editorial secretary, urging the necessity of perfect concord between the three Powers in all the eventualities which may arise from the Polish question. The Opinion Nationale contains an article, signed by M. Gueroult, bitterly regretting the inaction of the great Powers, and saying that they are about to allow the opportunity of emancipating Poland to escape them. La France publishes an article, headed "Rome and Carthage," which concludes as follows:—

"France and England, the two great [illegible] have a magnificent destiny. They represent progress and liberty. Separated, they would be a struggle and a [illegible] in Europe; united, they would form a model, and their [illegible] would [illegible] them to [illegible] a [illegible] of the [illegible]."

SPAIN.—It is asserted that on the proposition of Senor Sierra the reform in the tariffs introduced by Senor Salaverria will be annulled.

PORTUGAL.—The Portuguese Court is about to repair to Mafra. The Bishop of Oporto has resigned his functions on account of a disagreement with the Government.

DENMARK.—The Danish Government has ordered an extraordinary levy of two years' service men, the whole of whom are ordered to be under arms on the 1st of August next.

FRANKFORT.—In the sitting of the Federal Diet on Thursday a debate took place on the Schleswig Holstein question, when a resolution in accordance with the propositions of the Committee on the question was adopted by a majority of 13 votes. A few votes were given in support of the motion of Oldenburg. The representatives of Denmark and the Netherlands alone voted entirely against the resolution. The Danish representative made a detailed statement in refutation of the resolution, and maintained the rights of the Danish Crown.

COBURG.—Baron Stockmar died at Coburg on Wednesday night.

PRUSSIA.—The King will leave Carlsbad on the 18th inst. for Gastein. It is rumoured that the Emperor of Austria will visit his Majesty at Carlsbad in a few days. A Royal decree, dated Carlsbad, the 23d ult., was published on Tuesday, treating of the prevention of collisions between vessels at sea. Its tenor corresponds with the regulations on the same subject in force in England and France. The issue of this decree is based upon Article 63 of the Constitution. It is accompanied by a proposal of the Ministry to the King, stating that the decree could not be submitted to the Prussian Diet on account of the closing of the session, and that in the interest of public safety it could not be postponed until next session.

RUSSIA.—Private letters from St. Petersburg, dated the 7th inst., received at Berlin, state that the Council of the Empire will be reinforced by the addition of the Marshals of the Nobility and the Burgomasters of St. Petersburg and Moscow. The Prussian Government has been informed by Russia that the reply to the Notes of the three Powers will, in its essential points, assent to their proposals, especially with reference to the assembly of a Congress. The wishes of Austria will be especially regarded, while those of England, which are of a more advanced character, will not be conceded. The Pays says that the intentions of Russia are conciliatory, and that in every interview the Russian Ministers have shown a desire to settle the Polish question in concurrence with the Powers. The Memorial Diplomatique says that the reply will be delayed for the result of the debates in Parliament on the 10th on Mr. Hennessy's motion, in order that Russia may shape her answer according to the attitude assumed by the British Cabinet. A great part of the summer residence of the Czar, the palace of Zarskoe-Zelo, has been burnt. The cause of the fire is unknown.

POLAND.—The National Government has published a proclamation to the following effect:—

"Nothing has been altered in the proceedings of the National Government since the programme put forth on the 22d of January last. We have never over-estimated the value of foreign diplomacy, nor have we entered into negotiations for an armistice. The National Government could only place itself under obligations to foreign Powers when it negotiated with them upon a footing of equality as the representative of a free nation."

The Czas points out the disadvantages that would ensue to the Polish cause by the adoption of an armistice. It also says that Poland will be compelled to continue the struggle for independence, and that the six points proposed in the Notes of the three Powers cannot be accepted by the country. The Marquis Wielopolski has given in his resignation, and has been ordered to go abroad. M. Wolowski has been exiled to the interior of Russia. The Bishop of Wilna, Monsignor Kramnski, having published a pastoral expressing sympathy with the insurrection, has been transported to Nijni-Novgorod, whence he will be sent to Wiatka. The official papers assert that the reports of the execution of Countess Plater and Fräulein Terlerzka at Wilna are not confirmed; but the Ost Deutsche Post of Vienna says that another sister of Count Plater, and the Countess Moll, aged 17 years, have been executed, and that a younger brother of Count Plater, the only member of the family still at large, is now in Vienna. On Thursday the Provincial Tribunal of Lemberg ordered the arrest of Prince Adam Sapieha, who is suspected of having supported the late expedition to Volhynia. The Prince was arrested in the house of the Agricultural Society in Lemberg. Domiciliary visits have been made on the Prince's estates near Przemysl. It is asserted that 32 of the most distinguished nobles in Lithuania have been starved to death in the citadel of Wilna, by order of General Mouravieff, whose prosecutions of ladies wearing mourning are increasing in Volhynia. Cruelties of a similar kind have been perpetrated on Polish prisoners in the Citadel of Warsaw, bodies, with the hands tied behind the back, having been seen floating in the Vistula. Four Italians captured simultaneously with other insurgents, and condemned to death by court-martial, have had their sentences commuted by the Grand Duke Constantine to transportation, and will be sent out of the country by the earliest opportunity. The treasurer of the General Post Office at Warsaw has absconded with 48,000 roubles, leaving behind him a declaration stating that he had given up the Treasury by order of the National Government. A Russian patrol is said to have taken from a traveller, near Radomsk, a large portion of the bonds and imperials. Trains have ceased running upon the Warsaw-Petersburg Railway in pursuance of the recent decree of the National Government. Horodinski's detachment has been defeated in Radziwilow. Horodinski himself was killed in the market place. Radziwilow has been deserted by the officials, who fled to Brody. The Russians pillaged the town after their departure. The number of wounded insurgents taken to Brody after the recent battle was so large that many of them had to be removed to Zloczow. The insurgent leader Miniewski has had a successful engagement with the Russians at Beresteczki in the government of Volhynia. Chmielinski has annihilated a company of Russian troops near Olkusz. A fresh detachment of cavalry, under the command of Count Mycielski, has appeared in the palatinate of Cracow. The National Government has organised six detachments of infantry and one of cavalry to operate in each palatinate. A detachment of 500 insurgents engaged the Russians on the 1st inst. at Kleczew, near Orzyee. Count Mycielski defeated a Cossack detachment on the 4th. Omilinski has cut to pieces a company of Russian troops. M. de Rochebrun, the French commander of a band of insurgents, appeared on the 28th ult., with 600 well-armed men, on the Russian side of the Pruth, opposite Lepezan. Pysocki is advancing into the interior of Volhynia, in the direction of Kremience, in which province the insurgents have occupied Beresteczek, Sestratyn, and Cybachow. Seven Russian officers and 70 men were killed in the battle that took place at Draginia, in Lithuania. The insurgents gained a victory on the 27th ult. at Medelow. The town of Warta, near Kalisz, has been bombarded and plundered by the Russians. The insurgents, in conjunction with the peasants, have obtained an important success at Drazewo, in the palatinate of Plock. Numerous detachments of Polish cavalry are hovering about the environs of Olkusz. Another body of Galician insurgents, numbering 500, crossed over into Poland on the 5th inst. Engagements between the Russian troops and the insurgents took place from the 5th to the 8th in the palatinate of Cracow. The Russians have plundered the environs of Miechow. A fresh detachment of insurgents has made its appearance at Lubelski, under the command of Wierzbicki. Two encounters took place on the 2d inst. near Konin, and the Russians were driven over into Prussian territory. They were reconducted to the frontier with military honours by the Prussian authorities, keeping their arms. Two small detachments of Russian troops have been forced to take refuge upon Prussian territory, near Podwicz and Slupce. The Russians are endeavouring to organise a militia from the peasantry, who, however, oppose the project.

ITALY.—The Ministry having made the acceptance by the Chamber of the principle of raising a revenue of 30,000,000 fr. by an income tax a Cabinet question, the Ministerial proposition was agreed to by a vote of 141 to 86. The Italia of Saturday asserts that three brigand chiefs recently arrested by French gendarmes in Rome, will be transported to France.

SICILY.—The recruiting in Sicily has been attended with very satisfactory results. This measure, which could never have been realised under a Bourbon Government, is now considered as completely successful.

IONIAN ISLANDS.—A circular despatch addressed by Earl Russell to the four Great Powers, Austria, France, Prussia, and Russia, was published on Wednesday. It sets forth the terms on which the question of the proposed annexation is to be determined. Earl Russell declares in this document "her Majesty's readiness to consent to the union of the Islands with Greece, if the Ionians should themselves desire that union." He then points out that those islands are "not a part of the possessions of the British Crown," but a free State, which, with the consent of the Great Powers, must now exercise its own will in determining its political future. He then proceeds historically to trace the manner in which the present relations of the Ionian Islands with Great Britain arose, and while believing that "the wish for annexation with Greece has been often laid hold of as a pretext for factious opposition," assumes that that must nevertheless be regarded, "however irregularly expressed," as the course which the Ionians would prefer. "If those wishes," his lordship concludes, "deliberately expressed, should be in favour of a union with Greece," the British Government would then propose that the Great Powers should meet in a conference, to take into consideration the wishes of the Ionian people. The Ionian Parliament, which has hitherto been sitting, is not yet dissolved, and the question of the annexation will be submitted to its successor.

GREECE.—A mutiny broke out on the 2d inst. in the garrison of Athens, and in parts of the provinces. A portion of the army, however, with the National Guard, remained faithful to the Government. The Bank of Athens was attacked by the insurgents, and 50 persons were killed and wounded, a son of M. Canaris being among the former. The Bank was subsequently occupied by a detachment of 90 marines from the French, English, and Russian ships in the harbour. The English, French, and Russian Ambassadors have succeeded in obtaining an armistice for two days between the insurgents and the troops of the Government in Athens, and have addressed identical Notes to the National Assembly, declaring that they will quit Athens if it does not re-establish order in the country. A portion of the English fleet has been summoned from Malta. A new Ministry has now been formed, consisting of MM. Rufo, Calligas, Kihagia, Climeka, Mauramikalis, and Nikopulo; and the two leaders of the revolt have made their submission to the Assembly. The National Assembly has since obtained the simultaneous removal of the troops of the two parties from Athens, and the city is again restored to tranquillity.

THE CAUCASUS.—The insurrection which has broken out in Daghestan is rapidly spreading through Georgia and is now in full vigour between Tiflis, Karatakh, and the Lesghian provinces. What renders the movement serious is that the Tartars, who until now were favourable to Russia, take part in the insurrection. The Circassians have taken Zakatal, a fortified village, where Generals Citianeff and Cholukoff with 920 soldiers were killed. The road to Moukha has been completely blocked up, and the whole country between Tiflis and that place is threatened by the insurgents.

EGYPT.—Letters from Alexandria state that Sir Henry Bulwer has presented the Viceroy of Egypt, in the name of her Majesty, with the insignia of the Order of the Bath.

INDIA.—By news from Cabool to May 13th, it appears that Dost Mahomed had sent a messenger to Shah Nawaz Khan, the present ruler of Herat, asking him if he would ratify the terms agreed upon by the late Sultan Ahmed Jan. The reply was that he had written to the King of Persia on his father's death, and, on the receipt of an answer from the Shah, would communicate his intentions to the Ameer. The Prince of Meshed was on his way to Herat, having left his troops at Ghorian, to condole with Shah Nawaz Khan on his father's death. Sir R. Montgomery's interview with the Maharajah of Cashmere is said to have led to important results, which will tend to the commercial prosperity of the Punjaub and Cashmere. The King of Burmah is reported to have been murdered.

MADAGASCAR.—The official report of the French Consul at Tamatave, dated May 16, states that the cause of the recent revolution in Madagascar was the rivalry between the nobles and the Court. The young men who at the accession of King Radama took power and monopolised all favours suggested measures disapproved by the people. They were accused of injustice, of being open to corruption, and immorality. Under their influence the King published a law authorising duels and even combats of tribe against tribe and village against village, without any other formality than the consent of the two parties; thus proclaiming civil war and furnishing a pretext for hostilities. The officers and principal inhabitants begged the King to recall this law; but he refused, and the preparations for the conflict then began. The French Consul assembled all his fellow-countrymen, and the English Consul wished the missionaries to take a similar course, but they did not respond to his invitation. The King having again refused to revoke the law, the people, slaves, and soldiers assembled in the public places to search for the 33 persons belonging to the Court who had been proscribed by the conspirators. Eleven were killed, while negotiations were entered into with the King, who asked mercy for those remaining, promising that they should be exiled for life. This was refused by the conspirators, who demanded that the guilty should undergo perpetual imprisonment in chains. The King would not at first comply with this demand, but after much parleying, ended by accepting it. On the following day the King was assassinated, and the Council proclaimed Queen Rabodo, announcing that the King, disconsolate at the loss of his friends, had committed suicide. The Queen accepted the Constitution, which stipulates among other things that she shall not drink strong liquors, and that the right over life and death belongs to the Council. It also abolishes the Tanguin, and maintains religious liberty. The Prime Minister informed the French Consul that he had sent orders to the Governors on the coast to protect the whites.

CHINA.—Advices from China to the 26th of May state that a complete understanding existed between the Chinese Government and the representatives of England and France. The insurgents had not recommenced hostilities. Tranquillity prevailed in Cochin China.

JAPAN.—News has been received from Japan stating that the Government had given reason to hope that it would give the satisfaction which the English Admiral had been ordered to obtain by force.

UNITED STATES.—General Lee, by bold and rapid movements, has transferred the war from Virginia, north-eastward from the Rappahannock to the Potomac, and even to the Susquehannah, and has successfully achieved the most difficult and dangerous operation in war—a flank movement in presence of the enemy. Without any considerable loss he has succeeded in making a circuit around the right flank of the Union army and getting in the rear of Washington while Hooker is still in front of that city, and unable to avoid a battle in any position in which General Lee chooses. The Confederate force is said to consist of Ewell's corps, of 35,000 men; Longstreet's corps, of 42,000 men; Hill's corps, of 28,000 men; General Stuart's cavalry, 18,000 strong; Jenkin's cavalry, 3000 strong; with a pontoon train and an artillery said to be in superb condition and very numerous. Among the troops are 30,000 of his own old soldiers which he had sent to Chattanooga some weeks ago, 20,000 others from General Bragg's army, and 10,000 sent by General Beauregard from Charleston, his total force being about 150,000 men. So imminent is the peril supposed to menace Baltimore that the most urgent appeals have been made to the people by the Government, the mayor of the city, the councils of the military authorities, and the newspapers, to turn out to work on the intrenchments which are hastily raising for the defence of the city, and to enlist in the various military organisations. Earthworks have already been erected around the west and north sides of the city, and barricades in the streets, but the people generally seem indifferent to the crisis. In Pennsylvania the universal apathy to the invasion is the subject of much comment. The New York papers say that the inhabitants seem to have lost all spirit, and either retreat rapidly at the approach of the Confederates or exhibit a strange apathy. Even the troops sent by New York and New Jersey were not received with cordiality or enthusiasm, though all classes attempted to profit pecuniarily by their presence. The Governor of New Jersey has already recalled the troops of that State, in consequence of a dispute between himself and the Governor of Pennsylvania, and the fact that the Jersey troops were abused as Copperheads. The Federals have evacuated Carlisle, and fallen back to Harrisburg. It is reported that the 71st Regiment of New York, one of the force comprising General Knipe's command, was captured previous to Carlisle falling into the hands of the Confederates. The Confederate General Jones, with cavalry and artillery, after a severe skirmish, has driven the Federals under Milroy out of M'Connellsburg, and occupied that place. General Milroy has since been dismissed from his command, and some of the journals urge that he should be tried by court-martial for running away from Winchester. His defeat at that place was so disastrous that he abandoned 3 batteries of field artillery, siege guns, 28 waggons, and 1200 horses; 5000 of his troops are missing, but they continue to come in from different parts of the country. General Banks assaulted Port Hudson at daylight of the 14th, and at 11 o'clock on the same morning retreated to his entrenchments, having been disastrously repulsed at all points with the loss of 700 to 1000 men. It was supposed that another assault would be made on the 19th ult., Colonel Dudley having volunteered to lead a storming column of 4000 picked men. The Confederates were reported to be concentrating in General Banks' rear, to prevent his retreat to Baton Rouge. Intelligence from Vicksburg to the 23d ult. announces that preparations are making for another assault upon that place. General Johnstone telegraphed to President Jefferson Davis on the 22d ult. that Kirby Smith had got possession of Miliken's Bend, above the city. The Confederates, under Generals Roddy, Ruggles, Chambers, and Biffles, were threatening General Grant's rear. The Confederates estimate their loss during General Grant's different attacks on Vicksburg at 6000 men, and the Federal losses at 40,000. They think that Grant's present force, with the reinforcements which he has received, does not exceed 60,000 men. No fears are expressed of a want of provisions at Vicksburg. Admiral Foote died in New York on the 25th ult. He was appointed to the command of the South Atlantic squadron only a few days before he was attacked with the fatal illness, which was caused it is said by overwork. The negro troops, under Colonel Montgomery, pillaged and burned the town of Darion, Georgia, on the 11th ult. Turpentine was poured upon the floors of the churches and other buildings, and they were then set on fire. Cattle were shot in the streets and left there. All the negroes were forced to go with the Federals at the point of the bayonet, and a negress who attempted to run from them was shot through the head and then carried on board their boats. The officers in command of the negroes are from the States of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. On the 17th ult. the Confederate iron-clad Atlanta (formerly the Fingal) was captured by the Federal monitors Weehawken and Petapsco, after an action of thirty minutes. Eighteen of her officers and 120 of her crew have arrived at Fortress Monroe. Five shots only were fired on either side, and it is supposed that one of them, penetrating the armour of the Fingal, damaged her machinery and rendered her unmanageable. The Confederate iron-clad Chattahoochee has been destroyed in the Apalachicola River, by the explosion of her boilers while getting up her steam, with the design of making a raid upon the Federal fleet. Many of her officers and crew were killed or scalded. The vessel sank, but her guns have been recovered and mounted on shore. Several vessels while attempting to run the blockade of the South Carolina coast have been sunk by the Federal cruisers. It is asserted that the officers of the blockading squadron at Charleston have announced their intention hereafter to sink all blockade runners, instead of capturing them. The frauds committed in the Prize Courts, whereby the captors are deprived of their prize money, are reported to be one cause of this determination. The blockade running steamer Calypso was captured off Fryingpan Shoals, on the 11th ult., by the Federal steamer Florida. The ship Isaac Webb, from Liverpool, was captured by the privateer Tacony, on the 20th ult., but released upon giving bonds to the amount of 40,000 dollars. The privateer Tacony has burned six schooners and three sloops off Nantucket. Three privateers—a steamer, a bark, and a schooner—are committing depredations at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy. Forty vessels are reported to have been destroyed by a Confederate steamer off Cape Sable. It is reported that Capt. Semmes has transferred his command from the Alabama to the Georgia. Mr. Vallandigham has run the blockade from Wilmington, on his way to Nassau, whence he will proceed either to New York or to Canada.

CANADA.—The returns of the election for members of the Canadian Parliament up to the 23d June, show that 41 Ministerial candidates have been chosen, against 45 Opposition and 13 Independent.

Parliament.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

FRIDAY.—Academical Subscription.—Earl RUSSELL presented a petition from certain heads of colleges, professors, fellows, and tutors of the University of Oxford, praying for the removal of the subscription at present required for academical degrees. He thought there was danger in multiplying declarations now unnecessary, and that the Universities should throw their doors open to all, without requiring from them a declaration of assent to the Thirty-nine Articles. A more general and liberal character would thereby be given to the university, and their lordships would favour that liberty of conscience which this country above all others ought always to be desirous of promoting. He hoped in another session that a Bill would be introduced on the subject.—The Earl of DERBY complained that the petition had been got up surreptitiously, had not been laid on the table in any of the common rooms, or submitted to the hebdomadal council, and did not fairly represent the opinion of the university. He should very much regret to see the request of the petitioners complied with, as he feared it would only be the first step towards a similar interference with clerical subscriptions.—Earl GRANVILLE denied that the petition had been got up in the manner described, and asserted that it had been laid upon the common tables of the university.—The Earl of HARROWBY strongly objected to any relaxation of the subscription, which would have the effect of introducing into the university, as teachers, persons who did not belong to the Established Church. —The Bishop of LONDON was of opinion that the declaration might with safety be relaxed. He rejoiced that the subscription formerly required from undergraduates had been abolished, and expressed his regret that any shred or tatter of the same system should still be retained by the authority of the university.—After a few words from Lord BROUGHAM and the LORD CHANCELLOR, the Bishop of OXFORD said that the only object of the subscription was to insure that the governing body of the university should be members of the Established Church. For his part he thought no grievance existed, and that therefore it was unnecessary to legislate upon the subject.—The Mutiny (East India) Act Repeal Bill, the Public Works Manufacturing Districts Bill, and the Thames Embankment (South Side) Bill were read a second time. The Innkeepers' Liability Bill, the Postmaster General's (Sale of Land) Bill, and the Local Government Supplemental Bill, were read a third time and passed.

MONDAY.—Academical Subscription.—The Earl of SHAFTESBURY, in the absence of the Bishop of Oxford, moved that the petition from certain heads of colleges, professors, fellows, and tutors of the University of Oxford for removing the present subscription required for academical degrees be printed.—The Earl of DERBY corrected a mistake into which he fell unconsciously on Friday night in regard to the signatures of this petition.—After a few remarks from Earl GRANVILLE the motion was agreed to.—Lord PORTMAN expressed a hope that in the scheme about to be brought forward by the Government for fortifications something would be done for the better protection of the Bristol Channel.—Earl DE GREY stated that sites for the erection of forts had already been purchased in the Bristol Channel.—Earl GREY gave notice that on Monday week he should call attention to the Affairs of Poland. Several Bills were advanced a stage.

TUESDAY.—The LORD CHANCELLOR, in moving the second reading of the Statute Law Revision Bill, said he must ask the House to take it upon trust, placing reliance on the industry, skill, and fidelity of those by whom it had been prepared.—Lord ST. LEONARDS concurred in thinking that their lordships were called upon to show confidence in those who had framed the Bill. He objected to codification, but approved the preparation of a revised and expurgated edition of the statutes. —Lords BROUGHAM, CRANWORTH, and CHELMSFORD expressed their opinion that the House could do no more than give a general supervision to a measure of such magnitude. The Bill was then read a second time. On the motion for going into committee on the Public Works (Manufacturing Districts) Bill, the Earl of DERBY expressed his approval of the measure as founded upon a right principle and calculated to afford considerable relief. There had already been a great diminution in the number of persons receiving relief, and during the past year, exclusive of 150,000*l.* distributed in food and clothing, the total money subscription amounted to 1,900,000*l.* The sum at present in hand was 600,000*l.*, and 53,000*l.* a month was expended in relief, in addition to the assistance derived from the Poor-law.—After a few words from Earl GRANVILLE, the Bill passed through committee. The Port Erin Harbour (Isle of Man) Bill, the Militia Ballots Suspension Bill, and other Bills, were read a second time. The Thames Embankment (South Side) Bill, and the Passengers' Act Amendment Bill passed through committee. The Oaths Relief in Criminal Proceedings (Scotland) Bill, and the Mutiny (East India) Act Repeal Bill were read a third time and passed.

THURSDAY.—The Colonial Letters Patent Bill, the Poor-law Board Continuance Bill, and the Loan Societies Bill were read a second time. The Telegraphs Bill, and the Passengers' Act Amendment Bill were read a third time and passed. The Statute Law Revision Bill, the Militia Ballot Suspension Bill, and the Walmer Vesting Bill passed through committee. The Ionian Judges.—Lord CHELMSFORD moved for copies and papers containing charges of conduct inconsistent with the judicial office against Sir George Marcoran and Sir Anastasio Xidian, judges of the Supreme Court of the Ionian Islands, who, he contended, had been removed in a most arbitrary and unconstitutional manner.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE protested against re-opening the question, and said that after impartially considering the appeal of those gentlemen, he felt that he had no alternative but to confirm the decision of Sir Henry Storks, who had acted properly in removing them. He entreated their lordships to have confidence in Sir H. Storks, and warned them that it would be fatal to the authority of public officers if appeals to private friendships were to be allowed to prevail over public interests. Believing that the production of these papers would be injurious to the public service, he threw the responsibility of ordering them upon the House, with the assurance that they would do no good to the cause of the two ex-judges.—The Earl of DERBY said that the course pursued by the Colonial Secretary was most extraordinary. Both the noble duke and Sir H. Storks had been made the dupes of parties who had interested motives to serve, and he insisted that on the commonest principles of justice the dismissed judges ought to be informed of the charges that had been brought against them, and of the names of their accusers.—Earl RUSSELL defended Sir H. Storks, who, he said, was the real object of attack, and contended that he had only exercised his legal powers, and in so doing his high character ought to entitle him to confidence. After some remarks by Earl GREY and Earl GRANVILLE, the motion in a modified form was agreed to.

FRIDAY.—Poland.—Earl RUSSELL stated that he had just learned by a telegraphic despatch that the reply of the Russian Government to the despatch of the three Powers would not be sent off until the 14th or 15th, and consequently could not reach her Majesty's Government until it was too late for him to make the statement he had promised. He would therefore on Monday evening enter into an explanation of the state of negotiations with Poland, and in the meantime would lay upon the table a copy of the despatch containing the six points. Japan.—The Earl of CARNARVON called attention to the state of our relations with Japan.

[Left sitting.]

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

FRIDAY.—On the order for going into committee of supply, Mr. CAIRD called attention to the Supply of Cotton, and moved for a select committee to inquire whether any further measures could be taken within the legitimate functions of the Indian Government for increasing the Supply from that country. He said that, no matter what might be the result of the war now raging in America, it would be unreasonable to expect from the Southern States anything like the supply of cotton which we were formerly in the habit of obtaining from that part of the world. In India, on the contrary, the field of production was unlimited. The motion was seconded by Mr. BAZLEY, who urged the importance of encouraging the growth of cotton in the West Indian Islands.—Mr. SMOLLETT said that no good purpose could result from the appointment of a committee at this period of the session.—Mr. COBDEN said that two measures had been recommended for encouraging cotton cultivation, the settlement of the land upon a perpetual tenure, and the sale of waste land; but he owned he did not share in the sanguine hope which some people formed with regard to the effect of these measures. He thought, however, that an alteration in the system of collection might be introduced with advantage. He also observed that at the foot of the Rocky Mountains, in the western valley of the Mississippi, there was an exhaustless field for the production of cotton with a soil and climate admirably adapted to the plant, and which only required the investment of English skill, capital, and enterprise for its full development.—After a few words from Mr. PENDER, Sir CHARLES WOOD said that the cultivation of cotton had already been tried in India, and after an experience of five years had proved a failure. Although in some instances the cultivation was successful, yet, upon the whole, it was found impossible that cotton grown in India could compete with that grown in more favourable localities. At the same time there was no indisposition on the part of the Government to assist private individuals in the cultivation of cotton in India.—Mr. CRAWFORD concurred in the course which had been pursued by the Government.—Mr. BRIGHT complained of the flippant and offensive manner in which the Minister of India had treated the representations made by the deputations which had waited upon him. He did not believe that any material increase in the production of cotton could take place in India, or that the difficulties which now existed could be got rid of by any legislative miracle. After some remarks from Mr. T. G. BARING, Mr. J. B. SMITH, and Mr. H. SEYMOUR, Mr. FERRAND said that the Manchester party, after having clamoured so long for free trade, were now whining for protection for their own particular industry. The motion was then withdrawn.—Mr. BUTT asked the Under Secretary for War whether, on the return of Colonel Crawley to this country, it was intended to prefer the charges against him before a court-martial, or before the Court of Queen's Bench.—The Marquis of HARTINGTON replied that as the alleged offence was a military one, the trial would be by court-martial.—A short discussion ensued, in which some warm expressions were exchanged between Mr. OSBORNE and Mr. CONINGHAM, and Sir G. GREY deprecated the use of such language as discreditable to the House of Commons. The Militia Ballot Suspension Bill was read a third time and passed.—On the motion of Mr. SCHOLEFIELD, the House went into Committee on the Partnership Law Amendment Bill, but Mr. CRUM EWING moved that the Chairman should report progress. On a division, the motion was carried by 32 to 19. The other orders of the day were then disposed of.

MONDAY.—The Ludgate Viaduct.—Alderman SIDNEY moved that the Corporation of the City of London should be allowed to be heard before the committee on the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway (No. 1) Bill, in order that they might procure the insertion in the measure of a clause to prohibit the company from carrying a viaduct across Ludgate Hill. After some discussion the motion was negatived without a division.—In reply to Mr. HADFIELD, Sir GEORGE GREY said the Government had under their consideration a project for altering the Circuits, and were in communication with the judges on the subject, but that nothing could be done to affect the coming assizes.—In answer to Mr. S. FITZGERALD, the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said that the proposition to guarantee 4000*l.* a year to the new King of Greece would have to be brought before Parliament, and be made the subject of diplomatic arrangement. Under these circumstances the matter could not be submitted during the present session.—Mr. LAYARD stated, in answer to Mr. Fitzgerald, that Mr. Seward had written to Lord Lyons to state that the commander of the Federal vessel of war which lately destroyed the Margaret and Jessie denied that he had fired upon the ship within British waters. Mr. Seward, however, added that he would cause inquiry to be made, and that if it should prove that the vessel had been destroyed within the prescribed distance, the Federal Government would disavow the act and make ample compensation to the owners. Poland.—In answer to Mr. WARNER, Lord PALMERSTON said that we had not entered into arrangements with any foreign Power which would commit us to a war on behalf of Poland, and were perfectly free to act as events might require. The Great Exhibition Commission.—On the motion for going into committee of supply, Mr. AYRTON moved "That in the opinion of this House the purchase money of the land at Kensington should be applied by the Commissioners of the Great Exhibition of 1851 towards discharging the liabilities of the commission, and that the commission should be determined, and the property now held by the commission be vested in the Crown, subject to any interests now existing therein, and to any charges thereon. He traced the history of the Royal Commission of 1851, and contended that the Commissioners had departed from the principles which should have guided their conduct as trustees of a public fund, and that the best thing to do would be to get rid of them altogether. He claimed the whole of the property at South Kensington—the land, the Horticultural Gardens, the conservatories, promenades, &c. (which he observed were painfully suggestive of Kensal Green Cemetery)—as the property of the public, and he held that the House of Commons, in its capacity of guardian of the public interests, had a right to deal with it.—Mr. LOWE defended the Commissioners, and said that, starting 10 years since with 180,000*l.*, the surplus of the Exhibition of 1851, they had sold land to the Government for the South Kensington Museum for [illegible], which was now worth 150,000*l.*; that they had lately sold a further quantity for 120,000*l.*, which was worth 260,000*l.*; and that, after allowing for all incumbrances, their surplus property was worth 300,000*l.* The Commissioners were men of the highest honour and respectability, and there was no ground for the inaccuracies and misrepresentations which Mr. Ayrton had stated in reference to them.—Mr. H. SEYMOUR supported the motion, and contended that there was no ground whatever for keeping up the commission.—Mr. T. BARING said the Royal Commissioners were always ready to devote their funds to the purposes of science and art, but that the House of Commons had determined that the money should be held over for the present. On a division the motion was negatived by 165 to 42.—Lord NAAS called the attention of the House to the state of Affairs in China. He complained that for many years past the policy of England towards China had been to bring the Imperial Government into contempt, and that our interference with the internal affairs of the country, and our consistent endeavour to force the opium trade, were combining to give us an influence in China which must eventually prove fatal to the independent existence of the empire. In a political, financial, and military point of view the influence of England was paramount, and the Hon. Frederick Bruce was to all intents and purposes Prime Minister of China. The influence of England was thrown into the scale against the Taepings, who nevertheless were in possession of the finest tea and silk producing districts in the Empire. This was an unhealthy state of things which could not endure. We had tried it in India and it had failed, and he feared that if it were pursued much longer in China its effect would be to destroy the very dynasty which we were endeavouring to prop up, to complicate our relations with Russia and France, and weaken the legitimate authority of the Chinese Government with its own subjects.—Sir H. Verney expressed his approval of the policy of the Government in China.—Mr. Layard said that the position of affairs in China could not excite much interest in this country, as the noble lord had for nearly three hours addressed a House consisting of little more than 20 members. The general policy of the Government towards China was wise and just. The difficulties in the way of maintaining our relations with that empire were very great, but we had adopted a policy at once firm and conciliatory. Mr. Bruce had consistently endeavoured to enforce upon the people that we regarded them not as barbarians, but as a civilised nation, and that treaties made in good faith must be respected by the contracting parties. Under this policy we had obtained great concessions. He denied that we were at war with China; on the contrary, all our efforts were to preserve peace, and at no previous period of our relations with that country was war less probable than at the present moment.—Mr. S. Fitzgerald said that formerly her Majesty's Government had pursued a policy of neutrality in China, but of late years it had been changed in favour of active interference in the civil war.—Lord Palmerston said he could not find any ground for the censure which Lord Naas had passed upon the policy of the Government. That policy was founded in good faith, and was calculated to be of great advantage to this country. Our relations with China were of the most friendly character, and trade had of late years enormously increased. If we withdrew altogether from China, we should leave that empire to fall under the influence of Russia or France; and he felt convinced it would be much wiser on our part to continue to co-operate, as at present, with those Powers, for the establishment of peace and order throughout the Chinese territory.—Mr. Liddell condemned our policy of interference in the internal affairs of the empire, and argued that the effect was to weaken the authority of the Imperial Government. After some remarks by Colonel Sykes, Mr. Gregson, and Mr. Whiteside, the subject dropped. The House then went into committee of supply, pro formâ. In Committee on Fortifications and Works, Lord Palmerston moved a resolution that, towards providing a further sum for defraying the expenses of the construction of works for the defence of the royal dockyards and arsenals, and of the ports of Dover and Portland, and for the creation of a central arsenal, a sum not exceeding 650,000*l.* be charged upon the Consolidated Fund, and that the Treasury be authorised to raise the said sum by annuities for a term not exceeding 30 years, and that such annuities shall be charged upon, and be payable out of the Consolidated Fund. The works which it was proposed to carry out were those already sanctioned by Parliament, and the sum now asked, with the balance in hand, would suffice until July, 1864, when a further application to Parliament would be necessary.—Sir F. Smith thought that the experience of the war in America had not proved the superiority of forts as against iron-clads, and said that he should divide the House against any further expenditure at Spithead.—Mr. Osborne called upon the House to be consistent, and not to rescind the vote which it had passed last year. After some discussion, in which Sir S. M. Peto, Alderman Salomons, Sir J. Fergusson, the Marquis of Hartington, Sir J. Hay, Mr Locke, and Mr. Newdegate took part, the resolution was agreed to, and reported to the House. On the order for the second reading of the Greenwich Hospital (Provision for Widows) Bill, a discussion took place, in which Mr. Adam, Sir J. Hay, Mr. Liddell, and Lord C. Paget took part. The Bill was read a second time. Other Bills were forwarded a stage.

Tuesday.—The report on Fortifications and Works was brought up and agreed to. The House then went into committee on the Salmon Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, and passed the remaining clauses. Office of Works.—Mr. B. Cochrane moved that the large sums annually voted for public buildings and improvements in the metropolis are not expended in a satisfactory manner, and that, with a view to the efficiency of the Office of Works, it should be constituted on a different basis. He enumerated several instances of mismanagement in the department of Works, involving delays and augmented expenditure. In particular he mentioned that Burlington House, purchased 10 years since, had been taken possession of by one or two learned societies, whilst the grounds attached to it were appropriated to the use of Volunteers. A sum of nearly 30,000*l.* had been voted by Parliament for a memorial to the late Duke of Wellington in St. Paul's Cathedral, but no work of the sort had yet been executed, and nothing more had been heard on the subject. The land in Carlton Gardens lately occupied by the "Rode" had been sold at the rate of 30,000*l.* per acre only, or about one-third of its value. He also referred to Buckingham Palace, the National Gallery, and the condition of the Serpentine. The state of things of which he complained arose out of the fact that the same chief commissioner was not in office for more than two years on an average, and that every new commissioner seemed to consider it his mission to undo the work of his predecessor. He thought that a permanent commissioner with an able board would be advisable; and he proposed that the Government should have the opportunity during the recess of considering how the department might be improved.—Mr Cowper repudiated all responsibility so far as the instances referred to by Mr. Cochrane were concerned, with the single exception of the Serpentine, which, if it were filled with weeds, could not be helped. With regard to Carlton Gardens, they belonged to the Commissioners of Land Revenue, who alone were responsible for the sale. All the public works in the metropolis conducted by the Office of Works had been carried on with success, and there was no office under the Crown which performed its duties with greater care, accuracy, and efficiency. The House of Commons would make a great mistake if it altered the constitution of the department, and put it in a subordinate position with no one in Parliament to represent it. On a division the motion was negatived by 116 to 24.—Lord A. Churchill obtained leave to bring in a Bill to amend the law relating to the recovery of Church Rates.—Sir F. Kelly moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the claims of his Highness Azeem Jah to the title and dignity of Nawab of the Carnatic, and otherwise in respect of the treaty entered into between his highness's father, Azeem ul Dowlah and the East India Company in 1801, and the circumstances attending the same.—The motion was seconded by Mr Smollett, who was speaking in support of it when the House was counted out.

Wednesday.—Mr Paull moved the second reading of the Poisoned Grain, &c., Prohibition Bill. He showed the injurious consequences of the wholesale destruction of small birds in foreign countries, in the enormous increase of insect life and the ruin of crops; and he read communications to prove that this indiscriminate slaughter was going on at an alarming rate in this country by the use of poisoned grain, which destroyed not only rooks and crows, but pigeons and poultry, and even pigs and dogs. It was not his intention to interfere with the game laws or with the legitimate objects of agriculture in the employment of dressings or the steeping of seed corn, and he explained some modifications of the Bill which he intended to propose in committee.—The motion was seconded by Mr C. Forster, and supported by Sir H. Stracey and Viscount Galway.—Mr. Caird said that the Bill went too far, and Mr. Henley considered that the measure would be impracticable. —Sir G. Grey said that he would support the second reading on condition that the Bill should be confined to the use, and not the sale, of those poisoned preparations. On this understanding the Bill was read a second time, committed pro formâ, and ordered to be reprinted.—Viscount Raynham moved the second reading of the Casual Poor (Metropolis) Bill, which was intended to provide greater facilities for the accommodation in workhouses for casual poor by means of a more general system of rating, and providing for their reception.—Mr. Gilpin opposed the measure on the ground that it would entail a heavy expense without providing necessary supervision, and be a step towards the equalisation of the system of rating in the metropolis. The Poor Law Board, however, were giving their attention to the subject with the view of seeing whether a practical remedy could not be applied.—After some further discussion, in which Sir S. Northcote and Mr. Knight took part, the order for the second reading was discharged, and the Bill was withdrawn.—Lord Raynham's Domestic Servants and Apprentices Protection Bill was also withdrawn. On Sir G. Grey moving that the second reading be deferred for three months, Mr. Laird moved the second reading of the Anchors and Chain Cables Bill, the object of which was to establish testing machines with the sanction of the Board of Trade. He said that 82 per cent. of the chain cables tested at Liverpool had been found defective, and that the measure he proposed was rendered necessary for the security alike of life and property.—Mr. Cave seconded the motion.—Mr. Lindsay moved as an amendment that the Bill be read a second time that day three months. As a shipowner, it was his interest to have cables and anchors tested, but small owners would be very much inconvenienced by the imposition of such a condition.—Mr. Horsfall supported the Bill. —Mr. M. Gibson was not opposed to the principles of the Bill, but could not see his way to providing the means of carrying it out without an additional cost to the shipping interest. The expense of sending heavy chains and cables to the testing-house would in many cases exceed their value, and this was an interference with the rights of property, to which he could not assent. The tendency would also be to throw the manufacture of chains and anchors into certain hands, to the exclusion of the great body of the trade.—Sir J. Pakington, Sir J. Elphinstone, Mr. Bentinck, and Mr. R. Hodgson supported the Bill; Mr. Fenwick, Mr. Crawford, and Mr. Goschen opposed it. On a division, the second reading was carried by 119 to 44.—The Navy Prize Agents, &c., Bill passed through Committee on recommittal.—Mr. Whalley moved to discharge the order for the second reading of his Railway Bills Bill, stating that he should ask for leave to introduce another Bill to give effect to two resolutions of the Select Committee. The order was discharged and the Bill withdrawn, and leave was given to introduce another Bill.—The adjourned debate on the motion for the enlargement of the dining-rooms, proposed by the Kitchen and Refreshment Rooms Committee, was resumed by Mr. A. Smith, who said he would often dine at the House if there was anything to be got in it fit to eat. The debate was again adjourned to Wednesday next. The Removal of Prisoners (Scotland) Bill was read a third time and passed. The Alkali Works Registration Bill passed through committee.

Thursday.—Lord Palmerston moved the second reading of the Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill. He stated that a great portion of the works already sanctioned by Parliament were either completed or nearly so, and that on the whole they had been constructed under the estimates. When the Bill was in committee he hoped to be able to show that the experience of the war in America, combined with the improvements lately made in the science of gunnery, proved that the proposed forts at Spithead would greatly contribute to the defence of the arsenal at Portsmouth.—Sir F. Smith moved as an amendment,—"That no further expenditure be incurred for the present upon that part of the project for fortifications, which is based on the assumption that an enemy might land in force and attempt to besiege Portsmouth and Plymouth, except on such works as are in a very advanced state of progress." He considered that the invasion of a place like Portsmouth was a chimera, and that there was no ground for such an apprehension.—Sir J. D. Hay seconded the amendment.—Sir D. L. Evans approved of the project of a central arsenal, and thought that an unjust prejudice had been raised against the defences at Spithead.—The Marquis of Hartington said that the works at Portsdown Hill were in such a state of forwardness as not to come within the amendment.—Mr. Cobden called upon the House to take a common-sense view of the subject, and not to indulge in such a wasteful expenditure as that which was now going on at Portsdown Hill. He had visited the scene, and he only wished the House would adjourn for a day, and witness the enormous excavations now making at the South Downs. He believed, if such a visit were made, the House would either abandon the works altogether, or agree that Englishmen should no longer sing "Rule Britannia, or "Ye Mariners of England." He regarded these preparations as a disgrace to the age and to the manhood of the country, because such fortifications could be of no service except to shelter an army that ought to meet the invader in the open field. He offered no opinion upon forts dominating the sea, but he would raise up both hands against what he believed would inflict a permanent wound upon the reputation and good fame of Parliament.—Sir J. Fergusson said that the erection of the forts at Portsmouth and Plymouth would be the means of letting loose a certain number of ships to meet the enemy in mid-channel.—Colonel Dickson believed that invasion was utterly impossible from any quarter whatever; and that even if a hostile force landed on our shores, it would not only fail to establish itself there, but that not a single man would escape with his life. After some observations from Mr. C. Berkeley and Lord Fermoy, Mr Newdegate condemned the proposed central arsenal, but approved of the protection of our seaboard and naval arsenals.—Sir E. Colebrooke and Colonel Sykes opposed, and Lord C. Paget and Mr. Pullen supported the Bill.—Mr. Monsell thought the main defence of the country should consist of a powerful iron-clad navy, which could not only command the Channel, but blockade the enemy's ports.—Mr. Osborne expressed his surprise at the apathy of the House of Commons, which strained at the Kensington gnat, and was ready to swallow the Portsdown camel. He objected to the measure because it was a fragmentary one, which would lead to an outlay of possibly 20,000,000*l.*, and because he could not believe that any attempt to surround Portsmouth with fortifications would be any practical defence to the country.—Lord Palmerston said the amendment was a motion to throw out the Bill, stop the works, and reverse the decision deliberately come to by the House and the country. Mr Cobden was an admirable amateur diplomatist, but was not equally successful as a general. Amateur generals had been tried in America, where a uniform and a cocked hat were considered qualifications for the command of an army, but the result was that instead of Richmond being taken in 90 days, the Federals were now expecting the "rebels" at Washington. He still remained of the same opinion that it would be quite possible for a powerful enemy to land an army on the English coast, and do an immensity of damage to our dockyards. To repel such invasions permanent defences were necessary, as well as a Channel fleet. On a division the amendment was negatived by 132 to 61. The Bill was then read a second time.—Lord Palmerston moved the second reading of the Augmentation of Benefices Bill, the object of which is to authorise the Lord Chancellor to dispose of 320 of the smallest livings in his gift, and to apply the purchase-money to the augmentation of other small livings. —Mr. Barnes moved as an amendment that the Bill be read a second time that day three months.—Lord Henley seconded the amendment. After some discussion the House divided, and the amendment was rejected by 179 to 29. The Bill was then read a second time. The Fisheries (Ireland) Bill as amended, was considered and agreed to. The Court of Session (Scotland) Bill passed through committee. Several other Bills were advanced a stage.

Friday.—Church Rates Amendment Bill.—At the morning sitting Lord A. Churchill brought in this Bill, which was read a first time. The House went into Committee of Supply on the Civil Service Estimates, which occupied the remainder of the sitting. At six o'clock the House resumed.

[Left sitting.]

City Intelligence.

Money Market, Friday.—British Funds: Consols closed at 92⅝ to ⅞ for Money, and 92⅝ for Acct.; Reduced and New Three per Cents., 92½ to ⅞; Thirty Years' Annuities, 1885, 15; Red Sea Telegraph, 21½; India Stock, 227; Ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 108¼ to ⅛; Ditto Bonds, 18*s.* pm.; Four per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 97½; Ditto Five per Cent., 107; Exchequer Bills, March, par; Ditto June, 2*s.* pm.—Foreign: Brazilian Old Five per Cents., 100¾; Ditto, 1852, '58, '60, 91¾; Danish, 1853, 90⅞ to ½; Egyptian, 102¾ to 103¼; Ditto second issue, 103¼; Greek, for Acct., 35⅝ to ¾; Italian, for Acct., 71⅛ to ⅜, ex div.; Mexican, for Acct., 36¾; Moorish, 96⅜; Portuguese, 1853, 48⅜, ex div.; Ditto, 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., 48¼ to 47⅞, ex div.; Russian, 1862, 93⅜; Spanish Passive, 33⅝; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., 12⅝; Turkish, 1862, 67⅞, ex div.; Ditto, for Acct., 67⅞ to 68, ex div.; Venezuela, 1862, for Acct., 57.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued .. .. .. | £28,614,000 | Government Debt .. .. | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities .. .. | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 13,964,000 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. | — |
| | £28,614,000 | | £28,614,000 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,046,888 |
| Rest .. .. .. .. .. | 3,344,275 | Other Securities .. .. | 23,503,448 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | 5,593,824 | Notes .. .. .. .. .. | 7,233,120 |
| Other Deposits .. .. .. | 18,595,718 | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 860,969 |
| Seven days and other bills | 557,608 | | |
| | £42,644,425 | | £42,644,425 |

July 9, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Gazette of the Week.

Friday: July 3.—BANKRUPTS.—W. Atkinson, Gildersome, Yorkshire, Farmer—J. Barrow, Bramhall, Cheshire, Farm Labourer—O. Bealey, Costessey, Norfolk, Journeyman Wheelwright—H. Brewer, Wormley, Hertfordshire, Bricklayer—H. Broad and E. Broad, Stourport, Worcestershire, Maltsters—E. Burton, Church Street, Minories, Optician—G. H. Bullivant, Lewisham, Solicitor's Clerk—D. Cowell, jun., Blackburn, Lancashire, Innkeeper—J. Casson, Sunderland, Grocer—H. M. Crosskill, Rochdale, Bookseller—E. Cox, Bath, late Hatter—T. Craven, Birstall, Yorkshire, Mason Contractor—W. H. Dannin, Great Driffield, Yorkshire, Joiner—F. Dates, Manchester, Doctor of Medicine—M. Duck, Wootton Bassett, Wiltshire, Innkeeper—Richard Dawson, Liverpool, Clerk—Charles Edwards, Kington, Herefordshire, Butcher—J. Fellbeck, Cowpen Quay, Northumberland, Builder—T. Felton, Southampton Street, Strand, Commission Agent—J. Ford, Greenwich, Fly Proprietor—W. Featherstonhaugh, Durham, Commercial Traveller—P. Goatcher, Britannia Street, Gray's Inn Road, Licensed Victualler—J. H. Gower, Church Row, Old St. Pancras Road, Builder—J. P. Hatton, Cheltenham, late Professor of Music—W. Halliwell, Westhoughton, Lancashire, Miller—J. Hummel, Lynn, Norfolk, Watchmaker—J. Hill, Deptford, Baker—M. Jones, Nottingham, Boot and Shoe Manufacturer—F. D. Jones, Wandsworth, Baker—G. K. Kenwood, Montagu Place, Trinity Square, Southwark, Commercial Traveller—J. Knott, Jun., Sturminster, Dorsetshire, Shopkeeper—C. Knight, Gloucester, Journeyman Saddler—J. Langford, Nottingham, late Licensed Victualler—J. Linzey, Trowbridge, Wiltshire, Stonemason—J. Lewis, Gastard, Wiltshire, Blacksmith—J. R. Latto, Archer Ter., East India Rd., Limehouse, Dress Maker—J. Levane, St John Street, Middlesex, Undertaker—A. Mainwaring, late of Bury Street, St. James's, chaplain in her Majesty's Army—J. Marrs, Stockdalewath, Cumberland, Blacksmith—S. May, Judd Street, Brunswick Square, Journeyman Watchmaker—W. Nicholls, Tipton, Staffordshire, Retail Brewer—I. S. North, King Street, Long Acre, Dairyman—J. Pass, [illegible], Yorkshire, Paper Manufacturer—T. Pearce, [illegible], Wiltshire, Groom—M. A. [illegible], Davies Street, Berkeley Square, Milliner—T. Rook, Barnsbury Terrace, Liverpool Road, Islington, late Licensed Victualler—J. Rayman, Cavendish Terrace, Victoria Park Road, Stick Manufacturer—S. G. Raymond, Graham Street, Pimlico—J. Rose, Chesterton, Cambridge, Baker—W. Randle, Norwich, Assistant to a Corn Dealer—J. J. Rowell, High Street, Newington Butts, Surrey, Butcher—John Rennie, Denmark Street, Islington, Draper—T. Sharp, Leicester, Coal Merchant—A. Schneiders, Upper Lisson Street, Lisson Grove, Baker—N. Sykes, jun., Globe Road, Mile End, County Court Bailiff—F. W. Sweet, King's Road, Chelsea, Commission Agent—J. Stringer, Cottage Grove, Peckham, Dealer in Building Materials—T. Speak, Woodham Ferris, Essex, Farmer—R. Skeffington, Leicester, Butcher—W. Lawson, Radford, Nottingham, late Paper Stainer—T. Thompson, Virginia Row, Bethnal Green, Leather Seller—P. Thompson, New Brighton, Cheshire, Hotel Keeper—W. V. Williams, Buckfastleigh, Devonshire, Mine Agent—J. Westcott, jun., Kingston upon Hull, Smack Owner—W. T. Walker, Enfield, Coal Merchant—R. H. Ward, Duke Street, Stamford Street, Blackfriars Road, Plumber.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—A. Carmichael and H. Neilson, Glasgow, Masons—J. Edward, Forfar, Surgeon.

Tuesday: July 7.—BANKRUPTS.—W. Ayres, Saltfleetby, St. Peter's, Lincoln, Labourer—R. Branch, Nursery Terrace, Plaistow Road, Westham, Shoemaker—J. L. Burkitt, Kenilworth, Warwickshire, Attorney—D. [illegible], Brighton, Dramatic Author—W. Bannigan, South Hamlet, Gloucestershire, Hide Waster—J. Barnes, sen., Walton, Lancashire, Farmer—S. Bourne, Chaddesley Corbett, Worcestershire, Shoemaker—S. Burrows, Wells, Norfolk, Grocer—T. P. Brandon, Great Yarmouth, Norfolk, Attorney—W. [illegible], Luton, Bedfordshire, Blacksmith—A. H. Bryant, Leicester Square, Trunk Maker—P. Cross, New Cross, Surrey, Joiner—S. Collett, Westmoreland Road, Walworth Common, Baker—R. Corbett, New Hackney Road, Builder—J. Connor, Colchester, Essex, Shoemaker—J. Church, Brighton, Sussex, Travelling Commission Agent—C. Davis, Drummond St., Euston Sq., Public House Manager—G. S. A. Dickens, Duke St., Lincoln's Inn, Clerk in Holy Orders—D. Daley, Bristol, Fish Salesman—F. B. [illegible], Westmoreland Place, City Road, Law Clerk—F. C. Daniels, Glanville Terrace, Jeffries Road, Clapham, late Clerk—H. C. Dean, Oxford Road, De Beauvoir Town, Islington, Warehouseman—R. Fearn, Thirsk, Yorkshire, Land Surveyor—W. Frank, Mirfield, Yorkshire, Grocer—J. Friend, Hythe, Kent, Chief Superintendent of Police—H. Gibbs, Summer Hill, Gloucestershire, Market Gardener—W. [illegible], Yorkshire, Stone Mason—W. Gibbs, Churston, Devon, Shipbuilder—W. J. Gerrard, Woolwich—F. A. Holmes, East Street, [illegible] Kent Road, Decorator & Painter—W. Hawkins, Almondbury, Yorkshire, Joiner—H. Hanson, High Street, Borough, Butcher—James Hannaford, Cleveland Street, Mile End, Tailor—[illegible] Hudson, Ambleside, Westmoreland, Corn Merchant—John Holt, Dewsbury, Yorkshire, Manufacturer—James Hitchin, and William Hitchin, Birmingham, Wire Drawers—Joseph Hield, Sheffield, Licensed Victualler—H. Ingham, Todmorden, Lancashire, Clock and Watchmaker—J. W. Johnstone, Queensborough, Kent, Clerk and Draughtsman in her Majesty's Dockyard—E. S. James, Tottenham Court Road, Bonnet Manufacturer—W. Kennywell, Sheffield, Stone Mason—J. W. Lewis, Bangor, Carnarvonshire, Wine Merchant—A. Lawrance, Weston-super-Mare, Somerset, Butcher—R. Loader, Ryde, Isle of Wight, Butcher—W. Moses, East Dean, Gloucestershire, Innkeeper—H. Weston, Blackburn, Lancashire, [illegible] cestle, late Cabinet Maker—F. R. Matthews, Hereford, Banker—T. C. Mansion, High Street, Southwark, [illegible] Merchant—Thomas W[illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] SEQUESTRATIONS.—W. H[illegible], [illegible] Farmer—W. M[illegible], [illegible] Merchant.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

The Prince of Wales at Mercers' Hall.—On Wednesday the Prince of Wales gave the city another proof of his attachment to ancient guilds and corporate constitutions by taking up his freedom in the most ancient of all its great leading companies—the Mercers', and enrolling his name on their records, which already contain the names of Henry VIII., Elizabeth, Sir Thomas Gresham, Caxton, and Lord Mayor Whittington. The Prince on his arrival was received by the Master Wardens and the principal officers of the Company, who presented him with an address, to which his Royal Highness replied as follows:—

"Master and Court of Assistants,—I am glad to avail myself of the last opportunity which my stay in London affords me of attending here this day to receive the freedom of your ancient and honourable company. The oldest of the city companies, the Mercers, is hardly exceeded by any in the [illegible] of its charities, or in its [illegible] of doing good. How these [illegible] have been [illegible] the list of the benefactions of the company, and of the distinguished persons whom you have [illegible] as benefactors and [illegible]. Among the latter, the great Sovereign, who was herself a sister of the company, [illegible], and commerce and science appear equally to have lent their representatives to ennoble the Mercers' Company. To be associated with such names in the [illegible] and [illegible] of your company is an honour and privilege I am proud to have conferred upon me. I thank you sincerely for the terms in which you have mentioned the names of my beloved mother and the Princess, and for the happiness you desire for us both."

The Prince then subscribed the oath of the Company, after which the Clerk presented his Royal Highness with the formal document which enrolled him as freeman. This was engrossed on vellum and enclosed in a superb casket of solid gold, of great cost intrinsically, and made still more valuable by its elaborate chasing and workmanship, which were by Mr. C. F. Hancock, of Bruton Street. On it was inscribed, "Presented to his Royal Highness Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, K.G., by the Corporation of Mercers, Premier Guild of the city of London, on the occasion of his Royal Highness honouring them by accepting the Freedom of the Company, July 8th, 1863." With the acceptance of this splendid gift, the fourth of the kind the Prince has received in the last four months, the formal part of the ceremony concluded, and the general visitors were entertained at a déjeuner in the Banqueting Hall, while the Prince and his suite, with 20 selected guests, had luncheon in the Council Room. At the conclusion of the repast, the toastmaster gave the toasts of "The Queen," and then that of "The Prince" as Citizen and Mercer. His Royal Highness departed soon after the déjeuner.

Wimbledon Prize Meeting.—The Prince of Wales on Monday visited Wimbledon Common, where the volunteers were assembling for their 12 days' campaign, and at the suggestion of Lords Elcho and Ducie inaugurated the meeting by making some excellent shooting at the 200 yards pool range as well as at the running deer. The regular shooting commenced on Tuesday, when in a match between the three counties, Lancashire won, Gloucestershire being second, and Middlesex losing that place by only one point. Three of the soldiers employed by the association as markers were more or less seriously wounded, though no blame appears to have attached to any one. On Wednesday the Public Schools' Match was contested by Eton, Harrow, Rugby, Marlborough, Winchester, and Cheltenham. They fired first at the 200 yards range, where Harrow obtained a trifling ascendancy over Marlborough, Eton occupying the third place, Rugby and Winchester making ties, and Cheltenham being last. The firing at the 500 yards range altered the relative positions of the schools, Eton making fewer bull's-eyes than some of the other elevens, but obtaining a far greater number of centres and outers, hitting the target in nearly every instance, beating Harrow to the extent of 22 points, or 16 upon the gross score, and thus carrying off Lord Ashburton's challenge shield. The most successful competitors on behalf of each school, making jointly a squad of six, then proceeded to fire seven shots at the 500 yards range for Earl Spencer's Cup. In this contest Sergeant Deedes, son of the late Mr. Deedes, M.P., the representative of Winchester, made five bull's eyes and two outers in seven shots, or within four of the maximum which it was possible to attain. The numbers were, Winchester 24, Cheltenham 19, Marlborough 18, Eton 17, Rugby 17, Harrow 13. The Cup was therefore won by Winchester. The competition for the first stage of the Queen's Prize at 200 yards was entered upon at a very early hour, and carried on briskly throughout the day, the highest score being made by Captain Benning, of the 2d Hants, who made five consecutive bull's eyes at 200 yards. The Bronze Medal was won by Captain Field of the Hon. Artillery Company, and the five prizes of 5*l.* each were won by Sergeant Hooper (40th Middlesex), Private Richards (1st London Rifle Brigade), and Private Kennedy (29th). The fifth prize was a tie between Captain Gould (37th) and Private Salter (39th). Several accidents occurred during the day to the markers, and an official report was transmitted to the Commander-in-Chief on the subject. On Thursday the authorities of the Horse Guards declined any longer to expose the troops to the dangers of the Swiss system of marking. Lord Elcho and Lord Ducie immediately called a meeting of the Volunteers, who unanimously resolved to abide by the system and to go into the butts themselves, the Victoria Rifles volunteering to take the lead, and officers and men alike undertaking their share of the duty. The shooting for the early stages of the Queen's Prize, the House of Lords' Prize, the [illegible] All Comers, at 200, 500, and 600 yards, and the extra prizes, was then proceeded with.

Experiments at Shoeburyness.—An important target trial took place at Shoeburyness on Tuesday. Hitherto the targets have been constructed on the principle that the backing must be elastic, but the present trial was to determine the value of the theory in favour of a rigid backing. Up to the test furnished by the 68-pounder the rigid theory was sustained, but a 150 lb. steel shot passed through the target and its supports, and a 300 lb. shell penetrated the target and set the filling of the cells on fire. The outer ring of one of the Armstrong guns used at the trial gave way, but no one was injured.

Cheltenham [illegible] School.—The Head Mastership of this school has become vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Richard Sawyer.

Steam Fire Engines.—A series of experiments, interesting in themselves, and in their result likely to be of the highest importance, took place last week in the Crystal Palace gardens with a view to test and ascertain by actual competition which was the best description of steam fire-engine out of the many different machines of the kind now made. The experiments lasted several days, and were honoured on one occasion by a visit from the Prince of Wales. All the engines worked satisfactorily except the American engine "Manhattan" from New York, which at no time fulfilled the conditions of the competition, and at last completely broke down. At a meeting of the committee on Wednesday, the Duke of Sutherland in the chair, the result of the trials was announced as follows:—For large class engines, first prize of 200*l.* to Messrs. Merryweather & Sons; second prize of 100*l.* to Messrs. Shand & Mason; small class engine, first prize of 250*l.* to Messrs. Shand & Mason; second prize of 100*l.* to Messrs. Lee & Co. of America. The committee highly commended the engine of Mr. W. Roberts, of Millwall.

Child Murder.—On Monday evening a lad, digging in the garden of a florist in William Street, New North Road, Islington, came upon the decapitated body of a child in a state of decomposition, buried a little way below the surface. The remains on being inspected by a medical man, were found to be those of a little girl, and a close examination of the clothing established the fact that the body was that of a poor child called Elizabeth Hunter, aged 5 years, who was taken away on a pretended errand by a man while she was walking near her mother's house with her sister, about 15 months since, within a couple of hundred yards of this spot, and for whose discovery her Majesty's Government offered 100*l.* reward. The missing child's boots corresponded exactly with those found, and earrings like those she wore were found with the head, which was discovered buried at a short distance from the body. It appeared from the evidence at the police court that the head was found some months since, and reburied by order of the proprietor of the nursery without any notice being taken. An immense crowd of persons gathered round the place where the body was discovered, and remained there till past midnight. The body has been removed to the dead-house, where it awaits an inquest. On Thursday a shabbily dressed lad, between 17 and 18 years of age, called William Henry Clarke, who was working in the nursery at the time of the girl's disappearance, and who is said to have been several times in custody on the charge of indecently assaulting children, was brought before the magistrate at Clerkenwell Police Court, charged on suspicion of having murdered the child. The evidence left little doubt of his identity, and he was remanded for a few days, the magistrate refusing to accept bail.

The Discovery at Stoke Newington.—An inquest on the bodies found on the premises of the undertaker at Stoke Newington was held on Saturday. After several witnesses had been examined the jury returned a verdict that the bodies had been taken to the premises of the undertaker for interment; that he had received money for that purpose, but had neglected to inter them.

The Public Health.—The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London in the week that ended Saturday, July 4, were 1187. The average number in the corresponding weeks of the 10 years 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1142. The present return is therefore 45 above the average. During the week the births of 995 boys and 942 girls, in all 1937 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1728.

Provincial.

Bath.—A case of triple murder and suicide took place on the canal, in the parish of Bathampton, on Monday afternoon. A woman named Cole, living on Sallsway Bridge, took her three children, aged six years, three years, and six months, and, having drowned them in the canal, jumped in after them, and by the time the bodies were got out they were all dead. The husband resided some years ago at Larkhall, and seemed then to have been in good circumstances. From thence he went to Bristol and opened a public-house, which proved a failure. The family have latterly depended on the husband's earnings as a carver and gilder, but have suffered great penury. This appears to have unsettled the wife's mind, and to have led her for some time past to threaten suicide rather than go into the workhouse.

Liverpool.—On Saturday the screw steam ship Gibraltar, formerly the well-known Confederate privateer Sumter, left the Mersey for Nassau, with a large cargo. Since her arrival in Liverpool she has undergone a complete overhaul, and her deck timbers have been materially strengthened. It is generally believed that on her arrival at Nassau, she will be further strengthened, and eventually resume her old occupation of looking after Federal merchantmen. It is understood that she took out the monster guns which caused her to be detained by the Customs authorities a few days ago.

Manchester.—At the weekly meeting of the Relief Committee on Monday it was reported that the decrease in the number of the unemployed during the week was 8601, and that 47 local committees had suspended their operations in consequence of the disappearance of distress in their districts.

Ireland.

Trial for Murder.—On Friday last Michael M'Cormack was convicted at the Longford Assizes of the wilful murder of Michael Beglan, and sentenced to be executed on the 4th of next month. The prisoner heard his sentence with great firmness.

Scotland.

Scottish National Memorial.—The Queen has signified her approval of a design prepared by Mr. Noel Paton for the Scottish National Memorial to the Prince Consort, and the committee are now engaged in ascertaining its probable expense. The design is that of a rich Gothic cross surmounted by a moulded cope and plinth, bearing a full-length statue of the Prince in the robes of the Garter. Under the trefoil arch on each of the four sides of the cross is a seated figure emblematic of science and the arts. The whole is supported on a moulded pedestal and flight of steps taking the form of a cross. The front of the pedestal under each of the figures bears an elaborate bas-relief. The height of the whole erection is about 50 feet, and it is designed to be placed on the terrace in West Princes Street Gardens.

Law.

Court of Queen's Bench.—Morrison v. Belcher.—This was an action for libel, brought by Lieutenant Morrison of the Royal Navy, against Rear-Admiral Sir Edward Belcher. It appeared that the plaintiff was the author and proprietor of a publication called "Zadkiel's Almanack," and that in consequence of some predictions in 1861, concerning the Prince Consort, a contemporary inquired in an article of the 31st of January last, "Who is this Zadkiel?" and was answered the next day by Sir Edward Belcher in a letter which formed the libel complained of. He stated that the author and the editor of the almanack in question was a retired lieutenant of the navy named Morrison. He went on to say that Mr. Morrison was the same person who in 1851 had gulled many of the nobility by exhibiting a crystal globe, in which he pretended that various persons saw visions and held converse with the spirits of the Apostles, even our Saviour, with the angels of light as well as of darkness, and could tell what was going on in any part of the world. The essence of the libel consisted in a further charge that he had done this for money, knowing it to be a mere imposture. The defence was that it had not been done for money, and that Zadkiel had a real belief in the virtues of his glass globe, which appeared to have been formerly the property of the Countess of Blessington, and was in her well known in fashionable society. Various persons of rank were summoned as witnesses to show that they had seen the ball, and that it had been shown them as a "gentle amusement" freely and without payment. The Earl of Wilton, among others, had seen it, but without having had any "conspiracy" suggested to him by it. The Bishop of Lichfield and Sir Bulwer Lytton gave evidence to the same effect. A clergyman deposed that he had seen it, and that the "seer," or medium, described a vision of his son in a distant country, but the description was so general that it was impossible to tell whether it was true or not. Several other respectable persons came into court and swore to the fact of themselves or others having looked into this crystal ball to converse with "the presiding spirit of the crystal," or to make inquiries about their children, about Sir John Franklin, Judas Iscariot, Titania, St. Luke, Eve, and other subjects equally solemn or grotesque. Accounts had been published on the strength of these visions, of Titania "as she appeared in a chariot," and St. Luke "as he appeared on several occasions." These personages were seen "with legends as coming out of their mouths," and spoke various languages, as English, Turkish, French, Latin, and Hebrew, but their present language seems to be totally independent of their education, inasmuch as Titania, St. Luke, and Eve, spoke English. The Jury, under the direction of the Lord Chief Justice, seem to have thought that if so many other persons could be brought to look at the crystal ball, Zadkiel might be supposed to believe in it; and, as it was not made out that he had received any money for exhibiting it, they found a verdict for the plaintiff. They, however, gave only 20s. damages, and the Judge refused to certify for costs.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.—Cummings v. Berkeley and Others.—The British Columbian Overland Transit Company.—This was an action against the Hon. F. H. Berkeley, M.P. for Bristol, and others, who had been directors of the British Columbia Overland Transit Company, to recover damages in consequence of the plaintiff not having been carried to British Columbia, according to contract, the plaintiff and the other passengers having been, in fact, left at a place called St. Paul's, in Minnesota. At the trial the plaintiff recovered a verdict for [illegible], but subsequently a rule nisi was granted to enter a verdict for the defendants, or for a new trial, and this rule having been argued, the question now was whether it should be made absolute. The Court held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover, and that the verdict ought not to be disturbed. The rule was therefore discharged.

COURT OF EXCHEQUER.—Attorney General v. Lord Sefton.—Important question of Succession Duty. This was a case of considerable importance. The late Earl of Sefton, who died in August, 1855, was the owner of certain lands at Toxteth Park, Liverpool. At the time of his death, and for ten years previously these lands were wholly unoccupied and unproductive, and incapable of being used profitably for agriculture or any other purpose. No income or profit was derived from them, and they were not, it appeared, marketable as building land, but still they were of great value, being in 1855 worth [illegible] an acre, which was 40 times the value of the best agricultural land. The Crown claimed succession duty upon these lands from the present earl, and the question was, whether they were liable to it—a most important point, as there is a considerable amount of valuable land in the country similarly circumstanced. Baron Martin was of opinion that judgment should be for the Crown; the Lord Chief Baron and Baron Wilde thought that the contention on the part of the Crown was wholly untenable, and that judgment should be for the defendant. Mr. Baron Channell said he was obliged to leave the court during the argument to attend chambers, he did not think that he could properly take any part in the decision, but he had carefully considered the judgment prepared by his learned brothers, and he was inclined to arrive at the same conclusion as the Lord Chief Baron and Baron Wilde. The majority of the Court being in favour of the defendant, judgment was entered for him, against the Government.

Railways.

ACCIDENT AT THE LONDON AND NORTH-WESTERN.—On Mondon afternoon, while the third class train from Liverpool was standing at Wolverhampton station for the collection of tickets, an engine which had been waiting at Bushbury junction ran up at a speed of about 10 miles an hour and dashed into the rear of the train, which was a very long one. The force of the collision shattered the guard's break van, and two third-class carriages filled with passengers, 39 of whom were severely injured, one it is feared dangerously. The driver of the engine has confessed that he alone was at fault, for the distance signal, which is 800 yards from the ticket platform, and can be seen a mile away, was "against him." He is understood to have been at the time on the wrong side of his engine, and thus to have had his view intercepted by the funnel of the engine.

THE FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE BRIGHTON LINE.—The inquest on the soldiers and others killed by the recent accident at Streatham was concluded on the 1st inst. Several scientific witnesses were examined, and gave their opinion that tank engines, like the exploded engine, were quite as safe as tender engines. Colonel Yolland, the Government inspector, expressed his opinion that the accident was owing to the excessive speed and weight of the engine, which, he said, the rails were unable to bear. The jury returned the following verdict:—

"Accidental Death, attributable to the high rate of speed at which the express trains run over the line from Croydon to Victoria. The jury would urge on the directors of the London and Brighton Company the necessity of allowing more time for the performance of the journey, and that careful attention should be given to the coupling of the trains."

Obituary.

THE DOWAGER LADY KILMAINE died on Monday, at her house in Chester Square, in her 90th year. She was the fourth daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Henry Cavendish, Bart., by Baroness Waterpark, and was born in 1774. She married in 1793, the second Lord Kilmaine, by whom she had the present peer, and a numerous family.

SIR WILLIAM MASSEY STANLEY, Bart., died in Paris on the 29th ult., after a very short illness. He was the eldest son of the ninth baronet, by the only daughter of Sir Carnaby Haggerston, of Haggerston, Northumberland. He was born in 1807, and succeeded to the baronetcy and large patrimonial estates in Cheshire on the death of his father in 1841. From 1837 to 1847 he represented Pontefract in Parliament on Conservative principles. Soon after his accession to the title he was obliged by ill-health to seek the more genial climate of the South of Europe, and had been long resident in Paris and its vicinity. Although, when he came to the baronetcy, he was possessed of a large fortune, by some unfortunate management the princely estate in Cheshire passed into other hands, and at his death he enjoyed but a diminished income. He is succeeded in the baronetcy by his next brother, Rowland Errington, born in 1809, and married in 1838 to the eldest daughter of the late Sir John Macdonald, K.C.B. The present baronet assumed, in 1820, the name of Errington, in lieu of his patronymic, in compliance with the will of Mr. Henry Errington, of Red Rice, Hertfordshire.

MAJOR-GENERAL THOMAS KELLY, K.C., died on the 27th ult., at Lansdowne Square, Rosherville, at the age of 87. He entered the army nearly 70 years ago, and was engaged with his regiment, the 26th Light Dragoons, in the operations carried on towards the close of the last century in the West India Islands, till he was ordered to Portugal. He afterwards proceeded to Egypt with Sir R. Abercrombie, and was present at the siege of Aboukir, and in the operations under Sir Eyre Coote, near Alexandria. He was wounded in a night attack when he captured the whole of the enemy's pickets with a far inferior force. For these services he received the gold medal from the Grand Seignior, and had also the silver war medal with one clasp. Having been sent to the West Indies on foreign service on the outbreak of the Peninsular war, he had no opportunity of sharing in the promotions which fell to his more fortunate comrades, and his career from 1809, when he became a captain, was so slow that it was 29 years before he attained the rank of major. He was then appointed Commandant of Tilbury Fort, and discharged the duties of that office for 46 years, only retiring in consequence of age and infirmity a short time ago with the rank of major-general.

MR. MULREADY, R.A., died on Tuesday last, at Linden Grove, Bayswater, in his 78th year. He was born at Ennis, in Ireland, and was admitted a student of the Royal Academy when only 14 years of age. His works are, perhaps, as familiar to the British public as those of any modern artist. The Vernon Gallery, the Sheepshanks, and the Royal collections, are rich in examples of his genius.

MR. JAMES HANS HAMILTON, formerly M.P. for the county of Dublin, and father of the present member, died on Monday after a long illness. He only resigned his seat a few months ago from impaired health. He was first returned in 1841, in the Conservative interest. He was born in 1810, and was son of Mr. Hans Hamilton, who represented the county of Dublin for nearly 30 years.

WILLS.—The will of the Marquis of Lansdowne, K.G., has been sworn under 350,000*l.*; the Earl of Ellesmere, 150,000*l.*; Mr. Henry Powell, of Tunbridge Wells, 100,000*l.*; Mrs. Elizabeth Wray Martin Leake, of Queen Anne Street, [illegible].

BIRTHS.—At 20, Berkeley Square, Lady SKELMERSDALE, of a daughter—5th inst, at 12, Cavendish Square, the Hon. Mrs. TOWNLEY MITFORD, of a son—4th inst, at Garendon Park, Leicestershire, the lady of A. L. DE LISLE, Esq., of a son, who survived his birth only a few hours—4th inst, at 38, South Street, Grosvenor Square, Mrs. MATHESON, of Ardross, of a daughter—3d inst, at the Vicarage, Sutton Courtney, Berks, the wife of the Rev. HOWARD RICE, of a son.

MARRIAGES.—On the 4th inst, at St. George's, Hanover Square, WILLIAM EARLE WELBY GREGORY, Esq., eldest son of Sir Glynne Earle Welby Gregory, Bart., and M.P. for Grantham, to the Hon. VICTORIA STUART-WORTLEY, only daughter of the late Hon. Charles and Lady E. Stuart-Wortley, and one of the Maids of Honour to the Queen—7th inst, at Christ Church, Paddington, the Rev. SIR JOHN CÆSAR HAWKINS, Bart., M.A., incumbent of St. Paul's, Chatham, to MARY CATHERINE, youngest daughter of the late THOMAS ELLAMES WITHINGTON, Esq., Culchette Hall, Lancashire—2d inst, at St. George's, Hanover Square, HARINGTON BALFOUR, eldest son of Charles Balfour, Esq., to ISABELLA ANNE, eldest daughter of Sir DAVID KINLOCH, Bart., of Gilmerton, Haddington, N.B.—4th inst, at Little Portland Street Chapel, HENRY ENFIELD ROSCOE, Esq., F.R.S., of Manchester, to LUCY, youngest daughter of EDMUND POTTER, Esq., M.P., F.R.S., of 22, Prince's Gardens, Kensington.

DEATHS.—On the 29th ult, at Dresden, FRANCES BARONESS VON WEHREN, aged 22—2d inst, at 15, Cheyne Walk, Chelsea, DAME ANNA MARIA ALDIS, widow of Sir Charles Aldis, aged 76—28th ult, at Beachlands, Ryde, Isle of Wight, General Sir J. L. CALDWELL, G.C.B., aged 92—28th ult, at Weymouth, ALICE MARIAN, second surviving daughter of Admiral SYDNEY DACRES, C.B., commanding the Channel Fleet, aged 1[illegible]—5th inst, at Northfleet, Kent, ELIZA SARAH, eldest daughter of the late General CROKSON, Royal Artillery, aged 74—4th inst, near Dublin, Lieutenant-Colonel RICHARD PALMER SHARP, late of the 72d Highlanders, eldest son of the late Richard Sharp, Esq., of Apps Court, in the county of Surrey—30th ult, at Holbeach, Lincolnshire, MARY JOHNSON, only daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel DONELAN—2d inst, at Anglesea, Hants, Captain DOWNES, R.N., of Letton Court, Herefordshire, and J.P. and Deputy-lieutenant of that county, aged 58—2d inst, at Thames Ditton, MARY ELIZABETH, widow of Captain WM. WALBANKE CHILDERS—5th inst, at 68, Eaton Square, of bronchitis, THOS CAMPBELL ROBERTSON, Esq., late of the Bengal Civil Service, aged 74—3d inst, at Edenhurst, Fulham, the Rev. WM. MOSELEY, LL.D., aged 93—4th inst, at Elmer's End, Beckenham, Kent, the Rev. THOMAS SHORE, aged 70—1st inst, at North Cheriton, near Wincanton, the Rev. THOMAS GATEHOUSE, aged 74—4th inst, at South Hayes, Worcester, the Rev. GEORGE DINELEY, B.D., rector of Churchill, aged 76.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, July 11.

In consequence of the delightful weather we are now experiencing supplies of both fruit and vegetables are unusually well kept up. Peaches and Nectarines are plentiful. Greengages and other Plums are now included in foreign imports, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Strawberries are abundant. Cherries of foreign growth, of which there are large arrivals, are fetching from 5s. to 6s. 6d. per basket, weighing about 24 lbs. each. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good supply, and Oranges are also plentiful. New Potatoes realise from 8s. to 11s. per cwt. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Violets, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 6s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Grapes, per lb., 3s to 6s | Oranges, per box, 30s to 40s |
| Strawberries, p. lb., 6d to 2s | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Apples, per doz., 9d to 1s 6d | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Figs, per doz., 6s to 8s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Peaches, per doz., 12s to 30s | Walnuts, do., 10s |
| Nectarines, do., 6s to 15s | |
| Melons, each, 3s to 7s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | French Beans, per 100, 2s |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 90s to 99s | Shallots (new), p. bunch, 6d |
| „ Flukes, do., 100s to 120s | Rhubarb, p. bundle, 2d to 4d |
| „ Rocks, do., 60s to 80s | Garlic (new), per bunch, 6d |
| „ Cups, do., 75s to 85s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 6d to 8d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bun. 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |

NEWGATE.—July 10.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Fresh Butter .. .. | 13s. per dozen lbs. |
| Second do. do. .. .. | 11s. „ |
| Pork, 4s 0d. to 4s 4d. per 8 lbs. | |

HOPS.—BOROUGH MARKET, FRIDAY, July 10.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report no quotable alteration in the market during the last few days, although a rather improved demand is perceptible for the best samples of both English and foreign Hops. The plantation accounts from the blighted districts in England as well as the Continent speak of no improvement, and the plant is in a very critical state.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, July 6.

The number of Beasts is larger than for some time past. Trade is consequently slow and lower prices are taken. Several inferior qualities are unsold. The supply of Sheep and Lambs is also larger; the demand is active, and there is no quotable reduction in price. Calves are selling about as on Thursday. From Germany and Holland there are 1360 Beasts, 6340 Sheep, and 306 Calves; from Spain, 460 Beasts; from France 24 Calves; from Ireland, 730 Beasts and 500 Lambs; from Scotland, 73; from Norfolk and Suffolk, 1000; and 1590 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools | .. — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — 4 10 | Do. Shorn | 4 8 — 4 10 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 6 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | .. — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | .. — .. | Do. Shorn | 4 0 — 4 6 |
| Do. Shorn | 5 0 — 5 2 | Lambs | 5 8 — 6 4 |
| | | Calves | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs | 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, [illegible]; Sheep & Lambs, 28,[illegible]; Calves, 381; Pigs, 230.

THURSDAY, July 9.

We have a large supply of Beasts and a dull trade; consequently prices on the average are lower, although there is scarcely a quotable reduction in the choicest descriptions. The number of Sheep and Lambs is about larger than of late. Monday's quotations are barely maintained for Sheep, but well supported for choice Lambs. Calves are lower. Our foreign supply consists of 460 Beasts, [illegible] Sheep, and 577 Calves. Milch Cows, 85.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools | .. — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn | 4 6 — 4 8 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 6 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | .. — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | .. — .. | Do. Shorn | 3 8 — 4 4 |
| Do. Shorn | 5 0 — 5 2 | Lambs | 5 4 — 6 4 |
| | | Calves | 3 [illegible] — 4 6 |
| | | Pigs | 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 1135; Sheep & Lambs, 13,700; Calves, 865; Pigs, 80.

COAL MARKET.—July 8.

Cowpen Hartley, 15s. 3d.; Davison's West Hartley, 15s. 3d.; Hastings Hartley, 15s. 3d.; Hollywell Main, 15s. 6d.; North Percy Gas, 15s. 3d.; West Hartley, 15s. 3d.; West Wylam, 15s.; Walls End Riddell, 15s.; Eden Main, 15s. 3d.; Walls End Haswell, 17s. 3d.; Walls End South Hetton, 17s. 3d.; Walls End Tunstall, 14s. 9d.; Walls End Hartlepool, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Kelloe, 15s. 9d.; Walls End East Hartlepool, 16s. 9d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 15s. 3d.; Walls End South Kelloe, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 16s. 6d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 19s. 6d.—38 ships at market.

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

SMITHFIELD, THURSDAY, July 9.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 60s to | 80s | Clover, old .. .. | 90s to | 126s |
| Superior do. .. | 80 | 95 | New Clover .. | 70 | 95 |
| Inferior do. .. | 36 | 54 | Do. second cut .. | 80 | 115 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 60 | 80 | Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 31 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | — | — | HARVEY & EASTON. | | |

CUMBERLAND MARKET, THURSDAY, July 9.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay .. | 92s to | 100s | Inferior Clover .. | 90s to | 108s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 70 | 84 | New do. .. .. | 80 | 98 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 70 | 84 | Straw .. .. | 38 | 43 |
| Superior Clover .. | 118 | 126 | JOSHUA BAKER. | | |

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, July 9.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 90s | Prime Clover .. | 120s to | 126s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 70 | 80 | Inferior do. .. .. | 108 | 115 |
| Prime New Hay .. | 70 | 76 | New do. .. .. | 80 | 90 |
| Inferior .. .. .. | — | — | Prime 2d cut .. | 115 | 120 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 25 | 32 | Inferior do. .. | — | — |

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, July 10.

Our demand is scarcely so brisk as it has been, and prices equal to some of the extreme ones paid the farmers cannot be realised. At the same time trade is healthy, and all wool finds customers at current rates.

| | s. d. s. d. | | s. d. s. d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ to 1 10 | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto .. | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ — 1 9 | Combing Skins | 1 4 — 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 — 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 — 1 8 |
| | | Blanket ditto .. .. | — .. |

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, July 6.

The supply of Wheat from Essex and Kent to this morning's market was very short; last Monday's prices were realised for the former, but barely maintained for the latter. The demand for foreign was limited to the requirements of necessitous buyers, who were in very small attendance, and generally compelled to purchase on previous terms. Barley, Beans, and Peas brought last week's quotations. Good sweet Oats were unaltered in value, but out-of-conditioned parcels were 6d. per qr. cheaper. Flour trade was quiet, and late rates were scarcely supported.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 46—56 | Red .... | 42—50 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 47—54 | Red .... | 42—52 |
| — — Talavera .............. | 48—60 | | |
| — Norfolk .............. | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign .............. | 35—62 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist. 23s to 30s .. Chev | 34—38 | Malting .. | 31—34 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 23—27 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk .............. | 21—24 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—2[illegible] | Feed .... | 21—23 |
| — Irish ............ Potato | — | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 18—22 | Feed .... | 17—22 |
| RYE .............. | 35—37 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign .............. | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan .... 30s to 31s .. Tick | 31—32 | Harrow .. | 31—32 |
| — Pigeon .... 34s to 38s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign .............. Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 32—34 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 35—37 | Suffolk .. | 37—40 |
| — Maple .... 42s to 48s .... Grey | 36—37 | Foreign .. | 30—38 |
| MAIZE .............. White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 42—47 | | |
| — 2d do .............. ditto | 32—44 | Country .. | 32—40 |
| — Foreign .......... per barrel | 20—25 | Per sack | 34—48 |

FRIDAY, July 10.

The weather since the 3d inst. has been all that farmers could desire, and with the exception of Beans in some districts the reports of the crops are very favourable. The cutting of winter-sown Oats and Barley has commenced in two or three of the neighbouring counties. The sale of Wheat continues to be on the most limited scale throughout the kingdom, and prices are quoted 1s. per qr. lower in all the principal markets. Business in spring corn is also very restricted, but no alteration has occurred in its value with the exception of Oats, these have generally declined 6d. per qr. The demand for Flour is very limited, and where sales are effected a slight concession in price is generally necessary. Since Friday last 31 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has been quiet at unaltered prices, only Maize has declined again 6d.

per qr. In Paris (July 9), Flour has declined about 1s. 6d. per 280 lbs., Wheat 9d. to 1s. 3d. per 480 lbs., and business continues very slow. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 9170 cwt. The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 37s. 6d. per 280 lbs. The arrivals of foreign Oats during the week have been considerable; of all other grain and Flour very small. There were scarcely any Wheat buyers at market this morning, and in the almost total absence of business prices of both English and foreign Wheat must be considered nominally the same as on Monday. Barley, Beans, and Peas were unaltered in value. The Oat trade was firm, and Russians were in rather better demand at the extreme rates lately current. Flour was neglected.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 670 qrs. | 10 qrs. | — qrs. | 640 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | — | — ,, |
| Foreign .. | 2230 ,, | 1720 | 47,250 ,, | 830 ,, / — brls |

LIVERPOOL, July 7.—We have had a fair attendance of town and country millers and dealers at to-day's market. Wheat has remained slow of sale at a further reduction of 1d. per cental, whilst Flour is very dull, but not quotably cheaper than on Friday. Indian Corn steadily maintains late rates, with a fair consumptive demand. Oats and Oatmeal unchanged. Egyptian Beans are held firmly at the recent advance of 6d. per qr. Peas and Barley the turn cheaper. The market closes without animation.

FRIDAY, July 10.—The market was fairly attended. Wheat in limited demand at a decline of 1d. to 2d. per cental. Flour very little doing and the turn cheaper. Indian Corn, fair sale for mixed, at 26s. 9d. Egyptian Beans steady; Saide, 30s. Oats and Oatmeal unchanged.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| May 30.. | 46s 5d | 33s 8d | 22s 8d | 40s 2d | 38s 11d | 35s 9d |
| June 6 | 46 10 | 31 1 | 22 10 | 32 5 | 39 10 | 36 8 |
| — 13 | 46 11 | 32 14 | 22 10 | 34 10 | 39 8 | 36 11 |
| — 20 | 46 9 | 30 7 | 23 0 | 32 3 | 40 4 | 37 10 |
| — 27 | 46 5 | 31 2 | 22 10 | 35 9 | 39 8 | 36 1 |
| July 4 | 46 11 | 30 9 | 23 11 | 32 11 | 39 6 | 38 0 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 9 | 31 9 | 23 0 | 34 9 | 39 8 | 36 11 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

WANTED, a PERSON to manage a Seed Shop; must have a good knowledge of Clover and Grass Seeds, and be a good Bookkeeper.—Apply by letter, stating antecedents and salary expected, addressed SEEDSMAN, Post Office, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

WANTED, a really energetic and good business Man as OUT-DOOR FOREMAN, who thoroughly understands the Management of Hardy Ornamental Trees, Fruit Trees, Shrubs, &c., as well as general out-door Nursery Stock, and can produce first-class testimonials.—Apply, in own handwriting, with all particulars, to JAMES DICKSON & SONS, The "Newton" Nurseries, Chester.

WANTED, an INDOOR FOREMAN, PLANTSMAN, SALESMAN, and PROPAGATOR, both Hard and Soft-wooded, more particularly the Propagation of Rhododendrons, Conifers, Camellias, Ericas, Roses, &c. A knowledge of the Early Forcing of Plants for Cut Flowers, &c. indispensable. Neither Dissenters nor such as cannot command first-class testimonials both for ability and high moral standing need apply.—Address, stating age, wages required without house, to THOMAS CRIPPS, Nurseryman, Tunbridge Wells, Kent.

WANTED, for a NURSERY, a good PLANT GROWER.—One who has grown for the Market would be preferred; he must be well experienced in growing Geraniums, Heaths, Azaleas, &c. To a first-class Man liberal wages would be given, and the situation a permanent one; but it would be useless for any person to apply for it who cannot give from his last employment a satisfactory proof of his abilities.—Apply by letter to A. B., Mr. J. G. Waites, 181, High Holborn, W.C., stating former experience, age, if married, and wages expected.

WANTED, as GARDENER, an active industrious Man, from 30 to 40, who thoroughly understands his profession, married (without children). The Wife a good Laundress. To reside in a small cottage on the premises. Members of the Established Church preferred. Unexceptionable references required.—Apply by letter, J. G., Houndshill, Stratford-on-Avon.

WANTED, as GARDENER and LAUNDRESS, a Man and Wife; both thoroughly competent. Wages 26s. per week, with coals and furnished cottage.—Address, Rev. W., Shipbourne Parsonage, Tunbridge.

WANTED, a SHOPMAN, in a Provincial Nursery, a trustworthy experienced steady Man not under 30.—Address, stating where he has been employed, wages required, and other particulars, to A. B., Messrs. Hurst & Son, 6, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30, single; understands Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens, Greenhouses, &c.; also Meadow Land and Stock. Four years' good character.—H. T., 4, Cornwall Road, Brixton Hill, S.

GARDENER (HEAD).—WM. WOOD & SON are desirous of recommending to the notice of any lady or gentleman requiring a first-class Gardener a Man who is in every way qualified to fill a good situation. He has an excellent knowledge of Growing Pines, Vines, Melons, Orchids, Flower and Kitchen Gardening—in fact, has a thorough knowledge of his profession.—WM. WOOD & SON, Maresfield, Uckfield, Sussex.

GARDENER (HEAD) with any nobleman or gentleman.—Age 37, married; has had 22 years' experience in his profession in all its branches, viz., the Forcing and Management of Flowers, also Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Strawberries, Melons, Cucumbers, and all sorts of Vegetables, and is a good Kitchen Gardener. Can have a first-rate character from the gentleman he has just left, with whom he lived six years.—E. MITCHELL, Post Office, near Woolton, Liverpool.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 35, married; a scientific practical man in every department of Horticulture.—A. R. M., Messrs. Rollisson & Son, Tooting, London, S.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33, single; W. HOWARD, Gardener to B. Edgington, Esq., Lavender Hill, Wandsworth, S.W. A first-class Plant and Fruit Grower, and good general Gardener. Can be highly recommended by several leading horticulturists, also by his present employer.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 37, married; thorough knowledge of Forcing Fruit, Flowers, and Vegetables; also Kitchen and Flower Gardening in all its branches; the Management of Land and Stock if required. Good testimonials.—C. H., Mr. Robson's, Mead Vale, Red Hill, Surrey.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 26, married; has a thorough practical knowledge of Gardening in all its branches. Also Meadow Land, Stock, &c. The highest testimonials as to character and abilities.—E. H., Post Office, Mount Ephraim, Tunbridge Wells.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 38, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands the Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Forcing of all kinds of Fruit, Vegetables, &c. Can have a good character from the place he is leaving.—JOHN GUM, Marble Hill, Twickenham, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD, good Working).—Age 32, married, one child; had experience in Early Forcing—Vines, Pines, Peaches, Melons, Cucumbers; thoroughly understands Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens, &c. Good testimonials as to character, &c.—G. COLE, Gardener to H. Rydon, Esq., Highbury New Park, Islington, N.

GARDENER (HEAD WORKING), where one or two are kept.—Age 29, married; thorough knowledge of his profession in Forcing Pot Fruits, Stove Plants, Vines, &c. Reference from head gardeners. Character will bear the strictest investigation.—I. X. L., Post Office, Wandsworth.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 24, married. Two years' good character.—A. B., 162, Manor Street, Clapham, Surrey, S.

GARDENER (HEAD, or good SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 23, single; thoroughly acquainted with his profession. Unexceptionable character. A religious family preferred.—O. M., 14, Ormond Row, Smith Street, Chelsea, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD or good SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 33, married; perfectly understands his profession. Can Manage Stock and Land, if required. Good character.—M. B., 4, Chesnut Place, Wimbledon, Surrey.

GARDENER.—Age 24, single; understands Forcing and the Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens.—A. B., Rev. Dr. Monsell's, Egham, Surrey.

GARDENER.—Married, one child; thoroughly understands his profession in all its branches. Five years' good character.—J. T., 4, Henry Street, Upper Kennington Lane, S.

GARDENER, age 30, single.—Mr. WM. PAUL can recommend to any gentleman a good practical Gardener; well versed in the general routine of Kitchen and Flower Gardening, and can have first-rate testimonials as to character and ability. Wages 24s. per week.—W. J., Paul's Nurseries, Waltham Cross, N.

GARDENER (SECOND).—Age 20; has had several years' experience. Can be highly recommended. A premium given.—Mr. W. KAILE, Gardener to the Earl of Lovelace, East Horsley Towers, Ripley, Surrey.

GARDENER (ASSISTANT or UNDER).—Age 20; three years' apprentice at Woburn Abbey, and one and a-half at the Royal Gardens, Kew. Excellent testimonials.—C. T., The Hall, Atherstone.

GARDENER and STEWARD.—Age 33, married; has had 17 years' practical experience in Improving and Laying out Pleasure Grounds, Erecting and Heating Hothouses, a successful Grower of Plants, Fruits, &c.; a good practical knowledge of Agriculture, acquired in Scotland. Good references. Five years' character, which will bear the strictest inquiry, from present employer.—R. B., Post Office, Winslow, Bucks.

FOREMAN.—Age 25; understands the Management of Vines, Pines, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Orchids, &c.—A. B., Mr. R. Fowler's, Oadbey, Leicestershire.

PROPAGATOR and GENERAL FOREMAN.—Age 35, married; second to none in the Trade in Conifers, Roses, Rhododendrons, &c., a first-rate Plant Grower, and a man who would study the interest of his employer. First-class references.—A. B., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

To Nurserymen.

PROPAGATOR (UNDER).—Has been accustomed to the Hard-wood line in general, chiefly Roses, Rhododendrons, and Conifers. Has had upwards of nine years' first class experience in the above line. Good reference from his present employer.—E. F. G., Post Office, Hailsham, near Hurst Green, Sussex.

FORESTER.—Thoroughly understands Laying out of Plantations for Economy and Picturesque effect, Draining, Thinning, and Rearing of same; Management of Coppice, Wood, and Timber; the Erection of Cribs for Trees and Fences of every description. Was upwards of 15 years in last situation.—W. W., Mr. Smith, St. John's, Worcester.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

LAND STEWARD.—Has had the Management of a large Estate in one of the Midland Counties for many years; will be at liberty in July. He has had many years of practical experience in the Management of Land, Timber, Woods, Plantations, and the Superintendence of Repairs; also a large Farm, Stock, &c., and the general business of an Estate. Testimonials and the most unexceptionable references can be given.—C. M., Post Office, Canterbury.

To Nurserymen and Head Gardeners.

IMPROVER, in large Garden or Nursery.—A youth.—J. N., Messrs. Eaton & Son, College Street, Worcester.

IMPROVER in a gentleman's Garden or Nursery.—Age 23; can have a good character.—A. M., Post Office, Eardisley, Hereford.

PACKER in a Nursery, or to do the GLAZING in a gentleman's place, and fill up time in the Houses.—N. M., 1, Mitford Road, West Side, Grove Road, Hornsey Road, N.W.

To the Nursery and Seed Trade.

CLERK or BOOKKEEPER.—Age 35; understands the business generally. Unexceptionable references.—F. N., Mr. William Bull's Establishment for New and Rare Plants, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.
CHUBB'S FIRE PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS; CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.
Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.
CHUBB & SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

Universal Microscope. Price £5 5s.
SMITH, BECK, AND BECK, 31, Cornhill, E.C.; late 6, Coleman Street.
₊ Catalogues sent on receipt of 6 postage stamps.

Odours of Plants.
PIESSE AND LUBIN extract the PERFUME from every fragrant Flower by the process of "Enfleurage," which being conducted while the plant is yet alive, the odours obtained are retained in their true and natural fragrance. Jasmin, Violet, Acacia (Farnesiana), Tuberose, Jonquil, Orange, Mignonette, and several others. Sold in Bottles, 2s. 6d. each.
Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond Street.

TURKISH BATHS, Victoria Street.—This magnificent establishment, accommodating 800 daily, is NOW OPEN, Sundays excepted. Public and Private Baths for Ladies and Gentlemen, price from 1s. 6d. upwards.—N. B. Baths for Horses. ORIENTAL BATH COMPANY of LONDON (Limited), Victoria Street, near the Station, Westminster.

CHANDELIERS in Bronze and Ormolu for DINING ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Vases and other Ornaments.
OSLER, 45, Oxford Street, London, W.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS
Wall Lights and Lustres for Gas and Candles, Table Glass, &c.
Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from 7l. 15s.
Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from 2l.
All articles marked in plain figures.
Ornamental Glass, English and Foreign, suitable for Presents.
Mess, Export, and Furnishing Orders promptly executed.
London—Show Rooms, 45, Oxford Street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Show Rooms, Broad Street.
Established 1807.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, AND CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. METCALFE'S celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2s. per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2s., 3s. 6d., and 5s. each. 130 B, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

HAIR RESTORED, preserved, and beautified, by the use of ROWLAND'S MACASSOR OIL.—It prevents hair from falling off or turning grey, strengthens weak hair, cleanses it from scurf and dandriff, and makes it beautifully soft, pliable, and glossy. For children it is especially recommended, as forming the basis of a beautiful head of hair. Price 3s. 6d., 7s., 10s. 6d. (equal to four small), and 21s. per bottle.
Caution—Ask for ROWLAND'S Macassor Oil. Sold at 20, Hatton Garden, E.C., and by Chemists and Perfumers.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS.—PRIZE MEDAL awarded to THRESHER & GLENNY for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.
Lists of Prices on application to THRESHER & GLENNY, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

Glenfield Patent Starch.
MESSRS. WOTHERSPOON AND CO. have been appointed STARCH PURVEYORS to H. R. H. the PRINCESS of WALES. This Starch is used in the Royal Laundry and was awarded a Prize Medal. Sold by all Grocers, Chandlers, &c.
WOTHERSPOON & Co., Glasgow and London.

CAPTAIN WHITE'S ORIENTAL PICKLE, CURRY or MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, Curry Powder, and Curry Sauce, may be obtained from all Sauce Vendors, and Wholesale of CROSSE & BLACKWELL, Purveyors to the Queen, Soho Square, London, W.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'
WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE,
Pronounced by Connoisseurs
"THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
See Name on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper, and to avoid Counterfeits
ASK FOR LEA AND PERRINS' SAUCE.
₊ Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL; Messrs. BARCLAY & SONS, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by
DINNEFORD & Co., 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by DU BARRY'S health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure No. 62,914. Miss Lange, age 18 years, Liège in Belgium; cured after the medical men had abandoned all hopes of her recovery from the last stage of pulmonary consumption, with fearful cough, expectoration, exhaustion, spitting of blood, perspirations, hollow cheeks, emaciated to a skeleton. She is now, thank God, a perfectly healthy, blooming, fleshy girl.—N. LANGE, Commissaire de Police.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2s. 9d.; 2 lb., 4s. 6d.; 5 lb., 11s; 12 lb., 22s.; 24 lb., 40s.
BARRY DU BARRY & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1863.

SHAW'S TIFFANY.
For samples and prices apply to
J. SHAW & Co., 29, Oxford Street, Manchester.

For Watering Gardens, Lawns, and Washing Windows, Carriages, &c. India-Rubber Hose-Pipes and Tubing.

JAMES LYNE HANCOCK, MANUFACTURER, has a large Stock of all sizes. Also BRASS HAND-BRANCHES, with SPREADERS, STOP-COCKS, JETS, and UNION JOINTS to connect the HOSE to CISTERNS.

INDIA-RUBBER FIRE-ENGINE HOSE for Private Houses, Mansions, and Breweries, and also the necessary FIRE-BRANCHES and UNION SCREWS.

Illustrated Price Lists on application.

JAMES LYNE HANCOCK, Vulcanized India-Rubber Works, 266, Goswell Road, London, E.C.

E. T. ARCHER'S "FRIGI DOMO."—Patronised by her Majesty the Queen, the Duke of Northumberland for Syon House, his Grace the Duke of Devonshire for Chiswick Gardens, Professor Lindley for the Horticultural Society, Sir Joseph Paxton for the Crystal Palace, Royal Zoological Society, late Mrs. Lawrence of Ealing Park, &c.

PROTECTION from the SCORCHING RAYS of the SUN.

"FRIGI DOMO," a Canvas made of patent prepared Hair and Wool, a perfect non-conductor of Heat and Cold, keeping, wherever it is applied, a fixed temperature. It is adapted for all horticultural and floricultural purposes, for preserving Fruits and Flowers from the scorching rays of the sun, from wind, from attacks of insects, and from morning frosts. To be had in any required lengths.

Two yards wide .. .. .. 1*s.* 6*d.* per yard run.
Four yards wide .. .. . 3*s* per yard.
An improved make, 2 yards wide, 1*s.* 8*d.* per yard.
An improved make, 3 yards wide, 2*s.* 6*d.* per yard run.
Also "Frigi Domo" Netting, 2 yards wide, 1*s.* 4*d.* per yard run.

ELISHA THOMAS ARCHER, Whole and Sole Manufacturer, 7, Trinity Lane, Cannon Street, City, E.C., and of all Nurserymen and Seedsmen throughout the kingdom.

"It is much cheaper than Mats as a covering."

Woolston, Bletchley Station, Bucks, and
STAND 39, WORCESTER.

SMITH'S PATENT STEAM CULTIVATORS and APPARATUS are so well known for their efficiency and durability that it is needless to say much about them here; but it may be well to compare their draught with that of other makers. See the Agricultural Gazette of June 13, 1863; there it is shown that Mr. J. C. Morton found, by Dynamometer test, at Sutton Courtney, that—

SMITH'S No. 3 lifted 474 lb. of earth per yard at a draught of 12 cwt., the nominal power of an Eight-horse Engine.

HOWARD'S three tined Implement lifted 386 lb. of earth per yard at a draught of 12 cwt.

FOWLER'S seven-tined Cultivator lifted 487 lb. of earth per yard at a draught of 31 cwt.

The cost of Apparatus and Implements is as follows:—

| | £ | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Windlass, with Anchors, &c., complete | 110 | 0 | 0 |
| 1400 Yards of Steel Wire Rope .. .. | 61 | 0 | 0 |
| No. 3 Cultivator .. .. .. .. | 15 | 0 | 0 |
| No. 4 Cultivator .. .. .. .. | 17 | 0 | 0 |
| Licence .. .. .. .. .. | 21 | 0 | 0 |
| Eight-horse Engine .. .. .. | 230 | 0 | 0 |
| Ten horse ditto .. .. .. .. | 290 | 0 | 0 |

There are more than 200 Sets of this Apparatus in practical working in all parts of the United Kingdom.

Catalogues, with full particulars, forwarded on application to the Inventor and Patentee.

Woolston, Bletchley Station, Bucks, and
STAND 39, WORCESTER.

SMITH'S NEW PATENT COMBINED CULTIVATOR and DRILL.—It is constructed upon a new principle especially applicable to steam power; is half a ton lighter than the one shown last year at Battersea, yet quite as strong; is 15*l.* cheaper, and more efficient. The Seed Box can be taken from the framing, and the Seed Coulters from the Cultivator, in a few minutes, leaving it a bare Cultivator of the simplest and best construction, for a Wide Steam Cultivator for light land or crossing heavy land.

Price £55. If to be worked by apparatus not supplied by the Patentee or his Agents, £25 extra.

The practical working of the above Machine has been the most successful on the Inventor's Farm, who has been rewarded by good crops last year and again this year; and here is some evidence as to its usefulness, when worked by practical Tenant Farmers:—

"Buckden, June 2, 1863.

"Dear Sir,—In the autumn of last year I cultivated and drilled with Wheat, at one operation, with your Combined Machine, 75 acres of heavy clay land Bean stubble in 90 working hours, and 9 acres of Vetches. Some time back the Wheat looked as though I should have had too much, but the dry weather has put all straight, and it now promises to be a thorough good crop. The Vetches were very good, and have been eaten off. In the spring of this year I used the Machine again, cultivating and drilling with Barley 12 acres of clay land after Turnips, fed off with sheep in the winter, and it did well. I shall be pleased and hope to see you before harvest.—I remain, yours truly, "WILLIAM CRANFIELD.

"To Mr. Smith."

"Hemingford, St. Ives Hunts, June 10, 1863.

"Dear Sir,—Your kindness in allowing the Combined Drill and Cultivator to remain in this neighbourhood for the use of those who work your Cultivating Apparatus, induced me to take advantage of it, and with the Machine I have effected that which I am satisfied could not have been done by any other means.

"The field we worked is 24 acres Swedes, fed off half of it in January, which was afterwards drained, and the remaining part of the Swedes was fed late in the spring; not finished till first week in April.

"Your implement completed the 24 acres in 2½ days' work, from 6 A.M. to 6 P.M., although the land was as hard as it possibly could be. The Oats were visible above ground in 18 days, and from present appearances I have a right to anticipate a good crop. Had the same field been cultivated with horses, I consider it would have taken a hundred or more; and then I am sure the Oats would only partly have appeared above ground, the weather was and has remained so very dry.—Yours very faithfully, "F. BATTCOCK."

"W. Smith, Esq."

LOANS.—THE BRITISH MUTUAL INVESTMENT, LOAN, and DISCOUNT COMPANY (LIMITED), is prepared to GRANT LOANS, in sums not exceeding 1000*l.*, upon approved personal or other security, repayable by easy instalments, extending over any period not exceeding 10 years.

Forms of Proposal, Prospectuses, and every other information, may be obtained at the Offices of the Company, 17 and 18, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.

CHARLES JAMES THICKE, Manager.
JOSEPH K. JACKSON, Secretary.

THE OIL-SEED CRUSHING COMPANY (LIMITED).

Registered under "The Companies Acts, 1862."
Capital 500,000*l.*, in 25,000 shares of 20*l.* each.
Deposit on application 1*l.*, and on allotment 1*l.* 10*s.*

No call to be made until two months after date of allotment, and all subsequent calls not to exceed 2*l.* 10*s.* each, nor to be made at less intervals than two months.

Directors.

The Lord Holmesdale, M.P., Linton Park, Staplehurst, Kent.
William Blewitt, Esq., (firm of Messrs. Turner, Blewitt, & Co.), Blackwall.
Edward Hales, Esq., Managing Director (late of the firm of Messrs. H. and J. Johnston & Co.), North Frith, Tunbridge, Kent.
Walker Joy, Esq. (firm of Messrs. Edward Joy & Sons), Leeds.
James Laming, Esq., Director of the London and County Bank, Birchington Hall, Isle of Thanet.
S. Teulon, Esq., Director of the South-Eastern Railway Company.
W. Curteis Whelan, Esq., Herondon Hall, Tenterden, Kent.
T. S. Womersley, Esq. (firm of Messrs. Womersley & Burt), St. Michael's House, Cornhill, London.

Solicitors.—Messrs. Thomas & Hollams, Commercial Chambers, Mincing Lane.
Brokers.—Messrs. Huggins & Rowsell, 1, Threadneedle Street.
Auditors.—Messrs. Cooper Brothers & Co., 13, George Street, Mansion House.
Bankers.—The London and County Bank, Lombard Street.
Secretary (pró tem.).—Mr. John Hooper.
Temporary Offices—25, Birchin Lane, E.C.

This Company is formed for the purpose of carrying out upon an extensive scale the business of Oil-seed Crushing, which has ranked for many years amongst the most profitable of our manufactures.

The importance of this trade, and the certainty of its future development to a much larger magnitude, are manifest from the great increase that has taken place in the consumption of vegetable oils, both in England and upon the Continent, as shown by the amount of our imports of Oil Seeds, which have risen since 1847 from 487,035 quarters, to an annual average during the last three years of 1,401,603 quarters; whilst the annual export of Seed Oils to the Continent has grown up during the past five years from 16,250 to 32,000 tons.

The consumption of Oil-seed Cake has advanced in a still greater ratio, the import of foreign descriptions having kept pace with the extra supply from our home manufactures, thus establishing the important fact that Oilcake is an article of permanent and increasing extensive demand; and there is every reason to expect that England must become more and more a grazing country, owing to the high price of meat, and the disadvantage of competing in the growth of corn with countries more favoured by nature for this purpose.

This statement is made without reference to cotton seed, which has increased in supply during the last few years more than ten-fold; and although an article but recently applied to oil-producing and fattening purposes, the profits arising from its manufacture have been highly satisfactory.

In order to commence operations at an early date, the Directors have entered into a provisional contract for the purchase of the Seed crushing Mills, situated at Dover, in Kent, which have lately been refitted with machinery upon the most approved principles. The price fixed for these mills is at the valuation of Messrs. Fuller & Horsey (the eminent valuers of this description of property), who in their report say:—"We have no hesitation in expressing our opinion that for the purposes for which the mills were erected they are without a rival, both as to the substantial character and arrangement of the buildings and also as to the machinery, the whole of which (or nearly so) may be said to have been renewed within the last year, and all the appliances that modern science and practical experience have suggested up to the present time for economical working with large results have been introduced in a most perfect manner."

The situation of these Mills, contiguous to the harbour of Dover, and having the command of two railways, one of which loads at their doors, leaves nothing to be desired either as regards facilities for foreign imports or the distribution of their manufacture throughout the kingdom. The cheap and rapid means of communication between Dover and the railways of France and Belgium also enable them in a peculiar way to derive benefit from the export of seed oils to the continental cities.

Although the productive power of the Dover Mills is unequalled by any similar manufactory in the country, there are ample facilities for greatly enlarging it at an inconsiderable cost. In the meantime it is estimated that 80,000*l* only will be required for the purchase of and working this property as it now stands.

By this purchase the Directors will be enabled to avoid the usual delay necessary for building, erection of machinery, &c., as the Mills are now in full work; and from carefully made estimates and the practical experience of a portion of the Board, coupled with the fact that Mr. Edward Hales has consented to undertake the management of the business, the Directors anticipate with confidence a profit of at least 10 per cent. upon the capital invested.

Early possession of the property will be given, and operations can be commenced without delay, so that there is no reason to doubt that a dividend, from earnings, will be payable within 12 months.

The preliminary expenses of the Company will be strictly confined to the actual outlay. All applications for shares must be accompanied by a deposit of 1*l.* per share, and a further sum of 1*l.* 10*s.* per share will be required upon allotment.

Should no allotment be made the deposit will be returned in full.

Prospectuses, with Forms of Application, may be had at the Bankers and Brokers of the Company, and at the Temporary Offices.

APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

1*l.* per share payable on application, and 1*l.* 10*s.* on allotment.

To the Directors of the Oilseed Crushing Company (Limited).

Gentlemen,—I request you to allot me shares of 20*l.* each in the Oilseed Crushing Company (Limited), and I hereby agree to accept such shares, or any less number that may be allotted to me, subject to the regulations of the Company, and to pay the further deposit of 1*l.* 10*s.* per share on allotment; and I further authorise you to enter my name in the register of the Company for the number of Shares which may be allotted to me.

Signature..............................
Address in full ......................
Date ..................................

Land Drainage.

WORKS of DRAINAGE of any extent are EXECUTED by the GENERAL LAND DRAINAGE and IMPROVEMENT COMPANY on all Descriptions of Property, whether Freehold, Entailed, Mortgaged, Trust, Ecclesiastical, Corporate, or Collegiate.

Repayment may be made by the Landowner as successive portions of the works are completed; or the actual expenditure, with a commission thereon, may be charged on the property improved, by way of rent charge on the estate created for various terms of years, so as to adapt the rate per cent. of annual charge to the circumstances of the tenants.

No investigation of title being required, or notices given to Reversioners or Mortgagees, no legal expenses are incurred.

Works of Irrigation, Enclosing, Wood Grubbing, Road Making, and Farm Buildings are executed in a similar manner.

Landowners desirous to execute any of the Improvements by their own Agents, and charge the outlay and expenses on the Estate, may obtain Loans for the purpose.

Applications to be made to WILLIAM CLIFFORD, the Secretary, at the Offices of the Company, 52, Parliament Street, S.W.

THE LANDS IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.—Incorporated by Special Act of Parliament in 1853.
2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, S.W.

TO LANDOWNERS, THE CLERGY, ESTATE AGENTS, SURVEYORS, &C. IN ENGLAND AND WALES AND IN SCOTLAND.

The Company advances money, unlimited in amount, for the following works of Agricultural Improvement, the whole outlay and expenses in all cases being liquidated by a rent charge for 25 years.

1. Drainage, Irrigation and Warping, Embanking, Inclosing, Clearing, Reclamation, Planting, for any beneficial purpose, Engines or Machinery for Drainage or Irrigation.
2. Farm Roads, Tramways and Railroads for agricultural or farming purposes.
3. Jetties or Landing places on the sea coast or on the banks of navigable rivers or lakes.
4. The erection of Farm Houses, Labourers' Cottages, and other Buildings required for Farm purposes, and the improvement of and additions to Farm Houses and other buildings for farm purposes.

Landowners assessed under the provisions of any Act of Parliament, Royal Charter, or Commission, in respect of any public or general works of drainage or other improvements, may borrow their proportionate share of the cost, and charge the same with the expenses on the lands improved.

No investigation of title is required, and the Company being of a strictly financial character do not interfere with the plans and execution of the Works, which are controlled only by the Government Enclosure Commissioners.

For further information, and for forms of application, appli- to the Honourable WILLIAM NAPIER, Managing Director, 2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, S.W.

LUXURIOUS GARDEN SCENES—Magical Effects in Colour—Peaches all the Year Round—Bulbous Flowers for every Day in the Year—Vegetables in Profusion and Variety—Flowers to Win Prizes—Practical Work of all Seasons in Garden, Greenhouse, Conservatory—Descriptions of all the New Plants.

Order the GARDEN ORACLE. By SHIRLEY HIBBERD, Esq., F.R.H.S. Price 1*s.* Second Edition.

London: GROOMBRIDGE & SONS, 5, Paternoster Row, E.C.

This day, with Frontispiece and numerous other Illustrations, handsomely bound in cloth gilt, 400 pp., price 2*s.* 6*d.*,

YOUNG WOMAN'S COMPANION. This Volume, prepared with care, aims to be the Young Woman's Companion in Plain and Ornamental Needlework, Letter Writing, the Sick Room and Nursery, the Parlour, the Kitchen; Moral Readings for Leisure Hours, including Poems and Tales, and Four Hundred Golden Rules of Life.

 No better gift for Maid and Matron exists than the "Young Woman's Companion." It should be in the hands of all.

London: WARD & LOCK, 158, Fleet Street.

This day is published, with upwards of 150 Woodcut Illustrations, Post 8vo, 10*s.* 6*d.*,

THE ANGLER-NATURALIST: A Popular History of British Fresh-water Fish, with an explanation of the Rudiments of Ichthyology. By H CHOLMONDELEY PENNELL, Author of "How to Spin for Pike," &c.

JOHN VAN VOORST, 1, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Harvest Time is Near.

The State of the Weather may be known by consulting

THE USEFUL WEATHER GUIDE (Just Published) for FARMERS, GARDENERS, SAILORS, &c.

One dozen copies sent free by post on receipt of two penny stamps addressed to T. ROBERTS & Co., 8, Crane Court, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

Third Edition, with Engravings, price 5*s.*,

A PRACTICAL TREATISE on the CULTIVATION of the GRAPE VINE. By WILLIAM THOMSON, Gardener to His Grace the Duke of Buccleuch, K.G., &c., Dalkeith Park, Scotland. With Additions, and a Chapter on the Open-Air Cultivation of the Vine.

WILLIAM BLACKWOOD & SONS, Edinburgh and London.

In fcp. 8vo., with Frontispiece in Colours, price 5*s.*,

THE INDOOR GARDENER. By Miss MALING, Author of "Indoor Plants."

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co. Paternoster Row, E.C.

New Work on New Zealand.

Now ready, in post 8vo, with Map, price 5*s.*,

A FIRST YEAR in CANTERBURY SETTLEMENT. By SAMUEL BUTLER.

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW, No. CCXLI, was published on THURSDAY LAST.

CONTENTS

I. NAPIER'S MEMORIALS OF CLAVERHOUSE.
II. DRUIDS AND BARDS.
III. FERGUSSON'S MODERN ARCHITECTURE.
IV. LOUIS BLANC'S FRENCH REVOLUTION.
V. SIR G. C. LEWIS ON FORMS OF GOVERNMENT.
VI. RAYMOND'S NAVIES OF FRANCE AND ENGLAND.
VII. THE SOURCES OF THE NILE.
VIII. THE SCOTS IN FRANCE—THE FRENCH IN SCOTLAND.
IX. LYELL ON THE ANTIQUITY OF MAN.

London: LONGMAN & Co Edinburgh: A. & C. BLACK.

News of the Week.

IN the House of Lords on Monday Earl GREY moved an address to the QUEEN for papers with regard to Poland, and expressed his opinion that a war with Russia on behalf of Poland would be a great calamity. He therefore thought that Parliament ought not to separate until the opinion of her Majesty's Government had been elicited on the subject. Earl RUSSELL in reply said that in conjunction with France and Austria her Majesty's Government had submitted six propositions to Russia, which provided for an armistice, and would, if accepted, secure for Poland national institutions and a national representation. Further than this they could do nothing, inasmuch as armed intervention was out of the question. They could neither assist the Poles by force of arms nor propose terms to Russia for the recognition of the independence of Poland; but if anything was obtained for the Poles it would be the result of the force of reason and representation. The Earl of DERBY expressed his satisfaction that the debate had elicited a declaration that we were not to be dragged into a war, and said that the declaration would be most beneficial in crushing any false hopes which might have been entertained. After some observations from Earl GRANVILLE, the Marquis of CLANRICARDE, the Duke of ARGYLL, and the Earl of HARROWBY, the motion was withdrawn. On Tuesday Lord CHELMSFORD called attention to the manner in which the compensation for the loss of the Prince of Wales on the Brazilian coast was assessed and enforced. Earl RUSSELL explained the manner in which the claims for compensation had been drawn up, and after some remarks by the Earl of MALMESBURY and Earl FORTESCUE the subject dropped. On Thursday the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, the Alteration in Judges Circuits Bill, the Greenwich Hospital (Provision for Widows) Bill, and the Metropolitan Main Drainage Extension Bill, were read a second time.

In the Commons on Monday Mr. ROEBUCK moved the discharge of the order for the adjourned debate on the recognition of the Confederate States, and said that he did so because the Prime Minister had stated that the continuance of the debate would be an impediment to the good government of the country. Mr. LINDSAY narrated the circumstances that led to the late interview of himself and Mr. ROEBUCK with the EMPEROR OF THE FRENCH, and said that Mr. ROEBUCK's statement in regard to that interview was substantially correct. Lord PALMERSTON said that Mr. ROEBUCK had judged rightly in moving to discharge the order, for no good could possibly arise from a debate and a division on American affairs at the present moment. He hoped, however, that this would be the last time that any member of the House of Commons would deem it to be his duty to communicate to the House what might have passed between himself and the Sovereign of a foreign country. The order was then discharged. In committee on the Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill, Sir M. PETO moved to omit from the schedule of the Bill the items of the Spithead forts. After a long debate the motion was negatived on a division by 135 to 52. The schedule was then agreed to. The Union Relief Acts Continuance Bill was read a second time. The Sydney Branch Mint Bill, and the Alkali Works Regulation Bill were read a third time and passed. The Companies Clauses and the Railways Clauses Bill passed through committee. On Tuesday, on the order for going into committee on the Union Relief Aid Act Continuance Bill, Mr. CHILDERS moved that any monies raised under the Bill by way of loan on the security of the rates in the distressed districts shall be applicable to assist emigration to such colonies as may be willing to co-operate in carrying it out. After a long discussion the motion was withdrawn, and the Bill passed through committee. Mr. A. MILLS called attention to the constitution of the Indian Council, and moved an address for a Royal Commission to inquire into the subject. The motion was opposed by Sir C. WOOD and Lord STANLEY, and ultimately withdrawn. Colonel NORTH moved an address for a Royal Commission to inquire into the realisation of army prize money and its mode of distribution. Lord PALMERSTON assented to the motion, which was agreed to. Mr. H. SHERIDAN moved a resolution that the duty now chargeable upon fire insurances is excessive in amount, that it prevents insurance, and should be reduced at the earliest opportunity. The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER opposed the motion, which was carried on a division against the Government by 103 to 67. On Wednesday the adjourned debate on the Kitchen and Refreshment Rooms was resumed, when the motion for the enlargement of the Dining Rooms was withdrawn on the understanding that the committee should be reappointed next session. The House went into committee on the Partnership Law Amendment Bill, when Mr. HUBBARD moved that the CHAIRMAN leave the chair. On a division, this motion was negatived by 70 to 40. The Bill then passed through Committee with amendments. The House next went into Committee upon the Anchors and Chain Cables Bill, but did not proceed further than the second clause. On Thursday Mr. S. FITZGERALD called attention to the state of our relations with Brazil, and moved for a copy of the manifest of the cargo of the Prince of Wales. After a long debate the motion was withdrawn. Mr. LAWSON moved that the laws under which licences are granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors are eminently unsatisfactory, and require immediate alteration. On a division the resolution was negatived by 87 to 21. The Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill was read a third time and passed.

From the United States we learn that great excitement and alarm have been caused at Philadelphia and even at New York, by the advance of the Confederate army into Pennsylvania, while Washington and Baltimore are in hourly expectation of attack. General HOOKER has been superseded in the command of the Federal army by General MEADE, who has lost no time in giving battle to the invaders. The battle commenced on the 1st inst., and had not terminated on the 3d. The loss of life on both sides has been enormous, including General LONGSTREET on the part of the Confederates, and Generals REYNOLDS and PAUL on the part of the Federals, while General SICKLES and many others were wounded. The Federals are making very little progress in their attack on Vicksburg, and though General BANKS has threatened a new attack on Port Hudson, the immediate abandonment of the siege is considered certain.

The Mexican garrison evacuated the city of Mexico on the 30th May, and the principal leaders of the Church party thereupon sent a deputation to General FOREY, offering their allegiance to the Emperor NAPOLEON. Accordingly on the 5th ult. a division of the French army entered and occupied the city of Mexico, and the whole army was to follow in a few days.

Home News.

THE COURT.—The Queen and Royal family continue at Osborne. On Sunday morning the Queen, Princess Helena, and Princess Louisa, attended Divine service at Whippingham Church. The Rev. G. Prothero officiated. On Monday the Queen and Royal family walked and drove in the grounds. In the afternoon her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Leiningen, drove out in a carriage and four. On Tuesday the Queen drove out. On Wednesday her Majesty received at Osborne the New Zealand chiefs, consisting of 13 persons—10 males and three females, who arrived from London to have the honour of an interview, accompanied by Mr. Jenkins, Government interpreter, and two other interpreters. The Duke of Newcastle, Secretary of State for the Colonies, was present. The Chiefs crossed over from Southampton in her Majesty's yacht Fairy, which was sent to meet them. The Queen, accompanied by the Princess Helena, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold, received the Chiefs in the Council room, where they were presented by Mr. Jenkins, and had the honour of kissing her Majesty's hand; the heads of tribes then addressed the Queen through the interpreter. After partaking of luncheon, the whole party were taken on board the Victoria and Albert, and went afterwards to Portsmouth. In the afternoon the Queen and Princess Leiningen drove out. The Duke of Newcastle arrived and had an audience of the Queen. On Thursday the Duke of Newcastle and Viscountess Jocelyn left Osborne for London.

THE QUEEN'S VISIT TO GERMANY.—It is understood that her Majesty will leave England for Germany early in August, travelling incog. under the same title of Duchess of Lancaster as upon the last occasion, and maintaining the strictest privacy. Her Majesty, after paying a visit of a day to the King of the Belgians, will proceed direct to the Castle of Rosenau, near Coburg, the birthplace of the Prince Consort, which the Duke of Coburg has placed at her Majesty's disposal. The Queen's stay abroad will probably not exceed four weeks. The Minister in attendance upon her Majesty will be Earl Granville.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES continue at Frogmore. On Saturday the Prince went to Caterham Junction and laid the foundation stone of the Warehousemen and Clerks Schools at Beggars' Bush. On Monday the Prince and Princess arrived at Marlborough House from Frogmore. Their Royal Highnesses afterwards proceeded to Wimbledon, and were present at the rifle shooting of the National Rifle Association. In the afternoon the Prince and Princess visited the Duchess of Cambridge at her residence in St. James's Palace. In the evening their Royal Highnesses honoured the performance at the Princess's Theatre with their presence. On Tuesday morning the Prince and Princess left Marlborough House for the private station at Vauxhall, and proceeded by special train to Aldershott. The Princess Mary of Cambridge joined the Prince and Princess at the station, and accompanied them to Aldershott, where they witnessed a review of the troops. On Wednesday the Prince and Princess drove in a pony phaeton to Virginia Water, where they dined. On Thursday the Prince rode on horseback.

VISIT OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS TO YORKSHIRE.—It is officially announced that the visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to Leeds will take place on Monday, the 3d of August, and that the new Town Hall will be opened on the following day, on the afternoon of which their Royal Highnesses will proceed to Ripon, and pass the night at Studley Royal, the seat of Earl de Grey and Ripon. On the next morning their Royal Highnesses will proceed to Scotland.

PRINCE ALFRED paid a visit to Shetland on the 8th inst. in the Racoon corvette, and left Lerwick on the 10th for Stromness, Stornoway, and St. Kilda. It is understood to be her Majesty's intention that in the ensuing autumn the Prince shall pass some time in Edinburgh. His Royal Highness will reside in Holyrood, and will attend the lectures at the University and by other means complete his education. It is probable that his Royal Highness's stay in Edinburgh may extend to six months.

THE CROWN PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF PRUSSIA, as at present arranged, will leave Putbus, in the island of Rugen, in about 10 days, on their return to Potsdam. After a short stay at that place, their Royal Highnesses will proceed to Rosenau, on a visit to Queen Victoria.

THE CABINET.—A Cabinet Council was held on Saturday at the official residence of the First Lord of the Treasury in Downing Street.

COLONIAL APPOINTMENT.—The Queen has appointed Sir Charles Henry Darling, K.C.B., now Governor of Jamaica, to be Governor of the Colony of Victoria.

THE CHANNEL FLEET, under the command of Rear Admiral Dacres, arrived in Yarmouth Roads from the Downs on Tuesday evening, and after remaining there for a few days will make a cruise round Scotland, visiting the principal ports on their way.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—The Moniteur of Monday publishes the text of the three despatches sent by England, France, and Austria to the Russian Government on the affairs of Poland. The character of these despatches has long been known. The six articles which the Powers consider as calculated to restore tranquillity and secure peace for the future are conceived in almost identical language. Earl Russell's despatch, however, more distinctly demands a suspension of hostilities to be proclaimed by the Emperor of Russia. The Patrie of Tuesday evening publishes an article, stating that the Notes of the Three Powers to Russia are no longer suited to the actual state of affairs, and that Poland does not wish for reconciliation with Russia, but desires independence. There can be no doubt, it adds, that Russia will consent to negotiate upon the basis of the six points, as the negotiation will permit of her pursuing the work of destroying Poland. M. Guéroult, in the Opinion Nationale of Tuesday, believes that no good results are to be expected in the Polish question from the efforts of diplomacy, which will only succeed in establishing its impotence. The Constitutionnel, on the other hand in an article signed by M. Boniface, its editorial secretary, expresses the belief that negotiations on the bases of the six points might lead to a real independence of Poland. It is stated that the Corps Législatif will not reassemble before November. The Empress presided on Monday at a Council of Ministers at St. Cloud. The body of the late Duke of Hamilton will be conveyed to Glasgow on board a French man-of-war. The widowed Duchess, with her children, are staying at St. Cloud with the Empress. The Moniteur announces that the Emperor has received the congratulations of the Queen and King of Spain, as well as of the Kings of Prussia, Portugal, and Holland, on the taking of Mexico. Orders have been sent to Toulon for the equipment of a squadron for Madagascar to protect French interests in that country. The Patrie publishes an article stating that the entry of the French into Mexico will allow of negotiations being entered into which will put an end to the war. The statement of the same journal, that M. Hubert Delisle has been charged with the administrative organisation of Mexico, is said to be unfounded. Prince de la Tour d'Auvergne has arrived in Paris. M. Drouyn de Lhuys received Prince Metternich and the Chevalier di Nigra on Saturday. It is said that Nubar Pasha will shortly arrive at Paris upon a mission relating to the Suez Canal.

SWEDEN.—It is said that Sweden is about to protest against the works which Russia is constructing on the Aland Isles as a breach of the Treaty of Paris.

DENMARK.—The Estates of Schleswig assembled on the 17th inst., for the purpose of deliberating upon different Bills for extending the right of petition, the electoral franchises, and religious liberty. The Malmo Mällpost states that interviews will take place shortly between the Kings of Denmark and Sweden—first in Denmark, and subsequently in Sweden. The same paper says it is probable that the real cause of the meeting of their Majesties is the prospect of serious differences between Germany and Denmark.

PRUSSIA.—The Sud Deutsche Zeitung publishes the following summary of the correspondence which has taken place between the Crown Prince and the King. The first letter is from the Crown Prince to the King, written on the 31st of May, before he set out for the military tour, during which he expressed to the municipality of Dantzic his disapproval of the course taken by the Ministry:—

"Expressions you lately made use of in my presence, regarding the possibility of forcing your measures upon the country, oblige me to speak out on the subject. On dismissing the Auerswald Cabinet you told me that, being more liberal than yourself, I had now got an opportunity for enacting the usual part of a Crown Prince, and throwing difficulties in the way of your government. At that time I promised you to keep back and maintain silence, and offer no opposition. Intending to keep my promise, as I do, I yet feel it my duty to speak to you in private. I beseech you, my dearest father, not to invade the law in the way you hinted. Nobody is more fully aware than myself that to you an oath is a sacred thing, and not to be trifled with. But the position of a Sovereign in regard to his Ministers is sometimes very difficult. Skilled as they are in the lawyer's art, and expert at interpretation, they know how to represent a measure as fair and necessary, and by degrees to force a Sovereign into a path very different to that he intended to tread. The concern, however, I feel for your happiness, and the conviction that it is seriously imperilled, induce me," &c.

Next follows the answer of the King, conceived in a mild spirit:—

"You say you do not intend to offer any opposition. You cannot then have been cautious. Opposition speeches of yours have got abroad and found their way to me. You have now an occasion for making amends by expressing yourself in a different way, by slighting the Progressists and courting the Conservatives. The decree of June, besides being in accordance with the charter, and more particularly with Clause 63, will be laid before the Landtag. The decree, so far from being the enormity you say, ought to have been introduced in the shape of a Bill, even under the late Liberal Cabinet; for it was on this condition only I sanctioned the law protecting printing-offices against the supervision and interference of the police."

On the 3d of June the Crown Prince lodged a formal protest against the decree on the press. It was addressed to Herr von Bismark, accompanied by a request to communicate it to the Cabinet. In this protest the Prince expressed himself in the following style:—

"I deem the proceedings of the Cabinet to be both illegal and injurious to the State and the dynasty. I declare the measure to have been taken without my wishing and knowing it; and I protest against any inference and ascriptions to be possibly based upon my relation to the Council of State."

On the 4th of June the Prince wrote again to the King, stating that the Charter had been evaded and set aside in the case of the decree on the press. Then followed a letter of the King, censuring the Crown Prince in no measured terms, commanding his immediate disavowal of anything falsely reported in the papers, enjoining him to abstain from venturing any similar statements, and intimating that if it should occur again he would be recalled to Berlin, and perhaps deposed from office and deprived of his command. The King was originally inclined to have recourse to measures of restraint, but the Cabinet, though similarly disposed at first, ultimately advised the King to bear with his son. From the reply of the Crown Prince to this communication we extract the following:—

"The address I delivered at Dantzic is the result of calm reflection. I long owed it to my conscience and my position to profess, in the face of the world, an opinion, the truth of which has forced itself upon me more fully from day to day. The hope only of being able after all to avoid placing myself in opposition to you stifled the monitions of my internal voice. But now, ignoring my different views, the Ministry have taken a step imperilling my future and that of my children. I shall make as courageous a stand for my future as you, my dear father, are making for your own. I cannot retract anything I have said. All I can do is to keep quiet. Should you wish me to do so, I hereby lay at your feet my commission in the army and my seat in the Council of State. I beg you to appoint me a place of residence, or to permit me to select one myself, either in Prussia or abroad. If I am not allowed to speak my mind, I must naturally wish to dissever myself entirely from the sphere of politics."

This letter seems to have produced a powerful impression upon the King, who had lately forbidden Count von Bismark to lay his son's protest before the Ministry; but now endeavoured, as the first and sole object of his policy, to restrain the Prince in the course he had entered upon. He wrote him a friendly letter, saying he was welcome to open his mind to his father, but he was to maintain the strictest secrecy with regard to all others, unless, indeed, he wished to incur the punishment suspended over his head. He, too (the King), had a conscience. Count von Bismark, the Prime Minister, also replied to the Prince, stating that his royal highness was in a position to render the task of ministers easy or difficult, but they would persevere in pursuing the grand object they had identified themselves with. They were, he said, the loyal and obedient servants of the king, and they, too, had got a conscience.

RUSSIA.—Letters from St. Petersburg assert that the reply of Prince Gortschakoff to the Notes of the Three Powers will be very pacific, and will only make some reserves relative to the time and place of the Conferences. Private letters from St. Petersburg state on good authority that the intended journey of the Empress has been postponed for political reasons. Her Majesty, it is said, will await the result of the Russian reply to the Notes of the three Powers. The Czas of Thursday publishes a letter which has been addressed to the Czar by the Pope.

POLAND.—It is said that the Grand Duke Constantine is about to visit Berlin and the German Baths. Intelligence from Warsaw states that the Marquis Wielopolski has been formally dismissed, and replaced by General Berg. The ecclesiastic replacing Archbishop Felinski has proclaimed the Church to be in mourning. Many ecclesiastics have been arrested. An order has been issued prohibiting persons from travelling from one village to another without a passport. The Russians have arrested many landowners in the Kingdom of Poland. They have also hung M. Gaczowski at Kielce, and M. Wisniewski, commandant of the National Gendarmery at Radom, with seven others. The 34 gentlemen who were arrested at Warsaw for protecting women against the insults of the police and rabble in the streets during the late riot have been sentenced to be flogged and afterwards sent to the regiments for criminals in Siberia. The widow of Sierakowski, far advanced in pregnancy, has been transported to Siberia, with the two sisters Dalowski. Accounts from Warsaw state that the National Government intended to draw up a circular Note, refusing to agree to the six points of the Three Powers; but, being informed that the Emperor Napoleon would pay no attention to their refusal, they have resolved to issue a manifesto to the people. This manifesto will be published in the English, French, German, and Polish languages on the day that the reply of Prince Gortschakoff becomes known. The National Government on Thursday issued the first number of a new official journal, under the title of the Independence, the leading article of which repudiates the idea of any negotiation with Russia. The announcement that the funds of the National Government had been seized by the Russians is entirely false. An engagement took place on the 6th inst. between the insurgents and Russians at Janow, in the palatinate of Cracow. Great atrocities were committed by the Russians after the engagement. The whole town, with the exception of three houses, was burnt down, and it is said that 20 Jews and several wounded persons met their deaths in the flames. The Polish detachment under Chmielinski has cut to pieces a company of Russian troops. The 7th Prussian brigade, cantoned on the Polish frontier, has been replaced by the 5th. The motive for this change is that the Poles in the 7th brigade passed over to the insurgents with their arms and baggage. An engagement between a flying corps of insurgent cavalry and a body of Russian infantry took place on the 5th at Kaski, in which the insurgents were successful. Another engagement has taken place at Mlawa. A sanguinary engagement took place on the 7th inst. at Nowawies, in the district of Kalisch. The insurgent leader Wawer had desperate conflicts with the Russians at Sapockiny, in the district of Augustowo, on the 5th and 7th inst. An engagement occurred on the 8th at Walewice. A numerous band of insurgents is collecting near Dubno, in Volhynia. Wierzbicki, by a manœuvre whereby he deceived the Russians, has succeeded in penetrating into the interior of the Government of Lublin, and has effected a junction with Rucki, who had already after his defeat at Bukowata, effected a junction with Krysinski, Jankowski, and Zilinski. The united forces of these leaders had desperate engagements on the 7th, 8th, and 9th inst. with the Russians, in which the latter were repulsed. Grabowski obtained a victory over the Russians on the 10th inst. at Zuluczek. The insurgent chiefs Skrzynski and Skowronski also had engagements with the Russians on the 11th inst. at Ragowa. Taczanowski occupied Turek on the 12th, and advanced on the 13th to Sieradz. Czengery has left Kielce, whither considerable forces had been despatched against him. Fiquette is operating with a flying column of gendarmerie in Sandomir, Bogusz, and Stobnick. Fresh detachments of insurgents, very well armed, have appeared in the government of Plock and in Podlachia. The son of General Mouravieff is in command in the district of Kowno, and spreads terror among the inhabitants. The police discovered a secret gunpowder factory in Cracow on the 14th, and arrested the workmen engaged. The populace hissed and threw stones at the military escort, carrying away three carts full of powder. The soldiers fired and wounded two persons. An engagement between Prussian troops and insurgents took place on the 15th near Miloslaw. Several insurgents were killed, and 60 taken prisoners. Since the arrest of Prince Adam Sapieha, the son and heir of the Marshal of the Austrian province of Galicia, the police have seized the papers of the Galician Agricultural Society, and searched the palace of Prince Leo Sapieha, who, as Marshal of the Province, is President of the Galician Diet. The Sapieha family possess a large castle at Krasiczu, near Przemysl, in Galicia, and the telegraph informs us that on the 9th inst. it was searched from top to bottom by police agents from Lemberg.

ITALY.—Despatches from Rome assert that, on the solicitation of the French Government, Generals Bosco, Luvera, Lusmet, and Pesacane, known for their activity in forwarding brigandage, have been expelled from Rome. Five Neapolitan brigand chiefs, among whom are Cipriano and Lazala, notorious for numerous atrocities, were captured on Friday on board the French steamer at Genoa by the Italian authorities, it is said with the consent of the French Consul. The brigands were provided with passports for Spain signed by the Roman police, and were bearers of letters for the Roman consul at Marseilles, which have been seized by the Italian authorities. It is said, however, that the French Government has disavowed the conduct of the Consul in permitting the arrest, on the ground that it compromised the respect due to the flag of France, and has demanded the immediate liberation of the five prisoners. The subject was brought before the Italian Chamber of Deputies on Wednesday, but was ultimately postponed at the request of the Ministers. The ex-Queen of Naples is said to be suffering from pulmonary disease.

CHINA.—The insurgents have not recommenced hostilities. The Chinese are raising their prices for silk, foreseeing the cessation of Japanese competition. Tranquillity prevailed in Cochin China.

JAPAN.—A further delay has been granted to the Japanese. It is apprehended, however, that war will break out, as the English Admiral has ordered troops from India.

NEW ZEALAND.—Advices have been received at Melbourne from New Zealand announcing that the Maories in the Taranaki district waylaid the military escort on April 27, and massacred Lieutenant Tradgett, Staff Assistant surgeon W. A. Hope, M.B., Sergeant Samuel Hill, and Privates Edward Kelly, John Flynn, Bartholomew Macarthy, and William Banks of the 57th regiment. They then plundered the bodies and mutilated them with tomakawks and spears. The greatest excitement prevailed, and unless the murderers were given up, war was considered inevitable. Sir G. Grey had previously abandoned the Waitara purchase.

UNITED STATES.—General Hooker has been relieved from the command of the army of the Potomac at his own request. General Meade, a West Point graduate, not connected with any political faction, and late commander of the Fifth corps of the Potomac army, has been appointed his successor. General Hooker on leaving issued an order saying that he parted from the army impressed with the belief that his usefulness as a commander was impaired. General Meade also issued an order stating that he accepted the command, which was totally unexpected and unsolicited, with just diffidence. He relieved an eminent and accomplished soldier, and relied upon the troops to assist him in discharging his trust. The sudden change of command at the present crisis has caused general astonishment, but no time has been lost in testing its effects. At 9 A.M. on the 24th ult. the 1st corps of General Meade's army, under Reynolds, followed by the 11th corps under Howard, entered Gettysburg on the east side, and, passing out on the west side, was met by General Hill's corps, advancing from Chambersburg Turnpike in line of battle towards the town. An engagement commenced immediately. During the first portion of the fight Reynolds, by a skilful movement, captured the Confederate General Archer and about 1000 men. General Reynolds was engaged two hours before Howard came up, and at that time the Confederates had partially succeeded in turning Reynolds' right flank. General Reynolds held a position on a wooded ridge, and to the right was another range of hills, which Howard directed Schurz to occupy with the 2d Division. Owing, however, to the flank of the Confederates on Reynolds right Schurz was unable to accomplish his object. At this time General Ewell came up with 25,000 men, and planted batteries, exposing the Federals to a destructive cross-fire. The Federals' right flank was turned, and their left flank at the same time, so superior were the Confederates in numbers. Reynolds's corps giving way, Howard found it impossible to maintain his position, and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon both corps fell back to a position south of Gettysburg, where they were joined by the other corps of Meade's army. At the termination of the engagement the Confederates occupied Gettysburg. The Federals are reported to have numbered 20,000, and the Confederates 50,000. Howard's corps is said to have lost 3000 men, and Reynolds's corps 1500, including Reynolds, General Paul, and an immense number of officers killed. Fighting was resumed on the 25th, but the battle between the main armies did not take place till the 2d inst. Early on that morning General Meade formed his line of battle. His centre occupied the heights south of Gettysburg, at and near the cemetery. The 2d and 3d Corps, under General Sickles, formed the left wing, and the 1st and 11th the right. In the early part of the day it was supposed that General Lee was massing his forces on the Federal right, and dispositions were made accordingly. At 3 P.M. General Sickles, with the 3d corps, was ordered forward and reconnoitered. This brought on a general engagement. The Confederate artillery opened on the Federal left, and the Federal batteries on the Cemetery Hill opened against the Confederates in the field, who returned the fire. All the Federal guns on the northern face of the Cemetery Hill engaged the Confederate batteries two miles across the country. On the Federal right the Confederate artillery caused a large number of troops to run to the rear of the Cemetery Hill, but the line was established in the rear and they were kept in front. The musketry on the Federal left became fierce, and the 3d Corps were driven in disorder from the ground on which they had advanced, but General Sickles rallied them and they again went forward, reinforced by the 5th Corps on their left. The Confederates now attempted to get round the Federal left, but the Federals pressed forward and drove them back until they occupied a position where a Confederate battery had been previously stationed; but the fire being concentrated further to their rear, and the Confederates being reported on their left, they returned to the crest of the hill. General Anderson's and M'Law's division of Longstreet's Corps now advanced upon this position with great fury, killing men on the crest of the hill, over the crest, and coming down on the other side; but the 5th Corps rallied, and, by a strong effort, drove the Confederates back down the hill, and the engagement on the left terminated with darkness. After dark the Confederates advanced upon the Federal right, but the Federals held their position, and the Confederates did not renew the engagement. At the termination of the battle, which is said to have been the most terrific of the war, each belligerent appears to have held the same position as at the commencement. The Federals suffered considerably in killed and wounded. Among the former Brigadier-Generals Paul and Zook, and among the wounded Generals Sickles, Barlow, Graham and Warren. General Sickles was wounded so severely, that his right leg has been amputated, but he is doing well. The Confederates lost General Barksdale and many other General officers. On the 3d inst, the action commenced again at early daylight on various parts of the line. General Meade reports that the Confederates thus far had made no impression upon his position, though all accounts agreed in placing their whole army there. The cannonade lasted till 2 p.m., at the expiration of which time the Confederates assaulted the Federal left and centre twice, being upon both occasions repulsed with severe loss, leaving in General Meade's hands nearly 3000 men. Among the prisoners were General Longstreet, who has since died, Brigadier-General Armistead, and many Colonels and officers of lesser rank. They also left many dead on the field. The loss on the Federal side in killed and wounded was also considerable. Major-General Hancock and Brigadier-General Gibbons were among the wounded. After the assault had been repelled an armed reconnaissance was pushed forward, when the Confederates were found to be in force. General Meade reported that his "cavalry had been engaged all day on both flanks of the enemy, harassing and vigorously attacking him with great success, notwithstanding they encountered superior numbers of both cavalry and infantry. The army is in fine spirits." On the 4th inst. Mr. Lincoln issued the following address, dated Washington, 10.30 A.M.:—

"The President announces to the country that the news from the army of the Potomac up to 10 P.M. of the 3d inst. is such as to cover that army with the highest honour, and promises a great success to the cause of the Union, and to claim the condolence of all for the many gallant fallen, and he especially desires that on this day He whose will, not ours, should ever be done, be remembered and reverenced with the profoundest gratitude."

The Federals are reported to have captured 6000 prisoners in Pennsylvania, 2000 of whom have arrived at Baltimore. General Fitzhugh Lee, with 3000 men, demanded the surrender of Carlisle on the 24th ult., which was refused. General Lee then shelled the town, burning the barracks and numerous buildings, and retired on the 25th towards Shippensburg. The defences of Baltimore are manned by 10,000 citizens, and all arms have been taken from private persons. General French has abandoned Maryland Heights, destroying all the fortifications, and has moved to cooperate with General Meade. The Governor of Pennsylvania has telegraphed to the Governors of New York and New Jersey that there is pressing need of troops. General Couch was going to move down through Cumberland Valley against the Confederates. The bombardment of Port Hudson continues, and another assault was expected to take place. News from Vicksburg to the 28th ult. states that the Confederates continued active resistance. General Johnstone is said to have received reinforcements from Bragg, and to be perfecting arrangements to attack General Grant.

MEXICO.—Telegraphic despatches from San Francisco, dated June 30, report that, according to news received there from the city of Mexico to the 6th ult., the Juarez Government had evacuated the city with the garrison and all the arms and ammunition and gone to San Luis Potosi, believing that better resistance to the advance of the French could be made at that place than at Mexico. The leaders of the Church party afterwards tendered their allegiance to the French Emperor, which so exasperated the populace that a division of French troops was sent into the city for their protection. The whole French army was expected to occupy the capital on the 8th of June. Three newspapers had already been established favouring the policy of the French. General Forey had issued a decree confiscating the property of all parties who have been or are in arms against the French.

PERU.—An important survey of guano deposits on the coast of Peru has been concluded. The stocks are estimated at 1,500,000 tons on the Macabi islands, 2,500,000 tons on the Guanape group, and 4,000,000 tons on the Lobos islands, representing a total value of 46,000,000*l.* sterling. There was every probability of a magnificent dock being speedily erected at Callao, which will be the clearing port for guano vessels from all these islands.

Parliament.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

FRIDAY.—Japan.—The Earl of CARNARVON called attention to the state of our relations with Japan, and asked for an explanation of the ultimatum addressed by Admiral Kuper to the Japanese Government, under the threat of commencing immediate hostilities. He concluded by moving for the production of papers.—Earl RUSSELL vindicated the policy pursued by her Majesty's Government. The British Legation was attacked soon after its establishment. Sir Rutherford Alcock himself narrowly escaped with his life, and Mr. Oliphant was wounded. British subjects had been repeatedly attacked, and some had even been murdered. He considered it therefore to be the duty of the Government to demand redress, more especially as the outrages resulted from a premeditated determination to defeat the treaty. It was just possible that the demands made in the name of her Majesty would be refused, and in that case it would be requisite to have a force to support them. Having entered upon a particular line of policy, and having made treaties with Japan, we must either follow up our policy or confess our failure, and give up all prospect of trading with a country so rich and fruitful.—Earl GREY believed that our treaties with Japan had been extorted from its fears. To require such a Government to act on and to enforce the law of civilised nations was to ask an impossibility, and he deprecated the proceedings of her Majesty's Government as arbitrary and ungenerous. Our policy and our wars in China had produced anarchy and confusion, and we were now about to reproduce the same state of things in the empire of the Tycoon.—The Duke of SOMERSET said that the treaty concluded by Lord Elgin with Japan had been acted upon by successive Governments, and at the request of the Japanese Government modifications had been introduced in it. After this they were surely responsible for its faithful execution. The Government of Japan had been treated with every consideration, and he believed it would not be difficult to obtain redress for the outrages of which we complained. After a few words from Lord WODEHOUSE, the motion was withdrawn. The Removal of Irish Poor Bill and the Marriages Registration (Ireland) Bill were read a second time. The British Columbia Boundaries Bill, the English Church Services in Wales Bill, the Statute Law Revision Bill, the Thames Embankment (South Side) Bill, and the Public Works (Manufacturing Districts) Bill were read a third time and passed.

MONDAY.—The Channel Fleet.—Earl RUSSELL stated, in reply to the Earl of MALMESBURY, that there was no truth in a statement which had appeared in a Sunday print that the Channel fleet had been sent to the Baltic.—The LORD CHANCELLOR laid a Bill on the table authorising the Queen in Council to alter the Circuits of the Judges.—Lord EBURY inquired what steps had been taken towards devising a remedy for the evils arising from the compulsory and indiscriminate use of the Burial Service.—The Archbishop of CANTERBURY replied that the subject had been considered at an influential meeting of the Episcopate, at which several colonial bishops were present, and by the two Houses of Convocation; but no decision had yet been arrived at.—After a few words from the Earl of DESART, the Archbishop of YORK said he was by no means sanguine that a satisfactory measure could be introduced next session. In his opinion the adoption of the American service would not meet the difficulties of the case.—Earl GRANVILLE expressed a hope that some agreement would be come to before next session.—The Bishop of EXETER hoped that the question would not be left to the discretion of the clergy.—Earl GREY, in moving an address for papers on the Affairs of Poland, said he entertained such serious apprehensions with regard to the existing state of matters in that country that he thought Parliament ought not to separate until the opinion of her Majesty's Government had been elicited on the subject. A war with Russia on behalf of Poland would be a great calamity, and his fear was that whilst we did not intend it, we might be gradually drawn into hostilities. He wished to know, therefore, what grounds her Majesty's Ministers had for supposing that the Poles would accept national institutions upon the terms proposed to Russia by the Western Powers. His own opinion was that the insurgents would not accept anything short of complete independence, and he condemned the diplomatic interference of England between a Sovereign and his subjects, as much more calculated to produce a bad than a good result, and to encourage hopes which might prove delusive. But although he deprecated any idea of war on behalf of Poland, he deeply lamented the condition to which that country was reduced, and he had read with horror and indignation the published accounts of the atrocities of the Russians. Nevertheless he considered that this was not a case for armed intervention, which would only aggravate the evil.—Earl RUSSELL did not complain of Lord Grey for bringing forward the question, nor for the tone in which he had treated it. It was one in which her Majesty's Government were acting in concert with the Emperors of France and of Austria, who would necessarily have to be consulted in regard to any ulterior steps that might be taken. He admitted that this was not a case for armed intervention, and that such a proceeding would be more likely to produce fresh calamities than put an end to those which already existed; but he denied that simple diplomatic action would lead to war, or that the remonstrances and good advice which this country had offered to Russia, could produce any evil results. The course which her Majesty's Government had pursued was to enter into communications with France, which had always displayed a warm sympathy with Poland, and also with Austria, which was strongly in favour of ruling her Polish subjects with as much regard as possible to their nationality. In conjunction with these Powers, the six propositions with which the House was familiar had been submitted to Russia. Further than this her Majesty's Government could do nothing. They could neither assist the Poles by force of arms nor propose terms to Russia for the recognition of the independence of Poland. He could not say what the answer of Russia might be, or what course, after receiving that answer, it would be the duty of her Majesty's Government to take. Everything depended upon the answer itself, and the spirit in which the proposals of the Western Powers were received. He regretted to say that the appointment of General Mouravieff and the orders issued by that person were not favourable to the hope that the Emperor of Russia would act a liberal and generous part towards Poland.—Lord BROUGHAM was sorry that Earl Russell should have thought fit to declare, before the answer of Russia had arrived, that armed intervention was out of the question.—Earl RUSSELL said the Emperor of Russia had already decided upon his answer, and that it would be despatched from St. Petersburg that morning.—The Earl of DERBY expressed his entire concurrence in the view taken by the Government with regard to the policy of an armed intervention, and he believed it was the general opinion of the country that we ought not to allow ourselves to be drawn into hostilities on this question. He deprecated even diplomatic interference, as calculated to draw us sooner or later into war. It was possible, indeed, that we might be dragged into a war with Poland herself; for if the six propositions were accepted by Russia, and it was then found that the Poles themselves were the obstacles to carrying them out, Russia would have a right to call upon us to throw the whole weight of our moral influence into the scale on her behalf. He thought her Majesty's Government had acted injudiciously in basing their demands on Russia upon the Treaty of Vienna. They ought to have declared that it was a matter of European interest that the insurrection should end, and the grievances of the Poles be redressed.—Earl GRANVILLE was surprised at Lord Derby finding fault with her Majesty's Government for having done something, rather than nothing, after the numerous appeals which had been made to the Government to make some attempt to stop the cruelties in Poland.—The Marquis of CLANRICARDE approved the policy of non-intervention.—The Duke of ARGYLL defended the Government for basing its proposals on the Treaty of Vienna.—The Earl of HARROWBY said the Treaty of Vienna was the only sanction given by Europe to the partition of Poland, and the title gained thereby had been torn to pieces by the violation of that treaty by Russia.—Earl RUSSELL said, in regard to the motion, that there were as yet no papers, but as soon as the Russian answer was received he would lay it before Parliament.—Earl GREY explained that he did not mean that this country should always adopt a non-interference policy, but that if we were not prepared to back our representions by force we ought not to interfere, as no useful result could ensue. He ultimately withdrew his motion. The Colonial Letters Patent Bill, the Poor-law Board Continuance Bill, and the Loan Societies Bill were read a third time and passed.

TUESDAY.—The Federal Cruisers.—The Earl of AIRLIE asked Earl Russell whether he had received any official report of the alleged attack made by a ship of war of the United States on the ship Margaret and Jessie in British waters. He expressed a hope that Mr. Seward would not only make reparation, but would punish the officers of the ship of war guilty of the offence. He also asked whether a report that the blockading squadron at Charleston had determined to sink ships running the blockade was true.—Earl RUSSELL confirmed the account of the attack on the Margaret and Jessie, and stated that an inquiry was at present going on, with a view, if justified by the evidence, of demanding reparation. In regard to the rumour concerning the intentions of the blockading squadron he had no information, but could not suppose it to be true. The Brazilian Difficulty.—Lord CHELMSFORD called attention to the extraordinary manner in which the compensation for the loss of the ship Prince of Wales on the Brazilian coast was assessed and enforced. He severely condemned the proceedings of the Foreign Secretary and his agent, Mr. Christie, in the matter, and said he thought some apology was due to the Government of Brazil.—Earl RUSSELL said that, as the Brazilian authorities had refused to produce the bodies from the wreck, or to hold an inquest to ascertain what had become of them, and had taken care to destroy all proofs, her Majesty's Government could only draw inferences from the undoubted and very suspicious facts. With regard to the assessment of compensation in the case of the Prince of Wales, the Government were satisfied with it, and had decided upon the sum which Brazil ought to be called upon to pay.—The Earl of MALMESBURY said that the British Government had assumed the offices at once of judge, appraiser, and executioner in a most improper and unjustifiable manner. He regretted they had not thought it consistent with their dignity to intimate to the Brazilian Government their regret at having resorted to reprisals.—Earl RUSSELL said he had been informed by the Portuguese Minister that the King of Portugal had directed his Minister at Brazil to use his good offices to effect a reconciliation between her Majesty's Government and that of the Emperor of Brazil. The Galway Contract.—In answer to the Earl of HARDWICKE, Lord STANLEY of ALDERLEY said that the contract for the conveyance of the mails from Galway to America had been sent to the Atlantic Steam Navigation Company for their signature, and that the service would be commenced as soon as the company were ready to undertake it. The terms were nearly similar to those of the former contract, and the company had been warned that the penalties would be strictly enforced. Several Bills on the table were advanced a stage.

THURSDAY.—The LORD CHANCELLOR moved the second reading of the Alterations in Judges Circuits Bill, stating that its object is to enable her Majesty to make a redistribution of the circuits, and to give compensation to persons who might be affected by the redistribution.—Lord BROUGHAM expressed his approval of the Bill; and after some remarks from the Earl of Powis, it was read a second time.—Lord STANLEY of ALDERLEY moved the second reading of the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, the object of which is to assimilate the law in reference to the Irish salmon fisheries to that which exists in England and Scotland.—Lord CHELMSFORD thought the measure would bear most unjustly on the proprietors of the stake and bag net fisheries, which were to be abolished.—The Earl of DONOUGHMORE said these fisheries were not ancient rights, but were erected illegally during the present session.—The Bill was opposed by the Duke of DEVONSHIRE, Lord CRANWORTH, and the Earl of MALMESBURY; and supported by the Marquis of CLANRICARDE and Lord LIFFORD. Ultimately it was read a second time. The Greenwich Hospital (Provision for Widows) Bill and the Metropolis Main Drainage Bill were read a second time.

FRIDAY.—Judicial Statistics.—The Marquis of CLANRICARDE moved a resolution, that it is expedient and necessary that judicial statistics from Ireland, similar to those for England and Wales, should be annually furnished; that a person acquainted with the Irish courts and otherwise competent should be attached to the Home Office, and that all possible facilities and co-operation should be afforded to this officer by the several authorities in Dublin Castle and the various law courts of Ireland. [Left sitting.]

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

FRIDAY.—Mr. WALPOLE, in proposing a sum of 65,541*l.* to complete the grant of 90,541*l.* for the British Museum, stated that the total vote was a diminution of 8471*l.* upon that of last year. The number of visitors during the year was 895,000, against 641,000 for the previous year: and the reading-room had become so crowded that it had been found advisable to limit the admission to persons who had attained the age of 21 years.—Mr. AYRTON urged the propriety of supplying greater facilities to the working classes to visit the museum in the evening.—Mr. LOCKE thought that the better course would be to open the institution after the hours of Divine service on Sundays, which would prove the best possible competitor of the public-house.—Mr. Coningham suggested that lectures should be delivered in connection with the several collections, and protested against their being broken up and removed to South Kensington.—Mr. Walpole said that it would not be safe to open the museum at night, owing to the danger of fire arising from the use of gas. Moreover, there was no doubt that gaseous exhalations were calculated to injure the books, pictures, and marbles. As to opening the building on Sundays, he believed it would be most improper for any set of trustees to take such a step, when it was illegal to open other institutions to the public on that day.——After some remarks by Mr. Mitford, Colonel Sykes, and Mr. Kinnaird, the vote was agreed to. Orange Lodges in North America.—In answer to Mr. Maguire, Mr. Fortescue said that a Bill for incorporating the Orange Lodges of Prince Edward's Island had been passed by the Legislature of that colony, and had occasioned great regret to the Duke of Newcastle, as such a measure was calculated to produce most injurious effects, by causing division and bad feeling among its inhabitants, but it would not be right to state what advice the noble duke was prepared to offer to the Crown upon the subject The American Debate.—Sir J. Fergusson suggested to Mr. Roebuck that the debate on the recognition of the Southern Confederacy should not be resumed at present on account of the important events now rapidly maturing in America—Lord Palmerston joined in the recommendation, and said, in reference to the interview which had taken place between the Emperor of the French and Messrs. Roebuck and Lindsay, that her Majesty's Government were always willing to exchange opinions with the French Government, either in reference to recognising the independence of the Southern States or any other subject. He hoped, however, that anything that might have passed between the Emperor and two private gentlemen would not be made the subject of discussion in the House of Commons, as it might tend to prevent that courteous and gracious reception which the Emperor was at all times disposed to give to Englishmen of distinction who might have anything to communicate of importance in reference to the well-being of the two countries.—Mr. Lindsay said that Mr. Roebuck had stated nothing but what was true. He recommended him not to make a hasty answer to the appeal addressed to him, but to take full time for consideration.—After a good deal of conversation, Mr. Roebuck said he should accept Mr. Lindsay's advice, and give his answer on Monday.—Sir M. Peto called the attention of the House to the want of official control of the public works of the country, and the necessity of the reorganisation of the Board of Works with a view to remedy the evil. Having criticised the useless expenditure incurred on various public works, and commented on the unsatisfactory condition of the department generally, he recommended that the Board should be remodelled altogether, and made responsible for all the public works of the country in respect of which Parliament had voted money.—Mr. B. Cochrane confessed that he had given up in despair any hope of seeing a reform in this department of the Government. Who, he asked, was responsible for the frightful public statues which evoked the amazement and indignation of foreigners; and who, he inquired, had set up the mutilated figure on horseback in the centre of Leicester Square?—Sir C. Wood and Mr. Cowper defended the Department of Public Works, the administration of which was criticised by Sir F. Smith and Colonel French.—Sir J. D. Hay brought under notice the Attack on Tringanu in Siam, on the 12th November, 1862, which he stigmatised as a gross, unnecessary, and precipitate exercise of power against an unoffending State.—Mr. Liddall and Lord Naas also denounced the act.—Sir C. Wood admitted that the attack appeared to have been of a very precipitate character, but said that a full report of the transaction had not yet reached the Indian Government.—Mr. Bentinck called attention to the subject of Accidents on Railways, and moved that in the opinion of the House it was the duty of the Government to legislate for the better prevention of such accidents by reducing the speed of trains.—Mr. Dutton supported the motion.—Mr. M. Gibson opposed it on the part of the Board of Trade, on the ground that it would be impossible for Parliament to legislate with advantage upon such a subject. The motion was withdrawn.—Mr. M. Smith called attention to the insufficient accommodation in the Courts of Law at Westminster and in the City of London for the increased wants of the country.—Mr. Malins and Mr. Collier added their testimony to the correctness of Mr. Smith's picture of the state of the Courts.—The Solicitor-General concurred in regretting the rejection by the House of the scheme of the Government for an ample accommodation for the Courts of Law and Equity. The House went into Committee of Supply pro formâ, when the other orders of the day were then proceeded with.

Monday.—Japan.—Lord Naas inquired whether, in case of the forces of the Tycoon of Japan becoming engaged in hostilities with either the forces of the Spiritual Emperor or those of the native princes, the instructions issued to the commander-in-chief of her Majesty's fleet would authorise him to take part in such hostilities.—Lord Palmerston replied that it was the invariable rule not to give publicity to the instructions sent to naval and military officers until after the operations to which they referred were brought to an end. On the order for resuming the adjourned debate on the motion for the Recognition of the Confederate States of America, Mr. Roebuck moved that the order be discharged. He said that his only object in advocating recognition was to put an end to a cruel carnage, and at the same time to serve the commercial interests of the country. In doing so he had incurred the obloquy of a noisy but not of a wise party. Their censure had not the least influence with him in the course he had resolved to pursue; but he was prepared to withdraw his motion, because the noble Lord at the head of the Government had declared that if it were persisted in it would be an impediment to the good government of the country. Under these circumstances he felt he ought to withdraw his motion; but in doing so he warned the noble lord that he had two great dangers to meet—the possibility of the reconstruction of the Union on a Confederate basis, and the other the acknowledgment of the Confederate States by France alone.—Mr. Lindsay gave a narrative of the famous interview with the Emperor, substantially similar to that of Mr. Roebuck; and, in reply to the taunt of Mr. Layard that he had gone to Paris as an amateur diplomatist, said that a few years since it was her Majesty's Government who had made him one, as they had sent him to the Emperor to do that which they themselves ought to have done—namely, to assist in the completion of a treaty of commerce and navigation—a task to which he had devoted three years and a half without pay or reward of any kind. During these protracted negotiations he had invariably reported to Lord Cowley all that had passed in the interviews between the Emperor of the French and himself.—Lord Palmerston expressed his satisfaction at the withdrawal of the motion, and his hope that this would be the last occasion on which any member of the House would think it his duty to communicate to Parliament anything which might have passed between himself and the Sovereign of a foreign country. He did not impute blame to Messrs. Roebuck and Lindsay, for he presumed they were animated by what they deemed to be a sense of duty, but their proceedings were, to use the mildest term, most irregular. Moreover, if the Emperor of the French and the Queen of England wished to communicate with each other, they could do so through the medium of their diplomatic agents in London and Paris without the assistance of the members of the Legislature. With regard to the "employment" of Mr. Lindsay in the matter of the Treaty of Commerce and Navigation, the mission of that gentleman was in no way similar to that of Mr. Cobden, who was an accredited agent of the Government, whereas Mr. Lindsay had called at the Foreign Office with a tender of his services, and had received a note to Lord Cowley by means of which to obtain access to the Emperor. The order for the adjourned debate was then discharged. The House then went into Committee on the Fortifications (Provision of Expenses) Bill, the clauses of which were agreed to. In the course of the discussion that ensued, Lord Palmerston said that the Bill did not in any way commit the House to the description of central arsenal that might hereafter be raised, as after the land had been purchased each successive step for the construction of the arsenal would be brought under the review of Parliament.—Sir M. Peto moved to omit from the schedule the items for the Spithead Forts, viz. the Horse Sand Fort, 25,000*l.*; No Man's Land, 25,000*l.*; Sturbridge, 25,000*l.* He contended that nothing had occurred to alter the state of this question since last year, and that it was almost impossible for the forts to prevent the passing of iron-clad ships.—Sir J. Fergusson maintained that the objections of Sir M. Peto were unfounded, and had been refuted by experience during the last 12 months. The amendment was opposed by the Lord Mayor, Mr. Newdegate, the Marquis of Hartington, Sir D. L. Evans, Mr. B. Carter, and Sir W. Jolliffe; and supported by Captain Jervis, Mr. Lindsay, and Sir F. Smith.—Mr. Osborne said it would be time enough to construct these forts when we had got a gun that would hit a ship in motion at 1000 yards. He denied that, after all the improvements and all the enormous expense, we had a gun that would do that.—Sir J. Hay concurred in this opinion.—Lord C. Paget said he had been assured by artillery officers that we should have a 600-pounder gun that would pierce an iron-plated vessel at 1500 yards. He dwelt upon the unprotected state of our dockyards at present, and upon the impossibility of keeping up a blockade of an enemy's ports.—Lord Palmerston considered that the balance of the arguments was completely in favour of the forts. The proposition of the Government was to have forts and floating batteries, and all admitted that forts would be useful. The advocates of the amendment wished for delay; the Government thought it should be done at once. A permanent floating force would require an enormous addition to our navy. On every principle forts must be an essential part of the defence of our dockyards. On a division the amendment was negatived by 135 to 52.—On the order for the second reading of the Union Relief Aid Acts Continuance Bill, Mr. Villiers explained the amendments which he had made and proposed to make in the Bill.—After some remarks by Mr. J. Tollemache, Mr. E. Egerton, Mr. Packe, Mr. Humberston, Mr. Hibbert, Mr. A. Egerton, and Sir B. Leighton, the Bill was read a second time. The Sydney Branch Mint Bill, and the Alkali Works Regulation Bill were read a third time and passed. The Companies Clauses Bill and the Railways Clauses Bill passed through committee. The report of the Committee of Supply was brought up and agreed to. The Lords' Amendments of the Volunteers Bill gave rise to some discussion, but were ultimately agreed to. Leave was given to bring in certain Bills.

Tuesday.—The Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill was recommitted, and a clause was added founded on the resolution for payment of expenses to the Bank of England in connection with the loan. On the order for going into committee on the Union Relief Act Continuance Bill, Mr. Childers moved a resolution to the effect that it was desirable that any moneys raised under the Bill by way of loan on the security of the rates in the distressed manufacturing districts should be applicable to assist emigration to such colonies as might be willing to co-operate in carrying it out.—Mr. Marsh seconded the motion, which was supported by Mr. Turner and Mr. Bagwell, and opposed by Mr. Hibbert and Mr. Adderley—Mr. Villiers said there was no proof that the colonies would be favourable to the scheme. Emigration was already going on at the rate of 20,000 or 24,000 a month, principally to the United States, and on the whole he thought the course now suggested was contrary to good policy, and should not be sanctioned by the House.—Mr. Henley said he was favourable to the application of some portion of the money raised under the Bill for the purpose of emigration. After some remarks by Mr. Cobden, Sir B. Leighton, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the motion was withdrawn, and the Bill passed through committee.—The Attack on Tringanu—Lord Naas inquired whether orders would be issued to naval officers on foreign stations, forbidding them to attack the ports or ships of friendly Powers without a declaration of war or distinct instructions from the Home Government. The question he said, arose out of the late debate on the attack by a British force upon Tringanu, in Siam.—Lord C. Paget replied that, under general orders, British officers were not justified in having recourse to measures of violence without the sanction of the senior officer of the station, who could only interfere when British life or property was endangered. Indian Council.—Mr. A. Mills called attention to the constitution of the Council of the Secretary of State for India, and moved an address to the Crown for the appointment of a royal commission to inquire and report whether any, and what, alterations might be advantageously adopted in the Home Government of India. He complained that the powers of the Secretary of State were of an autocratic character, that he could withdraw from the consideration of the council any matter that in his opinion was of such urgent importance as to require an immediate answer, and that in such cases he decided alone without consulting the council.—Mr. Bazley seconded the motion.—Sir C. Wood said that no case had been made out to show that the Government of India had failed to perform its duty. The home policy of the Government had received the approval of the council, and the only case in which any difference of opinion had arisen was with reference to the sale of waste lands. He regarded the act constituting the Council of State on its existing basis as a measure that did the greatest credit to Lord Stanley, who had also made a wise selection of members of council.—Sir E. Colebrooke opposed and Colonel Sykes supported the motion.—Lord Stanley said that though the arrangements of 1858 were not necessarily final, there was no ground for the inquiry at the present moment.—After some remarks by Sir H. Willoughby and Mr. Kinnaird, the motion was withdrawn.—Colonel North moved for a Royal Commission to inquire into the realisation of Army Prize Property and its mode of distribution; and into the cause of the delays which have in most cases occurred in its distribution to the captors, with a view to a remedy for the same.—Lord Palmerston said the Government had no objection to the motion, as the inquiry might lead to beneficial results affecting both the army and the navy. After some observations from Sir S. Northcote and Sir C. Wood, the motion was agreed to. Fire Insurance Duty.—Mr. H. B. Sheridan submitted a resolution to the effect that, in the opinion of the House, the duty now chargeable on fire insurance is excessive in amount, that it prevents insurance, and should be reduced at the earliest opportunity. He said that his proposal was to reduce the duty by 1*s.* per cent., and at the expiration of five years by another shilling, leaving the permanent duty at 1*s.* per cent.—Mr. Cox seconded the motion, which was also supported by Mr. Hubbard.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer, in opposing the motion, warned the House of the danger of pledging itself by the adoption of an abstract resolution to the remission of any particular tax. It was not the merits or demerits of the impost that were to be considered, but the bearing of the proposal upon the financial arrangements of the country. The produce of the fire insurance duty had increased in a far greater ratio than any other branch of the revenue, a clear proof that it could not be so oppressive or injurious as was supposed.—After some observations from Mr. Hankey in support of the motion, the House divided, when the resolution was carried against the Government by 103 to 67.—Mr. Ayrton moved for a select committee to inquire into the treatment of the Fellowship Porters by the Corporation of London. He complained of a gross maladministration of the funds belonging to the fellowship.—Sir J. Shelley supported the motion; Mr. Crawford and Mr. W. Bruce opposed it. The motion was ultimately withdrawn.—Sir S. Northcote moved an address to the Crown to give such directions in the matter of the Banda and Kirwee Prize Money as the law officers or some competent judicial authority might advise.—Sir M. Farquhar seconded the motion.—Lord Palmerston said that until the papers relating to the subject were laid upon the table it would be premature to institute an inquiry. There was no particular rule for the distribution of booty, which was left entirely in the discretion of the Crown. The motion was ultimately withdrawn.—Mr. Whalley obtained leave to bring in a Bill to amend the law as regards persons charged with Petty Offences, and to enable such persons and their wives to give evidence. The orders of the day were then disposed of.

Wednesday.—Sir D. L. Evans resumed the debate on the motion that the enlargement of the dining-rooms proposed by the committee on the Kitchen and Refreshment Rooms be carried into execution.—Sir P. O'Brien supported the motion.—Lord Hotham opposed it, on the ground that the enlargement of the rooms would encroach upon the court-yard of the division lobbies, and that it was not right that the public should be called upon to contribute anything towards the dinners of members.—Sir J. Trelawny disapproved altogether of any expenditure on the personal comforts of members. Let those who disliked the dinners bring down a bun or a biscuit, and go home to dinner. He feared that if too much encouragement were given to members to dine in the House, the next thing they would want would be to have their washing done on the premises.—Mr. Bass thought that as dinner was an absolute necessity some steps should be taken to obtain it with comfort.—Mr. Osborne ridiculed the idea of expending possibly 20,000*l.* upon enlarging a dining-room with wine cellars attached, which, when completed, would probably be so attractive that Mr. Bass and others of his way of thinking would pass their days and nights in it.—Colonel White, as a member of the committee, said that personally he was quite indifferent to the matter, as he dined as seldom as he possibly could in the coffee-room, where the contractor charged 5*s.* a bottle for sherry which was not worth half the money.—Mr. Dillwyn complained of the quality of the food supplied, and said that the meat was extremely bad. All he wanted was a plain dinner, but of good quality.—Mr. Cowper recommended the withdrawal of the motion, so that next session some course might be adopted which would meet with general approval.—After some further discussion, Sir D. L. Evans withdrew the motion. The House then went into committee on the Partnership Law Amendment Bill.—Mr. Hubbard moved that the Chairman leave the chair. He contended that it did not follow that because the House had sanctioned the principle of limited liability that further legislation was necessary in the same direction before time had been given to ascertain how the change worked.—Mr. T. Baring also opposed the Bill as contrary to the sound principles of commerce.—Mr. M. Gibson thought that if Mr. Hubbard's object was to offer a decided opposition to the Bill the more candid course would have been to have moved an amendment to the second reading. He thought the best plan would be to proceed with the consideration of the clauses. On a division the motion of Mr. Hubbard was negatived by 70 to 40. The various clauses of the Bill were subsequently agreed to with amendments. The House went into committee on the Anchors and Chain Cables Bill, and made some progress with the clauses. The Jurisdiction of Justices Bill, the Pauper Lunatic Asylums Bill, the Expiring Laws Continuance Bill, and the Land Tax Commissioners Names Bill were read a second time. The amendments to the Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill were considered and agreed to.

Thursday.—The Great Eastern Railway (Steamboats) Bill was referred back to the select committee. The Brazilian Difficulty.—Mr. S. Fitzgerald brought under notice the relations of this country with Brazil and the recent rupture of diplomatic intercourse. He commented at some length on the assessment of the damages by the Queen's Advocate in the matter of the loss of the Prince of Wales, and contended that the result arrived at was absurd beyond all proportion to the real value of the cargo. The whole conduct of the British Government with reference to the recent misunderstanding was unjust and undignified, and such as would not have been adopted towards a powerful State. He moved for a copy of the manifest of the ship's cargo.—Mr. Layard defended the conduct of the British Government, and contended that, although there was no positive proof of the murder of the crew and of the plunder of the wreck, still there could be no moral doubt of the fact. Her Majesty's Government had no alternative but to resort to reprisals, unless they wished it to be understood that the lives and property of her Majesty's subjects might be attacked with impunity in foreign lands. He hoped amicable relations would soon be re-established with Brazil, the King of Portugal having undertaken to act as mediator, and her Majesty's Government having accepted his offer.—Sir H. Cairns thought that though the Government of Brazil had not acted with as much alacrity in the matter of the Prince of Wales as might be expected, still that the British agents had acted towards Brazil in a rude, disdainful, and contemptuous manner, which could lead to nothing but alienation between the two countries.—The Solicitor-General said that, in admitting that this country had a just claim for reparation, Sir Hugh Cairns had given up the whole case.—Mr. Henley said that after the King of the Belgians had given his award it was the duty of Ministers to have acquiesced in it, and not to have indulged in reproaches calculated to wound yet more the honour of Brazil.—After some remarks by Mr. Milnes and Mr. B. Moore, the motion was withdrawn.—Mr. Lawson moved that in the opinion of the House the laws under which licenses are granted for the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors are eminently unsatisfactory and deficient in power to protect the public, and therefore require immediate alteration. He said that the resolution was intended to give effect to the recommendations of the select committee, and to lead the way to the remedy of a great and admitted evil.—The motion was seconded by Mr. Ayrton, and opposed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the ground that to adopt so abstract a resolution would be only to practise a delusion on the House and the country.—After some remarks by Mr. Newdegate, Mr. W. E. Forster, Sir P. O'Brien, and Lord Fermoy, the House divided, when the motion was rejected by 87 to 21.—Mr. C. Bentinck called attention to a recent purchase of a damaged and doubtful picture by the trustees of the National Gallery; and asked whether it was not desirable to discontinue the practice of acquiring such pictures at a high price.—Mr. Peel said that the picture was a work of great merit, and that Sir C. Eastlake had assured him that the injury was confined to the sky only, and was of a trifling character.—Mr. Coningham protested against the continued purchase of bad pictures at high prices, and expressed a hope that the Royal Academicians would soon be turned out of Trafalgar Square and sent to South Kensington, where their patrons chiefly resided. The House then went into Committee of Supply pro formâ. The Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill was read a third time and passed. The Union Relief Aid Acts Continuance Bill, as amended, was considered and agreed to. Several other Bills were advanced a stage.

FRIDAY.—Lord Lieutenancy of Ireland.—Mr. M'Mahon gave notice that early next session he should move for the appointment of a commission to consider the expediency of extending the English law to Ireland, and abolishing the office of Lord Lieutenant.—Mr. Coningham said that on the motion for going into Supply next week he should call attention to the threatened Removal of the National Gallery. New Zealand.—In reply to Mr. Mills, Mr. Fortescue said that despatches had been received at the Colonial Office confirming the statement which had appeared in the newspapers with respect to the unexpected outbreak in New Zealand.

[Left sitting.]

City Intelligence.

Money Market, Friday.—British Funds: Consols closed at 93 for Money, and 93⅛ to 93 for Acct.; Three per Cents. Reduced, 93¼ to 93; New Three per Cents., 93⅛ to 93; Bank Stock, 237 to 236; India Stock, 226 to 228; Ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 108⅛ to 108; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 107⅝; Ditto Five and a Half per Cent., 116½; Exchequer Bills, par to 3*s*. dis.—Foreign: Brazilian, 1843, 100⅜; Danish, 1863, 90¾; Egyptian, second issue, 103⅜ to 104¼; Greek, for Acct., 35 to ⅛; Italian, for Acct., 71⅜ ex div.; Ditto, Maremmana Railway, 80¼ ex div.; Mexican, for Acct., 37⅜ to ½; Peruvian, 1862, 87½ ex div.; Portuguese, 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., 48⅛ ex div.; Russian, 1862, 93⅜ to ½; Sardinian, for Acct., 90; Spanish Passive, for Acct., 33⅛ to ½; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., 12½ to ¾; Turkish, 1858, for Acct., 71¼ to 71; Ditto 100*l*. Bonds., 74; Ditto 1862, 67⅞ to 68, ex div.; Ditto, for Acct., 68 to ⅛, ex div.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: July 10—BANKRUPTS.—G. Angel, Commercial Street, Spitalfields, Glassdealer—J. J. Archer, Terrace, Vaughan Road, Camberwell, Commercial Clerk—J. Alcock, Leek Moor, Staffordshire, Brickmaker—R. Burge, Bristol, Shipowner—J. Baker, Bedfordbury, Hosier—F. Brook, Gomersal, Yorkshire, Manufacturer—T. Bishop, Knowle, Manager to a Lime Burner—R. Beckley, Torrington Square, Boarding House-keeper—W. A. Bratt, Ratcliffe Cross, Licensed Victualler—J. Bush, Winterbourne—G. Brunsdon, Cheltenham, Baker—A. Cameron, Shaftesbury Street, Hoxton, Cabinet Maker—E. Davies, Caio, Carmarthenshire, Farmer—W. Dyer, Birmingham, Stationer—W. Dobbins, Birmingham, Druggist's Assistant—N. Dear, Church Street, Kentish Town—G. Ellis, Great Waltham, Coach Builder—W. Farnham, Old Street, St. Luke's, Milliner—R. Fisher, Tynemouth—M. Foulkes, Hanley, Staffordshire, Grocer—T. W. Green, Castle Terrace, Dalston, Shoemaker—W. George, Bristol, Beer Retailer—W. Gardner, White Lund, Lancashire, Farmer—J. Gittins, Chorlton upon Medlock, Jeweller—G. Carney, Portsea, Superannuated Gunner—C. Gregory, London Colney, Herts, Farm Bailiff—E. C. L. Godoy, Suffolk Street, Pall Mall—G. Hollings, David Place, Bethnal Green, Stonemason—W. Henderson, St. Paul's Rd., Kennington—M. Hooper, Bedford Square, Domestic Servant—W. Hodges, Shoeburyness, Journeyman Baker—G. Heaton, Shipley, Yorkshire, Brickmaker—W. Hance, Kiln Green, Berks, Grocer—J. Inkersole, Pembury Road, Lower Clapton—H. Jones, Salford, Pawnbroker—J. Jones, Nottingham, Licensed Victualler—F. Knight, Liverpool, Assistant to a Silk Mercer—J. Kennings, Tring, Herts, Saddler—W. S. C. Lawrence, Chapel Street, Somer's Town, Commercial Traveller—T. Lees, Newfield Head, Lancashire, Coal Miner—G. A. M'Carthy, New Bond Street, Artist—Jeremiah Moverly, Gillingham, Dredgerman—John Newbold, Liverpool, Bookkeeper—John Perrons, Old Basford, Notts, Collector of Taxes—John Pickup, Haworth, Farmer—W. Rogers, Stebbington Street, Oakley Square, General Smith—E. C. Seaman, Kingston Russell Place, Oakley Square, Solicitor—J. Stone, Canterbury—C. Slinn, Northampton, Builder—J. Sutcliffe, Todmorden, Machine Blacksmith—C. Toft, Church Street, Clapham Road, Baker—M. A. Viner, Brighton, Hosier—J. Williams, Warwick Lane, Commission Slaughterman—S. Walter, Hadlow, Schoolmaster—M. Weir, Freeschool Street, Horselydown, Baker—E. Warden, Burham, Kent, Dealer in Artificial Manure—W. Wright, Leighton Buzzard, Boot Maker—W. Whitehouse, Birmingham, Coal Agent—W. C. Woodbine, Manningtree, Innkeeper—T. Weller, Croydon, County Court Bailiff.

TUESDAY: July 14.—BANKRUPTS.—D. Baker, Kingston-upon-Hull, Provision Dealer—R. Burrow, Bampton, Westmoreland, Clogger—J. Bailey, Hetton-le Hole, Durham, Grocer—T. Basten, Reading, Builder—F. Bianchi, Nottingham, Plaster Maker—T. Barrett, Folly, Hertfordshire, Iron and Brass Founder—W. Bullen, Closworth, Somersetshire, Cattle Jobber—E. Chapman, Plymouth, Accountant—C. Cross, Shrewsbury, Grocer—F. T. Castleton, Park Road, Clapham, Tea Dealer—W. Charley, Coventry, Dyer—J. Cartledge, Longton, Staffordshire, Potter's Fireman—F. Dean, Stoke-upon-Trent, Staffordshire, Blacksmith—W. Davies, jun., Ystrad, Glamorganshire, Farm Labourer—J. Elton, Friendly Street, New Town, Deptford, Fishmonger—J. Everard, Long Buckby Folly, Northamptonshire, Farmer—Thomas Forster, Ripon, Yorkshire, Joiner—James Foley, Bristol, Wholesale Stationer—Francis Edith Gardener, Berkley Street, Bryanstone Square—W. Greenwood, Colchester, Tailor—A. C. Halfhide, Lupus Street, Pimlico, Watchmaker—W. J. Harrison, Ebury Street, Pimlico, Lodging House Keeper—T. Holland, Stockport, Candlewick Spinner—W. H. D. Jennings, Ipswich, Inland Revenue Officer—J. B. Jude, Sheerness, Mariner—A. M. Lotinga and A. A. Lotinga, Sunderland, Merchants—J. Loosmore, late of Brackley, Glamorganshire, Lime Burner—A. Long, Clifton, Bristol, Butcher—E. Lawrence, Portsea, Hampshire, Licensed Brewer—J. Mustill (and not Mastill, as advertised in "Gazette" of the 7th July), Leicester, Cabinetmaker—W. Mabe, Swansea, Butcher—A. Mendheim, Nottingham, Professor of Music—J. Phillips, Glanbrynar, Monmouthshire, Carpenter—S. Pearsall, Lichfield, Professor of Music—W. Quixley, Canterbury Place, Lambeth—T. W. Randall, Hyde Terrace, Battersea, late Potato Merchant—J. Kidd, Bideford, Devonshire, Wine and Spirit Merchant—Thomas Ridge, Wolverhampton, Coal Dealer—J. Smallman, Dawley, Shropshire, Brickmaker—J. Stiff, Hampshire, Baker—H. M. Sudlow, Liverpool, Bookkeeper—W. M. Shick, Redcross Street, Cripplegate, Commercial Clerk—M. Slack and M. C. Slack, Hereford, Timber Merchants—J. Skelding and R. Hancox, Birmingham, Plumbers—E. Staples, Ely, Cambridgeshire, Corn Merchant—G. Thompson, Caistor, Lincolnshire, Innkeeper—T. Telling, Stratton, Gloucestershire, Baker—R. Thorn, Pearson Street, Kingsland Road, Butcher—G. Tyler, Bristol, Beer Retailer—J. Taylor, Liverpool, Auctioneer—W. Woodbridge, Kirby le-Soken, Essex, Farmer—J. Wingrove, Gray's Inn Lane, late Grocer—J. S. Withey, Fir Lane, Edmonton, Nurseryman.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—H. Monro, Cromarty, Farmer—J. Chisholm and A. Harper, Leith, Coal Merchants—T. Haining, Garloff, Kirkcudbright, Farmer.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued | £28,536,095 | Government Debt | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion | 13,886,095 |
| | | Silver Bullion | — |
| | £28,536,095 | | £28,536,095 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) | £11,046,988 |
| Rest | 3,277,029 | Other Securities | 20,908,633 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) | 4,948,158 | Notes | 6,997,080 |
| Other Deposits | 16,281,914 | Gold and Silver Coin | 863,781 |
| Seven days and other bills | 655,981 | | |
| | £39,816,382 | | £39,816,382 |

July 16, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

The Prince of Wales at Caterham.—On Saturday the Prince of Wales performed the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the Warehousemen and Clerks' Schools, about to be erected at Beggars' Bush, a well known spot on the Surrey Hills, between Croydon and Caterham. A large octagonal tent was erected round the stone, and arranged as an amphitheatre for the accommodation of 3000 persons, for the most part ladies. The interior was tastefully decorated, and when filled presented a very agreeable scene. Earl Russell, as President of the Institution, presented an address to his Royal Highness, who said:—

"My Lord President and Gentlemen,—I am happy in the opportunity afforded me this day of assisting in the prosecution of so good a work as I believe that to be in which we are engaged; for, I feel it the duty of us all to contribute by any means in our power towards the care and education of the children of those who have themselves contributed to the wealth and prosperity of the community. The Warehousemen and Clerks' Schools appear to have well performed their functions in this respect, and to have as liberally interpreted the claims of those children whose fathers have been incapacitated by the hand of God as of the orphans themselves. The result has been the increase of numbers which has brought us together this day. In such a cause we may, without presumption, invoke God's blessing on our undertaking, and pray that He may 'prosper our handiwork.'"

The Prince then laid the stone in the usual manner, and the Bishop of Winchester read prayers. The Hon. Artillery Company attended as a guard of honour, and fired a Royal salute, and the band of the Grenadiers enlivened the proceedings by playing suitable music. A large brass tray filled with a beautiful wreath of scarlet and white flowers was then placed on the stone, in which were to be deposited the purses containing 5*l*. and upwards which had been collected by ladies in aid of the funds of the asylum. Unfortunately, just as this interesting portion of the ceremony began, Earl Russell engaged the Prince in conversation a little apart from the stone, so that his Royal Highness remained apparently unaware of the fast accumulating pile of well-filled purses laid on the stone in front of him, or of the profound curtseys to himself with which the long file of young ladies tendered their gifts. The purses formed such a pile upon the tray that they had, before they were much more than half given in, to be removed in baskets, to make room for those which were yet to come. Nearly 800 were thus deposited. The choir then sang the Danish National Anthem, another salute was fired, and the Prince quitted the tent and returned to Frogmore by rail. Later in the evening there was a cold collation served in a large tent, where Lord Russell took the chair, and where Lord Brougham arrived in the midst of the repast and addressed the company amidst loud cheering. At the close of the proceedings it was announced that the amount received in the purses and at the déjeuner was 7850*l*.

The Exhibition Building.—On the very day following the vote of the House of Commons against the purchase of this building Messrs. Kelk & Lucas arranged their plans for pulling down the whole structure. So little time was lost that by the end of last week almost all the floors of the east and west transepts had been pulled up, and the owners of the few things yet remaining—organs, fountains, &c., had begun to remove them. Such progress has been made in this work that the whole building is now encircled by a huge hoarding, formed of the floor boards, which projects far into the road. Since the middle of last week, however, the work of demolition has been stopped, negotiations having been opened between the Alexandra Park Company and the contractors for the purchase of every part of the building except the picture galleries. The Alexandra Park Company has been lately formed for the purpose of establishing a North London Crystal Palace on the slopes of Muswell Hill. It is not often that a building of the size and composition needed for such a structure is in the market, and the directors have, therefore availed themselves of the first chance which offered of securing that at South Kensington. The offer is to purchase all, except the picture galleries, as it now stands—nave, domes, and side courts—to remove it to Muswell Hill, and there erect it as a permanent rival to the Crystal Palace. It is understood that it is intended to place one of the domes over the centre of the nave, and to use the other apart from the main building as a palm house. It is also intended to redecorate the nave in a rich and permanent manner, to give it a slate roof, and render its side courts perfectly water-tight, with leaden gutters between the ridge-and-furrow glass roofs. Mr. Minton's majolica fountain, under the east dome, has been presented by that gentleman to the South Kensington Museum.

The Wimbledon Prize Meeting.—On Friday, in consequence of another accident to a marker, the Swiss system was finally abandoned. All the interest of the day was centered in the shooting for the Queen's Prize at the 600 yards range. The result was two ties of 49 points each between Private Whisker of the 2d Essex, and Sergeant Millard of the St. George's, 49; for the first place and the Silver Medal, while Private Miller, 1st Gloucester, made 47 points, and there were 14 ties of 41 each. There were also several high scores and ties for the other prizes. On Saturday the ties in the first stage of the competition for the Queen's Prize were shot off, when the highest score was made by Private Whisker, of the 2d Essex, who wins the silver medal of the Association. The competitions for the St. George's Vase, and the prize offered by the Prince of Wales were also concluded. The former was contested by one Volunteer from each battalion in England and Scotland. Mr. Jopling, who won the Queen's prize the year before last, had the satisfaction of confirming his former victory by bearing off the vase for the South Middlesex, and by winning for himself the Gold Jewel of St. George. The Prince of Wales's prize was won by Corporal A. Rumball, 3d Herts. The Prince was on the field in person for a part of the day. On Monday the Prince and Princess visited the Common to witness the match between the Lords and Commons. The respective elevens were thus composed:—House of Lords: Earl Ducie, Marquis of Abercorn, Earl of Airlie, Lord Bolton, Lord Suffield, Earl of Dunmore, Lord Dufferin, Duke of Marlborough, Earl of Granard, Lord Londesborough, and Lord Wharncliffe. House of Commons: Viscount Bury, Hon. W. Duncombe, Mr. Dillwyn, Sir Philip Egerton, Earl Grosvenor, Mr. Forster, Mr. Humberston, Mr. Talbot, Mr. Vivian, Mr. Hay Wemyss, and Lord Elcho. Last year the Lords were victorious by a majority of 62. They were now defeated by 37. The result is not due to any falling off in the aggregate number of points made by the Lords, which this time were 423 as against 411 in 1862. But the Commons' Eleven advanced their total from 349 to 460, so that one House has been practically standing still while the other has made an enormous stride. Another competition attracting general attention, was that between the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, in which the latter was successful by 402 to 329. The Alexandra Prize, shot for by the 30 winners of the Enfield All Comers at 200 yards, and 30 winners at 500 yards, was won by Private M'Kenzie, London Scottish (600 yards). On Tuesday the 60 competitors who had made the highest scores on the first stage for the Queen's Prize, proceeded in sections to shoot in the second stage at the 800 yards range. In accordance with the rules that had been laid down Lord Elcho was disqualified through shooting at one of the wrong targets. After an exciting contest the Prize was won by Sergeant Roberts of the 12th Shropshire, who scored 65 points, Sergeant Graham, of the 2d Wilts, being only one point behind him. At night there was a bonfire and a camp fête, and the band of the G division of police performed several pieces of music. On Wednesday Sergeant Martin Smith, of the Victoria Rifles, won the Albert Prize with 73 points, the next best score being that of Ensign Brazill, 61st Lancashire, who made 70 points. On Thursday the international match between England and Scotland was commenced. At 800 yards the Scotch Eight scored 389, and the English 386; at 900 yards the English scored 394, and the Scotch 362, giving England a majority of 29 on the two ranges. The shooting at the 1000 yards range was not completed by Scotland before dark.

Gresham Professorship of Music.—This appointment, which was rendered vacant some since by the death of Professor Taylor, has been bestowed on Dr. Henry Wylde. There were six other candidates, viz., Mr. Edward Clare, Mr. J. Pitman, Mr. John Hullah, Mr. G. W. Martin, Rev. J. E. Cox, and Mr. George Benson, each of whom had to deliver a probationary lecture required by the standing orders of the Corporation.

Destruction of the Langham Bazaar.—On Sunday morning, about ten o'clock, a fire broke out in the German Fancy Fair, in Langham-place. The building was occupied as a fancy bazaar, and let out in stalls and counters to about 40 to 50 young women, several of whom stocked them with their own goods. These unfortunate persons have lost all their property, and it is said that none of them are insured. Mr. Whittaker's curious collection of foreign birds, reptiles, &c., and several valuable pictures were also burnt. The fire extended to the neighbouring premises, where a large amount of property also was destroyed. The steam fire engines rendered much valuable service, and finally prevented it from extending further. It is not known how the fire originated.

The Public Health.—The deaths in London in the week that ended on Saturday, July 11, were 1287. The average number in the corresponding weeks of 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1170. The present return is therefore 117 above the average. The deaths from small-pox during the week were 55, and from scarlatina 113. During the week the births of 989 boys and 994 girls, in all 1983 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1777.

Provincial.

Aldershot.—On Tuesday there was a great field day of the regiments in camp at Aldershot, when 16,000 troops of all arms were manœuvred in the presence of the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, and other distinguished personages. Their Royal Highnesses went down by South Western Railway to Farnborough, and drove from the station to the camp. As the intended visit of the Prince and Princess was generally known, a large and brilliant company was attracted to the common, and the fine weather added to the attractions presented by the various evolutions. The heat, however, was intense, and a corporal in the 87th Irish Fusiliers fell dead on the field; the clouds of dust also obscured many of the manœuvres. At the conclusion of the review the Royal party passed through the permanent barracks, and after taking luncheon at the quarters of Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Pennefather, left the camp about four o'clock.

Law.

THE ASSIZES.

SOUTH WALES CIRCUIT: The Fishguard Murder — Lydia Williams was charged with the wilful murder of her husband, Dan Williams, at the parish of Llanunda. The evidence showed that deceased had died from oxalic acid and arsenic which had been mixed with his food, and both he and other members of his family for some time previous to his death had reason to suspect that the prisoner was slowly poisoning him. Though he suffered severely from internal inflammation and vomiting, his constitution so long resisted the effects of the poison, that Mr. Herapath, the chemist, said that in all his experience he had never known so long a time elapse before death ensued. The fact of the prisoner having procured the poison was clearly proved. The jury returned a verdict of Guilty of the intent, but not of the murder. Baron Wilde sentenced the prisoner to penal servitude for life.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.—The Murder in the Borough Road. — Thomas Lidbetter, 59, was indicted for the wilful murder of his wife Martha Lidbetter. The prisoner was also charged with the wilful murder of his son, David Gray Lidbetter. The facts of this case lay in a very narrow compass. The prisoner carried on the business of a pewterer and public-house bar fitter, in the Borough Road, and on the morning of the 25th of May he went to the house of a neighbour, named Pugh, and deliberately told him that he had murdered his wife and son, and that he had tried to kill himself. At first the statement was not credited, but upon Mr. Pugh going to the house it was found to be too true, the wife of the prisoner being discovered lying on the bed quite dead, with her throat cut in a most dreadful manner, and his son, a young man 17 years of age, lying on an adjoining bed with his throat also cut, but not dead, although he only survived a few hours. It appeared in the course of the trial that the prisoner had been twice thrown out of a vehicle, and received injuries upon the head on both occasions, that since then he had acted very strangely, and talked incoherently, and that he generally behaved very kindly and affectionately to his wife, and was devotedly attached to the son whose life he destroyed. The Lord Chief Baron having summed up, the jury, after a short deliberation, found the prisoner Not Guilty on the ground of insanity, and he was ordered to be detained during her Majesty's pleasure. The Mary'ebone Murder. —Mary Anne Payne, 21, was indicted for the wilful murder of her child, Charles Albert Payne. This was a very distressing case. The prisoner was a married woman, and lived with her husband in Allsopp Place. She was in a pregnant state, and subject to morbid delusions. The deceased child was two years and a half old, and the prisoner had always appeared to be very fond of it, but on the 12th of June she seemed to have cut the head of the poor child nearly from its body, and then took a quantity of laudanum, after which she jumped out of the window. The jury Acquitted the prisoner on the ground of insanity, and she was ordered to be confined during her Majesty's pleasure. Assaults on Women. — Arthur Robert Willoughby Waite, alias James Smith, formerly adjutant of a Surrey regiment of Militia, pleaded Guilty to an indictment charging him with indecent assaults on no less than five women, and was sentenced by the Recorder to be kept to hard labour in the House of Correction for 18 calendar months, the first 12 months on the first count of the indictment, and the second six months to be computed from the expiration of the first term of imprisonment, on the second count.

Obituary.

THE DUKE OF HAMILTON died in Paris on Wednesday. His Grace was on the previous Wednesday at the Duchess of Buccleuch's concert, in the best apparent health, and remained to a late hour. On the following day he left for Paris, on his way to Baden-Baden to meet the Duchess and family. On Thursday night, on returning from the Opera, he supped at the Maison Dorée, on the Boulevard des Italiens, with Mr. Henry Howard, and on leaving the house fell and severely injured the back of his head. Congestion of the brain followed. The best medical advice, English and Foreign, was called in. The Duchess and family were telegraphed from Baden, and the Marquis of Douglas from this country. They at once repaired to Paris, and were with the Duke a few hours after the serious nature of his illness was known. On Wednesday morning his condition was less alarming, but he afterwards became worse, and died at noon. His Grace the Right Hon. William Alexander Anthony Archibald Hamilton Douglas, Duke of Hamilton, Marquis of Hamilton, Douglas, and Clydesdale, Earl of Angus, Arran, and Lanark, Baron Hamilton, Baron of Abernethy, Jedburgh Forest, Aven, Polmont, Machanshire, and Innerdale, and premier peer in the Peerage of Scotland, Duke of Brandon and Baron Dutton, in the peerage of Great Britain, was the only son of the tenth Duke, by the second daughter of Mr. William Beckford, the author of "Vathek," and owner of Fonthill Abbey. He was born in 1811, and was therefore in his 53d year. He married in 1843, her Serene Highness the Princess Marie Amelia Elizabeth Caroline, youngest daughter of Charles Louis Frederic, late reigning Grand Duke of Baden, by the late Grand Duchess Stephanie, and cousin of the Emperor Napoleon III. By his marriage the Duke leaves William Alexander Louis Stephen, Marquis of Douglas and Clydesdale, born in 1845; Lord Charles, born in 1847; and Lady Mary Victoria, born in 1850. His Grace succeeded to the ancient titles of nobility in the peerages of Scotland, Great Britain, and France, together with the vast patrimonial estates, on the death of his father in 1852. He was Hereditary Keeper of Holyrood Palace (an honour held by his ancestors since 1646), Knight Marischal of Scotland, and Colonel of the Queen's Own Royal Lanark Militia, and was from 1849 to 1857 Major Commandant of the Glasgow Yeomanry. He was Lord Lieutenant of Lanarkshire, and a Deputy-Lieutenant of the county of Bute. He was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated B.A. in 1832. The titles and estates are inherited by his eldest son, the Marquis of Douglas and Clydesdale, now in his 19th year.

THE COUNTESS DOWAGER OF CALEDON died on the 8th inst. at her seat, Tittenhanger, Hertfordshire, after a short illness. Her ladyship was the second daughter of the third Earl of Hardwicke, by Lady Elizabeth Lindsay, eldest daughter of the fifth Earl of Balcarres. She was born in 1786, and married, in 1811, the second Earl of Caledon, by whom she had an only son, James Du Pré, the late earl, and father of the present peer, who is a minor. The late countess was sister of the Countess of Mexborough, Lady Stuart de Rothesay, and the Dowager Countess Somers.

LADY KATHLEEN TIGHE, sister of the Countess of Kerry, Earl of Bessborough, and Lady De Mauley, died on the 9th inst., at Rossana, Wicklow, in her 36th year, after having given birth to an infant about a week previously. Her ladyship was the sixth daughter of the late Earl of Bessborough, by Lady Maria Fane, daughter of the tenth Earl of Westmoreland. She was born in 1826, and married, in 1858, Mr. Frederick Edward Tighe.

GENERAL SIR THOMAS ERSKINE NAPIER, K.C.B., Colonel of the 71st Highlanders, died on the 5th inst., at Polton House, Lasswade, his seat in Scotland. He was the youngest son of the Hon. Charles Napier, second son of the sixth Lord Napier, of Merchistoun, and brother of the late Admiral Sir Charles Napier, and was born in 1790. He entered the army just after he had attained his 15th year, in the 52d Regiment, and served with that regiment at the siege of Copenhagen and battle of Kiogo in 1807, and in the following year acted as aide-de-camp to Sir John Hope in the expedition to Sweden. He served subsequently in Sir John Moore's campaign in Spain, including the retreat of Corunna. He served in Sicily with the 52d until the autumn of 1810, and afterwards served on the staff in the Peninsula, including the defence of Cadiz, battle of Fuentes d'Onor, second siege of Badajoz, battles of Salamanca, Vittoria, Nivelle, and the Nive. He was slightly wounded on the 10th December and severely on the 11th, when he lost his left arm. In 1838 he was made a Companion of the Bath, and in 1860 a Knight Commander of that Order. In 1854 he was appointed colonel of the 15th Regiment, and on the death of Sir James Macdonell in 1859 he was transferred to the 71st Regiment. For some years he was assistant-adjutant-general in the northern district of Ireland, and had held several other staff appointments. He attained the rank of major-general in 1846, and general in 1861. For his services in Spain and Portugal he received the silver war medal with seven clasps.

BIRTHS.—On the 8th inst, in Berkeley Square, the Lady SKELMERSDALE, of a daughter — 13th inst, at 40, Lowndes Street, the Lady POLTIMORE, of a daughter — 5th inst, at Bourton Cottage, Lady WENLOCK, prematurely, of a son—8th inst, at Whittlesford, the Lady W. GODOLPHIN OSBORNE, of a son—7th inst, at Knipton Rectory, the Hon. Mrs. A. CAMPBELL, of a son—8th inst, at Ross, Dumbartonshire, the wife of Sir GEORGE LEITH, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.—On the 16th inst, at Baseley Church, Tredegar Park, Monmouthshire, Viscount HEREFORD, to the Hon. MARY MORGAN, daughter of Lord and Lady Tredegar—14th inst, at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, the Hon. GILBERT HENRY HEATHCOTE, only son of Lord Aveland, to the Lady EVELYN ELIZABETH GORDON, second daughter of the Marquis of Huntly — 9th inst, at Christ's Church, Lancaster Gate, ALEXANDER ANDERSON, Esq., of Newstead, Australia, to MADELINE BREDALBANE, youngest daughter of Sir JOHN and Lady ELIZABETH PRINGLE, and niece of the late Marquis of Bredalbane—7th inst, at the Cathedral, Bangor, JOHN H. ALLEN, Esq., third son of the late J. H. Allen, Esq., M.P., of Cresselly, Pembrokeshire, to MARGARETTA, eldest daughter of WILLIAM SNELGAR, Esq.—14th inst, at St. Matthias Church, Richmond, WINTHROP MACKWORTH PRAED, Esq., eldest son of Bulkley John Mackworth Praed, Esq., to LOUISA, youngest daughter of the late JAMES EWING, Esq.—8th inst, at Hunterston House, West Kilbride, Ayrshire, Lieut.-Colonel GOULD WESTON, to JANE, eldest daughter of ROBERT HUNTER of HUNTER, Esq.

DEATHS.—On the 12th inst., at the residence of her nephew, W. H. May, Esq., 6, Sussex Square, Brighton, Lady TWYSDEN, wife of Sir WILLIAM TWYSDEN, Bart., and sister to the late W. B. May, Esq., of Hadlow Castle, Kent—9th inst, at Hurst House, West Molesey, JEAN ANNE, widow of Admiral Sir CHARLES SULLIVAN, Bart., aged 66—2d inst, at his residence, Upper Harley Street, THOMAS JAMES IRELAND, Esq., of Ousden Hall, Suffolk, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for that county, aged 71—8th inst, at Rhyl, JOHN WHITEHALL DOD, Esq., of Cloverley, Shropshire, aged 65—9th inst, at Milsted, the Rev. RALPH PRICE, formerly rector of Lymings, Kent, aged 85—12th inst, at the Oratory, Brompton, the Rev. Father WILLIAM ANTONY HUTCHISON, aged 40.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, July 18.

In consequence of the delightful weather we are now experiencing supplies of both fruit and vegetables are unusually well kept up. Peaches and Nectarines are plentiful. Greengages and other Plums are now included in foreign imports, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Strawberries are abundant. Cherries of foreign growth, of which there are large arrivals, are fetching from 5s. to 6s. 6d. per basket, weighing about 25 lbs. each. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good supply, and Oranges are also plentiful. New Potatoes realise from 8s. to 11s. per cwt. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Violets, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 6s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Oranges, per box, 30s to 40s |
| Strawberries, p. lb., 6d to 1s | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Apples, per doz., 9d to 1s 6d | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Figs, per doz., 6s to 8s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Peaches, per doz., 10s to 20s | Walnuts, do., 10s |
| Nectarines, do., 6s to 10s | |
| Melons, each, 2s to 4s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | French Beans, per 100, 2s |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 90s to 99s | Shallots (new), p. bunch, 6d |
| ,, Flukes, do., 100s to 120s | Rhubarb, p. bundle, 2d to 4d |
| ,, Rocks, do., 60s to 80s | Garlic (new), per bunch, 6d |
| ,, Cups, do., 75s to 85s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 6d to 8d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bun. 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

SMITHFIELD, THURSDAY, July 16.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 60s to | 80s | Clover, old | 90s to | 126s |
| Superior do. | 80 | 95 | New Clover | 70 | 95 |
| Inferior do. | 36 | 54 | Do. second cut | 80 | 115 |
| New do. | 60 | 80 | Straw | 28 | 31 |
| Rowen | — | — | | | |

HARVEY & EASTON.

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, July 16.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 92s | Prime Clover | 120s to | 126s |
| Inferior do. | 70 | 80 | Inferior do. | 108 | 115 |
| Prime New Hay | 70 | 78 | New do. | 90 | 100 |
| Inferior | — | — | Prime 2d cut | 115 | 120 |
| Straw | 30 | 34 | Inferior do. | 90 | 100 |

COAL MARKET.—July 15.

Buddle's West Hartley, 14s. 6d.; Davison's West Hartley, 15s.; Hastings Hartley, 14s. 6d.; North Pelton Gas, 15s. 3d.; Walker Primrose, 12s. 6d.; West Hartley, 14s. 3d.; Walls End Riddell, 15s.; Walls End Wharncliffe, 16s.; Eden Main, 15s. 3d.; Walls End Haswell, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Hetton, 17s. 6d; Walls End South Hetton, 17s. 3d.; Walls End Tunstall, 14s. 9d.; Walls End Cassop, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Hartlepool, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Kelloe, 15s. 9d.; Walls End East Hartlepool, 16s. 9d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 15s. 3d.; Walls End South Kelloe, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 16s. 6d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 19s. 6d.—89 ships at market.

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, July 17.

Our market is rather quiet, although several buyers are in town, but as they have supplied themselves at the sale on easier terms than they could by private very little business is being transacted. This attempt to sell farmers' wool by auction has not succeeded, as the few who have tried it have sacrificed considerably.

| | s. d. s. d. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets | 1 9½ to 1 10 | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes | 1 8½ — 1 9 | Combing Skins | 1 4 — 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces | 1 9 — 1 10 | Flannel Wool | 1 6 — 1 8 |
| | | Blanket ditto | — |

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, July 13.

The number of Beasts is not quite so large as on Monday last, but it is equal to the demand; indeed a clearance cannot be effected. The supply of Sheep and Lambs is unusually large. Trade is very heavy, and a considerable number remain unsold. Calves are also plentiful, and prices not better. From Germany and Holland there are 1630 Beasts, 9330 Sheep, 377 Calves, and 110 Pigs; from Spain, 120 Beasts; from France 33 Calves; from Scotland, 55 Beasts; from Ireland, 140; from Norfolk and Suffolk, 300; and 2200 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools | — |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn | 4 4 — 4 8 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 4 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | — |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | — | Do. Shorn | 4 0 — 4 4 |
| Do. Shorn | 5 0 — 5 2 | Lambs | 5 8 — 6 4 |
| | | Calves | 3 0 — 4 6 |
| | | Pigs | 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 4750; Sheep & Lambs, 32,340; Calves, 466; Pigs, 350

THURSDAY, July 16.

The supply of Beasts is rather larger than on Thursday last. Trade is very slow, and Monday's prices cannot be maintained. The number of Sheep and Lambs is again large, but the demand is good for choice qualities, and trade is rather more cheerful than on Monday last. Calves are plentiful, and trade for them slow; prices unaltered. Our foreign supply consists of 390 Beasts, 3890 Sheep, 739 Calves, and 30 Pigs. Milch Cows, 80.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 8 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools | — |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn | 4 6 — 4 8 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | — |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | — | Do. Shorn | 4 0 — 4 4 |
| Do. Shorn | 5 0 — 5 2 | Lambs | 5 8 — 6 4 |
| | | Calves | 3 0 — 4 6 |
| | | Pigs | 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 1270; Sheep & Lambs, 13,840; Calves, 968; Pigs, 190.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, July 13.

The supply of Wheat from Essex and Kent to this morning's market was insignificant, and together with foreign met a very slow sale at last week's prices; in some instances a trifle less was accepted for the latter. Barley, Beans, and Peas are fully as dear as on this day se'nnight. The Oat trade is steady, and good corn brings an advance of 6d. per qr. For Flour there is scarcely any demand, and the little business doing was at about the late rates.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 46—56 | Red | 42—50 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 47—54 | Red | 42—52 |
| — — Talavera | 48—60 | | |
| — Norfolk | — | Red | — |
| — Foreign | 35—62 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist., 23s to 30s .. Chev. | 34—38 | Malting | 31—34 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk | 21—24 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—26 | Feed | 21—23 |
| — Irish ... Potato | — | Feed | — |
| — Foreign ... Poland and Brew | 18—22 | Feed | 17—22 |
| RYE | 35—37 | Foreign | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan .... 32s to 33s .. Tick | 32—34 | Harrow | 32—34 |
| — Pigeon .... 36s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ... Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 32—34 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 35—37 | Suffolk | 37—40 |
| — Maple .... 42s to 48s .... Grey | 36—37 | Foreign | 30—38 |
| MAIZE ... White | — | Yellow | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 42—47 | | |
| — 2d do ... ditto | 32—44 | Country | 32—44 |
| — Foreign ... per barrel | 20—28 | Per sack | 34—48 |

FRIDAY, July 17.

We have to report another week (being the fourth in succession) of remarkably fine weather. The grain markets have been very inactive, but there has been less pressure to sell than is usual during fine weather at this season of the year, and where a decline is quoted the same does not exceed 1s. per qr. Business in spring corn has been dull, and Oats were written 6d. lower in several markets, whilst here there has been an improvement of 6d. upon fine descriptions. Business in Flour has been very limited, and late rates are barely maintained. Since Friday last 26 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has remained quiet, and prices of Wheat and Maize are declining. Linseed has been active, and is in demand at an improvement of 1s. per qr. In Paris (July 16), the prices for Wheat and Flour have remained unaltered, but business is exceedingly restricted. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 8490 cwt. The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 33s. per 280 lbs. The arrivals of English grain and foreign Wheat this week have been very trifling, moderate of foreign Oats, and large of Barley. To-day's market was thinly attended, and although the business transacted was not large, millers evinced rather more disposition to purchase Wheat, but Monday's prices are not exceeded for either English or foreign. Spring Corn is steady at that day's quotations. Flour is a slow sale at a decline of 6d. per barrel.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 490 qrs. | — qrs. | 80 qrs. | 320 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 120 | — ,, |
| Foreign .. | 3210 ,, | 4950 | 22,260 ,, | 50 ,, / — brls |

LIVERPOOL, July 14.—We have had a fair attendance of both town and country millers and dealers at this day's market, and Wheat may be said to have met rather a better demand than of late, at a trifling concession on the rates current last Friday. Good qualities of Flour maintain their value, but anything of doubtful character is irregular in value. Indian Corn is offered sparingly, and choice samples of American being scarce, bring 3d. per quarter more money. Oats had a good inquiry at previous prices. Oatmeal dull. Beans are decidedly stiffer. Peas and Barley unchanged, but late heavy arrivals being now almost cleared, market closes with more firmness.

FRIDAY, July 17.—The market was well attended. Wheat in better demand, at about last Tuesday's rates. Flour in better demand. Indian Corn 3d. dearer, with more doing. Egyptian Beans firm. Oats extremely dull. Oatmeal unchanged. Egyptian Wheat keeps firm.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| June 6.. | 46s10d | 31s11d | 22s10d | 32s 5d | 39s10d | 36s 8d |
| — 13 | 46 11 | 32 4 | 22 10 | 34 10 | 39 8 | 36 11 |
| — 20 | 46 9 | 30 7 | 23 0 | 32 3 | 40 4 | 37 10 |
| — 27 | 46 5 | 31 2 | 22 10 | 35 9 | 39 8 | 36 2 |
| July 4 | 46 11 | 30 9 | 23 11 | 32 2 | 39 6 | 38 0 |
| — 11 | 46 10 | 30 10 | 23 6 | 34 5 | 40 2 | 39 0 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 9 | 31 3 | 23 2 | 33 9 | 39 10 | 37 5 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

HOPS.—BOROUGH MARKET, FRIDAY, July 17.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report a steady trade doing in Hops, with but few fine samples on offer, for which late prices are obtained. The accounts received from the plantations do not speak of much improvement having taken place during the past week.

GEORGE CLARKE requires a Person who can grow well Azaleas, Heaths, Geraniums, and Soft-wooded Plants generally for Sale; one who has grown for Market would be preferred. — Nursery, Streatham Place, Brixton Hill, London, S.

WANTED, a really energetic and good business Man as OUT-DOOR FOREMAN, who thoroughly understands the Management of Hardy Ornamental Trees, Fruit Trees, Shrubs, &c., as well as general out-door Nursery Stock, and can produce first-class testimonials.—Apply, in own handwriting, with all particulars, to JAMES DICKSON & SONS, The "Newton" Nurseries, Chester.

WANTED, a GARDENER.—A professional Gentleman, who has just purchased an Estate of 150 Acres in the neighbourhood of London, is desirous of securing the services of a steady honest Gardener, practically acquainted with the latest improvements in Horticulture. The Advertiser is a good Botanist, and intends Cultivating Scientifically Flowers, Fruit, and Vegetables on a large but economical scale, and requires a superior Assistant. The Gardener's Cottage is a modern building, and the wages will be liberal, but the strictest inquiry as to capabilities will be made.—M. D., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

WANTED, an experienced GARDENER (married), who thoroughly understands Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Greenhouse, Pruning, &c. He will have a boy under him. Wages, 16s. a week, and a house and vegetables.—Mrs. C., Beckley, near Oxford.

To Gardeners.

WANTED, in a large Establishment near Town, a steady, active, young Man, as GARDENER. He will have the charge of Pleasure Grounds and Kitchen Garden, and to look after Pigs and Cows. He must be single, and of good character. Wages, 8s. per week, with Board, Lodging and Washing.—Apply to M. D., Mr. Hall, Cutler, London Road, Southwark, S.E.

WANTED, as GARDENER, an active young Man to live in the House. Must have a thorough knowledge of Flower, Fruit, and Kitchen Gardens, and the Management of Greenhouses. One who understands profitable Gardening preferred.—Address by letter Z. Y., Mullins' Hotel, 11, Ironmonger Lane, City, E.C.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40, married, two children; thoroughly experienced in all the branches of his profession. Three years' good character.—J. W., Leslie Cottage, Laurel Grove, Penge, Surrey, S.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD). — Middle-aged, no incumbrance; thoroughly practical. Can produce first-class testimonials from the gentleman he has just left.—Messrs. DOWNIE, LAIRD, & LAING, Stanstead Park Nursery, Forest Hill, London, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Married, no incumbrance; thoroughly practical, and can give satisfaction in the growth of Fruit, Flowers, and Vegetables, for which the Advertiser has been awarded many Prizes at Exhibitions. Satisfactory reasons given for leaving his last situation, where he lived for eight years. — X. O., Post Office, Preston, Lancashire.

GARDENER (HEAD), to a nobleman or gentleman. —Age 32, married, one child; a thorough good Grower of Pines, Vines, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Melons, Cucumbers, &c.; understands the management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens; also Meadow Land and Stock.—G. COLE, Rydon Lodge, Ball's Pond, Newington Road, Islington, N.E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Middle-aged, married; well versed in every branch of his profession, including the Growth of Pines, Grapes, Orchids, Ferns, and Stove and Greenhouse Plants in general; the Management of the Kitchen and Flower Gardens, &c. Character undeniable.—A. Z., 17, Charlotte Terrace, Lyham Road, Brixton Hill, S.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 31, married; has a thorough knowledge of Early and Late Forcing of Grapes and other Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables; also a competent knowledge of the Cultivation of Orchids, Ornamental Stove and Greenhouse Plants, and practically acquainted with the other departments connected with Gardening. Good references for character and ability. Liberal wages will be required, and no single-handed situation noticed.—A. H., Post Office, East Sheen, Surrey.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; understands Forcing all kinds of Fruit, Flowers, &c.; likewise Flower and Kitchen Gardening.—J. T. P., Hale's Cottages, Putney Heath, Surrey, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40, married, one child; understands Early Forcing, Flower, Fruit, Kitchen Garden, &c. Has had 25 years' practice. Five and a half years' character.—M. A., Drivers, Post Office, Stoke Newington, N.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 28, married, two children; understands the Management of Vines, Pines, &c. Three and half years' good character.—A. B. C., 117, Manor Street, Clapham, Surrey, S.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 27, single; has a practical knowledge of Vines, Stove and Greenhouse Plants; Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens. Good character from present situation.—A. B., Post Office, Totteridge, Herts.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33, single; W. HOWARD, Gardener to B. Edgington, Esq., Lavender Hill, Wandsworth, S.W. A first-class Plant and Fruit Grower, and good general Gardener. Can be highly recommended by several leading horticulturists, also by his present employer.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40, married; has had extensive practice in all kinds of Early and Late Forcing, the Management of Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Kitchen, Fruit and Flower Gardening, Land and Stock.—E. L. M., Post Office, Streatham, S.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 30, married, no incumbrance. Two years' and a half good character.—A. B., Mr. Hughesman, Lower Sydenham, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Married; well experienced in all branches. Eight years' character.—A. B., Mr. Bendel, Greengrocer, Camberwell, S.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 25, single; 10 years' experience in first-class establishments. Wages 21s. per week, with house, &c.—H. T., 73, Carlton Road, Worksop, Notts.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 30, single; thoroughly understands his profession. First-rate personal character. Good reasons given for leaving present situation.—G. W., Meadowbank, Twickenham, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD WORKING, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Married, no incumbrance; practical knowledge of his profession. Good character.—A. B., 26, North Street, Edgware Road, London, W.

GARDENER.—Married, one child. Good character and testimonials.—A. B., Messrs. Rollisson's, Tooting, Surrey, S.

GARDENER.—Age 29, single; understands Greenhouse and Vinery, Cucumbers, Fruit, and Kitchen Garden.—W. P., 2, Croft Cottages, Sydenham, Kent.

GARDENER.—Age 26, single; well acquainted with all branches of his profession, and can be highly recommended by his late and present employers.—W. T., Bury Hill, Dorking.

To Gardeners and Others.

GARDENER.—The Advertiser offers 10*l.* to any person who will procure a situation for a person of good character and ability.—C. C., Mr. Stewart, 46, Old Bond Street, W.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER (SINGLE-HANDED or OTHERWISE).—Age 21. Four years' good character.—G. F., 39, Featherstone Street, City Road, E.C.

GARDENER (SINGLE-HANDED).—Has a thorough knowledge of Kitchen Gardening, Propagating, &c. Highly recommended. Six years' good character from last employer.—J. BUTLER, Bay Tree Cottage, Hadley, near Barnet, Middlesex, N.

GARDENER (UNDER or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 23, single.—W. H., 2, Union Road, York Road, Wandsworth, Surrey.

GARDENER (UNDER), or for employment in a large Garden where he would have an opportunity of improving himself.—A gentleman wishes to recommend a young Man (age 22), who has had three years' experience in a good Garden.—GEORGE BISHOP, Lamberhurst, Kent.

GARDENER (ASSISTANT or UNDER).—Age 20; three years' apprentice at Woburn Abbey, and one and a-half at the Royal Gardens, Kew. Excellent testimonials.—C. T., The Hall, Atherstone.

GARDENER, FORESTER, &c.—Will be at liberty the beginning of August. Twelve years' character from present employer.—T. ROBY, Bury Hill, Dorking.

GARDENER or BAILIFF.—Married, no incumbrance. Wife good Dairywoman or Laundress. Two years' good character. Ages 38. State wages.—S. HORNSBY, Silver Street, Enfield, N.

GARDENER and BAILIFF.—Age 37, married; thoroughly understands the Management of Vines, Grapes, Peaches, Orchard Houses, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Land, and Management of Stock. Wife can Manage the Dairy. Eight years' good character.—W. BROWN, East End House, Parsons Green, Fulham, S.W.

BAILIFF.—Age 38, married, no incumbrance; well understands his business. Wife as Cook and Housekeeper, or take charge of a Dairy, &c. Good references.—A. B., Post Office, Kingswinford, Dudley.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

FARM BAILIFF.—Thoroughly acquainted with the Breeding, Rearing, and Fatting of Stock, &c.; is accustomed to Steam Cultivation and the use of all modern Farm Implements. Good testimonials.—J. W., Post Office, Tring.

IMPROVER, in a gentleman's Garden.—Age 20; has been accustomed to work mostly under Glass; can have a good character from the situation he is about leaving.—Y. Z., Post Office, Woolhampton, near Reading, Berks.

To the Seed Trade.

SHOPMAN (SECOND), in a London Wholesale House.—A young man who has had seven years' experience in all the branches of the Trade. Satisfactory reference to present employer.—A. H., 18, Dee Street, West Derby Road, Liverpool.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

Universal Microscope. Price £5 5s.

SMITH, BECK, AND BECK, 31, Cornhill, E.C.; late 6, Coleman Street.

, Catalogues sent on receipt of 6 postage stamps.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.

CHUBB'S FIRE PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS
CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.

Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.

CHUBB & SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

CHANDELIERS in Bronze and Ormolu for DINING ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Vases and other Ornaments.

OSLER, 45, Oxford Street, London, W.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, Wall Lights and Lustres for Gas and Candles, Table Glass, &c.
Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from 7*l.* 15*s.*
Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from 2*l.*
All articles marked in plain figures.
Ornamental Glass, English and Foreign, suitable for Presents.
Mess, Export, and Furnishing Orders promptly executed.
London—Show Rooms, 45, Oxford Street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Show Rooms, Broad Street.
Established 1807.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS. —PRIZE MEDAL awarded to THRESHER & GLENNY for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.

Lists of Prices on application to THRESHER & GLENNY, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, AND CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. METCALFE'S celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2*s.* per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2*s.*, 3*s.* 6*d.*, and 5*s.* each. 130 B, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

Odours of Plants.

PIESSE AND LUBIN extract the PERFUME from every fragrant Flower by the process of "Enfleurage," which being conducted while the plant is yet alive, the odours obtained are retained in their true and natural fragrance. Jasmin, Violet, Acacia (Farnesiana), Tuberose, Jonquil, Orange, Mignonette, and several others. Sold in Bottles, 2*s.* 6*d.* each. Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond Street.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE, Pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
See Name on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper, and to avoid Counterfeits
ASK FOR LEA AND PERRINS' SAUCE.

, Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL; Messrs. BARCLAY & SONS, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by

DINNEFORD & Co., 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by Du BARRY's health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure No. 62,914. Miss Lange, age 18 years, Liège in Belgium; cured after the medical men had abandoned all hopes of her recovery from the last stage of pulmonary consumption, with fearful cough, expectoration, exhaustion, spitting of blood, perspirations, hollow cheeks, emaciated to a skeleton. She is now, thank God, a perfectly healthy, blooming, fleshy girl.—N. LANGE, Commissaire de Police.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2*s.* 9*d.*; 2 lb., 4*s.* 6*d.*; 5 lb., 11*s*; 12 lb., 22*s.*; 24 lb., 40*s.*

BARRY DU BARRY & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to PRICE's. Most medical men prescribe "PRICE's Glycerine" where purity is of importance.

Patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8, 4, or 2 oz. bottles, with capsules over the stoppers marked—

"PRICE's Patent," Belmont, Vauxhall.

TURKISH BATHS, Victoria Street.—This magnificent establishment, accommodating 800 daily, is NOW OPEN, Sundays excepted. Public and Private Baths for Ladies and Gentlemen, price from 1*s.* 6*d.* upwards.—N. B. Baths for Horses. ORIENTAL BATH COMPANY of LONDON (Limited), Victoria Street, near the Station, Westminster.

Seventh Edition, 10th Thousand, price 2*s.* 6*d.*; free by post, 32 Stamps,

DISEASES of the SKIN; a Guide to their Treatment and Prevention, illustrated by Cases. By THOMAS HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square.

"Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.

London: T. RICHARDS, 37, Great Queen Street.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1863.

To Seed Merchants and Nurserymen.

SAYNOR AND COOKE, PRUNING and BUDDING KNIFE MANUFACTURERS, beg respectfully to say that they will not be undersold by any House in the Trade. They also warrant one of their Knives to last two of any other make.
Paxton Works, Sheffield.

HAVE YOU a LAWN?—Use BELCHER'S PATENT PLANTAIN EXTRACTOR; which neatly removes Plantain and Daisies, and replaces them with fine Turf. Price 6s.: to be had of all Ironmongers.
Wholesale Agents, S. & E. RANSOME & Co., 31, Essex Street, Strand, W.C.

WILLIAM BARRATT, LANDSCAPE and ORNAMENTAL GARDENER. St. John's and Newton Moor Nurseries, Wakefield.

SHAW'S TIFFANY. For samples and prices apply to J. SHAW & Co., 29, Oxford Street, Manchester.

TANNED NETTING, at reduced prices, 1d. per square yard; 200 yards, 14s.; 500, 30s.; 1000 yards, 50s. SCRIM CANVAS, for Wall Fruit; GARDEN MATS; GREEN-HOUSE SHADES.
Be particular, FREDERICK EDGINGTON & Co., Rick Cloth Manufacturers, Thomas Street, Old Kent Road, London, S.E.

TANNED GARDEN NETTING for preserving Seed Beds, Fruits, Strawberries, from frost, blight, birds, &c., and as a Fence for Fowls, &c. 1 yard wide, 1½d.; 2 yards, 3d.; 3 yards, 4½d.; and 4 yards, 6d. per yard run, in any quantity, may be had at CHAS. WRIGHT'S, 376, Strand, W.C.
VARNISHED FLOWER STICKS:—1 foot, 3d.; 1½, 4d.; 2, 5d; 2½, 7d.; 3, 10d.; 4, 1s. 6d. per dozen. DAHLIA do., per dozen:—3 feet, 1s. 6d.; 4, 2s. 3d.; 5, 3s.; 6, 3s. 6d. An allowance to Nurserymen.

Netting for Fruit Trees, Seed Beds, Ripe Strawberries, &c.

TANNED NETTING for Protecting the above from Frost, Blight, Birds, &c., 2 yards wide, 3d. per yard, or 100 yards, 20s.; 4 yards wide, 6d. per yard, or 50 yards, 20s. NEW TANNED NETTING, suited for any of the above purposes, or as a Fence for Fowls, 2 yards wide, 6d. per yard; 4 yards wide, 1s. per yard; ¾-inch mesh, 4 yards wide, 1s. 4d. per yard.
Can be had in any quantity of EATON & DELLER, 6 and 7, Crooked Lane, London Bridge, E.C.

WASPS.—HAYTHORN'S HEXAGON and CHISWICK GARDEN NETS are guaranteed to protect all kinds of Fruit from Wasps, Flies, Birds, &c. These Nets are used and recommended by all the principal Gardeners.
For Testimonials, Patterns, and Prices, please direct to Mr. HAYTHORN, Nottingham.

For Watering Gardens, Lawns, and Washing Windows, Carriages, &c. India-Rubber Hose-Pipes and Tubing.

JAMES LYNE HANCOCK, MANUFACTURER, has a large Stock of all sizes. Also BRASS HAND-BRANCHES, with SPREADERS, STOP-COCKS, JETS, and UNION JOINTS to connect the HOSE to CISTERNS.
INDIA-RUBBER FIRE-ENGINE HOSE for Private Houses, Mansions, and Breweries, and also the necessary FIRE-BRANCHES and UNION SCREWS.
Illustrated Price Lists on application.
JAMES LYNE HANCOCK, Vulcanised India-Rubber Works, 266, Goswell Road, London, E.C.

E. T. ARCHER'S "FRIGI DOMO."—Patronised by her Majesty the Queen, the Duke of Northumberland for Syon House, his Grace the Duke of Devonshire for Chiswick Gardens, Professor Lindley for the Horticultural Society, Sir Joseph Paxton for the Crystal Palace, Royal Zoological Society, late Mrs. Lawrence of Ealing Park, &c.
PROTECTION from the SCORCHING RAYS of the SUN.
"FRIGI DOMO," a Canvas made of patent prepared Hair and Wool, a perfect non-conductor of Heat and Cold, keeping, wherever it is applied, a fixed temperature. It is adapted for all horticultural and floricultural purposes, for preserving Fruits and Flowers from the scorching rays of the sun, from wind, from attacks of insects, and from morning frosts. To be had in any required lengths.

| | |
|---|---|
| Two yards wide .. .. .. | 1s 6d. per yard run. |
| Four yards wide .. .. | 3s per yard. |
| An improved make, 2 yards wide, | 1s. 8d. per yard. |
| An improved make, 3 yards wide, | 2s. 6d. per yard run. |

Also "Frigi Domo" Netting, 2 yards wide, 1s. 4d. per yard run.
ELISHA THOMAS ARCHER, Whole and Sole Manufacturer, 7, Trinity Lane, Cannon Street, City, E.C., and of all Nurserymen and Seedsmen throughout the kingdom.
"It is much cheaper than Mats as a covering."

PATENT ELECTRICAL PLANT PROTECTOR, for the preservation of Plants, Flowers, and Shrubs from Snails, Worms, Slugs, &c.
This Protector being composed of zinc and copper, or of any two metals combined in such a manner as to form an electrical couple, constantly gives off a certain amount of electricity, rendering plants entirely secure from the attacks of Slugs, &c., as it has been discovered to be perfectly impossible for any insect or worm to crawl over a combination of these two metals.
Being formed in plain and ornamental designs for borders, beds, &c., it is applicable to all gardens, terraces, &c.; it is also made in the form of Plant Guards to encircle the stems.
Illustrated Lists of Prices post free on application to ROBERT B. LEE & Co., Sole Manufacturers of the Patent Plant Protector, 22, Market Place, Manchester.

Oil Paint no longer Necessary.

HILL AND SMITH'S PATENT BLACK VARNISH for preserving Iron Work, Wood, or Stone. This Varnish is an excellent substitute for oil paint on all out-door work, and is fully two-thirds cheaper. It may be applied by an ordinary labourer, requires no mixing or thinning, and is used cold. It is used in the grounds at Windsor Castle, Kew Gardens, and at the seats of many hundreds of the nobility and gentry, from whom the most flattering testimonials have been received, which HILL & SMITH will forward on application.
Sold in casks of about 30 gallons each, at 1s. 6d. per gallon, at the Manufactory, or 1s. 8d. per gallon paid to any Station in the kingdom.
Apply to HILL & SMITH, Brierley Hill Iron Works, near Dudley, and 76, Cannon Street, E.C., from whom only it can be obtained.

THE BOOK OF THE ROYAL HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

WILL BE READY FOR DELIVERY TO SUBSCRIBERS ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 1.

Price £1 11s. 6d.

Specimen Copies may be seen and Subscribers' Names received at the Garden Entrances in the Kensington and Exhibition Roads; at the Secretary's Office; at Mr. MITCHELL'S, 33, Old Bond Street, W.; Messrs. HATCHARD'S, 187, Piccadilly, W.; Messrs. CHAPMAN & HALL'S, 193, Piccadilly, W.; Mr. WESTERTON'S Library, Knightsbridge, S.W.; and at MESSRS. BRADBURY & EVANS, 11, BOUVERIE STREET, FLEET STREET, E.C., PUBLISHERS TO THE SOCIETY.

THE FARMER'S BAROMETER, 50s., a New Instrument by NEGRETTI & ZAMBRA, will correctly indicate whether the Barometer falls for Rain or for Wind.
Particulars by enclosing stamp to 1, Hatton Garden, E.C.; 59, Cornhill, E.C.; and 122, Regent Street, W.

MORTON'S NEW IMPROVED PATENT LAWN MOWER, with Sun and Planet Motion, having all the most recent Improvements, is allowed to be the best Machine for preventing Ribbing and Clogging.
To be had, with prices and particulars, of GRIMMOND, LAIRD, & Co., 15, Cannon Street West, London, E.C.; or of the Patentee, Catherine Street Engine and Machine Works, Arbroath; and all the principal dealers throughout the country.

Lawn Mowers.

BURGESS AND KEY beg to direct attention to their NEW PATENT LAWN MOWING MACHINE. It is simple, efficient, easily worked, and not liable to derangement. GARDENING and HORTICULTURAL TOOLS of every description. Illustrated Price List free. Catalogues by post on receipt of six postage stamps.
BURGESS & KEY, 95, Newgate Street, London, E.C.

Glass for Greenhouses.

JAMES PHILLIPS AND CO. beg to submit their prices as follows:—
ENGLISH GLASS, 16 ounces to the foot, in Sheets averaging 40 by 30, packed in Cases containing about 280 feet, 2d., 2¼d. and 2½d. per foot.
SHEET GLASS, 16 ounces, packed in boxes of 100 feet each. Package included.

| Sizes | 3rds. | 4ths. |
|---|---|---|
| 12 by 9, 13 by 9, 14 by 9, 15 by 9; 12 ,, 10, 13 ,, 10, 14 ,, 10, 15 ,, 10 | 14s. 0d. | 12s. 6d. |
| 13 ,, 11, 14 ,, 11, 15 ,, 11, 16 ,, 11; 14 ,, 12, 15 ,, 12, 16 ,, 12, 17 ,, 12; 18 ,, 12, 19 ,, 12, 20 ,, 12, 16 ,, 13; 17 ,, 13, 18 ,, 13, 19 ,, 13, 20 ,, 13; 16 ,, 14, 17 ,, 14, 18 ,, 14, 20 ,, 14 | 16s. 0d. | 13s. 6d. per 100 feet. |

Various other sizes.

GLASS for ORCHARD HOUSES.
As supplied by us to Mr. Rivers, to the Royal Horticultural Society, and to most of the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy of the United Kingdom.

| Sizes | | 16 oz. | 21 oz. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 20 in. by 12 in. / 20 in. by 13 in. / 20 in. by 14 in. / 20 in. by 15 in. | Common .. .. .. | 13s. 6d. | £0 16 6 |
| | Superior do. .. .. | 16 0 | 0 19 6 |
| | English Glass .. .. | 18 0 | 1 5 0 |

The above prices include the Boxes.

SMALL SHEET SQUARES, IN 100 FEET BOXES.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 6 by 4 | 6½ by 4½ | 7 by 5 | 7½ by 5½ | 11s. 6d. |
| 8 ,, 6 | 8½ ,, 6½ | 9 ,, 7 | 9½ ,, 7½ | |
| | | 10 ,, 8 | 10½ ,, 8½ | 12 6 |

Boxes 2s. each, returnable at full price.

SQUARES CUT to SPECIAL SIZES.
16 oz. 4ths, 1¾d., 2d., and 2½d. 21 oz. 2¾d., 3d, and 3½d.
,, 3ds, 2d., 2¼d., and 3d. ,, 3d., 3¼d., and 4d.
London Agents for Hartley's Improved Patent Rough Plate.
Linseed Oil, Genuine White Lead, Carson's Paints, Paints of various colours ground ready for use.
Milk Pans and every description of Glass for Horticultural purposes.
JAMES PHILLIPS & Co., 180, Bishopsgate Street Without, London, E.C.

Paxton Works, Sheffield, Established 1738.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION PRIZE MEDAL WAS AWARDED TO SAYNOR & COOKE FOR SUPERIORITY OF QUALITY IN PRUNING AND BUDDING KNIVES, &c.

SAYNOR AND COOKE'S celebrated English and French Exhibition PRIZE PRUNING KNIVES, &c., can be obtained of any respectable Nurseryman or Seed Merchant in the three kingdoms, all Knives warranted both by the Seller and Maker.
CAUTION.—None are genuine unless marked SAYNOR. Other marks would cause disappointment, as these Knives are tempered by an improved process known only to the Makers.

Gutta Percha Tubing for Watering Gardens.

THE GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY have the pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of the following Testimonial from MR. J. FARRAH, Gr. to BOSWELL MIDDLETON JALLAND, Esq., of Holderness House, near Hull.
"I have had 400 feet of your Gutta Percha Tubing, in lengths of 100 feet each, with union joint, in use for the last 12 months for watering these gardens, and I find it to answer better than anything I have ever yet tried. The pressure of the water is very considerable, but this has not the slightest effect on the tubing. I consider this tubing to be a most valuable invention for Gardeners, inasmuch as it enables us to water our gardens in about one-half the time, and with one-half the labour required."
Manufactured by the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, Patentees, 18, Wharf Road, City Road, London, E.C., and sold by their Wholesale Dealers in town and country.

THE QUARTERLY REVIEW, No. CCXXVII., is published THIS DAY.

CONTENTS:

I. AUSTRIA.
II. NATURAL HISTORY OF THE BIBLE.
III. GLACIAL THEORIES.
IV. OUR COLONIAL SYSTEM.
V. WASHINGTON IRVING.
VI. MODERN SPIRITUALISM.
VII. THE NILE—AFRICAN DISCOVERIES.
VIII. SACRED TREES AND FLOWERS.
IX. ROME AS IT IS.

JOHN MURRAY, Albemarle Street, W.

In fcp. 8vo., with Frontispiece in Colours, price 5s.,
THE INDOOR GARDENER. By Miss MALING, Author of "Indoor Plants."
London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co. Paternoster Row, E.C.

In fcp. 8vo, with 6 Etchings and 4 Woodcuts, price 6s.,
HOME WALKS and HOLIDAY RAMBLES. By the Rev. C. A. JOHNS, B.A., F.L.S., Author of "British Birds in their Haunts," and other Works on Natural History.
London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

Tate's Higher Rules of Arithmetic.

Now ready, in 12mo, price 3s. 6d. cloth,
COMPANION to TATE'S FIRST PRINCIPLES of ARITHMETIC; being a Treatise on the Higher Rules and Operations of Arithmetic. By T. TATE, F.R.A.S.
London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

This day, with Frontispiece and numerous other Illustrations, handsomely bound in cloth gilt, 400 pp., price 2s. 6d.,
YOUNG WOMAN'S COMPANION. No better gift for Maid and Matron exists than the "Young Woman's Companion." It should be in the hands of all.
London: WARD & LOCK, 158, Fleet Street.

Completion of Ainsworth's Gazetteer.

This day, in one handsome volume, 1056 pages, imperial 8vo, cloth, price 21s., with 500 Illustrations,
THE ILLUSTRATED UNIVERSAL GAZETTEER, Edited by W. F. AINSWORTH, F.R.G.S. This valuable work exhibits the actual condition of every place of importance throughout the world. Special attention has been given to the natural resources and industrial products of every locality. The Illustrations are derived chiefly from photographs.
London: JOHN MAXWELL & Co., 122, Fleet Street, E.C.

This day is published, with upwards of 150 Woodcut Illustrations, Post 8vo, 10s. 6d.,
THE ANGLER-NATURALIST: A Popular History of British Fresh-water Fish, with an explanation of the Rudiments of Ichthyology. By H. CHOLMONDELEY PENNELL, Author of "How to Spin for Pike," &c.
JOHN VAN VOORST, 1, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Baron Liebig's New Work.

Now ready, in One Vol. 8vo, 10s. 6d. cloth,
THE NATURAL LAWS of HUSBANDRY. By JUSTUS VON LIEBIG. Edited by Dr. BLYTH.
"This important volume contains the most recent and matured opinions of that distinguished Chemist to whom Agriculture is mainly indebted for whatever claims she may be able to put forward to be regarded as a science."—Spectator.
"This volume ought to be not merely read by all agriculturists and farmers, but should be closely studied, and its recommendation put into actual practice: an outlay of time and thought which will be amply repaid in the profitable form of heavy crops."—Lancet.
"All who are capable of appreciating Baron Liebig's work must admit that its publication entitles him to the lasting gratitude of the civilised world."—Reader.
WALTON & MABERLY, Upper Gower Street, and Ivy Lane, Paternoster, Row, E.C.

Just published, price 1s. 6d.,
THE AGRICULTURE of BERWICKSHIRE and ROXBURGHSHIRE. By JAMES SANDERSON, Land Valuer, Manchester Buildings, London.
"One of the most authoritative works of its kind on all questions connected with cropping."—Dorset Chronicle.
"The knowledge it exhibits and conveys is very great."—Kelso Mail.
BLACKWOOD & SONS, Edinburgh and London.

LOANS.—THE BRITISH MUTUAL INVESTMENT, LOAN, and DISCOUNT COMPANY (LIMITED), is prepared to GRANT LOANS, in sums not exceeding 1000l., upon approved personal or other security, repayable by easy instalments, extending over any period not exceeding 10 years.
Forms of Proposal, Prospectuses, and every other information, may be obtained at the Offices of the Company, 17 and 18, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.
CHARLES JAMES THICKE, Manager.
JOSEPH K. JACKSON, Secretary.

News of the Week.

IN the House of Lords on Monday the Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill, the Nuisances Removal Act (1855) Amendment Bill, and the Public Works Bill were read a second time. The Salmon Fisheries (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee with amendments. On Tuesday the Royal assent was given by Commission to several Bills. The report of the amendments on the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill was agreed to. The Harwich Harbour Bill, the Pier and Harbour Orders Confirmation Bill, the Misappropriation by Servants Bill, the India Stock Bill, and the Sydney Branch Mint Bill, were read a third time and passed. On Thursday on the order for the third reading of the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, Lord CRANWORTH moved that the Bill be read a third time that day three months. After a long discussion the motion was negatived on a division by 40 to 25. Two other amendments, moved by Lord CRANWORTH and Lord DONOUGHMORE, were negatived on a division, and the Bill was read a third time and passed.

In the Commons on Monday Mr. HORSMAN moved a resolution that the arrangements made with regard to Poland by the Treaty of Vienna have failed to secure the good government of that country or the peace of Europe, and any further attempt to replace Poland under the conditions of that treaty must cause calamities to Poland and embarrassment and danger to Europe. The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER and Lord PALMERSTON opposed the motion, which was ultimately withdrawn. The Lords' Amendments of the Telegraph Bill were considered and agreed to with amendments. The London City Traffic Regulation Bill was read a third time, and passed. On Tuesday the Consolidated Fund (Appropriation) Bill was read a second time, and the Promissory Notes and Bills of Exchange Bill was read a third time and passed. The House went into Committee upon the Augmentation of Benefices Bill, and made progress to the 31st clause. Mr. H. BERKELEY moved a resolution—that the grievances suffered by Mr William Bewicke, a magistrate of Northumberland, who had been imprisoned and deprived of his property by a conspiracy, were such as to entitle him to the consideration of the Government. Sir G. GREY opposed the motion, which was negatived on a division by 22 to 20 Mr. COCHRANE called attention to our present relations with Japan, and moved for papers. Mr. LAYARD opposed the motion, which was withdrawn. The resolutions for several mail contracts were agreed to. The Petty Offences Bill was withdrawn. The Indemnity Bill was read a third time and passed. On Wednesday the Statute Law Revision Bill passed through committee. On Thursday in answer to a question by Mr. S. FITZGERALD in reference to the dispute between Germany and Denmark respecting the Danish Duchies, Lord PALMERSTON said that it was the policy of her Majesty's Government to maintain the integrity and independence of Denmark; and if any attempt were made to overthrow her rights it should be resisted. Mr. COBDEN called attention to the equipment of Confederate cruisers in this country as a violation of the Foreign Enlistment Act, and as likely to produce a rupture with the United States. Lord PALMERSTON said that according to the doctrine of the United States Government itself, a neutral power might supply a belligerent with ships, arms, and ammunition, and that her Majesty's Government had done everything which the law allowed them to do in the matter. Sir C. WOOD made his statement on the finances of India, and showed that the estimate for the current year would leave a surplus of 1,280,000*l.* He moved a series of resolutions which were agreed to. The British Columbia Bill passed through committee. The Colonial Acts Confirmation Bill and the Partnership Law Amendment Bill were read a third time and passed.

From the United States we learn that after the battle of Gettysburg on the 3d inst., the Confederates withdrew from the field, and retreated during the night towards the Potomac, where General LEE has taken up a strong position, and has made preparations for another battle. A report had been received that Vicksburg surrendered unconditionally on the 4th inst., but it was believed to require confirmation. Port Hudson still held out, and the Confederates were operating to cut off General BANKS's supplies, and to attack New Orleans. The Washington Government had refused to allow Mr. STEPHENS, the Confederate Vice-President, to present in person to President LINCOLN important communications from President JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The Russian replies to the Notes of France, Austria, and England, on the Polish question were received by the three Powers on Friday. Russia accepts the principle of the six points, but instead of an armistice she proposes an amnesty for all who may lay down their arms, and instead of a conference of the eight Powers which were parties to the Treaty of Vienna, she proposes that the question should be settled by the three Powers concerned in the partition. These replies are said to have given dissatisfaction to all parties in Paris and Vienna, and the decision of the three Cabinets respecting them is looked for with great anxiety.

Home News.

THE COURT.—The Queen and Royal family continue at Osborne. On Thursday week the Queen drove out accompanied by Princess Helena, Princess Beatrice, and Princess Leiningen. Prince Arthur arrived from Greenwich Park. Vice-Admiral Sir Michael Seymour, Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth, and Major-General Lord William Paulet, commanding the South-Western District, arrived from Portsmouth, and had an interview with her Majesty. On Friday Prince Arthur left Osborne on a tour. On Sunday morning the Queen, Princess Helena, and Princess Louise, attended Divine Service at Osborne. The Rev. G. Prothero officiated. On Monday morning the Queen and Princess Helena drove out. In the afternoon the Prince and Princess of Wales, arrived on a visit to Her Majesty. On Tuesday the Judge-Advocate-General had an audience of the Queen. On Wednesday morning the Queen and Royal family walked and drove in the grounds. Earl De Grey and Ripon arrived and had an audience of her Majesty. In the afternoon the Queen drove out. The Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Helena, and Princess Louise also drove out.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES on Saturday drove in a pony phaeton to Cliefden, the seat of the Duchess Dowager of Sutherland. From Maidenhead the Royal party returned to Windsor by water, his Royal Highness and Captain Grey rowing and the Princess steering. Their Royal Highnesses landed at Albert Bridge, in the Home Park, where the carriages were in waiting to convey them to Frogmore. On Sunday morning the Prince and Princess attended Divine service in the parish church of Windsor. In the afternoon their Royal Highnesses paid a visit to the Dean of Windsor and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley, at their residence in the Cloisters. On Monday morning the Prince and Princess arrived at Marlborough House from Frogmore. The Prince presided at a meeting of the Council of his Royal Highness, held at the office of the Duchy of Cornwall. In the afternoon their Royal Highnesses left London for the Isle of Wight on a visit to the Queen; travelling by railway to Southampton, and crossing thence in the Royal yacht Fairy to Osborne.

PRINCE ALFRED IN THE HEBRIDES.—Her Majesty's ship Racoon, having his Royal Highness on board, arrived at Stornoway on Thursday evening the 16th inst., and was welcomed by an enthusiastic display of flags and by bonfires at night. On the 17th the Prince spent the day at Lews Castle, the seat of Sir James Matheson, and paid a visit to the town in the afternoon. In the evening there was a general illumination and a ball at the Castle. On Saturday morning the 18th, the Racoon proceeded to the Isle of Skye. On Sunday after passing the Isle of Mull, she went up Loch Linnhe, and anchored above Coran Ferry.

PRINCE ARTHUR on Monday arrived at Ross, and descended the Wye by boat to Monmouth, where a carriage was in waiting to convey him to Raglan Castle. After a hurried visit his Royal Highness returned to Monmouth, where he passed the night. On Tuesday morning his Royal Highness visited the ruins of Monmouth Castle, the Church of St. Mary, and the other public buildings in the town. He then left for Tintern Abbey and Chepstow, where he passed the night. On Wednesday his Royal Highness proceeded to Cardiff and Llandaff.

THE CABINET.—A Cabinet Council was held on Saturday at the official residence of the First Lord of the Treasury, in Downing Street.

PARLIAMENTARY MOVEMENTS.—The annual Ministerial Whitebait dinner is to take place at Greenwich to-day, and it is expected that the session will be prorogued on Tuesday. The death of Mr. Calcutt has caused a vacancy in the representation of Clare. Sir Colman O'Loghlen, and several others are mentioned as candidates for the vacant seat.

THE CHANNEL FLEET under the command of Rear-Admiral Dacres, left Great Yarmouth Roads on Sunday evening for the north.

THE RUSSIAN DESPATCH.—The following is the text of the Russian Reply to the English Despatch on the Government of Poland:—

"PRINCE GORTSCHAKOFF TO BARON BRUNNOW.

"St. Petersburg, July 1.

"M. le Baron —Lord Napier has been instructed to give me the annexed despatch from her Britannic Majesty's principal Secretary of State to read, and a copy of it. We have pleasure in learning that Lord Russell admits with us the barren nature of a prolonged controversy relative to the signification of the 1st article of the Treaty of Vienna; and that with us, likewise, he desires to place the question upon ground which should offer more opportunities for arriving at a practical solution. Before taking our stand upon this ground which we deem it useful to put in a clear light our positions respectively. The Imperial Cabinet admits the principle that every Power signing a treaty has the right to interpret the sense thereof from its own point of view, provided always that that interpretation remains within the limits of the meaning that is possible to be put upon it according to the text itself. In virtue of this principle the Imperial Cabinet does not dispute this right in any one of the eight Powers which have concurred in the general proceedings of Vienna of 1815. Experience has, it is true, demonstrated that the exercise of such right issues in no practical result. The experiments made already in 1831 have had no issue but to place on record the divergence of opinions. Nevertheless, this right exists. It extends as far as the limits which I have indicated above, and is incapable of obtaining a wider range but with the express consent of the contracting party most directly interested. Accordingly it depended upon the Imperial Cabinet to maintain the strict application of this principle, observing the line of action taken towards them in the course of the month of April last, with respect to events which occurred in the kingdom of Poland. If, in reply to that appeal, they went further into the subject, it was entirely owing to their perfect readiness to seek to conciliate, and in order to reply with courtesy to an appeal which bore a similar character. I will add that another cause was, that in the intentions which his Majesty the Emperor cherishes towards his Polish subjects there was no purpose which could dispose us to remove them from the light. This consideration was perfectly brought out by your Excellency when you informed the principal Secretary of her Britannic Majesty that the Imperial Cabinet was ready to enter upon an exchange of views upon the basis and within the limits of the treaties of 1815. That declaration we adhere to, and my despatch of this day will furnish the best proof of our perseverance in the same disposition. Having thus confirmed the genuine and sole character of the invitation which we have addressed to the English Cabinet, we will permit ourselves, after Lord Russell's example, to precede the observations which we have to communicate to his Excellency by some reflections in reply to the questions which he has entered upon and proposed at the outset. The principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty says that the basis of government is in every case the confidence which it inspires in the governed, and that the ascendancy of the law over the arbitrary element must be the foundation for order and stability. A priori, we subscribe to these principles. We will only recall to mind that their indispensable corollary is respect for authority. The confidence with which a Government inspires the governed depends not only on the goodness of its intentions, but also on the conviction imparted that it has the power of carrying them into effect. If Lord Russell affirms that partial tumults, secret conspiracies, and the influence of cosmopolite strangers will not shake a Government based upon confidence and respect for the laws, he will also admit that neither confidence nor legal conduct would be possible were that Government to allow that a fraction of the people was vested with the right of seeking elsewhere than under the legitimately constituted authority, by armed rebellion supported by hostile or foreign parties, the well-being and the prosperity which they might declare that they could not realise without the aid of inspirations from abroad. Lord Russell places before us six articles which he considers to be of a nature to provide for the pacification of the kingdom of Poland. In communicating them to us her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State adopts in part the point of view put forward by my despatch of the 14th of April. This is an exchange of sentiments, and to that form of expression we have no objection to raise. I have clearly indicated in the despatch to which I refer the germs of practical conduct laid down by our august master, and the developments reserved in his Majesty's purpose to be given them when he should deem the proper time to be come. In comparing them with his own views, Lord Russell will convince himself that the greater part of the measures which he points to have already been decreed or prepared on the initiative of our august master. The Principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty expresses the hope that the adoption of these measures would lead to the complete and permanent pacification of the Kingdom of Poland. We are unable to share this hope without certain reserves. Viewing the subject as we do, re-organization of the kingdom must in all cases be preceded by the re-establishment of order in the country. That result is dependent upon a condition to which we had called the attention of the Government of her Britannic Majesty, and which is not only unfulfilled, but is not even alluded to in the despatch of Lord Russell. We refer to the material assistance and moral encouragement obtained from abroad by the insurrectionists. We are not aware from what sources of information the Government of her Britannic Majesty have formed their judgment of the state of affairs in Poland; we must presume that they are not of impartial origin. Indeed, we find Lord Russell himself establishing a kind of similarity between the news published by the St. Petersburg journal from statements furnished under the control and upon the responsibility of the recognized agent of the Government, and the information of every kind which the London journals borrow, without discernment or any guarantee, from the most suspected publications of the Polish revolutionary press. The confidence inspired by these publications has more than once given cause for declarations which, in spite of the formal denials given to them by daily events, have contributed to mislead opinion in England. In this manner have been propagated, in relation to the brave Russian soldiers who fulfil in Poland a painful duty with devotion and self-denial, calumnies and outrages which all Russia has felt with profound indignation. If Lord Russell were exactly informed of what passes in the Kingdom of Poland, he would know, as we do, that wherever the armed rebellion has striven to acquire substance, to give itself a visible head, it has been crushed. The masses have kept aloof from it, the rural population evinces even hostility to it, because the disorders by which agitators live r in the industrial classes. The insurrection sustains itself alone by a terrorism unprecedented in history. The bands are recruited principally from elements foreign to the country. They gather together in the woods, and disperse at the first attack to reunite in other places. When they are too closely pressed they cross the frontier to re-enter the country at another point. Politically, it is a stage display intended to act upon Europe. The principal of action of the directing committees from without is to keep up agitation at all cost, in order to give food for the declarations of the press, to abuse public opinion, and to harass the Government by furnishing an occasion and a pretext for a diplomatic intervention which should lead to military action. All the hope of the armed insurrection is in this, it is the object at which it has laboured from its rise. Lord Russell will admit that in this situation the measures which he recommends to us would with difficulty find application practically. The greater part, I repeat it, have already been decreed; the state of the country has, up to the present time, paralysed their execution. As long as that condition of things shall subsist the same causes will produce the same effects. The presence of armed bands, the terrorism of the central committee, and the appearance of an immediate pressure from without, would moreover take from these measures the fitness of time, the dignity, and the effectiveness, which we could promise ourselves in their spontaneous adoption. We will go further. Even when they could be put into execution with the full extension with which they are invested in the mind of the principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty, they would have no prospect whatever of attaining the result which he has in view, that of pacifying the country. If Lord Russell follows attentively the productions of the press devoted to the Polish rebellion, he must be aware that the insurgents demand neither an amnesty, nor an autonomy, nor a representation either more or less complete. The absolute independence of the kingdom even would be for them only a means for arriving at the final object of their aspirations. This object is dominion over provinces where the immense majority are Russians by race or by religion; in a word, it is Poland extended to the two seas, which would inevitably bring about a claim to the Polish provinces belonging to other neighbouring powers. We desire to pronounce no judgment upon these aspirations. It suffices for us to prove that they exist, and that the Polish insurgents do not conceal them. The final result in which they would arrive cannot be doubtful. It would be a general conflagration, which the elements of disorder scattered through all countries would be brought to complicate, and which seek for an opportunity to subvert Europe. We have too much confidence in the Principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty to allow that he can approve an object as irreconcileable with the peace and with the equilibrium of Europe, with which are bound up the interests of Great Britain, as they are with the maintenance of the treaties of 1815, the only basis and the only starting point of the overtures which he has just made to us. Lord Russell quotes a passage related by Lord Castlereagh of a conversation which that statesman had with the Emperor Alexander I. in 1815, and which mentions the project formed by this Sovereign to combine the Duchy of Warsaw 'with the Polish provinces anciently dismembered into a kingdom under the sovereignty of Russia, with an administration in accordance with the wishes of the people.' This idea was a passing inclination of the Emperor Alexander I., and one which that Sovereign did not accomplish when he was enabled to consider more maturely the interests of his kingdom. At all events, this question must be excluded even in an exchange of ideas made within the limits of the treaties of 1815. The only stipulation of these treaties which can have made it appear doubtful that the Emperor of Russia possessed the kingdom of Poland by the same title as that by which he holds his other possessions, the only one which might have made his rights dependent upon any condition whatever, and which explains the possibility of an exchange of ideas with foreign Courts upon the subject of his relations with that portion of his dominions, is the vague phrase of article 1, which says 'that the Emperor of Russia reserves it to himself to give to this State, enjoying a distinct administration, such an internal extension as he shall deem advisable;' and that article which says 'that the Poles, the respective subjects of the high contracting parties, shall obtain representation and national institutions, regulated in conformity with the mode of the political existence which each of the Governments to which they belong shall deem it expedient and proper to bestow upon them.' But the history of this period is not so remote that the remembrance can be lost of the position which Russia held at the termination of the European crisis which was brought to an end by the Treaty of Vienna. From that time we should not be far from the truth if we affirmed that the 1st article of the Treaty of Vienna was prepared by and directly emanated from his Majesty the Emperor Alexander I. The conversation with Lord Castlereagh cited by Lord Russell is an additional evidence of this fact. After saying this the Principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty will dispense us from giving an answer to the proposed arrangement for a suspension of hostilities. It would not resist a serious examination of the conditions necessary for carrying it into effect. If it were to be defined between whom it was to be negotiated, of what nature the status quo was to be which it would guarantee, and who was to watch over its execution, it would readily be perceived that the provisions of public law could not be applied to a situation which would be a flagrant violation of such law. His Majesty the Emperor owes to his faithful army, which struggles for the maintenance of order, to the peaceable majority of the Poles who suffer from these deplorable agitations, and to Russia on whom they impose painful sacrifices, to take energetic measures to terminate them. Desirable as it may be speedily to place a term to the effusion of blood, this object can only be attained by the insurgents throwing down their arms and surrendering themselves to the clemency of the Emperor. Every other arrangement would be incompatible with the dignity of our august master, and with the sentiments of the Russian nation. It would, besides, have a result diametrically opposed to the one recommended by Lord Russell. As to the idea of a conference of the eight Powers who signed the Treaty of Vienna which should discuss the six points adopted as bases, it presents to us serious inconveniences, without our being able to see in it any advantage. If the measures in question are sufficient for the pacification of the country a conference would be without object. If the measures were to be submitted to ulterior deliberation, there would result a direct interference of foreign Powers in the most intimate details of the Administration, an interference that no great Power could admit, and which certainly England would not accept in her own affairs. Such an interference would be neither in the spirit nor in the letter of the treaties of Vienna on the base of which we have invited the Powers to a friendly exchange of ideas. It would result in removing still further the end which they propose to themselves by depriving the Government of its prestige and its authority, and by further increasing the pretensions and illusions of the Polish agitators. The course which was followed 1815 appears to us to indicate clearly enough the nature of the deliberations which may take place upon questions bearing, on the one side, on the general interest, and on the other upon administrative details of the exclusive dominion of the neighbouring Sovereign States. At that epoch a distinction was practically established between these two classes of interests; the first have been the object of separate negotiations on the part of the Courts of Russia, Austria, and Prussia, between which the traditions of history, a permanent contact, and an immediate neighbourhood created a strict solidarity. All the arrangements destined to regulate the interior administration and the mutual relations of the Polish territories placed, since the Congress of Vienna, under their respective dominions, have been laid down in treaties concluded directly between these three Courts on April 21 (May 3), 1815. They have been successively completed by a series of special conventions whenever circumstances have required it. The general principles mentioned in these treaties, and which could interest Europe, have alone been inserted in the Act of the Congress of Vienna signed on May 27 (June 9), by all the Powers invited to concur in it. At present it is not a question of these general principles but the administrative details and ulterior arrangements would furnish useful matter for discussion by the three Courts, in order to place the respective position of their Polish possessions, to which the stipulations of the treaties of 1815 extend, in harmony with present necessities and the progress of time. The Imperial Cabinet declares itself from the present time ready to enter into a similar understanding with the Cabinets of Vienna and Berlin. In any case the re establishment of order is an indispensable condition, which must precede any serious application of the measures destined for the pacification of the kingdom. This condition depends greatly upon the resolution of the Great Powers not to lend themselves to calculations which the instigators of the Polish insurrection found on or expect from an active intervention in aid of their exaggerated aspirations. Clear and categorical language on the part of those Powers would contribute to dissipate these illusions, and to thwart these calculations, which tend to prolong the disorder and excitement of public opinion. They would thus bring nearer the moment which we invoke—that in which the tranquillisation of passions and the return of material order will permit our august master to labour for the moral pacification of the country by putting into execution the measures which his Majesty maintains both in the germs already laid down, and in the development of them which he has allowed to be foreseen. Your Excellency will have the goodness to read and give a copy of this despatch to the principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty.

"Receive, &c. "GORTSCHAKOFF."

Foreign.

FRANCE.—The reply of Russia to the despatch of M. Drouyn de Lhuys on the affairs of Poland arrived in Paris on Friday morning and was immediately communicated by the Russian Ambassador to the Minister for Foreign Affairs. The Moniteur of Wednesday publishes the text of this reply of which the following is a summary:—

"The six points are dealt with in the same manner as in the reply to England—the armistice is rejected, and the conference only accepted in part. The note, moreover, contains a charge against the French Government of encouraging the revolutionary spirit, which can scarcely fail to give great offence in France. It insists on the moral solidarity of the Great Powers in presence of the evident action of the revolutionary element of all countries, concentrated at present in Poland, stating that this gives the question a European character:—"We are so much the more compelled to call the attention of the French Government to this fact, since one of the principal focuses of the agitation which exists is Paris itself. The Polish emigrants, profiting by their social relations, have organised a vast conspiracy, destined to mislead public opinion in France by a system of misrepresentation and calumny, and to keep alive disorder in the kingdom of Poland by assisting it with material, by the terror of a secret committee, and, above all, by propagating the conviction that active foreign intervention will take place in favour of the most senseless aspirations of the insurrection.' 'This influence,' it adds, 'is at present the principal source of the agitation which without it would be overtaken by the action of the law in presence of the indifference or opposition of the masses. Herein lies the moral cause which tends to prolong the present painful state of things, for the prompt cessation of which the French Government, like ourselves, appeals in the name of peace and humanity. We have pleasure in believing that the French Government will not permit its name to be abused for the advantage of the revolution in Poland and in Europe.' The note proceeds to say that experience has demonstrated that it is illusory to expect the moral pacification of Poland so long as the hope of foreign intervention continues. The maintenance of the military status quo is not possible between the legal Government, the regular army, and the secret committee served by bands of rebels lurking in the forests. Between such elements the only transaction possible is the submission of the insurgents. Respecting the conference of the eight Powers, it says that ideas communicated through the usual diplomatic channels will be considered in a conciliatory spirit. The proposed conference would extend its action far beyond the limits of mere interpretation, inasmuch as the action of such conference would constitute a direct interference, which is sanctioned neither by the spirit nor by the letter of the treaty of Vienna. Following the course marked out in 1815, Russia is ready to enter on a similar engagement at Vienna and Berlin. The note concludes by expressing the desire to arrive at an understanding by friendly explanations, and says that the differences of appreciation are not so great as to exclude the hope of arriving at a satisfactory solution."

All the French papers except the Presse consider that this reply is not satisfactory to the three Powers, and that the Cabinets are quite agreed in adhering to their programme. The France does not hesitate to avow that the reply of Russia is a miscalculation, and will be accepted as satisfactory neither at London, Vienna, nor Paris. It urges the public to await the resolution of the French Government, which will be prudent, but firm, and says that the country should place confidence in the loyal understanding of the Three Great Powers, which is irresistible, and not despair of seeing the Cabinet of St. Petersburg return to a path of conciliation. The Pays says:—

"Throughout France, in the departments as in Paris, in the saloons as in the workshops, there exists but one feeling—namely, approval of the steps taken by the Government of the Emperor, and a determination to sustain it in the firm and dignified attitude which it intends to assume in face of the singular pretensions of Russia. People have judged the Russian replies instinctively, and have found in them offensive expressions and fresh causes of irritation."

The Patrie says that the despatch is not an answer but an acte d'accusation, which must soon bring the diplomatic action of the Three Powers to a close. It also says that a good understanding exists between the Three Powers, who in a few days, without drawing up any fresh propositions, will refute the arguments put forward by Russia, and will again appeal to the conciliatory sentiments of the Russian Government. The Nation asserts that, in consequence of the declaration of Russia that the Polish insurrection is the work of foreign revolutionary agents, the National Committee at Warsaw has proposed at Paris and London that Prince Adam Czartoryski should be immediately proclaimed King of Poland. The Temps thus defines the crisis at which matters have arrived:—

"Russian diplomacy appears to have attained the object it had in view; it has done all that was requisite to gain time. It remains to be seen whether the Powers will allow themselves to be deceived by a stratagem so transparent. At the point matters have now reached the Powers have placed themselves in the alternative of having to present an ultimatum or to submit to a defeat."

It is asserted on good authority that the French Government has decided upon the terms of its reply to Prince Gortschakoff, and that it was to be sent to London and Vienna on Thursday. The English and Austrian Notes are expected in Paris. Prince Metternich, the Austrian Ambassador, had a long conference with M. Drouyn de Lhuys on Thursday, and the Empress left on the same morning for Vichy. It is asserted that the Emperor has summoned Admiral Bouët Willaumez to Vichy. His Majesty has gone into mourning for a fortnight on account of the death of the Duke of Hamilton. M. Gallifet, one of the officers from General Forey's army, delivered to his Majesty last week in the presence of the Imperial Guard, the flags taken by the French troops in Mexico. A small rifled cannon, taken at Puebla, has been sent to the Prince Imperial by the army of Mexico.

SPAIN.—The Ministerial journals express sympathy for the Confederate States of America. The Madrid papers state that a collision has taken place off Malaga between an English and a French frigate, both of which sunk, and only one English sailor and five French sailors were saved. It appears however that there is no truth in the statement. The report originated in a disaster to two vessels which came into collision 10 miles west of Malaga, but the crews saved themselves in the boats; the vessels were the Alice Hawthorn from Kustendje for Falmouth, and the French ship Nouveau Luming for Marseilles. The crews had reached Malaga in safety.

HAMBURGH.—The International Cattle Show was opened on Tuesday. A large concourse of foreigners was present.

DENMARK AND SWEDEN.—The King of Sweden, accompanied by his brothers the Princes Oscar and August, arrived on Wednesday morning at the Royal summer residence at Skodsborg, on a visit to the King of Denmark. His Majesty left again in the evening, and was escorted by the King of Denmark as far as Elsinore, where the embarcation took place. The Minister of the Interior has issued an order renewing the old ordinance relative to extraordinary billeting, it being considered possible that circumstances may render its enforcement necessary. The Minister of Marine has issued a circular urging captains of merchant vessels to enter the navy, in which service they will rank as lieutenants. News received at Copenhagen announces that in the Swedish State Council on Friday the question of placing the army and navy on a war footing was discussed.

THE DANISH DUCHIES.—The Assembly of the Schleswig Estates was opened on Friday. The Danish Royal Commissioner, as temporary President, refused to accept a vote by which the majority wished to exclude a member of the Danish party. 24 German deputies resigned their seats, and the Assembly was adjourned, as incompetent to come to a resolution. The Government has since issued orders for the election of Deputies to supply the places of the 24 members who resigned. The new members are to appear at the Diet by the 30th inst.

PRUSSIA.—The Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia arrived at Stralsund on Saturday in the Prussian ship-of-war Grille, and were received with great enthusiasm. Their Royal Highnesses had accepted an invitation to a grand entertainment, to be given on the 21st by the nobility of the province of Usedom.

AUSTRIA.—The Russian reply has been received at Vienna. Its great object appears to be to detach Austria from her alliance with France and England. It formally invites Austria to an exchange of ideas upon their common interests, and suggests that the Polish question only affects details of internal administration, and that the Three Powers concerned in the partition should consequently, as in 1815, deliberate at present together. The reply makes no allusion to the proposal of an armistice, but says that it regards a conference, in view of the general agreement concerning the basis of the negotiations, as unnecessary. The Austrian Government is said to be extremely dissatisfied with this reply, and immediately after its receipt placed itself in communication with the Cabinets of London and Paris, and also addressed a Note to the Austrian ambassadors at those Courts declaring that the good understanding between the three Courts formed a tie between them from which Austria will not separate herself, and that she will not negotiate separately with Russia, as demanded by the latter. Great irritation has also been produced in Vienna generally by the reply of Prince Gortschakoff, and M. de Balabine, the Russian Ambassador in that city has left suddenly for St. Petersburg for the purpose of obtaining fresh instructions. The Austrian budget was laid before the Reichsrath on Friday, and was favourably received. The ordinary expenses are 500,000,000 florins; the extraordinary 200,000,000. After adding the produce of the new poll and sumptuary taxes, a deficit of 33,000,000 remains. The propositions for the reform of the German Federation are under the consideration of the Emperor, and will shortly be published.

ITALY.—The affair of the Aunis has been arranged. The Italian Government has surrendered the five brigand chiefs in such a manner that its dignity is entirely preserved. On Wednesday they were handed over on the frontier of Mont Cenis to the French authorities, by whom they will be guarded while the Italian Government makes an application for their extradition in the usual form, under the treaties between the two countries. The French and Italian Governments will institute a joint inquiry as to the manner in which the brigands got on board a French steamer. In the Chamber of Deputies on the 21st, the Income Tax Bill was passed by a majority of 130 against 70 votes.

SICILY.—Letters from Catania state that an eruption of Mount Etna had commenced. Black columns of smoke were ascending from the crater. This phenomenon is exceedingly rare.

RUSSIA.—An Imperial decree has been published which, in view of the present state of affairs, orders a fresh levy of troops in November next, at the rate of 10 men for every 1000 of the population; but the conscription in the governments of Wilna, Grodno, Kowno, Volhynia, Kiew, and Podolia has been postponed till 1864. A Russian corps is marching towards Libau, on the Baltic. The Emperor has again inspected the batteries, vessels of war, and the camp of the troops at Cronstadt; and will visit towards the end of this month Sweaborg, Revel, and other ports of the Baltic, and Finland.

POLAND.—Accounts from Warsaw state that General Berg has invested Russian military officers with administrative functions. Count Paslowski has been shot at Minsk, by order of General Mouravieff, who has confiscated the estates of 260 landowners in the palatinate of Wilna, and 210 in Kowno. The property of 62 others has been plundered. The National Government has established a complete judicial administration in Poland, Lithuania, and Ruthenia. The Narodawa Gazette reports the spread of the insurrection to the district of Kowno, occasioned by the entrance of an insurgent corps commanded by Trangott. The insurrection is assuming formidable dimensions in the palatinate of Lublin. Seven detachments, composed entirely of peasants, form part of the insurrectionary forces. On the 13th Taczanowski's insurgent cavalry, gained a victory over the Russians near Kutnow, in which a Russian colonel was killed. His detachment also had an engagement with the Russians on the 13th, near Kleczew, and another successful encounter near Powiedz on the 15th. The insurgent leader Wawer surprised and cut to pieces on the 14th inst., the Cossack detachments plundering Graiewo, in the palatinate of Augustowo, and again defeated them on the 15th and 16th in conjunction with Jasinski, in the palatinate of Plock. The mounted Chasseurs, commanded by Parczewski, defeated a body of Russian Hussars on the 10th inst. The insurgent leader Wiederzbicki defeated 800 Russians near Lubartow on the 15th, and Chrezepecki has gained a victory over 500 Russians near Sobota. Grabowski, commanding an excellently-equipped detachment of 800 men, beat the Russians on the 18th at Bialobrzezi. On the 10th the insurgents, under Wierzbicki, gained a victory over the Russians near Stroza. The railway has been interrupted in the vicinity of Dzwina.

THE DANUBIAN PRINCIPALITIES.—An engagement took place on the 15th inst. on the Bessarabian frontier between the Roumans and a detachment of 400 Polish insurgents who had arrived from Turkey. Both sides suffered severely, the Poles having 47 and the Roumans 63 killed and wounded, but the Poles continued their march towards the Polish frontier. They were however pursued, and on the 17th they surrendered to the Rouman troops near Costandinowika. By order of Prince Couza they are to be treated as military prisoners, and receive rations as if with a regiment. Milcowitz, the commander of the Poles, has been released upon parole.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—The Cape Parliament, although it had been 64 days in Session, had done little beyond voting Estimates. A motion, declaring that the time had arrived for the establishment of a responsible Government had been discussed for three days. Most of the members of the greatest Parliamentary experience and influence were for the change, but it was known that a numerical majority would vote against it. The Government had maintained perfect neutrality in the matter. A vote of censure had been passed on the Colonial Engineer and the Chief Commissioner of Works for extravagance and inefficiency in constructing public works. The Government proposal for purchasing the Cape Town and Wellington Railway had been referred to a select committee. The proposed new railway schemes had gone no further than the Government being empowered to prepare surveys and estimates for the guidance of the Legislature next year. The Assembly had refused to authorise an expenditure of 4000*l.* per annum for a trigonometrical survey of the colony. The Gorgon had arrived with news from Zambesi. Dr. Livingstone was about to proceed to Great Lake Nyassa. At the University Mission on the River Shire, the Rev. Mr. Scudamore had died from exhaustion. There was a famine in the country, and animal food was so scarce that it was feared the missionaries would not be able to remain there. All was quiet on the frontier. In the Free States the movement in favour of re-annexation was extending. Negotiations were pending with the object of bringing Basutos also under British rule.

AUSTRALIA.—The marriage of the Prince of Wales was celebrated throughout Victoria on the 19th May with the liveliest demonstrations of loyalty, and the Melbourne journals are full of reports of the processions and illuminations. The weather was unfavourable, but neither rain nor wind was allowed to interfere with the rejoicings.

UNITED STATES.—The battle of Gettysburg was recommenced at daybreak on the 3d by an attack of the Confederates with muskets and artillery upon the extreme left of the Federals. Fighting continued for three hours, when the Confederates are said to have fallen back, yielding the whole of the battle field of that morning and the previous days. Simultaneously with the attack upon the left the Confederates attempted to flank the Federal right. This attempt was opposed by the Federal artillery on Cemetery Hill, but the Confederates pressed forward, and the Federal 12th and portions of the 11th corps became engaged. The fight took place in front of a densely wooded lofty mountain, from the summit of which the Confederate batteries could command the Federal position on Cemetery Hill. To gain this position General Hill's corps, which fought on the previous day upon the left, was brought round to the right to reinforce General Early. To resist this onslaught the reserve of the Federal artillery was brought into play, and shelled the face of the mountain, where the Confederates were supposed to be, from elevated points at the back of Cemetery Hill. This, combined with the vigorous resistance offered by the 11th corps, checked the Confederates, who had been advancing for an hour or two. At this juncture, at 11 A.M., two brigades of militia, which had arrived, were thrown as a reinforcement into the Federal right, which was being badly pressed, and this reinforcement determined the contest. The Confederates retired slowly, fighting at every step, until the afternoon, when they abandoned the field in this direction; but within an hour they were again massed in the Federal front and made an assault along the entire Federal line. They were driven back; and at five p.m., after twelve hours' fighting, the engagement terminated. At this time the Federals are said to have had nearly the entire battle-field in their possession. In this engagement it is stated that 50,000 men were put hors de combat, 20,000 Federals and 30,000 Confederates. It is estimated that the Federals captured from 12,000 to 20,000 prisoners. During the night General Lee withdrew his forces from the field; but according to General Meade's report it was not known whether it was a manœuvre, a retreat, or for other purposes. He withdrew from Gettysburg in a south-westerly direction towards the Potomac, but the river was so greatly swollen that it was impossible to build pontoon bridges across, and it was supposed that he would again give Meade battle somewhere between Hagerstown and the Potomac. The latest news to the 13th inst. says that General Lee still holds his position in front of Hagerstown and Williamsport, and has transferred all his wounded and his supplies across the Potomac; while he is intrenching his front. It is reported that he is receiving reinforcements and supplies of ammunition from Virginia, and that he intends to try his fortune in another battle with General Meade on or near the old battle field of Antietam. The Baltimore papers affirms that General Beauregard, with 40,000 men, has reinforced General Lee, whose own army is estimated at 50,000 men, with 250 pieces of artillery. The Richmond papers speak of a fight between Generals Meade and Lee, stating that the Confederate centre, under Hill, fell back, drawing the Federals from their works, when Generals Longstreet and Ewell advanced upon both Federal flanks and captured 4000 Federal prisoners. A despatch, purporting to come from Admiral Porter, has officially reported that Vicksburg unconditionally surrendered to the Federal forces on the 4th of July, but the absence of details from General Grant, as well as from newspaper correspondents, throws a degree of doubt on the genuineness of the despatch. Richmond papers, received up to the 8th, continue to express hopes that the besieged city will hold out. General Morgan, with 8000 men, has captured Corydon, Indiana, and is advancing to Jeffersonville, where there are large Federal supplies. Business is suspended at Indianapolis, and the Governor of Indiana has called out 50,000 men. General Bragg has crossed the Tennessee River and destroyed the bridge at Bridgeport. It is stated that he will make the Tennessee River his future line of defence. New Orleans advices to the 4th inst. state that Port Hudson still held out. The Confederates have made a cavalry raid in Springfield Landing, whence General Banks derives his supplies, and retreated after destroying the stores. The steamers passing between New Orleans and Port Hudson are fired upon from the banks of the river, and the steamer Berville has been disabled in this manner. The Confederate General Taylor at the head of 12,000 troops, is marching on New Orleans, for the defence of which an infantry brigade is being raised for 60 days' service. General Neal Dow and Staff have been captured outside the Federal lines near the city. The question of peace has been informally discussed in the Cabinet, and Mr. Seward has proposed that the President should revoke his Emancipation Proclamation, suspend the Confiscation Act, and proclaim a general amnesty. Messrs. Chase, Stanton, and Welles oppose the proposition, unless slavery be abolished. The New York Herald says that as the work of putting down the rebellion may be said to be substantially accomplished, the question arises what policy should be pursued to accomplish the speedy and harmonious restoration of the Union. It recommends President Lincoln to propose an amnesty to all the Southern people except the leaders of the rebellion, on condition of their returning to their allegiance within a specified time; and having thus restored internal peace, America would have an opportunity, upon sufficient provocations, for a final and decisive settlement with France and England upon American affairs. The Monroe doctrine, it says, will be certainly brought to bear in the next presidential election against Napoleon's Mexican intervention, and England's perfidious neutrality during the rebellion. Mr. Stephens, the Confederate Vice President and the Confederate commissioner Mr. Ould, have come down the James River in the Confederate gunboat Dragon under a flag of truce, requesting permission to present in person important communications from President Jefferson Davis to President Lincoln. A Cabinet Council was held in consequence in Washington, and it was decided that permission should not be granted to Mr. Stephens to come to Washington. Mr. Stephens was informed that the ordinary channels of communication would suffice to transmit any message to President Lincoln. The New York Herald asserts that Mr. Stephens's message was a proposition from President Davis for a separate Government for the North and South, but only one President. The Southerners, however, state that the visit was either to arrange for the exchange of prisoners or to inform the Federal Government that if private property were not respected the Confederates would retaliate. The alleged surrender of Vicksburg has caused great enthusiasm throughout the North. Popular assemblies in Washington waited upon President Lincoln to congratulate him. The President, General Halleck, and Messrs. Seward, and Stanton, made speeches. Mr. Seward said:—"He had been censured for his predictions that the rebellion would be ended in ninety days, and it would have been ended before it was begun if a counsel of patriots had been held. It had been protracted by the hopes held out of foreign interference. If foreign nations would keep their hands off, the Americans would settle all their own quarrels." A serious riot broke out in New York on the 13th, in consequence of the enforcement of the conscription. A mob of several thousand persons surrounded the buildings where the lots were drawn, destoyed the enrolment papers, and assaulted the officers and police, several of whom are reported to have been either killed or seriously injured. Troops and artillery had been ordered from Governor's Island to quell the disturbance.

MEXICO.—The official journals contain glowing accounts of the entrance of the French into Mexico. The population are asserted to have received the French troops as deliverers from tyranny and oppression, strewing their way with flowers, and shouting "Vive la France!" "Vive l'Empereur!" "Vive l'Impératrice!" Official information from Vera Cruz states that the province of Chiapa has pronounced in favour of the French intervention. A similar movement is reported to have taken place in other provinces.

Parliament.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

FRIDAY.—Judicial Statistics.—Earl GRANVILLE assented to the Marquis of CLANRICARDE's motion for an annua. return of judicial statistics from Ireland, similar to those for England and Wales, which after a few words from Lord BROUGHAM and the Earl of DONOUGHMORE was agreed to. The Removal of Irish Poor Bill, the Growing Crops Seizure (Ireland) Bill, the Land Drainage (Provisional Orders) Bill, and the Marriages Registration (Ireland) Bill, were read a third time and passed. The Vaccination (Scotland) Bill, the India Stock Bill, and the Sydney Branch Mint Bill were read a second time.

MONDAY.—Canada.—The Duke of ARGYLL presented a petition from Sheffield, praying Parliament to give facilities for establishing a ship canal from Lake Erie to the Ottawa River, for the purpose of conveying grain through Canada, instead of the United States. In reply to Lord LYVEDEN, Earl GRANVILLE expressed his regret that up to the present time the people of Canada had not provided any adequate force for their defence in case of war, and stated that it was impossible for this country to defend Canada effectively unless the colonists themselves aided in that object. On the motion for going into committee on the Salmon Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, Lord CHELMSFORD moved that the petitioners against the Bill be heard by counsel at the bar.—Lord STANLEY of ALDERLEY opposed the motion, which, after a long discussion, was negatived on a division, the numbers being—For the motion 19; against it, 66. The House then went into committee on the Bill, which, after a very long discussion and several divisions, passed through committee. The Drainage and Improvement of Land (Ireland) Bill, the Alterations in Judges' Circuits Bill, the Greenwich Hospital (Provision for Widows) Bill, the Metropolitan Main Drainage Extension Bill, the Savings Banks Acts Amendment Bill, the Clergymen (Colonies) Bill, and other Bills were read a third time and passed. The Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill, the Nuisances Removal Act (1855) Amendment Bill, and the Public Works and Fisheries Acts Amendment Bill were read a second time.

TUESDAY.—The Royal Assent was given by Commission to the Poor-law Board Continuance Bill, Loan Societies Acts Amendment Bill, Regimental Debts, &c., Bill, Growing Crops Seizure (Ireland) Bill, Volunteers Bill, Greenwich Hospital (Provision for Widows) Bill, Metropolitan Main Drainage

Extension Bill, Officers of Royal Naval Reserve Bill, Land Drainage (Provisional Orders) Bill, Local Government Supplemental (No. 2) Bill, and numerous Railway and private Bills. The Promissory Notes and Bills of Exchange Bill, the Misappropriation by Servants Bill, the India Stock Bill, the Sydney Branch Mint Bill, and other Bills were read a third time and passed. On the motion for the consideration of the Commons' amendments to the Alkali Works Regulation Bill, the Earl of Derby moved that the House should reject the clause inserted by the Commons, imposing penalties upon the workmen for offences against the Act, as he contended that the master alone should be liable.—Lord Stanley of Alderley supported the amendment of the Commons, but on a division the numbers were—For disagreeing, 47; for agreeing, 24: Majority, 23. The rest of the Commons' amendments were then agreed to. The report on the Salmon Fisheries (Ireland) Bill having been brought up, Lord Wensleydale moved an amendment providing that no person should be deprived without compensation of the rights which he enjoyed under the Act of 1842.—Lord Stanley of Alderley opposed the motion, which was negatived on a division by 49 to 17. The report was then agreed to. Several Bills were advanced a stage.

Thursday.—The Earl of Malmesbury directed attention to the fatal Tight Rope accident at Aston Park, Birmingham, and suggested that it was the duty of Government to take immediate steps for preventing such dangerous exhibitions in future.—Earl Granville agreed that these exhibitions were of a disgraceful character, but believed that the expression of a strong opinion against them by Parliament and the press, would have a far more beneficial effect than any legislative enactment.—After a few words from the Earl of Shaftesbury the subject dropped. On the order for the third reading of the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill, Lord Cranworth moved as an amendment that the Bill be read a third time that day three months. He argued that the Bill would sweep away the immemorial rights of individuals without giving any compensation.—The Earl of Derby said that he could not be a party to the commission of an act of such gross injustice as confiscating private property, even for a public benefit.—The Bill was also opposed by Lords Kingsdown, Wensleydale, Chelmsford, and Wicklow, and supported by the Duke of Argyll, the Marquis of Clanricarde, and Lord Cloncurry. On a division, the third reading was carried by 40 to 25.—Lord Cranworth next moved as a proviso that nothing in the act should interfere with any rights held at the time of its passing, under royal grant or charter, and possessed from time immemorial. The motion was opposed by the Earl of Donoughmore, and negatived on a division, by 34 to 23. The Bill was then read a third time and passed. The Fortifications (Provision for Expenses) Bill, the Public Works and Fisheries Act's Amendment Bill, the Vaccination (Scotland) Bill, and the Exhibition Medals Bill, were read a third time and passed. Several other Bills were forwarded a stage.

Friday.—The Poisoned Grain, &c., Prohibition Bill, the Removal of Prisoners (Scotland) Bill, the Charitable Uses Bill, the Union Relief Aid Acts Continuance Bill, the Companies' Clauses Bill, and the Expiring Laws Continuance Bill passed through committee. The Petty Sessions (Ireland) Bill, the Trustees (Scotland, Act Amendment Bill, the Navy Prize Agents Bill, the Nuisances Removal Act (1855) Amendment Bill, the Turnpike Trusts arrangements Bill, the Railways Clauses Bill, the Waterworks Clauses Bill and the Turnpike Acts Continuance, &c., Bill were read a third time and passed. Employment of Children.—The Earl of Shaftesbury brought under the notice of the House the first report of the Children's Employment Commission.

[Left sitting.]

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Friday.—Mr. Hennessy moved an address to her Majesty in favour of Open Competition for the junior appointments in the civil service.—Mr. B. Cochrane said that, so far as he had been able to ascertain, competitive examination had been rather detrimental than otherwise to the public service, while the whole patronage of the civil service had been placed in the hands of three irresponsible commissioners.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer said that the principle of appointments to the civil service was based on elementary knowledge, but questions of a more recondite nature were introduced with the view of testing the qualifications of the candidates in other respects. The system of competitive examination was not retrograding, but progressing, though but slowly.—After some remarks by Mr. Maguire, Mr. Bentinck, Mr. Clay, and Mr. Milnes —Lord Palmerston said that the Government were responsible for the appointment of competent persons to offices, and that it was unreasonable to expect that they should open an office for the registration of the name of every man in the community who chose to offer himself for examination. The present system worked well, and no case had been made out for a change.—Mr. Henley thought that the experiment had worked fairly, and that it would be unwise to disturb it until more experience had been gained. — Mr. D. Griffith said that the system, so far from diminishing the patronage of the Government, had trebled it. On a division the motion was negatived by 118 to 37.—Mr. Bass next called attention to the nuisance caused by Street Music in the Streets of the Metropolis, and moved that it was expedient to reconsider the law on the subject at the earliest opportunity. Mr. Babbage had, on one occasion, been disturbed by no fewer than 182 bands, and Lord Canning had stated that a grave error had crept into an important despatch of his, because a band of German vagrants had suddenly commenced blasting and counter-blasting under his window. — Lord Fermoy defended the nuisance, and suggested that objection might as well be taken to the pale ale drays of Mr. Bass rumbling through the streets.—Mr. C. Bentinck said that the law was not sufficiently defined, and the magistrates were not agreed as to the interpretation of what was the "reasonable cause" which justified a person in handing a minstrel over to the police. Mr. Malins said that he was so seriously annoyed by itinerant musicians that he feared he would not be able to continue to reside in the metropolis.—Mr. Bruce could not agree that, under all circumstances, street music should be suppressed, because what displeased in one locality might be acceptable in another. He considered that the magistrates administered the law in a reasonable manner, and that there was no necessity for further legislation on the subject. The subject then dropped.—Lord Robert Cecil asked whether the Government were prepared to grant any compendetion to Captain Blakeley for loss occasioned to him by the of tention, without cause, of the vessel Gibraltar on suspicion as being in the service of the Confederate States. Captain Blakeley had sustained a loss of between 20,000*l.* and 30,000*l.*, and was an especial object of aversion to Mr Adams, the American Minister, in whose hands her Majesty's Government appeared to be mere tools.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer said that the Government had no information whatever that Captain Blakeley had sustained the wrong referred to; and repudiated the insinuation that they had been influenced by any pressure from the American Minister.—Colonel Dunne brought under notice the Case of M. Chisholm Anstey, late Attorney-General for Hong-Kong and asked what reparation had been made for the injustice done to him by the authorities in that colony.—Mr. C. Fortescue said that Mr. Anstey had been dismissed from office because of his violent temper, his disrespect towards the Governor of the colony, his want of discretion and judgment, and his general unfitness to be the legal adviser of the Governor. The matter had been investigated by the Colonial Secretary, who was of opinion that there was no ground whatever for reparation, and that it was impossible to reappoint Mr. Anstey. The Spanish Protestants.—Mr. G. Duff asked for papers relating to the case of Matamoros and the other Spanards lately sentenced to banishment on account of their religious opinions.—Sir G. Bowyer said that Matamoros and his companions were paid agents of a proselytising society at Malta, whilst Matamoros himself had formerly been a political prisoner, and was obliged to fly from his country. He then read letters contradicting a statement made by Lord Palmerston some months ago, to the effect that a Jesuit father, named Curci, in a sermon before the ex-King of Naples and his Court, in the church of Santo Spirito at Rome, had reproached his audience for encouraging brigandage.—Lord Palmerston said that the Queen of Spain had remitted the sentence upon Matamoros and his friends to banishment to some other country, and that there was reason to believe that a more tolerant feeling in religious matters was springing up in Spain. With regard to the statement made by Sir G. Bowyer, he had received a letter from Italy stating that the sermon of Father Curci drew a distinction between the true and the false emigration, fulminated against the second, and accused the first of pride and of little faith in God, from whom alone could come the restoration of the Bourbon dynasty.—Sir S. Northcote called attention to the proposals which have been made for the establishment of a Route to Australia by way of Panama; and asked the Government to state their intentions on the subject.—Mr. Peel said that the Suez route was preferable to that by Panama, and that the latter would not only be longer by some days, but more expensive. After a short discussion, in which Mr. Bentinck and Mr. Hankey took part, the House went into committee of supply.—Mr. Peel moved the vote of 700,000*l.* for Post Office Packet Services.—The motion led to considerable discussion, in the course of which the system of subsidising foreign Governments was censured especially by Sir S. Northcote, Mr. Ayrton, and Mr. Corry. — Eventually, Mr. Ayrton moved to reduce the vote by 3,110*l.*, the amount payable to the Belgian Government for the night Ostend packet service. On a division the motion was negatived by 75 to 26, and the vote—the last of supply—was agreed to amid the cheers of the committee. The Union Relief Aid Acts Continuance Bill, the Companies Clauses Bill, and the Turnpike Trust Arrangements Bill were read a third time and passed. The Indemnity Bill was read a second time.

Monday.—The London City Traffic Regulation Bill was read a third time and passed. Dover Mail Contracts.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that as the contract for conveying the Dover and Calais and Ostend mails had not yet been concluded, and would not probably be in the hands of members for some days to come, it was not intended to submit any vote to the House for that service during the present session. Poland.—The orders of the day having, on the motion of Lord Palmerston, been postponed for the purpose, Mr. Horsman moved the following resolution:—"That the arrangements made with regard to Poland by the treaty of Vienna have failed to secure the good government of Poland or the peace of Europe; and any further attempt to replace Poland under the conditions of that treaty must cause calamities to Poland, and embarrassment and danger to Europe." He commenced by saying that Poland had been diplomatised to death, and that the diplomatic documents which had been published had placed England in a condition of embarrassment from which it would be impossible to escape. He then proceeded to sketch the history of the Polish question from the partition of 1772 to the Treaty of Vienna and the revolution of 1831. Russia, he said, had set aside the obligations of 1815, and had fastened herself on Poland like a garotter. The Czar was King of Poland by the treaty of Vienna, but he denied this tenure, and maintained that he was king by the right of conquest alone. Poland was the ward of Europe, and England was her legal guardian. This being the state of affairs, and Russia having repudiated her treaty obligations, there was yet a way to free Poland without bloodshed. If Austria would give up Galicia, and Prussia would relinquish Posen, the kingdom of Poland might be established without a blow. If Austria refused, and England faltered beside her, it was impossible to predict what course France would take. It should, however, be remembered that the Polish question was one that united all parties in that country, and that the Emperor of the French had sounded the Italian Government, and had been offered an army of 60,000 men. This being the state of affairs, he appealed to the noble lord at the head of the Government to use his influence to bring about the restoration of an independent Poland as the great political event of the day.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer said that Mr. Horsman's speech wanted coherence, and meant either war or nothing. He did not agree that Russia had no claim on the sympathy of Europe. On the contrary, he could not forget that the present Emperor had succeeded to an inheritance of triumphant wrong, and that in the face of enormous difficulties he had carried out great and beneficient changes for the welfare and happiness of his people. The language held by Russia in 1863, as contrasted with that of 1831, was favourable to the prospect of a peaceful solution of the difficulty; for while in 1831 she held that the European Powers had no right whatever to interfere, she now did not dispute their right to exchange views with reference to the interpretation to be put upon the treaty of Vienna. Earl Russell in his despatch of the 10th April had not indulged in any menace of war, but had exercised a wise reservation of discretion, for who could answer that the flame of revolution would be confined to Poland? The assurance of the noble lord had reference merely to the present limits of the question, and was not intended in any way to fetter the action of England should the state of circumstances undergo a change. He thought therefore that the motion was not one which it would be desirable to adopt, because, although intended for the benefit of Poland, the renunciation and abandonment of the treaty of Vienna would deprive the friendly Powers of the only basis on which they could interfere on her behalf.—Mr. Hennessy said that the general feeling of sympathy entertained throughout the United Kingdom for the cause of Poland, prevailed also in Austria. The revolution had a claim upon the consideration of Europe in the fact that it was essentially national, consisting of all classes of the people —from the peasants in the villages, and the artizans in the towns, to the students, the ecclesiastics, and the nobles in the great towns and cities. The nationality of the movement was also proved by the fact that to the taxes levied by the National Government and cheerfully paid by the people the success of the movement was due.—Mr. Kinglake said that this mysterious National Government was one of the great difficulties which surrounded the question. The House ought, however, to reflect upon the relations of Russia and Poland. In 1815 Russia held Poland, which had joined the French invasion, by the right of conquest; but the Emperor nevertheless granted most liberal terms to them. With regard to the course adopted by her Majesty's Government his own opinion was that they could not have pursued any other. The people of England would not have been satisfied if Ministers had shown perfect torpor; but as England was not bound by guarantees they had acted on their rights under the treaty of Vienna, and it was going a great deal too far to say that, in consulting the interests of the country and the state of Europe, they had discredited England by declining the terrible alternative of war.—Mr. Peacocke said the Government had placed the country in a position from which it could not advance with profit or recede with honour.—Mr. Newdegate approved the policy of the Government —After some remarks by Sir F. Goldsmid, Lord H. Vane and Mr. S. Beaumont, Lord Palmerston said the speech of Mr. Horsman was scarcely consistent with his motion. According to his views, England must either remain passive or insist upon the re-establishment of the kingdom of Poland within its ancient limits. If all the Powers of Europe were prepared to compel Russia to restore everything that had been taken from Poland, he could understand that it might be thought desirable to combine for that object; but it was quite clear that that could not be accomplished by persuasion, but that force would have to be resorted to. The single ground upon which we were entitled as a matter of international right to speak to Russia on the question of Poland was the treaty of Vienna, which authorised us to require that certain arrangements should be carried out, and the moment we began to go beyond that, we should be told that we had no business to make demands which could only be enforced by war, and successful war. The Powers of Europe were not prepared to take that course; and if we declared the treaty of Vienna at an end as regarded Poland, we should divest ourselves of the right to remonstrate with Russia in reference to her treatment of the Poles. How the Poles were to be saved by such a course as that he was at a loss to know. He believed that, instead of being an advantage to them, it would only be handing them over, hand and foot, to be dealt with at the pleasure of General Mouravieff, and other Russian agents of a similar character.—Mr. Horsman then withdrew the motion, observing that to press it before her Majesty's Government had sent an answer to the reply of Russia might be productive of inconvenience to the public service. The Lords' Amendments to the Telegraph Bill were considered. The Railway and Waterwork Clauses Bills, the Turnpike Acts Continuance Bill, the Petty Sessions (Ireland) Bill, and the Expiring Laws Continuance Bill, were read a third time and passed. Other bills were advanced a stage.

Tuesday.—The Consolidated Fund (Appropriation) Bill was read a second time. The Promissory Notes and Bills of Exchange Bill was read a third time and passed. The Augmentation of Benefices Bill was committed, and progress made to the 31st clause. Ionian Islands.—In answer to Lord John Manners, Lord Palmerston said that the Ionian Islands were still under the protectorate of England, and that it was not the intention of the Government to invite the Porte to attend the conference on their proposed cession to Greece.—Mr. B. Cochrane asked whether the recent events at Athens were likely to delay the arrival of the new King.—Lord Palmerston said that he saw no reason for any delay. Proxy Papers Stamps.—Mr. D. Griffith moved that the present amount of stamp duty on proxy voting papers being excessive in amount in comparison with other stamps, and not involving considerations of importance to the revenue, might conveniently be reduced to one penny.—The motion was seconded by Mr. Vance, and supported by Mr Whalley.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer said that the Government had no evidence of any extensive desire for a reduction of the stamp duty on proxies; but if representations were made to that effect, he would be happy to give them consideration. The motion was then withdrawn. The Civil War in China.—Colonel Sykes called attention to the despatch of Admiral Kuper, reporting the death of Lieut. Tinling, of her Majesty's ship Encounter, at the siege of Showshing, and moved for papers. — Lord C. Paget said that as Lieut. Tinling had gone beyond the radius of 30 miles, and engaged in operations against the Taepings, which British officers had been strictly ordered not to do, he would not be justified in saying that he had died in the service of his country. After some remarks by Mr. White and Mr. Cochrane, the motion was withdrawn. Case of Mr. Bewicke.—Mr. Berkeley moved a resolution that the grievances suffered by Mr. Bewicke, as detailed in his petition of 28th April, were such as entitled him to the consideration of her Majesty's Government. The petitioner had been sentenced to four years' penal servitude on a charge of firing a pistol and resisting some sheriffs' officers in the execution of their duty, but subsequently received the royal pardon on its being clearly proved that his conviction was the result of a conspiracy. On returning to his home, however, he found that the Commissioners of Greenwich Hospital, who were trustees of the estate, had entered, seized his furniture, and sold it for less than one-third of its value as the property of a felon.—Sir G. Grey contended that there was no failure of justice as far as regarded the evidence upon the trial, which was perfectly satisfactory both to the judge and jury; and when the witnesses upon whose evidence Mr. Bewicke was convicted were tried and found guilty of perjury, that gentleman was pardoned; and as it was impossible to restore his property—which had been sold by the Commissioners of Greenwich Hospital in the interval—they paid him the sum it had realised.—Sir F. Kelly said that the state of the law was disgracefully unjust, and that it was the bounden duty of the Government to take the case into their consideration, and to do as they did in the case of Mr. Barber, and grant a sum of money as compensation to Mr. Bewicke. The Solicitor-General acknowledged that the petitioner had been badly used, though no fault attached to the law, or those who administered it; but he did not see how an exception could be made in this instance, or why it should be put upon a different footing from that of other cases where there had been a possible miscarriage of justice. On a division the motion was negatived by 22 to 20.—Mr. B. Cochrane directed attention to the present state of our Relations with Japan; and contended that her Majesty's Government were not justified in resorting to compulsion. He moved for the production of papers relating to the existing causes of dispute. — Mr. Liddell seconded the motion.—Mr. Layard defended the policy of the Government, and said that the treaty with Japan was drawn up under instructions from Lord Malmesbury. He regretted that we had been obliged to take a firm course with the Japanese Government, but he could not see what other alternative we had. The Tycoon and his Ministers had been treated with the greatest leniency and consideration, and all that England had done was to demand that the lives and property of British merchants should be protected.—Mr. Cochrane withdrew his motion.—Mail Contracts.—Mr. Peel moved that the contract for the conveyance of the Cape of Good Hope mails with the Union Company; the contract for the conveyance of the Brazil and River Plate mails with the Royal Mail Company; and the contract for the conveyance of the American mails with the Galway Mail Company, be approved.—Mr. Ayrton hoped that the course now adopted would not be drawn into a precedent, as the motion ought to have been submitted in a committee of the whole House.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer said that the object was, that persons who had embarked large sums of money to enable them to carry out their contracts should have the guarantee of a positive vote of the House. — Mr. Dillwyn asked whether Galway was to be the port of departure, and not merely a port of call.—Mr. Peel said the new Galway contract was precisely similar to the old, and that the port of departure was to be Galway. The motion was then agreed to.—In committee of the whole House, Mr. Peel obtained leave to bring in a Bill to reduce the Duty on Rum used in the manufacture of paint, and for other purposes.—Mr. Whalley moved the second reading of the Petty Offences Bill.—Mr. Bruce opposed the Bill, and moved to defer the second reading for two months. The Bill was withdrawn.—Mr. WHALLEY likewise withdrew the Railway Bills (No. 2) Bill. The Indemnity Bill was read a third time and passed.

WEDNESDAY.—On the order for going into Committee upon the Statute Law Revision Bill, the SOLICITOR-GENERAL adverted to the inquiries which the subject had undergone, to the commissions that had been appointed, their cost to the country, and their results, one of which had been the Act of 1861, comprehending a revision of the statutes from the year 1771. The present Bill carried the expurgatory process backwards from the 20th of Henry III. (1236) to the 1st of James II. (1685), removing from the Statute Book all Acts passed during that interval which had expired or were obsolete, or had been impliedly or virtually repealed. The Bill, which would very materially reduce the bulk of the Statute Book, must be accepted by the House, in a great measure, on the ground of confidence in the gentlemen to whom its preparation had been intrusted, and in the eminent persons who had approved the work.—Sir F. KELLY expressed his entire approval of the Bill, but said that, unless expurgation was accompanied by consolidation, the Statute Book would still be encumbered with evils and beset with anomalies. He mentioned, among other examples, the law of real property, which was to be collected from 600 or 800 enactments. The task of consolidation would, he said, present no insurmountable difficulties.—Mr. HENNESSY moved to defer the committee till that day week.—Sir H. CAIRNS recommended the House to go into Committee.—Mr. HENLEY thought it would be wiser to let the Bill lie over till next Session.—After some remarks by Mr. CLAY and Mr. AYRTON, the amendment was withdrawn, and the House went into Committee upon the Bill, which was passed without amendment, after a long discussion.—The British Columbia Boundaries Bill was read a second time, on the understanding that the debate upon its principle should be deferred till the next stage. The Colonial Acts Confirmation Bill, the Consolidated Fund Appropriation Bill, the Alteration in Judges Circuit Bill, and the Superannuation (Union Officers) Bill passed through Committee. The Land Tax Commissioners' Names Bill was read a third time and passed. The House then went again into Committee upon the Augmentation of Benefices Bill, the details of which continued under discussion till the hour of adjournment arrived.

THURSDAY.—Denmark and Germany.—Mr. S. FITZGERALD called attention to the existing relations between the Germanic Confederation and the Government of Denmark, and wished to know what was now the policy of her Majesty's Government in the matter. He urged that it was the duty of this country to maintain the integrity and independence of the Danish monarchy.—Lord PALMERSTON said the subject was a very complicated one, but he entirely agreed that it was the policy of England to maintain the integrity and independence of Denmark. Her Majesty's Government held that Holstein was a member of the Germanic Confederation; that the latter had the same control over the affairs of Holstein as over those of the other members of the Confederation, and that any arrangement made by the King of Denmark opposed to this fundamental rule was not justifiable; but with regard to Schleswig, that the Germanic Confederation had no more right to prescribe rules for it than for England, Russia, or any other separate and independent State. If the Confederation should act precipitately, and a war broke out, it must extend farther, and involve many other States in its disastrous consequences. As to the policy of her Majesty's Government, they were desirous that the rights of Denmark should be maintained, and if any attempt were made to overthrow those rights that it should be resisted. Every effort, however, would be made to induce the parties to include all disputes within the limits of diplomatic intercourse. Foreign Enlistment Act.—Mr. COBDEN brought under notice the seizures of American merchants by the Oreto, alias the Florida, the Alabama, and the Virginia. These vessels had been built in this country contrary to the provisions of the Foreign Enlistment Act, and he was apprehensive if the building of similar vessels were allowed to go on in British ports the consequence would inevitably be a rupture between England and the Federal States.—Mr. LAIRD denied that the Alabama had left Liverpool in an improper manner, as the owner had a builder's certificate, and had a right to do what he pleased with her.—Lord PALMERSTON said he looked upon the two hostile parties in America as belligerents, and therefore entitled to all the rights and privileges of belligerents; whereas Mr. Cobden regarded them not as belligerents but as a legitimate Government endeavouring to put down a rebellion against its authority. According to the doctrine of the United States Government itself a neutral Power might supply a belligerent with ships, arms, ammunition, or anything else; and neither the American Government nor Mr. Cobden could say that her Majesty's Ministers had omitted to do anything that by law they could do in the matter. Ionian Islands.—In answer to Lord J. MANNERS, Lord PALMERSTON said that as the Sultan had not been a party to the establishment of the Protectorate of the Ionian Islands, he would not be invited to send a representative to the conference. A treaty would be signed by the great Powers before the meeting of the Ionian Parliament. The Appropriation Bill was then read a third time and passed. The Augmentation of Benefices Bill, the Rum Duty Bill, the Clergymen (Colonies) Bill, and other measures passed through committee. The Colonial Acts Confirmation Bill was read a third time and passed.—Sir G. GREY stated, in reply to Mr WARNER, that it was intended next session to bring in a Bill founded on the report of the Commissioners on Transportation and Penal Servitude.—In reply to Mr W. E. FORSTER, Mr. C. FORTESCUE said that the Government of New Zealand, apprehending the renewal of war, had applied for another European regiment and three regiments of Sikhs, and her Majesty's Government had decided that the request ought to be complied with. Railway Communication.—Mr. BLAKE drew attention to the recent murderous outrage in a carriage on the London and North-Western Railway, and inquired whether the Government intended taking any steps to compel railway companies to provide means for enabling passengers to obtain assistance in the event of outrage or accident.—Mr. M. GIBSON replied that the Board of Trade were not prepared to introduce any measure on the subject. They had frequently sent circulars to railway companies, calling their attention to the necessity of having means of communication between guards and drivers, but not between passengers and guards.—The House then went into committee, when Sir C. WOOD made his annual statement in reference to Indian Finance, showing as the general result that the total revenue was 45,105,000*l*., and the expenditure 43,823,000*l*., leaving a surplus of 1,280,000*l*.; and he was happy to add that, from the latest accounts, there was reason to believe that the result of the current year's operation would be even more satisfactory. He then entered into minute details relating to the construction of railways, the cultivation of cotton, the Indian debt, the strength of the army, &c., and in reference to the latter stated that, whereas in the year 1858-59 the military expenditure was 25,500,000*l*., it had been reduced in 1862-63 to 14,500,000*l*. In conclusion he submitted a series of resolutions declaring the revenue and expenditure of the year 1861-62 in all the Indian territories, and the interest on the registered debt. After a discussion in which Colonel SYKES, Mr. GREGSON, Mr. VANSITTART, Mr. BAZLEY and Mr. AYRTON, took part, the resolutions were agreed to. On the order for going into Committee on the British Columbia Boundaries Bill.—Mr. C. FORTESCUE explained the objects of the measure, and gave details of the progress of the colony, and the character of its population. He said that he looked forward to the time when British Columbia would be most valuable to this country.—Mr. WYLD complained of defects in the administration of the colony; and of the influence exercised by the Hudson's Bay Company. He said that the people were not adequately represented, in consequence of which the population of the two colonies of Vancouver's Island and British Columbia had decreased.—Mr. AYTOUN objected to the Bill on the grounds that it conferred enormous powers upon the Crown, and that it formed part of a great scheme of the Colonial Secretary for an intercolonial railway, which was a wild project that would affect the interests of the taxpayers of this country.—The House then went into Committee upon the Bill, the clauses of which were agreed to, except the fourth, which was negatived. The Partnership Law Amendment Bill was read a third time and passed.

FRIDAY.—The Rum Duty Bill, the Augmentation of Benefices Bill, the Alteration in Judges' Circuits Bill, and the Clergymen (Colonies) Bill were read a third time and passed. The British Columbia Boundaries Bill, as amended, was considered and agreed to, and was then read a third time and passed. The Statutes Law Revision Bill, upon some opposition from Mr. HENNESSY, was read a third time and passed.—The Exhibition Medals Bill was read a second time; and the standing orders having been suspended for the purpose, it passed through committee. The Lords' amendments to the Piers and Harbours Orders Confirmation Bill were agreed to.

[Left sitting.]

City Intelligence.

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at 92¾ to 93 for Money, and at 92⅞ for Account; Reduced and New Three per Cents., 93 to 93⅛; Bank Stock, 239 to 237½; India Stock, 225; Ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 108¼ to 108; Ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1864, 100; Ditto Bonds, 19s. pm.; Exchequer Bills, March, 3s. to 1s. pm.; Ditto June, 3s. to 4s. pm.—FOREIGN: Brazilian, 1839 and 1859, 101; Ditto 1852, '58, '60, 93; Buenos Ayres, for Acct., 93; Dutch Two and a Half per Cents., 65 ex div.; Egyptian, 103⅛; Ditto, second issue, 103; Greek, for Acct., 34 to 33¾; Ditto Coupons, 15⅝ to ⅛; Italian, for Acct., 70¼ to ⅜ ex div.; Ditto Scrip, ½ pm. ex div.; Ditto Maremmana Railway, 79 ex div.; New Granada, 15⅜; Portuguese, 1853, for Acct., 47¾ ex div.; Ditto 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., 48 ex div.; Russian, 1862, 93 to 92¾; Sardinian, for Acct., 90½; Spanish New Deferred, for Acct., 48 ex div.; Ditto Passive, for Acct., 32⅛ to ⅜; Ditto Certificates, 12¼; Turkish, 1854, for Acct., 94 to 93; Ditto 1858, for Acct., 70 to ¾; Ditto 1862, for Acct., 67⅛ to ¼ ex div.; Ditto Guaranteed, 103⅜; Venezuela, 1862, for Acct., 56½.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: July 17—BANKRUPTS.—J. APPLETON, Warrington, Lancashire, File Smith—J. ANDREW, Tavistock, Devonshire, Miller—W. B. APPLEYARD, Foot's Cray, Kent, Grocer—G. BARNES, Bedford, Grocer—J. BROWN, jun., Wombridge, Shropshire, Licensed Victualler—J. BEARDSHAW, Ecclesfield Common, Yorkshire, Publican—T. S. BULL, Clifton, Gloucestershire, Mason—J. M. BAILLIE and G. DUYSTER, Great St. Helen's, Bishopsgate Street Within, Merchants—J. BIRKETT, Liverpool, Commission Agent—H. BAKEWELL, late of Birmingham, Land and Estate Agent—J. BATE, Birmingham, Provision Dealer—E. CALLOW, St Paul's Grove, Ball's Pond, late Tobacconist—D. CHURCH, Buxton Street, Spitalfields, Chemist—W. CLARKE, Liverpool, Out of Business—W. H. COLLARD, Brighton, Painter—G. H. ST. CLAIR, Birmingham, Auctioneer—S. COX, Cheltenham, Teacher of Music—E. COULTAS, Birmingham, Provision Dealer—R. CADDICK, Westbromwich, Staffordshire, Attorney—W. COX, Spencer Place, Brixton Road, Carpenter—B. DAVIES, Liverpool, Provision Dealer—J. DARRALL, Deepfields, Staffordshire, Grocer—E. EDWARDS, Willenhall, Staffordshire, Beer House Keeper—W. EVANS, Finchfield, Staffordshire, Gun Lock Filer—J. EARNSHAW, Stannington, Yorkshire, Farmer—J. EDMUNDS, Hanley Castle, Worcestershire, Shoemaker—M. A. FULLER, Swansea, late Licensed Victualler—S. FOWLER, jun., Stockcross, Berkshire, Farmer—FRANCES EDITH GARDENER (not FRANCIS EDITH GARDENER, as previously advertised), Berkeley Street, Bryanstone Square—J. GEE, Lincoln, Sewing Machine Manufacturer—F. J. GUNN, Newnham, Gloucestershire, Chemist and Druggist—G. GARNER, Kingston, Surrey, Fancy Stationer—J. HADLEY, Amelia Place, Walworth, Baker—J. S. HAYS, Gravel Lane, Southwark, Licensed Victualler—J. HORROCKS, Bradford, Yorkshire, Picker Maker—P. HAMILTON, Ripon, Yorkshire, Farmer—E. HAMILTON, Ripon, Yorkshire, Farmer—J. HIGINBOTHAM, Fernilee, Derbyshire, Ironmonger—M. HENDERSON, Old Shildon, Durham, Grocer—R. JAMES, late of Gravesend, Victualler—E. JAMES, Upton, Berkshire, Blacksmith—JOHN JACKSON, Oakham, Rutlandshire, Innkeeper—ELIJAH LAWTON, Burslem, Staffordshire, Cabinetmaker—THOMAS LAYCOCK, Brotherton, Yorkshire, Cattle Dealer—GEORGE EDWIN LAMBERT, Bilston, Staffordshire, Chain Manufacturer—H. LEGGETT, Gorleston, Suffolk, Fisherman—J. LEESON, Braunston, Northamptonshire, Builder—W. LAWRENCE, Beaufort Street, Chelsea, Commercial Traveller—J. H. MASKELL, Liverpool Street, King's Cross, Ale Merchant—J. MEREDITH, Salisbury Street, Portman Market, Late Dairyman—P. R. MILLER, Birmingham, Commission Agent—C. MERSON, Manchester, Boot and Shoe Maker—J. G. MORRIS, Northampton, Commercial Traveller—W. H. MELLOR, Liverpool, Brewer—R. MARSHALL, Middlesborough, Yorkshire, Shoe Dealer—G. MUNTON, Hanbury, Staffordshire, Coachman—E. T. NEWMAN, Bognor, Sussex, Plumber—G. ONSLOW, Willow Place, Mile End, Commercial Traveller—J. PHILLIPS, City Road, Fur Rug Manufacturer—J. E. PARTRIDGE, Westbromwich, Staffordshire, Brass Founder—J. PITT, jun., Worcester, Cooper—R. G. ROSE, Fenchurch St., City, Ship Store Merchant—W. RICHARDSON, late of Shalstone, Buckinghamshire, Farmer—T. REA, Liverpool, Dealer in Old Metal—J. R. ROBERTS, Stoney Street, Southwark, Licensed Victualler—J. B. SHELLEY, Bilston, Staffordshire, Chemist and Druggist—E. SHELLEY, Wolverhampton, Commission Agent—E. S. SHELLEY, Bilston, Staffordshire, Chemist and Druggist—G. SHACKLETON, Leeds, Corn Dealer—S. SMITH, Everton, Lancashire, Grocer—T. STARKEY, Manchester, Boot and Shoe Maker—J. SERGEANT, Liverpool, Timber Dealer—W. SCOTT, Millhouse, Cumberland, Blacksmith—S. TOWNSEND, Leicester, Dealer in Wood—T. TUNE, Winterton, Lincolnshire, Carrier—H. TAYLER, Lupus Street, Belgravia, late Merchant—E. A. WALLER, Cambridge Terrace, Bayswater, Commission Agent—W. WARD, Birmingham, Licensed Victualler—J. M. WESTLAKE, Brisworthy, Devonshire, Corn Dealer—W. H. WRIGHT, Chudleigh, Devonshire, Maltster—G. B. C. WATSON, Liverpool Road, Cheshire, Surgeon.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—J. GRAHAM, Auchtermuchty, Merchant—J. M'INTYRE, Bridge of Turk and Callender, Innkeeper—T. ROME, Batrich, Dumfriesshire, Farmer—P. M'CULLOCH, Glasgow, General Dealer—R. FERRIE, Edinburgh, Drysalter.

TUESDAY: July 21.—BANKRUPTS.—S. ANDREWS, Southampton, Fish Dealer—R. ARNOLD, Yardley, Worcestershire, Farmer—S. AKERS, Birmingham, late Butcher—M. ANSCOMBE, St. Ann's Street, Westminster, late Domestic Servant—J. ANDREW, Tavistock, Devonshire, Miller—C. W. ARROWSMITH, Bishopwearmouth, Durham, Timber Merchant's Clerk—E. ADDY, Sheffield, Traveller—R. BALL, Hastings, Sussex, Wheelwright—S. BIRKS, Fenton, Staffordshire, Butcher—R. BOYLE, Newington Place, Stoke Newington, late Licensed Victualler—R. BOND, late of Poulton le-Fylde, Lancashire, Butcher—T. B. BOOTH, Stourbridge, Worcestershire, Baker—J. BENSON, Dalton, Yorkshire, Fine Drawer—A. P. BERENS, Liverpool, Commission Merchant—G. BAILEY, Moulton, Lincolnshire, Ketchup Manufacturer—F. C. BEARD, Welbeck Street, Cavendish Square, Surgeon—C. BOUFIELD, Barnard Castle, Durham, Saddler—W. COX, Northampton, late Furniture Dealer—A. CROSSLAND, Kingston-upon-Hull, Licensed Victualler—J. CLARK, Victoria Terrace, Rotherhithe, Baker—CHARLES COOPER, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex, Colonel on Retired List Indian Military Forces—P. CRONIN, Bermondsey Street, Southwark, Tailor—THOMAS DEASON, Furness, Lancashire, Blacksmith—J. DOTTERILL, Alverstoke, Hampshire, Brewer—D. DAVIS, Preston-on-Stour, Gloucestershire, Baker—G. W. DAY, Southampton, Bricklayer—C. DILLON, Liverpool, Tallow Chandler—D. DANIELL, Portsea, Waterman—W. ELLIOT, South Shields, Grocer—T. EVANS, Bewdley, Worcestershire, Haulier—J. B. FRANKLAND, Brunswick Street, Euston Road, Oilman—P. J. FARRELL, Birmingham, Machinist—G. FEARNLEY, Camden Row, Camden Town, Coffee House Keeper—J. B. FAIRBAIRN, Rochester, Kent, Seedsman—G. GURNEY, Rotherfield Street, Islington—S. GOODAKER, sen., Birmingham, Baker—J. GUTTERY, Kidderminster, Cooper—T. HOLT, Little Bolton, Lancashire, Draper—J. HUDSON, Bradford, Yorkshire, Cloth Manufacturer—F. HAYWOOD, Blackpool, Lancashire, General Dealer—J. HOLMES, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, late Publican—J. HARDMAN, Dudley, Grocer—C. HILLS, West Street, Gravesend, Farmer—THOMAS JONES, Sculton, Yorkshire, Dealer in Potatoes—ALFRED JENKINS, Newent, Gloucestershire, Horse Dealer—JOHN JENNINGS, Bradford, Journeyman Butcher—JOHN JOHNSON, Brick Lane, Spitalfields, Carpenter—J. KIRBY, Longsight, near Manchester, Beerseller—B. KEIGHLEY, Leeds, Provision Dealer—G. S. KEYMER (sued as J. KEYMER), Claremont Cottages, Holloway, Wine Gauger—C. C. KIERNAN (sued as C. KIERNAN), Brook Street, Bond Street—J. KING, Leeds, Watchmaker—G. L. KELLY, Bootle, Lancashire, Clerk—E. LOWMAN, Portland, Dorsetshire, Housekeeper—J. W. Lambert, Clifton Street, Shepherd's Bush, Journeyman Bricklayer—J. LOCK, Bexhill, Sussex, Farm Labourer—C. LUCAS, Leckhampton, Gloucestershire, Stonemason—F. LEWIS, West Bromwich, Staffordshire, Surgeon—W. S. MOAKES, Ivy Cottage, Battersea, Horse Dealer—F. M'VEA, Ulverston, Lancashire, Printer—W. C. NEAL, Wythall, Worcestershire, late Bedstead Manufacturer—W. OTT, York Place, Walworth Road, Plumber—C. OLSEN, St. George Street, St. George's-in-the-East, Lodging-house Keeper—T. PERKINS, Shutford, Oxfordshire, Baker—J. PEAR, Northumberland Street, New Road, Wig Maker—W. A. PHILLIPS, Wilderness Row, Clerkenwell, Pewterer—E. PLACE, Scruton, Yorkshire, Carpenter—J. W. ROBERTS, West London Cricket Ground, Brompton, Beer Dealer—T. RAWLINS, Wellington St., Deptford, Journeyman Baker—H. REYNOLDS, Neath, Glamorganshire, Colliery Proprietor—E. W. RUSSELL, Lambeth Walk, Beerhouse Manager—J. SEWELL, Nicholas Lane, City, Iron Merchant—A. SPENCER, Hare Street, Bethnal Green, Clothier—C. SWAN, Watling Street, City, Commission Agent—W. SIMMONDS, Stourbridge, Worcestershire, Pork Butcher—J. B. SMITH, Grosvenor Road, Stockwell, Teacher of Music—E. SLIP, Bath, Oil and Colourman—J. W. SHIELDS, Ipswich, Accountant—W. THORLEY, Kingston-upon-Hull, Innkeeper—J. TOMLIN, Sheerness, Kent, late Publican—A. E. WOOD, Redcliffe Road, West Brompton, Lodging House Keeper—C. WOODWARD, Redcliffe Road, West Brompton, Schoolmistress—E. WEBB, Southampton, Innkeeper—T. WILLIAMS, late of Bedwelty, Monmouthshire.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

THE WIMBLEDON PRIZE MEETING.—On Saturday the meeting was brought to a close by a review and sham fight of the principal Volunteer corps of London and the neighbourhood. The Duke of Cambridge conducted the operations in person, and the Volunteers were formed in two divisions—one under the command of Lord Frederick Paulett, the other under Sir J. Yorke Scarlett. The concluding ceremony took place on Monday at the Crystal Palace, when the Duke of Cambridge presented the prizes to the respective winners, who passed across the stage at the foot of the Handel Orchestra, as their names were called by Lord Elcho. About 12,000 persons witnessed the ceremony.

THE MAIN DRAINAGE SCHEME.—On Saturday a large number of the members of both Houses of Parliament in compliance with an invitation for the Metropolitan Board of Works, paid a visit of inspection to the outfalls of the great drainage scheme. They embarked at the Speaker's stairs on board a steamer, and proceeded to Crossness Point, in the Erith marshes, where Mr. Bazalgette, the engineer of the Board, explained to them the system adopted for discharging the southern drainage into the Thames. They then crossed the river to Barking, where in like manner he explained the scheme of the northern outfalls. The works on that side are so far completed, that the contents of the high level sewer were for the first time allowed to run through the outfall direct into the river. Mr. Bazalgette assured the company that in the course of the next twelve months the whole sewers of the southern drainage will be in full operation, and that in about two years and a half the northern embankment will be completed, and the drainage of London perfected. On Monday and Tuesday the members of the Metropolitan vestries paid a similar visit to the outfalls.

THE POLES AT WOOLWICH.—In consequence of the difficulty of obtaining a passage to join their countrymen in arms, the Poles who were brought to Woolwich about three weeks since by a Swedish Government steamer, were on Friday disbanded by direction of the London Polish Committee, each man receiving a sum of 3*l*. 10*s*. The majority of the men have disposed of their uniforms and kits, but others will, it is stated, proceed to Paris to join a body of Poles in France who are preparing to leave for the seat of war.

ACCIDENT TO SIR CRESSWELL CRESSWELL.—On Friday afternoon as Sir Cresswell Cresswell was riding up Constitution Hill after the rising of the Divorce Court, the horses of Lord Aveland's carriage, which had taken fright at the breaking of the axletree, ran against his horse and threw him off, seriously injuring one of his knees, and fracturing the kneecap. He was immediately taken to St. George's Hospital, and was subsequently removed to his own residence, where he has been constantly attended by two eminent surgeons. In consequence of this accident the remainder of the causes standing for hearing in the Court of Probate and Divorce cannot be tried before Michaelmas Term, as all the other judges are on circuit, and the Chief Registrar of the court can only dispose of ordinary matters, and has no power of hearing causes.

ILLNESS OF LORD CLYDE.—The Morning Post of Tuesday published a circumstantial account of the death and services of Lord Clyde, for which there was no foundation beyond the fact that his lordship has been for some time very ill at Government House, Chatham, where he is staying with his friend General Eyre. It appears that he is slightly better, and though not out of danger, is expected to recover from almost the first attack his robust constitution has had to sustain. In the course of Tuesday a telegram was received from her Majesty at Osborne, making kind inquiries after the health of the gallant veteran.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.—The Registrar-General's weekly return states that the deaths in London in the week ending July 18 were 1364. The average number in the corresponding weeks of the ten years 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1223. The present return is therefore 141 above the average. This increase is caused chiefly by diarrhœa, from which there were 148 deaths, in addition to 15 from summer cholera. During the week the births of 930 boys and 880 girls, in all 1810 children, were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1808.

Provincial.

BIRMINGHAM.—Another fatal accident, arising from the exhibitions which Blondin made popular, took place on Tuesday, at the Foresters' fête, at Aston Park. Among the other attractions of the day, a woman calling herself Madame Geneive, the female Blondin, but who was the wife of Edward Powell, of King Street, Southwark, undertook to perform sundry feats on a tight rope for the sum of 15*l*. After passing once or twice along the rope she put a sack over her head, but had not taken many steps when the rope broke, and she fell heavily to the ground at her husband's feet quite dead, concussion of the brain or injury to the spine being the cause of death. She was six months advanced in pregnancy, and is said to have had some presentiment that the rope was not safe. It belonged to her husband, and appears to have been rotten internally, though there were no external signs of decay. This shocking occurrence produced so little effect on the spectators, who included many thousand persons from Birmingham and the black country, that the fête was continued, terminating with a display of fireworks at midnight; the Foresters' Committee, who had the conduct of the proceedings, having determined at a meeting held after the accident "to go on with the programme, omitting the dangerous parts." The scene of this disaster is that very Aston Park which her Majesty opened as a "People's Park" five years ago.

BLETCHLEY.—A shocking circumstance, resembling in some respects the fatal attack upon one of the French judges in a French railway last year, took place on Saturday in a train of the London and North-Western Railway. Three passengers, Mr. Michael Lyons, National School teacher, of Bampark, Ballymascallan, near Dundalk, Mr. Peter M'Lean, and Mr. James Worland, of Plaistow, Essex, entered a second class carriage, in which there was previously a lady 80 years of age. After the train had reached the Bletchley station on its way to London, Mr. Lyons, who had been for some time talking to himself in incoherent sentences, stabbed Mr. Worland on the forehead and inflicted several other wounds both upon him and on Mr. M'Lean, who only saved their lives by a severe struggle with him during the whole journey of 50 miles from Bletchley to London. As the train stopped at no intermediate stations there was no opportunity of giving an alarm, and there was of course no possibility of communicating with either guard or driver. The lady who was in the compartment fainted away during the struggle, but on recovering assisted in binding up the wounds of the passengers. The assailant was taken into custody, and removed for examination before the Buckinghamshire magistrates. He is an Irish schoolmaster and was found to be in possession of a prize medal awarded to him by the Society of Arts. He stated that he had come from Dundalk to be examined as a schoolmaster at the forthcoming examination at Burlington House. It appears that he is insane, and has only lately been discharged from an asylum.

Law.

NORTHERN CIRCUIT: YORK.—The Leeds Murder.—John Gair, aged 53, was indicted for the wilful murder of Alice Gair, at Leeds, on the 3d of April last. It appeared that the prisoner had formerly been in the army, and was a pensioner, living in Somerset Street, where he carried on the business of a joiner. The deceased woman lived with him as his wife, and was a dealer in clothes. By their united means they had a very comfortable home, and the prisoner seems to have been much attached to her. She was, however, of drunken habits, and had frequently been seen in the company of a man named Davis, a fishmonger, of whom the prisoner became jealous, and this feeling led to frequent quarrels between them, the deceased threatening to leave him, and break up their home. On the 2d of April he went to draw his pension, and while he was away the deceased removed some of her furniture, in order to leave him, and was afterwards seen drinking with Davis. The prisoner was greatly exasperated, and charged the deceased with being too intimate with Davis, which she did not deny. On that night a man and woman called M'Manus, who slept in the same room with them, were roused from sleep by hearing a strange noise, and on starting up found that the prisoner had cut deceased's throat with a razor, and was in the act of committing suicide, having inflicted a serious wound on his own throat, and partially divided the windpipe. They were, however, in time to seize the razor, and so prevented him from fully accomplishing his purpose. For the defence it was urged that the prisoner had been so greatly aggravated that he was not master of himself nor of his actions. The jury, after an absence of three quarters of an hour, returned a verdict of Guilty, but strongly recommended the prisoner to mercy on account of the extreme aggravation he had received from the deceased. Mr. Justice Mellor said that their recommendation would be forwarded to the proper quarter, and, assuming the black cap, proceeded, in a very impressive manner, to pass on the prisoner sentence of Death, shortly referring to the crime he had been found guilty of. The prisoner who is a respectable looking, middle aged man, with a pleasing and kindly expression of face, was removed in a fainting state.

MIDDLESEX SESSIONS.—The Riots at Cremorne.—The trial of the six prisoners charged with riot at the Cremorne Gardens, on the Oaks night, after occupying the Court for several days, was concluded on Saturday, when the jury found all six prisoners guilty. The Assistant Judge sentenced four of them—Herbert, Burkitt, Saville, and Shawcross to pay a fine of 50*l*. each, and to find two sureties in 500*l*. to keep the peace for the next 12 months. M'Dougall was fined 20*l*., and Mott, 10*l*., the first to find two sureties in 100*l*., and the other to enter into his own recognisances to keep the peace for the same period.

BIRTHS.—On the 12th inst, at 9, Upper Grosvenor Street, the Lady JULIA WOMBWELL, of a daughter—20th inst, at Felixstowe, the Lady ROBERT MONTAGU, of a daughter prematurely—17th inst, in Eaton Place, Lady CAIRNS, of a son—18th inst, in Eaton Square, Lady SCOTT, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.—On the 16th inst, at Grace Dieu Manor, Leicestershire, the Right Hon. Lord EDWARD GEORGE FITZALAN HOWARD, to WINIFRED MARY, third daughter of A. L. M. PHILLIPPS DE LISLE, Esq., of Garendon Park and Grace Dieu Manor—21st inst, at St. James's Church, Piccadilly, the Hon. LLOYD, eldest son of Lord Kenyon, to FANNY MARY KATHARINE, only child of JOHN RALPH ORMSBY GORE, Esq., M.P.—16th, at St. James's, Paddington, SAMUEL SANDARS, only son of George Sandars, Esq., of Chesterford Park, Essex, and 27 Sussex Square, London, to ELIZABETH MARIA, eldest daughter of FRANCIS WILLIAM RUSSELL, Esq., M.P., of 9, Lancaster Gate, Upper Hyde Park Gardens—21st inst, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, the Rev. FRANCIS JICKLING, rector of Beeston St. Lawrence, and incumbent of Ashmanhaugh, Norfolk, to ROSE ELIZABETH, younger daughter of Major-General JAMES ALEXANDER, C.B.

DEATHS.—On the 15th inst, at 37, Grosvenor Place, JULIET FANNY, youngest daughter of Lieutenant-General Sir RICHARD AIREY, K.C.B., Quartermaster-General, aged 17—15th inst, at Swanage, ANN CHARLOTTE, second daughter of Mr. and Lady LOUISA WARDLAW RAMSAY—11th inst, at Ryde, Isle of Wight, ANNA MARIA MARGARET, eldest daughter of the late Sir G. W. DENYS, Bart—16th inst, at Park Place, Regent's Park, Major-General FARRER, aged 86—16th inst, at Blendon Cottage, Bexley, MARY, widow of the Very Rev. ROBERT HODGSON, dean of Carlisle, aged 83—17th inst, at 69, Eccleston Square, MARY, widow of RICHARD CRAWSHAY, Esq., of Ottershaw Park, Surrey, aged 84—13th inst, at Dale Castle, Pembrokeshire, CHARLOTTE CAROLINE, wife of JOHN P. A. LLOYD PHILIPPS, Esq., aged 61—18th inst, at the School House, Great Berkhampstead, the Rev. J. R. CRAWFORD, M.A., aged 46—15th inst, the Rev. ROBERT BURNABY, incumbent of St. George's, Leicester, aged 67.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, July 25.

Supplies of both fruit and vegetables are still unusually well kept up. Peaches and Nectarines are plentiful. Greengages and other Plums are now included in foreign imports, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Foreign Pine Apples are also plentiful. Strawberries are abundant. Cherries of foreign growth, of which there are large arrivals, are fetching from 5s. to 6s. 6d per basket, weighing about 25 lbs. each. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good supply, and Oranges are also plentiful. New Potatoes realise from 8s. to 11s. per cwt. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Violets, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 6s | Currants, p. punnet, 6d to 9d |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Gooseberries, do., 6d to 9d |
| Strawberries, p. lb., 6d to 1s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Apples, per doz., 9d to 1s 6d | Oranges, per box, 30s to 40s |
| Figs, per doz., 6s to 8s | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Peaches, per doz., 10s to 20s | Nuts, small, per bush, 14s to 18s |
| Nectarines, do., 6s to 10s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Melons, each, 2s to 4s | Walnuts, do., 10s |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | French Beans, per 100, 2s |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 90s to 98s | Shallots (new), p. bunch, 6d |
| ,, Flukes, do., 100s to 120s | Rhubarb, p. bundle, 2d to 4d |
| ,, Rocks, do., 60s to 80s | Garlic (new), per bunch, 6d |
| ,, Cups, do., 75s to 85s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 6d to 8d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 4d to 6d | Horse Radish, p. bun. 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

SMITHFIELD, Thursday, July 23.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 70s to | 80s | Clover, old | 100s to | 120s |
| Superior do. | 80 | 90 | New Clover | — | — |
| Inferior do. | 54 | 70 | Do. second cut | 95 | 115 |
| New do. | 70 | 84 | Straw | 26 | 31 |
| Rowen | — | — | | | |

HARVEY & EASTON.

CUMBERLAND MARKET, THURSDAY, July 23.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay | 90s to | 100s | Inferior Clover | 90s to | 105s |
| Inferior do. | 70 | 80 | New do. | 84 | 100 |
| New do. | 70 | 84 | Straw | 36 | 43 |
| Superior Clover | 115 | 126 | | | |

JOSHUA BAKER.

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, July 23.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 84s to | 90s | Prime Clover | 118s to | 126s |
| Inferior do. | 70 | 80 | Inferior do. | 106 | 115 |
| Prime New Hay | 78 | 84 | New do. | 98 | 105 |
| Inferior | 60 | 70 | Inferior do. | 90 | 96 |
| Straw | 28 | 34 | Prime 2d cut | 110 | 120 |

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, July 23.

We have to report a firm market, and full rates for South Down and half-bred wool, as the prices paid in all parts of the country the last few days have been the extreme rates, except Yorkshire and Lincolnshire, which have receded to some extent from the superiority over all other countries they had previously attained to. Farmers ought indeed to be well satisfied at the prices they have obtained, the great bulk of wool having been sold at prices varying from 1s. 9d. to 1s. 9½d., and parcels of extra quality have freely realised 1s. 10d. to 1s. 11d. The clip has been disposed of by them in an unprecedentedly short time, and has, we believe, in the majority of instances, proved very deficient both in number and weight of fleeces, and with the present large consumption of wool we see no prospect of lower prices, but rather of higher ones, as the present clip becomes worked up.

| | s. d. | s. d. | | s. d. | s. d. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets | 1 9½ to | 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to | 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto | 1 10 — | 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs | 1 9 — | 1 10 |
| Down Ewes | 1 8½ — | 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — | 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces | 1 9 — | 1 10 | Flannel Wool | 1 6 — | 1 8 |
| | | | Blanket ditto | — | |

COLONIAL WOOL SALES.—The July—August series, which will comprise nearly 102,000 bales, commenced on the 16th, and (as might be expected from the quantity to be offered) realised the full rates of the last series. It is however expected that as the sales progress higher prices will be obtained.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, July 20.

We have a large supply of Beasts, and consequently a slow trade. The choicest descriptions, however, are sold about the same as on Thursday last. Inferior kinds met with a dull sale at rather lower rates, and some remain unsold. Sheep and Lambs are not quite so plentiful as on Monday last, yet the number is large. Trade is rather more active at a slight advance on that day's quotations. There is no alteration in the Calf trade. From Germany and Holland there are 1820 Beasts, 9530 Sheep, and 319 Calves, from France 33 Calves; from Scotland, 100 Beasts; from Ireland, 100 Beasts and 400 Lambs; from Norfolk and Suffolk, 100 Beasts; and 2300 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d | s d | | s d | s d |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 8 to | 4 10 | Best Long-wools | — | |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — | 4 8 | Do. Shorn | 4 6 — | 4 10 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — | 3 10 | Ewes & 2d quality | — | |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | — | | Do. Shorn | 4 2 — | 4 4 |
| Do. Shorn | 5 0 — | 5 2 | Lambs | 5 8 — | 6 4 |
| | | | Calves | 3 0 — | 4 6 |
| | | | Pigs | 3 0 — | 4 0 |

Beasts, 4930; Sheep & Lambs, 30,110; Calves, 402; Pigs, 370.

THURSDAY, July 23.

The number of Beasts is large and the trade dull. Monday's quotations are realised for choice qualities; but several inferior ones remain unsold. We are not quite so largely supplied with Sheep and Lambs as of late. Trade is consequently rather more active, but prices cannot be quoted higher on the average. Good Calves are in demand. Our foreign supply consists of 600 Beasts, 2790 Sheep, and 540 Calves; Milch Cows, 75.

| | s d | s d | | s d | s d |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 8 to | 4 10 | Best Long-wools | — | |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — | 4 8 | Do. Shorn | 4 6 — | 4 10 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — | 3 8 | Ewes & 2d quality | — | |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | — | | Do. Shorn | 4 2 — | 4 4 |
| Do. Shorn | 5 0 — | 5 2 | Lambs | 5 4 — | 6 4 |
| | | | Calves | 3 10 — | 5 0 |
| | | | Pigs | 3 6 — | 4 0 |

Beasts, 1845; Sheep & Lambs, 11,580; Calves, 713; Pigs, 190.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, July 20.

With the exception of a slight shower or two on Saturday, the weather since Friday has been fine. The supply of English Wheat to this morning's market was very small, and sold readily at the prices of this day se'nnight. For foreign there was a fair consumptive demand, at about late rates. Barley, Beans, and Peas were unaltered in value. The Oat trade was quiet; prices unaltered. In Flour there was very little doing.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 46—56 | Red ..... | 42—50 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 47—54 | Red ..... | 42—52 |
| — — Talavera ..... | 48—60 | | |
| — Norfolk ..... | — | Red ..... | — |
| — Foreign ..... | 35—62 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dis. ,23s to 30s .. Chev. | 34—38 | Malting .. | 31—34 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk ..... | 21—24 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—2- | Feed ..... | 21—23 |
| — Irish ..... Potato | — | Feed ..... | — |
| — Foreign ..... Poland and Brew | 18—22 | Feed ..... | 17—22 |
| RYE ..... | 35—37 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign ..... | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan .... 32s to 33s .. Tick | 32—34 | Harrow .. | 32—34 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ..... Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 32—34 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 35—37 | Suffolk .. | 37—40 |
| — Maple .... 42s to 43s .... Grey | 36—37 | Foreign .. | 30—38 |
| MAIZE ..... White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marked delivered .. per sack | 42— | | |
| — 2d do ..... ditto | 32—47 | Country .. | 32—47 |
| — Foreign ..... per barrel | 20—28 | Per sack | 34—48 |

FRIDAY, July 24.

During the past week we have had some change in the weather, the temperature was lower than of late. So far the rain has done much good to the roots and vegetables, but we hear of a few cases where grain crops have been beaten down. Our country markets have shown more firmness, and in some of them a small advance on Wheat prices has been established, but upon the whole the trade has not been very active. Spring corn remains unaltered in value, Oats being a slow sale. Flour is neglected, and only the best sweet parcels command fully late rates. Paris, July 23. Business in Wheat and Flour is very limited, buyers holding off till the results of the harvest are known better. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 7770 cwts.; the six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 37s. 9d. per 280 lbs. Old Wheat declined about 9d. per 280 lbs.; a few new samples have been sold at prices equal to 48s. to 49s. 6d. per 480 lbs. The arrivals of English and Foreign Grain during the week have been small, but fair of American Flour. There was a moderate attendance at this morning's market, and English Wheat was inquired for at the extreme prices of Monday. For Foreign there was also a fair consumptive demand at the quotations of that day. Spring Corn of all descriptions met a good inquiry at full rates.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 670 qrs. | — qrs. | 110 qrs. | 290 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 850 | — ,, |
| Foreign .. | 10,990 ,, | 1640 | 7110 ,, | 110 ,, 13,040 brls |

LIVERPOOL, July 21.—We have had a fair attendance of millers and dealers at our Corn Exchange to-day, and Wheat has met a good consumptive inquiry at the extreme rates current on Friday last. Flour attracted more attention at previous prices. Indian Corn was offered sparingly, and holders endeavoured to make an advance of 3d per quarter, which was not complied with, and only a small business resulted. Oats and Oatmeal steady. Beans are held for an improvement of 3d. per qr. Peas and Barley maintain late rates. The market closed steady, but not so brisk as it opened.

FRIDAY, July 24.—Wheat in good consumptive demand at 1d. per cental advance. Flour: good sweet barrels scarce, and bring 6d. per barrel more money. Indian Corn steady demand. Egyptian Beans rather dearer. Oats and Oatmeal unchanged. Egyptian Wheat firm.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| June 13 .. | 46s 11d | 32s 4d | 22s 10d | 34s 10d | 39s 8d | 36s 11d |
| — 20 | 46 9 | 30 7 | 23 0 | 31 8 | 40 4 | 37 10 |
| — 27 | 46 5 | 31 2 | 22 10 | 35 9 | 39 8 | 36 2 |
| July 4 | 46 11 | 30 9 | 23 11 | 32 2 | 39 6 | 38 0 |
| — 11 | 46 10 | 30 10 | 23 6 | 34 5 | 40 2 | 39 0 |
| — 18 | 46 7 | 28 10 | 22 6 | 32 9 | 40 0 | 37 1 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 9 | 30 9 | 23 1 | 33 10 | 39 11 | 37 6 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

HOPS.—BOROUGH MARKET, FRIDAY, July 24.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report a fair trade doing in the better descriptions of both English and foreign Hops at firm rates. The accounts from part of Weald of Kent and Sussex come rather more favourable, but the badly blighted districts are past recovery. Mould continues to spread in part of Mid and East Kent.

NEWGATE.—July 24.

Best Fresh Butter .. .. 18s. per dozen lbs.
Second do. do. .. .. 11s. "
Pork, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d. per 8 lbs.

COAL MARKET.—July 22.

Bates's West Hartley, 14s.; Davison's West Hartley, 15s.; Tanfield Moor, 13s.; Tanfield Moor Butes, 13s.; Walls End Gosforth, 15s. 9d.; Eden Main, 16s. 3d.; Walls End Haswell, 18s.; Walls End Hetton, 18s. 0d; Walls End Russel's Hetton, 16s. 9d.; Walls End South Hetton, 17s. 9d.; Walls End Stewarts, 17s. 3d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 16s. 3d.; Walls End Kelloe, 16s. 3d.; Walls End East Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 16s.; Walls End South Kelloe, 16s. 3d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 19s. 6d.—48 ships at market.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

WANTED, an experienced GARDENER and his WIFE. The former must understand the Management of a Horse and Cow if required. The latter to undertake the Laundry. Wages 20s., with house and coal.—Apply to J. GLYNNE BATESON, New Brighton, or Tithebarn Street, Liverpool.

WANTED, a steady, honest, active, and industrious YOUNG MAN, to take charge of the Plants in the Greenhouses and Frames under the direction of the Foreman.—Address, stating age, capabilities, wages, &c., to T. G., Post Office, Coventry.

WANTED, an UNDER GARDENER.—For particulars, apply to JOHN PEARSON, Worksop Manor Gardens, Notts.

WANTED, a SHOPMAN.—A Young Man who has a good general knowledge of Plants and Seeds, and is a good Salesman.—Address, stating salary and experience, A. B., Barr & Sugden, 12, King Street, Covent Garden, W.C.

WANTED, a YOUNG MAN to attend to Poultry and Milk four Cows, and fill up his time in the Garden. Good character. Wages 14s. per week.—Mr. SEWELL, Isleworth House Gardens, Isleworth, W.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD), married.—A gentleman will highly recommend his late Gardener.—A. B., Mr. Crosswell's, Builder, Durley, near Southampton, Hants.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 38, married; understands his profession in all its branches.—GEORGE MITCHELL, Plas Power, Wexham, Denbighshire.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Thoroughly understands his profession. Six years' good character from the gentleman he is now leaving.—T. B., 7, Princes Terrace, South Kensington, W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 28, married; understands Pines, Vines, Melons, Cucumbers, &c. Three and a half years' good character.—A. B. C., 117, Manor Street, Clapham, Surrey, S.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30, single; understands Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens, and Greenhouses; also Early and Late Forcing. Excellent character.—A. B., Mr. Woolards, Coal Merchant, Lewisham, Kent, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 28, married; well experienced in Early and Late Forcing, Plant Growing, and Flower and Kitchen Gardening. Satisfactory references can be given.—Y. Z., The Gardens, Berkeley Castle, Gloucester.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands the Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Forcing of all kinds of Fruit, Vegetables, &c. Can have a good character from the place he is leaving.—J. G., Marble Hill, Twickenham, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33, single; a first-class Specimen Plant and Fruit Grower, and good general Gardener. Can be highly recommended by several of the leading Horticulturists of the day.—W. HOWARD, Messrs. W. Rollisson & Son, Tooting, London, S.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 36, married; has had 20 years practice in several noblemen's gardens in Scotland and England. Experienced in Meadow Land, Plantations, &c. Three years' character from late employer.—A. B., 28, Eleanor Road, Waltham Cross, N.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 26, married; has a thorough practical knowledge of Gardening in all its branches; also Meadow Land, Stock, &c. Three years' good character.—E. C., 2, Woodbury Terrace, London Road, Tunbridge Wells.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 27, single; has a practical knowledge of the Management of Stove and Greenhouse Plants, and Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens. Good character from present situation.—A. B., Post Office, Totteridge, Herts.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33; a truly honest, steady, and industrious man, capable of taking charge of a Garden, with Vineries, Peach-house, Hothouse, Conservatory, &c. Highly recommended.—W. SEAGRAVE, 10, Violet Hill, St. John's Wood, London N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 32, married, one child; understands Vines, Pines, Stove, and Greenhouse Plants; Forcing, Peach House, Melons, Cucumbers, Flower and Kitchen Gardens, &c. Unexceptionable character from present and previous employers.—B. G., No. 7, Edward's Place, Newington Road, Ball's Pond, Islington, N.

GARDENER (HEAD or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 39, married, no incumbrance; capable of Managing a Vinery, Greenhouse, Flower and Kitchen Garden. Five years' character.—T. M., The Lodge, Daventry, Northamptonshire.

GARDENER.—Married, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands Stove and Greenhouse Plants, and Forcing Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables. Unexceptionable reference can be given.—ROBT. GIBBS, Messrs. Youell & Co., Royal Nurseries, Great Yarmouth.

GARDENER (age 27, single).—JAMES FLETCHER understands the general routine of Gardening, and care of Houses. Has been living in his present situation as second Gardener 14 years.—Robert F. Darby, Nurseryman, Cirencester.

GARDENER.—Married, no incumbrance; experienced in Forcing, and Flower and Kitchen Gardens. No single-handed place accepted. Four and a half years' good character. Wife can look after Poultry if required.—Post Office, Hanworth, Middlesex.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER.—Age 45, married; perfectly understands his profession, having had many years' experience. Leaving his present situation on account of the establishment being broken up. Wife a good Laundress, or would take charge of Dairy and Poultry. Good character.—S. T., Post Office, Croydon, Surrey.

GARDENER (age 30).—A nobleman's Gardener, in one of the Midland Counties, would be glad to recommend his Foreman to any lady or gentleman in want of a thoroughly good practical Gardener, well acquainted with the Cultivation of Fruits and Plants, and the general routine of Gardening. Two and a half years in present situation. Any inquiry as to ability, honesty, and sobriety will be satisfactorily answered.—W. C., Post Office, Great Heywood, Stafford.

GARDENER (SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 30, married, no incumbrance; understands Vinery, Greenhouse, Kitchen and Flower Gardens. Wife can Manage Dairy or Poultry if required.—W. W., 40, Daniel's Road, Nunhead Cemetery, S.E.

GARDENER (WORKING).—Age 35, married; good practical knowledge of Gardening in all its branches. Well recommended.—J. H., Post Office, South Norwood, S.

GARDENER (SECOND, where more than two are kept).—Age 21; good reference.—A. C., Mr. Lee, Westerham, Kent.

GARDENER and BAILIFF (HEAD).—Age 37, married; thoroughly understands the Management of Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Orchard Houses, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Kitchen and Flower Gardens; also the Management of Land and Stock, Keeping Accounts, &c. Wife can Manage the Dairy. Eight years' good character.—W. B., East End House, Parson's Green, Fulham, S.W.

PROPAGATOR, FOREMAN, &c.—Age 35, married; a first class man in Conifers, Rhododendrons, Roses, Ornamental Trees, Shrubs, and plants in general. Good reference.—ALPHA, Post Office, Tunbridge Wells, Kent.

To Nurserymen.

PROPAGATOR.—Age 24, single; thoroughly understands the Propagation of Roses, Rhododendrons, Coniferæ, &c. Has had first class experience. Good reference.—C. D., Post Office, Maresfield, near Uckfield, Sussex.

FACTOR, or LAND STEWARD.—A young Scotch Farmer, who has had 20 years practical experience of Farming in all its departments in the east and west of Scotland. Unexceptionable references can be given as to character and ability.—Messrs. ALEX. CROSS & SONS, Seed Merchants, Argyll Street, Glasgow.

BAILIFF.—Age 38, married, no incumbrance; well understands his business. Wife as Cook and Housekeeper, or take charge of a Dairy, &c. Good references.—A. B., Post Office, Kingswinford, Dudley.

FARM BAILIFF, at Michaelmas next.—Age 44, married, no young family; a Norfolk Man, but of late years employed in the Midland Counties on a Farm comprising upwards of 1000 Acres Arable, besides Grass, under a practical Agriculturist, to whom he would be glad to refer any nobleman or gentleman for character and ability in all branches of Agriculture, the Management of Stock, &c. Cause of leaving, Farm Let.—BAILIFF, Rectory Farm, near Chipping Norton, Oxon.

FARM BAILIFF (WORKING).—Age 32, married.—J. C., Walton Lane, Bicester, Oxon.

FARM BAILIFF (WORKING).—Age 35, married; well understands Stock Management, and has been accustomed to Clay and Light Lands. Wife a good Dairywoman. Unexceptionable testimonials.—A. H., Post Office, Llanwarn, near Ross, Herefordshire.

CLERK or TRAVELLER.—Age 24; has been six years in a London Wholesale House.—A. B. C., 14, Great Turnstile, London, W.C.

Universal Microscope. Price £5 5s.

SMITH, BECK, AND BECK, 31, Cornhill, E.C.; late 6, Coleman Street.
. Catalogues sent on receipt of 6 postage stamps.

Odours of Plants.

PIESSE AND LUBIN extract the PERFUME from every fragrant Flower by the process of "Enfleurage," which being conducted while the plant is yet alive, the odours obtained are retained in their true and natural fragrance. Jasmin, Violet, Acacia (Farnesiana), Tuberose, Jonquil, Orange, Mignonette, and several others. Sold in Bottles, 2s. 6d. each.
Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond Street.

Manufacturers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

FRY'S | HOMŒOPATHIC ICELAND MOSS PEARL | COCOA.

FRY'S SOLUBLE CHOCOLATE.
J. S. FRY & SONS were the only English Manufacturers of Cocoa who obtained the Prize Medal, 1862.

CAPTAIN WHITE'S ORIENTAL PICKLE, CURRY or MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, Curry Powder, and Curry Sauce, may be obtained from all Sauce Vendors, and Wholesale of CROSSE & BLACKWELL, Purveyors to the Queen, Soho Square, London, W.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE,
Pronounced by Connoisseurs
"THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
See Name on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper, and to avoid Counterfeits
ASK FOR LEA AND PERRINS' SAUCE.
. Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL; Messrs. BARCLAY & SONS, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

TO BE SOLD, one of SHANK'S PATENT LAWN ROLLER and MOWING MACHINE, 22 inches, nearly new and in good working order, for 4 guineas, cost 8l. 1s. On view at SEWARD's Ironmongery Warehouse, Brixton Hill, S.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.
CHUBB'S FIRE PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS
CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.
Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.
CHUBB & SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

CHANDELIERS in Bronze and Ormolu for DINING ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Vases and other Ornaments.
OSLER, 45, Oxford Street, London, W.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, Wall Lights and Lustres for Gas and Candles, Table Glass, &c.
Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from 7l. 15s.
Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from 2l.
All articles marked in plain figures.
Ornamental Glass, English and Foreign, suitable for Presents.
Mess, Export, and Furnishing Orders promptly executed.
London—Show Rooms, 45, Oxford Street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Show Rooms, Broad Street.
Established 1807.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS.—PRIZE MEDAL awarded to THRESHER & GLENNY for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.
Lists of Prices on application to THRESHER & GLENNY, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, AND CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. METCALFE's celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2s. per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2s., 3s. 6d., and 5s. each. 130 B, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

Glenfield Patent Starch.

MESSRS. WOTHERSPOON AND CO. have been appointed STARCH PURVEYORS to H. R. H. the PRINCESS of WALES. This Starch is used in the Royal Laundry and was awarded a Prize Medal. Sold by all Grocers, Chandlers, &c.
WOTHERSPOON & Co., Glasgow and London.

TURKISH BATHS, Victoria Street.—This magnificent establishment, accommodating 800 daily, is NOW OPEN, Sundays excepted. Public and Private Baths for Ladies and Gentlemen, price from 1s. 6d. upwards.—N. B. Baths for Horses. ORIENTAL BATH COMPANY of LONDON (Limited), Victoria Street, near the Station, Westminster.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by
DINNEFORD & Co., 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

KEATING'S PERSIAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.—Fleas in Dogs, Poultry, &c., are instantly destroyed, as also Bugs, Beetles, and every other Insect, by this Powder, which is perfectly harmless to animal life; Sportsmen particularly will therefore find it invaluable.
Sold in Packets, 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for 14, or treble size for 36 postage stamps, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C. Take notice each genuine packet bears the above name and address.
For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to PRICE's. Most medical men prescribe "PRICE's Glycerine" where purity is of importance.
Patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8, 4, or 2 oz. bottles, with capsules over the stoppers marked—
"PRICE's Patent," Belmont, Vauxhall.

TWO or Three of PARR'S LIFE PILLS may be taken by young or old, at any time, place, or season, with a certainty of a beneficial result. They may be used with confidence in all cases of sick headache, indigestion, bilious, liver, and stomach complaints, habitual costiveness, nervous affections, &c. In most cases the sensation of illness vanishes after two or three pills have been taken.
May be obtained of any Medicine Vendor, in boxes 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and family packets 11s. each.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by DU BARRY's health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure No. 62,914. Miss Lange, age 18 years, Liège in Belgium; cured after the medical men had abandoned all hopes of her recovery from the last stage of pulmonary consumption, with fearful cough, expectoration, exhaustion, spitting of blood, perspirations, hollow cheeks, emaciated to a skeleton. She is now, thank God, a perfectly healthy, blooming, fleshy girl.—N. LANGE, Commissaire de Police.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2s. 9d.; 2 lb., 4s. 6d.; 5 lb., 11s; 12 lb., 22s.; 24 lb., 40s.
BARRY DU BARRY & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

Seventh Edition, 10th Thousand, price 2s. 6d.; free by post, 32 Stamps,

DISEASES of the SKIN; a Guide to their Treatment and Prevention, illustrated by Cases. By THOMAS HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square.
"Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.
London: T. RICHARDS, 37, Great Queen Street.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 1863.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION for the ADVANCEMENT of SCIENCE.
The Next Meeting will be held at NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE, commencing on WEDNESDAY, August 26, under the Presidency of Sir W. G. Armstrong, F.R.S.
Notices of Communications intended to be read to the Association, accompanied by a statement whether or not the Author will be present at the Meeting, may be addressed to G. Griffith, M.A., Assistant-General Secretary, Newcastle-upon-Tyne; or to Captain Noble; Augustus H. Hunt, Esq., R. C. Clapham, Esq., Local Secretaries, 5, Grey Street, Newcastle-upon-Tyne
William Spottiswoode, M.A., F.R.S., General Treasurer.
19, Chester Street, Belgrave Square, London, S.W.

NORWICH UNION FIRE INSURANCE SOCIETY.
The Business of the Company exceeds 70,000,000*l.*
The Duty paid to Government for the year 1862 was 85,062*l.*, and the amount insured on farming stock, 10,086,332*l.*
A Bonus of three-fifths of the profits periodically made to parties insuring, who have thus, from time to time, received sums amounting in the aggregate to 440,000*l.*; and the Society now holds a LARGE RESERVE applicable to a future Bonus.
The Rates of Premium are in no case higher than those charged by the other principal Offices making no returns to their insurers.
For Prospectusus apply at the Society's Offices, Surrey Street, Norwich; and 6, Crescent, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.

LOANS.—THE BRITISH MUTUAL INVESTMENT, LOAN, and DISCOUNT COMPANY (Limited), is prepared to GRANT LOANS, in sums not exceeding 1000*l.*, upon approved personal or other security, repayable by easy instalments, extending over any period not exceeding 10 years.
Forms of Proposal, Prospectuses, and every other information, may be obtained at the Offices of the Company, 17 and 18, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.
Charles James Thicke, Manager.
Joseph K. Jackson, Secretary.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.
CHUBB'S FIRE PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS.
CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.
Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.
Chubb & Son, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'
WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.—This delicious Condiment, pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE,"
Is prepared solely by Lea & Perrins.
The public are respectfully cautioned against worthless imitations, and should see that Lea & Perrins' Names are on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.
Ask for Lea and Perrins' Sauce.
 Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. Crosse & Blackwell; Messrs. Barclay & Sons, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, and CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. Metcalfe's celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2*s.* per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2*s.*, 3*s.* 6*d.*, and 5*s.* each. 130 b, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by
Dinneford & Co, 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

KEATING'S PERSIAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.—Fleas in Dogs, Poultry, &c., are instantly destroyed, as also Bugs, Beetles, and every other Insect, by this Powder, which is perfectly harmless to animal life; Sportsmen particularly will therefore find it invaluable.
Sold in Packets, 1*s.*, 2*s.* 6*d.*, and 4*s.* 6*d.* each, or post free for 14, or treble size for 36 postage stamps, by Thomas Keating, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C. Take notice, each genuine packet bears the above name and address.
For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to Price's. Most medical men prescribe "Price's Glycerine" where purity is of importance.
Patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8, 4, or 2 oz. bottles, with capsules over the stoppers marked—
"Price's Patent," Belmont, Vauxhall.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by Du Barry's health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure No. 62,914. Miss Lange, age 18 years, Liège in Belgium; cured after the medical men had abandoned all hopes of her recovery from the last stage of pulmonary consumption, with fearful cough, expectoration, exhaustion, spitting of blood, perspirations, hollow cheeks, emaciated to a skeleton. She is now, thank God, a perfectly healthy, blooming, fleshy girl.—N. Lange, Commissaire de Police.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2*s.* 9*d.*; 2 lb., 4*s.* 6*d.*; 5 lb., 11*s*; 12 lb., 22*s.*; 24 lb., 40*s.*
Barry du Barry & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

Universal Microscope. Price £5 5s.
SMITH, BECK, and BECK, 31, Cornhill, E.C.; late 6, Coleman Street.
 Catalogues sent on receipt of 6 postage stamps.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS.—Prize Medal awarded to Thresher & Glenny for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.
Lists of Prices on application to Thresher & Glenny, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

Parliament was prorogued on Tuesday by Commission. The Queen's Speech commenced with an expression of regret at the condition of Poland, and stated that Her Majesty, in concert with France and Austria, has been engaged in negotiating with Russia in favour of the Poles on the basis of the Treaty of Vienna. The Speech then stated that the civil war in America is still injurious both to America and to us, but Her Majesty has seen no reason to depart from the strict neutrality she has observed from the beginning of the contest. It next referred to the proposed cession of the Ionian Islands to Greece, and to the state of our relations with Japan and the Brazils, expressing a hope that the Japanese Government will concede our demands without the necessity of coercive measures, and that friendly communications may soon be re-established with that of the Brazils. In regard to domestic topics, the Speech acknowledged the supplies voted for the fortification of the dockyards and the establishment of the Prince of Wales, and noticed with satisfaction the decrease of the distress in Lancashire and the measures taken for its further alleviation. The outbreak in New Zealand was next noticed with a promise of conciliatory but vigorous measures for the maintenance of order in that colony. The Speech then mentioned briefly the Bills for the sale of Benefices, for the expurgation of the Statutes, and for defining the position of the Volunteers. It noticed with satisfaction the Treaty with the United States for the suppression of the Slave Trade, and concluded by congratulating Parliament on the improved state of trade and finance, notwithstanding the great injuries inflicted upon both by the disturbances in America, and on the wonderful and gratifying progress of our great Indian Empire. The Lord Chancellor then declared Parliament to be prorogued to Wednesday, the 14th of October.

The business in both Houses for the few days previous to the Prorogation was for the most part of a routine character, though there were incidentally some brief discussions on topics of public interest. In the Lords on Friday the Marquis of Clanricarde called attention to the state of Poland. Earl Russell explained his views in regard to the question of non-intervention, and said that Austria had refused to negotiate separately with Russia, and had signified her adherence to the policy of France and England. On Monday Lord Stratford de Redcliffe called attention to the proposed guarantee of the Ionian Islands when transferred to Greece, and expressed a strong opinion that the Government had acted unwisely in ceding the islands to Greece. Earl Russell said that the cession of the Islands met the general approval of the people of this country, and that there was no longer any opposition to the measure on the part of either Austria or Turkey. The Earl of Derby considered that the proposed cession was one of the most gratuitous weakenings of this country he ever remembered. Lord Redesdale called attention to the minute of the Committee of Council on Education of the 19th of May, the effect of which was to reduce the grant to endowed schools by the amount of the annual endowment which such schools received. The Earl of Derby believed that if the minute were carried out it would be impossible for many of the schools to receive the slightest benefit from these parliamentary grants. The Duke of Somerset defended the minute, and denied that it would have the effect attributed to it.

In the Commons on Friday, Mr. Kinglake called attention to the Russian note, and Lord Palmerston announced the determination of her Majesty's Government to act in concert with France and Austria on the Polish question. On Monday, in answer to Lord E. Bruce, Mr. C. Fortescue said that the order of St. Michael and St. George would not be transferred with the Ionian Islands to the Kingdom of Greece, but Her Majesty would retain the sole power of conferring the order on such persons as she might think proper. On Tuesday Lord Palmerston said that the treaty ceding the Ionian Islands would receive the sanction of the Powers who were parties to that which fixed the limits of Greece, and though various agencies were at work to prevent the arrival of Prince William of Denmark as King of Greece, he felt convinced that his presence would restore tranquillity to that country.

The news from the United States announces an unexampled succession of reverses to the Confederates. General Lee has recrossed the Potomac into Virginia with his whole army, and is supposed to be retreating upon Richmond. The fall of Vicksburg has been followed by the surrender of Port Hudson. The Federals have recommenced their attack on Charleston, and General Bragg is said to be retreating before General Rosencranz in Georgia. On the other hand the Conscription has led to such alarming riots in New York, and has been attended by so much loss of life and destruction of property, that Governor Seymour and the State authorities have declared the draught to be unconstitutional, and have called upon President Lincoln to abandon it. The latest news announces that the President has rejected this appeal, and has ordered the draught to be carried out by military force. The Federal authority has thus been brought into direct collision with that of the State, and crowds of people are leaving New York with their families in anticipation of a more serious outbreak, which may possibly inaugurate a revolution.

Home News.

The Court.—The Queen and Royal family continue at Osborne. On Friday morning the Princess Leiningen gave birth to a Princess at Osborne, and, with the infant, is doing perfectly well. Her Majesty was with her niece at the time, and during the greater part of the night. On Saturday afternoon her Majesty, accompanied by the Princess of Wales and Princess Helena, drove out in an open carriage and four. Princess Helena, Princess Louise, and Princess Beatrice, went to Freshwater. The Right Hon. Sir George Grey arrived at Osborne, and had an interview with her Majesty. On Sunday morning the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Helena, Princess Louise, and Prince Leopold, attended Divine Service at Osborne. The Rev. Dr. Stanley officiated. On Monday the Queen held a Privy Council, which was attended by Lord Palmerston, Earl Granville, and Sir George Grey. At the Council, the Royal Speech for the prorogation of Parliament was approved by Her Majesty. In the afternoon the Ministers returned to London. The Queen, Princess Helena, and Princess Beatrice drove out. On Tuesday the Queen drove out accompanied by Princess Helena and Princess Leiningen. The Prince and Princess of Wales cruised in Lord Alfred Paget's yacht, and sailed to the Needles. On Wednesday the Queen and Princess of Wales drove out. Earl Russell arrived at Osborne and had an audience of Her Majesty.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are expected to leave London for Halifax on Monday morning by the ten o'clock train, to which a state carriage will be attached. This train always travels at express speed, and will reach Halifax at 3.49. Their Royal Highnesses will be received on their arrival by the mayor and corporation, and will be the guests of the mayor during the night.

Prince Arthur in Wales.—His Royal Highness arrived in Dolgelly on Saturday evening the 25th ult. On Sunday he attended divine service in the morning at the village church of Llanellyd, two miles on the Barmouth Road, and in the afternoon in Dolgelly church. On Monday his Royal Highness ascended Cader Idris. On Tuesday the Prince visited the Cambrian and Clogau gold mines, the town of Barmouth, the Precipice Walk, and Nannau Park. On Wednesday his Royal Highness inspected the Cader Idris Volunteers. After the inspection the principal residents were presented to his Royal Highness by the High Sheriff. The Prince then took his departure from Dolgelly for Bala and Beddgelert, visiting Bryncoed-for church in his way. It was expected that his Royal Highness would make the ascent of Snowdon on Thursday.

THE CABINET.—A Cabinet Council was held on Saturday at the official residence of the First Lord of the Treasury in Downing Street. Another Council was held on Tuesday, and another yesterday.

NEW PEERAGE.—Mr. Monckton Milnes has been raised to the House of Lords by the title of Baron Houghton of Houghton—an estate long possessed by his family.

PARLIAMENTARY MOVEMENTS.—The elevation of Mr. Milnes to the peerage has caused a vacancy in the representation of Pontefract. There are two candidates in the field, Major Waterhouse in the Conservative, and Sir Edmund Head in the Ministerial interest. There is a vacancy in the Montgomery Borough caused by the death of Capt. Johnson. Mr. Pugh, son of Mr. David Pugh, a former member, is a candidate for the vacant seat.

THE ARMY.—The Colonelcy of the 71st Foot, vacant by the death of Sir Thomas E. Napier, has been conferred on Lieut.-General the Hon. Charles Grey. The Colonelcy of the 3d Foot, vacated by this promotion, has been conferred on Lieut.-General Wharton Frith. The Colonelcy of the 2d West India Regiment, vacated by Gen. Frith's promotion, has been conferred on Major-General Botel Trydell.

THE VOLUNTEERS.—The Queen has appointed his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., to be Captain-General and Colonel of the Hon. Artillery Company of London.

THE CHANNEL FLEET remained at Sunderland until Tuesday morning, when it sailed for the Firth of Forth. On Wednesday afternoon it entered the Firth in two divisions, and anchored a mile to the west of Inchkeith, and about three miles from Leith harbour. It will remain for about a week in Leith Roads, and is expected to visit the Mersey before completing its cruise.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—It is reported that the Moniteur will shortly publish a note on the actual state of the negotiations with Russia. A pamphlet was published on Thursday by the Government publisher, in which it intimated that unless Russia comes to a prompt and amicable settlement in the full spirit as well as letter of the six points, the question must be left to the decision of arms and the chances of war. The Constitutionnel of yesterday publishes an article, signed by M. de Limayrac, dwelling energetically upon the insufficiency of the Russian reply. La France publishes an article on the necessity of the Three Powers acting together in the Polish question, and believes itself able to state that the draught of the French Note has produced a good impression upon the Cabinet of London, because it does not present the character of an ultimatum. The writer says:—

> "England is hesitating between three courses. 1. The despatch of separate notes with identical conclusions. 2. The despatch of identical Notes. 3. The despatch of a collective Note. Earl Russell would prefer the retraction of some expression he considers too bitter in the French draught. The French Cabinet wishes for the despatch of a collective Note, which Austria should be requested to present."

The same journal states that the Cabinet of Berlin has proposed the discussion of the six points by the five great Powers, and says that the latest intelligence from St. Petersburg gives rise to the idea that Russia is disposed to show herself more conciliatory. The Pays says that the maintenance of unalterable agreement between the three Powers is the safety and strength of Europe and a warning to Russia, and that henceforth every one should know that France, England, and Austria will remain united in the Polish question, whatever steps may be taken to arrive at a satisfactory solution. The Patrie also states that the most perfect accord continues to exist between the respective views of the three Powers. The squadron of ironcoated ships of war which is assembling at Cherbourg is composed of the spur ships of the line, Solferino and Magenta, the frigates Normandie, Couronne, Invincible, and Gloire. It is again repeated that the Emperor will be present at the experiments and manœuvres which are to be made on a grand scale with these ships, of a different construction from any which have yet appeared at sea. Prince Napoleon is about to leave Paris for a tour in Switzerland. The Empress has returned to St. Cloud.

SPAIN.—It is officially stated that the Spanish Government has taken no diplomatic steps in reference to the recognition of the Southern States of North America. Spain will await the course of events.

PORTUGAL.—The Ministry have sent to Rome a solemn protest against the conduct of the Pope in forwarding to the Archbishop of Goa an apostolic letter freeing the clergy of Bombay of censure. The health of the Cardinal Patriarch of Lisbon is in a critical state. The recent heat has developed the vine disease to a great extent.

BELGIUM.—The treaty for the redemption of the Scheldt dues was signed at Brussels on the 16th ult. The King of the Belgians was present on the 21st ult. at a solemn performance of the Te Deum in the church of St. Gudule, to celebrate the anniversary of his accession to the Throne. His Majesty was loudly cheered.

HOLLAND.—An attempt was made a few days since to murder the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Utrecht, Monsigneur Zwysen, while he was asleep in bed. The assassin fired a pistol at him, and the ball, after grazing the prelate's right arm, entered the abdomen and penetrated to the liver. It is feared that the wound will prove fatal. Report says that the crime was committed by a student of the ecclesiastical seminary of Haaren.

DENMARK AND SWEDEN.—At the recent interview of the King of Sweden with the King of Denmark the Danish President of the Council was the only other person present. After the interview of the Sovereigns the President had a conference of an hour and a half with the King of Sweden.

THE DANISH DUCHIES.—At the sitting of the Schleswig Diet, on Thursday, three new deputies only appeared in place of the German members who recently resigned. The Danish minority protested against the consequences which might result from the resignation. The Danish Royal Commissioner read a declaration of the Ministry declaring the Diet closed, on account of the necessary number of Deputies not having attended. In the evening the loyal inhabitants of Flensburg, headed by a band of music, made a demonstration in honour of the Royal Commissioner and the loyal Deputies, who were warmly cheered.

AUSTRIA.—The Emperor left Vienna on the 28th ult. for Ratisbon, to escort the Empress home. The Prussian papers mention a report that the Emperor of Austria will visit the King of Prussia at Gastein early in August. The sudden departure of M. Balabine, the Russian Minister, has created a great sensation at Vienna. It appears that he was recalled to St. Petersburg as soon as the Austrian reply was received by the Russian Cabinet. Letters received at Vienna from St. Petersburg, state that Russia, recognising the serious nature of the danger, is inclined to yield. The official Wiener Zeitung denies the statement that Prussia has endeavoured to detach Austria from common diplomatic action with the Western Powers. In the sitting of the Lower House of the Reichsrath on Friday the Committee on the petition of Langiewicz to be released from imprisonment presented their report, urgently recommending the Government to take the petition into consideration.

TRANSYLVANIA.—The solemn opening of the Transylvanian Diet took place on the 16th ult. The Imperial rescript declaring the union of Hungary with Transylvania null and void, and confirming the new constitution of Transylvania as suited to present circumstances, was most favourably received by the members. The Diet resolved upon sending an address of thanks to the Emperor.

HUNGARY.—The French papers announce the arrest in Hungary of three Russian emissaries, who were endeavouring to foment disturbances.

PRUSSIA.—The Neue Preussische (Kreuz) Zeitung publishes a leader, stating that it is urgently important for the policy of Prussia to seek a better understanding with Austria, and especially with England. It says that Russia alone is neither an entirely sufficient nor a reliable ally, and inquires whether the present representative of Prussia in London is adequate to the emergency. The Civic authorities of Berlin have determined to send no deputation to the funeral of Prince Frederick, although they had been invited to attend by the marshal of the Court.

RUSSIA.—The Invalide Russe states that the Czar has ordered reinforcements to be sent to the companies of Artillery stationed at Kertch, Nicolaieff, Dunamunde, Wiborg, and Sweaborg. All the companies of Artillery in the fortresses of Poland have been placed on a war footing. The number of workmen employed on the fortifications of Cronstadt has been increased from 15,000 to 18,000. The Government has made considerable purchases of provisions of all kinds, and has already prohibited the exportation of corn, flour, and cattle. The papers are filled with accounts of the defensive preparations in progress in Finland. The Commander-in-Chief in that province, Baron Wrangel, is making constant journeys in the environs of Helsingfors, Tavastehuus, Abo, Gango, and other places, accompanied by the officers belonging to the military council. Gangs of labourers work day and night upon the fortifications of Sweaborg, and works are constituting at Tronsund and in the vicinity of Wiburg.

POLAND.—Accounts from Warsaw state that General Berg has invested Russian military officers with administrative functions, and has ordered the judges and civil assistants in legal examinations to be replaced by military officers. 200 persons were transported on the 20th ult. to the interior of Russia. Further atrocities have been committed in the Palatinate of Kalisz by Colonels Muchanoff and Pomerancoff. The castles of Wionzow, Chorzow, and Rodzeb have been pillaged. The proprietors, Prondzyuski, Zbijewski, and Chrumigowski, and Madame Rogawski were whipped and transported to Warsaw. Colonel Pomerancoff has ordered the peasants to massacre the landed proprietors, promising, in the name of the Emperor, to divide their lands among them. A proclamation of the National Government was published in Warsaw on the 25th ult., announcing the appointment of Citizen Ladislaus Czartoriski as its general diplomatic agent at London and Paris. The proclamation states that the National Government had received sufficient guarantees that his negotiations would be conducted on the basis of the unimpaired rights of a nation fighting for liberty, equality, and independence. The National Government has also opened a loan of 28,000,000 Polish florins (700,000*l.*) to be guaranteed by the national lands belonging to the Crown, and which are to be confiscated. The combined detachments of Rudzki, Jenkowski, and Krysinski gained a complete victory over the Russians, commanded by General Chruszczeff, on the 24th, near Krasnystaw, in the palatinate of Lubin. 700 Russians and 200 Poles were killed. The Russians fled in disorder towards Lublin. The town of Dubna has been occupied by Soltau, with a numerous detachment. On the 18th ult. the Russians stationed in the town of Radzano, in the palatinate of Plock, were attacked and dispersed by a Polish detachment. On the 19th two Russian columns were entirely defeated by Zielinski near Janow, in Podlachia. 200 Russians and 70 Poles were killed. On the same day Taczanowski defeated the Russians at Kurek, near Blasqui. Fresh detachments of insurgents have been organised in the vicinity of Radom. The Russians have been defeated by Dolinowski at Konskie, in the palatinate of Sandomir, and by Rudowski at Przysucha, in the Government of Radom. On the 28th ult. the insurgent leader Chmielinski had a successful engagement with eight companies of Russian troops at Secemin, in the palatinate of Cracow. The Russians suffered a defeat on the 24 ult. near Pionfek. The reinforcements they had demanded from Skierniewice arrived too late to take part in the engagement. The railway has been interrupted in the vicinity of Dzwina. Popular excesses were committed at Lemberg on the 26th against the Jews. Several persons were injured by the stones thrown at them by the populace. Military patrols ultimately succeeded in re-establishing order. Deputy Zimialkowski, Deputy Count Wodzicki, Count Stephen Zamoyski, and M. Sierakowski have been arrested in Lemberg.

ITALY.—The Chamber of Deputies has approved the levy of 55,000 conscripts of the first category, and the armament of the National Guard. It is generally believed in Turin that, in the event of France taking ulterior measures in support of her diplomacy on the Polish question, Italy will not hesitate to combat by her side. The judicial inquiry into the affair of the band of Pilone has terminated. The trial of the persons implicated, who number 113, will shortly come on before the assizes. The Turin journals state that Garibaldi's health is almost completely restored. In the Senate on Wednesday a debate took place on the laws relative to the provisional dispositions for the public safety of Sicily. The Senate approved its clauses. The same Bill was introduced into the Chamber of Deputies, with the request that it should be referred to the Committee on Brigandage, with instructions to report upon it separately. The Chamber granted the request. The squadron of Admiral Provana, consisting of eight frigates and one despatch boat, is about to assemble off Cagliari, and will visit the Sicilian and Neapolitan ports. The French police at Rome have made a search at the residence of the Tuscan Minister. In consequence of his visit the Papal Government has delivered his passports to the representative of the ex-Grand Duke.

GREECE.—King George I. will leave Copenhagen immediately after the question of the Ionian Islands has been arranged. His Majesty will pass through Brussels, London, and Paris. He will stay six days at the latter city, and will embark at Toulon in a steam frigate. He will travel incognito until after his embarcation for Greece. Letters from Athens to the 19th ult., assert that the battalion commanded by Leotzakas, which recently left the capital, has taken possession of the citadel of Nauplia. The same authority states that the Trafalgar, English man-of-war, has left for Nauplia. It is reported that General Leli has been sent by the Grand Duke Michael on a secret mission to Greece.

TURKEY.—The Sultan has returned from a visit to the dockyards in the Sea of Marmora, and ordered a fresh increase of the war fleet. The Porte has prohibited any foreign company from undertaking the postal service upon the seaboard of the Turkish empire. The Government intends to carry out such service itself.

THE PRINCIPALITIES.—Intelligence from Bucharest, to the 27th ult., states that Prince Marcel Czartoryski had arrived there.

INDIA.—Accounts from Bombay to the 24th ult. state that the Viceroy was still at Simla, where with the Governor, he had held a durbar for the hill chiefs, and made a speech in which he assured them of the continued favour of the British Government if they pursued a course of loyalty and good conduct. The Maharajah of Gwalior has visited Lucknow in state. The Bhootias have again come down upon Assam. The belief is universal that it is the Nana Sahib who is instigating them. With their raid is connected a rumour of a new mutiny in the North-West. From the Punjaub we hear that there is every chance of another flood in the Indus similar to that in 1858. The people are leaving their villages in consequence. Intelligence from Cabool to 20th May states that there had been more fighting before Herat. Overland accounts deny the statement that Dost Mahomed was dead, and assert that he was in Herat, of which he had taken possession. Cholera had broken out in the vicinity of Rangoon. Captain Hazen and Surgeon Sparrow, and between 30 and 40 men of the 60th Rifles had fallen victims to the disease. Major Fraser, of the same regiment, had died, but not from cholera.

UNITED STATES.—General Lee has re-crossed the Potomac with his whole army, with the exception of one brigade of 1,500 men, two guns, two caissons, and a number of small arms, which were captured by the Federals. This movement was wholly unexpected, as only two days before he issued an address to his troops, calling upon them to prepare for another desperate encounter with the enemy. The latest news states that he was marching for Culpepper, and was supposed to be retiring upon Richmond. The Tribune says that General Lee has not only carried off the spoils of his Pennsylvania invasion, but that the laurels of the campaign subsequent to his defeat at Gettysburg belong also to him. The action at Gettysburg is at last admitted by the Northern press to have been a drawn battle. The New York Daily News says that it was a bloody affair, but utterly fruitless, except in slaughter and misery. It adds that the Northern army was not annihilated, and its unexpected escape from destruction was looked upon by the Administration as a victory. The army of the Potomac is at Berlin, in Maryland. The correspondence between Generals Grant and Pemberton in relation to the surrender of Vicksburg was published on the 11th, but no official report from General Grant has yet been given to the public. The latest advices from Vicksburg, to the 8th, state that the paroling of the prisoners had been completed; that they numbered 31,277, and that immediately after the surrender General Sherman moved in the direction of the Big Black River, and on the following day fought a battle with General Johnstone, whom he defeated with a loss of 2000 men. This statement needs confirmation, but it seems certain that he is in pursuit of Johnstone. Fort Hudson unconditionally surrendered to the Federals on the 9th ult. General Bragg's army has fallen back from Chattanooga to Atlanta, and General Rosencranz has captured 4000 prisoners during his recent advance. A combined expedition of Federal troops and iron clads under General Gilmour and Admiral Dahlgren, has captured Morris Island in Charleston harbour, except about one mile on the north end, which includes Fort Wagner and a battery on Cumming's Point. On the 11th they attempted to carry Fort Wagner by assault. The parapet was gained, but the supports could not be got up. Another unsuccessful attempt was made on the 12th, and the fort still held out on the 15th, though mining operations had been commenced against it. The Richmond Inquirer says the capture of Vicksburg, Bragg's retreat, Lee's repulse, and the attack on Charleston are the most serious disasters that have attended the Confederate arms since the commencement of the war. All persons in the South refusing to take up arms are to be sent out of the Confederacy. General Morgan has entered Ohio and visited Jackson, Georgetown, and several other towns, destroying the railroads at different points, and approaching to within 35 miles of Cincinnati. Great excitement exists throughout the State. Federal gunboats, with a large force, have left Cincinnati, to prevent his crossing the Ohio River. Cincinnati has been declared under martial law, and the inhabitants are organising for defence. The popular feeling against the Conscription openly manifested itself in New York on the 13th in acts of violence and destruction. A mob attacked one of the offices in which the lots were being drawn, drove out the officers—many of whom were severely beaten—destroyed the enrolment papers, and finally set fire to and destroyed the building. The police and provost guard attempted to interfere, but were quickly disarmed, and forced to seek safety in flight. A number of them were pursued, overtaken, and beaten to death. Colonel H. F. O'Brien was seized and hanged on a lamp post, and Mr. Kennedy, the superintendent of police, was seriously injured. The rioters also burned some of the other enrolment offices, and, the flames extending to the adjoining houses, much valuable property was destroyed. The Coloured Orphan Asylum was burnt to the ground. The Tribune office was attacked, but saved by a strong police force. Negroes were attacked wherever seen, 10 or 12 were beaten to death or thrown into the river, 7 were hung from the lamp posts in different parts of the city, and a fire was lighted under one of them, burning his body to a cinder. Late in the afternoon troops were brought up from Governor's Island, and patrolled the streets, but the crowd dispersed before midnight, in consequence of the heavy rain. On the 14th the rioters again collected and continued their work of destruction. They attempted to burn the house of Mr. Opdyke, the Mayor, but were foiled in their purpose. They were more successful at the house of Mr. Wakeman, the postmaster, which they sacked and burnt to the ground. A proclamation was issued by Mayor Opdyke calling upon all order-loving citizens to come forward and act as special constables, and General Wool appealed to the returned volunteers to assist in restoring order. Governor Seymour addressed the crowd from the City Hall steps, urging them to keep the peace, stating that whatever could be done towards protecting their rights as citizens of the State of New York would be done as soon as possible, and that he had sent the Adjutant General of the State to Washington to consult with the President in relation to the draught, and was in hourly expectation of receiving telegraphic despatches of the result. Collisions occurred on the 14th between the soldiers and the mob, in which upwards of 30 persons lost their lives. A great many negroes were killed, and on the departure of the mail not a coloured person was anywhere to be seen. The rioters were supposed to be fully 50,000 strong, and were armed with muskets, bludgeons, pikes, brickbats, and railroad iron. Many women were among them, and rendered themselves conspicuous for their ferocity. During the night of the 14th the rioters were less violent than during the day. The announcement that the draught would be abandoned tended in some degree to allay the excitement. On the 15th and 16th the riots were renewed with great fury. Several encounters took place between the military and the mob, a great number being killed on both sides. The last fight of any consequence between the military and the rioters occurred near Ninth Street. A military force had been sent to drive away the rioters, who were plundering houses to such an extent that nearly every house for three or four blocks on both sides the streets was filled with them. The mob fired bullets, stones, and other deadly missiles upon the soldiers, who had to withdraw. 700 regular troops were sent up as a reinforcement, when a terrible battle ensued; 11 rioters were killed, 18 wounded, and 35 taken prisoners; and 15 men of the 5th Company of the 7th Regiment were reported killed by stones and brickbats. One of the leaders of the rioters, named Andrews, was arrested. 5000 cavalry sabres and 100 muskets were seized by the police in a house in Stanton Street. The most daring act of the rioters was an attack on the Armoury, in Cooper Street, where a force of military was stationed to protect it. When the mob had broken down the doors they were fired upon by a 6-pounder loaded with canister. This effectually scattered the mob at that point. One rioter was completely riddled with shot, and fell dead at the door of the Armoury. Three young women and three or four small boys were wounded, but not seriously. They were not participators in the riots. The rioters then attacked the gunshops in Dock Street, stealing and destroying from 40,000 to 50,000 dollars' worth of property. They were speedily dispersed by a volley from the revolvers of the police. In the morning of the 17th the rioters on Staten Island burnt the depôt and water station. They afterwards attacked and burnt the negro shanties, killing 100 negroes. Many persons left the island, including prominent citizens who had been threatened. General Dix has since superseded General Wool in New York. The city is much quieter, although collisions between the military and the mob continue. The Provost Marshal-General has officially announced that the Federal Government will sustain the enforcement of the draught with military force. This determination it is supposed will cause the renewal of still bloodier riots, and inaugurate a revolution. Governor Seymour, the State authorities, and the Democratic press are opposed to the draught as unconstitutional, while the Republican press insist that it must be carried out at all hazards. The Republican and Democratic journals are becoming more vituperative in their mutual abuse, each party accusing the other of being responsible for the riots. This course is inflaming the public mind and adding to the danger. Crowds of people are leaving New York, and sending their families to Canada. Archbishop Hughes has addressed a concourse of 5000 persons in front of his residence. He appeared in full sacerdotal robes, and told them they were called rioters, but he could not see a riotous face among them. If they were Irishmen he recommended them to keep quiet, though in case of a violent assault upon their rights without provocation every man had a right to defend his house or church with his life. He alluded in opprobrious terms to England, saying, "he did not envy John Bull in replacing by a race of fat bullocks a noble population like that of Ireland, which was the mother of heroes and poets." He said that a "man" was a higher title than a "gentleman;" that if New York were invaded by Great Britain or any other Power, the women of the city, with their tender babes at their breasts, would look to "men" and not to "gentlemen" for protection; that he felt it a disgrace that his countrymen should be called rioters, and entreated them all to go quietly home, and seek a remedy for all their grievances in the ballot-box. President Lincoln has ordered the 2d of August to be set apart as a day of thanksgiving for victories so effective and signal as to furnish reasonable grounds for augmented confidence that the Union and the Constitution will be preserved, and that peace and prosperity will be permanently maintained. Official correspondence between Mr. Stephens and President Davis shows that the object of the proposed mission of Mr. Stephens to Washington was the establishment of a fresh cartel for the exchange of prisoners, and to place the war upon the footing of hostilities waged by modern civilised nations, divesting it of the savage character which had been impressed upon it by the Federals, in spite of all the efforts and protests of the Confederates.

MEXICO.—It is reported from Havannah that Juarez has been abandoned by his troops, and is making his way to the Pacific coast in order to embark for New York. Yellow fever and smallpox are raging at Vera Cruz. General Forey has ordered that all goods for the interior are to be under French protection. The general feeling is in favour of the French Government. General Marin has obtained possession of San Juan Baptista, in the State of Tabasco, an important position commanding the river, where vessels load cargoes of Campeachy wood. Colonel Dupin has occupied the city of Huatusco.

SAN DOMINGO.—The Paris papers publish news from San Domingo, stating that a general political amnesty has been proclaimed in that island.

BRAZILS.—The Hon. W. G. C. Elliot has received his passports, but has not yet left Rio.

Parliament.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

FRIDAY.—The Earl of SHAFTESBURY in bringing under the notice of the House the first report of the Children's Employment Commission, dwelt upon the sufferings inflicted on young children employed in the making of lucifer matches, percussion caps, pottery, pillow lace, chimney sweeping, &c., and insisted that it was the duty of the Legislature to rescue these children from the moral and physical degradation entailed by their employments by enforcing Acts of Parliament against those who violated them. The Consolidated Fund (Appropriation) Bill was read a third time and passed. Russia and Poland.—The Marquis of CLANRICARDE moved for any reports received from our diplomatic or consular agents of atrocities committed or threatened by Russians or Poles since the 1st of May. He thought that the three Governments ought to urge that the war in Poland should be henceforth conducted in accordance with the usages of civilised warfare, or to say that they would themselves take part in that war.—Earl RUSSELL said the production of such papers would be attended with very great inconvenience. On a former occasion her Majesty's Government had been censured for entering into negotiations with Russia without being prepared to enforce their demands. Now, although he did not wish at that moment to enter into a controversy as to the wisdom of that policy, he held that it might be advisable to make propositions with a view to securing peace without being prepared to go to war in support of those propositions. With regard to the negotiations he might state that, so soon as Russia proposed that a conference should take place between Russia, Austria, and Prussia in reference to Poland, Austria telegraphed to St. Petersburg declining to become a party to any such proceeding.—Lord STRATFORD DE REDCLIFFE eulogised the conduct of Austria throughout the negotiations, and gave expression to his regret that Russia should have been so ill-advised as to pursue a policy with regard to Poland which could only result in endangering the peace of Europe.—The Earl of ELLENBOROUGH regarded the answer of Prince Gortschakoff as a practical termination of the attempt at diplomacy with any hope of success. We now knew exactly where we were, and it was for her Majesty's Government carefully to consider what they would do next. England was not the enemy of Russia; on the contrary, she desired the maintenance of the state of things established at Vienna, but Russia would render this impossible if she persisted in the course upon which she had now entered. After condemning the atrocities of General Mouravieff, he said that at the present moment the Emperor of Russia was the greatest revolutionist in Europe, and he might rely upon it that he and his family would suffer for the confusion and danger he was now creating in Poland.—The Earl of MALMESBURY censured her Majesty's Government for not pursuing in the case of Poland the same policy of non-intervention which they had adopted in regard to America.—After a few words from Earl GRANVILLE in defence of the Government, the motion for papers was withdrawn.

SATURDAY.—The Commons' Amendments to a number of Bills were agreed to. The Indemnity Bill, the Land Tax Commissioners' Names' Bill, the Promissory Notes and Bills of Exchange Bill, the Removal of Prisoners (Scotland) Bill, the Charitable Uses Bill, the Companies Clauses Bill, and the Poisoned Grain, &c., Prohibition Bill were read a third time and passed.

MONDAY.—The Consolidated Fund (Appropriations) Bill was read a third time and passed. The Commons' reasons for insisting on one of their amendments to the Alkali Works Regulations Bill, and for disagreeing to the Lords' amendments to the District Parochial Churches (Ireland) Bill and other Bills were considered and agreed to.—Lord STRATFORD DE REDCLIFFE, in calling attention to the proposed guarantee of the Ionian Islands when transferred to Greece, referred to the main objections to the cession of those Islands. These were the value of Corfu to this country in case of a war in the Mediterranean, the expenditure which had been made there for the last 45 years, the opposition of both Austria and Turkey, and the creation of a new embarrassment for Greece. As the transfer was not yet completed, he trusted that something would occur to prevent it, as he foresaw circumstances arising out of the guarantee we had given, which might involve this country in serious complications and war.—Earl RUSSELL believed that the transfer of these islands met with the general approbation of the country and of Parliament, as no vote or resolution had been proposed during the Session to stop the negotiation. The guarantee was not a fresh one, but only an extension of the guarantee of 1832 to the enlarged territory in 1863, and the addition of the Ionian Islands to that guarantee was not likely to cause embarrassment. Austria and Turkey, it was true, had at first objected to the cession: but they did not now make any opposition to it. In conclusion, he referred to the present state of affairs in Greece, and expressed a sanguine hope in regard to the future welfare of that country, notwithstanding the recent disturbances.—The Earl of DERBY entirely concurred with Lord Stratford de Redcliffe's denunciation of guarantees, and his objections to the cession, in the interests of England, in the interests of the Ionian Islands themselves, and in the interests of Europe. The present condition of Greece rendered the cession of these islands a crime of the gravest character.—Lord STRATHEDEN moved that a humble address be presented to Her Majesty to appoint a Commission to inquire into and report upon the principles which ought to guide further legislation on the subject of Metropolitan Railways.—Lord STANLEY of ALDERLEY opposed the motion, which was withdrawn.—Lord REDESDALE called attention to the Minute of the Committee of Council on Education of the 19th of May last, and the memorandum of the Committee of the National Society to the Committee of Council thereon, and condemned it on the ground that it was injurious to the schools affected by it, and was a plan for applying the charities of the country in aid of the public revenue.—The Earl of DERBY mentioned instances of the hardships which the Minute of the Council had inflicted.—After a few words from Earl POWIS, the Duke of SOMERSET explained that the object of the Minute was that State subscriptions for purposes of education should be applied to those districts where facilities for education did not already exist, and that grants should not be given where the school, from endowments, was already in receipt of an average of [illegible] for each scholar.—After a few remarks from Lords REDESDALE, DONOUGHMORE, and FORTESCUE, the subject dropped.

TUESDAY.—The Prorogation.—The Commons having been summoned to the bar, the Royal Assent was given by Commission to the following Bills:—Consolidated Fund (Appropria- tion), Fortifications (Provisions for Expenses), Prison Ministers, English Church Services in Wales, India Stock, Sydney Branch Mint, Colonial Letters Patent, Jurisdiction of Justices, Oaths Relief in Criminal Proceedings (Scotland), Removal of Irish Poor, Marriages Registration (Ireland), Public Works and Fisheries Act Amendment, Vaccination (Scotland), Sheep and Cattle (Scotland), Stipendiary Magistrates, Misappropriation by Servants, Colonial Acts Confirmation, Savings Banks Acts Amendment, Naval Medical Supplemental Fund Society Winding-up Act (1861) Amendment, Union Relief Aid Acts Continuance, Turnpike Acts Continuance, &c., Augmentation of Benefices, Clergymen (Colonies), Statute Law Revision, Alterations in Judges' Circuits, Indemnity, Land-tax Commissioners Names, Promissory Notes and Bills of Exchange, Poisoned Grain, &c., Prohibition, Removal of Prisoners (Scotland), Expiring Laws Continuance, Rum Duty, Petty Sessions (Ireland), Nuisances Removal Act (1855) Amendment, Navy Prize Agents, Trustees (Scotland) Act Amendment, Waterworks Clauses, Pauper Lunatic Asylums, Turnpike Trusts Arrangements, Fisheries (Ireland), District Parochial Churches (Ireland), British Columbia Boundaries, Drainage and Improvement of Lands (Ireland), Alkali Works Regulation, Exhibition Medals, Telegraphs, Charitable Uses, Companies Clauses, Railways Clauses, Harwich Harbour, Howth Harbour, Thames Embankment (south side), Metropolis Turnpike Roads Acts Amendment, Port Erin Harbour (Isle of Man), Pier and Harbour Orders Confirmation, with 46 Railway and other private Bills.—The LORD CHANCELLOR then read the Queen's Speech for the prorogation of Parliament, as follows:—

"MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

"We are commanded by her Majesty to release you from further attendance in Parliament, and at the same time to convey to you her Majesty's acknowledgments for the zeal and assiduity with which you have applied yourselves to the performance of your duties during the session now brought to a close.

"Her Majesty has seen with deep regret the present condition of Poland. Her Majesty has been engaged, in concert with the Emperor of the French and the Emperor of Austria, in negotiations, the object of which has been to obtain the fulfilment of the stipulations of the Treaty of Vienna in 1815, in behalf of the Poles. Her Majesty trusts that those stipulations will be carried into execution, and that thus a conflict distressing to humanity and dangerous to the tranquillity of Europe may be brought to a close.

"The civil war between the Northern and Southern States of the North American Union still unfortunately continues, and is necessarily attended with much evil, not only to the contending parties, but also to nations which have taken no part in the contest. Her Majesty, however, has seen no reason to depart from that strict neutrality which her Majesty has observed from the beginning of the contest.

"The Greek nation having chosen Prince William of Denmark for their King, her Majesty is taking steps with a view to the union of the Ionian Islands to the kingdom of Greece. For this purpose her Majesty is in communication with the Powers who were parties to the treaties of 1815, by which those islands were placed under the protection of the British Crown; and the wishes of the Ionians on the subject of such union will be duly ascertained.

"Several barbarous outrages committed in Japan upon British subjects have rendered it necessary for her Majesty to demand reparation; and her Majesty hopes that her demands will be conceded by the Japanese Government, without its being necessary to resort to coercive measures to enforce them.

"The Emperor of Brazil has thought fit to break off his diplomatic relations with her Majesty, in consequence of her Majesty not having complied with demands which she did not deem it possible to accede to. Her Majesty has no wish that this estrangement should continue, and would be glad to see her relations with Brazil re-established.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS,

"Her Majesty commands us to convey to you her warm acknowledgements for the liberal supplies which you have granted for the service of the present year, and towards the permanent defence of her Majesty's dockyards and arsenals; and her Majesty commands us to thank you for the provision you have made for the establishment of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

"MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

"The distress which the civil war in North America has inflicted upon a portion of her Majesty's subjects in the manufacturing districts, and towards the relief of which such generous and munificent contributions have been made, has in some degree diminished; and her Majesty has given her cordial assent to measures calculated to have a beneficial influence upon that unfortunate state of things.

"Symptoms of a renewal of disturbance have manifested themselves in her Majesty's colony of New Zealand, but her Majesty trusts that by wise and conciliatory measures, supported by adequate means of repression, order and tranquillity will be maintained in that valuable and improving colony.

"Her Majesty has given her assent to a measure for augmenting the income of a considerable number of small benefices, and she trusts that this measure will be conducive to the interests of the Established Church.

"Her Majesty has given her assent to an Act for the revision of a large portion of the Statute Book, by the removal of many Acts which, although they had become obsolete or unnecessary obstructed the condensation of the statute law.

"Her Majesty has felt much pleasure in giving her assent to an Act for placing upon a well defined footing that Volunteer force which has added a most important element to the defensive means of the country.

"Her Majesty has gladly given her assent to an Act for carrying into effect the additional treaty concluded by her Majesty with the President of the United States for the more effectual suppression of the slave trade; and Her Majesty trusts that the honourable co-operation of the Government of the United States will materially assist her Majesty in those endeavours which Great Britain has long been engaged in making to put an end to the perpetration of that most disgraceful crime. Her Majesty has assented with satisfaction to many other measures of public usefulness, the result of your labours during the present session.

"It has been gratifying to her Majesty to observe that notwithstanding many adverse circumstances, the general prosperity of her empire continues unimpaired. Though great local distress has been suffered in Great Britain from the effects of the civil war in America, and in Ireland, from the results of three unfavourable seasons, the financial resources of the United Kingdom have been fully maintained, and its general commerce with the world at large has not been materially impaired.

"It has been a source of great satisfaction to Her Majesty to find that her East Indian possessions, rapidly recovering from the disasters which lately overspread them, are entering upon a course of improvement, social, financial, and commercial, which holds out good promise for the growing prosperity of those extensive regions.

"On returning to your several counties you will still have important duties to perform; and her Majesty fervently prays that the blessing of Almighty God may attend your efforts to promote the welfare and happiness of her subjects, the object of her constant and earnest solicitude."

The Commission for proroguing the Parliament was then read, and the Lord Chancellor, in Her Majesty's name, declared Parliament to be prorogued to Wednesday the 14th of October.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

FRIDAY.—Small-pox in Sheep.—Mr. D. GRIFFITH inquired whether the Government intended to take any steps to prevent the inoculation of sheep, and what had been the result of the experiment of vaccination as a preventive of small-pox in those animals.—Mr. LOWE replied that the result of the vaccinating experiment had not been satisfactory, while with regard to inoculation, the evil was so patent that it was quite unnecessary for the Government to interfere by legislation to prohibit the practice. Academical Subscription.—Mr. DODSON brought under notice the petition from members of the University of Oxford for the abolition of the requirement of subscription to formularies of faith as a qualification for academical degrees.—Mr. HENLEY said that the petition did not fairly represent the feelings of the University.—Mr. GOSCHEN argued that the Church of England would be better without tests and artificial supports, which many good and staunch Churchmen believed to be injurious to the Church. Inclusion was safer than exclusion. By relying on her truth and power, the Church would become stronger and stronger.—Lord R. CECIL took a different view of the value of subscription. Masters of Arts constituted the Governing body to decide what should be the religious education of the University.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said that the question of tests in the University was connected with the usual training of the young. The parents of England would not be satisfied to intrust their children to the University without some definite religious security. He should be sorry to see the interference of Parliament, except from necessity, in the regulations of the University, modifications of which should be its spontaneous act. After a discussion in which Mr. LYGON, Mr. G. DUFF, Mr. NEWDEGATE, and Mr. BUXTON took part, the subject dropped.—Mr. C. BENTINCK and Mr. MONSELL called attention to the proposed cession of the Ionian Islands to Greece.—Lord PALMERSTON said that there had been no change in the policy of the Government on the subject. They still thought that they should be consulting the interests and wishes of the Ionian people and of Greece if they gave the Islands the option of uniting with Greece, but they would not force it upon them. Mr. M. MILNES called attention to the fees demanded by the Dean and Chapter of Westminster for the erection of public Monuments in Westminster Abbey.—Mr. COX and Mr. HUNT called attention to the Increase of Infanticide in England and Wales.—Sir G. GREY said he saw no reason to assume that the crime of infanticide was increasing, and that in regard to the fees demanded by the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, the Government had no power to interfere in the matter.—Mr. KINGLAKE called attention to the Polish question, and passed some severe strictures upon the reply of Prince Gortschakoff to the note of the British Government, which, he observed, must make us despair of any good resulting from negotiation. He commended the conduct of Austria; but thought it was her duty to take a more prominent part than other Powers in putting an end to what was going on in Poland.—After some remarks by Mr. HENNESSY, Mr. S. BEAUMONT, and Lord RAYNHAM, Lord PALMERSTON said that the condition of Poland was undoubtly most deplorable; but it was impossible for him to answer off-hand what course her Majesty's Government might find it their duty to adopt; but this he would say, that they were determined to act in concert with France and Austria.—Lord ELCHO asked what the Government proposed to do with the land they have recently acquired at South Kensington.—Lord PALMERSTON said that he understood that the contractors for the Exhibition building of 1862 had sold that curious structure for 20,000*l.* more than the sum for which it had been offered to the public, and that the Government would, between now and next session, consider the proper disposition of the land lately purchased. On the consideration of the Lords' reasons for disagreeing from one of the Commons' amendments of the Alkali Works Regulation Bill, the Commons, on a division, insisted upon their amendment. The Church Building and New Parishes Acts Amendment Bill was withdrawn.

SATURDAY.—The Lords' amendments to the Fisheries (Ireland) Bill were considered and ultimately agreed to. The Lords' amendments to a number of other Bills were considered and agreed to.

MONDAY.—Remarriage of Dissenters.—Sir M. PETO asked the Government whether they had heard of the remarriage of a Mr. and Mrs. Hulin by the Rev. H. Walmesley, vicar of St. Briavels, Gloucestershire, after they had been previously married in a Dissenting chapel, and on which remarriage the vicar entered the parties in his register-book as bachelor and spinster, knowing of the previous marriage; and whether the Government would prosecute the vicar for making such entries.—Mr. BRUCE said the remarriage was not an offence against the law, although no doubt it was an offence against good taste and decency.—Lord E. BRUCE inquired whether in the event of the Ionian Islands being ceded to Greece, her Majesty, as Sovereign of the order of St. Michael and St. George, would continue to retain the sole power of conferring that order.—Mr. C. FORTESCUE replied that her Majesty would continue to retain the sole power of conferring the order, which would not be transferred with the Ionian Islands to the kingdom of Greece, though when the protectorate ceased it would be necessary to revise the rules of the order.—Mr. NEWDEGATE called attention to the opening of a Roman Catholic Burial Ground at Sydenham, and asked if it had been sanctioned in the usual way.—Mr. MONSELL said that the hon. member for North Warwickshire had hounded the late Mr. Turnbull of the Record Office to death, inasmuch as the anxiety of mind which he suffered in consequence of the imputations made against his character by Mr. Newdegate and others, had brought him to his grave; and though Mr. Newdegate might war against the living, he might have spared the dead.—Sir G. BOWYER said he had ascertained from the medical attendants of the late Mr. Turnbull that his death was clearly to be traced to a broken heart.—Mr. BRUCE said that the burial ground at Sydenham had been sanctioned by the Home Office in the usual manner, and that it was intended for the clergy and lay brethren of the oratory at Brompton.—In answer to Mr. H. Seymour, Mr. LAYARD observed that there was great mystery hanging over the Affairs of Herat. Some time ago the Government received a telegram from the British mission at Teheran that Herat had been taken by Dost Mahomed's Affghan forces; but the announcement had not been confirmed. The accounts as to the death of the Dost were conflicting.—On the order of the day for the third reading of the Exhibition Medals Bill, Mr. AYRTON condemned the precipitancy with which the measure had been carried through its earlier stages, and the objectionable nature of the principle involved, and concluded by moving that the Bill be read a third time that day week. Mr. M. GIBSON, the LORD MAYOR, Mr. J. FOWELL, and Sir G. BOWYER, supported the Bill, Lord R. CECIL, Mr. BUTT, and Colonel FRENCH, opposed it. On a division the motion was negatived by 62 to 15. The Bill was then read a third time and passed.—On the motion of Sir G. BOWYER, the order for the second reading of the Benchers Jurisdiction and Authority Bill was discharged, and the Bill withdrawn. The House was then counted out.

TUESDAY.—Precedency of Edinburgh, Dublin, and York.—Sir G. GREY, in answer to Mr. Brown-Westhead, said that the Corporation of London was the only one in England which had a right to present a petition to the Queen in person. The question of precedence as between the Lord Mayor of York, the Provost of Edinburgh and the Lord Mayor of Dublin could not, therefore, arise.—Mr. LAYARD, in replying to Sir G. BOWYER, said that the terms of the arbitration in the Case of Captain Melville White had not yet been settled between her Majesty's Government and the Government of Peru, and that negotiations on the subject were still pending.—Lord PALMERSTON stated, in answer to an inquiry of Mr. GRIFFITH, that there were agencies at work with the view of preventing the establishment of Prince William of Denmark as King of Greece. It was desirable, therefore, that every difficulty and embarrassment should be removed, in order that such a result might not take place. By the treaty constituting Greece a kingdom the territorial limitations were fixed with the sanction of the contracting parties, and no future change would be made in these limits without mutual consent; and the treaty by which the Ionian Islands would be added to Greece would extend to the Septinsular Republic the same sanction as applied to the present territorial limits of Greece. Lord PALMERSTON, in answer to another question, said that he declined all responsibility for any assertions made by M. Lesseps palliating or defending the employment of Forced Labour on the Suez Canal. He believed that the Peninsular and Oriental Company did employ forced labour in the embarkation and debarkation of their cargoes in Egypt; but as soon as the order of the Sultan abolishing forced labour came into operation that order would apply to the Peninsular and Oriental as well as to other companies. Poland.—In answer to Mr. HENNESSEY, Lord PALMERSTON said that, in his opinion, it would be injurious to the interests of Poland to tell Russia that the stipulations of the Treaty of Vienna were no longer of value.—Mr. O'HAGAN replied to questions regarding the Administration of Justice in Ireland.—The House was then summoned to the House of Lords to hear the Queen's speech read by commission. On its return the SPEAKER read the Queen's speech at the table, and the session of 1863 was brought to a conclusion.

City Intelligence.

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at $93\frac{1}{8}$ to 93 for Money, and $93\frac{1}{8}$ for Account; Three per Cents. Reduced, $93\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{8}$; New Three per Cents., $93\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$; Thirty Years' Annuities, 1885, $15\frac{1}{8}$; Red Sea Telegraph, 21 1-16; Bank Stock, 239; India Stock, 226 to 228; Ditto Five per Cent. Stock, $108\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1863, $100\frac{1}{8}$; Ditto, 1864, $100\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$; Ditto Bonds, 16*s.* pm.; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 107; Ditto Five and a Half per Cent., 116; Exchequer Bills, March, 1*s.* dis. to 2*s.* pm.; Ditto June, 1*s.* dis.—FOREIGN: Egyptian, $103\frac{1}{2}$ to 103; Ditto, second issue, 103; Greek, $32\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$; Ditto, for Acct., $32\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$; Ditto Coupons, $15\frac{1}{2}$ to 16; Italian, Maremmana Railway, $78\frac{3}{4}$; Mexican, 37; Ditto for Acct., $37\frac{1}{8}$ to $36\frac{7}{8}$; Peruvian, 1862, $85\frac{3}{4}$; Russian, 1862, $92\frac{1}{2}$; Sardinian, $89\frac{7}{8}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$; Spanish, for Acct., $53\frac{3}{4}$; Ditto Passive, for Acct., $32\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., $12\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Turkish, 1854, $92\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto 1858, for Acct., $70\frac{3}{4}$; Ditto 100*l.* Bonds, 74; Ditto 1862, 67; Ditto for Acct., $67\frac{1}{4}$; Venezuela, for Acct., $23\frac{3}{8}$; Ditto 1862, $55\frac{3}{4}$; Ditto for Acct., $56\frac{1}{8}$ to $55\frac{1}{2}$.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued.. .. .. | £28,564,050 | Government Debt .. .. | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities .. .. | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 13,914,050 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. | — |
| | £28,564,050 | | £28,564,050 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,006,888 |
| Rest .. .. .. .. .. | 3,321,340 | Other Securities .. .. | 19,374,052 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | 5,629,282 | Notes .. .. .. .. .. | 7,365,115 |
| Other Deposits .. .. .. | 14,441,872 | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 830,185 |
| Seven days and other bills | 630,746 | | |
| | £38,576,240 | | £38,576,240 |

July 30, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: July 24.—BANKRUPTS.—J. H. ALDERSON, Everton, Lancashire, General Merchant—R. BRIDGEN, Brighton, Stationer—A. BROWNE, Clerkenwell, Tool and Metal Dealer—A. J. BOUNEVIALLE, Fenchurch Street, City, Globe Manufacturer—J. BOUCHER and T. BOUCHER, Newnham, Gloucestershire, Carpenters—F. BARKER, Alrewas, Staffordshire, Grocer—W. BOLZANI, Birmingham, Hosier—C. BARNES, Cambridge, Tailor and Robe Maker—J. BURTON, Tottenham, Middlesex, Blacksmith—W. H. BLACK, Haslingden, Lancashire, Cotton Spinner—T. CHESTERTON, Loughborough, Leicestershire, Brush Manufacturer—JAMES ARAUNAH CLEMMANS, Upper Thames Street, Licensed Victualler—JOHN CORNS, Wolverhampton, Journeyman Mill Maker—JOHN PETER CROWTHER, Chelsea, Statuary Mason—G. CATON, Wheeler Street, Spital Square, Spitalfields, Chenile and Silk Umbrella Manufacturer—R. A. DALE, Walsall, Staffordshire, Attorney's Clerk—G. DEVALL, Dudley, Worcestershire, Journeyman Hatter—W. DAVIES, Wombridge, Shropshire, Tailor—B. DRAKE, Northtawton, Devonshire, Higgler—J. DAVIES, Birmingham, Cabinet Maker—A. ELKINGTON, South Camp, Aldershott, Deputy Assistant Commissary General—J. D. ELLIS, Furnival's Inn, Architect—W. ELLIOTT, Pimlico, Boarding and Lodging House Keeper—F. A. FARRAR, Russell Grove, Vassal Road, Brixton, Solicitor—S. FLINT, Mansfield, Nottinghamshire, Licensed Victualler—D. FINLANSON, Fenchurch Street, City, Tailor—E. GUARD, Bedminster, Bristol, Timber Dealer—W. GREEN, Leeds, Galvanised Iron Manufacturer—J. GUTTERIDGE, Ryde, Isle of Wight, Shoemaker—V. D. HUNT, otherwise V. D. DE V. HUNT, Stranraer Place, Paddington, Commission Agent—J. HOOPER, Charlton, Kent, Carpenter—J. HAYNES, Ryde, Hampshire, late Postmaster—W. H. HOCKING, Falmouth, Cornwall, Painter—S. HARDY, late of Holmfirth, Yorkshire, Coal Dealer—T. B. HEWORTH, Leeds, Joiner—J. HUNTER, Doncaster, Yorkshire, Tea Dealer—J. HILLIER, Queen's Buildings, Brompton, Carpenter—T. HEATON, Ince, Lancashire, Coal Proprietor—J. INGARFIELD, Brighton, Fishmonger—T. JOLLY, Loughborough, Leicestershire, Watchmaker—W. JEFFRIES, Cambridge Road, Mile End, Oil and Colourman—R. E. JONES, Birkenhead, Coal Merchant—H. KEMP, jun., Grange Road, Bermondsey, Traveller—R. KIMBER, St. James's Street, Pentonville, Plater—J. KEARNS, Oxford Street, Cutler—R. KING, late Chorlton-upon-Medlock, Lancashire, Cigar Dealer—J. KING, Portswood, Southampton, Builder—A. W. LEVETT, Jewin Street, City, Hair Net Manufacturer—WILLIAM CLARK LUPTON, Harrogate, Yorkshire, Whitesmith—J. LONG, Downham Market, Norfolk, Coach Painter—G. LADMORE, late of Toxteth Park, Liverpool, Shipwright—G. MOORE, St. James Place, Bermondsey, Lighterman—H. MARSHALL, Portland Place, Salt Merchant—A. F. MORRIS, Christian Malford, Wiltshire, Tailor—W. MEDDOWCROFT, Notting Hill, Boarding House Keeper—J. MASON, Duncan Terrace, Islington, Jeweller—W. M'LAREN, Eaton Street, Pimlico, late Teadealer—W. MILLS, late Fishergate, Lancashire, Fishmonger—J. MITCHELL, Sowerly, Yorkshire, Butcher—W. NEWMAN, Middlewich, Cheshire, Grocer—J. NICHOLSON, Newcastle-upon Tyne, Engraver—W. S. POOLE and J. L. BURKITT, Kenilworth, Attorneys-at-Law—W. H. PERKINS, Church Street, Woolwich, Tailor and Outfitter—G. PATTRICK, Mount Radford, Exeter—C. PHAROAH, Hoxton, Wholesale Shoe Currier—E. J. PERRYMAN, Kentish Town, Tailor—P. REED, York, Ironmonger—H. READY, Old Jewry, Surveyor—W. H. J. ROBBINS, Crawford Street, Bryanston Square, Boot Dealer—C. RUST, Mare Street, Hackney, Attorney's Clerk—C. ROBERTSON, Bishopsgate Within, Attorney-at-law—W. SHIPP, Cotham, Bristol, Coachman—PETER GEORGE STUBBS, Easington, Durham, Merchant Tailor—ESTER STOWELL and AMELIA JANE EVERETT, Anerly, Spinsters—J. STARKEY, Wolverhampton, Licensed Retailer of Ale—T. SPITTLE, Eckington, near Pershore, Worcestershire, Horse Dealer—W. SPATCHER, Northampton, Plumber—G. STANESBY, Chapel Street, Park Walk, Chelsea, Livery Stable Keeper—H. STEPHENSON, Pimlico, Commission Agent—S. H. STEWART, Aldwark, Yorkshire, Linen Draper—W. THOMAS, Liskeard, Cornwall, Grocer—H. TOWLE, late of Bingham, Nottinghamshire, Surgeon—H. THOMAS, Hereford, Herefordshire, Innkeeper—M. TURNER, Chatham, ent, Carrier—H. Taylor, Rinstead, Norfolk, Higgler—A. Turner, esterfield, Derbyshire, Brewer's Manager—W. Urquhart, late of Will ett Place, Old Kent Road, Paper Pulp Maker—G. F. Upward, Regent's rk, Stock Jobber—G. Watson, Bedale, Yorkshire, Currier—J. Wilson shopwearmouth, Durham, Boot and Shoemaker—R. Watson, New oss, Watchmaker—J. Whiteley, Bradford, Yorkshire, Machine Wool mber—R. A. Westbrook, Westminster, Solicitor—G. Webb, late of ebb's Place, Gower's Walk, Whitechapel, Builder—J. Yates, jun., terborough, Northamptonshire, Plumber.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—A. Graham, Summerston, Stirlingire, Farmer—W. Johnston, Ecclefechan, Dumfries-shire, Farmer—Mitchell, Pitlowie, Perthshire, Farmer.

TUESDAY: July 28.—BANKRUPTS.—J. L. Ash, Glamorganshire, ipping Master—G. Atkinson, Grassthorpe, Nottinghamshire, Miller—Barratt, Wakefield, Yorkshire, Seedsman—J. Burton, Price's Yard, ledonian Road, Journeyman General Smith—H. F. Barton, Bath Street, bernacle Square, Shoreditch, Tripe Dresser—J. Briggs, Northfleet, ent, General Dealer—J. Bird, jun., Bryanston Street, Portman Square, dging house Keeper—J. Best, Harlington, Middlesex, late Labourer—. Broughton, Great Bolton, Lancashire, Shopkeeper—G. Benn, Park ne, Piccadilly, Dairyman and Lodging house Keeper—Z. Batchelor, rmingham, late Grocer—W. H. Biddick, St. Issey, Cornwall, Carpenter H. Barnett, Liverpool, Toy Dealer—W. H. Cole, Sevenoaks, Kent, ationer—W. C. Chapman, Crowle, Lincolnshire, Plumber—S. Cowell, ennington Oval, Vocalist—J. Compton, Farnham, Dorsetshire, Farm ailiff—G. F. Cornelius, Penton Street, Pentonville, Commission Agent—Cape, Gainsborough, Inn-keeper—A. Cohen, Judd St., Euston Rd., Furture Dealer—P. J. B. de Chantal, Baker St., Portman Sq., Professor of e French Language—J. Driver, Bradford, Yorkshire, Dyer—A. Disney, ennington Grove, Kennington Lane, late Dealer in Railway Shares—Ellison, Salisbury Street, Lisson Grove, Coach Painter—H. Edwards emingford Road, Barnsbury, Attorney's Clerk—D. Finlayson (and not Finlanson, as formerly advertised), Fenchurch Street, City, Tailor—Flight, late of Grove Cottages, Edgware Road, Boot and Shoemaker—. Gurney, St. James Road, Holloway, late Grocer—J. Gair, Darlington, urham, Grocer—T. Herbert, Wakefield, Yorkshire, Glass and China ealer—D. Hilton and H. Hilton, Sheffield, Britannia Medal Manufacturers—J. E. Harris, Wisbech, Cambridgeshire, Grocer—A. Heflin, aternoster Row, Publisher—D. Hayes, Bridge Street, East, Mile End, e Rope Manufacturer—J. Iceton, Willington, Durham, Agricultural bourer—A. Jackson, Ipswich, late Pastrycook—G. Jackson, Liverpool, le Maker—J. Kettle, Cardiff, Beer Retailer—C. Longman, Blackman reet, Borough, Dyer—J. Lusher, Ashill, Norfolk, Blacksmith—G. Lax, anchester, Draper—J. Marshall, Ripon, Yorkshire, Chorister—ederick Mittonnette, late of Trinity Street, Islington, Commission ent—Joseph Dagnall Muddiman, Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire, rfumer—Alfred Marsh, Copenhagen Street, Caledonian Road, arehouseman—John Mason, Runcorn, Cheshire, Shipbuilder—James itchell, Macclesfield, Cheshire, late Licensed Victualler—S. Naylor, lford, Lancashire, late Indigo Manufacturer—R. N. Parsons, Dudley, orcestershire, Dealer in Cattle—C. Pengilly, Bodmin, Cornwall, armer—N. Perrons, Basford, Nottinghamshire, late Coal Dealer—H rorum, Brighton, Licensed to Let Flys and Horses—R. Robinson, alifax, Sail Yarn Maker—T. Remmitt, Smethwick, Staffordshire, ookseller—G. Richardson, Kentish Town Road, Furnishing Ironmonger—W. Russell, St. Andrew's Terrace, Wandsworth Road, Journeyman Coachman—J. Russell, Axminster, Devonshire, Saddler—W. Raven, helmsford, Essex, Baker—J. Reeves, Shrewsbury, Licensed Victualler—. Street, High Street, Hoxton, Baker—L. Shaw, Hollin's Green, ancashire, Provision Dealer—W. Stowell, Torriano Gardens, Camden oad, Dissenting Minister—C. Smith, Island of Portland, Dorsetshire, hoe Maker—W. Sims, Liverpool, Shipwright—J. M. Shields, Long enton, Northumberland, Hotel Keeper—H. M. Smith, Flamstead Lodge, ar Dunstable, Gentleman—G. Sach, Ealing, Middlesex, Carpenter—J. Smith, Stockwell Place, Clapham Road, Publican and Bricklayer—. Smith, late of Leigham Place South, Lambeth New Road, Bricklayer—Smith, Howthorpe, Yorkshire, Farmer—F. Swebeck, Fowke's uildings, Great Tower Street, Merchant—F. E. Tucker, Old Broad reet, City, Bill Broker—J. Touth, jun., Greenheys, Lancashire, obacconist—M. Timpson, Southampton, Photographer—W. F. Vincent, ast Mersea, Essex, Coachmaker—W. J. Williams, Merthyr Tydfil, lamorganshire, Colliery Overmann—W. Wood, late of Beer Ferris, evonshire, Dealer in Powder—B. Wright, Bilston, Staffordshire, Charter aster—W. H. Webb, late George Street, Hammersmith, Private Tutor J. C. Wingfield, Kingston-upon-Hull, Confectioner—J. Williams, hosllanerchrugog, Denbighshire, Tailor—G. Wright, St. Thomas's quare, Hackney, Master Royal Navy—J. Wilkins, Exeter, Grocer.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—E. Anderson & J. Wilson, Elgin, ood Merchants—R. Allison, Ardrossan, Shipping Agent—D. Cowie, ettercairn, Kincardineshire, Furnishing Tailor—W. Forsyth, Forres, lginshire, Clothier—D. Marwick, jun., Kirkwall, Ironmonger—R. isbet, Glasgow, Wine and Spirit Merchant—W. Smith, Broughty Ferry, aker—J. Strutheers, Glasgow, Spinner.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

Proposed Railway from the City to the West End.—At the last meeting of the Court of Common Council, Alderman Waterlow presented a petition from Mr. Francis Giles, civil engineer, for the assent of the corporation to a railway projected by him for the purpose of relieving the pressure and of providing an expeditious means of transit between the City and the West End. He proposes to construct this railway from Walbrook behind the Mansion House to the Regent Circus, running under Newgate Market, across Farringdon Street, under Chancery Lane, Lincoln's-Inn-Fields, and Covent Garden, and near Trafalgar Square, capable of extension towards the east to the Fenchurch Street Station of the Blackwall Railway, and towards the west to the Marble Arch, Hyde Park. He proposes to construct the railway with four lines, in order to insure ample capacity, and the power so to divide the trains as to combine safety with the despatch of eight or 10 trains each way every hour of the working day. He had so arranged the levels of the proposed railway as to avoid all the new main sewers, to deal with other sewers without injury to the drainage, and to render it unnecessary to alter the level of any street except Farringdon Street. The terminal stations at Walbrook and at the Circus, Oxford Street, and the intermediate stations at Chancery Lane and at a point near Trafalgar Square for Piccadilly and Charing Cross, would be in open cuttings, at depths averaging 25 feet from the surface. The memorial was referred to the Improvements Committee for consideration and report, with an instruction to confer with the Commissioners of Sewers on the subject.

The Thames Embankment.—Mr. Bazalgette has submitted to the Metropolitan Board of Works the plans and sections of the northern embankment and the Board have advertised for tenders for the work. The following details of Mr. Bazalgette's plan for the entire scheme from Westminster to Blackfriars will be read with interest. The foundations of the embankment will be laid upon a bed of gravel, 7 feet below the river mud, overlaying the London clay, and averaging from about 15 feet to 25 feet in thickness. They will rest upon the lower portion of this bed of gravel, at a depth of about 14 feet below low water mark, and 10 feet above the London clay, or about the depth of the bottom of the deep-water channel of the river in the mid-stream. In order to get in the foundations to this depth Mr. Bazalgette proposes, by excavating within them, to sink a connected line of iron caissons, and to fill them with Portland cement concrete to within 6 feet of low water; and at this depth, and upon the concrete, to build the brick granite-faced embankment wall. The caissons will be so constructed as to form a full-tide dam, and the work will be carried on in short lengths, so that the upper portion of the dam above low-water can be removed, as each section is completed, and employed in the formation of the adjoining length. Thus the ironwork used as a dam between high and low water will not be wasted, but will become available for other purposes after the whole work is completed. This, therefore, will be a safe, rapid, and economical mode of operation. Behind the embankment wall, and underneath the roadway, he proposes to construct a subway and sewers, an arrangement which will add much to the stability of the embankment wall. The total length of the embankment will be about 7000 ft., but it will be completely divided by the bridges into three sections, each of which will be viewed by itself, and the line of vision will not ordinarily be continued from one section to the other. The first section will be from Westminster to Hungerford Bridge, the second from Hungerford Bridge to Waterloo, and the third from Waterloo to Blackfriars Bridge. A continuous line of embankment wall would not in itself be productive of much architectural effect, the present landing-places for steamboats are exceedingly ugly, and there would be much difficulty in connecting the river wall with the existing bridges, so as to produce an effective and consistent design. At each of the bridges there are, and must be, landing-places for steamers, and midway between the bridges there are landing-places of some description, which will have to be maintained. To meet these requirements it is proposed to treat each length of embankment from bridge to bridge as a complete design, and to make the steamboat-piers and landing-places prominent and effective, as well as useful and necessary features. At Westminster Bridge the roadway, which rises at an inclination of 1 in 80 to the level of the bridge, will be set back 30 or 40 feet from the face of the embankment wall, and the intervening space will be reserved as a promenade and steamboat-pier, having access from the bridge by a wide and imposing flight of steps opposite the Houses of Parliament. This will terminate without abruptness the various styles of architecture at this point. Between Westminster and Hungerford bridges will be landing stairs for smaller craft, and it is proposed to introduce at that point the beautiful water gate at the end of Buckingham Street, erected after a design by Inigo Jones. On either side of Hungerford and Waterloo Bridges will be steamboat landing places, the dummies for which will be partly concealed within recesses formed by projecting into the river, in front of the general line of embankment, massive granite piers with moulded pedestals rising about 30 feet above the roadway, and hereafter to be enriched with bas-reliefs and surmounted by groups of statuary. Half way between Hungerford and Waterloo Bridges it is proposed to construct a flight of landing steps 60 feet wide, projecting into the river, and flanked at each end with massive piers, rising to the level of a few feet above the roadway, and hereafter to be surmounted with colossal figures of river deities, or other appropriate groups. It is proposed to form an approach for foot passengers from the high level roadway to the river by a second flight of steps, descending to the level of the lower or embankment roadway, which would add much to the effect of this central feature as viewed from the river. On either side of this approach a line of shops could be erected on the land side of the embankment roadway, the backs of which would form a retaining wall to the ornamental crescent and promenade above them. Between Waterloo and Blackfriars Bridges, and in front of Arundel Street, a steamboat pier will be constructed, in lieu of the present Essex Street pier, designed upon the same principle as those adjoining the bridges. The embankment wall itself will be enriched with mouldings of a simple character down to the level of the high-water mark, the continuous line of moulding being broken by the introduction at intervals of massive blocks of granite to carry ornamental lamps, and by occasional recesses for promenade seats. It is proposed in the first instance to construct the embankment wall and fill in behind it to the level of 4 feet above Trinity high-water mark, and afterwards to arrange for the laying out of the area reclaimed.

Hudson's Bay Company.—The International Financial Society, composed chiefly of parties connected with Canadian interests, have purchased the entire property and rights of the Hudson's Bay Company, at the price of 300*l.* for every 100*l.* stock. The total capital was 500,000*l.*, and the amount of the purchase has therefore been 1,500,000*l.* Sir Edmund Head, formerly Governor-General of Canada is the Governor, and Mr. C. M. Lampson, the most experienced merchant in London connected with the fur trade is the Deputy-Governor of the new Company with six directors of high commercial reputation—viz., Messrs. Eden Colvile, G. Lyall, M.P., D. Meinertzhagen (of Huth & Co.), J. S. Hodgson (of Finlay, Hodgson, & Co.), J. H. W. Schröder, and Richard Potter. The property of the company in its new form consists of all the stores, ships, &c., hitherto employed in the trading operations of the Hudson's Bay Company, valued at 1,023,569*l.*, a cash balance of 370,000*l.*, and the entire landed territory granted to the Company under their charter nearly two centuries ago, extending over an area nearly half as large as Europe and in the southern portion of which, connecting Upper Canada with British Columbia, there is a fertile and temperate tract for settlement said to comprise more than twice the area of France. Up to this time the policy of the Hudson's Bay Company has been one of rigid exclusion, the sole object having been to preserve the country as a chase for the Indians. The fresh operations contemplated by the new company are the erection of a telegraph line connecting Canada with British Columbia, which will pass through 2500 miles of their territory, and for which the provincial Governments have offered an annual subsidy; the settlement of the country along that route, skirting Minnesota, Nebraska, and Washington; the development of the mines near the head of Lake Superior, and on the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains; and the encouragement of all undertakings connected with agricultural and commercial enterprise.

The Dutch Library in Austin Friars.—At the last meeting of the Court of Common Council, it was announced that the consistory of the Dutch church in Austin Friars, had presented to the corporation their valuable library, which was fortunately saved from destruction when that ancient fabric was partially destroyed not long ago by fire. This library, which consists of about 2000 volumes, was established by Marie Dubois, a pious lady, in 1650, and additions were made to it from time to time by the Dutch Ambassadors, the Dutch East India Company, and the wealthy members of the congregation. It includes a very interesting collection of manuscript letters of the early Ecclesiastical reformers; among others, of Erasmus, Calvin, Beza, Bucer, Peter Martyr, Grindal, Archbishop of Canterbury; Vizet, John à Lasco, the first minister of the Dutch Church in London; Bullinger, Dathenæ, and John Fox, the Martyrologist; also letters of the principal founders of the Dutch Republic, including the Prince of Orange, afterwards William I., Sir Philip de Marinix, Count d'Aldegonde, the Admiral of the Dutch fleet. One batch alone contains 272 original letters to Abraham Ortelius, geographer to Philip II. of Spain, from the chief learned and scientific men of the age; portrait etchings of Albert Durer by himself, Ortelius Christopher Plantin (printer of the polyglot Bible), Cardinal Ximenes, Gerard Mercator, William Camden, Dr. John Dee (physician to Queen Elizabeth), Lord Burleigh, the Earls of Leicester, Sussex, and Lincoln, several of the English bishops of those times, and of the Lord Mayors of London. The principal part of the library consists of early theological works in Latin, German, Dutch, and English, good editions of the classics, illuminated Bibles, Blaew's view of the different Continental States in 1649, and embassy to China in 1670; making in all about 2000 volumes, and with the old fittings complete.

Lancashire Relief Fund.—At the meeting of the Mansion House Committee on Friday the report stated that the total amount received, including interest, was 507,267*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*, of which 428,802*l.* 12*s.* 7*d.* had been already remitted to the distressed districts. The subscriptions received during the week amounted to 2,170*l.* 15*s.* 1*d.*, of which 69*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.* was from home and 2,101*l.* 7*s.* 9*d.* from colonial sources. 31 grants were made, amounting in all to 1440*l.*

Burlington House.—A return made to Parliament shows that Burlington House, with its gardens, was purchased in 1854 for 140,000*l.* The extent of the ground is about 3½ acres. The building is now occupied by the Royal Society, the Senate of the University of London, the Linnean Society, and the Chemical Society, and certain Volunteer Corps are allowed to drill in the gardens and in a temporary building which they have been permitted to erect there for the purpose. No income is derived from the property; the annual outgoings and cost of maintaining it average 470*l.*

Abolition of Metropolitan Turnpikes.—The Metropolis Turnpike Roads Act Amendment Bill, which received the Royal Assent on Tuesday, after eight years of agitation, will confer a great benefit on the metropolis by the removal, on and from July 1, 1864, of 25 toll-gates and 56 side bars, and the setting free from toll-gate obstruction of about 51 miles of road on the Middlesex side of the Thames. The gates and bars to be removed are:—Fulham, Walham Green, Earl's Court, Kensington, Hammersmith, Notting Hill, Harrow Road, Kilburn, Camden Town, Kingsroad Gate, High Street, Chalk Farm, Haverstock Hill, Camden Road, Brecknock Gate, Kentish Town, Gloucester Place, Holloway Road, Islington, Ball's Pond, City Road, Kingsland Road, Cambridge Heath, Hackney, Clapton, Stoke Newington, Twickenham, and Teddington.

Opening of the Alexandra Park.—The Alexandra Park, at Muswell Hill, was opened on the 23d ult. with a horticultural fête and an archery contest, in the presence of many thousand persons. This park, which is intended as a place of public resort and recreation to the inhabitants of North London, comprises the whole estate of Muswell Hill, lately belonging to Mr. Rhodes, with some surrounding land, making in all an extent of about 450 acres of the most picturesque and beautiful wooded country to be found—certainly near London, if not in any part of England. On the highest point of the grounds it is intended to erect the nave, domes, side courts, transepts—in fact all the glass and iron structure of the Exhibition building; but at present there is no building into which the visitors may retreat in case of rain, and the only railway accommodation is from King's Cross to the Wood Green Station of the Great Northern, on the grounds of the Park itself. It is intended to intrust the care of the building and the grounds entirely to the Corps of Commissionaires, and to dispense entirely with the police in favour of old soldiers.

MURDEROUS OUTRAGE IN WHITEHALL.—On Saturday a murderous affray took place at the Lodge of Richmond Terrace between the old man who acted as gate-keeper, and his daughter who lived with him. It is said that both were of intemperate habits, and frequently quarrelled; and on this occasion they attacked each other—one armed with a knife and the other with a fork—and stabbed each other so severely that both were taken to the hospital, where they still remain in a serious state.

THE ISLINGTON MURDER.—The young man Clarke, who was charged with the abduction and murder of a little girl at Islington, was brought before the magistrate at Clerkenwell Police-court on Thursday, when Mr. Clerk, who attended from the Treasury, intimated that on a careful examination of the evidence he did not think it would bear out the charge of murder. He would, therefore, abandon that charge, but proceed against him for acts of indecency towards other little girls that had come out in the evidence. The magistrate committed him for trial, but offered to accept heavy bail, which the prisoner was unable to procure, and was accordingly removed in custody.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH. — The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London in the week ended Saturday, July 25, were 1452. The average number in the corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1253. The present return is therefore 199 above the average. This excess was caused chiefly by diarrhœa, from which 233 deaths were reported. There were 20 deaths from cholera, of which 2 were Asiatic. The deaths from small-pox declined to 34, which is lower than any previous weekly number since the end of March. During the week the births of 994 boys and 898 girls, in all 1892 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1818.

Provincial.

BIRMINGHAM.—At the inquest on Madame Geneive, the female Blondin, last week, Edward Powell, her husband, deposed that deceased had for 17 years been the sole support of himself and seven children. She belonged to the original "Huntini" family, and had been accustomed to walk upon the tight rope ever since she was three years of age. She had been in every town in England, Ireland, and Scotland; and never had a fall till nine years ago, when witness caught her. She was engaged on this occasion to go through two performances on the same day for 15*l*. Henry White, rope maker, deposed that it would have been impossible to have discovered any defect in the rope without opening it. He had done this since the accident, and found that it presented every appearance of dry rot, as if it had been put away wet. Its appearance, however, without being untwisted was such that it might deceive anybody. Mr. Porter, surgeon, who had made the post mortem examination, stated that on the left side eight ribs were broken, and on the right side six. The liver was ruptured in five or six places, and the hip bone was fractured through the joint. The spine was not fractured, but two of the spinous processes of the last two dorsal vertebræ were broken. The deceased was between the seventh and eighth month of pregnancy. It also appeared from the other evidence that there were about 14,000 persons present in the park, and that one-fourth of the gross amount of the receipts was to be paid by the Foresters' committee to the Aston Park company. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, with an expression of opinion that parties are greatly to blame who engage people for performances which are dangerous to life for the amusement of the public, and that all dangerous and degrading performances by either sex should be discouraged. The following letter has been addressed to the Mayor of Birmingham, by command of the Queen, in reference to this catastrophe:—

"Osborne, July 25, 1863.

"Sir,—The Queen has commanded me to express to you the pain with which her Majesty has read the account of a fatal accident which has occurred during a fête at Aston Park, Birmingham. Her Majesty cannot refrain from making known through you her personal feelings of horror that one of her subjects—a female—should have been sacrificed to the gratification of the demoralising taste, unfortunately prevalent, for exhibitions attended with the greatest danger to the performers. Were any proof wanting that such exhibitions are demoralising, I am commanded to remark that it would be at once found in the decision arrived at to continue the festivities, the hilarity, and the sports of the occasion after an event so melancholy. The Queen trusts that you, in common with the rest of the townspeople of Birmingham, will use your influence to prevent in future the degradation to such exhibitions of the Park which was gladly opened by her Majesty and the beloved Prince Consort, in the hope that it would be made serviceable for the healthy exercise and rational recreation of the people.

"I have the honour to be, &c. "C. B. PHIPPS."

BURY.—We learn that in recognition of the special services rendered to the Royal Italian Commission for the International Exhibition of 1862, Mr. William Wanklyn, of Bury, Lancashire, whose valuable report on the samples of cotton in the late International Exhibition was published by the Cotton Supply Association, has had the honour of receiving from the King of Italy the order of Knighthood of St. Maurizio and Lazzaro.

NEWPORT PAGNELL.—The Irish schoolmaster Michael Lyons, who made the murderous attack on two men in a railway carriage a few days ago, was brought before the Buckinghamshire county magistrates in this town on Thursday. Both the injured persons were able to attend and give their evidence, and the old lady who was in the carriage with them was also examined. The magistrates committed the prisoner for trial, and refused to accept bail.

Ireland.

THE KILMALLOCK MURDER.—The last of the five men concerned in the murder of Mr. Fitzgerald was tried on the 13th ult. at Limerick Assizes. Three of them, Beckham, Walker, and Denis Dillane, had already been executed; another, a farmer called Cooke, who had harboured them, had been severely punished; and the fifth, Matthew Dillane, was now tried on the charge of being an accessory before the fact. The Attorney-General in opening the case said that though there was evidence sufficiently strong to place the prisoner on trial for the capital offence, that evidence was not admissible in a legal form, and therefore the Crown would only proceed upon the minor counts of the indictment. To these the prisoner pleaded Guilty, and Mr. Justice Keogh sentenced him to ten years' penal servitude, directing that he should be sent off at once, without being allowed an interview with his friends.

THE NEW ROSS MURDER.—At the Wexford Assizes on the 11th ult. Joseph Kelly was convicted of the murder of Michael Fitzhenry, a national schoolmaster. The Solicitor General went down specially to conduct the case. The judge, in passing sentence of death, stated that the jury would have been guilty of a violation of their oath if they had come to any other conclusion than the one at which they had arrived. He then sentenced the prisoner to be executed on Tuesday the 11th August.

THE DERRYNEAGH MURDER.—The trial of Francis Bradley for the murder of Adam Grierson, agent on the estate of Mr. Adair, at Derryneagh, took place at the Lifford Assizes last week. The prisoner was identified in a dying declaration by the murdered man; but owing to some informality the document was not put in. The jury after long deliberation were unable to agree to a verdict and were discharged; and the prisoner was detained in custody to be tried again at the next assizes.

THE MULLINGAR MURDER. — At the Mullingar assizes the trial of John Bodkin for the murder of Michael Bannon, after lasting three days, terminated in the disagreement of the jury. The deceased was found dead on the 3d of December in his own field, his body mutilated, and his head broken almost to a jelly. Suspicion fell upon the prisoner, who was arrested, and blood found upon his clothes. There had been ill feeling between him and deceased about the management of a farm belonging to a Mrs. Coughlan, which was supposed to supply a motive for the crime. Deceased, who was an elderly man, had been some months married to Mrs. Coughlan's daughter, but they did not seem to have agreed, and she was not living with him at his death. Thomas Moran swore that he had been repeatedly solicited by the prisoner to shoot Bannon, and had been supplied with a pistol for the purpose. One of the witnesses examined was the prisoner's daughter, who deposed that her father was out on the night of the murder, and that next morning she assisted in washing his trousers. While under examination she broke out into hysterical sobs, and it was some time before she could answer any questions. The jury were locked up for some time, but as there was no likelihood of their agreeing they were discharged.

THE TIPPERARY MURDER.—The murderers of the late Mr. Jackson seem to have completely baffled the authorities. The two Maddens, father and son, who have been in prison since the murder, have been set at liberty, there being no evidence to warrant their further detention. The elder Madden, it will be remembered, was Mr. Jackson's steward, and was arrested in consequence of a large sum of money having been found in his box.

Scotland.

THE LATE DUKE OF HAMILTON.—It is stated that the late Duke of Hamilton insured his life for the large sum of 100,000*l*. about a week before he last left Scotland for Paris. The chief part of the loss will fall upon the Scottish offices.

THE PRECEDENCY OF EDINBURGH OVER DUBLIN.—The correspondence between Sir George Grey and the various parties concerned in the decision of this question has recently been published. The report of Sir Bernard Burke, Ulster King at Arms, to the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, together with the correspondence of the Lord Provost of Edinburgh, has been forwarded to Sir Charles Young, Garter King at Arms, for his remarks. These are given as the last document in the case, and the opinion of Garter King at Arms is decidedly in favour of Edinburgh.

THE BREADALBANE SUCCESSION.—The Judges of the first division of the Court of Session have recently given judgment on the petition of Lieutenant Campbell of the Bengal Cavalry, one of the claimants of this succession, for the sequestration of the estates till the claims of the parties are decided on. The Lord President, Lord Curriehill, and Lord Ardmillan, held that as the legitimacy of the father of Mr. Campbell, of Glenfalloch, titular Earl of Breadalbane, which the petitioner impugned, had been hitherto recognised, Mr. Campbell's claim to be considered the heir apparent must be allowed. They considered that the petitioner should have been more explicit in his statements, that he should have mentioned the date of the birth of Mr. Campbell's father, as, although the person whom his grandfather married had been at the time the wife of another man, there was nothing to prevent the supposition of a re-marriage and the birth of the respondent's father afterwards. Lord Deas dissented from the other judges, holding that sufficient facts had been stated by the petitioner to justify the sequestration of the estate; and that it was the duty of the respondent to have stated the true facts about his grandfather's marriage, and not have confined himself to a simple denial. The Court reserved to the petitioner the right to make a new application as the case progressed, but found him liable in the expenses. It is understood that he will immediately appeal to the House of Lords.

Railways.

THE FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE MONMOUTHSHIRE.—The adjourned inquest was resumed on Friday at Cwmbran, when Colonel Yolland, the Board of Trade Inspector deposed that the Monmouthshire Company did not keep the line in such order as would warrant the West Midland Company in running their express trains from Pontypool Road to Newport in 15 minutes. He also strongly recommended that the road should be entirely renewed. After a brief address from the coroner, the jury returned the following verdict:

"That Robert Magee met with his death by the West Midland express train accidentally running off the rails on the Monmouthshire Company's line, on the 3d of July, at Cymbran, and we attribute the accident to the high speed on a road not originally intended for fast running, and we urge the companies to allow more time for express trains from Pontypool Road to Newport till the road is renewed."

The damage to the railway and plant and the compensation to be paid to sufferers, will, it is expected, amount to from 8000*l*. to 10,000*l*.

Sporting.

GOODWOOD RACES.

TUESDAY.—The Craven Stakes. Mr. J. Woolcot's The Gunner beat Waterwitch, Bosh, Xurullo, and General Hess.—The Ham Stakes. Mr. Merry's b f beat Izaak Walton and Mirage.—The Gratwicke Stakes. Lord Glasgow's Clarior beat Zapateado and Curie.—The Stewards' Cup. Duke of Beaufort's Birdhill beat Entremet, Dolphin, and 26 others.—Sweeps. Lord Annesley's Ace of Clubs beat Picador, Ellangowan, Lord Clyde, and 3 others.—Sweeps. Mr. H. Joice's Etna beat Bradamante, Salvioni, and 6 others.—The Lavant Stakes. Mr. W. Day's c beat Durham, Crytheia, and 6 others.—Fifty Pounds. Mr. Jenning's Indolence beat The Principal, and Douche.

WEDNESDAY.—The Goodwood Derby. Count F. de Lagrange's Jarnicoton beat Warhorse.—Handicap Plate. Lord Uxbridge's Liston beat Despair, Zora, and 3 others.—Sweeps. Lord Stamford's Ætna beat Gold Dust.—The Goodwood Stakes. Mr. Drewitt's Blackdown beat Anfield, Jack o'Hearts, Magnum Bonum, and 9 others.—The Cowdray Stakes. Captain Christie's Spicebox beat Hedworth, Salvioni, Indolence, and Lady Clare.—The Findon Stakes. Mr. R. Ten Broeck's Paris beat Linda, Polonaise, and 9 others.—The Drawing Room Stakes. Mr. R. C. Naylor's Macaroni beat Gunner and Escape.—Handicap Plate. Mr. York's The Principal beat Microscope, Buckenham, Black Prince, and Kingswood.

THURSDAY. — Sweeps. Mr. R. C. Naylor's Carnival beat Jarnicoton.—The Second Year of the Twelfth Bentinck Memorial Stakes. Mr. J. Bowes's The Old Orange Girl beat Almack.—The First Year of the Thirteenth Bentinck Memorial Stakes. Mr. G. Bryan's Lady Hylda beat Rigolboche and Goldylocks. The Racing Stakes. Mr. Merry's Lord of the Isles beat Œnopides.—The Goodwood Cup. Mr. T. Parr's Isoline beat La Toucques, Fairwater, Buckstone, Zetland, and Myrtle. Won by a neck, Fairwater a bad third; Buckstone fourth, Zetland fifth, Myrtle sixth, and Mazagan last, the latter being pulled up and trotting a long way in their rear.—The Third Year of the Eleventh Bentinck Memorial Stakes. Mr. Savile's Buckenham walked over.—The Sussex Stakes. Count F. de Lagrange's La Belle Feronniere walked over.—The Molcomb Stakes. Count F. de Lagrange's Fille d'Air beat Scottish Chief, Idler, and 6 others.—The Chichester Stakes. Lord Strathmore's Bohemia beat Lady Clifden, Erythia, Queen of Trumps, and 4 others.

FRIDAY.—(By Electric Telegraph.) — Nassau Stakes.—Fantail beat Cassidia, Roly Poly, and another.—Queen's Plate. Isoline beat Millionaire. — Nursery Stakes. — Paris beat Idler, Mail Train, and 10 others.—Duke of Richmond's Plate. Dolphin beat Bosh, Silkstone, and 4 others.—Chesterfield Cup. Ace of Clubs beat Aurelian, Tippler, and 18 others.—Sweeps. of 10 sovs. Crytheia beat The Hare and Spectre.—March Stakes. Laura beat Cuckoo, Ætna, and 7 others.—Sweeps. of 100 sovs. Buckstone walked over.

Law.

ROLLS COURT.—Broun v. Kennedy.—The Swynfen Case.—This was a Bill filed to set aside a deed whereby Mrs. Broun, then Mrs. Swynfen, conveyed the reversion of the Swynfen estate, subject to certain charges, to the defendant. The plaintiff impeached the validity of that deed on the ground of undue influence. The Master of the Rolls yesterday delivered judgment. He held that Mr. Kennedy had exercised an undue influence over Mrs. Swynfen, and that his relations to her were not satisfactory. He ordered that the deed conveying the estate to Mrs. Swynfen should be returned to Court, for the purpose of being cancelled; and that Mr. Kennedy be condemned in the costs.

HOME CIRCUIT: MAIDSTONE. — Attempted Murder. — George Haver, a soldier, was charged with attempting to murder Mr. Fenn, the Governor of the gaol at Canterbury, where he was at the time confined under sentence of a court-martial. He had managed to secrete the blade of a knife, which he sharpened and fastened to a piece of wood, and with it inflicted some severe stabs on the head and face of the prosecutor, who was with difficulty rescued from him. The prisoner made no defence. The jury found him guilty of wounding with intent to murder, and Baron Channell sentenced him to penal servitude for 20 years.—The Chatham Murder.—Alfred Holden, 25, a private in the Royal Artillery, a smart, soldierlike, young man, was charged with the wilful murder of his child, eleven months old, named Alfred James Holden. It appeared that the prisoner was stationed with his regiment at Chatham, and had been employed as cook, but having disagreed with his sergeant they were on bad terms. On the morning of the 1st April, while at his lodgings at Gillingham, with his wife and child, he took the infant out of the bed where it was lying, and nearly cut its head off with a razor. He never denied the act, but stated to the police that the sergeant had aggravated him, and he was determined to kill some one, in order that he might lose his own life, as he was tired of existence, and that, having considered what he should do, he resolved to kill his child in order that his wife might not have the additional burden of maintaining it as well as herself after he was gone. The prisoner was represented to have been very fond of his wife, and also of the child, and it was supposed in the first instance that his mind was affected, but nothing had transpired since the occurrence that in any way tended to confirm this suggestion. When the prisoner was called upon to plead, he replied in a calm and deliberate tone, "I am guilty." Baron Channell asked him whether he was aware that he was charged with wilful murder, for which his life might be forfeited, and told him clearly to understand that pleading guilty would not have the slightest effect on the sentence. The prisoner coolly said that he was aware of it. Baron Channell, after making some inquiries as to the state of his mind, put on the black cap, and passed sentence of Death in the usual form. The prisoner, who was perfectly unmoved, when the judge had concluded turned hastily round and retired from the bar, apparently quite unconcerned. The Herne Murder.—Alfred Eldridge, 33, a tall powerful man, was charged with the Wilful Murder of Richard Steed, at Herne, on the 2d of May. The two men who were railway labourers, lived in the village of Maypole, near Herne, and the prisoner was indebted a few shillings to the deceased, who kept a small shop in the village, and had frequently asked the prisoner for payment without success. On the evening of the murder, both men had received their weekly wages, and were seen going home together about 7 o'clock. In the course of that night Steed was found in a ditch on the road horribly mangled, with his skull fractured and his brains beat out, as if he had been knocked down and trampled on by the iron shod boots of a railway navvy. The evidence was wholly circumstantial, though closely linked together. The jury found the prisoner Guilty, and Baron Channell sentenced him to Death without hope of mercy. The prisoner heard the sentence without exhibiting the slightest emotion, and when the judge had concluded he bowed slightly to him and to the jury. CHELMSFORD.—Roupell and another v. Haws and others.—This was an action, in which Richard Roupell, as heir and also as devisee of his father, sought to recover the estate at Great Warley, in Essex, which had been sold to the defendants by William Roupell under the powers of a deed of gift which the plaintiff alleged to be a forgery. After occupying Baron Channell and a special jury for nine days, the trial ended, at a late hour on Friday night, by the jury being unable to agree, in consequence of which they were called into Court between 10 and 11 o'clock and were discharged. All the cost, and trouble incurred on both sides is consequently thrown away, but the defendants retain possession of the property.

WESTERN CIRCUIT: DORCHESTER.—The Allington Murder.—Henry Dommett was indicted for the wilful murder of his son, by cutting his throat, at Allington, on the 5th June. The prisoner is about 45 years of age. When placed at the bar he seemed in a very desponding state of mind, at the same time perfectly collected, and apparently aware of the position in which he stood. Upon being called upon to plead he hesitated for a moment, and then said "Not Guilty." The jury Acquitted him on the ground of insanity, and he was ordered to be detained during Her Majesty's pleasure.

NORFOLK CIRCUIT: BEDFORD.—The Bedford Murder—Robert Jordan, 21, and William Craddock, 33, pleaded not guilty to the charge of wilful murder of Frederick Budd, in the town of Bedford, on the 10th ult. It appeared that the deceased gentleman, Mr. Budd, who was a solicitor, practising in Buckingham, was staying with his wife on a visit in Bedford, and on the night in question they were both returning from St. Paul's Square to their residence through Castle Lane, the prisoners and some other man, without any provocation attacked deceased with such violence that he died soon afterwards. The jury returned a verdict of Manslaughter, and his lordship sentenced the prisoners to seven years penal servitude.

Obituary.

THE MARQUIS OF NORMANBY, K.G., died on Tuesday morning at Hamilton Lodge, South Kensington, from an attack of paralysis, in his 67th year. His lordship, the Right Hon. Constantine Henry Phipps, Marquis of Normanby, Earl of Mulgrave, Viscount Normanby, and Baron Mulgrave of Mulgrave, Yorkshire, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; Baron Mulgrave of New Ross, Wexford, in the peerage of Ireland, was the eldest son of the first Earl of Mulgrave, by the daughter of the late Mr. Christopher Thomson Maling, of West Herrington, Durham. He was born in 1797, and married in 1818 the eldest daughter of the first Lord Ravensworth, by whom he leaves issue an only son, the Earl of Mulgrave. The late marquis received his education at Harrow, and at Trinity College, Cambridge, at which university he took his degree as M.A. before he was 19. Shortly after he attained his majority he entered Parliament as member for Scarborough, a borough in which his family had great influence. His maiden speech in the House of Commons, made in 1819, was in favour of the Roman Catholic claims, and was considered by his political friends a decided success. He also seconded Lord John Russell's resolutions on Reform, in a speech somewhat in advance of his party, and shortly afterwards resigned his seat in Parliament, and retired to Italy. In 1822 he was elected for Higham-Ferrers, and resumed his position in the House of Commons. In 1826, at the general election, he was elected for Malton, and gave his support to Mr. Canning's Administration. In 1831 he succeeded his father as Earl of Mulgrave, and removed to the House of Peers. In the following year he was appointed Governor of Jamaica, where by his conciliating and popular manners he succeeded in smoothing the existing difficulties in that colony. After a successful administration of two years in the West Indies, he returned home. On the formation of Lord Melbourne's first Administration he accepted the office of Lord Privy Seal, with a seat in the Cabinet. In 1835, in Lord Melbourne's second Administration, he was appointed Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, when he soon made himself a popular viceroy. In 1838 he was created Marquis of Normanby. In 1839 he succeeded Lord Glenelg as Secretary of State for the Colonies, but removed in the same year to the Home Department, which post he held till the end of 1841. In 1846 he was appointed Ambassador at Paris, where he remained till the early part of 1852. From 1854 till 1858, he was Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Florence. Since his recall from that post he has not held any public employment. Recently he has opposed the policy of the Government in the affairs of Italy, and in fact had quite forsaken his former political friends and generally voted with the Opposition peers. His lordship was the author of several political pamphlets which excited great interest at the time of the Reform movement and several novels and other works, both in prose and verse, including "Yes and No," "Matilda," "The Contrast," and "Clorinda." In 1832 he was made a Privy Councillor, and nominated Knight Grand Cross of the Guelphic Order; in 1847 he was made a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath, and in 1851 was made a Knight of the Garter. His lordship is succeeded in the family honours and estates by his only son the Earl of Mulgrave, who formerly represented Scarborough in the House of Commons during several Parliaments. He was in early life in the Scots Fusilier Guards, Comptroller of the Queen's Household from 1851 to 1852, and Treasurer of the Household from 1853 to 1858. In the latter year he was appointed Governor of Nova Scotia, from which he has recently returned. His lordship married in 1844 the daughter of the late Mr. Robert Russell, by whom he has several children.

THE EARL OF MORNINGTON died in Paris on the 25th ult., in his 50th year. His lordship, William Arthur Pole Tylney Long Wellesley, Earl of Mornington, Viscount Wellesley of Dangan Castle, and Baron Mornington of Mornington, county Meath, in the peerage of Ireland, and Baron Maryborough of Maryborough, Queen's County, in the peerage of the United Kingdom, was the only surviving son of the fourth earl, by his first wife, Miss Tylney Long, eldest daughter and co-heir of Sir James Tylney Long, Bart. He was therefore great-grandson of the first Lord Maryborough, and nephew of the Marquis Wellesley, the Duke of Wellington, and Earl Cowley. He was born at Wanstead House in 1813, and on the death of his father in 1857, he succeeded to the family honours, and, by the extravagance of his father, to a diminished patrimony. He has left an only sister, Lady Victoria Long Wellesley, to whom the whole of the maternal property, once of great value, descends. In default of male heirs, the Irish titles merge into the long list of honours enjoyed by his cousin the Duke of Wellington. The Barony of Maryborough becomes extinct.

GENERAL LORD DOWNES, G.C.B., Colonel of the 29th Regiment, died at his seat, Bert House, Kildare, on the 26th ult., in his 75th year. His lordship entered the army at an early age, and served as aide-de-camp to Sir John Cradock in Portugal, and subsequently in the same capacity and as assistant military secretary to the Duke of Wellington during the whole of the Peninsular war. Few men were then better known than Sir Ulysses Burgh. He was present at the battles of Talavera, Busaco, Fuentes d'Onor, El Bodon, Salamanca, Vittoria, Pyrenees, Nivelle, Nive, Toulouse, and the sieges of Badajoz, Ciudad Rodrigo, and San Sebastian. In 1826 he succeeded his cousin as second baron, soon after which he was elected a representative peer, and was Clerk to the Ordnance during the Wellington Administration. He was twice married, and by his first marriage leaves an only surviving daughter, the Countess of Clonmell. His second daughter, Lady Seaton, died three months before him. As there is no male representative of the family the title is now extinct.

LORD MACDONALD died on Saturday last at Bessingby Hall, Yorkshire, after a protracted illness, in his 55th year. His lordship, Godfrey William Wentworth Macdonald, Lord Macdonald, Baron of Slate, county Antrim, in the peerage of Ireland, and a baronet of Nova Scotia, was the eldest of the two sons of the third baron, by the daughter of Mr. Farley Edsir. He was born in 1809, and on the death of his father in 1832 succeeded to the family honours. In 1845 he married the eldest daughter and coheir of the late Mr. George Thomas Wyndham, of Cromer Hall, by whom he leaves a youthful family, his eldest son and successor, Somerled James Brudenell, being born in 1849. The late peer was brother of Colonel the Hon. James Macdonald, private secretary to the Duke of Cambridge.

SIR CRESSWELL CRESSWELL, Judge of the Court of Probate and Divorce, died at his residence at Albert Gate on Wednesday evening in his 70th year. It will be remembered that on the 17th ult. he met with an accident in riding home from his court. The horses in Lord Aveland's carriage had broken away while driving in the Mall, St. James's Park, and coming in contact with the horse which Sir Cresswell Cresswell was riding, the animal was knocked over and the Judge came heavily to the ground, fracturing his knee cap. He was conveyed home in the carriage of Sir Thomas Fremantle, who was passing at the time, and under the care of Mr. Chas. Hawkins there was for a time every prospect that he would soon be able to resume his official duties. In fact, up to the day of his death he was progressing favourably, and was able to see and converse with his friends. On Wednesday Lord Wensleydale called and sat with him for some time, but soon after his lordship's departure, and on Sir Cresswell being removed from the sofa to his bed, he complained of faintness, and in a few minutes, before medical attendance could be called in, expired without a struggle or a groan. A post mortem examination proved that death was caused by disease of the heart. Sir Creswell Creswell was born in 1794, and was the fourth son of Mr. Francis Easterby, of Blackheath, by the elder of the two daughters of Mr. John Cresswell, of Cresswell, in Northumberland, the last male representative of an ancient Northumbrian family, whose name was afterwards assumed by his son-in-law and his children. He was educated at Charterhouse School and Emmanuel College, Cambridge, where he graduated in 1814. In 1819 he was called to the bar by the Middle Temple, and went the Northern Circuit, of which he became leader in 1834, having in the meantime acquired a high reputation at the bar for his law reports in connection with the late Mr. Barnewall from 1822 to 1830. In 1837 he was elected M.P. for Liverpool, and retained his seat until he was appointed one of the Judges of the Court of Queen's Bench in 1842. After occupying his seat on the bench for 16 years, Sir C. Cresswell was transferred to the new Court of Probate and Divorce, which Parliament had established in the session of 1857, and he took his seat for the first time in January, 1858. It is universally admitted that a better appointment could not have been made. He created a code of Divorce law by his decisions, and based it upon sound, broad principles, and it was to his tact and sagacity that the success of the Court must be attributed. The Judge was never married.

THE DOWAGER LADY FOLEY died on Monday morning, at her residence in Great Stanhope Street, in her 77th year. Her ladyship had been in a weak state of health for some time past. She was the fifth daughter of the second Duke of Leinster, by the only daughter and heir of Lord St. George, whose title is extinct. She was born in 1786, and married in 1806, the third Lord Foley, who died in 1833.

MAJOR THE HON. HENRY L. POWYS KECK, formerly of the 60th Rifles, died on the 10th ult. at his residence, Stoughton Grange, near Leicester, in his 51st year. Last summer he was thrown from his carriage while driving to attend a meeting at the Leicester infirmary, and sustaining very severe injuries his life was despaired of for some days. He however recovered slowly, though he does not appear to have entirely got over the injuries he received. He was the son of the 2d Lord Lilford, and married 1st in 1840 the daughter of J. M. Sancho Esq., and 2d in 1862 the daughter of the late Admiral Sir John Gore, K.C.B., and sister of the Countess Howe. After the Crimean war he took an active part in raising a fund for the support of the orphan children of soldiers. If he had lived it was understood that he would have come forward as a candidate for South Leicestershire in the Conservative interest at the next election. He took the name of Keck by Royal licence in 1861.

LIEUT.-COLONEL JAMES M'GRIGOR was drowned at Aden on the 28th June. He belonged to the Bombay Native Infantry, and served in one of its regiments throughout the campaign of Scinde, under Sir Charles Napier. During the Indian mutiny the suppression of an outbreak in the Bombay Presidency was attributed by the Secretary of State for War to his prompt and vigorous measures. A plot had been formed by the men of one of the regiments at Bombay, first to murder the officers, and afterwards, in concert with other Sepoys, to pillage and massacre all the Christian residents. Major M'Grigor however possessed the confidence of the soldiers, and having learned from one of them the particulars of the plot, which was to take place at midnight, he galloped off for reinforcements, summoned the regiment for parade a quarter of an hour before midnight, and obliged the intended mutineers to lay down their arms. He was son of the late Colonel M'Grigor, who commanded her Majesty's 70th Regiment, and nephew of the late Sir James M'Grigor, Director-General of the Army Medical Department.

CAPTAIN J. S. WILLES JOHNSON, M.P., for the Montgomery district of boroughs, died on the 25th ult., at Hannington Hall, Wilts, after a long illness. He was the son of the Rev. Charles Johnson, rector of Barrow, by the daughter of Archdeacon Willes. He was born in 1793, and entered the navy in 1807. After seeing a good deal of service in the Baltic, the Adriatic, and the Mediterranean, he was Lord Exmouth's flag lieutenant at the taking of Algiers. In 1842 he served in the expedition to China, and obtained his post rank in 1846. In 1861 he was elected M.P. for the Montgomery boroughs, in the place of his father-in-law, Mr. David Pugh.

MR. CALCUTT, M.P. for Clare, died a few days since at his residence in Upper Seymour Street, in his 44th year, after a long illness. He had represented his native county of Clare, with a short interval, since 1857, and was a stanch supporter of the Liberal party. Although educated as a member of the Church of England, and returned as such to the House of Commons, he refused to take the oath usually observed by members of the Protestant Church, and was sworn as a Catholic. He was some months ago received into the Roman Catholic Church by the Right Rev. Dr. Grant, Bishop of Southwark.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.—The will of Lord Sandys, K.T.S., of Ombersley Court, Worcester, has been sworn under 30,000*l.*; the Duke of Grafton, 160,000*l.*; Admiral the Hon. Sir George Elliot, K.C.B., 25,000*l.*; Viscount Templemore, 45,000*l.*; Mr. John Charles Schreiber, of Henhurst, Kent, 350,000*l.*; Mr. John Gully, of Durham, 70,000*l.*; Mr. Joshua Field, of Park Crescent, 250,000*l.*

BIRTHS.—On the 28th ult, at Dufferin Lodge, the Lady DUFFERIN and CLANEBOYE, of a son and heir—25th ult, in Charlotte Square, Edinburgh, the Lady JULIANA WALKER, of a daughter—23d ult, the Lady ROSE LOVELL, of a daughter—26th ult, in Lower Berkeley Street, Lady WYNN, of a son—25th ult, at 27, Hertford Street, Mayfair, the Hon. Mrs. ALLEN BATHURST, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.—On the 22d ult, at Ayott, St. Lawrence, Herts, the Viscount KILCOURSIE, eldest son of the Earl of Cavan, to MARY SNEADE, only child of the Rev. JOHN OLIVE, rector of Ayott, St. Lawrence—4th ult, at Trinity Church, Brompton, Count HUGO RADOLINSKI, of Polish Prussia, to LUCY KATHERINE, second daughter of the late Lieutenant-Colonel Wakefield—25th ult, at All Souls' Church London, Lieut.-Colonel E. J. BULWER, C.B., 23d Fusiliers, second son of W. E. Lytton Bulwer, Esq., of Heydon Hall, Norfolk, to ISABELLA ANNE, youngest daughter of the late Sir JOHN JACOB BUXTON, Bart., of Shadwell Court, Norfolk—25th ult, at Wroxham, Captain EATON TRAVERS, Royal Artillery, second son of the late Sir Eaton Travers, K.H., to HENRIETTA, youngest daughter of JAMES GREEN, Esq., of Wroxham—23d ult, at Lyndhurst, WILLIAM NORRIS, Captain in the 4th Battalion Prince Consort's Own Rifle Brigade, to FREDERICA BURRARD, youngest daughter of Admiral Sir CHARLES BURRARD, Bart., of Lyndhurst, Hants—15th ult, at Madras, Lieut. E.F. H. ARMSTRONG, Mysore Commission, son of Major-General H. Armstrong, to MATILDA BRUCE, daughter of Major-General J. FITZGERALD, Madras Army—23d ult, at Christchurch, Paddington, the Rev. RICHARD GAWLOR MEAD, M.A., to ELIZABETH MARTHA, eldest daughter of JOHN CLUTTON, Esq., of 3, Sussex Square.

DEATHS.—On the 26th ult, at Hanover, his Excellency General HUGH BARON HALKETT, G.C.H., aged 79—24th ult, at Bedford Square, Brighton, Lady MACGREGOR, widow of Sir Patrick Macgregor, Bart.—26th ult, suddenly, at the Dowager Lady Bateman's, 36, Great Cumberland Place, GEORGE ASTLEY CHARLES DASHWOOD, Esq., late Captain 71st Highland Light Infantry, second son of the late Sir George Dashwood, Bart., of Kirtlington Park, Oxon, aged 43—29th ult, at 16, Portland Place, JOHN LABOUCHERE, Esq., of Broome Hall, Dorking, brother of Lord Taunton, and head of the banking firm of Deacon & Co., of Birchin Lane, aged 66—22d ult, at 20, Charles Street, Berkeley Square, FRANCES MARY, the wife of CHARLES PRIDEAUX BRUNE, Esq., of Prideaux Place, Padstow, Cornwall—22d ult, at South Camp, Aldershot, MARY HARRIETT, wife of Colonel WILBRAHAM LENNOX, Royal Engineers—20th ult, at Bath, Major GEORGE DUNCAN DRUMMOND, formerly of H.M.'s 95th Regiment (Rifle Brigade) and barrackmaster at Manchester, aged 69—25th ult, at 54, Brunswick Square, Brighton, Captain GEORGE STEVENSON, formerly of the Grenadier Guards, aged 82—21st ult, at Laugharne, Carmarthen, from the effects of a fall, JOHN TREVER SCURLOCK, Esq., of Doctor's Commons, only son of the late Rev. David Scurlock, of Blaencorse, Carmarthenshire—19th ult, at Leeds, the Rev. T. C. PERCIVAL, rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire, and prebendary of Southwell, aged 66—27th ult, at Bocking, near Braintree, Essex, SARAH SUSANNA, relict of the Rev. CHARLES WAKEHAM, late rector of Wickenby, in the county of Lincoln, and prebendary of Lichfield.

Markets.

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, July 30.

Our prices continue firm, but the amount of business transacted is not considerable.

| | s. d. | | s. d. | | s. d. | | s. d. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ | to | 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 | to | 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto .. | 1 10 | — | 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 | — | 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ | — | 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 | — | 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 | — | 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 | — | 1 8 |
| | | | | Blanket ditto .. | .. | — | .. |

COAL MARKET.—July 29.

Davison's West Hartley, 15s. 9d.; Hastings Hartley, 15s. 9d.; Holywell Main, 16s. 3d.; North Pelton Gas, 13s. 3d.; West Hartley, 15s. 9d.; Eden Main, 16s.; Walls End Braddylls Hetton, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Hetton, 18s.; Walls End Russel's Hetton, 16s. 6d.; Walls End South Hetton, 17s. 9d.; Walls End Cassop, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Kelloe, 16s. 6d.; Walls End East Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 16s.; Walls End South Kelloe, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 19s. 6d.—44 ships at market.

COVENT GARDEN, Aug. 1.

Supplies of both fruit and vegetables are still unusually well kept up. Peaches and Nectarines are plentiful.

Greengages and other Plums are now included in foreign imports, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Foreign Pine Apples are also plentiful. Strawberries are every week getting scarcer. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good supply, and Oranges are also plentiful. Good Potatoes realise from 8s. to 11s. per cwt. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Violets, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 6s | Currants, p. ½ sieve, 3s to 3s 6d |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Gooseberries, do., 2s 6d to 3s |
| Strawberries, p. lb., 6d to 1s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Apples, per doz., 9d to 1s 6d | Oranges, per box, 30s to 40s |
| Figs, per doz., 5s to 6s | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Peaches, per doz., 8s to 15s | Nuts, small, per bush, 14s to 18s |
| Nectarines, do., 6s to 10s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Melons, each, 2s to 4s | Walnuts, do., 7s 6d |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | French Beans, per 100, 2s |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 90s to 99s | Shallots (new), p. bunch, 6d |
| „ Flukes, do., 100s to 120s | Garlic (new), per bunch, 6d |
| „ Rocks, do., 60s to 80s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| „ Cups, do., 75s to 85s | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | |

HOPS.—Borough Market, Friday, July 31.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report the accounts from the plantations less favourable, and a better demand for the few news Hops on hand at fully late prices. The prospects in Bavaria, Alsace, and Bohemia will not be so good as last year, but in Baden, Poland, and Belgium an average crop is likely to be grown.

NEWGATE.—July 31.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Best Fresh Butter | .. .. | 13s. per dozen lbs. |
| Second do. do. | .. .. | 11s. „ |

Pork, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

Monday, July 27.

We have a large supply of Beasts, and a dull trade. Prices on the average are about the same as on Thursday last, but a clearance cannot be effected. The number of Sheep and Lambs is not quite so large, yet quite equal to the demand. Trade is very slow, at barely Thursday's quotations. There is scarcely any alteration in the Calf trade. From Germany and Holland there are 1750 Beasts, 7620 Sheep, and 319 Calves; from Scotland, 60 Beasts; from Ireland, 170; from France, 18 Calves; from Norfolk and Suffolk, 50 Beasts; and 2800 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | .. 4 8 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools | .. — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn | .. 4 4 — 4 8 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 3 8 | Ewes & 2d quality | .. — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | .. .. — .. | Do. Shorn | .. 4 0 — 4 4 |
| | | Lambs | .. 5 0 — 6 0 |
| | | Calves | .. 3 4 — 5 0 |
| Do. Shorn | .. 5 0 — 5 2 | Pigs | .. 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 5130; Sheep & Lambs, 28,760; Calves, 381; Pigs, 360.

Thursday, July 30.

The number of Beasts is not quite so large as on Thursday last, yet it is considerable. Trade is very slow, prices for the choicest qualities are about the same as of late, but inferior kinds are lower. Sheep and Lambs are rather more plentiful; the demand is very limited; on the average prices are lower, and several remain unsold. Calves are lower. From Germany and Holland there are 353 Beasts, 2860 Sheep, and 623 Calves; and from Spain, 184 Beasts. Milch Cows, 50.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | .. 4 8 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools | .. — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn | .. 4 4 — 4 6 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 3 6 | Ewes & 2d quality | .. — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | .. .. — .. | Do. Shorn | .. 3 10 — 4 2 |
| | | Lambs | .. 5 0 — 6 0 |
| | | Calves | .. 3 0 — 4 8 |
| Do. Shorn | .. 4 10 — 5 0 | Pigs | .. 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 1290; Sheep & Lambs, 12,520; Calves, 765; Pigs, 130.

MARK LANE.—Monday, July 27.

The supply of English Wheat to this morning's market was larger than of late, and to effect sales it was necessary to submit to a decline of 1s. per qr.; for foreign there was a moderate demand at the prices of this day se'nnight. Barley, Beans, and Peas brought fully late rates. Good sweet heavy Oats were the turn dearer, but inferior sorts neglected. For Flour there was but little inquiry.

| Per Imperial Quarter. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 46—56 | Red ..... | 42—50 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 47—54 | Red .... | 42—52 |
| — — Talavera .............. | 48—60 | | |
| — Norfolk .................. | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign .................. | 35—62 | | |
| Barley, grind. & dist., 25s to 29s .. Chev. | 34—38 | Malting .. | 31—34 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| Oats, Essex and Suffolk .......... | 21—24 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—26 | Feed .... | 21—23 |
| — Irish ............ Potato | — | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 18—22 | Feed .... | 17—22 |
| Rye .......................... | 35—37 | Foreign .. | — |
| Rye-meal, Foreign .............. | — | | |
| Beans, Mazagan .... 32s to 33s ... Tick | 32—34 | Harrow .. | 32—34 |
| — Pigeon .... 36s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign .............. Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 32—34 |
| Peas, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 35—37 | Suffolk .. | 37—40 |
| — Maple .... 42s to 43s .... Grey | 36—37 | Foreign .. | 30—38 |
| Maize ...................... White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| Flour, best marks delivered .. per sack | 42— | | |
| — 2d do .................. ditto | 32—47 | Country .. | 32—47 |
| — Foreign ............ per barrel | 20—28 | Per sack | 34—48 |

Friday, July 31.

Last Saturday we had some rain, and with this exception the weather during the past week has been fine, forcing our grain crops to maturity; many of our farmers are now busy cutting, and with a continuance of fine weather harvest will be general in the home counties next week. Under the influence of the weather the firmness reported last week in the Wheat trade has disappeared; prices generally are again pointing downwards throughout the country, excepting only some of the Scotch markets, which report a slight improvement in the value of Wheat. The stocks of fine class foreign Wheat are small, and needy buyers continue to pay full prices. Feeding Barley meets some inquiry; all other sorts of spring corn remain neglected at about late rates. Good sweet Flour is scarce, and sells readily at full prices; common sorts and sour are very dull. Since Friday last 114 vessels have been reported off the coast. A fair business has been done in floating cargoes this week; former prices were nearly maintained for Wheat, and a good part of the very numerous arrivals of Maize has been placed at a very small reduction. In Paris (July 30), business in Wheat and Flour was very quiet. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 7550 cwts.; the six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 37s. 3d. per 280 lbs. Old Wheat is entirely neglected; new samples bring prices equal to 48s. to 50s. 6d. per 480 lbs. The arrivals of English and Foreign Grain since Monday have been small. This morning's market was thinly attended, and the business done in Wheat, either English or foreign, was in retail at Monday's quotations. In the value of spring corn there is no alteration.

Arrivals this Week.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 780 qrs. | — qrs. | 20 qrs. | 720 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 370 | — „ |
| Foreign .. | 5120 „ | 2260 | 25,330 .. | { 130 „ 2280 brls |

Liverpool, July 28.—We have not had a large attendance at market to-day, and Wheat has met only a slow retail demand, at barely the quotations of Friday last. Flour is more difficult to sell, although nominally unchanged in value; good parcels are scarce. Indian Corn has given way 3d. per qr., and finds few buyers. Oats and Oatmeal have undergone no alteration. Egyptian Beans from scarcity are fully 3d. per quarter dearer. Peas and Barley steady. The market closes without animation.

Friday, July 31.—Wheat, in the absence of important sales, is without quotable change in value. Flour: Good fresh parcels maintain late rates; all other sorts neglected. Indian Corn very quiet and rather easier; mixed, 26s. 9d. to 27s. Egyptian Beans steady; Saidi, 36s. 6d. on the spot, 30s. to arrive. Oats and Oatmeal very dull. Egyptian Wheat steady.

| Averages | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| June 20 | 46s 9d | 30s 7d | 23s 0d | 32s 3d | 40s 4d | 37s 10d |
| — 27 | 46 5 | 31 2 | 22 10 | 35 9 | 39 8 | 36 2 |
| July 4 | 46 11 | 30 9 | 23 11 | 32 2 | 39 6 | 38 0 |
| — 11 | 46 10 | 30 10 | 23 6 | 34 5 | 40 2 | 39 0 |
| — 18 | 46 7 | 28 10 | 22 6 | 32 9 | 40 0 | 37 1 |
| — 25 | 45 11 | 29 10 | 22 9 | 32 8 | 39 3 | 35 11 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 7 | 30 4 | 23 1 | 33 6 | 39 10 | 37 4 |

Fluctuations in the Last Six Weeks' Averages.

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

Smithfield, Thursday, July 30.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 70s to | 80s | Clover, old .. .. | 100s to | 120s |
| Superior do. .. | 80 | 90 | New Clover .. | — | — |
| Inferior do. .. | 54 | 70 | Do. second cut .. | 95 | 115 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 70 | 84 | Straw .. .. .. | 26 | 34 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | — | — | | | |

Harvey & Easton.

Cumberland Market, Thursday, July 30.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay .. | 92s to | 100s | Inferior Clover .. | 90s to | 100s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 70 | 84 | New do. .. .. | 80 | 105 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 72 | 88 | Straw .. .. | 36 | 42 |
| Superior Clover .. | 108 | 120 | | | |

Joshua Baker.

Whitechapel, Thursday, July 30.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 90s | Prime Clover .. | 115s to | 126s |
| Inferior do... .. | 70 | 84 | Inferior do... .. | 100 | 110 |
| Prime New Hay .. | 78 | 84 | New do. .. .. | 90 | 105 |
| Inferior .. .. .. | 60 | 70 | Inferior do. .. | 80 | 90 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 32 | Prime 2d cut .. | 100 | 110 |

WANTED, as HEAD WORKING GARDENER, age from 30 to 40, an active industrious married Man (no children), who thoroughly understands his profession. Wife a good Laundress (the family is small). House and garden provided. Wages 25s. per week. Persons who attend the Established Church preferred. Unexceptionable references required.—Address A. Laverton, Westbury, Wilts.

WANTED, as HEAD GARDENER, and more especially as BAILIFF, a thoroughly experienced and competent person, with undoubted character for integrity and skill. He would have the Management of 170 Acres of fine Meadow Land, a few miles from London. Must have practical experience in Milch Cows for the London Trade, general Stock and Haymaking. His Wife to Manage Dairy and Poultry.—Address, stating all particulars as to former service, age, salary expected, &c., to A. B., care of Mr. Batt, Tailor, Edwards Street, Portman Square, W.

WANTED, a GARDENER, in a small establishment, 20 miles from London, a single, respectable Young Man, to board and lodge in the family. He must understand Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Growth of Bedding Plants, and the Management of small Greenhouse. No Forcing. Two Cows and Pigs to be looked after, and general Out-door work. Assistance given.—Address M. C., Post Office, Godstone, Surrey.

To Engine Drivers.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, TWO steady MEN to Drive and Attend to TRACTION-ENGINES used for Steam Cultivation. Wages 1l. per week.—Apply by letter or personally to Mr. Joseph Nicholls, Drainage Engineer and Contractor, Queen-Camel, Ilchester, Somersetshire.

J. T. HODSON, Edgbaston Nursery, near Birmingham, is in want of a good IN-DOOR PROPAGATOR and Grower of Plants in general. Also a YOUTH to assist in the Houses.—Address as above, stating age and wages.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. Henderson & Son, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (Head, or Single-handed).—Age 27, single; thoroughly understands his profession in every branch; Hothouse, Greenhouse, Stove, and other Plants, with Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens. Can be well recommended from the gentleman he has just left.—F. C., Pymmes Park, Edmonton, Middlesex.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 35; his employer wishes to recommend a good Gardener; can take care of Land.—E. G., Post Office, Stockwell Green, S.

GARDENER (Head).—Married, no incumbrance; has a thorough practical knowledge of his profession. Good references.—W. T., R. Bowie's, Clapham Rise Nursery, Clapham, S.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 34, married, no incumbrance; has a thorough practical knowledge of his profession. Good references.—W., R. Bowie's, Clapham Rise Nursery, Clapham, S.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 28, married; understands the Management of Pines, Vines, Melons, Cucumbers, &c. Three and a half years' good character.—A. B. C., 117, Manor Street, Clapham, Surrey, S.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 28, married; well experienced in Early and Late Forcing, Plant Growing, and Flower and Kitchen Gardening. Satisfactory references can be given.—Y. Z., The Gardens, Berkeley Castle, Gloucester.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 33, married, no incumbrance; understands his profession in all its branches. Three years' good character.—L., 10, Charlotte Terrace, Lyham Road, Clapham Park, S.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30, single; has a thorough knowledge of his profession in all its various branches. No small place accepted.—J. R. J., Messrs. E. G. Henderson & Son, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, N.W.

GARDENER (Head).—Messrs. S. Glendinning & Sons can with confidence recommend a respectable Man, age 32, who has a thorough practical knowledge of his profession.—Chiswick Nursery, W.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30; thoroughly understands the Growing of Pines, Vines, Peaches, Melons, &c.; the Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Stove and Greenhouse Plants. Three years' good character from his last place.—A. B., The Gardens, Bishopstoke, near Winchester.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 34, married; thoroughly understands his profession in every branch. Early and Late Forcing; can take charge of Land and Stock if required. Eleven years' character.—C., Francis F. Powell, Esq., Walthamstow, Essex.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 33, married, one child; the Advertiser is thoroughly acquainted with the various departments of Fruit, Vegetable, and Flower Culture. Seven years in his last situation. Unexceptionable references can be given.—J. W. C., — Bingham's, 84, Mount Street, Grosvenor Square, W.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, sober and active; thoroughly understands the Early Forcing of Grapes, Cucumbers, Melons, &c., and is a good Flower and Kitchen Gardener. Four years' unexceptionable character from the gentleman he has just left.—A. B., Post Office, Forest Hill, S.E.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (Head).—Middle-aged, no incumbrance; thoroughly practical. Can produce first-class testimonials from the gentleman he has just left.—Messrs. Downie, Laird, & Laing, Stanstead Park Nursery, Forest Hill, London, S.E.

GARDENER (Head, Single-handed, or otherwise).—Age 32, married; good character for ability, industry, sobriety, &c.—Head Gardener, Upper Sheen House, East Sheen, Surrey, S.W.

GARDENER.—Age 39; understands Forcing, and Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Wife as Chief Servant if required.—J. Bryant, 2, Kingsley Road, Maidstone, Kent.

GARDENER.—Married, one child 13 months old; Wife to take charge of Poultry, Dairy, or Laundry.—Robert Eacott, Englefield Green, Staines.

GARDENER.—A thoroughly practical Man is open to an engagement; he is well up in all the routine of the profession, &c.—T. T., 5, Bywater Street, King's Road Chelsea.

GARDENER.—Age 23, single; is well experienced in Forcing, Plant Growing, Kitchen and Flower Gardening. Good character and references.—F. B., 14, Ormond Row, Smith Street, Chelsea, S.W.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. Davies, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. Lindley, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER (Single-handed).—Age 24, married; thoroughly understands Flower and Kitchen Gardening. No objection to a Cow. Two years and a quarter good character.—T. B., Post Office, Dulwich, S.

GARDENER (Under) in a nobleman's or gentleman's Garden.—Single; has some knowledge of the profession.—B. L., Post Office, Harlow, Essex.

GARDENER and BAILIFF (Head).—Age 37, married; thoroughly understands the Management of Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Orchard Houses, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Kitchen and Flower Gardens; also the Management of Land and Stock, Keeping Accounts, &c. Wife can Manage the Dairy. Eight years' good character.—W. B., East End House, Parson's Green, Fulham, S.W.

GARDENER or GARDENER and GROOM.—Age 26; understands the Growing Cucumbers, Melons, Greenhouse Plants; also Flower and Kitchen Gardening. Two and a half years' good character.—H. H., Mr Green's, Heath End, Farnham, Surrey.

PROPAGATOR, or PROPAGATOR and FOREMAN.—Age 28, married; has had practical experience from boyhood, both in London and provincial Nurseries, in the Propagation of Hardy and Tender Plants, Roses, Rhododendrons, &c.—C., Mr. Carter, Nursery, Keighley, Yorkshire.

To Nurserymen and Florists.

PROPAGATOR, or PROPAGATOR and FOREMAN.—Age 22; thoroughly understands the Management of Stove, Greenhouse, and Soft-wooded Plants. Has been employed in some of the best London and provincial nurseries.—A. A. A., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

BAILIFF and GARDENER or GENERAL MANAGER on an Estate.—No incumbrance; 20 years service in the Northern and Midland Counties of England with noblemen and gentlemen. References on application.—Samuel Brown, Wheldrake, Yorkshire.

FARM BAILIFF, by a Norfolk Man.—Married, one child; well understands Breeding and Rearing of Stock. Has lived in Hampshire. Good references.—B. R., 21, Duke Street, Chelsea, S.W.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1863.

THE MUSEUM of PRACTICAL GEOLOGY, Jermyn Street, will be CLOSED from the 10th August until the 10th September.

LOANS.—THE BRITISH MUTUAL INVESTMENT, LOAN, and DISCOUNT COMPANY (Limited), is prepared to GRANT LOANS, in sums not exceeding 1000*l.*, upon approved personal or other security, repayable by easy instalments, extending over any period not exceeding 10 years.

Forms of Proposal, Prospectuses, and every other information, may be obtained at the Offices of the Company, 17 and 18, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.

Charles James Thicke, Manager.
Joseph K. Jackson, Secretary.

Universal Microscope. Price £5 5s.

SMITH, BECK, and BECK, 31, Cornhill, E.C.; late 6, Coleman Street.
 Catalogues sent on receipt of 6 postage stamps.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.
CHUBB'S FIRE PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS. CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.
Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.
Chubb & Son, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

CHANDELIERS in Bronze and Ormolu for DINING ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Vases and other Ornaments.
Osler, 45, Oxford Street, London, W.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS. Wall Lights and Lustres for Gas and Candles, Table Glass, &c.
Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from 7*l.* 15*s.*
Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from 2*l.*
All articles marked in plain figures.
Ornamental Glass, English and Foreign, suitable for Presents.
Mess, Export, and Furnishing Orders promptly executed.
London—Show Rooms, 45, Oxford Street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Show Rooms, Broad Street.
Established 1807.

LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF.—The foundation for all Mattress Bedding should be elastic, and the usual Spring Mattress is too heavy and cumbersome for general use. Heal & Son's new Patent LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF is made in three separate parts, and is therefore light and portable; it is also cheap and durable; and as it has no stuffing on the top, it cannot harbour moth.

HEAL and SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Designs and Prices of 100 Bedsteads, as well as of 150 different articles of Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.
Heal & Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham Court Road, W.

CAPTAIN WHITE'S ORIENTAL PICKLE, CURRY or MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, Curry Powder, and Curry Sauce, may be obtained from all Sauce Vendors, and Wholesale of Crosse & Blackwell, Purveyors to the Queen, Soho Square, London, W.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.—This delicious Condiment, pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE,"
Is prepared solely by Lea & Perrins.
The public are respectfully cautioned against worthless imitations, and should see that Lea & Perrins' Names are on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.
Ask for Lea and Perrins' Sauce.
 Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. Crosse & Blackwell; Messrs. Barclay & Sons, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

Glenfield Patent Starch.

MESSRS. WOTHERSPOON and CO. have been appointed STARCH PURVEYORS to H. R. H. the PRINCESS of WALES. This Starch is used in the Royal Laundry and was awarded a Prize Medal. Sold by all Grocers, Chandlers, &c.
Wotherspoon & Co., Glasgow and London.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS. —Prize Medal awarded to Thresher & Glenny for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.
Lists of Prices on application to Thresher & Glenny, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

It was announced in Paris on Monday that the French Government had proposed to Austria and England that the three Powers should present a joint note to Russia in reply to Prince Gortschakoff's despatch on the affairs of Poland. It has since been announced that her Majesty's Government at the Cabinet Council held on Friday, declined this proposition, and resolved to send, as before, a separate note. The French papers state that this decision does not imply an abandonment of the understanding between the three Powers, but only leaves to the negotiations the character of separate action, which they have hitherto maintained. The British Government it is said, is not only opposed to any step which may lead to a war in favour of Poland, but considers that common action would entail the necessity of an ultimatum, with the possibility of a rupture in the event of a refusal, while recent events have shown a more conciliatory disposition on the part of Russia, a proof of which is to be found in the fact that Prince Gortschakoff has addressed another despatch to the Ambassador in Paris with the view of removing the unfavourable impression produced by his previous answer to the French Government. Meanwhile the official journals of St. Petersburg repudiate all idea of foreign intervention, and intimate that Russia is making extraordinary preparations to resist any attacks from the naval forces of the Allies. At the same time the National Government at Warsaw has issued proclamations declaring that nothing short of independence will satisfy the Poles, and calling upon the nations of Europe to recognise a living Poland, and to proclaim that Russia has no right to rule over her.

The Emperor of Austria has addressed an autograph letter to all the Sovereigns of the German Confederation, and the Senates of the Free Cities, inviting their personal attendance at an assembly to be held at Frankfort on the 16th inst, for the purpose of discussing the question of a reorganisation of the German Confederation suitable to the requirements of the age. It is said that the Emperor will himself take the initiative in proposing the necessary reforms.

A despatch from Bombay of the 9th June announces the capture of Nana Sahib in the Temple of Ajmere by Captain Brodigan of the 28th Infantry. There was no doubt of his identity, and the papers found upon him disclosed the plans of an extensive conspiracy, and of his having large sums of money at his command. It is also said that Tantia Topee, who was supposed to have been executed four years ago, is still alive, and at the head of 5000 Bengal Sepoys at Saloomba. Nana Sahib will be forwarded to Calcutta or Cawnpore for trial, under a strong escort of Europeans. A telegram from Lahore announces that Dost Mahomed had taken Herat by storm, assisted by treachery within and stratagem without. It is said, however, that the Dost died soon after the capture of the fortress.

Accounts from Japan to the 27th of May state that hostilities had not then commenced, and it was understood that a further indulgence of 18 days had been granted to the Japanese authorities. Hopes were entertained that peace would be preserved, though the native preparations for war were proceeding vigorously at Nagasaki, and the Prince of Satsuma had concentrated in the neighbourhood an army of 60,000 men. In China the Anglo-Chinese contingent under Major Gordon had captured the city of Quin San, after defeating the Taepings with a loss of many thousand men.

The latest news from New York announces that General Meade has crossed the Potomac in pursuit of General Lee, who is said to have assumed so threatening a position on the Blue Ridge Mountains, that apprehensions are entertained of another invasion of Maryland. The siege of Charleston continues, and rumours of a Federal disaster in that harbour were current at Washington and New York. The loss to the Confederates from the fall of the Mississippi forts and the consequent release of the Federal armies for other operations becomes daily more apparent; but the Federal successes in the West are not so great as was at first reported. In spite of the rumour to the contrary General Bragg still holds Chattanooga, though his position there is now likely to be turned; and General Rosencranz has not crossed the Georgia Border. General Johnston's army is still intact, and General Morgan, who was described by the last advices as annihilated, is now reported to be marauding in Ohio at the head of 10,000 men. The Confederates have called out a levy en masse in the districts threatened with invasion. New York was quiet, though the President had rejected the appeal of the State Authorities for the abandonment of the conscription, and had ordered the draught to be carried out by military force. It is said, however, that official reports have reached Paris to the effect that the Government has since definitively renounced the conscription, on learning that it had been declared unconstitutional by the sentence of one of the judges of New York.

Home News.

The Court.—The Queen and Royal family leave Osborne on Monday next for Windsor. On Saturday the Prince and Princess of Wales left Osborne for London. The Duke of Newcastle arrived on a visit. On Sunday morning the Queen, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service at Whippingham Church. The Rev. G. Prothero officiated. In the afternoon Prince Alfred arrived at Osborne in the Racoon from his cruise round Scotland. On Monday morning the Queen and Royal family walked in the grounds. The Duke of Newcastle had an audience of the Queen, and left Osborne for London. The Queen drove out, accompanied by Princess Helena and Princess Beatrice. Princess Louisa rode on horseback. On Tuesday the Countess Gleichen had an interview with the Queen. In the afternoon the Queen drove out, accompanied by Princess Louisa. The Belgian Minister arrived on a visit. On Wednesday the Queen drove out with Princess Louisa and Prince Leopold. Princess Helena rode on horseback. The Princess Leiningen is convalescent, and the infant Princess in good health.

The Queen's Visit to Germany.—Arrangements have been made for the embarcation of her Majesty on Tuesday evening at the Royal Arsenal pier, Woolwich. The landing-place is to be carpeted and arranged simply as on the embarcation of any personage of distinction, it being her Majesty's desire, as on the last occasion, to dispense with all ceremonial.

The Prince and Princess of Wales arrived at Marlborough House on Saturday afternoon from Osborne. On Sunday morning their Royal Highnesses attended Divine service at the Chapel Royal, St. James's. The Duke of Cambridge visited the Prince and Princess at Marlborough House. In the afternoon their Royal Highnesses took a drive in an open carriage. On Monday morning the Princess drove out, and took a drive in an open carriage in the afternoon.

Visit of the Prince of Wales to Halifax.—The Prince and Princess of Wales were to have left London on Monday morning for Halifax and Leeds, on their way to Scotland. The Prince, however, was obliged to set out alone, as her Royal Highness was too unwell in her present interesting condition to undertake the journey. It appears that when the Prince and Princess returned from Osborne on Saturday the Princess complained of languor and fatigue, and retired early to rest. On Sunday morning her Royal Highness attended Divine service with the Prince in the Chapel Royal, and in the afternoon drove out in the park. On their return her Royal Highness expressed her belief that on account of returning indisposition she should be unable to accompany the Prince to Halifax. His Royal Highness at once expressed his intention to intimate to the authorities of Halifax his wish to postpone the ceremony of opening the Town Hall for a few days, believing that the presence of the Princess would be the great attraction of the Royal visit. The Princess at once expressed a hope that the Prince would proceed to Halifax alone, and to that course his Royal Highness, after much persuasion, assented. The Prince accordingly left London on Monday morning by the ordinary train, and arrived at Halifax a few minutes after 3. The absence of the Princess in London was an immense disappointment to the people of Yorkshire, who had flocked into Halifax from the three Ridings to see her. The Prince was received with the usual honours by the Mayor and Corporation, and was conducted to Manor Heath, the residence of the Mayor, Mr. John Crossley. His Royal Highness subsequently visited Dean Clough Mills and the carpet factory of Messrs. Crossley & Son. In the evening the Prince dined at Manor Heath, and during the evening was serenaded by the Halifax Choral Union. In the evening the town was illuminated. On Tuesday the heavy rain thinned the crowds in the streets, and was exceedingly unpropitious for the ceremonials of the day. The Prince however went to Piece Hall, where the Sunday school children sang the National Anthem, and presented an address. His Royal Highness afterwards visited the beautiful Gothic church erected on Haley Hill, by Mr. Edward Ackroyd, from the designs of Mr. Gilbert Scott, and then drove to the new Town Hall, designed by Sir Charles Barry, the opening of which was one of the chief objects of his visit. The Hall itself was crowded with the county gentry, and on the Prince's arrival the National Anthem was sung, a prayer offered up by the Bishop of Ripon, and an address read by the Town Clerk. To this the Prince replied briefly, thanking the municipality for the reception which had been accorded him, congratulating them on the completion of their fine Town Hall, and expressing the warm interest which he would ever feel in the commercial prosperity of the great town of Halifax. This formal ceremony over, the Prince, accompanied by his suite, and followed by the Mayor, went out on the balcony in front of the Town Hall, and in a loud, clear, ringing voice proclaimed the Hall opened, amid the most tremendous cheers from the crowd beneath. After partaking of a déjeûner, his Royal Highness proceeded at once to the station, and left Halifax by the 3.10 train. From Halifax, along the whole route to Leeds, both sides of the line, when it did not pass through tunnels, were crowded with country people, who had been waiting for hours on the mere chance of catching a glimpse as the train flew by. At Leeds there was an immense assemblage, and here the Prince alighted, and for a moment occupied a chair of State, while an address was presented. Another short stay was made at Peterborough, to allow the Prince to partake of refreshments, and the train then proceeded direct to London, where it arrived at half-past 9 P.M. On arriving at King's Cross the Prince entered his carriage, and drove to Marlborough House.

DEPARTURE OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS FOR SCOTLAND.—On Wednesday morning the Prince and Princess of Wales took their departure, by special train, from King's Cross Station, for the North of England and Scotland. The Princess looked in good health and spirits, and her appearance effectually dissipated the alarm felt at the report of her indisposition on Monday, but in consideration of her health, some modifications were made in the journey. The royal train, which left King's Cross at 10.30, arrived at Ripon at 3.45. The Prince and Princess were there received by Earl and Countess De Grey, the Bishop of Ripon, and a few of the local nobility and gentry. On their appearing on the platform, they were greeted by the people with tremendous cheers, while the band of the Yeomanry Hussars played the National Anthem. The Royal party proceeded direct to Studley Royal, the seat of Earl De Grey, where they met a select party at dinner, after which there was a carpet dance, everything being conducted in the most private manner. On Thursday the Prince and Princess visited the ruins of Fountains Abbey. In the afternoon their Royal Highnesses, after planting two young Wellingtonias in the park, took their departure for Edinburgh. The Royal train was met at Darlington by the mayor and corporation, who presented an address, and the volunteers saluted. At Newcastle the mayor also presented an address, and at Berwick the mayor received their Royal Highnesses, and the battery of the port fired a Royal salute. The Prince and Princess arrived at the Waverley Bridge station, Edinburgh, at 20 minutes before 8, and were received by the Lord Provost, magistrates, staff officers, and others, with the band and a guard of honour of the 92d Regiment. They drove rapidly in a carriage and pair through densely crowded streets to Douglas's Hotel, in St. Andrew Square, where they passed the night. The way was lined with military. The Prince and Princess met with a cordial reception, and appeared at the window of the Hotel in answer to the calls of a vast assemblage in the square. Yesterday morning the Prince and Princess were expected to visit Holyrood Palace. Instead of remaining in Edinburgh till this morning, as originally arranged, their Royal Highnesses, on account of the Princess's health, intended to leave the city yesterday afternoon, and proceed by easy stages to the North. It was their intention to pass last night in Perth, and to resume their journey this morning to Aberdeen and Aboyne, where the train is expected to arrive at a quarter before six. At that place the railway journey ends, but a drive of about two hours will enable their Royal Highnesses to reach Abergeldie shortly before eight o'clock.

PRINCE ALFRED arrived at Portsmouth on Wednesday in her Majesty's yacht Fairy, wearing his full uniform as a lieutenant, expressly to attend the funeral of a seaman-gunner of the Racoon, named William Keyer, who was killed by falling from the foretop on the 31st ult. On his return from the funeral the Prince immediately re-embarked, and returned to Osborne. During his stay in the harbour the Prince went on board the Enchantress, and paid his respects to the Lords of the Admiralty.

PRINCE ARTHUR arrived at Chester on Wednesday by train from Holyhead, visiting Penrhyn Castle on his way. His Royal Highness passed the night at the Railway Hotel, and left on Thursday for Shrewsbury.

THE PEERAGE.—The Gazette of last evening announces that Colonel White, of Woodlands, has been raised to the peerage of the United Kingdom, as Baron Annaly of Rathcline, in the county of Longford. It also contains the announcement of Mr. Monckton Milnes's elevation to the peerage of the United Kingdom by the title of Baron Houghton, of Great Houghton, in the West Riding of Yorkshire.

PARLIAMENTARY MOVEMENTS.—Major Waterhouse, the Conservative candidate, was returned for Pontefract on Monday without opposition, in the room of Mr. Monckton Milnes, Sir E. W. Head, the Ministerial candidate, having declined to go to the poll. Sir Colman O'Loghlen was elected for the county Clare on Monday without opposition. It is said that the Montgomeryshire boroughs will be contested by the Hon. Hanbury Tracy, a relative of Lord Sudeley, in the Liberal interest, and by Mr. C. V. Pugh or the Hon. Mr. Herbert, a brother of Earl Powis, in the Conservative interest.

THE ARMY.—The colonelcy of the 29th Regiment, vacant by the death of Lord Downes, has been conferred on General Sir James Simpson; and the colonelcy of the 87th Regiment, vacated by this promotion, has been conferred upon Major-General Lord W. Paulet, commanding the south-west district.

THE INDIAN ARMY.—It is announced that her Majesty has been recommended to grant a free pardon to Paymaster Smales, and that he is likely to be appointed to a regiment as soon as an opportunity offers.

THE NAVY.—In consequence of the Brazilian difficulty, the Lords of the Admiralty have issued a very stringent circular, enjoining officers to appear always in uniform, even when going into private society, in the neighbourhood of the port at which their ship is anchored.

THE CHANNEL FLEET, after a week's stay in Leith Roads, weighed anchor on Wednesday afternoon, and under canvas, with partial assistance from steam, sailed down the Firth of Forth and proceeded to Cromarty Firth. After sailing round the North of Scotland, it will then visit the Clyde and the Mersey. During their stay in Leith, the ships, particularly the great ironclads, Black Prince and Warrior, were visited by immense numbers; the crowds at Leith and Granton Piers being so great that many thousands failed to get out to the roadstead. On Tuesday evening the Lord Provost, magistrates, and council of Edinburgh entertained the officers of the fleet, to the number of 200, at dinner in the Music Hall.

THE BISHOPRIC OF GIBRALTAR.—Serious difficulties have arisen with regard to the appointment of the Right Rev. Dr. Trower to the bishopric of Gibraltar, and an opinion adverse to his nomination has been obtained from Sir Hugh Cairns, Q.C., by a considerable body of churchmen, who are opposed to Bishop Trower's theological views. Dr. Trower was nominated to the vacant bishopric two months since, but no Gazette announcement of it has yet appeared. Sir Hugh Cairns and Mr. A. J. Stephen had submitted to them a question whether, having regard to the law as to the consecration of bishops and to the patent creating the see of Gibraltar, the consecration of Dr. Trower by the bishops of the Scottish Episcopal Church made without the permission or mandate of the Crown, will be sufficient to constitute him a bishop lawfully competent to discharge the spiritual functions of a colonial bishop of the United Church of England and Ireland. The following opinion has been returned by the two gentlemen:—"We are of opinion that, under the letters patent creating the Bishop of Gibraltar, as under all letters patent which the Crown has been in the habit of issuing for the erection of colonial sees, the persons appointed by the Crown must be also canonically ordained and consecrated thereto by the Archbishop of Canterbury, according to the form and usage of the United Church of England and Ireland; and that, inasmuch as Dr. Trower, being already a bishop of the Scottish Episcopal Church, cannot comply with those conditions, he would not, if appointed to the office of Bishop of Gibraltar, be competent to discharge the spiritual functions of a bishop of the United Church of England and Ireland in that see." The Duke of Newcastle, who, as Colonial Secretary, has the nomination to the bishopric of Gibraltar, has forwarded this opinion to the law officers of the Crown, and it is at present under their consideration.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—The Emperor returned on Wednesday evening to St. Cloud, and presided at a Council of Ministers on Thursday morning. Rumours were previously current that the greater part of the Ministry had formed a coalition against M. Drouyn de Lhuys, and that M. Fould, who was said to be at the head of the cabal, thought M. Drouyn de Lhuys was leading the policy of France in a direction which must conduct to war. It is supposed that this question was raised in the Council on Thursday, which lasted two hours. The Patrie of Tuesday stated that objections had been raised by England to the principle of an identical note to Russia, and said:—

"The difference is of a very serious character, and, by causing the miscarriage of the negotiations which have been pending for the last fortnight, may open the door to fresh combinations, and, according to certain rumours, give rise to modifications in the very heart of the French Cabinet."

The same paper of Thursday persists in maintaining the necessity for an European intervention, and says:—

"We are convinced that Austria herself, when in danger, will call for succour from France; but will it again happen that Europe shall shamefully allow a state of things to be created from which it can only escape by terrible sacrifices?"

La France says it is confirmed that England has renounced the despatch of an identical Note to Russia, and adds:—

"This resolution was taken after a sitting of the Cabinet Council. It does not imply an abandonment of the understanding between the Three Powers, but only leaves to the negotiations the character of separate action which they have up to the present retained. England is most interested in the solution of the Polish question, but she hesitates now that it becomes a question of taking a decisive step in the path of the common action pursued by the Powers. To England attaches the responsibility of the definitive solution which will be given to this affair. If she confines herself to the limits of diplomatic action it is not we who can complain. It will be well established that France has failed in none of her duties, and has displayed in the negotiations the firmness which could best assure their success, and was to be expected from a Sovereign whose greatness disdains arrogance and knows not weakness."

In another article on the "Negotiations," on Thursday, La France says:—

"England has considered it preferable that separate Notes should be despatched to Russia. The motives of this determination are said to be—1. An intention not to enter into common action, which would entail the necessity of an ultimatum, with the possibility of a rupture of the negotiations in the event of a refusal by Russia. 2. The repugnance of the English Cabinet to any step which might lead to a war in favour of Poland. 3. The hope entertained by England of a more conciliatory disposition on the part of Russia."

The same paper publishes an article headed "No Humiliating Peace," in which it recalls the policy of Louis Philippe which necessitated the wars of 1854 and 1859, and says that the only durable peace is one satisfying right, equity, and dignity. The article concludes by quoting the words of the Emperor Napoleon—"For Europe to be tranquil France must be satisfied." The Pays of Thursday evening says:—

"The replies of the Three Powers will be identical in their conclusion, and will maintain all the moral force of an understanding between the Powers."

The Nation of Thursday remarks that the logic of the situation is as follows:—

"France, not being able to rely on her two allies, must address Russia directly, in order to obtain, by relations with that Power, a credit and a force which association with England and Austria has not imparted. Poland, which has failed to embroil Russia and France, will reunite them in an intimate alliance. This alliance will consummate the humiliation of England, and perhaps draw down chastisement upon Austria."

The Constitutionnel says:—

"The despatch of separate Notes to Russia in no way affects the union of idea, object, and action on the part of the Three Powers, which is more complete now than ever."

SPAIN.—The resignation of the Minister of Finance has been accepted. He will be replaced by the Minister of Public Works, whose post will be filled by Señor Alonso Martinez. Señor Pernmayavia has been nominated Colonial Minister.

PORTUGAL.—The Royal family continues at Mafra. The state of the Queen's health is very satisfactory. The Duke de Penthièvre, son of the Prince de Joinville, who has been staying on a visit to the King, leaves shortly for New York, in the American frigate Macedonian. It is said that the King intends to open the Agricultural Exhibition at Braga. There is every probability that the Ministers will not renew the present tobacco contract, and that the commerce in that article will be thrown open. The Government has purchased on account of the Crown 500 contos of reis in the Portuguese Funds with the proceeds of the diamonds recently sold to the agent of a French house. The keels of two new corvettes, to be named the Duke of Palmella and the Duke de Terceira, have been laid at the Royal Arsenal. The vine disease continues to be developed.

BELGIUM.—Mr. W. Cornell Jewett, of Colorado territory, United States, had an interview on Monday with M. Rogier, Minister of State, and on Thursday had an audience of the King of the Belgians on the policy of mediation. Mr. Jewett in this audience asked the King to exercise his influence with the Queen of England in favour of the British Government uniting with France in urging the North to agree to an armistice. The King has permitted the publication of the substance of the interview. His Majesty believes that the decision of a just tribunal offers the only means for the restoration of peace. The abolition of slavery, if stipulated for at all, should be gradual. America and Europe should together make provision for the slave. Mediation is not interference. The other Governments should not be unwilling to join France in working in the interest of peace, now that the South favours such a policy. Humanity and the interest of the world in a general peace invite friendly action. Force cannot secure the welfare of America. An international judgment would cement firmer the foundations of American liberty. In conclusion the King promised to submit the matter to the Queen and Cabinet of Great Britain.

DENMARK AND SWEDEN.—The Fädrelandet considers an alliance between the Scandinavian Monarchies to be near at hand. The Swedish Minister for Foreign Affairs, in a Note addressed to the Courts of London and Paris, protests energetically against the intention of the German Federal Diet to exercise its influence upon the affairs of Schleswig by a Federal execution in Holstein. Prince Oscar, Crown Prince of Sweden, left on Saturday for Germany, after having paid a visit to the King of Denmark at the Royal Palace at Skodsborg.

THE DANISH DUCHIES.—A royal rescript addressed to the members of the Schleswig Diet says that the Government has decided not to sanction the request of the Diet for an alteration of the regulations as to the use of the Danish language in churches, for education, in courts of law, and for general business in the districts of Schleswig inhabited by a mixed population.

SAXE WEIMAR.—The Weimar paper called the Deutschland, warmly congratulates Austria upon being more than ever decided upon making common cause with the Western Powers, whether in the way of ulterior negotiations or for stronger measures. It strongly contrasts with the conduct of Austria the selfish and anti-national character of the policy of Prussia, who, instead of acting in concert with her German neighbours, gives moral aid to Russia by her equivocal bearing.

FRANKFORT.—It is officially announced that the Emperor of Austria, in an autograph letter, dated the 31st July, has invited all the Sovereigns of the Germanic Confederation and the Senates of the Free Cities to meet in an Assembly, at which all should personally attend, with the object of discussing the question of a re-organisation of the German Confederation suitable to the requirements of the age. The Emperor, who will personally take the initiative in introducing these reforms, has proposed that the meeting shall take place at Frankfort on the 16th inst.

Austria.—The Emperor of Austria reached Gastein on Sunday evening. His Imperial Majesty was immediately visited by the King of Prussia, accompanied by General von Manteuffel. The two Sovereigns had a short interview. The Emperor, accompanied by the Archduke Ludwig, returned the King's visit in the course of the evening. The Emperor was expected to return to Vienna on Tuesday. The Vienna Abend-Post of Tuesday evening asserts that no understanding has yet been arrived at by the Three Powers upon the form of the reply to Prince Gortschakoff's despatch.

Prussia.—Large bodies of Prussian troops are being concentrated on the Polish frontier. Two battalions of the 49th Regiment of infantry have been despatched thither from Starogard, and the whole of the Pomeranian regiment from Sierakow. It is positively asserted at Posen that in a few days all Prussian districts bordering on Poland will be declared in a state of siege, and that immediately after the Prussian troops will enter the kingdom of Poland. A document signed by the Prussian General von Werder, and addressed to Count Waldersee, the commander of the 5th Army Corps, in Posen, in reference to these arrangements, has been published, but the Berlin official papers deny its authenticity.

Russia.—Accounts from St. Petersburg to the 1st inst. state that the Emperor of Russia has issued a ukase declaring free landowners the 2,000,000 peasants who are tenants of the Crown domains and appanages. The Emperor has left St. Petersburg for Finland, accompanied by his two younger sons, the Minister of War, the Minister of Marine, the Minister for the Grand Duchy of Finland, and a numerous suite. Before leaving St. Petersburg the Czar again inspected the fortifications of Cronstadt, and reviewed the artillery of the Guard, by whom he was enthusiastically cheered. His Majesty examined their equipments with great care, appearing to pay especial attention to the performances of the rifled guns, and expressed himself highly satisfied with their accuracy and extent of range. The Invalide Russe, the official organ of the Government, declares that if the Western Powers persist in the policy of intervention in Poland, they will be responsible for leaving no other issue to the question than the arbitrament of war. At Moscow, where the old Russian party most prevails, the replies of Prince Gortschakoff to the notes of England, France, and Austria, have been received with intense satisfaction, and the public enthusiasm has found vent in a grand banquet, at which toasts were drunk to the Emperor and his chief Minister, and a despatch was sent to the latter, thanking him for the manner in which he had expressed the wishes and thoughts of the nation, and upheld the honour and dignity of the empire. The Journal de St. Pétersbourg of Thursday publishes the following despatch addressed by Prince Gortschakoff to M. de Budberg, replying to the views expressed by M. Drouyn de Lhuys relative to the Russian reply to the French Note. Prince Gortschakoff says:—

"M. Drouyn de Lhuys seems to conclude that the Russian reply implies a refusal of the six points under the appearance of adhesion. The Russian reply explained that the greater part of the measures indicated in the six points had been granted, but that, far from pacifying the Kingdom of Poland, they were the starting point of the insurrection. The agitators made reforms a pretext for raising the country. Having conceived the hope of complete independence by the aid of foreign intervention, they could not appear satisfied with the liberal institutions the bases of which were being carried out by the Government. If the Government did not repudiate bad faith and tortuous paths, it would perhaps have displayed some ability in categorically accepting the six points; but we wish to express our ideas loyally. The six points could not receive a practical solution until after order had been re-established. M. Drouyn de Lhuys sees an accusation against the French Government in the assertion of the existence of a permanent conspiracy in a foreign territory. Such an intention could not enter our mind. We are persuaded that the French Government regrets these intrigues; but it remains a fact that they exist in its despite, and from Paris, one of their principal foci, they feed the moral agitation in the kingdom of Poland, and furnish it with material resources. The movement in Poland proceeds from a turbulent minority, and points out that Russia has possessed Poland for half a century. The measures adopted depart but slightly from the bases recommended by the Three Powers, but have been impeded by the existence of exterior influence. The insurgents did not take up arms for liberal institutions, and have loudly declared that their exclusive object was the reconstitution of the limits of Poland in 1772. They have also put forth foreign intervention as the crowning of the enterprise. The language of the French and English press has not diminished these encouragements, and it is on this account we stated our conviction that foreign assistance was the principal cause of the persistence of the insurrection. We adhere to our observations concerning the suspension of hostilities. It is necessary that the rebels should lay down their arms or that the Government should abdicate all authority. It is impossible otherwise to understand the question of dignity and public order. The proposal of a preliminary conference of the Three Courts was suggested to us by the principle of the treaties of 1815, which is stated as the base of the diplomatic action of the Powers. The opinion expressed by M. Drouyn de Lhuys confirms our conviction that this question has led to difficulties because it has been ill-stated, and because the debates have made it a matter affecting the dignity of our Cabinet. Our proposal was inspired by the desire of conciliation, and we regret the opinion entertained by M. Drouyn de Lhuys. We are also painfully surprised at his impression of the general sense of our reply. Our despatch contained neither irony nor provocation; but a feeling of wounded dignity might have manifested itself in the expression of our ideas. In face of the insults lavished upon us, it was impossible for us to disregard the force of the energetic sentiment of our nation. The Government endeavours to calm and enlighten, and to repress the explosion of the public spirit, which had been deeply wounded. The duty of a Government and the task of diplomacy are to separate from the conduct of affairs those passionate impulses which complicate them, and may endanger peace. We are conscious of having neglected nothing in the work of conciliation, and in endeavouring to arrive at an understanding in conformity with the relations which have long united us to the Government of the Emperor Napoleon, we take pleasure in counting on the same disposition on his part. Our task would be difficult if France misunderstood the necessities imposed upon us by the sentiments of our nation, which cling to the traditions and vital interests of the country."

Poland.—The official journal of Wilna publishes a decree of General Mouravieff, ordering that all the Lithuanian insurgents who fall into the hands of the Russians, particularly the nobles and priests, shall be tried and shot within 24 hours. The insurgent leaders Stefanski, Zawistewski, Nowikki, and Heine were hung before the citadel of Warsaw on the 29th ult. Sixty-nine persons have been transported to Orenburg from Warsaw, and incorporated with the penal companies of the army. 200 persons were transported on the 20th ult. to the interior of Russia. The ill-treatment of the Polish prisoners confined in the citadel of Warsaw continues. Proudzynski has become insane from flogging. A proclamation has been issued by the National Government to the peoples and Governments of Europe declaring that the insurrection is that of the whole nation, and while admitting that experience proves they can only rely on their own arms for achieving independence, they confidently say that they will be satisfied with nothing short of that result, and call upon the nations of Europe to recognise a living Poland and to proclaim that Russia has no right to rule over her. In another proclamation the National Government encourages the Poles to continue as hitherto in the path upon which they have embarked, promises them a regular administration, a disciplined army, and that the Government will remain true to the programme of the 22d January. Another proclamation, which has been scattered about in the streets of Warsaw, runs thus:—

"Countrymen, brothers! Continue stedfast in the holy battle of honour for your altars and liberty. Take courage! Remember, a thousand avengers spring from one hero's corpse. In Paris, at this moment, are taking place secret conferences between Drouyn de Lhuys, Cowley, and Prince Metternich, which bode good to us in the speediest way. Marshal Canrobert is receiving, perhaps at this very moment, special orders. Six cavalry and as many infantry regiments have already received their equipment for active service, and will shortly assemble at Rouen. Courage, Poles! The French eagle is mindful of Poniatowski's warriors' death, and will fly to the aid of the white eagle."

Rumours have been current that an insurrection would break out at Warsaw on the 9th inst. The Town Captain, in consequence, has warned the people not to be led away to make demonstrations by the endeavours of Russian agents, and stating that the National Government will inform the inhabitants when the right time for insurrection shall have arrived. The insurgents commanded by Rallier defeated the Russians on the 22d and 24th ult. near Dobrzelin and Walewice. On the 25th, although surrounded by a superior force, they succeeded in retiring without provoking any engagement with the Russian troops. Engagements between the insurgents and the Russians also took place near Kozlowa and Ruda, in Lithuania, on the 22d, in which the former were victorious. The Polish leader Wisniewski has been totally defeated by the Russians near Stranuch. Wisniewski is reported to have been killed. Only about 40 of his detachment succeeded in escaping into the forests. Engagements between the insurgents and the Russians took place at Seyny, in the government of Augustowo, on the 25th ult., and at Radzymin, near Warsaw, on the 30th ult., in both of which the insurgents were victorious. The Polish leader Wierzbicki was attacked by an overwhelming force near Kaniawola on the 27th, but managed to retreat, with the loss of six men. Wierzbicki himself was slightly wounded. The insurgents have defeated an equal number of Russians at Zielun, in the palatinate of Plock. The Russians were driven back into the town of Zielun, and, after a fight in the streets, retreated, and were pursued for a mile. Seventy Russians were left dead in the town. The loss of the Poles was 40 killed. Many young persons were arrested in Cracow on the 3d inst. On the 5th one of the Civil Guards was surprised and attacked by several young men, who wounded him with knives, and otherwise ill-treated him. Several further arrests have taken place. The Chief of the Town of Lemberg, just appointed by the local Committee, has issued an address warning the inhabitants against disturbances, as provoked by enemies. The address is stamped like those of the Warsaw Committee.

Italy.—The Stampa of Thursday announces that Sir James Hudson has been recalled from Turin, and that Mr. Henry Elliott has been appointed British Minister in his stead. The Italian Parliament terminated its session on Saturday. In the Chamber of Deputies the Bill regulating taxation upon articles of consumption was passed by 146 to 54. The debate on the Bill for the repression of brigandage was postponed until November. The Official Gazette announces the arrival and friendly reception of Prince Amadeus at Stockholm. Colonel Sarragante, a Spaniard, commander of the band which recently made an incursion into the Neapolitan provinces from Sora, has been arrested by the French. His band has been dispersed. Important documents were found upon him.

The Caucasus.—Accounts from the Levant announce the discovery in the Caucasus of a conspiracy against Russia, having extensive ramifications.

India.—Telegraphic despatches from Bombay of the 9th June announce that Nana Sahib has been captured in the Temple of Ajmere by Captain Brodigan, of the 28th Infantry, on information supplied by the Bombay police. According to the official report of Major Davidson, the political agent at Ajmere, no doubt whatever exists of the prisoner's identity. He was tracked to that place by two Bombay detectives, acting under the instructions of Mr. Forjett, acting commissioner of police at Bombay. The detectives traced a companion of the Nana's from the Deccan to Bikaneer, where the Nana was found a guest of the Bikaneer Rajah; he was allowed to depart thence to Ajmere and there denounced, his trackers having joined him on the road and introduced themselves as agents from a neighbouring durbar. The papers found upon the Nana show plans of an extensive conspiracy, and of his having large sums of money at his command. 5000 Bengal Sepoys are rumoured to be at Saloomba, under Tantia Topee. The man hanged in that name four years ago is now supposed not to have been that leader. The country is everywhere quiet. Dost Mahomed took the city of Herat by storm on the 26th May. Previous to the attack it had been given out that Dost Mahomed was at the point of death, that he had assembled his sons, nominated his successor, and given his parting advice to all. The demonstration appears to have thrown the Heratees off their guard and enabled him to surprise and capture the citadel by a sudden assault, aided no doubt by treachery within the walls. Since the fall of the city, authentic intelligence had been received of Dost Mahomed's death. A sharp visitation of cholera in Bombay has carried off several Europeans, but the scourge has now disappeared.

Madagascar.—News has been received at Reunion from Madagascar that the reaction against foreigners continued. The Minister who signed the treaty with France had been assassinated, and the French were prohibited from taking possession of the land conceded to them by the treaty. M. Laborde, the French Consul, had taken down his flag, and withdrawn with his compatriots to a distance of eight leagues from the capital.

China.—We have advices from Hong Kong to the 13th June. The following details respecting the capture by the Anglo-Chinese contingent, under Major Gordon, of Quin San, a city between Tai-tsan and Soochow, are from the North China Herald:—

"It appears that this place is surrounded with stockades of a formidable character, chiefly built of granite. The attack was begun on those on the south side of the walls, from which the rebels were speedily driven. The force then marched round to the west side, and succeeded in taking the stockades there. Major Gordon, with a rapidity of movement unknown in Chinese warfare, immediately led his troops along the only road leading to Soochow, along the east bank of the creek, which at this point becomes a broad and deep river—the Hyson, armed steamer, accompanying the force. On the road he captured three stone forts, and afterwards encountered a body of some 15,000 rebels, whom he attacked and defeated with great loss to them. He then proceeded in the Hyson to reconnoitre the country in the vicinity of Soochow, coming within view of the walls of that famous city. The steamer then returned to where the force stood, when they marched to the attack of Quinsan, which was being evacuated by the garrison. A number escaped, but many yielded submission to their captors. Then followed the taking of the strongest rebel post near Soochow, with the loss of only a few killed and wounded; while on the Taeping side the loss is estimated by thousands. This rebel force was chiefly composed of picked men from Soochow, under the leadership of the Moo-wang, who, it is said, has himself been cut off. There was scarcely any loot found in Quinsan, as it was purely a garrison town, having a manufactory for ordnance, shot, and shell. Two good 13-pounders were found in the place, which had been worked by foreigners."

Shocking cruelties are said to have been inflicted by the Imperial troops on the rebel prisoners. From Tien-tsin we have news to the 22d of May. The Nyen-fei marauders had disappeared from the neighbourhood, and business had taken an active turn in consequence. Foreign merchants were continuing to build. From Newchwang and Chefoo there is no news. From Pekin we learn that Mr. William C. Milne, assistant secretary to the British legation, died in a fit while sitting at table. He was formerly attached to the London Missionary Society, and has written successfully on subjects connected with China. At the time of his death he was in charge of the student interpreters at Pekin. Complaints are made of unfair play in the division of loot taken at Shang-yu and Shaoshing, the French tenaciously holding all they have obtained.

Manilla.—A fearful earthquake took place at Manilla on the 3d June. The town was destroyed, and 1000 natives buried among the ruins. The China Mail contains the following account of the earthquake in a letter from Manilla, dated June 4:—

"On the 3d, at half-past seven in the evening, a circumambient flame was seen to rise from the earth and gird the city of Manilla, and at the same time a most terrific quaking of the earth took place. It lasted scarcely a minute; but in that short space nearly the whole of fair Manilla has been reduced to a heap of ruins. Upwards of a thousand have been killed and many thousands wounded. Scarcely an edifice has escaped without dead or wounded. The priests, choristers, and sacristans, and the congregation who were hearing vespers, have been nearly all buried and suffocated under the ruins of the cathedral and other churches. The only church that has escaped wholly is San Augustin, the same that withstood the tremendous shock of 1645. The Palace and nearly all the public and private, as well as commercial edifices, have either been thrown down or shaken from their foundations. Not a single foreigner has been killed, but two have been seriously hurt, though not dangerously. The British Consulate has been entirely destroyed, and is nothing but a mass of ruins.

Before the earthquake took place, sulphurous odours were perceived, rumbling like the firing of ordnance, and then like the approach of an immense locomotive and train. The flame that surrounded the city was seen from the Bay to ascend towards the sky; and another, a triple one, came from the land over the water to the shipping, and threw them up at least 2 or 3 feet, while on shore the earth has everywhere sunk at least 2 feet."

JAPAN.—The intelligence from Japan is to the 30th of May. The news is conflicting, but it seems certain that hostilities had not broken out. A rumour was current at Yokohama that a further postponement of 18 days had been allowed to the Japanese Government, but of this there was no certainty. Negotiations, however, were still going on up to the day of the steamer leaving. Consul Winchester declined to state their purport, but advised the British residents to hold themselves in readiness for any emergency. The native town of Yokohama has been thoroughly deserted, the shops and houses gutted to the bare walls and floors. At Nagasaki great excitement prevailed, on account of the large preparations making by the Japanese for war. Six new batteries had been erected, and it was reported that there were 60,000 troops in the neighbourhood of the town. Other reports allude to the possibility of civil war, owing, it is said, to the existence of a party in the country opposed to the exclusion of foreigners.

UNITED STATES.—It is admitted by most of the Federal journals, except those in the confidence of the Government, that the repulse of the Confederates at Gettysburg was not by any means so severe as was represented, and that General Lee is still in force on the fords of the Potomac and in the Shenandoah Valley, and in a position to re-invade Maryland if such be his intention. It appears that General Meade's army has crossed the Potomac near Harper's Ferry, and moved down the east side of the Blue Ridge, on the supposition that General Lee was rapidly retreating out of the Shenandoah Valley, on the west side of the mountains. But General Meade found General Lee holding the line of the Upper Potomac, and threatening Maryland and Washington. General Lee's attitude stopped General Meade's advance, and an immediate battle is considered imminent in order to prevent another invasion of the North. It is believed that General Lee has been reinforced by General D. H. Hill with 10,000 men from Lower Virginia, and that he intends to cross the Blue Ridge at Chester or Thornton Gap, and that he delayed his movements on the Upper Potomac, in order to carry away the plunder gathered in Pennsylvania and Maryland, and the new crop of the Shenandoah Valley. At the latest accounts the two armies retained their positions upon either side of the Blue Ridge, and an attempt made on the 24th ult. by 400 Confederates to cross the Potomac at Nolan's Ferry was defeated by a superior force of Federals stationed at that point. Many rumours are in circulation of the state of affairs before Charleston. Some assert that Fort Wagner and the whole of Morris Island have been captured by the Federals; others that the Federals have been severely repulsed. The Government is reported to be in possession of news which it declines to publish. A steamer has arrived at New Orleans from Natchez without meeting any impediment in the whole length of the river. Her arrival is considered as a proof of the re-opening of the Mississippi to navigation, and has caused much enthusiasm. The steamer has left on a return trip to St. Louis. The Federal movement for the occupation of the Teche county continues. General Morgan's forces are now reported to number 10,000, and to have reached Washington in Ohio. Their progress has been several times checked, but they made good their escape. The reports of General Rosencranz's movements on Chattanooga and Rome are unfounded. He is still on the northern slope of the Cumberland mountains, preparing to move into East Tennessee. The Richmond Whig says the evacuation of Jackson left in the enemy's hands the rolling stock of the Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern, Mississippi Central, and Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad. Over 40 engines were lost. The loss, continues the Richmond Whig, is incalculably important, and wholly irreparable. The Newbern cavalry expedition has destroyed two miles of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad, and burnt a bridge 1000 feet long over the New River. Another Federal cavalry expedition, after severe fighting, captured and destroyed Wythville, South-eastern Virginia, taking 100 prisoners and two pieces of artillery. They cut the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad at Wythville. The New York Herald correspondent at Washington asserts that Mr. Seward has proposed terms of peace and reunion in the Cabinet, upon the basis that slavery is an existing fact, with which the Federal Government has nothing further to do than to prevent its extension into their territories. A spirited resistance to the draught is manifested in Maryland. The barns of two enrolling officers have been burnt, and their residences attacked. Forcible opposition to the conscription has also been made in several towns in Maine. At Kingfield, in that State, the officers conducting the draught were set upon by a mob, their papers seized and destroyed, and themselves driven from the town. In other places the citizens have thrown up earthworks to resist the enforcement of the Act. It has been decided by the Provost-Marshal, General Fry, that no negro can be accepted as a substitute for the draughted white man. Official reports received in France from New York state that the Government definitively renounce the conscription, which had been declared unconstitutional by the sentence of a New York municipal judge. "This fact is to be attributed to the progress of pacific ideas in the North." The Republicans attribute to Governor Seymour treasonable views, and an intention to get the State military power into his own hands. The Democratic press asserts General Seymour's right to control the State militia, and attributes to the Republican party a plot to consolidate the military power in the hands of the Federal Government. The New York Herald still urges President Lincoln to enlist the sympathy of all men, North and South, by declaring an intention to drive the English from Canada and the French from Mexico. The Richmond papers say that a Virginia Navy Company has been formed for the purpose of sending ships to sea, which will keep up a guerilla warfare against the Federals without loss of men to the South. They also ridicule the idea that the Federals have seen the end of the war, and declare that their past struggles are only a trifle of what they can do, as they have scarcely yet begun to fight. A meeting has been held at Montgomery, Alabama, to organise the whole population for home defence. General Maury, at Mobile, has called all the able-bodied men of the city and county to report for duty in the defence against an attack from Grant's army. The Mayor of Charleston has impressed all the free and slave coloured population between 18 and 60 to work on the defences at Morris Island. The people of Georgia are arming to resist Rosecrans, and Rome is to be fortified. The citizens of Lynchburg, Virginia, are organising for defence. General Fitzhugh Lee and Captain Winder have been imprisoned in the casemates of Fort Monroe. Notice has been given to the Confederate Government that if the two Federal officers selected in Richmond are executed, Lee and Winder will be executed in retaliation. Mr. Vallandigham, in an address from Niagara, accepts the nomination for Governor of Ohio. He says that after his journeyings he found himself a free man on British soil and exercised the privileges and rights the usurper had denied him at home. He denies the practicability of subjugating the South by force of arms, and states that he met in the South not a man, woman, or child, who were not resolved to perish rather than yield to force. He met no one in the South, whatever his opinions or station, political or private, who did not declare his readiness, when war shall have ceased, and the invading armies are withdrawn, to consider and discuss the question of reunion. The ship George Griswold has been captured and bonded by the Georgia for 100,000*l.* The steamer Lizzie has been captured off Abaco, and the steamer Kate Dale off Fortugal, with 800 bales of cotton. The Scotia has been intercepted off Cape Race. The United States' District Court has confirmed a decree of the Lower Court condemning the steamer Ella Warley and cargo and the brig Delta and cargo, the steamers Ouachita and Elizabeth, the schooner J. S. Toone, and the brig Sarah Star. It has also confirmed the decision condemning the bark General Greene, and restoring the cargo. The decision of the Lower Court condemning the bark Empress and cargo has been reversed.

MEXICO.—La France asserts that Marshal Forey will leave Mexico on the 15th of September, giving up the command to General Bazaine. The New York papers publish news from the city of Mexico, viâ San Francisco, to the 1st ult., stating that the Mexican army was hovering around Mexico in detachments. Ortega was commanding between San Luis Potosi and Mexico. Negreta was operating with 2000 cavalry to destroy the communication between Mexico and Vera Cruz. No couriers had arrived at Mexico from Vera Cruz within 30 days. Marshal Forey reports that he had sent a column to protect the mines at Real del Monte, which the enemy intended to plunder and to destroy the engines; and it is now occupied in forming a provisional Government, which, following out the intentions of the Emperor, will be composed of men of moderate views belonging to all parties.

City Intelligence.

BANK AMALGAMATION.—It is officially announced that Messrs. Hankeys & Co. have ceased business as an independent firm and have joined the Consolidated Bank, recently formed by the union of the Bank of Manchester with that of Messrs. Heywood, Kennards & Co. The capital of the united banks is divided into 150,000 shares of 10*l.* each, 4*l.* paid, or, in other words, a paid up capital of 600,000*l.*

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at $93\frac{1}{8}$ to $92\frac{7}{8}$ for Money, and $93\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ for the 9th September; Three per Cents. Reduced, 93 to $\frac{1}{4}$; New Three per Cents., $93\frac{1}{8}$ to $93\frac{1}{4}$; New Two and a Half per Cents., $77\frac{1}{4}$; Bank Stock, 238; India Five per Cent. Stock, $108\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; India Four per Cent. Debentures, August, 1864 or 1866, $100\frac{1}{2}$; Exchequer Bills, par, 1*s.* dis. to 2*s.* pm.—FOREIGN: Brazilian Old Five per Cents., $101\frac{1}{2}$; Dutch Two and a Half per Cents., $64\frac{3}{4}$; Ditto Four per Cent. Certificates, 103; Greek Five per Cents., for Acc., $32\frac{7}{8}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$; Italian Five per Cents., 1861, for Acct., $71\frac{1}{4}$ to 71; Mexican Three per Cents., for Acct., $36\frac{7}{8}$ to $36\frac{3}{4}$; Portuguese Three per Cents., 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., 48; Russian Five per Cents., 1822, $94\frac{1}{8}$ to 94; Ditto 1862 $92\frac{7}{8}$; Sardinian Five per Cents, for Acct., $89\frac{1}{2}$; Spanish Passive, for Acct., $32\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{8}$; Committee's Certificates, for Acct., $12\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{8}$; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, for Acct., $92\frac{1}{8}$; Ditto 1858, for Acct., $70\frac{5}{8}$; Ditto 1862, for Acct., $67\frac{7}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto Guaranteed Four per Cents., $101\frac{1}{2}$, ex div.; Venezuela Three per Cents., for Acct., $23\frac{1}{4}$.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued.. .. .. | £28,676,005 | Government Debt .. .. | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities .. .. | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 14,026,005 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. | — |
| | £28,676,005 | | £28,676,005 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,038,[illegible] |
| Rest .. .. .. .. .. .. | 3,423,480 | Other Securities .. .. | 19,153,801 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | 5,577,268 | Notes .. .. .. .. .. | 7,001,175 |
| Other Deposits .. .. .. | 13,790,855 | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 817,[illegible] |
| Seven days and other bills | 665,979 | | |
| | £38,010,582 | | £38,010,582 |

August 6, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: July 31.—BANKRUPTS.—LOUIS CHARLES CRETIAN ABLE (sued and committed as LOUIS ABEL), Bedford Street, Covent Garden, Waiter at an Hotel—J. BURLING, Newmarket St. Mary, Suffolk, Tailor—J. BEARDSLEY, Thorpe, Derbyshire, Licensed Victualler—W. A. BLAKESTON, Sunderland, Durham, Schoolmaster—J. R. BREWSTER, Birmingham, Bookseller—J. BAILEY, Brambleberry Park, Plumstead, Builder—W. BARLOW, Radcliffe, Lancashire, Grocer—J. HUTCHINSON BEAUMONT, Leeds, Painter—E. CROSS, Southampton, Leather Seller—F. W. H. CHARLES, Leigh, Worcestershire, Shoemaker—H. CADOGAN, Aure, Gloucestershire, Innkeeper—M. CARNEY, Rugeley, Staffordshire, Marine Store Dealer—J. CHADBONE, Great Bolton, Lancashire, Filesmith—J. DAVIES, Cleobury Mortimer, Shropshire, Brick Maker—J. DENTITH, Leeds, Eating House Keeper—G. EXLY, Leeds, late Coal Merchant—STEPHEN FROST, Acton Place, Kingsland Road, Mariner—SAMUEL GREG, Chester, Plasterer—R. GULLICK, Newport, Monmouthshire, China and Glass Dealer—H. M. GOODALL, Hinckley, Leicestershire, Cowkeeper's Assistant—W. B. GILES, Leeds, Dealer in Horses—T. GOODALL, Fareham, Hampshire, Pipemaker—W. GADSDEN, late of Eaton Bray, Bedfordshire, Pig Jobber—T. S. GOODE, Heath Row, Hampstead, Commission Merchant—J. HOWATSON, late of Gateshead, Durham, Wine and Spirit Merchant—R. HOYLE, Boston, Lincolnshire, Boot and Shoemaker—J. HANCOCK, Bolsover Street, Portland Place, Sculptor—W. T. HAND, Egmanton, Nottinghamshire Schoolmaster—J. HITCHINS, Vassall Road, Brixton, Assistant to a Photographer—J. HAWKES, Cambridge, Dealer in Cattle—J. S. WEST and H. HUGHES, Welbeck Street, Cavendish Square, Brush Manufacturers—A. S. JONES, Crawford Street, Camberwell, Plumber's Clerk—L. JONES, late of Toxteth Park, Lancashire, Printer—EDWIN CORNISH LAMBLE (sued and committed as EDWIN LAMBLY), Kentish Town Road, Carpenter—HENRY JAMES LYONS, Kingston upon-Hull, Ironmonger—R. LATHBURY, Leighton Road, Kentish Town, Cattle Dealer—S. LIGHT, Manchester, Flour Factor—W. MASON, Sheffield, Yorkshire, Electro Plate Manufacturer—H. MEE, Chesterfield, Derbyshire, Jeweller—F. C. MARSHALL, Market Row, Oxford Market, Pork Butcher—J. H. MARSDEN, Shoe Lane, City, Hat Manufacturer—R. LYON, Leeds, Late Grocer—A. NORDABY (sued as M NORIBY), Hammersmith, Widow—F. H. I. NAPIER, Brunswick Square, Camberwell, Private Boarding Housekeeper—R. NICHOLLS, Phillack, Cornwall, Mining Clerk—A. NUTTALL, Accrington, Lancashire, Contractor—J. P. O'BRIAN, Maindee, Monmouthshire, Organist—J. OWEN, Monk Sherborne, Hampshire, Surveyor—H. S. PETERS, Bristol, Ship Chandler—J. REYNOLDS, late of the Lunatic Asylum, Stapleton, Gloucestershire—THOMAS RICHARDSON, Bury, Lancashire, Fishmonger—JAMES RIGBY, Upper Whitecross Street, Saint Luke's, Fruiterer—W. J. SMITH, Manchester, Manufacturer—F. STEPHENSON, Joseph Street, St. George's-in-the-East, Iron Founder—J. STEAR, Belper, Derbyshire, Boot and Shoemaker—W. STARK, Bristol, Carpenter—F. SWENBECK (and not F. SWEBECK, as advertised in last "Gazette".) Fowke's Buildings, Great Tower Street, Merchant—C. SMITH, Sandown, Isle of Wight, Manager of the Sandown Gas Works—J. SCUBLOCK, Pembroke Dock, Pembrokeshire, Joiner—T. STOCKER, Basingstoke Southampton, General Dealer—F. C. THOMAS, Elm Street, Gray's Inn, late Coach Plater—H. N. TOLLERVEY, Cardinal Terrace, Ball's Pond Road, Paper Hanger—C. WHITE, Hull, Smack Owner—F. I. WATSON, Holt, Norfolk, Bookseller—G. WILKINSON, Kingston upon-Hull, Corn Porter.

TUESDAY: August 4.—BANKRUPTS.—W. ADAMS, Cleobury Mortimer, Shropshire, Inn-keeper—C. ASHMORE, Birmingham, Journeyman Saddler—W. BURTON, Holt's Place, Hoxton, Farrier—J. BRINGLOE, Elizabeth Place, Cold Harbour Lane, Camberwell, Surgeon—R. BAGLEY, Grove Road, Fulham, Foreman to a Market Gardener—W. BERRY, Warrington, Lancashire, Slater—T. BLACK, Durham, Publican—J. BRIER, Northowram, Yorkshire, Farm Labourer—M. A. BELL, Charrington Street, Camden Town, late Licensed Victualler—J. P. BURROUGHS, Canterbury Row, Kennington Road, Commission Agent—W. H. CASE, John's Mews, Bedford Row, Cab Proprietor—T. CASTLE, Birmingham, Baker—J. CHAFFER, Blackpool, Lancashire, Glass Dealer—H. DALE, Albion Place, Hackney, Clerk in the Royal Exchange Insurance Office—W. DAVENPORT, Liverpool, Grocer—SARAH DARBY, Tipton, Staffordshire, Grocer—C. DARCH, Weston-super-Mare, Butcher—R. EVANS, Cowley, Oxfordshire, Builder—J. FLEYD, Aberdare, Glamorganshire, Collier—T. GROVER, jun., Orpington, Kent, Market Gardener—R. GRIFFITHS, Bow Lane, Fringe and Trimming Manufacturer—G. V. HARE, Stafford Place, Pimlico, Proprietor of an Equestrian Circus—W. D. HAINES, Romford, Essex, Beer Shop Keeper—G. HOWARTH, jun., Manchester, Provision Dealer—J. IMBER, jun., Bridgewater, Somersetshire, Journeyman Gardener—J. JONES, jun., Worcester, Huckster—D. JOLLY, Bradford, Yorkshire, Grocer—W. JONES, Swansea, Glamorganshire, late Licensed Victualler—J. KIRKLAND, Castlegate, Yorkshire—SOLOMON KING, Penzance, Cornwall, Jeweller—JABEZ KITTSON, Benwick, Cambridgeshire, Carpenter—CHARLES KING, New Street, St. Luke's, Journeyman Coachman—JOHN KING, Wilson Street, Finsbury Square, Saddler—H. H. LORD, Bacup, Lancashire, Plumber—H. LEVY, Lower Marsh, Lambeth, Clothier—R. G. LUPTON, West Derby, Lancashire, Book Keeper and Printer—W. T. LYON, Pleasant Place, Lower Tulse Hill, Plumber—C. MOSS, Newark-upon-Trent, Nottinghamshire, Stationer—J. B. MARKLAND, Manchester, Wine Merchant—H. MASON, Chesterfield, Derbyshire, Licensed Victualler—G. M'RAE, Bow Road, Mile End, Nurseryman—R. MARRISON, Norwich, Gun Maker—G. MYERS, Bream's Buildings, Chancery Lane, Printer—G. NEWMAN, Salisbury Street, Pitt Street, Old Kent Road, late Beershop Keeper—WILLIAM PEARSE, Burnham, Somersetshire, Baker—ISIDORE RUDNISKY, Stratford, Essex, Dealer in Watches and Jewellery—FREDERICK ROBERTS, Three Tun Passage, Newgate Market, Licensed Victualler—JOHN SMITH, Wednesbury, Staffordshire, Shoemaker—E. SOUTHWICK, Rowley Regis, Staffordshire, Builder—S. R. SANDERS, Rotherham, Yorkshire, Waggon Dealer—J. B. SCRASE, late of Keymer, Corn Chandler—E. SLIP, Bath, Oil and Colourman—M. SPENCE, Leeds, Mason—R. TREGASKIS, Perran-ar-worthal, Cornwall—C. L. TRACY, Vale Place, Hammersmith, late African Merchant—G. S. THOMPSON, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Builder—J. TURNER, Morecambe, Lancashire, Licensed Victualler—T. TAYLOR, Hastings, Fruiterer—C. TREE, Elizabeth Street, Pimlico, Watchmaker and Jeweller—L. WATSON, Rickmansworth, Hertfordshire, Whitesmith—J. M. WELCH, High Street, Camberwell, Licensed Victualler.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—A. PENMAN, Glasgow, Marble Cutter—C. RENFREW, Paisley, Innkeeper.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

LORD PALMERSTON AT THE SAILORS' HOME.—The ceremony of laying the foundation stone of a building for the enlargement of the Sailors' Home in Dock Street, London Docks, was performed on Tuesday afternoon by Lord Palmerston, in the presence of a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen, including the Bishop of London, the Earl of Harrowby, the Bishop of Mauritius, Mr. Ayrton, M.P., Mr. Hanbury, M.P., Miss Burdett Coutts, Colonel Sykes, M.P., Mr. Somes, M.P., and several naval officers. On the arrival of Lord Palmerston, Admiral Sir W. Bowles read an address stating that it is now a quarter of a century since the Home was opened, and that its advantages have been increasing ever since, its apartments being constantly crowded and scores of seamen being turned away nightly for want of room. The directors had therefore resolved to enlarge the premises, at an estimated cost of 10,000*l.* Lord Palmerston in reply said:—

"I feel great pleasure and pride in having been permitted to take a part in this most interesting ceremony. We are by our insular position necessarily a seafaring nation. All our interests, I may say our national independence, are connected with the skill, the enterprise, the daring courage of our seamen. It is needless to point out that by the great extension which the principles of free trade have received of late years our commercial intercourse with other nations, carried on in every ocean, has incredibly increased, and that we now are dependent upon our commerce for the maintenance of our national industry, for the subsistence of a great part of our population, and for the markets to which the produce of our manufactures are destined to go. If, then, nothing but commercial interests were concerned, it would be needless to point out how greatly the strength and prosperity of the country depend upon our seafaring population. But there are still higher considerations than that to point out their value, and how much they deserve encouragement from their fellow countrymen. It is true that something near 30,000.000 of men could not be conquered by any invasion that might reach these shores. But short of that we might, if we lost the command of the seas, be blockaded by the cutting off of our foreign supplies, and, by the prevention of our export trade, be reduced to very distressing extremities, and therefore in that point of view we ought fully and highly to appreciate the value of our sailor fellow subjects. Well, it is the result of their life to be separated in great measure from intercourse with their fellow men on land, and hence they are peculiarly a simple-minded and a guileless set of men, but simple minded and guileless men are too often, when they come into contact with them, the victims of men of different character. A sailor when he comes to port cannot go probably to the seat of his family—he cannot go to his friends and relations. He must remain in the port where he has landed, and in that port he is exposed to every temptation and to the loss both of his money and his health. Well, these institutions tend to provide him with a home. It is said, indeed, that "his home is on the deep," but we provide him with a home on terra firma, and it is needless to point out how much his physical and moral interests are promoted by a reception such as he meets with in these institutions. They are indeed part of those great social improvements which have been made in recent times, and I may truly say that among them few are more deserving of public encouragement, and few are more conducive to the real interests of the country. I therefore am glad—and I return thanks to those who have given me the invitation—I am glad to be present and contribute to the foundation of an institution which will be attended with such great national advantages."

A form of prayer was then read by the Bishop of London, after which Lord Palmerston laid the stone in a most business-like manner, spreading the mortar with all the appearance of a skilled workman, and giving the customary tap with the mallet. His lordship then formally declared the stone laid, and after some further prayers the ceremony was concluded by the singing of the National Anthem.

ALEXANDRA PARK.—The directors of the Alexandra Park Company have arranged with Messrs. Kelk & Lucas for the reconstruction of the Exhibition Building of 1862 on an improved design, on the heights of Muswell Hill.

DEPARTURE OF THE RUSSIAN IRON CLAD.—The floating battery Pervenetz, which was built for the Russian Government on the Thames, went down to Gravesend on Thursday, and sailed yesterday for Cronstadt. The Russian frigate the General Admiral was sent over to escort her to Cronstadt—an assistance of which she stands in need, as she is in a condition as unfinished as the day she was launched; the iron plates which are intended to cover her sides being at present stowed away between decks. It is said that she has been thus hurried off in a dangerously incomplete state from the fear of her being seized in case of a sudden declaration of war against Russia. During her passage down the river, though in tow of a steam tug, and with her own steam on, she became so unmanageable that she ran into the Warspite, training frigate of the Marine Society, carried away part of her own bow, lost an anchor, and caused so much damage to the Warspite, that she will have to be docked at a cost of 1000*l.*

PENAL SERVITUDE AND TRANSPORTATION.—The Royal Commissioners appointed to inquire into the operation of the Penal Servitude Acts for England and Ireland, in lieu of transportation, presented their report a few days previous to the prorogation. They consider that the period of separate confinement might be extended over the present maximum of nine months with advantage in some cases. The system of "intermediate prisons" adopted in Ireland, in which the convicts state they are "comfortable," the commissioners consider utterly bad. The relapses after liberation in cases thus treated are 18.3 as against 7.1 per cent. of prisoners discharged from the ordinary working prisons. The relapses in Ireland generally, which are 21.27 per cent., contrast unfavourably with those of cases in England, which are only 6.5 per cent. Ireland contrasts unfavourably in another respect. Though the population in England and Scotland has so increased, the decrease in convict crime has been one-third, while in Ireland it has but kept pace with the decrease of the population. Comparing the English and Irish systems, the Commissioners are not in favour of the latter, to which they ascribe no part of the decrease in the number of prisoners, and they are not of opinion that the want of efficiency in the present system of punishment in English convict prisons arises from any error of principle; they consider it mainly attributable to the shortness of the punishment, but they are of a decided opinion that the length of the sentence should not be unalterably fixed, but that it should be of a sufficient length to admit of relaxation or remission, as the reward of industry and good conduct. The only portion of the Irish plan which they recommend is that of supervision after liberation on ticket of leave. They consider that English prisoners should be encouraged to emigrate on receiving their discharge to a greater extent than they at present are. In reference to the rations supplied to the prisoners, some of the Commissioners thought it excessive, while others did not think it too good, considering the labour exacted from them. No diminution is therefore recommended by them. In conclusion the Commissioners thus recapitulate their recommendations:—

"1. That sentences of penal servitude should not in future be passed for shorter terms than seven years; 2d, that the principle already recognised by the law, of subjecting re-convicted criminals to severer punishment, should be more fully acted on; 3d, that convicts sentenced to penal servitude should be subjected, in the first place, to nine months' separate imprisonment, and then to labour on public works for the remainder of the term for which they are sentenced, but with the power of earning, by industry and good conduct, an abridgment of this part of their punishment; 4th, that all male convicts, who are not disqualified for removal to a colony, should be sent to Western Australia during the latter part of their punishment; 5th, that those who may be unfit to go there, but may earn an abridgment of their punishment, and who may consequently be discharged at home under license, should be placed under strict supervision till the expiration of the terms for which they were sentenced, and that the necessary powers should be given by law for rendering this supervision effectual."

The Lord Chief Justice approves of that portion of the report which refers to transportation to Western Australia. He concurs also with the suggestion of a partial remission of sentence after the convict has been transported. But for convicts detained at home he is strongly opposed to any remission of sentence whatever, and emphatically condemns the practice of making it a means of rendering the task of prison administration more easy to the officials employed, who have other modes of enforcing discipline at command. For this reason he has refused to agree to the report.—On Friday last an influential meeting of Australian colonists was held at Willis's Rooms, to consider that portion of the report which recommended transportation to Western Australia. Sir Charles Nicholson took the chair, and in opening the proceedings strongly deprecated the suggestions of the report, and said that any renewal of transportation would lead to great irritation and disaffection in the Australian colonies. Sir Stuart Donaldson moved a resolution declaring that the meeting viewed with the greatest alarm, and desired to protest in the strongest terms against the recommendation of the Royal Commission, and that, in the event of such recommendation being carried into effect, great and irreparable injury would be inflicted on Australia and New Zealand, inasmuch as they would inevitably become the final receptacles of the criminal population thus sent forth from the United Kingdom. Mr. C. H. Ebden seconded the motion, which was carried. Mr. Edward Wilson moved that a sub-committee be appointed, consisting of Sir Charles Nicholson, Sir Stuart Donaldson, Mr. James Youl, Mr. Childers, M.P., and others, to draw up a petition to the Queen praying her to withhold her sanction to the measure recommended in the report, and to arrange for an early interview with the Prime Minister on the subject. Mr. Youl seconded the motion. Major Sandford, as the only West Australian present, expressed his opinion that the case had been exaggerated, and that, in the present state of Western Australia, there were no other means by which the colonists could get labour. The colonists could employ a thousand convicts a year, and the Government intended to send out a proportionate number of the convicts' wives and families. After some further discussion the motion was put and carried all but unanimously, the only hand held up against it being that of Major Sandford.

THE LOSS OF THE ANGLO-SAXON.—The report on the loss of this ship near Cape Race, on the 27th of April, has been presented to the Board of Trade by Mr. Raffles and Captains Harris and Baker, before whom the official inquiry took place. The report characterises the conduct of the late Captain Burgess in driving the ship at the rate of 12 knots an hour, when she was passing a dangerous coast, as highly reprehensible, and severely blames him for not using the lead when the ship was so near Cape Race, and in a position which he must have known from recent surveys to be a most dangerous one. The court approve of the regulations drawn up by the owners of the ship, and regret that the officers did not pay more attention to them.

NEW BLACKFRIARS BRIDGE.—The first pile of the temporary bridge to be constructed at Blackfriars for the accommodation of the traffic during the building of the new bridge was driven on Saturday. The cost of the temporary structure will be 30,000*l.*, and it will be constructed of sufficient width to allow of two lines of vehicles and two paths for foot passengers. The Bridge Committee have resolved that Mr. Joseph Cubitt, the engineer and designer of the new bridge, shall be paid the sum of 13,500*l.* for his professional services in superintending its erection.

REMOVAL OF THE BLACKFRIARS STEAMBOAT PIER.—The Thames Conservancy Committee have issued a printed notice, that with the close of the present week, consequent on the commencement of the works for the new Blackfriars Bridge, the steam-boat pier, which has existed for so many years on the eastern side of Blackfriars Bridge, will be removed. For the future, therefore, the steam-boats which have been in the habit of calling at this pier will use the Paul's Wharf Pier. The public will be much inconvenienced by the removal of this pier, but it is understood that on the completion of the new bridge the City authorities intend to erect a handsome and commodious pier by its side.

THE LUDGATE VIADUCT.—At the last meeting of the City Sewers Commission the solicitor laid before the Court for approval the heads of an agreement he had prepared between the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company and the Commission in reference to the construction of the proposed railway viaduct across Ludgate Hill, and by which the company agree to make the viaduct after a design approved by the engineer of the Commission, to widen Ludgate Hill 70 feet at the bottom, and to make other improvements in the roadway.

IMPROVED DWELLINGS FOR THE INDUSTRIAL CLASSES.—Towards the close of the recent session of Parliament, meetings of some interest were held at the West End and in the City for the purpose of considering the best means of improving the dwellings of the working classes. The West End meeting was held at the Vestry Hall of St. James's, Westminster, and Lord Stanley, the Bishop of London, Lord Egerton of Tatton, and Lord Lyveden took part in the proceedings. The resolutions adopted were in favour of opening a new street from Rupert Street to Berwick Street, and for forming a parochial association for the erection of improved dwellings for the working classes under the Limited Liability Act. The City meeting, which was held previously, was held at the Mansion House to consider the expediency of forming an association of twenty to thirty gentlemen, protected by the Limited Liability Act, and having a capital of 25,000*l.* to 50,000*l.* for the erection of a series of blocks of improved dwellings for the working classes. Lord Stanley, M.P., who took the chair, said they all knew there was in London, and especially in the centre and eastern part of it, a great want of decent and respectable house accommodation, not only for the labouring classes, fitly so called, but also for the whole body of mechanics. There was, in truth, no town in England where that want was so much felt as in the metropolis, and it was not at all a new matter of complaint. He well remembered a meeting in the city about nine years ago, at which Mr. Baring was chairman, and at which the subject was discussed, and various remedies suggested. Since that time different societies had been set on foot with the intention of supplying the deficiency. He would not say they had been failures, because they had kept public attention alive to the subject, and in that respect had done much good, besides providing a considerable amount of house accommodation for the working classes. But looking at them as self-supporting, and as what ought to be remunerative, associations, if they had not failed entirely there had been at best a very partial and imperfect success. They were met there, then, to make one more trial to overcome the difficulty. They knew that estimates were often deceptive and prophesied dangerous; but they started from a sounder foundation, they thought, than any previous association of the kind. They profited by the experience which others had at their own cost obtained for them, and they would be able to avoid errors of detail, and in the main he thought they would differ from their predecessors chiefly in this—that they would look rather to the accommodation of families than of single men, and not to the highest amount of rent which the better class of persons among the labouring classes could afford to pay, but to what was necessary to make the undertaking remunerative to themselves as an association. In the first place, it was simply impracticable to attempt to lodge the labouring population of London in a manner otherwise than remunerative to those who aid it. Now, what they had to go upon was the experience which Mr. Waterlow had obtained in erecting a block of buildings in a crowded part of Finsbury. Mr. Waterlow said that for a sum of 25,000*l.*, including all preliminary expenses, and also the dividends for one year on the capital during the period of construction, they would be able to put up blocks of buildings for the accommodation of 200 families. The gross estimate was 25,000*l.*; and assuming that each house, on a moderate estimate, would be let for about 15*l.*, that would give a gross return of 3000*l.* a year, or 12 per cent. on the gross outlay. From that, if they deducted, in respect of ground rents, cost of supervision, the occasional loss on rooms unoccupied, and other incidental expenses, 50 per cent. on the returns, a net return of 6 per cent. would still be left after the payment of all expenses, both present and prospective; and that, they thought, would be sufficient to induce capitalists to embark their money. A question had been raised as to whether even a better net return could not be obtained for those who put in their money, if part of the capital was raised on the security of the buildings, and having of course a preferential payment. Half the money might be obtained for 4½ per cent., and if the net return was 6 per cent. on the whole investment there would be 7½ or 8 per cent. for those who put in their money not upon preferential security. But it was a question for consideration whether they ought to have recourse to such a step. He was induced to think that they might raise all the necessary capital in shares, without obtaining any preferential capital whatever. He had spoken of this undertaking in the sense of its being remunerative. At the same time he need hardly say for himself or for those whom he was addressing that they should not have troubled themselves about it as a mere matter of profit; but the reason why they wanted it to be remunerative was that the only way of working on a scale at all commensurate with the general object they have in view was to show the capitalists of the country at large that it was an investment affording a reasonable prospect of fair return. A committee to carry out the undertaking was appointed, and at one of the subsequent meetings it was announced that shares in the association had been taken to the extent of 20,000*l*.

St. Thomas's Hospital.—It is announced that the Governors of St. Thomas's Hospital have definitively arranged for the purchase of the proposed site at Stangate, on the new embankment of the Thames, opposite the Houses of Parliament, for 95,000*l*.

Harrow School.—The Rev. H. M. Butler, headmaster of Harrow School, has issued an order that the side trousers pockets of the scholars shall in future be dispensed with, his reason for the prohibition being, that the boys continually had their hands in these pockets, and thereby contracted a lounging and stooping habit.

The Recent Affray in Whitehall.—On Thursday the old man Davis and his daughter, who were found within the lodge at Richmond Terrace lying on the floor both covered with blood from injuries inflicted on each other in a drunken quarrel, were brought up from the hospital to the Bow Street police office. They both presented a miserable spectacle, being covered with wounds; but the father, an old man, nearly 80, refused to make any charge against his daughter, and they were both discharged. The old man has, of course, lost his situation, and both were sent to the workhouse for the present.

Infanticide.—A society is about to be formed for the purpose of dealing with the increase of infanticide, which has lately been the subject of frequent discussion in the public papers, and was the subject of debate in the House of Commons a few days before the prorogation.

Child Murder in the Marylebone Road.—A shocking tragedy was committed on Friday at 108, Marylebone Road, where for several months past there have been residing a young woman calling herself Mrs. Chappell, her child, and a nurse. She stated that her husband, on account of business engagements, could only occasionally visit her. After she had taken the lodgings a gentleman repeatedly visited her, and represented himself as her husband. These visits continued until seven weeks ago, when they had a quarrel, and the visits were discontinued. On Friday, Mrs. Chappell sent the nurse to Covent Garden market to buy a peach. On her return she found the door of the bed room locked, and heard moaning sounds, which proceeded from the room. Not being able to obtain admittance she ran for Mrs. Chappell's medical adviser, Mr. Cathrow, of Weymouth Street, who returned with her, and being unable to obtain admittance, kicked in a panel of the door, making an aperture sufficiently large to admit him and the nurse. On their entering the room they found Mrs. Chappell lying on the floor bathed in blood, proceeding from wounds in her throat, and the child lying on the bed covered with a pillow. The bed and mattress were soaked with blood, which had flowed from a wound inflicted about an inch below the child's left nipple. First directing his attention to Mrs. Chappell, he sewed up three large gashes in her throat. He next attended the child, and bandaged up its wounds. Mr. Cathrow was desirous of avoiding an exposure, and, thinking both the lady and her child would recover, he refrained from informing the police. On Sunday morning however the child died, whereupon Mr. Cathrow communicated the facts to the police, who immediately searched the room. Behind the shutters they found a small stiletto or dagger, the end of which was bloody up to about three inches, a razor, the handle of which was covered with blood, and a quantity of bedding and clothing covered with blood and steeped in cold water. On the sideboard a Bible was laid open, with the 9th, 10th, 12th, 13th, 15th, and 18th verses of the 37th Psalm underscored in ink. There was also on the sideboard a lecture by Hugh Miller, on "Courtship and Matrimony," several passages of which were underscored. The police also found a quantity of money and documents, including a copy of a will, dated in March last, containing a codicil leaving 250*l*. a-year to Mrs. Chappell, 100*l*. a-year to the deceased child, and 100*l*. a-year to the child with which Mrs. Chappell was then pregnant. It appeared from further investigation, and the admission of the young woman herself, that after she had sent the nurse to market she fetched the child from the upper room to her own apartment, when, after stabbing it in the breast, she cut her own throat and then fainted. Reviving after some time, and finding her child still alive, she, after giving her throat two other cuts with the razor, took a pillow, and placing it upon the face of her child, lay upon it; but it appears she afterwards slipped down on the floor, where she was found. Before committing the deed she had dressed herself and child in white clothing, and had put out on the bed all the linen necessary for laying them out when dead. At the inquest on Tuesday it was stated that the young woman's real name is Sarah Emily Mitchell, aged 24, and that the nurse, Mary Mitchell, is her sister. They are the daughters of an accountant at Liverpool, and the father of the deceased child is Mr. Frederic Chappell, merchant of Liverpool, who had supplied her with every comfort and ample means, but whose desire to sever the connection appeared to have been in some measure the cause of the tragedy. Mr. Cathrow, the surgeon, deposed that the mother of the child, who was highly nervous, obstinate in the extreme, and jealous, had told him that she could not survive unless she again got on friendly terms with Mr. Chappell, and that she should be driven to do something to herself. For the last three or four days she had been so much excited that he thought it desirable to call in another medical man, and on the very morning when the deed was committed, Mr. Byam, of Welbeck Street, saw her with him in consultation, and they left with the impression that she would not do any harm to herself, or require any restraint. She remains at present in a very dangerous condition. The jury, after consulting together about five minutes, returned a verdict of Wilful Murder against Sarah Emily Mitchell.

The Public Health.—The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London in the week that ended Saturday, August 1, were 1514. The average number in the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1284. The present return is therefore 230 above the average. There were 122 deaths from scarlatina, and 217 from diarrhœa and cholera. During the week the births of 1007 boys and 934 girls, in all 1941 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853–62 the average number was 1810.

Provincial.

Aldershott.—The Bishop of Winchester visited the camp at Aldershott last week, and consecrated the church built there in connection with the camp—the first purely military church that has ever been consecrated in the kingdom. Sir John Pennefather, the general in command, afterwards entertained the Bishop, the Secretary for War, and other distinguished personages at a collation.

Birmingham.—Sir George Grey has addressed a letter to the directors of Aston Park at Birmingham, stating that he has received a memorial numerously signed on the subject of the unfortunate young woman who was killed by the breaking of the rope on which she was performing at the recent fête in Aston Park, and expressing his hope that after this melancholy occurrence the directors will not allow a repetition of such dangerous performances in the park. In reply the directors state that they concur in the sentiments contained in the memorial, and that on the occasion referred to they had let the park for a charitable purpose, and omitted to reserve to themselves any right to control the performances.

Clifton.—The wire ropes which span the Avon, and connect the piers of the Suspension bridge on the Somersetshire and Gloucestershire sides of the river, are now adjusted to support a temporary platform, which is an object of great attraction to large numbers of visitors from all parts of the kingdom. From this platform will be fixed 350 tons of iron for one side of the chains, and the whole temporary bridge will then have to be taken down, and the wires again payed out at a sufficient distance to enable the men to form the chains on the other side. The workmen for some days past have been engaged in raising the huge iron castings, weighing from 3 to 5 tons, to the top of the piers to form the supports for the saddles on which the chains will rest. The anchorage plates weigh nearly 3 tons each, and there will be three of them to each set of chains. These plates will be firmly imbedded in the rock at the bottom of the anchorage shafts. All this portion of the work, on which the men are now engaged, results in scarcely any perceptible progress, the greater part of it being carried on underground.

Cowes.—The Royal yacht squadron regatta took place on Thursday. The squadron prize was won by Mr. Chamberlayne's Arrow, beating Mr. Sedden's Phryne, Mr. Kennard's Christabel, Mr. Monce's Mariana, Mr. Johnson's Audax, and Mr. Sladen's Crusader. The Queen's Cup was won by Lord Londesborough's Albertine, beating Mr. Thellusson's Aline, Count Bathyany's Flying Cloud, which ran on shore; Lord Colville's Volage, Mr. Percival's Petrel, and Colonel Markham's Sultana. Both were very fine races.

Exeter.—On Thursday a serious accident occurred at a brigade review of the Devon County Volunteers, on Little Haldon. The grand stand broke down. No persons were killed, but several were injured.

Guildford.—On Friday the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the Surrey County hospital on the slope of the Hog's Back, about 300 yards from the railway station in this town, was performed by Mr. Lewis Loyd, High Sheriff of Surrey, in the presence of a large concourse of spectators, including members of Parliament, magistrates, clergymen, and most of the aristocracy of the county. The hospital, which is to be associated with the name of the Prince Consort, as a memorial Hospital, is to be built from the designs of Mr. E. W. Lowe, architect, of Guildford, submitted to and approved by Miss Nightingale. The site has been presented by the Earl of Onslow. It will contain two principal wards—one for males and the other for females—each 92 ft. long by 25 ft. 6 in. wide, and 17 ft. 6 in. high. It will embrace all the most modern improvements, and afford accommodation for about 50 patients. The estimate for the building is 11,000*l*., of which 9200*l*. have been promised.

Jersey.—The steamer Paris, belonging to the Newhaven and Jersey line, was lost on the 28th ult. on the Grunoth rock, near Elizabeth Castle, and went down immediately, and it is said to be doubtful whether she can be raised. All her passengers and crew were saved, having been picked up by the South-Western Company's steamer Wonder, but the cargo was lost.—The Theatre Royal at St. Helier's was totally destroyed by fire on Friday morning, nothing now remaining of a fine building but the outside walls and pillars.

Manchester.—At the meeting of the Central Executive Committee on Monday, the report stated that the balance in the bank was 326,267*l*. 13*s*. 10*d*., and that 1431*l*. had been received during the week. Mr. Commissioner Farnall's weekly report stated that on the 25th ult., there was a decrease in the numbers receiving relief in the 27 unions, as compared with the previous week, of 177. The total decrease since the 6th December had been 127,524. Grants were made to various places to the amount of 9870*l*.

Maidstone.—Alfred Eldridge, who was convicted a few days ago at the Assizes of the murder of Richard Steed, has made what he calls a confession of his guilt. He states that the murder was the result of a quarrel, in the course of which deceased struck him. He then knocked Steed down and kicked him about the head until he was lifeless. This statement is not credited, and the law will in all probability be allowed to take its course. A memorial has been forwarded to the Home Secretary, praying for the commutation of the sentence on Alfred Holden, who was convicted at the same assizes of the murder of his child, 11 months old. The memorialists ground their application on the plea of insanity, and it is believed that Baron Channell, by whom the case was tried, is not opposed to the granting of the petition.

Neath.—The inquest on the six men who were killed on June 26, by the explosion in the Briton Ferry Colliery, terminated on Monday in a verdict of Accidental Death. The Government Inspectors in their evidence distinctly stated that the mine was imperfectly ventilated, and that several of the general rules for the management of mines had been violated.

Newport.—A few months ago Mr. Thomas Powell, an eminent colliery proprietor in South Wales, died at the Gaer near this town, when it was discovered that his will had been stolen. A reward of 100*l*. was offered for its recovery, but without effect till the week before last, when an anonymous letter was sent to his widow, offering to restore the document for a sum of 125*l*. After two unsatisfactory interviews between a gentleman of the family, dressed in lady's clothes, and the anonymous correspondent, the affair was placed in the hands of the police, and a third interview resulted in the apprehension, after a desperate struggle, of a young man called Edwin Truscott Gill, employed in the neighbourhood. On searching the ground where the encounter took place the whole of the missing property which had been so mysteriously stolen from the Gaer was discovered. The prisoner was taken before the magistrates and remanded for a few days, when the father of the prisoner, with a workman in his employ, a clerk lately in the employ of Mr. Powell, and two other persons were brought up with him, on suspicion of being concerned in the affair. A diaper cloth was stolen on the same night as the will, and was traced to the possession of the father. This was the only evidence against him, but the magistrates did not consider it sufficient, and he was discharged. The other four prisoners were also discharged, as there was no evidence against them. The son, Edwin Gill, was committed for trial at the Assizes.

Rochester.—The annual Congress of the Archæological Institute was opened in this city on the 28th ult., under the presidency of the Marquis Camden, supported by the leading noblemen and gentry of the county, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of Oxford, the Bishop of Gibraltar, the Earl of Darnley, Earl Amherst, Lord Talbot de Malahide, Lord Neaves, Professor Stanley, the Dean of Peterborough, the Provost of Oriel, Mr. Gilbert Scott, Sir Sibbald Scott, Colonel Pinney, M.P., Sir John Boileau, Bart., Mr. W. W. E. Wynn, M.P., Sir S. Glynn, Bart, and M. Maury, of Paris, who was specially deputed by the Emperor of the French to attend it. During the Congress, which continued daily until Saturday, papers of great interest were read, including one by Dr. Guest of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, on the "Landing of Cæsar;" by the Dean of Chichester, on the "Life and Times of Gundulph"; by Mr. Beresford Hope, on the Church Architecture of the South Eastern Counties; by Professor Willis, on Rochester Cathedral; by the Rev. C. H. Hartshorne, on the "Architecture of Rochester Castle," &c. The objects of antiquity in Rochester having been examined, excursions were made to Leeds Castle, Battel Hall, Maidstone, Chillington House, Allington Castle, Horton Kirby, Darenth, Dartford, Stone, Cliffe Cooling, Malling Abbey, the Mote at Igtham, Leybourn Castle, Cobham Hall, the seat of the Earl of Darnley, and Wilderness Park, the seat of the Marquis Camden.

York.—The sentence of death passed on John Gair, at the last assizes, for the murder of the woman with whom he lived, has been commuted, in accordance with the jury's recommendation to mercy, to penal servitude for life.

Ireland.

The Egmont Case.—The great case of the Earl of Egmont against Sir William Lionel Darell, which has occupied the attention both of the English and Irish Courts for several months past, has at last been settled by a compromise. The last Earl of Egmont, it may be remembered, left his Irish estates, which were then much encumbered, to his agent, the late Sir Edward Tierney, from whom they descended by marriage to the present possessor, Sir William L. Darell. After the lapse of several years, the present Earl of Egmont, shortly after the death of some intermediate relations had made him heir at law to the deceased Earl, impeached the will as obtained by fraud and misrepresentation. The latest phase of the case has been in course of trial for some days at the Cork assizes before Mr. Justice Keogh and a special jury, and on Wednesday it was suddenly brought to a conclusion by the parties agreeing to a compromise, the terms of which were understood to be that Lord Egmont was to receive the estates on payment to Sir W. L. Darell of 125,000*l.* and the costs of the suit.

The Thurles Murder.—At the recent assizes Philip Hayes was tried before Mr. Justice O'Brien for shooting at Mr. Gore Jones, with intent to murder him, on the 2d of January last. Mr. Jones, who is a resident magistrate of long standing, detailed the circumstances of the case, and identified the prisoner as one of two men whom he saw behind a ditch when a gun was fired at him while riding along the road from Thurles. He immediately pulled up and said, "You scoundrels! I know you, and I'll make you pay for this." The men then ran away through the fields, and he rode after them through a lane, which ended in a bog. He was obliged to return, and they escaped. Two holes, as if made by a bullet, were visible in the cape which he wore at the time. The jury were locked up all night, and on the next day, being unable to agree to a verdict, they were discharged.

Execution at Longford.—Charles M'Cormack, convicted at the present assizes of murdering an old man named Michael Beglon, was executed on Tuesday in the presence of 2000 persons at Longford. Through some mistake the rope was too long, and when the executioner drew the bolt the unfortunate criminal fell on his knees on the ground. The incident caused a sensation of horror among the spectators. He was quickly raised to the platform, the rope was reduced to the proper length, when he was again thrown off, and died in three minutes. He made a full confession of his guilt, and left in writing a dying request to all young men to shun all secret and illegal societies, as the greatest evils to their country and religion.

Railways.

Fatal Accident on the Lynn and Hunstanton.—On Monday night a shocking accident happened on this new line to an excursion train, which left Hunstanton for Lynn and Wisbeach at 8 o'clock, consisting of 15 well-filled carriages. When the train had passed Wootton station about half-a-mile, and was near Gaywood within about two miles of Lynn, it ran upon a bullock which had got upon the line. Four carriages were thrown off the rails, and dashed to pieces. Five persons were killed, four or five seriously injured, and 20 others slightly wounded. Those who were killed were so frightfully mutilated as to defy recognition for a time. They were Mr. John Laird, builder, of Lynn; Mrs. Clarke, wife of Mr. Clarke, of Brandon; Miss Clarke, age 73, of Guanock Terrace, Lynn; Miss Palmer, of Walpole, near Wisbech, aged 25; and Mrs. Brown, wife of Mr. W. Brown, builder and stonemason, of Lynn. Those seriously hurt were Mrs. Laird, wife of the Mr. Laird who was killed; Mr. Dennis, shipowner, of Lynn, who had his thigh broken and his legs so dreadfully injured, that he has since died; Miss Eliza Bartle, who was so severely wounded in the leg as to render amputation necessary; Miss Ann Jickling, who is said to have had both her legs broken; Miss Cobb, of Lynn, who had her arm broken; Miss Southgate, of Lynn; Mrs. Batterham, of Lynn; Mrs. Cobb, of Lynn; Mrs. Adams, of Lynn; Mr. Wilkin, of Lynn; Miss Masters, of Lynn; and Mrs. Brightmore, of Lynn. An inquest was opened at Gaywood on Monday afternoon, and adjourned after the identification of the bodies.

The Underground Line.—On Monday placards were posted at all the stations on the Metropolitan line announcing that the Great Western Company had given notice that they would cease to carry passengers over the line on and after Monday, the 10th inst. It appears that the Great Western, who have hitherto worked the line between Bishop's Road station and Farringdon Street, have determined to conclude the arrangement, and to throw the duty on the Metropolitan Company, on the ground that the working arrangements as they at present stand, entail upon them a loss of something like 300*l.* a week. The Metropolitan Company are thus temporarily thrown on their own resources, and are making arrangements for carrying on the passenger traffic between Farringdon station and their Edgware Road station. There will thus be a break between the Bishop's Road and the Edgware Road stations.

The Charing Cross and London Bridge.—The contractors of this important line are pushing forward with great energy the small amount of work which yet remains to be completed, in order that it may be opened to the public on the 5th September. The station at Hungerford Market is the portion upon which the greatest amount of work remains to be done; the fixing of the iron and glass roof has only just commenced, but is expected to be completed within the time. The bridge across the entrance to the present station at London Bridge progresses rapidly, and the north wing of the office of the South-Eastern station has been demolished, for the purpose of continuing the Charing Cross branch to its point of junction with the main line. The bridge across the Thames at Hungerford is practically finished. A small amount of work remains to be done near the Borough Market; but the whole of this will be easily finished by the time the station at Charing Cross is ready for the opening. The hotel at the station is rapidly advancing, and the directors are desirous to make Charing Cross not only the most convenient, but the most attractive station in the metropolis. The branch to Cannon Street is also pushing forward with energy, and something like a race is being run between the contractors for the two bridges at Southwark and Blackfriars.

The Winchburgh Accident.—Several cases have been tried within the last few days in the Jury Court at Edinburgh for the settlement of claims for compensation for personal losses or injuries sustained in the dreadful accident at Winchburgh in October last. In the first case tried the jury awarded the sum of 1,750*l.* to Mrs. Joanna Hedderwick, against the Edinburgh and Glasgow Company, for the loss of her son, who was killed by the accident. In another case the jury awarded 2000*l.*, in another 3000*l.*, in another 2000*l.* Many other cases were settled out of court.

Law.

Northern Circuit, Appleby.—Child Murder.—Agnes Pattinson was indicted for the wilful murder of her infant female child at Windermere, on the 2d April last. It appeared that the prisoner went into the Milnthorp Workhouse to be confined, and that she was delivered of a fine female child on the 13th March, which had the peculiarity of being born with a large quantity of long black hair on its head. The prisoner recovered, and on the 1st April she left the workhouse with her child, having been cautioned by the matron to take great care of it. The child was then healthy and well, and was dressed in some childs' clothes given to the prisoner by the matron, some of them the property of the workhouse, and marked. On the afternoon of the 2d April, the prisoner, carrying her child, called on a female acquaintance, and showed her the child's head of hair. On the same evening she was seen by several persons without the child. She then went to a farm-house at Ossett Head as domestic servant and was there on the 13th of April, when one of the railway porters found a bundle concealed under some laurels on an embankment she had crossed, and discovered in it the dead body of a female infant. A post mortem examination having been made, there were no outward marks of violence, and the internal organs were all healthy; but, on examining the head, it was found that a triangular piece of bone, about half an inch across, had been driven in on the brain, the skull having been fractured. This injury had caused the death of the child, and must have arisen from a heavy blow with some blunt instrument, or from a fall from a height on a hard substance. No mere fall from a woman's arms could have inflicted the injury, taking into consideration the yielding nature of an infant's head. Inquiries caused the prisoner to be taken into custody, and two days afterwards a small bundle was found in the garden of the Rev. Mr. Lowndes, of Windermere, which abuts on the road, within 300 yards of the place where the body of the child was found. These clothes, and an old cape, which was wrapped round the body of the child when found, were identified by the matron of Milnthorpe as those which she had given to the prisoner, and the body of the child was also identified by her as the prisoner's child from its long hair and general appearance. On being confronted with the matron the prisoner denied at first that she knew her, or that she had ever been in the Milnthorpe Workhouse, or had had a child. The matron took her by the hand, and said, "Oh, Agnes, you should tell the truth." The prisoner then burst into tears, and said, "I should not have done it, or I should not have done so had my father not turned me out of doors, and turned his back on me three years ago." At the close of the case for the prosecution the prisoner, who had no counsel, wished to have one assigned to speak for her, but the case being over, Mr. Justice Mellor asked her what she wished to say to the jury. The prisoner, who is a fair, little, sulky looking girl of about 20 years of age, said she let the child fall as she was getting over a stile, and it died afterwards in her arms. She did not like to give herself up to the police, but took the body and placed it where it was found, as near to the police station as she could. His Lordship in summing up told the jury that he could not at that time take upon himself, without the prisoner's previously expressed wish, the responsibility of assigning counsel to defend her, when a single incautious question arising from insufficient instruction might lead to most serious results. The jury, after but a short consultation, found the prisoner Guilty, but recommended her to mercy. His Lordship then assumed the black cap, and bidding the prisoner not to be led away by false hopes, but to prepare for the solemn fate that awaited her, passed upon her sentence of Death in the usual form. For a great number of years this is the only charge of murder that has occurred in this county, and the fate of the young woman excited a most painful impression in court.

Home Circuit: Croydon.—Wife Murder.—Joseph Howes was indicted, and also arraigned on the coroner's inquisition, for the wilful murder of his wife on the 16th of July, in the parish of Christchurch, Blackfriars. This case arose out of a drunken quarrel, during which the prisoner knocked down his deceased wife, who in falling struck her head upon the fender, where she lay insensible till she died. The Jury found him Guilty of Manslaughter, and Baron Channell sentenced him to penal servitude for 10 years.

BIRTHS.—On the 4th inst, at Coptfold Hall, Essex, the Lady Catherine Petre, of a daughter—29th ult, at Grimston Lodge, Tadcaster, Yorkshire, the Hon. Mrs. Charles Lane Fox, of a daughter—24th ult, in Dublin, the wife of the Hon. R. Monck, of a son—27th ult, at Banchory, N.B., Lady Outram, wife of Sir Francis Outram, Bart., of a daughter—28th ult, at Hilliers, Petworth, the wife of Lieut.-Colonel Barttelot, M.P., prematurely, of a daughter, stillborn.

MARRIAGES.—On the 30th ult, at Castle Donington, Viscount Marsham, eldest son of the Earl of Romney, to the Lady Constance Hastings, sister of the Marquis of Hastings—6th inst, at the Roman Catholic Chapel, Warwick Street, and afterwards at St. George's, Hanover Square, Lord Alexander Gordon Lennox, third surviving son of the late Duke of Richmond, to Emily Frances, second daughter of Colonel Charles and Lady Caroline Towneley—1st inst, at the Roman Catholic Church, Warwick Street, and afterwards at St. George's, Hanover Square, Sir Henry Winston Barron, Bart., of Barron Court and Glenanna, county of Waterford, to Augusta Anne, youngest daughter of the late Lord Charles Somerset—30th ult, at St. Peter's Church, Bandon, Colonel Aldworth, late 7th Royal Fusiliers, eldest son of Richard Oliver Aldworth, Esq., and Lady Letitia Aldworth, of Newmarket, county Cork, to the Lady Mary Catherine Henrietta Bernard, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Bandon—4th inst, Arthur Henry Turner Newcomen, Esq., of Kirkleatham Hall, Yorkshire, to Rachel, third daughter of Sir Jervoise Clarke Jervoise, Bart., M.P., of Idsworth, Hants—30th ult, at St. Barnabas' Church, Pimlico, the Rev. Euseby D. Cleaver, to Julian Helen, eldest surviving daughter of the late General Sir William H. Sewell, K.C.B., and niece of Sir Hew Dalrymple, Bart.—30th ult, at the parish church of Winkfield, Berkshire, Charles Augustus, eldest son of the late Charles Edmund Rumbold, M.P., of Preston Candover, Hants, to Agatha Ellen, second daughter of George Woodroffe Franklyn, Esq., M.P., of Lovelhill, Berkshire—29th ult, at Barningham, Norfolk, Fiennes Cornwallis, Esq., late Major in the 4th Hussars, second son of Charles Wykeham Martin, Esq., of Leeds Castle, Kent, to Harriet Elizabeth, second daughter of John Thomas Mott, Esq., of Barningham Hall—1st inst, at St. George's, Hanover Square, George Hodgson Wayte, Esq., of the Inner Temple, Fellow of King's College, Cambridge, second son of the late William Wayte, Esq., of Highlands, Wilts, to Annie, youngest daughter of Sir Joseph Paxton, M.P.—4th inst, at Balcombe Church, Captain Henry Fanshawe Davies, Grenadier Guards, eldest son of Lieutenant-General Davies, of Danehurst, Sussex, to Ellen Christine Alexander, second daughter of John Alexander Hankey, Esq., of Balcombe Place, Sussex.

DEATHS.—On the 5th inst, at Pembridge Gardens, Bayswater, the Hon. Charlotte Sophia, wife of Frederick Angerstein, Esq., and youngest daughter of the late Lieutenant-General Lord Blayney—27th ult, in Dover Street, Urani, wife of Admiral Sir Edward Tucker, G.C.B.—4th inst, at 13, Stanhope Street, Gloucester Gate, Catherine Jane Mathew, widow of Colonel Edward Warner, and eldest daughter of the late Major General Sir Charles Shipley—25th ult, at Crimble Hall, John Fenton, late M.P. for the borough of Rochdale, in the county of Lancaster, Esq., aged 72—29th ult, at Hilliers, Petworth, Harriet, the beloved wife of Lieut.-Colonel Barttelot, M.P., fourth daughter of the late Sir Christopher Musgrave, Bart., of Eden Hall, Cumberland—2d inst, at Gilmonby Hall, Yorkshire, Maria, widow of the late Venerable Archdeacon Headlam, aged 77—3d inst, accidentally, by a fall from his horse, Clayton de Windt, Esq., of Blunsdon Hall and Dunnington, Northumberland—3d inst, at West Cliff House, Brighton, Lilian Emily, the infant daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel Wilbraham Lennox, Royal Engineers—28th ult, at 13, Onslow Crescent, Brompton, Lieutenant-Colonel R. A. Andrews, formerly of the 30th Regiment—31st ult, at his residence, 12, Circus, Bath, Captain Montagu Montagu, R.N., second son of the late Montagu Montagu, Esq., of Little Bookham, Surrey, aged 76—28th ult, at Erith, Kent, the Rev. Edward Eyre, rector of Laring, Norfolk, aged 55—27th ult, at Uckfield, Sussex, the Rev. John Streatfeild, M.A., incumbent, aged 67.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Aug. 8.

Fruit and vegetables are still plentiful, especially Peaches and Nectarines, which are abundant. Greengage Plums of good quality are now included in foreign imports, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Foreign Pine Apples are also plentiful. Strawberries are every week getting scarcer, as are also Raspberries, which are all but over. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good supply, and Oranges are also plentiful. Good Potatoes realise from 6s. to 8s. per cwt. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 6s | Currants, p. ½ sieve, 3s to 3s 6d |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Gooseberries, do., 2s 6d to 3s |
| Strawberries, p. lb., 6d to 1s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 5s to 9s | Oranges, per box, 40s to 45s |
| Figs, per doz., 5s to 6s | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Peaches, per doz., 8s to 15s | Nuts, small, per bush, 14s to 18s |
| Nectarines, do., 6s to 10s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Melons, each, 2s to 4s | Walnuts, do., 7s 6d |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | French Beans, per 100, 2s |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 90s to 99s | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| ,, Flukes, do., 100s to 120s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| ,, Rocks, do., 60s to 80s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| ,, Cups, do., 75s to 85s | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.
Smithfield, Thursday, Aug. 6.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 70s to | 80s | Clover, old .. .. | 100s to | 120s |
| Superior do. .. | 80 | 90 | New Clover .. | — | — |
| Inferior do. .. | 64 | 70 | Do. second cut .. | 95 | 118 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 70 | 84 | Straw .. .. .. | 26 | 34 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | — | — | | | |

Harvey & Easton.

Cumberland Market, Thursday, Aug. 6.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay .. | 88s to | 95s | Inferior Clover .. | 84s to | 96s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 65 | 80 | New do. .. .. | 90 | 110 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 74 | 86 | Straw .. .. | 34 | 40 |
| Superior Clover .. | 108 | 118 | | | |

Joshua Baker.

Whitechapel, Thursday, Aug. 6.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 80s to | 90s | Prime Clover .. | 120s to | 124s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 75 | 80 | Inferior do. .. .. | 110 | 115 |
| Prime New Hay .. | 80 | 84 | New do. .. .. | 100 | 105 |
| Inferior .. .. .. | 70 | 75 | Inferior do. .. | 90 | 100 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 33 | Prime 2d cut .. | 100 | 108 |

BRITISH WOOLS.—London, Aug. 6.

Our prices continue firm, but the amount of business transacted is not considerable.

| | s. d. | s. d. | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| South down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ to | 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to | 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto .. | 1 10 — | 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — | 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ — | 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — | 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 — | 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 — | 1 8 |
| | | | Blanket ditto .. .. | — | .. |

HOPS.—BOROUGH MARKET. FRIDAY, Aug. 7.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report a better demand for Hops of all descriptions, with a very bare supply of 1862's. Old Hops are in more request at slightly advanced prices. The plantation accounts are still very unfavourable from all parts, excepting East Sussex, a portion of the Weald of Kent, and Worcester.

NEWGATE.—Aug. 7.

Best Fresh Butter .. .. 13s. per dozen lbs.
Second do. do. .. .. 11s. "
Pork, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, Aug. 3.

We have a very large supply of Beasts, and trade is slow, consequently prices are lower for all kinds, yet there is scarcely a quotable] reduction in choicest descriptions. Sheep and Lambs are rather more plentiful than on Monday last. Trade is dull, but that day's quotations are pretty well maintained. Trade is slow for Calves at Thursday's rates. From Germany and Holland there are 1850 Beasts, 8640 Sheep, and 364 Calves; from Scotland, 30 Beasts; from Ireland, 260; from France, 14 Calves; and 3000 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 6 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools. | .. — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 2 — 4 6 | Do. Shorn .. | 4 4 — 4 6 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 2 8 — 3 4 | Ewes & 2d quality | .. — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | .. — .. | Do. Shorn .. | 3 8 — 4 2 |
| | | Lambs .. .. | 5 0 — 6 0 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| Do. Shorn .. | 4 10 — 5 0 | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 5690; Sheep & Lambs, 30,090; Calves, 408; Pigs, 220

THURSDAY, Aug. 6.

The number of Beasts is rather smaller than on Thursday last. Trade is still very heavy, and we cannot quote higher than on Monday. We are not quite so heavily supplied with Sheep, but the demand is smaller, and late quotations are with difficulty maintained. Trade is rather more cheerful for Lambs; choicest kinds are readily disposed of, but other kinds meet with a dull sale. We have again a large supply of Calves; trade dull, and prices rather lower. Our foreign supply consists of 335 Beasts, 2540 Sheep, and 609 Calves. Milch Cows, 90.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 6 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools. | .. — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 2 — 4 6 | Do. Shorn .. | 4 4 — 4 6 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 2 8 — 3 10 | Ewes & 2d quality | .. — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | .. — .. | Do. Shorn .. | 3 8 — 4 2 |
| | | Lambs .. .. | 5 0 — 6 0 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| Do. Shorn .. | 4 10 — 5 0 | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 1120; Sheep & Lambs, 10,120; Calves, 772; Pigs, 140.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, Aug. 3.

The supply of English Wheat to this morning's market was very small, and purchasers were found at the prices of this day se'nnight. There were several parcels of new, of which the quality was various, but mostly fine. The prices realised were too irregular to enable us to give quotations. For foreign the inquiry was very limited, and the little business transacted was at barely last week's rates. Barley, Beans, and Peas were unaltered in value. The Oat trade was dull, and to effect sales it was necessary to submit to a decline of 6d. per qr. Flour was rather cheaper.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 46—47 | Red ..... | 42—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 47—52 | Red .... | 42—48 |
| — — Talavera .............. | 48—52 | | |
| — Norfolk .................... | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign .................... | 35—62 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist, —s to —s. . Chev. | — | Malting .. | — |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk ............ | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ..................Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ......Poland and Brew | 18—23 | Feed .... | 17—22 |
| RYE ................................ | 30—33 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign .................. | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan....33s to 35s...Tick | 34—36 | Harrow .. | 34—36 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s.. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign .................Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 32—34 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—40 |
| — Maple .... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 30—38 |
| MAIZE .........................White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 42—47 | | |
| — 2d do ..................... ditto | 30—38 | Country .. | 30—38 |
| — Foreign ........... per barrel | 20—28 | Per sack | 34—48 |

FRIDAY, Aug. 7.

Harvest work has been fast progressing in the home counties during the week, and although we had some rain on Wednesday night it was not sufficient to stop it. The Wheat trade has continued dull and inactive, with a downward tendency of prices, resulting where the supplies from abroad were heavy, as in Glasgow, Liverpool, and some markets of the E. C., in a reduction of 6d. to 1s. per qr. on foreign; of old English the markets were badly supplied, and prices for such unaltered; several samples of new have been sold at irregular rates upon our market, they were generally good and fit for immediate use. Barley met a little more demand. Beans, Peas, and Oats were neglected, the latter being cheaper to sell. Flour was a slow sale, but best sweet samples could not be bought at less money. Since Friday last 77 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has been pretty active at declining prices; Wheat is 1s., Maize, Barley, and Beans about 6d. per qr. cheaper than this day week. In Paris (Aug. 6), the Flour trade was very slow, and prices have declined 1s. 6d. per 280 lbs. The present stock is estimated at 7800 cwts.; the six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 36s. per 280 lbs. Holders of Wheat are willing to accept about 1s. 3d. lower prices than last week, but buyers declined purchasing without a reduction of 2s. to 2s. 6d. per 480 lbs. The arrivals of English Grain since Monday have been small, of foreign moderate, but of American Flour large. This day's market was but poorly attended, and the little business transacted in Wheat, either English or foreign, was at Monday's prices. Spring Corn of all descriptions sold slowly at late rates.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 410 qrs. | 20 qrs. | 80 qrs. | 320 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 640 | — " |
| Foreign .. | 26,280 " | 3540 | 22,930 " | — " / 57,770 brls |

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—There are not many Wheat samples offering as yet from this week's abundant arrival, but with a limited number of buyers in attendance, and much indifference to enter upon transactions, the business to-day is of very moderate extent, and the value must be noted 1d. per cental under that of Tuesday last for most descriptions of American red; white Wheat nominally unchanged. Previous rates are paid for fresh barrel Flour, on a retail demand; sack Flour is in small compass, and meets more inquiry than of late. Beans move slowly without change in prices. Oats and Oatmeal dull, and unaltered in value. Indian Corn has declined 9d. per qr. on the week, mixed American being sold ex quay at 26s 6d.; sales to a tolerable amount, but few purchases for Ireland; white Corn, 29s. to 30s., this description being in limited supply.

FRIDAY, Aug. 7.—Attendance fair; Wheat in moderate consumptive demand at Tuesday's rates, and in some cases rather easier; Flour more freely offered, and the turn easier. Indian Corn, good demand for mixed, at 26s. to 26s. 3d. Egyptian Beans steady. Oats and Oatmeal unaltered. Egyptian Wheat quiet.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| June 27 | 46s 5d | 31s 2d | 22s10d | 35s 9d | 39s 8d | 36s 2d |
| July 4 | 46 11 | 30 9 | 23 11 | 32 2 | 39 6 | 38 0 |
| — 11 | 46 10 | 30 10 | 23 6 | 34 5 | 40 2 | 39 0 |
| — 18 | 46 7 | 28 10 | 22 6 | 32 9 | 40 0 | 37 1 |
| — 25 | 45 11 | 29 10 | 22 9 | 32 8 | 39 3 | 35 11 |
| Aug. 1 | 45 11 | 31 0 | 23 0 | 37 11 | 39 11 | 36 3 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 5 | 30 5 | 23 1 | 34 5 | 39 9 | 37 1 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

COAL MARKET.—Aug. 7.

Walls End Hetton, 18s. 6d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 17s. 9d.; Walls End Braddylls Hetton, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Eden Main, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Hunwick, 15s. 6d.; North Pelton Gas, 13s. 6d.; West Tanfield Moor Butes, 13s. 6d.; Bebside Hartley, 17s.; Hastings Hartley, 17s.—29 ships at market.

To the Trade.

WORKING PARTNER or MANAGER.—Has a thorough knowledge of the Cultivation of Plants and the Nursery Business generally. The highest references given. —C. M., Mr. Stewart, 46, Old Bond Street, W.

WANTED, a HEAD GARDENER for a first-rate Plant place.—Although the principal requirement is the cultivation of Orchids and Ferns, of which there is a splendid collection, yet a general knowledge of the other branches of Gardening, embracing the growth of Fruit and the Management of Pleasure Grounds, is requisite. A liberal salary, with other advantages, given, and all necessary and reasonable accommodation and assistance to insure success is allowed. —Address with full particulars, (in the first instance by letter only) to A. B., care of Mr. James Veitch, King's Road, Chelsea.

WANTED, a steady active YOUNG MAN to work in a Nursery, a good Budder and Grafter, willing to make himself generally useful. References required as to character and ability.—Apply, stating wages required, to G. J. WOOLLETT, Caterham, Surrey.

WANTED, at Michaelmas, a BAILIFF and WIFE, without incumbrance; the latter to Manage Dairy and Poultry. He must understand thoroughly the duties of a Bailiff on a gentleman's estate. The farm is between 200 and 300 acres.—Apply to G. WESTBURY, Esq., 44, Lincoln's Inn Fields, or at Andover.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40, married, two children; well experienced. Three years' good character.—J. W., Leslie Cottage, Laurel Grove, Penge, near Sydenham, Kent.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 29, single; practical experience in Grapes, Pines, Peaches, &c.; a thorough good Plantsman, also a good Kitchen and Flower Gardener. Four years' good character.—A. B., Reading Rooms, Crystal Palace, Sydenham.

GARDENER (HEAD), will be disengaged by the end of this month.—Married, no incumbrance. Seven years' first-class character as a Grower of Grapes, Pines, Peaches, &c., Stove and Greenhouse Plants; a good Kitchen Gardener, and experienced in Laying Out Grounds, &c.—L. M., Kingsfield House, Dartford Heath.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 39, married; a first-rate Hard and Soft-wooded Plant Grower, Orchids, and Ferns; also Early and Late Forcing; Pines, Vines, Flowers, and Vegetables. Three years' good character.—F. C., Pole Hill, Hillingdon Heath, near Uxbridge, W.

GARDENER (HEAD), where one or more are kept, or would not object to a good Single-handed place. —Age 29, single; understands the Management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens; also the Growing of Grapes, Cucumbers, Melons, &c. Good character.—A. B., Mr. J. Maskell, Tilehurst, near Reading, Berks.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30; thoroughly experienced in all branches of his profession, more especially in all kinds of Forcing, and in the Laying-out and Planting of Flower Gardens on the Bedding-out system. Satisfactory references.—A., Messrs. J. & J. Fraser, Lea Bridge Road, Leyton, Essex, N.E.

GARDENER (HEAD), age 30, single.—J. HORWOOD, Gardener to G. H. Turnbull, Esq., The Rookery, Downe, Bromley, Kent, S.E., wishes to obtain a situation for his Foreman, who has served him for three years. He is fully competent to undertake a first-rate situation as Gardener, being of active and industrious habits, much experienied in the Forcing of Grapes and other Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables; is a good Plantsman and Flower Gardener.—Address as above.

GARDENER (HEAD), age 28, married, without incumbrance.—WM. WOOD & SON are desirous of recommending a first-rate Gardener; one thoroughly acquainted with the Management of Forcing Vines, Pines, Melons, &c.; Plant-houses, Kitchen and Flower Garden, &c. Messrs. W. & S. feel perfectly satisfied he would give any lady or gentleman requiring a good Gardener thorough satisfaction.—WM. WOOD & SON, Nurseries, Maresfield, Uckfield, Sussex.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 36, married; has a practical knowledge of his profession. Leaving through the death of his employer.—J. C., Gardener, Kennington Hall, Ashford, Kent.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 39, single; thoroughly understands the Growing of Vines, Peaches, Melons, &c., the Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Stove and Greenhouse Plants. Good character.—W. JONES, H. R. Corbet, Esq., Adderley Hall, Market Drayton, Salop.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30; thoroughly understands the Growing of Pines, Vines, Peaches, Melons, &c.; the Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens, Stove and Greenhouse Plants. Three years' good character from his last place.—A. B., The Gardens, Bishopstoke, near Winchester.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 32, married, one child; thoroughly competent in his profession. Has taken many prizes at the Botanic and Horticultural Societies of London. Undeniable character.—H. LAMB, 20, Marlow Terrace, Wick Road, Homerton.

GARDENER (HEAD), or STEWARD and GARDENER.—Age 40, married, two children, one in service, the other 10 years of age; thoroughly competent in every branch of his profession. Testimonials of nearly six years from the gentleman he is about leaving will be found satisfactory.— E. F. G., Post Office, Newbury, Berks.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 26, single; has a good knowledge of his profession. Good character.—E. C. J., Mr. Bennett, Stationer, Upper Sydenham, Kent, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 33, married, no incumbrance; understands his profession in all its branches. Seventeen years in first-rate gardens. Good character.—W. M., 15, Friendly Place, New Town, Deptford, S.E.

GARDENER.—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; can have a good character from the nobleman he has just left.—K. Y., Oak Villa, North Hill, Highgate, London, N.

GARDENER.—Married, no incumbrance, thoroughly practical; well up in all the routine of the profession, &c.—T. T., 5, Bywater Street, King's Road, Chelsea.

GARDENER.—Age 39; understands Forcing, and Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Wife as Chief Servant if required.—J. BRYANT, 2, Kingsley Road, Maidstone, Kent.

GARDENER.—Age 23, single; is well experienced in Forcing, Plant Growing, Kitchen and Flower Gardening. Good character and references.—F. B., 14, Ormond Row, Smith Street, Chelsea, S.W.

GARDENER.—Married, no incumbrance; experienced in Forcing, and Flower and Kitchen Gardens. No single-handed place accepted. Four-and-a-half years' good character. Wife to look after Poultry if required.—W. C., Post Office, Hanworth.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER (ASSISTANT or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 31, married, no incumbrance; has passed a botanical examination.—A. H. M., Tranquil Place, Bexley Heath, Kent, S.E.

GARDENER, under a nobleman's or gentleman's Gardener, for 2 or 3 years' experience.—Age 19; a liberal Premium will be given. Six years' good character from the gentleman he has just left.—J. H., 2, Crouch End Hill, Hornsey, Middlesex.

GARDENER (UNDER), or for employment in a large garden where he would have an opportunity of improving himself.—Age 22. A gentleman wishes to recommend a young Man, who has had three years' experience in a good garden.—GEORGE BISHOP, Lamberhurst, Kent.

GARDENER (UNDER).—Young; several years experience where Grapes, Pines, Peaches, &c., Stove and Greenhouse Plants were grown in great perfection. Can have a good character for ability as a general workman.—H. I., Kingsfield Lodge, Dartford Heath.

HOUSE FOREMAN & PROPAGATOR (GENERAL). —First-class experience and references.—A. B., 7, Riversdale Terrace, Richmond, Surrey.

To Nurserymen.

PROPAGATOR, or PROPAGATOR and FOREMAN.—Good practical experience in both Hard and Soft-wooded Plants; a good Grafter of Azaleas, Camellias, Roses, Rhododendrons, Conifers, &c.—C. L., Messrs. Rollisson & Son's, Tooting Nursery, Surrey.

BAILIFF and GARDENER or GENERAL MANAGER on an Estate.—No incumbrance; 20 years service in the Northern and Midland Counties of England with noblemen and gentlemen. References on application.— SAMUEL BROWN, Wheldrake, Yorkshire.

BAILIFF.—Understands the Management of Heavy and Light Soils; also the Breeding and Rearing of all kinds of Stock. Six years' good character.—W. B., Post Office, Groombridge, Tunbridge Wells.

MANAGER of a large Home Farm.—A practical Agriculturist; is in the prime of life, of active habits, and can give satisfactory references as to his ability and character.—A. B., Mr. Turner, Land Agent, Richmond, Yorkshire.

To the Nursery and Seed Trade.

CLERK.—Age 34; understands Book-keeping, and many years experience in the various branches of the business. Unexceptionable references.—A. Z., Mr. William Bull's Establishment for New and Rare Plants, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

To Nurserymen, &c.

CLERK, SALESMAN, &c.—Has had considerable experience in the business. Is a good correspondent, and can get up Catalogues, &c. No objection to Travel if required.—A. K. W., 5, Harwood Terrace, Sandy End, Fulham.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 15, 1863.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION for the ADVANCEMENT of SCIENCE.

The NEXT MEETING will be held at NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE, commencing on WEDNESDAY, August 26, under the Presidency of Sir W. G. ARMSTRONG, F.R.S.

Notices of Communications intended to be read to the Association, accompanied by a statement whether or not the Author will be present at the Meeting, may be addressed to G. GRIFFITH, M.A., Assistant-General Secretary; or to Captain NOBLE; AUGUSTUS H. HUNT, Esq.; R. C. CLAPHAM, Esq., Local Secretaries, Westgate Street, Newcastle-upon-Tyne

WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE, M.A., F.R.S., General Treasurer.
19, Chester Street, Belgrave Square, London, S.W.

THE LIVERPOOL and LONDON FIRE and LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.
Established in 1836.

Offices—1, Dale Street, Liverpool; 20 and 21, Poultry, London.
PROGRESS OF THE COMPANY SINCE 1850.

| Year. | Fire Premiums. | Life Premiums. | Invested Funds. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1851 | £54,305 | £27,157 | £502,824 |
| 1856 | £222,279 | £72,781 | £821,061 |
| 1861 | £360,130 | £135,974 | £1,311,905 |
| 1862 | £436,065 | £138,703 | £1,417,808 |

The Fire Duty paid by this Company in England in 1862 was £71,284.
SWINTON BOULT, Secretary to the Company.
JOHN ATKINS, Resident Secretary, London.

NORWICH UNION FIRE INSURANCE SOCIETY,

The Business of the Company exceeds 70,000,000*l.*

The Duty paid to Government for the year 1862 was 85,062*l.*, and the amount insured on farming stock, 10,086,332*l.*

A Bonus of three-fifths of the profits periodically made to parties insuring, who have thus, from time to time, received sums amounting in the aggregate to 440,000*l.*; and the Society now holds a LARGE RESERVE applicable to a future Bonus.

The Rates of Premium are in no case higher than those charged by the other principal Offices making no returns to their insurers.

For Prospectuses apply at the Society's Offices, Surrey Street, Norwich; and 6, Crescent, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.

LOANS.—THE BRITISH MUTUAL INVESTMENT, LOAN, and DISCOUNT COMPANY (LIMITED), is prepared to GRANT LOANS, in sums not exceeding 1000*l.*, upon approved personal or other security, repayable by easy instalments, extending over any period not exceeding 10 years.

Forms of Proposal, Prospectuses, and every other information, may be obtained at the Offices of the Company, 17 and 18, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.

CHARLES JAMES THICKE, Manager.
JOSEPH K. JACKSON, Secretary.

Works on Botany, by Dr. Lindley.

THE VEGETABLE KINGDOM; OR, THE STRUCTURE, CLASSIFICATION, AND USES OF PLANTS. Illustrated upon the Natural System. In One Volume, 8vo, cloth, price 36*s.*, with upwards of 500 Illustrations.

THE ELEMENTS of BOTANY, Structural and Physiological. With a Glossary of Technical Terms. In One Volume, 8vo, cloth, with numerous Illustrations, price 12*s.*

 The Glossary may be had separately, price 5*s.* cloth.

SCHOOL BOTANY; OR, THE RUDIMENTS OF BOTANICAL SCIENCE. In One Volume, 8vo, half-bound, with 400 Illustrations, price 5*s.* 6*d.*

DESCRIPTIVE BOTANY; OR, THE ART OF DESCRIBING PLANTS correctly, in Scientific Language, for Self-Instruction and the Use of Schools. Price 1*s.*

BRADBURY & EVANS, 11, Bouverie Street, E.C.

Historical Memoirs by Hepworth Dixon.

I.
Fifth Edition, crown 8vo, with Plates, 2*s.* 6*d.*,

JOHN HOWARD: A Contribution to the Social History of England in the 18th century.

"The adventures of Howard are recorded in a loving and energetic spirit. The reflections are just, often ingenious and eloquent, almost always striking. The book contains many satisfactory evidences of an independent and vigorous intellect."—Examiner.

II.
A New Edition, crown 8vo, cloth, with Portrait, 2*s.* 6*d.*,

ROBERT BLAKE: Admiral and General at Sea. "The subject is noble; and Mr. Dixon has treated it with rare vigour, spirit, and conscientiousness. The glorious victories won by Robert Blake are universally known; but to find out how they were won, and what sort of man achieved them, we must apply to the famous Republican Admiral's latest, best, and completest biographer. His narrative is not only historically valuable, but is terse, vivid, and dramatic in no ordinary degree. We especially like the manner in which the extraordinary events of Blake's period are interwoven with Blake's life; and the vigorous and masterly clearness of the descriptions of the sea-fights."—Leader.

III.
A New Edition, crown 8vo, cloth, with Portrait, price 7*s.*,

WILLIAM PENN: An Historical Biography. With a Reply to Lord Macaulay's Charges against Penn. "Mr. Dixon writes vigorously and picturesquely. His very able book exhibits skill in research, and eminent powers both of condensation and description. The interest of his narrative never flags, whether he is dealing with the old Admiral and his worldly intrigues—with the youthful Quaker and his love affairs—with the mature philanthropist and his rising colony, or with the bewildered and melancholy close of the great Quaker's earthly career,—the history is admirably sustained." —Gentleman's Magazine.

"Mr. Dixon's sketch of the Governor's life in his American dwelling is tempting and picturesque. His style is good and easy. There is life in his narrative and vigour in his descriptions."—Edinburgh Review.

CHAPMAN & HALL; and JACKSON & WALFORD

HINTS on the DESTRUCTION of RED SPIDER, GREEN FLY, and other Insects that infest GREEN-HOUSES. Price 1*s.*
London: KENT & Co. Birmingham: WILLIAM WILLEY.

Third Edition, with Engravings, price 5*s.*,

A PRACTICAL TREATISE on the CULTIVATION of the GRAPE VINE. By WILLIAM THOMSON, Gardener to His Grace the Duke of Buccleuch, K.G., &c., Dalkeith Park, Scotland. With Additions, and a Chapter on the Open-Air Cultivation of the Vine.

WILLIAM BLACKWOOD & SONS, Edinburgh and London.

In fcp. 8vo, with 6 Etchings and 4 Woodcuts, price 6*s.*,

HOME WALKS and HOLIDAY RAMBLES. By the Rev. C. A. JOHNS, B.A., F.L.S., Author of "British Birds in their Haunts," and other Works on Natural History.

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

New Edition of Admiral Fitz Roy's Weather Book.
Second Edition, in 8vo, with 16 Illustrations, price 15*s.*,

THE WEATHER BOOK: a Manual of Practical Meteorology. By Rear-Admiral R. FITZ ROY, R.N., F.R.S.

"This is a popular exposition of the application of the science of Meteorology which may be made available for the wants of every-day life....... Admiral Fitz Roy has done his task in a masterly manner."—Daily News.

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

Knowledge for the Young.
A New Edition, in 18mo, price 1*s.*

THE STEPPING-STONE to KNOWLEDGE: Comprising several hundred Questions and Answers on Miscellaneous Subjects, adapted to the capacity of the Youthful Mind. By a MOTHER.

In the same Series, price 1*s.* each, Stepping-Stones to KNOWLEDGE, Second Series, 1*s.*

BIOGRAPHY, 1*s.*
GEOGRAPHY, 1*s.*
ROMAN HISTORY, 1*s.*
GRECIAN HISTORY, 1*s.*
FRENCH HISTORY, 1*s.*
BIBLE KNOWLEDGE, 1*s.*
ASTRONOMY, 1*s.*
MUSIC, 1*s.*
ENGLISH HISTORY, 1*s.*
ENGLISH GRAMMAR, 1*s.*
FRENCH CONVERSATION and PRONUNCIATION, 1*s.*
ANIMAL and VEGETABLE PHYSIOLOGY, 1*s.*
NATURAL HISTORY of the VERTEBRATE ANIMALS, 2 Parts, 1*s.* each.

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

Standard School Histories, published by Mr. Murray.
HISTORICAL CLASS BOOKS.

THE STUDENT'S HUME. A History of England from the Earliest Times. Based on the History by DAVID HUME, corrected and continued to 1858. 40th Thousand. Woodcuts. Post 8vo, 7*s.* 6*d.*

II.
THE STUDENT'S HISTORY of FRANCE. From the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire, 1852. Edited by WM. SMITH, LL.D. Woodcuts, Post 8vo, 7*s.* 6*d.*

III.
THE STUDENT'S HISTORY of GREECE. From the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. By WM. SMITH, LL.D. 25th Thousand. Woodcuts. Post 8vo, 7*s.* 6*d.*

IV.
THE STUDENT'S HISTORY of ROME. From the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By Dean LIDDELL. 25th Thousand. Woodcuts. Post 8vo, 7*s.* 6*d.*

V.
THE STUDENT'S GIBBON. An Epitome of the History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By WM. SMITH, LL.D. 10th Thousand. Woodcuts. Post 8vo, 7*s.* 6*d.*

VI.
THE STUDENT'S MANUAL of ANCIENT GEOGRAPHY. By Rev. W. L. BEVAN. Edited by WM. SMITH, LL.D. Woodcuts. Post 8vo, 9*s.*

VII.
THE STUDENT'S MANUAL of the ENGLISH LANGUAGE. By G. P. MARSH. Edited by WM. SMITH, LL.D. Post 8vo, 7*s.* 6*d.*

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL HISTORIES.

MRS. MARKHAM'S HISTORY of ENGLAND, from the Invasion by the Romans down to 1858. 156th Thousand. Woodcuts. 12mo, 6*s.*

II.
MRS. MARKHAM'S HISTORY of FRANCE, from the Conquest by the Gauls to the Death of Louis Philippe. 60th Thousand. Woodcuts. 12mo, 6*s.*

III.
MRS. MARKHAM'S HISTORY of GERMANY, from the Invasion of the Kingdom by the Romans under Marius to the Present Time. 15th Thousand. Woodcuts, 12mo, 6*s.*

IV.
LITTLE ARTHUR'S HISTORY of ENGLAND. By Lady CALLCOTT. 130th Thousand. Woodcuts. 12mo, 2*s.* 6*d.*

V.
DR. WM. SMITH'S SMALLER HISTORY of GREECE. For the Use of Junior Classes. Woodcuts. 12mo, 3*s.* 6*d.*

VI.
DR. WM. SMITH'S SMALLER HISTORY of ROME. For the Use of Junior Classes. Woodcuts. 12mo, 3*s.* 6*d.*

VII.
DR. WM. SMITH'S SMALLER HISTORY of ENGLAND. For the Use of Junior Classes. Woodcuts. 12mo, 3*s.* 6*d.*

VIII.
ÆSOP'S FABLES. A New Version, chiefly from Original Sources. By Rev. THOS. JAMES. 38th Thousand. With Woodcuts. Post 8vo, 2*s.* 6*d.*

JOHN MURRAY, Albemarle Street, W.

WANTED, on Separate Sheets, or bound up in Book, properly dried and mounted and correctly named, a collection of BRITISH FERNS, with if possible the Fern allies; a collection of BRITISH WILD FLOWERS; a collection of BRITISH GRASSES. Also a set of BRITISH BIRDS' EGGS, and a set of BRITISH LAND SHELLS and SEA SHELLS.

Address, stating definite terms for each Collection, and also stating how soon they could be sent, to X. Y. Z., Castle Hotel, Neath, Glamorganshire.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

THE Notes of the three Powers in answer to the despatches of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF on the Polish question have been transmitted to St. Petersburg. It is understood that each Cabinet has replied specially to the arguments addressed particularly to itself, but that the three Notes terminate with an identical paragraph, in which the three Powers again testify the unity of their views by insisting firmly on the six points and the proposal of a conference.

The KINGS OF SAXONY, BAVARIA, HANOVER, and WURTEMBERG, the GRAND DUKES OF HESSE, MECKLENBURG-STRELITZ, and NASSAU, and 14 other minor Princes of Germany, have accepted the invitation of the EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA to meet in Congress at Frankfort for the reform of the Germanic Confederation. The KINGS OF HOLLAND and DENMARK have declined the invitation, and the KING OF PRUSSIA has not yet come to a decision, though it is rumoured that he contemplates seceding from the Confederation altogether. The CROWN PRINCE was summoned on Monday by telegraph to Gastein, where an animated discussion is said to have taken place between the King, the Prince, and the Prime Minister, but the object of the discussion has not transpired. After the conference the CROWN PRINCE returned to Berlin.

Accounts from Mexico announce that the Council of Notabilities on the 10th inst. declared unanimously, with the exception of two votes, that the Mexican nation, through them, selected the Empire as the form of government, and through them proclaimed the Archduke MAXIMILIAN of Austria Emperor of Mexico. They also resolved that, if his Imperial Highness should refuse the offer, the EMPEROR OF THE FRENCH should be implored to select a person in whom he has full confidence to occupy the throne. The French official journals assert on what they state to be good authority, that the ARCHDUKE has accepted the offered crown; and it is reported from Vienna that His Imperial Highness intends to visit the Emperor NAPOLEON at Biarritz. The French papers also state that the ratification of the choice made by the Council of Notabilities will not be submitted to universal suffrage, but to the 6000 municipalities of Mexico. They add that France, England, and Spain, will recognise the new Emperor immediately, and that arrangements will be made for the payment by Mexico within 10 years of the cost of the war and the sums owing to French creditors, and for the maintenance of a French army of occupation for a period to be agreed upon, at the expense of Mexico. A despatch from San Francisco states that 10,000 French troops were expected at Acapulco, whence they were to be sent to garrison the Mexican ports in the Pacific.

Advices from New York to the 1st inst. state that the army of the Potemac, under General MEADE, is once more on the Rappahannock, and has seized the heights in the rear of Fredericksburg. General LEE has escaped out of the Shenandoah Valley with all his army and stores, and has assumed a defensive position on the old well-fought ground between Culpepper and Gordonville; The Confederates have been defeated in Kentucky and Tennessee, but have repulsed the Federals with great slaughter in an assault on Fort Wagner in Charleston harbour, and compelled them to suspend operations. The proclamation of an empire in Mexico, and the policy pursued by the Emperor NAPOLEON in that country, in utter disregard of the Monroe doctrine, have caused an immense sensation in the Northern States, where an offensive and defensive alliance between the Confederate Government and France is already discussed as a probable event. The New York Tribune states that the Washington Cabinet has intimated to her Majesty's Government that the sailing of privateers from this country will be regarded as an unfriendly act; while the New York Herald goes so far as to assert that Mr. Seward has informed Earl Russell, that if privateers continue to be fitted out in England, Federal war vessels will not regard British ports as a protection to such ships. The United States district court has condemned the cargoes of the steamers Peterhoff, Springbock, Gertrude, and Liorvi.

Despatches from China inform us that the neighbourhood of Shanghai was quiet on June 22, and that the affairs in Japan are temporarily settled. Accounts from New Zealand have been received through Australia, stating that the Maoris have been completely routed at Taranaki by General Cameron.

Home News.

Departure of the Queen for Germany.—The Queen, accompanied by Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice, arrived at Windsor on Monday afternoon from Osborne, and on Tuesday afternoon proceeded to Woolwich Dockyard, and embarked in the Fairy for Greenhithe, where the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert was waiting to convey her Majesty to the Continent. The Royal party travelled to Woolwich in seven carriages. There was no military escort, but the carriages were preceded by a body of mounted police, wearing their newly appointed helmets, to clear the way. The Queen having expressed her desire that all ceremony should be dispensed with, and that there might be no assemblages of people to witness the proceedings, all applications for admission to the Arsenal to see the embarkation were rejected, and rigorous orders were given that the strictest privacy should be observed, the workmen and clerks occupying offices in the yard being forbidden to approach the windows on pain of instant dismissal. These regulations, which went far beyond what the Queen wished, did not prevent the people assembling along the Greenwich road and the streets through which the Queen passed, and her Majesty bowed repeatedly in recognition of the various marks of loyalty and respect with which she was received. A few minutes after the Queen's arrival in the dockyard, Earl Granville drove up in a phaeton, and joined Her Majesty on board the Fairy. In less than 20 minutes after the Queen's embarkation, the Fairy, accompanied by the Vivid and the Trinity yacht Irene, was under weigh, and Viscount Sydney, Colonel Maude, Colonel Du Plat, Colonel Sir David Wood, and Sir F. Nicholson, who had been in attendance on the Queen, took their departure. On arriving at Greenhithe, the Queen went on board the Victoria and Albert, which remained at anchor during the night, and at an early hour on Wednesday morning left the Thames for Antwerp, escorted by the Osborne, the Vivid, and other vessels. Her Majesty landed at Antwerp in the course of the afternoon, and proceeded to the Palace of Laeken. The King of the Belgians and the Duke and Duchess of Brabant received the Royal party at the private railway station. The Queen's suite were conducted to the Palace at Brussels. A grand dinner was given at Laeken in the evening in honour of her Majesty. On Thursday the English and Belgian Royal families drove out at Brussels. A grand dinner was given in the evening at Lacken, after which both the Royal families, with the exception of the King and Queen Victoria, attended the performances at the Saint Hubert Theatre.

The Court at Osborne.—On Thursday week Prince Alfred, Princess Louisa, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice embarked in the Royal yacht Fairy, to be present at the Cowes Regatta. Count and Countess Gleichen dined with her Majesty in the evening. On Friday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa, inspected the new schools at Whippingham, now erecting by her Majesty's command. On Sunday morning the Queen, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince Alfred, Prince Arthur, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service at Osborne. The Rev. G. Protheroe officiated. On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice, left Osborne for Windsor. Prince Alfred travelled with her Majesty to Basingstoke, and thence proceeded to London. On Tuesday the Queen and Royal family left Windsor for Germany. Prince Arthur left Windsor for Bagshot Park. Princess Louisa remains at Osborne.

The Prince and Princess of Wales.—On Friday week the Prince and Princess visited Holyrood Palace, the Castle, and other objects of interest in Edinburgh, and received a most enthusiastic welcome in passing through the streets. In the afternoon their Royal Highnesses left Edinburgh for the North. The rain poured in torrents as they left the hotel, completely drenching the spectators. Their Royal Highnesses travelled by a special train to Perth, where they passed the night at the British Hotel. Soon after their arrival the Prince left the hotel and paid a visit to Lord Stormont at Scone Palace. On Saturday morning the Prince and Princess resumed their journey through Aberdeen and Aboyne, and arrived at Abergeldie at half past 5 o'clock, all well. On Sunday the Prince and Princess attended Divine worship in Crathie Church. The Rev. Mr. Anderson, minister of the parish, officiated. It is expected that the stay of their Royal Highnesses at Abergeldie will extend over two months, and the Highlanders hope that they may honour the Braemar gathering with their presence.

Prince Arthur, who arrived in Shrewsbury on Thursday the 6th inst., paid a visit on Friday to the abbey and the museum, where the curiosities discovered at the ancient Roman city of Uriconium are deposited. His Royal Highness then proceeded to the spot itself, which lies about five miles from the town. On Saturday morning the Prince left Shrewsbury for Windsor, to visit the Queen previous to her departure for the Continent.

Christening of the Infant Princess of Leiningen.—The christening of the infant Princess, daughter of the Prince and Princess Leiningen, took place at Osborne on Sunday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. L. Onslow, chaplain of her Majesty's ship Racoon. The sponsors were the Queen, the Princess William of Baden (representing the Grand Duchess of Baden), Princess Helena (representing the Crown Princess of Prussia), and Prince William of Baden (representing the Duke of Saxe Coburg), and the Dowager Princess of Leiningen. Her Majesty named the child Alberta Victoria Sophie Marie Ernestine.

Lord-Lieutenancy.—The Queen has appointed Lord Belhaven, K.T., to be Lieutenant and Sheriff Principal of Lanarkshire, in the room of the late Duke of Hamilton.

The Bishop of Oxford, whose health has been for some time in an unsatisfactory state, caused by a severe affection of the throat, has left England at the desire of his medical advisers to spend a few weeks in Switzerland.

Court of Probate and Divorce.—Sir James Wilde, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, has been appointed to succeed Sir Cresswell Cresswell as Chief Judge of this Court.

Diplomatic Changes.—Sir James Hudson, her Majesty's Envoy to the King of Italy, who has for a long series of years represented England at the Court of Turin, has been recalled. The Hon. Henry George Elliot, who was Minister Plenipotentiary to the kingdom of the Two Sicilies from 1859 till their absorption in the new kingdom of Italy, has been appointed his successor.

Order of the Bath.—The Queen has given orders for the appointment of Sir James Hudson, K.C.B., her Majesty's Minister at Turin, to be a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath; James Douglas, Esq., C.B., Governor of Vancouver's Island and British Columbia; and Captain his Serene Highness the Prince of Leiningen, R.N., to be Knights Commander of the Bath; Charles St. John Septimus Herbert, Esq., formerly commanding the Militia and Volunteers in New Zealand, and George Benvenuto Mathew, Esq., her Majesty's Minister to the Republic of Central America, to be Companions of the Order.

Knighthood.—The Queen has directed letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal, granting the dignity of a Knight of the United Kingdom to Dr. James Coxe, M.D., of Kinellan, in the county of Edinburgh, one of the Lunacy Commissioners for Scotland; and to Goldsworthy Gurney, Esq., of Bute, in the county of Cornwall, the inventor of the Bude light, and the successful ventilator of the two Houses of Parliament.

Parliamentary Movements.—There is a vacancy for Ludlow caused by the death of Mr. Beriah Botfield. It is stated that either Sir James Bailey, Bart., or Sir William Fraser, Bart., will come forward as a candidate for the vacant seat in the Conservative interest.

Foreign.

France.—The Note of the French Government, in reply to the despatch of the Russian Cabinet, was sent to St. Petersburg on Saturday by a special courier. Those of Austria and England have also been despatched in order that the three Notes may reach their destination simultaneously. The Constitutionnel says that each Cabinet has replied specially to the arguments addressed particularly to itself, but the three Notes terminate with an identical paragraph, once more testifying the unity of the views of the three Powers. The France has reason to believe that the notes maintain with firmness the demands of the three Powers, and insist on a conference of the eight Powers. They are, however, drawn up in a spirit of moderation which will allow Russia to consent to the re-opening of negotiations without sacrificing her dignity. The same journal in another article, referring to the despatch of the Notes to St. Petersburg, says that should Russia formally refuse to do justice to the claims of the three Powers, the period of the negotiations might be considered at an end. Several of the Ministerial papers publish comments on the recent despatch of Prince Gortschakoff, and say that though it is courteous in its language it makes no concession, and changes nothing in the real state of affairs. The Pays, in an article signed by the editorial secretary, says:—

"Russia flatters herself she will intimidate France, England, and Austria by bluster and rhodomontade. Can she hope for such a result from her menaces, the exhibition of a convulsive patriotism, and the display on paper of her military forces? No! Russia, by crying very loudly, hopes to dissemble the sentiment of her danger, but does not succeed in deceiving the Powers, who are not likely to be terrified out of their equanimity."

The Semaphore of Marseilles having lately announced an exchange of letters between the Emperor of the French and the Emperor of Russia, has received a first warning for having published false news, calculated to lead public opinion astray. The Emperor left Paris on Saturday to attend the Pin races. An immense concourse of people, more than 100,000, were present to receive his Majesty, who was welcomed with the greatest enthusiasm. The Emperor returned to St. Cloud on Wednesday, and presided at a Cabinet Council on Thursday. It was expected that the Emperor would have reviewed the army of Paris and the national guard yesterday on the Champ de Mars, but in consequence of the excessive heat his Majesty countermanded the review. To-day being the Emperor's fête day the usual reception will take place at the Tuileries. In the evening M. Drouyn de Lhuys will entertain the Corps Diplomatique at a grand dinner. The Emperor will leave on the 17th instant for the camp at Châlons. His Majesty's journey to Biarritz will probably take place in the early part of September. The Emperor has given an audience to the Archbishop of Mexico, about to depart for that country on the 15th inst. The Emperor and Empress have congratulated the Archduke Maximilian on his election as Emperor of Mexico. The Archduke immediately thanked their Majesties for their congratulations, and according to the Nation expressed himself in terms implying his acceptance of the throne. The France says that of the 18 States of Mexico, 15 have already pronounced in favour of intervention and the plans of the French Government. If, it says, the Archduke accepts the throne, the Mexican empire will be immediately recognised by France and England; and arrangements will be made by which the amounts due to France, comprising the cost of the war and the sums owing to private creditors, are to be paid by Mexico within six years; and France will keep an army of occupation, for a period to be agreed upon, at the expense of Mexico. It also asserts that the vote of the Chamber of Notables will not be submitted for ratification by universal suffrage, but will be brought for indorsement before the 6000 municipalities of Mexico. The Patrie states that the Archduke has made his acceptance dependent upon the consent of his brother, the Emperor of Austria. Some of the other papers state that the Archduke had requested the Pope, in the event of his election, to send a Nuncio to that country charged with organising religious affairs. The Council of State on Monday, on the report of Mr. Suin, allowed appeal in the matter of the indictment of the Bishops on three grounds. The Pays says that the Emperor has received a letter from the Queen of Madagascar, expressing her friendly sentiments towards France. An Imperial decree has been published, dated August 1, according to which Belgian vessels coming direct from Belgian ports with cargo, or from any other ports without cargo, are exempted from all tonnage dues. M. Drouyn de Lhuys, who had recovered from his late indisposition, presided a few days since at the distribution of prizes among the students of the Louis le Grand Lyceum. He concluded a speech, giving good advice to the young students, by saying that owing to the wisely democratic institutions which prevailed in France, each of them might find his Marshal's bâton at the bottom of his desk. Colonel Marchal, one of the few surviving veterans of the first Empire, has just died at the village of Garches, near St. Cloud, in his 90th year. The celebrated painter Eugène Delacroix is dead. La France of Thursday contradicts the report of the death of Abd-el-Kader.

Spain.—The Official Gazette of Thursday publishes the Royal decree dissolving the Cortes. It is reported that the Council of Ministers has approved the new situation that has arisen in Mexico, and will despatch a special envoy to Paris on the subject. Senor Pacheco is spoken of as likely to be sent to Paris; Senor Gonzales Bravo is going to London. It is asserted that the electoral circular to be issued by the Minister of the Interior will be very liberal and conciliatory. The Court and Government have resolved to bestow some relief on the sufferers from the earthquake at Manilla.

Belgium.—On Saturday the first stone of a palace to be presented by the province of West Flanders to the King of the Belgians as a seaside residence was laid at Ostend by the King in person, His Majesty having been invited to officiate on the occasion. The King on his arrival was received by the Governor of the province at the head of all the provincial and municipal authorities, amid the most enthusiastic cheering of the people. The Governor read an address expressing the gratitude of the Belgians to his Majesty for thus allowing them to offer him a testimonial of the high estimation in which they held the immense services he had rendered to their country. In reply, the King expressed his affection for the Belgian people, and for the town of Ostend in particular, and concluded with saying that a reign of 32 years was already long; but he should continue to devote himself to securing the national independence, the free institutions, and the happiness of the country.

Denmark.—The King of Denmark has declined to be present at the Conference of the Sovereign members of the German Confederacy, to which his Majesty was invited by the Emperor of Austria. A grand military camp will be established, and a review held at the end of this month near Dannekirke, in Schleswig. The King will visit the camp.

SWITZERLAND.—An Ultramontane meeting has been held in the canton of Aargau, at which a petition was drawn up, praying for a revision of the Federal Constitution. Endeavours will be made to obtain 50,000 signatures to it, that being the number necessary to insure its being taken into consideration.

PRUSSIA.—The Crown Prince of Prussia, who was telegraphed for to Gastein, arrived there on Monday. Very animated conferences took place on Wednesday between the King of Prussia, the Crown Prince, and Count von Bismark. It is asserted that Prussia intends to secede from the German Confederation. The Crown Prince left Gastein for Berlin on Wednesday. Ten of the Berlin journals were seized on Sunday, probably for having published the last proclamation of the Polish National Government. The Queen of Prussia has sent a donation of 50 gold Frederics, accompanied by an autograph letter, to the committee charged with the erection of the monument to the Prince Consort.

FRANKFORT.—The Emperor of Austria sent the invitations to the Congress of Sovereigns in 34 letters all bearing his signature, those addressed to the five Kings being written with his own hand. Out of the 34 invitations the acceptance by 21 has been received at Vienna. The Kings of Saxony, Wurtemberg, Bavaria, Hanover, the Grand Dukes of Hesse, Mecklenberg-Strelitz, and Nassau, and several minor Princes are among those who have accepted the invitation. The only refusals as yet received are from the King of Holland, representing the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg and the Duchy of Limburg, and from the King of Denmark. The King of Prussia has not yet come to a decision on the subject. The report therefore that His Majesty had refused to entertain the invitation in the most absolute manner, was premature. The Emperor has decided that newspaper reporters shall be admitted at the Conference. The following is said to be a correct statement of the contents of the reform project proposed by Austria:—1. An Assembly of delegates from all the German Diets, with right of voting, and to be convoked periodically. 2. An Upper House, composed of the representatives of the Sovereigns. This Assembly is to include the former Princes of the German Empire. 3. The direction of Federal affairs to be administered by seven groups of German States, under the presidency of Austria. 4. The present Federal Diet to be dissolved. 5. A reform of the military organisation of the Confederation. 6. Abolition of the article of the German Federal Constitution by which unanimity of the members of the Diet is required for the adoption of measures of general utility, and establishment of organic federal institutions.

AUSTRIA.—At a Cabinet Council held on Thursday week the reply to be sent to Russia was taken into consideration. It is believed that the Notes of the three Powers are by no means identical, although the six points and the proposal of a Conference are maintained. The Archduke Maximilian has arrived at Vienna, to be present at a family council. A rumour that the Archduke intends to visit the Emperor Napoleon at Biarritz has exercised a favourable influence upon the Bourse. The Oesterrichische Zeitung, in an article on the election of his Imperial Highness to the throne of Mexico, says:—

"The acceptance or refusal of the throne is up to the present a personal affair with the Archduke. The Austrian Government has in no way interfered in the question, and taken no part in the negotiations relative thereto. The Emperor Napoleon, in communicating direct with the Archduke, has perfectly maintained this point of view. Negotiations have been opened solely between the two high personages, and not between France and Austria. The conduct of the Emperor has thus been marked both by courtesy and loyalty. The situation of Mexico might lead at a later period to differences with America. But all this is irrelevant so long as the matter has a personal character apart from politics. It is for the Archduke in his wisdom, and in consulting his own tastes, to see whether he will enter into this affair, and what guarantees he can obtain. The Archduke is too experienced a man to accept the offer of the Mexicans before their country be entirely submitted, and before it has expressed itself through the medium of freely-elected representatives. The whole subject is one of a very delicate and difficult nature, and must be treated with prudence and ability."

The Emperor left Vienna on Thursday for Frankfort, and will visit on his way the Courts of Munich and Stuttgardt. His Majesty will stay at Frankfort at least a week, and will occupy the Tour and Taxis Palace in that city during the approaching Congress. His Majesty will enter the old Federal city with great pomp, and will be attended by a numerous train. The life-guardsmen, termed the Trabanten-Garde, and a number of the Court Gendarmery, will form the escort, and a portion of the imperial stud will also accompany the Emperor. His Majesty will be received on his arrival by both the Burgomasters and the assembled Senate. The other Princes summoned will be received by single senators. A banquet will be given on Monday in the Kaisersaal, to consist of 27 courses. After the banquet a grand procession will take place, followed by a State visit of the Princes to the theatre. A brilliant display of fireworks will take place in the evening.

ITALY.—The treaty of commerce between Italy and England has been signed. A permanent Danish Legation has been established in Turin. M. Rosencrantz, who has been nominated Chargé d'Affaires, presented his credentials to the King of Italy on Wednesday, and it is asserted that he will at once open negociations for a commercial treaty between Italy and Denmark. The Minister of Commerce left Turin on Thursday evening for Naples, where he will remain several weeks. The Italian squadron at the Piræus has dispersed. The man of war Rè Galantuomo is about to leave for Cork, to take in tow the frigate Rè d'Italia. The Opinione contradicts the rumour that the Italian fleet is about to repair to Cherbourg. The Stampa reports from Marseilles that the brigand chief Tristany has been taken to France and confined at Nevers. The Italian Government has taken very severe measures against Senor Salamanca's company for having dismissed the Italian employés from the railroad to Capua, and appointed in their stead Spaniards and Frenchmen who are compromised with the reaction. The Italian Government warn the company that they have it in their power to suspend the payment of the guaranteed sum.

IONIAN ISLANDS.—A proclamation connected with the cession of the Ionian Islands has been published in the Official Gazette at Corfu, in which Sir Henry Storks, the Lord High Commissioner, publishes for general information a proclamation by her Majesty in Council dissolving the present Parliament of the States from the 6th inst. The Lord High Commissioner says that he has received her Majesty's commands to call the solemn attention of the Ionian people to the reasons which have induced her Majesty to dissolve the 12th Parliament of the Ionian States. Her Majesty, the protecting Sovereign, has declared her readiness to consent to the union of the Ionian Islands with Greece; and it is with a view to consult in the most formal and authentic manner the wishes of the inhabitants of the Ionian Islands as to their future destiny that her Majesty has been pleased to dissolve the present Parliament. The Lord High Commissioner says that the Ionian people will fully appreciate the responsibility which rests on them in choosing their representatives. They are called upon to decide by this choice on the momentous question now submitted to them, and the only wish of her Majesty is that they may be guided to a wise decision, by which their happiness and prosperity may be secured on a solid foundation.

RUSSIA.—The official journals announce the return of the Emperor from Finland, and state that he was everywhere received with extraordinary enthusiasm. During his tour he reviewed 10 battalions of chasseurs of Finland, and assisted at a sham fight by the troops encamped on the road from Abo to Bierenborg. The Empress of Russia will probably set out on a journey to Jerusalem in September. Ten steamers have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to transport troops to Circassia. Prince Gortschakoff has addressed a circular despatch to the Russian Ministers abroad on the subject of the recall of Monsignor Felinski, Archbishop of Warsaw. The Prince renders full homage to the honourable character of the Archbishop, but he contends that the Government could not tolerate that the prelate should become, in the hands of the party of action, an instrument the more dangerous as his position was the more elevated. The proceedings of Monsignor Felinski were, besides, inconsistent with his duties as a high ecclesiastical dignitary, bound by a sentiment of fidelity towards the Emperor, and invested with his personal confidence.

POLAND.—Pawlowicz and Czarkowski have been shot by the Russians; the former at Brzesc, the latter at Siedlice. The official journal of Wilna publishes a decree of General Mouravieff, ordering that all the Lithuanian insurgents who fall into the hands of the Russians, particularly the nobles and priests, shall be tried and shot within 24 hours. In another decree General Mouravieff orders that those who voluntarily give themselves up shall be subjected to torture until they have furnished the Government with information respecting other insurgents, and condemns to systematic plunder all districts within which an insurgent is seen. No less than 70 persons, including three ladies, have been sent from Wilna to Siberia, where they have been sentenced to hard labour in the mines. Another woman has been sent to the mines, with a child eight months old. The mother is to perform the journey in chains. Two sisters of mercy have been sent from Warsaw to Siberia to take care of the wounded insurgents. It is asserted that the landed property of Count Zamoyski has been confiscated by General Mouravieff. In pursuance of orders from St. Petersburg, a Council of War had been held in Warsaw. At its termination a notification was given to the Warsaw and Vienna Railway Company that they should suspend the public traffic for one week and prepare all their carriages for the conveyance of the military. Numerous copies of an appeal of Russian patriots to the Poles, dated from Moscow, have been widely circulated in Congress Poland. The appeal advises the Poles to desist from a useless struggle and to unite themselves with Russia, in order to establish the greatness of the Slavonic races, and to revenge themselves upon the West, by which Poland is being betrayed. The appeal finally promises the Poles an independent national existence. The Ostsee Zeitung states that the direction of the insurrection is now entirely in the hands of the aristocracy. The same paper asserts that the seat of the National Polish Government is at Paris, and that Prince Czartoryski is at its head. "His party has been ordered to agitate to the effect that he may be proclaimed King of Poland as soon as France shall have declared war against Russia." The insurgents have made signals with rockets before the gates of Warsaw. This proceeding has spread alarm through the garrison. An unimportant engagement has taken place before the Mokatower Gate. On the 29th ult. the united bands of Polveck, Strzelecki, and Gastow, 700 strong, were beaten in the district of Mlawa, in the government of Plock. The loss of the insurgents was nearly 100 killed and 20 prisoners. The Russians were defeated by the insurgents on the 30th ult. near Radom, in the palatinate of Lublin. On the 5th inst. the insurgents, under Eminoricz, Crick, and Rucki, gained another important advantage over the Russians at Chelm, in the same palatinate. Three Russian companies were dispersed. It is asserted that the Russians, under cover of their artillery, locked up their killed and wounded in a barn and burned them, in order to conceal their loss. The Invalide Russe mentions four engagements in Lithuania near Roza, Morzany, Leninty, and Dolsk, respectively. There had also been one at Minsk, in the Government of Kowno. The news of the victory of the insurgents under Chruscina at Polichna on the 4th and 5th inst., and of the concentration of troops in Dublin, has been confirmed. The insurgents under Collier attacked a squadron of Uhlans on the 8th inst. at Raszyn, near Warsaw, liberating a convoy of prisoners. The Uhlans fled to Warsaw. Grabowski suffered a defeat on the 7th inst. near Grodzisk. The insurgents are said to have gained a decided victory near Janow, and to have dispersed the Russians, while they are reported to have been beaten near Mazow. The Russians, under the command of Baumgarten, have been defeated by the insurgents Zielinski and Grzymales. The official Russian report admits the defeat of the Imperial troops, but states that the number of insurgents, amounting to 2000, was superior to that of the Russians. Engagements between the insurgents and the Russians have taken place at Seyny. Telegraphic communication with Warsaw is again interrupted in all directions.

TURKEY.—Russian troops are concentrating at Gumri. The Porte has demanded explanations from the Russian Government on the subject. The old Seraglio has been totally destroyed by fire. The Inland Custom Houses have been abolished, and an octroi substituted.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—Accounts from the Cape to July 2 state that the Parliament continued in Session, and that the Governor had sent to the Assembly a Bill for raising a new loan of 150,000*l*. The balance in the Treasurer's hands was only 10,818*l*., and during the previous five months the expenditure was 11,000*l*. per month above the income. The long-disputed boundary line between the Queenstown district and British Kaffraria had at last been settled. More Kaffir robberies have occurred on the frontier. At Whittlesea they had perpetrated a daring robbery, leaving two Germans for dead. The synod of the English Church at Graham's Town had been opened by the bishop of the diocese. The bishop in his address had discussed at some length the power and constitution of these synods. Pretorius resigned the Presidency at the Volksraad on June 17.

MADAGASCAR.—Further particulars of the revolution in Madagascar confirm the opinion that the assassination of the King arose from a reactionary spirit among the people, and their suspicion of his too liberal tendencies and concessions to Europeans. Queen Robodo and her supporters had, however, not shown any symptom of reversing the King's tolerant policy. The principal cause of the dissatisfaction of the people being brought to a climax is said to be Mr. Ellis having sent persons to preach at a village in which are deposited the remains of the late Queen, who was anti-Christian, and the preaching was considered an insult and desecration to her memory. Her Majesty's ship Gorgon left the Cape for Madagascar on June 30.

CHINA.—The neighbourhood of Shanghai was quiet on June 22. The Imperial army was before Nankin. The insurrectionary movements in the southern provinces are creating serious embarrassments to the Government.

JAPAN.—Affairs in Japan are temporarily settled. The American Legation has been burnt.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Maoris have been completely routed at Taranaki by General (?) Cameron.

UNITED STATES.—General Lee's army passed through Chester Gap on the 23d and 24th ult., and is now south of Culpepper. His passage through Chester Gap was ineffectually opposed by Burford's cavalry. The divisions under Generals Longstreet and Hill, after passing through Thornton's Gap, encamped between Culpepper and Gordonsville. General Ewell's command covered their rear and flank by guarding the Blue Ridge passes. The bulk of this corps on the 29th was passing down the valley, and threatening the Federal lines. On the morning of the 28th Federal pickets were driven in near Amissville, and the indications were that the Federal outposts were liable to be forced at any moment by superior detachments of Confederates. Accounts were received at Washington on the 31st to the effect that General Lee was massing his troops at Culpepper, and the belief existed among the officers of the Federal army that he was preparing for a battle on the Rappahannock. The leading Republicans in Washington urge the appointment of General Sedgwick to the chief command of the army of the Potomac in place of General Meade, who is looked upon with disfavour by the Republican and Abolition party.

General Lee has officially denied General Meade's report of having captured a brigade of infantry and two pieces of artillery as the Confederates were retiring across the Potomac. He says that none but stragglers were captured, and two guns which were left on the road. The repulse of the Federal attacks upon Fort Wagner between the 18th and 23d is officially reported to the Confederate Government by General Beauregard, and confirmed by the Federal accounts brought by steamers to Fortress Monroe. On the 18th, after a furious bombardment of the fort for 11 hours by the Federal land batteries and the ironclads, an assault was ordered by General Gilmore, and repeated and desperate attempts were made to dislodge the Confederates, and at one time the Federals had succeeded in mounting their flag upon the parapet of the fort, but they were driven back by the terrific fire of the garrison. Two regiments of negro troops who participated in the attack are described as having fought with great bravery. It is stated that the sight of them so infuriated the Confederates that wherever they appeared the whole fire of the fort was concentrated upon them until they retired out of range. The Federal loss in the assault was upwards of 2000 in killed, wounded, and prisoners. The Richmond Despatch of the 27th contains despatches from Charleston to the 25th, reporting that the bombarding of Fort Wagner had been recommenced on the 24th, and continued heavily throughout that day, the only result being the killing of three men and the wounding of six others. During the ensuing night firing was carried on by Forts Wagner and Sumter against the Federal position on the island, the Federals occasionally responding. On the 28th the "monitors" entirely suspended operations. On the following day General Gilmore erected a line of batteries within 250 yards of Fort Wagner, and planted three heavy siege guns one mile and a quarter from Fort Sumter. He has made earnest application to the Government for reinforcements, and all the transports at Fortress Monroe have been appropriated to the duty of conveying the troops required, the authorities at Washington being determined to reduce Charleston, and to send such supports and reinforcements as may be needed for that purpose. It has since been reported that General Gilmore has abandoned for the present the idea of taking Fort Wagner, the shells making but a slight impression upon the sand of which the fort is composed. It is also reported at Washington that General Gilmore's losses at Charleston by sickness and casualties amount to about one-third of his original force. A body of 2500 Confederates, under Generals Pegram and Scott, have crossed the Kentucky river, and attacked the Federals at Paris, but were repulsed after two hours' fighting. The Confederates retreated to Winchester, followed by the Federal cavalry. They subsequently occupied Standford, but were driven out with loss, and retreated towards the Cumberland River. General Burnside has since declared martial law in Kentucky. The Confederates, who were forcing the conscription in West Tennessee, have been routed by the Federals at Lexington, with the loss of several officers and two cannon. Brashear city has been captured by the Federals. It was also rumoured at New York that Chattanooga was captured by Rosencranz on the 16th ult, but direct accounts from Chattanooga of the 19th state that the head-quarters of General Bragg were still at that place, which was occupied by a division of his army under General Claiborne. The other divisions were stationed at different points along the Knoxville, Western, and Atlanta railroads, within supporting distance of Chattanooga. General Johnstone is reported to have been heavily reinforced from the army of General Bragg, and to be fortifying Meridian and the Ohio and Mobile railroad, at Okalona, for the defence of Mobile. General Morgan's raid into Ohio is at an end. General Shackleford, under date of the 26th, officially reports the capture of General Morgan, Colonel Cluke, and 400 of their men. General Morgan and Colonel Cluke were taken to Cincinnati, and confined in the Penitentiary at Columbus. Governor Parker, of New Jersey, has announced by proclamation that no draught has been ordered in that State, and that 30 days will be allowed for filling up the quota required by volunteering. At the end of that time, if the number shall not be complete, a draught will be ordered. The Richmond Despatch of the 27th publishes a despatch from Morton, Mississippi, stating that Jackson was again evacuated by General Grant on the 23d, and that the General had returned to Vicksburg. The Court House at Jackson was much damaged by an attempt of the Federals to blow it up, and great destruction was committed upon the railway tracks, rolling stock, and machine shops. In consequence of information given by a negro, the private library and correspondence of President Davis have been seized by the Federals at Jackson. The account of the capture states that thousands of volumes of books and bushels of letters and papers from both Northern and Southern statesmen upon the subject of secession, some of them dated as far back as 1832, had been brought into camp. Many of the more private writers had accepted the division of the Union as a foregone conclusion, and disagreed as to how and when it should take place. The amount of property destroyed by the Federals in their late raid into North Carolina is estimated at 5,000,000 dollars. The Hon. John Jay Crittenden, the author of the Crittenden resolutions of compromise between the North and South, which were rejected by the Republican members of the Border State Convention immediately previous to the breaking out of the war, died at Frankfort, Kentucky, on the 26th ult., at the age of 77. The New York Herald asserts that Mr. Seward has informed Earl Russell, that if privateers continue to be fitted out in England, Federal war vessels will not regard British ports as a protection to privateers. It also says that when the rebellion is crushed America will step in to restore the Republican form of Government in Mexico. The New York Times says that the proclamation of the Mexican empire shows that an affiliation between the Emperor Napoleon and the South is absolutely certain, while the New York Daily News asserts that President Davis has sent a messenger to the Emperor, proposing an offensive and defensive alliance, the Confederate Government acknowledging the French protectorate over Mexico, and promising to modify the institution of slavery. The Government has determined to force the draft in New York, and is said to be fully prepared for any emergency that may arise. There are several gunboats in the river, and a considerable number of Federal troops in the city and neighbourhood. Frauds upon the Government to the amount of 1,000,000 dollors have been discovered in the contracts for clothing, subsistence, supplies, and horses, in the late military operations in Pennsylvania. President Davis has issued a proclamation appointing Friday, the 21st of August, for a day of fasting, humiliation, and prayer. Vice President Stephens, who is making a tour of the Confederate States, addressed the people of Charlotte, North Carolina, on the 17th ult. He expressed great confidence in the military genius and patriotism of General Lee, and stated that vast quantities of supplies had been obtained by his invasion of Pennsylvania. In alluding to the fall of Vicksburg and Port Hudson, Mr. Stephens said that the Confederacy had survived severer blows in the loss of New Orleans, Island No. 10, and Fort Pillan, and that should even Mobile, Charleston, Savannah, and Richmond be captured, these calamities would not prevent the ultimate independence of the South if the people would but continue its support of the Government. He concluded by saying that the only terms on which they could obtain permanent peace are final and complete separation from the North. Rather than submit to anything short of that, they would all resolve to die like men worthy of freedom. The Southern journals recommend that if the decision in the case of the Alexandria be affirmed in England, the Confederates should promptly avail themselves of it to give a death blow to Northern commerce and strike some Northern cities. The Florida between the 17th and 21st ult. had destroyed 12 vessels, of which the name of only one (the William B. Nash) is ascertained. On the 16th the Florida put into Bermuda to coal, and was still there on the 22d ult., taking fuel from the Confederate steamer Harriet Pinckney, the English naval authorities having refused to furnish her with fuel. The steamers James Battle and William Bazley have been captured. The United States District Court has condemned the cargoes of the steamers Peterhoff, Springbok, Gertrude and Liorvi.

West Indies.—The Governor of the Bahamas has received information from Lord Lyons that the efforts to induce the Washington Cabinet to withdraw its prohibition to export live stock to Nassau were fruitless.

Mexico.—News from the city of Mexico and Vera Cruz was received at New York on the 27th, viâ Havannah. On the 10th Mexico was declared by the public proclamation of the Council of Notabilities to be an empire. The throne was tendered to the Archduke Maximilian of Austria, and in the event of his refusal to accept it, the Emperor of the French was implored to select a candidate for the Imperial dignity. The public proclamation of the empire took place in the city of Mexico on the 10th ult. A courier was immediately despatched to Vera Cruz, and it is stated that all the towns along the route of the courier made immense manifestations of joy on the promulgation of the news, and at Vera Cruz 100 guns were fired in honour of the event. The clergy and people generally were represented as being greatly rejoiced at the remodelling of their Government. The New York Daily News states that in the event of the refusal of the Archduke Maximilian to accept the throne, Mr. Jerome Bonaparte (Patterson), of New Jersey, will be petitioned to preside over the destinies of that nation. La France of Saturday says that a deputation of five persons left Mexico on the 12th ult. for Europe, to convey the decree to the Archduke Maximilian. The French are preparing an expedition against Tampico. Ten thousand French troops from the Gulf of Mexico are expected at Acapulco, whence they will be dispatched to garrison all the Mexican Pacific ports. It is rumoured that the people of San Luis Potosi have declared against Juarez, who fled to Monterey.

Central America and Pacific.—The hostilities in which Guatemala and Nicaragua have been engaged with Salvador and Honduras were approaching a termination owing to the successes of the two former states. At the last accounts the President of Guatemala had possession of the chief towns of Salvador, and President Barros had been overthrown. Chili and Bolivia were also preparing for a contest, for the possession of the Megillones Rocks and the Attacama Desert. The dispute between the Peruvian Government and that of Brazil about the rights of navigation of the Amazonas had been settled in the most friendly manner. The company, who on the part of Brazil sought exclusive privilege, had abandoned the claim, and it was believed that if the explorations which have been made were followed up with the facilities which both the Peruvian and Brazilian Governments now afford by their steamers, the present uninhabited fertile valleys of the Amazonas would be the richest settlements in the world.

City Intelligence.

Money Market, Friday.—British Funds: Consols closed at 93⅛ for Money, and 93¼ for Account; Reduced and New Three per Cents., 93⅛ to ¼; Bank Stock, 238; India Five per Cent. Stock, 108½ to ¾; Ditto Bonds, 16*s.* to 19*s.* pm.; Exchequer Bills, March, 1*s.* dis. to 2*s.* pm.: Ditto June, 2*s.* pm. to 1*s.* dis.—Foreign: Brazilian, 1852, '58, '60, 93½; Chilian Four and a Half per Cents., 86; Egyptian, 104½ to 104 Greek, 33⅜; Ditto, for Acct., 33½ to ⅜; Ditto Coupons, 15⅝ to ⅞; Italian, for Acct., 71¼ to 71; Ditto Maremmana Railway, 79½ to 79; Mexican, 38⅜; Ditto, for Acct., 38⅛ to 39¼; Russian, 1850, 90; Ditto, 1862, 92⅝ to ¾; Spanish Passive, 33⅜; Ditto, for Acct., 33½ to ⅝; Ditto, Certificates, 12¼; Ditto, for Acct., 12⅜; Turkish, 1854, 92½; Ditto, 1858, for Acct., 71½ to 71; Ditto, 100*l.* Bonds, 76; Ditto, 1862, 67⅞ to 68¼; Ditto, for Acct., 68¼ to 68; Ditto, 1863, 4½ dis.; Venezuela, 1862, 57.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued.. .. .. | £28,824,920 | Government Debt .. .. | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities .. .. | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 14,174,920 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. | — |
| | £28,824,920 | | £28,824,920 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,089,426 |
| Rest .. .. .. .. .. | 3,428,233 | Other Securities .. .. | 18,472,407 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | 5,754,863 | Notes .. .. .. .. .. | 7,563,805 |
| Other Deposits .. .. .. | 13,578,358 | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 864,899 |
| Seven days and other bills | 676,083 | | |
| | £37,990,537 | | £37,990,537 |

August 13, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: July 31.—BANKRUPTS.—J. Allen, Runcorn Gap, Lancashire, Grocer—J. Blanchard, Esher Place, Kennington Road, Lambeth, Carpenter—E. E B. Bathe, St. Paul's, Bristol, Cordwainer—B. Borwood, Bridgenorth, Salop Hairdresser—A. W. Bernal, late of Fenton's Hotel, St. James's Street—M. A. Butler, King's Road, Chelsea, Baker—W. Bowden, Barnstaple, Devonshire, Gardener—J. Craven, Harrowgate, Yorkshire, Carter—S. Cheetham, Wharncliffeside Green, Yorkshire, Labourer—A. Ceileur, Strawbury Villas, Camden Road, Photo-Lithographer—A. Choimet, Oakley Terrace, Pimlico, Upholsterer—J. Cooper, jun., Woolwich, Grocer's Assistant—T. Davies, sen., Aberystwith, Grocer—R. A. Dale, Walsall, Staffordshire, Clerk—J. Eyre, jun., Derby, Mail Contractor—H. B. Fox, late of Liverpool, Commission Agent—G. French, Park Road North, Bow, Mariner—J. T. Glasspool, Southampton, Corn Factor N. A. Harris, Leinster St., Cleveland Sq., Bayswater, late Licensed Victualler—F. Hale, Limehouse Miller—W. Herbert, Cricknowell, Brecknockshire, Labourer—J. R. Henckley, Birmingham, Chemist—C. H. Hossfeld, Palace Road, Lambeth, Publisher—S. Johnson, Leadenhall St., City, late Commercial Clerk—S. K. Kaufman, Arthur's Hill, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Teacher—G. H. Kidd, late of Leamington, Warwick—T. S. H. Lowe, Birmingham, Gasfitter—J. Lindley, Shrewsbury, Shropshire, Fishmonger J. Lee, Pilton, Devonshire, Wood Turner—H. Lusty, Barton Hill, Bristol, late Beer Retailer—J. Langtry, Napier Terrace, Bow Common Road, late Grocer—E. Morris, Baring Street, Islington, Engineer—W. M. Minty, York Road, Lambeth, Plumber—T. Mawby, Liverpool, Warehouseman—S. Marsh, Glastonbury, Somersetshire, Butcher—J. Macnamara, Navarino Terrace, Cowley Road, Brixton, Government Clerk—S. Mitson, Philip Lane, Tottenham, Corndealer—W. R. Murray, late of Exeter Hall Hotel, Strand—A. M'Donald, Glasgow, General Merchant—Robert Martin, Lower Park Road, New Peckham, Licensed Victualler—Robert Preston, Blackburn, Butcher—John Page, Tavistock, Devonshire, Shoemaker—Caroline Pauline, Princess Street, Hanover Square, Milliner—James Pollard, Halifax, Yorkshire, Beer Retailer—George Quartermain, Bicester, Oxfordshire, Watchmaker—R. Quick, Hove, Sussex, Fencing Master—T. S. Stearman, Aldershott, Ironmonger—G. Strutt, Havelock Terrace, Meeting House Lane, Peckham, Builder—W. Sansome, Coventry, Ribbon Manufacturer—W. Stark, Bristol, Carpenter—C. Townend, Birmingham, Surgeon—J. Ullmann, Oxford Street, General Merchant—C. Vernon, Wimbledon, Cow Keeper and Dairyman—G. Vincent, Mistley, Essex, Blacksmith—J. Woolley, Kettering, Northamptonshire, Draper—J. Winterbottom, Lees, Lancashire, Tin Plate Worker—J. Whitehand, Wymondham Norfolk, Tailor—G. Willsmer, Lewisham Road, Kent, Carpenter—J. Aspin and W. Ward, Blackburn, Lancashire, Cotton Manufacturers—G. Walker, St. Helen's, Lancashire, Miller—R. Wallis, Liverpool, Provision Dealer—T. W. Wood, Bishopwearmouth, Durham, Furniture Dealer.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—W. Cruickshank, Monquhitter, Aberdeenshire, Farmer—A. Wood, Glasgow, Leather Merchant.

TUESDAY: August 11.—BANKRUPTS.—A. Arnold, Faversham, Kent, Grocer—C. Bradley, Doncaster, Yorkshire, Cabinet Maker—E. Bowers, Stafford, Provision Dealer—S. Box, Ilford, Essex—W. M. Brewster, Oystermouth, Glamorganshire, Printer—J. Book, Hulme, Lancashire, Teacher of Languages—J. Burningham, Farnham, Surrey, Baker—G. Burt, Salisbury, Wiltshire, Whitesmith—C. Bianconi, jun., Seaford, Sussex, Gentleman—J. Bolton, Lostock Gralan, Chester, Cheese Dealer—J. Cowburn, Atherton, Yorkshire, Journeyman Iron Moulder—J. Chester, Chorlton-upon-Medlock, Lancashire, Beer Retailer—C. Dobson, Wakefield, Wood Turner—J. Dean, Kidderminster, Worcestershire, Victualler—Joseph Fox, Northampton, Beerseller—J. Guy, York, Draper's Assistant John Gittoes, jun., Great Bridge, Staffordshire, Coke Merchant—T. Hall, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Joiner—E. Harris, Pilgrim Street, Newcastle-upon Tyne, Furniture Broker—J. Hartill, Westbromwich, Staffordshire, Plumber—F. Hale, Linchmere, Sussex, Miller—E. Hughes, Machynlleth, Miller—S. Hirst, Bradford, Yorkshire, Woolstapler—F. Hunt, Leeds, Yorkshire, Dealer in Game—S. Johnson, Waddington, Lincolnshire, Dealer in Skins—S. Kearton, Liverpool, Car Driver—W. Learmouth, Ellington Street, Liverpool Road, Messenger to the Lord Chancellor—C. L. T. Lorrette, Aldermanbury, City, Lithographer—J. Lowe, Branston, Leicestershire, Keeper—H. Lovell, Bugbrooke, Northamptonshire, Innkeeper—J. H. Murphy, Tooley Street, late Dealer in Jewellery—A. Malony, Swansea, Glamorganshire, Labourer—T. Maltby, Selston, Nottinghamshire, Farmer—W. Mead, Linslade, Buckinghamsh., Builder—Samuel Nye, Little Tower Street, City, Licensed Victualler—J. Nicholas, late of Ventnor, Isle of Wight, Greengrocer—J. Platt, jun., Hey, Yorkshire, Wool Carder—Thomas William Tottingham Prescott (known as Thomas William Prescott), Elm Tree Road, St. John's Wood—A. Pilotti, Prince's Street, Hanover Square, Professor of Music—W. H. Petrick, Waverley Road, Harrow Road, Journeyman Plasterer—W. Richardson, Ardwick, Manchester, Wharfinger—J. Roberts, Liverpool, Foreman to a Joiner—T. Steadman, Shoreham, Sussex, Baker—T. Sharp, Colney Hatch, Carpenter—T. Smith, Canterbury, Victualler—J. Sanderson, Mortimer Road, Kingsland, Dressing Case Maker—G. E. Sewell, late of Fitzroy Place, Kentish Town, Manager to a Refreshment House Keeper—J. Staddon, jun., Uxbridge, late Shoemaker—S. F. Smith, Cassington, Oxfordshire, Schoolmaster—W. Smith & J. Smith, Burslem, Staffordshire, Earthenware Manufacturers—L. Stock, Weston-super-Mare, Somerset, Builder—D. S. Southwell, Dudley, Worcestershire, Confectioner—B. Turley, Tipton, Staffordshire, Annealer of Tin Plate Iron—

B. Townend, Pontefract, Yorkshire, Accountant—R. Turley, Awre, Gloucestershire, Beerhouse Keeper—R. Thompson, Boston, Lincolnshire, Corn and Flour Dealer—S. Thomas, Aberdare, Glamorganshire, Licensed Victualler—J. Thompson, Bedlington, Northumberland, Grocer—T. Thomas, St. Bride's Major, Glamorganshire, Cattle Dealer—E. Trasler, Northampton, Shoe Manufacturer—E. J. Turner, Victoria Terrace, New Cross, Accountant—G. Wilson, Newcastle-upon Tyne, Builder—H. A. Wildes, Maidstone, Attorney-at-Law—S. Woodroof, Union Place, Islington, Dealer in Corn.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

Utilization of the Metropolitan Sewage.—At the last meeting of the Metropolitan Board of Works Mr. Freeman brought up the following report from the Main Drainage Committee on the several tenders for taking the sewage of the metropolis:—

"Your committee have to report that, in compliance with your resolution of the 10th inst. they have considered the several propositions for taking the sewage of the metropolis which have been made to the Board in reply to their advertisements. They find that nine communications have been received, that none fully comply with the terms of the advertisements, and that three do not make any proposals of the nature of a tender. As the subject is one which has already seriously occupied the attention of your committee, it may be convenient to remind you that in April, 1860, you directed them to prepare a form of advertisement, in answer to which tenders were received and opened on the 6th July, 1860, from Messrs. Townsend, Moore, and Shepherd, expressed in nearly the same terms as their appended communications. The names of the parties who have replied to the recent advertisements are as follows:—Dr. Thudichum, M.D., 2, Pembroke Road, Kensington; Mr. David Curwood, 18, Upper Grosvenor Street: Lord Torrington, Sir Charles Fox, and Mr. Hunt, 8, New Street, Spring Gardens; Mr. John James Moore, 6, Pump Court, Temple: Mr. George Townsend, secretary to the London Sewage Utilization Company (Limited), 18, New Street, Spring Gardens; Mr. George Shepherd; Mr. C. F. Kirkman, 6, Duke Street, Adelphi; Mr. Thomas Ellis, 76, Warwick Square, Belgravia; the Hon. W. Napier, and Mr. Hope. Dr. Thudichum proposes, by a mechanical arrangement, so to separate the house drainage as to retain that which he considers most valuable, and gives a sketch of his closet and drains, and tables of analysis of the constituents of fluid sewage. He estimates the cost of the works for carrying out his process at 1,500,000*l.*, and the net profit at 1,000,000*l.* per annum; of this he proposes that he should receive a percentage, and that one-half of the balance should be paid to the Board, and one-half to the shareholders of a company formed for carrying out the system. Mr. Curwood is not in a position to offer a tender, but suggests the separation of the solid and liquid sewage. Lord Torrington, Sir C. Fox, and Mr. Thornton Hunt regret their inability to comply with the conditions of the advertisement, on the ground of the impolicy of publicly declaring the land with which they propose to deal, but express their willingness to discuss the matter with the Main Drainage Committee, and to enter into a provisional arrangement for prosecuting a Bill in Parliament during the ensuing Session. Of the remaining six, three refer to their previous communications responding to the Board's advertisement, in April, 1860, as embodying the propositions they have to submit; these are Mr. Moore, Mr. Townsend, on behalf of the London Sewage Utilisation Company, and Mr. G. Shepherd. The two first are printed at length at pp. 488-489 of the minutes for 1860. The proposals of the London Sewage Utilisation Company had been previously reported on by the Main Drainage Committee on January, 17, 1860. These were that the Board should grant the company as much sewage as they might require at Barking Creek for two years, at a rent of 5*l.*; that, should the experiment be successful, the Board should at the end of those two years grant a further term of 21 years at the same rent, and, at the end of such term, that the company should pay such rent for such further term as may be agreed between the parties, or as may be determined by the arbitration of the President of the Institute of Civil Engineers or by the Board of Trade. The proposals of Mr. Moore were that the Board should grant the sewage for a term of 90 years, of which the first 14 should be at a peppercorn, and at the expiration of that term one-half the profits, after deducting 10 per cent. interest on the capital invested, or on such reasonable return as the Secretary of State may award, to be paid by the grantees to the Board. In a further communication on the 9th July, 1863, Mr. Moore offers to pay one farthing per ton for every ton of sewage raised by the Board to a height of 200 feet, which, at 80 million gallons daily, would, he estimates, amount to 136,000*l.* per annum. Mr. Moore states that he has already engagements with the occupiers of nearly 60,000 acres for the use of the sewage. Mr. Shepherd, in answer to the Board's advertisement, adheres to the proposals made in his former letters, and states that he shall shortly be in a position to lay before the Board plans for applying the whole of the sewage; that on obtaining a concession he will apply to Parliament for the necessary powers, and asks for a concession of that of the south side first. Mr. Shepherd's letters extend from January, 1860, to the present date, but only two communications are of the nature of tenders. The first, dated the 21st April, 1860, asks for a concession of the whole of the sewage of London for 50 years, and offers to divide with the Board the net profits received by the company, after paying 7½ per cent. on the invested capital; after 50 years the company are to deduct 5 per cent. interest on their capital. The second, dated 4th July, 1860, refers to the former tender, but requests that the concession should be full and free, without let or hindrance, on the part of the Board. There remain three communications, purporting to be tenders, in answer to the Board's advertisement. Mr. Kirkman's embodies a patent, of which he is the patentee, for obtaining manure from sewage by filtration and deposit—the water after such treatment to be discharged into the river. He purposes to erect works for this purpose at Barking, on condition that the Board shall convey to him the necessary land adjoining the reservoir, shall deliver the sewage to him from the main outfall sewer into his work, shall grant him the use of the river frontage and wharves for the term of seven years at a peppercorn, seven years at a rent of one-fifth the net profits, after deducting a dividend of 20 per cent. on the capital expended, and for a further term of seven years at a rent of one-fifth the net profits, after deducting 5*l.* per cent. on the capital, and for any further term at such rate as shall be settled by the Secretary of State. Mr. Kirkman states that he is prepared to guarantee a minimum rent of 10,000*l.* per annum, and he undertakes to name two or more securities for the performance of his contract. He consents also to surrender the works on two years' notice, subject to the repayment of the capital invested, and of a premium of 25*l.* per cent. thereon, and to a royalty of 1*l.* per cent. for the use of his patent. Mr. Ellis proposes to pump the sewage from the Board's reservoir to certain covered tanks, constructed at such points as the Board may approve,* to flow by gravitation through pipes laid along the sides of the roads adjoining the area to be irrigated, which is also to be approved by the Board. Mr. Ellis, on behalf of the Company to be formed, undertakes to provide and use all necessary deodorising agents, and to subject himself in all things to the directions of the Board. He further offers to submit the Act of Incorporation for the Board's approval. The net profits, deducting working and management expenses and reserve-fund, he proposes to divide equally between the company and the Board, and he suggests that three of the directors should be nominated by the Board. The concession of the sewage he requires should be in perpetuity, subject to the Board's power to purchase after 50 years, on giving three years notice, the price to be fixed by valuers chosen jointly. Messrs. Payne, Eddison, and Ford undertake to pay 60,000*l.* to the credit of Mr. Ellis's local trustees, on his obtaining the concession of the sewage on satisfactory terms. Messrs. Napier and Hope propose to intercept the whole of the ordinary flow of the northern sewage, near Abbey Mills, to convey it by a culvert 44 miles in length to Maplin Sands on the one hand, and Dengie Flats on the other. Both these areas are at present submerged at high water, and their redemption is part of the project, extending to 15,000 or 20,000 acres. The capital proposed to be invested is 2,000,000*l.*, the concession of the sewage to be for 50 years, subject to Parliamentary authority being obtained, and to a grant of land from the Crown. The net profits to be divided equally between the company and the Board, after a deduction of 10 per cent. on the outlay. The Board to have the power of resuming the grant of sewage, and taking the whole of the land and works at a valuation at the end of the term of 50 years, on giving seven years' notice, or a new concession to be granted, on terms settled by the Secretary of State. The Board to be represented by two directors of the company. The company to be formed within two years after obtaining Parliamentary powers. The company within three months of its formation to pay into the hands of trustees, chosen jointly, a sum of 25,000*l.* India Five per Cent. Stock (interest to be paid to the company) until three-fourths of the works are complete; the whole to be forfeited to the Board, if the company abandon the enterprise before three-fourths are completed. Your committee have thought it desirable for the information of the Board to append to this report the several tenders which have been from time to time made to the Board for taking the sewage of the metropolis, together with supplementary documents and explanations of such tenders, and your committee have also included in the appendix other communications which have been addressed to the Board on the question of the sewage."

Mr. Freeman said the question involved very extensive considerations, from the magnitude of the interests concerned. It was a subject that ought to be deliberated upon by a committee of the whole Board. He therefore moved that the report and all documents connected with the subject be printed, and sent to all the vestries in the metropolis. Mr. Richardson seconded the motion. Mr. Newton asked whether the documents were very voluminous. The Chairman said they were very voluminous. Mr. R. Taylor suggested that they should be printed and a price put upon them, because there were many persons who would like to have a copy of them, and if they could purchase them from the printer he believed the sale of them would be very great. The Chairman said it was the intention of the Board to fix a price upon them. Ten copies would be sent to each vestry, and one to each person tendering, and if they required any more they could purchase them from the printer. The motion was then agreed to.

City Traffic Regulation Act.—The Act passed at the instance of the corporation of London, towards the end of last Session of Parliament, for regulating the traffic in the streets of the city and for preventing obstructions, recites in its preamble that it is expedient to make better provision for the regulation of omnibuses, cabs, carriages, carts, and other vehicles passing through the streets of the city or its liberties, so as to prevent obstruction and enable the increasing traffic to be conducted with less delay and in a safer manner. With that view the Act empowers the Court of Aldermen to make from time to time such by-laws and regulations as they may think necessary, and these are to apply to three principal subjects. First, the Aldermen may prescribe the routes to be followed and the particular streets or parts of streets to be used by omnibuses, cabs, and vans; secondly, the height and width to which the heavier vehicles, such as carts, waggons, and drays, for the conveyance of goods, wares, and merchandise, using the streets of the city between 9 in the morning and 6 in the evening, may be laden; and, thirdly, they may determine the period of the day or night during which carts, waggons, or other vehicles wholly or partially laden with timber, metal, or any other material exceeding 25 feet in length or 8 feet 6 inches in breadth, may be allowed to pass or be prohibited from passing. The Court of Aldermen is also empowered to regulate the mode of distinguishing hackney cabs when empty and when actually plying for hire; the time of day during which coals may be shot into cellars through openings in the streets; and to appoint places at which street shoeblacks may stand to exercise their calling, and to determine the number of such shoeblacks at each place. The by-laws may at any time be varied, altered, or repealed, but not in a manner repugnant to the general laws of the kingdom or to the provisions of this particular Act. They are also to be enforced by penalties not exceeding 40*s.* for each offence, with the alternative of a term of imprisonment. For purposes of the Act and the recovery of penalties certain provisions of the City of London Police Act are incorporated, and are to be read as if re-enacted. A right of appeal is given, or rather an existing one in like cases continued, to a superior court. No by-law or alteration in a by-law is to come into operation until one month after its approval under the hand of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State; nor shall any by-law or alteration be submitted for such approval until one month after the intention to apply for the approval shall have been publicly notified by advertisement. The by-laws, when so settled and approved, are to be posted in a conspicuous manner on the Mansion House, the Royal Exchange, Guildhall, Temple Bar, the Custom House, and the General Post Office, St. Martins-le-Grand. The Act is to continue in force for seven years after its passing, and thence to the end of the then next Session of Parliament, and the expenses of obtaining it are to be borne out of the city police rate.

The Oratorians at Brompton.—The debate which took place in the House of Commons on the day before the prorogation, in which Mr. Monsell and Sir George Bowyer defended the Oratorians at Brompton from the censures by Mr. Newdegate, who charged them with interfering in the concerns of families, has called forth the following letter from Mr. J. Harrison, of Park Place, Regent's Park:—

"My youngest son was the captain of Westminster School in 1861. On Sunday, the 3d March, he was taken by a young friend to see over the Oratory. Before that day he had never in his life spoken to a Roman Catholic Priest. He was introduced to Mr. Bowden about one o'clock, and was baptised by him the same night at nine o'clock, with the knowledge and consent of Mr. Faber, the Father Superior, for the express purpose of preventing any interposition of my parental authority. Had this most distressing event never occurred my son would, in the course of a few weeks, have been elected to a junior studentship of Christ Church, Oxford. Thus, in a few hours, he lost his position at Westminster and all his future prospects at the university. I was at a loss how to provide for him, but recollecting that he had once expressed a wish of rejoining in India a brother to whom he was greatly attached, I directed my daughter to tell him that if he still retained any desire to compete for an Indian appointment I would enter him at one of the halls at Oxford, where he might not only take a degree, as his brother had done, but also have the advantage of studying the Oriental languages with the professors. He seemed grateful for the offer, and I expected that he would accept it. But here again my wishes were thwarted by the interference of these Oratorians. They commenced a correspondence with my son, and offered him, as I was told, 100*l.* per annum if he liked to join the Oratory. As his health was very indifferent I sent him to spend a month at the seaside with a relative. I purposely kept him short of money in order that he might not go to the Oratory without my knowledge. But here, again, I found that Mr. Faber had interfered in my family arrangements. My son wrote to me for money, but at the same time told me that if I did not send him any Mr. Faber had lent him 3*l.* Mr. Faber, in a letter, says it was a gift. Be that as it may, my son thus became independent of my control, and went to the Oratory before the time fixed for the end of his visit, when I had intended to remove him to my house. As soon as I heard that he was in the Oratory, and was about to become a postulant at the early age of 18½ years, I wrote to remonstrate with Mr. Faber, most strongly forbidding any such step, and expressing my amazement at his encouragement of so flagrant a breach of the fifth commandment. But all that I could say was of no avail. My son, with the aid and sanction of Mr. Faber, set me completely at defiance, and has continued to reside in the Oratory ever since. I cannot venture at present to trespass any longer on your indulgence. I think the hurried baptism at nine o'clock at night, and that, too, with the knowledge and sanction of the Father Superior—to say nothing of their subsequent unjustifiable interference with a father's rights—are quite sufficient to qualify the excessive praise lavished on the Oratorians by Mr. Monsell and Sir G. Bowyer in the House of Commons."

Accident at a Volunteer Prize Meeting.—On Tuesday the proceedings connected with the annual prize meeting of the St. George's Rifles at the Wormwood Scrubs rifle ranges were brought to a melancholy close by an accident that befell the commanding officer, Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. C. H. Lindsay, while competing with the other officers for a Lansdowne revolver pistol, presented by Lieutenant Hawkins. The prize was being shot for with revolver pistols, and a competitor, who was standing close to Colonel Lindsay, had fired a shot, when the next chamber of the pistol exploded, and the ball passed obliquely through one of Colonel Lindsay's legs. A surgeon was speedily in attendance, and the colonel was taken to his residence in his carriage, which was fortunately at hand. It is understood that the occurrence was purely accidental, and that Colonel Lindsay is progressing as favourably as possible.

Departure of M. du Chaillu.—This celebrated traveller left St. Katherine's Docks in the ship Mentor, a few days since, for Africa. He took with him a complete photographic apparatus, for the purpose of taking views, portraits of animals, &c., having previously received lessons in the art of photography from Mr. H. Claudet, who has taught him his newly discovered quick process, by which means moving objects can be transmitted to paper.

The Theatres in Holy Week.—A deputation from the English Church Union waited upon the Archbishop of Canterbury a few days since on the subject of the opening of theatres to which licences are granted by the Lord Chamberlain in the Holy Week. The Hon. Colin Lindsay, president of the Union, said that he and the members of the deputation had waited upon his Grace to present a memorial, which bore 1500 signatures, including those of 15 bishops, 8 deans, 15 archdeacons, a great number of beneficed clergy, peers, and members of the House of Commons. It was as follows

"To his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.—We, the undersigned members of the Church of England, approach your Grace with all the respect due to your office, and beg to represent to you the strong feeling entertained by us with respect to the opening of theatres in Holy (or Passion) Week. Your Grace is well aware that until within the last 26 years it was the custom to close the theatres on the Wednesdays and Fridays in Lent, as well as during the last week in Lent. This rule having been relaxed, the year before last the present Lord Chamberlain made a further relaxation, and allowed the theatres to be opened during Holy (or Passion) Week, for the first time during the Lent of 1862. A very influential deputation waited upon his lordship to remonstrate with him upon the proposed desecration of that most holy season. He replied that it was then too late to insert the prohibition clauses in the licences which had been issued to the managers of the theatres. In the ensuing autumn, therefore—i.e., of 1862, it was arranged that another deputation, to be introduced by the Duke of Marlborough, should wait upon the Lord Chamberlain before the granting of the new licences. His lordship's health was in too delicate a state to receive the deputation; but a memorial very influentially and numerously signed, including the names of your Grace, twelve bishops, and other dignitaries of the Church, and also several members of both Houses of Parliament, was presented to the Hon. Spencer Ponsonby, who acted on behalf of the Lord Chamberlain. But again, in spite of all these respectful though earnest remonstrances, the Lord Chamberlain has maintained his own course, which tends, as we believe, to the profanation of that most holy season when all Christians should be commemorating the Death and Passion of our Redeemer. It would be as presumptuous on our part to urge upon your Grace any reasons for the due celebration of that week, as it would be unnecessary to expose the weakness and fallacy of the arguments put forward to defend the desecration of that season. But we humbly and most earnestly entreat your Grace to use all your influence with the Lord Chamberlain, and, if that be ineffectual, with her Majesty the Queen herself, to have re-inserted (in the licences about to be issued in the course of the autumn to the managers of the metropolitan theatres) the ancient clause prohibiting them from opening those theatres under the Lord Chamberlain's jurisdiction during the last week of the next Lent. We are your Grace's most humble and faithful servants."

* Mr. Ellis has addressed a letter to the daily papers, stating that this is an incorrect description of his plan, in which he says he proposes to "pump the sewage into a summit-regulating reservoir on either side of the Thames, placed on hills of sufficient elevation to enable him to command, by gravitation, the area to be dealt with."

Mr. Lindsay said the Archbishop of York would have signed the memorial, but his Grace thought it did not go far enough. The Archbishop asked in what sense. Mr. Lindsay said the Archbishop of York thought that theatres ought to be closed on other days than those contemplated by the memorialists. The Bishop of London would also have signed it had it not been that his Lordship thought he could act in the matter more efficiently on his own behalf as bishop of the diocess in which the theatres alluded to were situate. The Archbishop of Canterbury having received the memorial, and run his eye over the numerous signatures appended to it, said,—"I need not say, gentlemen, how entirely I deprecate the opening of her Majesty's theatres during the Holy Week. I have already testified my earnest desire that they should not be opened by having signed a similar memorial. Certainly, any influence I possess I shall be glad to use in the same direction. I will not pledge myself to the precise mode, but I will pay the most respectful attention to the memorial, and will communicate with the Lord Chamberlain on the subject. Beyond that I will not say anything, but I have the matter very much at heart, and I will do all I can to prevent the recurrence of that of which you complain. I will give my best attention to the matter during the year."

LANCASHIRE RELIEF FUND.—At the fortnightly meeting of the Mansion House Committee on Friday, the report stated that the total amount of subscriptions to the previous day had been 508,516*l.*, of which 1249*l.* had accrued as interest on the reserve fund. During the fortnight 1248*l.* had been received in subscriptions, and the available balance at the disposal of the committee amounted to 74,450*l.* Out of this sum grants were voted to the amount of 3315*l.* Letters were read, showing the extent to which emigration is going on from the cotton districts. From these it appeared that the Victoria (Australia) Emigrants Assistance Society, of which Mr. Hugh Childers, M.P., is Chairman, sent out on May 20, 50 married couples, with their children, or 200 people in all, from Liverpool, by the ship Southern Ocean; on May 21, 30 married couples, by the Queen of the South; and on the 6th June 100 single women, by the ship Robert Small, from Southampton. Besides these, 220 adults will leave Liverpool on the 15th inst., by the ship Landsborough, and 180 early in September. The Manchester Emigrants' Aid Committee have sent to Canada 148 statute adults at a total cost of 863*l.*, of which 500*l.* had been contributed by the Mansion House Committee. They have also made a grant of 2*l.* a head for 50 statute adults from Blackburn to Canada, and are now arranging to forward 50 families (equal to 125 statute adults) and 75 single women to Victoria (Australia), at a cost of 7*l.* 10*s.* per statute adult, or 1500*l.* The Blackburn Emigration Committee have sent to Canada 62 statute adults. The Manchester Operatives' Emigration Society have made arrangements for sending to Queensland 50 adults from among the overlookers, the Mansion House Committee contributing 100*l.* towards their passage-money and outfit. Another society at Manchester sent off 24 persons to Queensland from Plymouth on the 7th of July, and they will forward about 30 more for the same destination from Queenstown on the 17th inst.

BERMONDSEY PARK.—At the meeting of the Board of Works last week Mr. Le Breton brought up the report of the Streets Committee, recommending that the letter from the Bermondsey Vestry be referred back to the committee, with instructions to negotiate for a suitable site, not exceeding 40 acres, for a park for the district of Bermondsey, and to report the same to the Board. He moved the adoption of the report. Mr. Brooker moved as an amendment that the question be deferred for three months, which was seconded by Mr. D'Iffanger. After a discussion, the amendment was negatived by a majority of 7 to 13.

CHARGE OF RECRUITING FOR THE POLISH ARMY.—On Tuesday Mr. Alfred Styles, a young man, about 21 years of age, was brought up by warrant at Bow Street, charged before the chief magistrate with having "unlawfully attempted, and endeavoured to procure certain persons to enlist, serve, and to be employed as soldiers in the service and aid of certain foreign people—to wit, to assist the Poles, who are now in arms against and opposed to his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Russia." The charge was preferred by Messrs. William and Henry Sharp, the agents of the Russian Government in this country. The evidence clearly proved that an attempt had been making in the metropolis to form an Anglo-Polish legion, and that the defendant, who had served under Garibaldi, had been acting as recruiting agent. Mr. Hall, the chief magistrate, said that the offence was within the Act, which was intended to embrace any enlistment for a "foreign service." He therefore remanded the defendant, and fixed the bail at 400*l.* and two sureties in 200*l.* each, or four in 100*l.* each.

MURDER AND SUICIDE IN BETHNAL GREEN.—On Wednesday morning a shocking case of murder and suicide took place in Globe Street, Globe Road, Bethnal Green. A Spitalfields weaver, named James Dupey, occupied a small house in that street, with his wife and three children. The family went to bed about 11 o'clock, and about midnight the children and some of the neighbours were alarmed by cries of murder from Mrs. Dupey. It was found that her throat was cut in so shocking a manner that death took place almost immediately. The husband rushed out of the house towards Victoria Park, where it was afterwards found that he had cut his own throat and then flung himself into the Regent's Canal, where his body was found in the course of the morning. At the inquest on Thursday it appeared from the evidence that there were three children living at home with the deceased, but that the whole family were in great distress, and had recently applied for parish relief, which was afforded them. The jury returned a verdict ascribing the murder and suicide to insanity.

STABBING IN THE KINGSLAND ROAD.—A fatal case of stabbing took place in the Kingsland Road on Saturday week. A man named Burke, who had been living a wretched life with a woman named Perry, had a more violent quarrel with her than usual, and attempted to turn her out of the house. She immediately snatched up a dinner-knife and stabbed him in the thigh. The man ran out into the street, and before medical aid could be procured he died from loss of blood. The jury at the inquest returned a verdict of Manslaughter against her.

ALLEGED MURDER IN LAMBETH.—An inquest was held on Wednesday on the body of a woman called Ann Griffin, who was found dead in a house in Lambeth, and was said to have died from injuries inflicted by a man called George Bagent, with whom she had been living. He was seen to strike and kick her in a shocking manner, and there was some suspicion of her having taken poison, but the post mortem examination effectually disproved this suspicion, and showed that death had been caused by a fractured rib which penetrated the lungs. The jury returned a verdict of Manslaughter against Bagent, who was committed to Newgate for trial.

THE ISLINGTON MURDER.—The coroner's inquest on the body of the little girl found buried in the nursery-garden at Islington was resumed on Friday. It will be remembered that a young man named Clarke was in custody for the murder, but the solicitor appointed by the Treasury to conduct the prosecution before the police magistrate abandoned the charge of murder, and determined to proceed against him for an indecent assault on other girls. The evidence before the coroner could not be carried farther than that before the magistrate, and the jury in consequence returned a verdict of Wilful Murder against some person unknown.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.—The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London in the week that ended August 1st, were 1402. The average number in the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1252. The present return is therefore 150 above the average. During the week the births of 919 boys and 853 girls, in all 1772 children, were registered in London. In the corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1797.

Provincial.

APPLEBY.—The sentence of death passed upon Agnes Pattinson, at the late Westmoreland assizes, for the murder of her infant, has been commuted to penal servitude for life, on the recommendation of Mr. Justice Mellor, before whom she was tried.

BIRMINGHAM.—On Sunday morning a fatal affray occurred in Bissel Street, in which a man named Thomas Jefferson, a brassfounder, aged 32, was killed. It appears that he lived within a few doors of a man called George Hignett, a tobacco manufacturer; a powerfully made man, known for his quarrelsome disposition. On Sunday morning he was illusing his wife in front of his house. The neighbours hearing the woman's screams, went out to interpose, and among them was the deceased Jefferson. An altercation between him and Hignett took place, in the course of which the latter said that if the other interfered he would "make it warm for him." Notwithstanding this threat Jefferson approached Hignett, who ran into the house for a poker, with which he struck Jefferson on the skull, and felled him to the ground. The man was carried to the hospital, but died soon afterwards. Hignett was taken into custody in his own house, and said that deceased should not have interfered with him when he had been drinking. The deceased has left a widow and three children. At the inquest on Tuesday the evidence showed that deceased had been drinking, and was about to strike the prisoner, who hit him with the poker. The jury returned a verdict of Manslaughter against the prisoner, who was committed for trial at the assizes.

HALIFAX.—The Princess of Wales has presented Mrs. Crossley, the wife of the mayor of this town, with a diamond bracelet, as a slight souvenir of the Prince of Wales's very agreeable visit to Halifax. A letter has also been written by command of the Prince to the mayor, expressing his high satisfaction with his visit.

IPSWICH.—On Saturday the Postmaster-General offered a reward of 50*l.* for the recovery of the Ipswich registered letter-bag, containing bank-notes, bankers' bills, and other property, which disappeared in its transit to St. Martin's-le-Grand one night last week in a mysterious manner. It is customary to place the registered letter-bag within the large bag, and during the journey up it is removed and placed on a shelf in the mail van while the other letters are sorted. This was done as usual, and the small bag was then replaced. On arriving at the General Post Office the registered bag was not to be found, and nothing has yet been heard of it, though every effort is making to recover the bag or to obtain information as to the way in which its contents have been disposed of. The inquiries at the office for the registered letters have been numerous during the week, and it is rumoured that some of the notes have already made their appearance in the City.

LIVERPOOL.—The Great Eastern is again on her way across the Atlantic. She left the Mersey on Tuesday morning for New York, in the presence of large numbers of people, who crowded both sides of the river to see her off. She took out a large cargo and 900 passengers from this port; and at Queenstown it was understood that she would take on board about 200 more.

MANCHESTER.—At the meeting of the Central Executive Committee on Monday, the Earl of Derby in the chair, the report stated that there was a balance in the bank of 317,168*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*, and that 1373*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.* had been received during the week. Mr. Commissioner Farnall's weekly report stated that the utmost point of improvement has been turned, and that on the 1st inst. there was an increase of 1299 persons in the 27 unions receiving parochial relief. Grants were made to 14 places to the amount of 2455*l.* A long discussion ensued as to the probable effect of certain clauses of the Public Works Bill on the employment of factory operatives. Lord Egerton, of Tatton, said it would be interesting to know whether in granting money to boards of guardians for public works Government would make any condition as to the remuneration to be given to those who were employed with it; that is to say, whether men were to be allowed to receive a fair week's wage for a fair week's work, or merely such a sum per hour or day as would simply suffice to keep body and soul together. Mr. Farnall said there was nothing in the enactment compelling local authorities who might be established to carry out these public works to pay any particular amount of wages neither was it incumbent on them to employ factory operatives. The Bill throughout was permissive. He had seen and conferred with nearly 300 of these local authorities for carrying out the works, and Mr. Rawlinson would justify him in stating that there was every reason to expect that in the whole of the places represented by them the entire provisions of the Act would be received, and that a very large sum of money would be applied for in order to set the class referred to upon work. With respect to the question put by Lord Egerton, he believed that in all the places which they had visited the payment would be made upon a measurement of the work, so that each man would receive the same rate of remuneration as could be earned by any independent labourer. Lord Egerton said he had recently visited a considerable number of the Stockport operatives who were employed by himself in out-door work during the whole of the winter, and he was astonished at the extraordinary improvement which had taken place in their appearance. They looked better and stronger in every way, and in reply to his inquiries, they declared that they were up to any kind of work. Sir J. Kay Shuttleworth said the question raised by Lord Egerton was most important. Under the 14th clause of the Bill the guardians, it was clear, had superadded to their ordinary functions that of which there was a faint shadow in the Nuisances Removal Act, but which was totally distinct from the relief of the poor, namely, the function of undertaking public works. It was most essential that this distinction should be kept in view, or otherwise great confusion and mischief might arise. He understood Lord Egerton to imply that a board of guardians when employing a man upon public works ought not to consider him a pauper receiving relief, but as a man working for wages. Unless that were so they might be introducing a system of employing indigence on public works similar to that adopted at Paris, which was a thing utterly unknown in this country heretofore. Lord Egerton said it did appear most desirable that where money was borrowed from Government under the powers of the Act, whether for expenditure by guardians in out townships or by relief committees, there should be a clear understanding that the money was to be applied to the intended purpose, namely—the employment of the distressed people upon a fair system of wages for work. Sir J. Kay-Shuttleworth inquired of Mr. Rawlinson what rules Boards of Guardians, applying for this form of aid for public works in localities having no local government board, would be required to observe with regard to its application. Mr. Rawlinson replied that the requirements laid down would be similar to those exercised under the Public Health Act, and in the first instance under the Local Government Act. He was happy to inform the committee that a boná fide application had already gone up from Preston for something like 50,000*l.* At Blackburn it was resolved to apply for about 75,000*l.*, and that was merely a first instalment. He knew also that application would be made from Wigan for 35,000*l.*; from Bolton, for 50,000*l.*; from Stockport, for 50,000*l.*; from Oldham, for 50,000*l.*; from Ashton, for about 30,000*l.*; from Bromley, for 30,000*l.*; from Glossop, for 8000*l.*; from Denton, for 3000*l.*; from Dukinfield, for 8000*l.*; and from Rochdale, for 30,000*l.* These were small items; but he had no doubt about the whole million and a half being applied for before the middle of autumn. Then as to the requirement that the Poor-law Board would make. First, all the applicants for loans would be required to state to them the population of the district, the present rateable value, the local debt, if any, the income arising from any portion of that debt, also a distinct account of what they wished to do with the money, under separate heads, whether for public or private improvements. The money would be advanced by instalments, and the Board could then get monthly or quarterly returns of the number of men employed, the number of distressed operatives included in them, what they were doing, and whether paid by piece-work, the rate of pay, and the men's earnings. In reply to the Earl of Derby, Mr. Farnall said he had everywhere distinctly stated it would be requisite that these people should be treated as independent labourers and struck off the list of the guardians and relief committees. In reply to the Mayor of Manchester, Mr. Rawlinson stated that the first object of the Government was to give a certain amount of relief in the execution of sanitary works and town improvements. It was his duty to lay fully before the Government all the details of the several kinds of work, and it would be a breach of faith on the part of any corporation if they were to apply for a large sum of money for paving the streets, and employ skilled labour to the utmost extent necessary on the work; but they would be expected, though not compelled, to use unskilled labour for everything that it was capable of performing. Even in work of that description he could say, from personal knowledge, that the lowest estimate of unskilled labour which might be made available was from 18 to 25 per cent.

Newcastle-on-Tyne.—The 33d annual meeting of the British Association for the advancement of Science will commence in this town, on Wednesday, the 26th inst., when the first general meeting will be held in the Town Hall, and the Rev. Robert Willis will resign the chair, after which Sir William Armstrong will assume the presidency and deliver his inaugural address. The local executive, and general committees in Newcastle are making ample preparations for the meeting, and the members from a distance will be entertained with unbounded hospitality by the people of this district. The following is the programme of the proceedings:—Thursday, Aug. 27.—Section committee meetings, at 10 p.m.—Section meetings, at 11 a.m.—Exhibition and Soirée, in Central Exchange News Rooms, at 8 30 p.m. Aug. 28.—Gun Experiments at Whitley, by Sir W. G. Armstrong, at 9 a.m.—Section committee meetings at 10 a.m.—Section meetings, at 11 a.m.—Evening lecture, in the New Town Hall, at 8.30 p.m. Aug. 29.—Section committee meetings, at 10 a.m.—Sections meeting, at 11 a.m.—Excursion to Canobie, Riccarton, and Kielder, under the guidance of the Northern Mining Institute.—Excursion to Sunderland.—Excursion to Crag Lough, under the guidance of the Tyneside Naturalists' Field Club. Aug. 31.—Section committee meetings at 10 a.m.—Section meetings, at 11 a.m.—General committee, at 3 p.m., at Literary and Philosophical Society.—Microscopic Soirée, in Central Exchange News-room, at 8.30 p.m. Sept. 1.—Section committee meeting, at 10 a.m.—Section meetings, at 11 a.m.—Evening lecture, in the New Town-hall, at 8.30 p.m. Sept. 2.—General committee, at 3 p.m., at Literary and Philosophical Society's Rooms.—Concluding general meeting, at 3 p.m., in the New Town-hall. Sept. 3.—Excursion to Cleveland to see the iron-works and iron mines.—Excursion to Allenheads to see Mr. Beaumont's lead mines.—Excursion to Marsden Rocks and South Shields. The following gentlemen have been chosen presidents of sections:—Mathematical and Physical Science, Professor Rankin, C.E., LL.D., F.R.S., Professor of Engineering in the University of Glasgow; Chemical Science, Professor Williamson, Ph. D., F.R.S., Professor of Chemistry in University College, London; Geology, Professor W. W. Smyth, M.A., F.R.S., F.G.S., Professor of Mining and Mineralogy at the Royal School of Mines, London; Zoology and Botany, including Physiology, Professor Balfour, M.D., Professor of Botany in the University of Edinburgh; Geography and Ethnology, Sir R. I. Murchison, K.C.B.; Economic Science and Statistics, Mr. W. Tite, M.P., F.R.S.; Mechanical Science, Professor Willis, of Cambridge. Among the more interesting features of the meeting will be the reading of papers descriptive of the great branches of industry in the district, such as coal mining, the glass and iron trades, iron ship-building, &c.; and the excursions to the iron district of Cleveland; to the lead mines of Mr. Beaumont, M.P., at Allenheads; to the Northumberland lakes and the Roman wall; to South Shields, Sunderland, and to Seaton Delaval and other large collieries in the district. There will be an extensive exhibition of works of art and science in the Central Exchange News-room, the Mayor of Newcastle will give a grand concert, and there will be several balls and other gaieties during the week of the meeting. Sir William Armstrong will also make several great gun experiments on Whitley Sands on one of the days of the meeting.

Nottingham.—At the Shire Hall, on the 6th inst., a young man about 20 years of age, named Bennett Carnell, was brought before Lord Belper and the sitting magistrates, charged with shooting a child named Elizabeth Oldham, three years old. It appeared from the evidence that on the previous evening at half-past 6 o'clock the prisoner was shooting birds with an air-gun from the window of his mother's house, at Beeston, four miles from this town, and the deceased was playing with other children in a garden about 20 yards from him. He continued shooting for some time, when a bullet from his gun struck deceased on the head, and caused her death in a few minutes. The prisoner was apprehended and remanded. The jury at the inquest returned a verdict of Manslaughter against the prisoner, who was committed for trial at the next assizes.

Portsmouth.—Some interesting experiments have been carried out in this dockyard during the last two months, in order to test the efficiency of "Brown's patent vitreous sheathing," for the preservation of the bottoms of iron ships from oxidation, and also from fouling. It has been applied to her Majesty's ships Resistance and Warrior, which are now afloat, and Messrs. H. J. Hall & Co., of London, the proprietors, have just finished the coating of the Hector, which was severely tested last week in the presence of the full Board of the Admiralty, and of Mr. Reed, chief constructor, Mr. Craddock, master shipwright, and the whole staff of the yard. Their lordships, having some doubt as to the adhesive qualities of the material by which the glazed plates are attached, gave orders that one of the most powerful shores should be placed against the plates and wedged up. When removed the plates were as perfect as before the test; but not being yet satisfied, the controller ordered the shores to be again applied, and with the same satisfactory result. It would appear from these experiments that a successful protection has at last been discovered for iron ships, as Messrs. Hall have in their offices a plate that has been on the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steam-ship Ellora for two voyages, and was found, when removed, to be perfectly clean. The Emperor of the French has ordered a similar trial to be made at Cherbourg on one or more of his iron-plated vessels, having been favourably impressed with the accounts of the invention.

Ryde.—The regatta of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club commenced on Tuesday, and was numerously attended. There was a very exciting race between the Syren, Audax, Marina, Christabel, and Crusader cutters for a prize of 50*l.* The Audax was the winner, beating the Marina by six minutes. On Wednesday there was a private match between Mr. Weld's English schooner Alarm, and the American schooner yacht Gipsy, in which the Alarm beat her opponent by nine minutes. During the day all the yachts of the Club got under weigh by signal from the Commodore and manœuvred at Spithead in two divisions, forming a spectacle that will not be easily forgotten by any who witnessed it. Fifteen schooners, 13 cutters, six yawls, and two screw steamers passed in procession by the pier in all the glory of well-kept hulls, snow-white canvas, and coloured flags. The match to Cherbourg, for a plate value 100 guineas, on the 18th inst., is exciting much attention, and the mayor and the military of Cherbourg have invited the members of the Club to a grand ball at the Hotel de Ville on the evening of the race.

Windsor.—The Peterhead papers state that a stone has been successfully cut from the Cairngall Granite Quarry which is to form a tomb for Prince Albert—on a smaller scale, but on the same principle as the tomb of Napoleon at Paris, being placed on the floor of the vault, and not underground. The stone is 10 feet long, by about seven broad, and three and a half deep; and is to be cut into a sarcophagus, to rest on a pedestal. Two cysts are to be cut in the stone for the insertion of coffins and lids left to be cemented down. The body of the late Prince is to occupy one cyst; and it is said to be the express wish of her Majesty that her own remains shall be deposited in the other. The obtaining of this stone has been a work of extreme difficulty—one or two blocks having been rejected for flaws. The stone weighs above 18 tons.

Ireland.

The Irish Relief Fund.—The Central Committee for the Relief of the Distress in Ireland has been dissolved, in consequence of the exhaustion of its funds. The Lord Mayor said that before the meeting broke up he wished to remind the people of Ireland, that they contributed 20,000*l.* for the relief of distress in Lancashire, of whose extent and reality they had no doubt, while out of a total of 22,764*l.* received by the Central Committee for the Relief of Irish Distress, upwards of 20,000*l.* came from the United States, and the people of Ireland only contributed 2457*l.*

Great Libel Case.—A libel case of some importance has been on trial before Mr. Justice Hayes, at the Antrim assizes. The plaintiff was the Mayor of Belfast, and the defendant was Mr. John Rea, a man of great eccentricity, who has kept Belfast in a state of turmoil for many years. The libel consisted of charges made by Mr. Rea against the mayor during discussions in the corporation, conspiracy and perjury forming the least serious. He conducted his own case; and among the witnesses whom he summoned for the defence were Sir Hugh Cairns, ex-Chancellor Napier, and other official personages. After occupying the Court for 11 days, the case terminated in a verdict for the plaintiff on all the issues, in consequence of the course pursued by the defendant, who endeavoured, during his examination of witnesses, to support his charges against the mayor by putting irrelevant questions to them. This led to frequent collisions between him and the judge, who was often engaged for hours in preventing the repetition of the libels by questions asked for that purpose, and at last ordered down every witness as soon as Mr. Rea began to abuse the time and patience of the court. Mr. Rea then retired from his defence, alleging that he was not being legally or justly treated. On the jury giving in their verdict, Mr. Rea said, "I am very glad of it." It is understood that he will do all he can to prevent the verdict being carried into effect by appeals. Sentence has not been pronounced on him, the case being on issue from the Queen's Bench.

The New Ross Murder.—Joseph Kelly, who was found guilty at the recent assizes of the murder of Michael Fitzhenry, a national schoolmaster, near New Ross, was hung on Tuesday morning in front of the gaol at Wexford, in the presence of a large number of persons from the surrounding country. He died penitent, and made a full confession of his guilt.

Scotland.

Discovery of Norse Remains in Orkney.—A most interesting discovery has been made in Westray by Mr. Farrer, M.P., who in his researches has found what appear to be the unmistakeable remains of a mailed Norse warrior and his horse. The Orkney Herald in describing this discovery, says that the labourers engaged in removing sand from the lower part of the Links, east of Pierowall, in Westray, with a view to ascertain whether any graves yet remained undisturbed, discovered portions of the skeleton of a small horse, a fragment of the lower jaw of a human being, in which were three teeth in good preservation, together with pieces of iron very much corroded, two iron buckles, several large nail heads, and the half of what appeared to have been a bone button. The oak wood to which the iron had been attached is in most instances as hard as the iron itself. From the position in which the human jaw was found, it seems probable that the horse and rider had fallen at the same moment. There was no appearance of any grave. The skeletons had obviously been left to decay where they fell, and the discovery of some pieces of iron a few yards further off suggests the probability of the bodies having been pulled to pieces by dogs or birds of prey. A piece of bone, possibly the wrist-bone, adhered to the larger of the two buckles, but it crumbled away on being touched. The size of the nails and weight of the iron render it doubtful whether the whole could have formed a shield, and it is not impossible that some of these iron relics may have belonged to the horse trappings. Sand had drifted over the remains, but there was no appearance of artificial interment. The horse was probably unshod; the horny parts of the hoofs had disappeared, but the bone beneath was in good preservation. No portion of iron was found near the hoofs. The skull of the horse was almost entirely decomposed. The sand covering the remains varied in depth from 2 to 3 feet. There is a tradition in Westray of a battle having been fought between the old inhabitants and the Norsemen at the place where the remains were found.

Interesting Discovery in Argyleshire.—A cavern similar to those found in England and on the Continent, containing osseous remains of men and of lower animals, has lately been discovered on the property of Mr. John Malcolm, of Poltalloch. By the liberality of that gentleman, says the Glasgow Herald, the cavern has been fully explored, and its contents carefully collected by the Rev. Messrs. Mapleton and Macbride. These contents consist of the remains of men, of other animals, and shells of edible shell-fish. The only article of manufacture found in it was a small celt, a flint flake; and the only domestic utensil was a scallop shell, or pecten maximus—the shell used by the ancient Celts as a drinking vessel. The cavern was evidently used as a place of residence, for beneath the cave stuff, or débris, were found ashes, bits of charred wood, and bones, a flint pebble for striking fire, and stones, which, from their form and position, seemed to have served for seats. When first discovered, the human remains were supposed to have been those of persons who had fled there for shelter when the adjacent country was laid waste by fire and sword during the ruthless raid of Alister M'Coll Citto. The absence, however, of metal weapons and culinary vessels—both which were of universal use in the days of this scourge of Argyleshire, and which undoubtedly would have been conveyed by the refugees to their place of concealment—and the presence of celts and scallop shells seem to disprove this opinion, and to point to a much higher antiquity for its inhabitants. What seems to confirm this opinion is the fact that many of the bones, teeth, and shells are as firmly imbedded in a calcareous matrix as are the fossil remains in the lias and carboniferous limestone. Mr. Macbride is engaged in examining its contents and preparing a report on the subject.

EXTRAORDINARY SCENE AT THE NESS SALMON FISHERIES.—The Inverness Courier records a strange scene which occurred a few days ago at the Ness salmon fisheries:—Hundreds of fish came surging up in shoals, and wriggled with difficulty over the fords. Troops of boys lunged after them through the shallows, pelting them, driving them back, and causing consternation among the poor fish. On the ford below Holm Mills a monster salmon showed himself leading up a great shoal of lesser fish. His dimensions as he splashed about in the shallow water, turning on his deep silvery side to lessen the difficulty of finding water, could not escape notice, and two or three lads rushed into the water to give chase. He tried hard to effect the ascent, and his followers for a moment remained quiet to watch the result. But the boys were too active for him, and he turned down the stream, never halting till he found himself safe in Macintyre's Pool. His followers were scattered, some rushing to the right and some to the left, the greater part finding their way upwards, but many returning to the safe haven they had so recently left. All this time the river had not undergone the slightest change, but was lower and clearer than it had been almost in the memory of man; not a drop of rain had fallen for weeks; but a change was impending, and it is presumed that the salmon knew it. Within 24 hours thunder-showers were pouring down torrents on the hills of Glengarry and Loch Ness, and no doubt the fish were impatient for the slightest hint that up stream there would shortly be water enough to cover them.

Railways.

THE METROPOLITAN.—The working of this line by the Great Western Company having ceased on Monday evening, the traffic was worked on Tuesday morning by the Great Northern Company on the narrow-gauge rails. As this gauge was not in such good order as the broad gauge, and in fact was now worked for the first time, great inconvenience to the public was occasioned by delays in the trains. At King's-cross station such was the state of things that the clerks declined at one period to take money from intending passengers, and refused to return money to persons who had paid their fares and found themselves unable to proceed to their destination with sufficient speed. The engine of the train which left Bishop's-road station at 9·30 ran off the line soon after the train had left the station, causing considerable alarm to the passengers and a temporary stoppage of the traffic. On Wednesday morning another train ran off the line at the Gower-street station, and completely disarranged the traffic until the line was cleared. The Metropolitan Company, however, are now building engines and carriages for themselves, which will, it is said, be quite equal to those with which the line has hitherto been worked by the Great Western.

THE LYNN RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—The inquest on the five persons who were killed by the accident on the Lynn and Hunstanton Railway was resumed on Friday. On the previous occasion nothing was done beyond the identification of the bodies that they might be buried. The evidence of several passengers was now taken as to the rate of speed at which the train was travelling, as well as the cause of the accident. It appeared that the bullock was seen by the side of the line, on the wrong side of the fence, by the guard and driver of a train that passed a quarter of an hour before, but nothing was done to remove it. The inquest was again adjourned to Saturday, when Capt. Tyler, the inspector of the Board of Trade, was examined and severely censured by some of the jurymen for having certified that the line was fit for use when the fences were in such an imperfect state. He insisted, however, that the fences were sufficiently secured at the time he examined them. On Monday, to which day the inquiry was again adjourned, a report from Captain Tyler was read, stating that the carriages in which the deceased persons were travelling were very weak in construction, while some of their woodwork was in a state of decay, that the fences had got somewhat out of order, the ditch was dry, and the sides were broken down, which allowed cattle to pass; but the company were now taking effectual precautions. The coroner then summed up, and the jury returned the following verdict:—

The jury find an unhesitating verdict of Accidental Death, caused by a bullock straying on the line between Wootton and Gaywood, through the gross negligence of the authorities of the Great Eastern Company and their officers—first, by not putting the fence into a state of safety; secondly, by not putting the bullock off the line where the accident occurred; thirdly, by the disgraceful state of the carriages used for the conveyance of those unfortunate persons who met with their untimely end by such means. They also consider the Government Inspector deserving of censure for passing a line so inadequately fenced.

On Wednesday Captain Tyler made another inspection of the line in order to make his official report to the Board of Trade. The inquest on the body of Mr. Dennis, who died at his own house in Lynn, from injuries received by the accident, was resumed on the same day by the borough coroner. After hearing the evidence given before the county coroner on the former inquest, the jury returned the following verdict:—

The jury find unanimously that John Dennis died from injuries received in an accident caused by a bullock straying upon the line; are also of opinion that the accident was owing to the insufficiency of the fences, and the neglect of the same by the Great Eastern Company; that the driver and the guard acted to the best of their ability and according to instructions. The jury strongly recommend that the carriages be more frequently subjected to close examination, and further are of opinion that Captain Tyler was perfectly justified in passing the line in September last.

ATTEMPT TO UPSET A TRAIN.—On Tuesday night last an attempt was made to upset a passenger train on the North Kent, between the Woolwich dockyard and Arsenal stations. It appears that the passenger train leaving London Bridge at 10 P.M., preceeded as usual until its arrival at a spot about midway between the two stations, and at the rear of the houses in Powis Street. A severe shock was here felt, and the concussion was so great that crockery and other articles were thrown off shelves in the adjacent houses. It was at first thought that the engine had left the line, but fortunately it continued its progress in safety. On subsequent examination a large piece of timber which had evidently formed the post of a gate, was found to have been placed across the metals; fortunately it was completely severed by the wheels of the locomotive, otherwise a fearful accident might have resulted. The police have taken prompt measures to trace the offender.

Law.

JUDGES' CHAMBERS.—Stuart and Another v. Waugh.—This was an application for the release of Colonel Waugh from the imprisonment in which he is detained on the order of Mr. Justice Blackburn, at the instance of the managers of the London and Eastern Bank, for the sum of 50,000*l.* The application was resisted on the part of the bank, and after a good deal of argument, Mr. Justice Keating, before whom the application was made, deferred his judgment until Tuesday, when he decided that the case did not come under the terms of the statute, and refused the application with costs.

OXFORD CIRCUIT: MONMOUTH.—Stealing a Will.—Edwin Truscott Gill, 17 years of age, a gilder, was charged with stealing the original will of the late Thomas Powell, Esq., merchant, of Newport. It appeared from the evidence that the will was read over to the family of deceased on the 25th March, the day after his death, and was missed on the 8th May. A letter was received by the widow, Mrs. Bowell, dated Rendezvous, June 27, 1863, and worded as follows:—"Respected Madam,—We perhaps merit the utmost possible contempt you or the world may throw upon us, but we trust you will overcome your repugnance sufficient to peruse and comply to the ensuing, 'our only possible stipulation,' for the restoration of the late Mr. Powell's original will, and other documents of more or less intrinsic value. It is thus—should you think fit to negotiate with us we will restore to you the above-mentioned documents for the sum of 125*l.* in gold. If you consent to this you may let us know, by inserting in The Star of Gwent, for July 4th, the following advertisement:—'John Anderson may apply to his late employers.' Should this appear you will soon after hear from us, and will please hold the money in readiness. We remain yours respectfully, THE BROTHERS 'LAVERNA.' P.S.—You must understand that we consider this private. Therefore you will please hold no communication with the police, for were you to do so, the civil authorities, as a right, would take it in hand and endeavour to bring us to light, both for the benefit of their reputation and pocket, heedless of the risk they would cause you, for should they fail (which most assuredly they would) it is you who will suffer, not they. For this reason 'beware that you attempt no treachery.' If the advertisement appears, we shall look upon it as your word of honour as much as if you said, 'Upon my honour as a woman and a lady I hereby cede to your proposal, &c." The advertisement was inserted as requested, and three other letters were received, requesting to meet at a certain lonely place at half-past 10 o'clock at night, and, saying "though your person is familiar to us, it is necessary that you should during your walk burden yourself with a slight asthmatic cough, which must be repeated every half-dozen steps or so." The police were made acquainted with the circumstances, and accordingly were on the qui vive. A female was hired to "cough," and the result was the apprehension of the prisoner after a severe struggle. The will was found wrapped up in brown paper a few yards from where the struggle took place. The jury found the prisoner Guilty, and Baron Martin, in passing sentence, referred to the ruinous litigation in which the family might have been involved if the will had not been found. After alluding to the prisoner's previous bad character, he said he must pass upon him a sentence that would be a warning to others. The sentence of the Court would be that he be kept in penal servitude for 12 years.

MIDLAND CIRCUIT: LEICESTER.—The Mount Sorel Catastrophe.—Joseph Webster was indicted for the manslaughter of Henry Pideack. It appeared that at the time of the occurrence deceased was at work with 400 or 500 other men at the granite quarries at Mount Sorel. These quarries, which are cut to a depth of nearly 200 feet into the side of the hill, form a nearly perpendicular wall of stone, which is entirely unfenced at the top. On the 1st of April the prisoner, who keeps a public house near the quarries, was driving a pony and cart over the top of the mound. On getting near the quarries he took the pony out of the cart, removed the harness from the pony, which he drove away, and backed the cart over the edge of the precipice on the heads of the men who were working in the quarries 200 feet below. The cart was seen to fall by the men at work, and all of them managed to get out of its way except deceased, who was struck on the back by the edge of the cart, and received such injuries that he died the next day. The case for the prosecution was that the prisoner was drunk, and backed the cart over the edge of the precipice recklessly and purposely. For the defence it was elicited, in cross-examination, that the edge of the quarry was bare and smooth, that there was a considerable inclination of the ground towards the precipice, and that accidents had often happened from cattle and other things falling over the edge. It was also shown that the top of the mount was a common, and that the prisoner claimed commonable rights thereon. It was admitted that there could be no dissent as to the facts of the case; but it was contended that the prisoner had gone to the top of the mount in a state of great excitement for the purpose of exercising his rights over the common, by turning out his pony to graze there. It was not proved that the prisoner knew that men were working underneath, and it was impossible to suppose that he had taken his cart to the mount merely to destroy it—a purpose which he could have accomplished equally well at home. The more reasonable conjecture was that, when he took his pony out of the shafts, the cart had slipped backwards down the incline in spite of all the prisoner could do to prevent it. It was true that the witnesses had deposed that the prisoner was pushing the cart backwards over the precipice, but their minds were biassed by the fatal result, and they were too far off to see distinctly what the prisoner was doing. It was impossible to assign any object for the act, if it was supposed to be the result of design. The Lord Chief Justice in summing up told the jury that the question was not whether the prisoner intended to injure any one. If he had had such an intention he would have been guilty of murder. The question for them was whether the prisoner intentionally backed his cart over the quarry, or whether its fall was the result of accident. If the cart was thrown down intentionally it was immaterial whether it was done from mere recklessness and wantonness, or to try some right or from an insane design on the part of the prisoner to destroy his own property. The jury found the prisoner Guilty, and he was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment with hard labour.

OXFORD CIRCUIT: STAFFORD.—Cruelty by a Stepmother.—Sarah Reece, 32, was charged with the manslaughter of William Ellis Reece, on the 16th March, in Wolverhampton. The deceased was a child of about 4 years old, and the prisoner was the second wife of the child's father, who was an ironworks' labourer, living in Monmore Green, in Wolverhampton. The child's mother died at its birth, and it was nursed by a relative, and passed into the keeping of the prisoner when she became the father's wife, and when the child was nearly a year old. It was then healthy, but soon afterwards showed signs of disease from neglect and want. The prisoner had been known to beat it cruelly with a strap, to lift it from the ground and dash it down again, after which one of its arms was broken, and before it could properly set the bandages were off. Neighbours had often heard the child screaming in the house whilst the prisoner was beating it, and had often fed it when it was suffering from hunger and thirst. The arm was broken by the mother picking the deceased up and dashing him down whilst he was drinking dirty soap water that had collected in front of the house, and to get at which the child had run out. Further, during the excessive cold at the beginning of the year, the prisoner fastened the child in a back kitchen without fire and food, leaving him alone in the house. The post-mortem examination showed that both the child's arms had been broken; the whole of the head under the forehead was one entire bruise; there were seven or eight bruises on other parts of the head; there were several slight bruises on the face, lip, and body; the stomach was contracted and empty; the bones on the right fore-arm were fractured, and there was no bony union, and the radius of the left arm had been fractured. The deceased had evidently received excessive violence, and that on more than one occasion. The surgeon was of opinion that the bruises were the result of blows, but he would not swear they were. The child had been improperly fed, and should have received medical treatment before his death. The body was diseased, and the bruises were not sufficient to cause death. He was of opinion that death had been accelerated by ill treatment and violence combined. The prisoner had been imprisoned two months for cruelty to the child before she went to live in Wolverhampton. On her release she had frequently said she would kill him. The children in the house said he was insufficiently fed; and a witness deposed to the prisoner having thrust him in a soiled condition into a pail of cold water, and then forced him to drink of it. The defence was that the child had been injured by falling down stairs a day or two before his death, and that these injuries, combined with the diseased state of the body, produced death. The jury found a verdict of Guilty; and Mr. Justice Byles sentenced the prisoner to penal servitude for life.

HOME CIRCUIT: CROYDON.—Tredell and Others v. Molyneux.—This was an action virtually between brother and sister as to the right to a little slip of waste land in the manor of Braheuf, near Guildford. The plaintiffs are trustees for a married lady, Mrs. Shrubb, and defendant is her brother. The dispute had arisen through the cutting down of a tree on the little piece of waste land in question. Mr. Molyneux, the defendant, resides at Loseley House, near Guildford. The defendant's residence and land are within the manor of Braheuf, of which Mrs. Shrubb is owner, and a turnpike-road runs through the land of defendant, and from the road runs a private road up to his residence at Loseley Lodge. Thus the land of defendant lies on each side of the turnpike-road, but between his fences and the hard portion of the road and along each side of the road are, as is usual in this and in many other parts of the country, some slips of green waste land. The case on the part of Mrs. Shrubb was that the waste belonged to her, as lady of the manor, being portions of the "waste" of the manor. The tree cut down grew on one of two little slips or pieces of land at the corner of the private road up to Loseley House. Mr. Chambers, Q.C., and Mr. Archibald were for the plaintiffs; Mr. Lush, Q.C., and Mr. C. Pollock were for the defendant. The declaration was for trespass, in cutting down the tree, &c., and defendant pleaded that the land on which it grew was his soil and freehold; and his case, in substance, was that as the slips of land lay on the side of a road passing through his land, and, moreover, at the end of a private road of his, the presumption was that the land was his. As the case was between relatives, and there was nothing really in dispute, of course it was contested with great tenacity. The alleged trespass was described as committed on land at the lodge entrance or drive leading from the turnpike road to the premises of the defendant. Mr. Chambers, in opening the case on the part of the plaintiffs, said the action was virtually between brother and sister, and undoubtedly the cause of action, in a pecuniary point of view, was insignificant. The case for the plaintiff, however, as trustees of the lady, was that the piece of land was waste within the manor, which had never been inclosed, and therefore belonged to her as lady of the manor. The first witness on the part of the plaintiffs, the steward of the manor, was called to prove that the piece of land was "within the ambit of the manor," but he admitted that there were no copyholds in the manor at all, and that it was not the business of the steward to know the boundaries of a manor, and the estate of defendant, it appeared, was freehold, to which he succeeded on the death of his father above 30 years ago. Thereupon the bailiff of the manor, who received the "quit rents," was called to prove that he received quit rents from defendant, and also to prove the boundaries of the manor; but it was objected on the part of defendant that the court rolls would show what the quit rents were paid for; and as to the boundaries, it appeared that the witness had only gone round the boundaries once, and that was with Mr. Shrubb (the husband of the real plaintiff), and that he had been guided by an old "perambulator," as he called it—i. e., perambulation of the boundaries of the manor. This was called for, and he said it was dated in 1800, and the witness was asked where it was, and whether he did not know of one as old as 1500; this he denied, but the one he produced was manifestly a copy, and the original was not forthcoming. Thereupon the Rev. Mr. Shrubb, the husband of the lady who was really plaintiff, was called as a witness to prove that the copy was taken from the old one, and that he went round the boundaries as shown in this "perambulation," so as to comprise the piece of land in question. Mr. Lush objected that it must first be proved that these were the ancient boundaries of the manor, and that until that was shown this evidence was quite irrelevant, and Baron Bramwell so ruled. The witness then stated that the fence as it now stood at the spot in question had been as it was now 40 or 50 years, leaving the tree outside. He was pressed a good deal as to whether 40 years ago the fence did not include it, and whether defendant had not removed the fence further back, to widen the end of the private road. This he could not say. Being pressed as to where he found what was produced as purporting to be the copy of the ancient plan of 1593, he said it was at the Manor House, in the place where the muniments of the manor were kept, and where the "homage" was held and the court rolls preserved. He said he had not found any more ancient document, and believed the more ancient had tumbled to pieces from age. Mr. Chambers then tendered the document in evidence as an ancient perambulation of the manor; but Mr. Lush objected that even if it were an original it ought to be entered on the rolls, and that this was only a copy; nor was there any evidence that there ever was an original, or that this was a record of a perambulation by the other parties interested as against the lord, and this was only by the lord or his bailiff who had an interest in enlarging the manor. Mr. Archibald submitted that it was admissible as evidence of reputation. The Judge said he would consult Baron Channell, and, having done so, said that he thought it was not evidence, but that he would receive it at the risk and peril of the plaintiffs if it were pressed. It was, however, only a copy, and not signed by the bailiff. Mr. Chambers thereupon consulted with his clients, and withdrew the document, as being too doubtful, and sought to prove his case in another way, by showing the piece of land in question to be parcel of a tract or slip of waste land extending continuously to a marsh within the manor. Here, however, a fresh difficulty arose in proving the continuity of these slips or pieces of land; while, on the other side, it was insisted that contiguity would suffice, whereas it was answered that, though this might be so, if there was evidence that they were originally parts of the same common or waste, evidence of acts of ownership on any of them would then be admissible as regarded others of them; that was not so here. It was replied that, if the pieces were along the same road and of a similar character, contiguity sufficed, even though the continuity was broken. It was urged again, in opposition to this, that it must first be proved that all were within the "ambit" of the manor. However, in the result, after a long struggle, it was ruled that the evidence was admissible, and the question was accordingly asked of the witness, who said he could not answer it; upon which the judge, amid some laughter, observed that the witness would have saved much trouble if he had said that before. A fresh head of evidence was then entered into with a fresh series of objections, the object being to show that these pieces of land had been "depastured" by the tenants of the manor, and that some of these had been enclosed, but when it came to be asked where these were it turned out that they were too far off to make the evidence admissible as regards the locus in quo, and so this head of evidence also became abortive. Mrs. Shrubb was then called, and stated that in 1834 she married a Major White, in whose family the manor had long been, and she resided at the manor house. He died in 1837, and devised it to her, and she afterwards married Mr. Shrub. Courts were held and the muniments kept at the manor house. The perambulation produced was found among the old documents there. It was signed by a person named White, who, from the other old documents, she knew had been lord of the manor. She said that it was in the family of the Whites in the reign of Elizabeth, and had been so ever since. She recollected the piece of land in question ever since 1818, when she lived with her father at Loseby Lodge, which afterwards went to her brother, the defendant. From about that time to the present she had known no alteration in it; and there were always pieces of land between the fences, or enclosures, and the high road, which, she said, were portions of the marsh or waste through which the road ran. The lady's examination and cross examination lasted a long while, and was the chief evidence in the case. Its effect was that the piece of land in question formed part of the waste. No actual perambulation of the manor within living memory was proved, except that quite recent. The copy of the ancient perambulation was put in, and it included within the boundaries of the manor the locus in quo. No acts of ownership, however, were proved, or the locus in quo itself, though it was proved that defendant attended manor courts and paid quit rents, it was not clearly shown for what they were paid or that they comprised the locus in quo. At the close of the evidence for the plaintiff, Mr. Lush submitted that there was no case, and the judge said he thought it was a very slight case indeed. Mr. Lush then commenced his address to the jury, declaring that this was a most lamentable instance of a litigious spirit between brother and sister, but he urged that there was no sufficient evidence that the spot lay within the manor. The jury interrupted the counsel, intimating that they did not desire to hear him. Mr. Chambers then addressed the jury in reply on the part of the plaintiff. The judge left the case briefly to the jury, observing that the action was one of the most groundless and vexatious he had ever known. Mr. Chambers thereupon desired to be nonsuited, and accordingly a nonsuit was entered. The case occupied the entire day.

Sheriffs' Court.—Ryley v. Stevens's Patent Bread-making Company.—This was an action to recover two weeks' wages in lieu of notice. Plaintiff deposed to having been summarily dismissed. Cross-examined by Mr. Girdlestone for the company: I was discharged for bad bread, but I can explain that. The German yeast was completely rotten and running with maggots. I had bad potatoes, and the flour was very queer. I showed the yeast to the manager, and he said he was very sorry, but I must do the best I could with it. His Honour: What! With rotten German yeast? Plaintiff: Yes. It was very common to put potatoes in the bread. The manager told me that they were obliged to get things at cheap prices, so that something could be put before the shareholders, as they were doing very badly. I have had to use yeast completely rotten and maggoty, and once I went to the Board, and was refused admission. I had a sample of the bad yeast. We had to squeeze out the moisture through our fingers. Mr. Girdlestone: Who supplied the yeast? Plaintiff: Messrs. Wilkin and Pugh, of St. Mary Axe, and Mr. Matthews. Several times before I found maggots in the yeast, and I used it. The flour was weak sometimes, and beans were ground up to strengthen it. A gentleman once found a bean in the flour. He took away the bean, but left the flour. My bread was always good when I was at Islington, and when I went to Brompton I had flour at 34*s.* per sack. His Honour: Then it come to this, that you had filthy materials and made up filthy bread? Plaintiff: Yes. I made up the best bread I could from the materials.—But thought nothing of the stomachs of your customers? Plaintiff laughed. Mr. Girdlestone: I confess all this takes me by surprise, I have witnesses who will be able to contradict all this. Plaintiff (in answer to his Honour): Good flour was 41*s.*, and we paid 34*s.* Mr. Girdlestone: Now were not complaints frequently made about your bread? Plaintiff: Whenever my bread was bad it arose out of bad flour, bad potatoes, and rotten yeast. Miss Thompson complained of my bread. On one occasion the flour was so weak that the bread was almost black, and it turned mouldy. Mr. Girdlestone: If your Honour will grant me a remand for an hour I will prove that all plaintiff's statements are false. We buy the very best articles in the market. His Honour (to plaintiff): What causes the German yeast to be bad? Plaintiff: Sometimes the weather and sometimes its being washed by sea-water. His Honour then agreed to allow the case to stand over until defendant's witnesses arrived. When defendant's witnesses arrived, Mr. Stevens said: I am managing director of this company. Plaintiff had good materials, and at first made good bread at Brompton, but afterwards he made very bad bread. He made no excuse. I saw the yeast one day and it was rather soft, but he said he could use it. He never had yeast with maggots. I believe he had made bad bread wilfully and to injure us. We have a great deal of difficulty in carrying on the business. There is a hostile feeling. Good bread was turned out at the other branches, and with the same flour. I was never shown any yeast with maggots. Cross-examined: I never said that I wished to show something to the shareholders. Mr. Girdlestone: Nor that he was to use the bad yeast? Mr. Stevens: No. Plaintiff made good bread at Islington, and he was removed to Brompton. Mr. Wilkins said: I am a yeast merchant, of St. Mary Axe. I partly supply defendants with German yeast. We have orders to supply the best yeast. Never sent in any yeast with maggots. The warm weather will affect yeast. Cross-examined: Bad yeast is returned. Warm weather will take the strength out of German yeast. Mr. Paine: I saw some yeast of which plaintiff complained. It was soft, and I left it to plaintiff to make bread of. The bread from that yeast was not particularly bad. The yeast was useable. Plaintiff thought the soft yeast could be used, and he did it. There was a consultation about sending some one for some fresh yeast, but the soft was used. His Honour: That shows that there was a doubt. Mr. Paine: I have seen German yeast in the company's premises with maggots in it, but not for use. Potatoes are used in our trade, and it is customary for millers to put bean flour into the wheat flour. A bean was found one day in the flour.—Plaintiff's brother deposed that he was in defendant's employ. The company is very particular. They provided the best yeast and the best potatoes. The company are not sparing. They try to get the best materials. Potatoes are necessary in bread to keep it moist. I was sent down to Brompton to examine some bread, which had turned bad in consequence of the potatoes being bad. His Honour: That is just what plaintiff says. Witness: I believe the flour was the same. Bread may be good in appearance, but bad in quality. Plaintiff is a good baker. Mr. Girdlestone said that he would admit plaintiff's capability, but he had neglected his work. The Superintendent of the company at Brompton deposed to the plaintiff's having made bad bread, the same being sour, bad coloured, and heavy. He lost 34 customers in one day; 190 quarterns of plaintiff's bread were sold at a loss in consequence of the badness. The last day plaintiff made bread the yeast, potatoes, and flour were good. Witness saw them. Groves, who came before plaintiff, made good bread. Cross-examined: I saw new potatoes when I came into the house. I have seen bad yeast, but it is always sent back. The yeast was not very good a fortnight before plaintiff left. I have sent back some bad yeast to Messrs. Wilkins and Pugh. Plaintiff: The bad yeast spoilt the bread. Mr. Paine recalled: The day when plaintiff used bad yeast the bread was not bad. It was not so good as it might have been. Plaintiff: Since I have left the company have had to sell some bad bread down Petticoat Lane at 1½*d.* per loaf less than the customary price. The men at work for the company saw the maggoty yeast, but of course will not come up for fear of losing their situations. A witness called by plaintiff said he saw the yeast running with maggots.—Cross-examined: He told me it was the same yeast as he had made the bread with the night before. Plaintiff's brother: The hot weather will turn the yeast, but we always send it back. Our duty is to use nothing bad. I told my brother that I believed this was a conspiracy. Plaintiff: Paine offered to give evidence for me. Mr. Girdlestone forcibly urged that plaintiff had grossly neglected his duty by using yeast with maggots in it. If the company could not discharge a servant for doing so, then it was crushed entirely and without hope. His Honour reviewed the evidence with great care, and said it was extremely unlikely that a man with a good character, and who was in good employment, would change in a single night and wilfully injure his employers. There was a doubt as to the materials provided. Mr. Girdlestone urged that good materials had been used. Mr. Stevens re-called: Even if the yeast was bad plaintiff had no right to use it. Our orders are to use good materials. The plaintiff has been twice discharged before. Five days before the plaintiff was discharged he had good materials but made bad bread. The Plaintiff: We had the worst of materials. Mr. Stevens: I repeatedly reasoned with the plaintiff, but with little avail. It was the wish of the company to use good articles. Cross-examined: The price of the flour is 33*s.*, 34*s.*, and 36*s.* The best millers only charge 36*s.* Our company bound the millers down not to adulterate. We are most particular. His Honour did not think the company had made out their defence, and found for the plaintiff. Verdict for the plaintiff, with costs.

Miscellaneous.

Discovery of Antique Dies.—The Journal de Saone-et-Loire publishes a letter from the Abbé Cucherat, giving a detailed account of a discovery recently made about half a league from Paray (Saone-et-Loire). A workman who was digging a field which only last year formed part of the neighbouring forest, and was then broken up for the first time, struck his spade against a large Roman tile about a foot below the surface, and under it were found seven metal dies, such as were used by the Romans for coining. The Abbé says that these dies are made of a mixed metal, hard and brittle, but that he has not yet been able to ascertain its precise composition. Some of them are in the form of truncated cones, 1.77 in. in height, 1.38 in. in diameter at the large end, and 0.79 in. at the other, on which the impression is engraved. The smaller dies are of nearly equal size at the two ends, and thickest in the middle. They belong to the reigns of Tiberius, Caligula, and Claudius, and bear respectively the following inscriptions:—Ti. Cæsar Div. Aug. F. Augustus (Tiberius Cæsar, divi Augusti filius, Augustus); C. Cæsar Aug. G. Fra. . . . (Caius Cæsar Augustus, Germanicus Fra. . . .); T. C. Cæsar Aug. Romæ Tr. Pot. III. Cos. III. (Tiberius Claudius Cæsar Augustus, Romæ tribunitia potestate functus tertio; consul tertio). There are two dies of Tiberius, but one of them is broken. The three princes all bear laurels over their diadems. The fifth die represents a goddess seated, with the inscription Juno J . . . placed vertically on the right side. "Two of the dies," says the Abbé, "are in the possession of an amateur who forestalled me, but I have impressions of them. They appear never to have had any inscription, but I believe the head to be that of Augustus. The Emperor is not crowned with laurels, but has the radiated crown with five points reserved for emperors after their apotheosis. The die for the reverse presents a ram, the emblem of the sacrifices offered to the deified Emperor. From the place in which they were found there seems little reason to doubt their authenticity. It was well known that the Romans coined money during their military expeditions, and there is every probability that the Roman armies, which overran all parts of Gaul before the time of Constantine, visited this region."

The Life of Cæsar.—The Journal de Genève states that "'La Vie de César, par Louis Napoleon,' is printing at this moment at the Imperial printing-office. A first impression, consisting of 100 copies, has been struck off, in which the necessary alterations are now making. Workmen have been selected for this purpose who have been employed in the office for many years, and they have been told that on the slightest indiscretion on their part they will lose their places. After the printing of each leaf in quarto every form is secured with three chains and three locks, the keys of which the director of the printing-office takes with him. As soon as the printing is completed the sheets are taken into the Emperor's cabinet; then the collaborateurs set to work correcting the press or altering such passages as the Emperor wishes to see re-done. These measures are designed to prevent any information reaching foreign papers. The work, it is said, will appear in a few months in two editions, one printed at the Imperial printing-office, the other at Plon."

Paris a Seaport.—The design of making Paris a seaport has been repeatedly entertained for more than two centuries past. It was first proposed in the time of Louis XIV., and Colbert had surveys made to ascertain whether the Seine could be made navigable for sea-going vessels. The engineers of that time, with Vauban at their head, decided that it was impossible to obtain a sufficient depth of water in the Seine, but that a direct communication with the sea might be established by means of a canal from Dieppe. The state of the public finances, however, did not then admit of undertaking so expensive an enterprise. This scheme was again revived by the Marquis de Crécy in 1779, and in the following year the Government authorised the project, but nothing was done for want of funds. When Napoleon became Emperor the project of making Paris a seaport was submitted to him, and he remarked that if the canalization of the Seine could be realised, "Paris, Rouen, and Havre would become one city, with the river for its principal street." Political events, however, prevented the execution of the design, and nothing more was heard of it till the reign of Charles X., when a company was formed with a capital of 200,000,000f. for making Paris a seaport by the canalization of the river. The course of events, however, again hindered the realization of the scheme. It is now proposed to make a canal from Dieppe, passing along the valley of the Béthune, by St. Aubin, Dampierre, and Neufchâtel, thence to the valley of the Thérain, passing south of Beauvais through the marshes of Bruneval to the Oise, and by Ile Adam, St. Denis, and St. Ouen, to the fortifications near Neuilly, where it is proposed to form a port for merchant vessels, from which a canal is to be made to the Ternes, in order to diminish land carriage as far as possible.

Astronomy in the Middle Ages.—Last week M. Leverrier presented the Academy of Sciences, in the name of the editor, Don Rico y Sinobas, with the first volume of the splendid folio edition of the astronomical books of King Alphonso X. of Castile, printed at Madrid by order of the Queen. The original MS. of this work, which had long been preserved in the library of the University of Alcala, was found to be imperfect, 60 large parchment leaves being wanting; but, through the efforts and researches of Don Rico y Sinobas, a member of the Academy of Sciences of Madrid, it has been completed. The work is written in Spanish, being almost the first book of western science written in a modern language, a great step towards the diffusion of knowledge in the 13th century. King Alphonso divided his work into 16 parts, but he begins it with a catalogue of the fixed stars, in order to help the astronomers of his time to the complete knowledge of all the constellations. This forms an introduction to the other parts of the work, where he treats of the apparatuses and instruments necessary for the observation of the fixed stars, and of the planets, which he calls estrellar movediras (moving stars). It differs in some points from Ptolemy's catalogue, such as the 30th of Centaurus, the 11th of Lupus, and seven stars belonging to Piscis Meridionalis, because the most learned astronomers, the King tells us, of his time had looked in vain for those stars in the places mentioned by Ptolemy, and had not found them. The catalogue is divided into four books. In the three first, the northern, zodiacal, and southern constellations are given; in the fourth, the astronomers of Toledo give the Arab names of 330 of the principal stars, with the Spanish opposite. There are also some eloquent and poetic explanations on the stars, of a certain importance in astronomy, and likewise some short hints about astrology.

The following short quotation will show how King Alphonso treated certain astronomical questions. In speaking of Ursa Minor, he says:—"Some astronomers have taken it for a wain with its pole; others say it has the form of an animal, which might as well be a lion, a wolf, or a dog, as a male or female bear. Here, then, are heavenly animals inhabiting that part of the sky where this constellation is to be found, and recognised by ancient astronomers, because they saw four stars forming a square, and three in a right line. They must have been endowed with a better eyesight than ours, and the sky must have been very clear. Since they say it is a she-bear, let it be one; they were very lucky in being able to distinguish it."—Galignani.

The Suez Canal.—The report of an English engineer on the whole of the works now in progress in Egypt by which it is proposed to connect the Red Sea with the Mediterranean, by a Ship Canal through the Isthmus of Suez, will be read with interest by both parties in the controversy the undertaking has excited. When the late Pasha of Egypt visited the International Exhibition last summer, he requested Mr. Hawkshaw to visit Egypt, to examine professionally the line of the proposed Canal, and report his opinion of that work to the Egyptian Government. Mr. Hawkshaw accepted the commission, and, accompanied by four Egyptian engineers, made his survey in the course of last winter. He was in direct communication with M. Lesseps, the president of the Canal Company, and states that he and all the officers engaged on the works readily answered every question put to them, and without hesitation gave him access to every document he required. He adds that the labour of investigating so large a subject had been much lightened by the vast amount of research that had been previously bestowed upon it. The undertaking of the company is twofold. The first and principal scheme is, of course, the Ship Canal itself, to be cut directly across the Desert, northward from Suez to Port Said, on the Mediterranean. Port Said is nearly at the eastern point of the great Delta of the Nile, that includes the whole of the fertile region of Egypt, the better known port of Alexandria being at the extreme western extremity. The sea coast of the Mediterranean is the base of the great triangle, of which Cairo may be taken as the apex. Port Said itself is situated on the long narrow spit of land that shuts in Lake Menzaleh from the Mediterranean. Through the shallow water of this lake the canal has been formed by dredging. This process has been so far completed that, for nearly one-third of the whole line proposed, a channel has been deepened through water "covering the earth." It is only at the southern point of Lake Ballah that the work of cutting through the dry and sandy soil of the Desert commenced. From this southern point of Lake Ballah an excavation, 10 miles in length, has, Mr. Hawkshaw states, opened a channel navigable "for flat-bottomed boats of small draught of water," from the Mediterranean into Lake Timsah. On summing up, therefore, what has actually been accomplished, we find that such boats, adapted for very shallow water, can penetrate the Isthmus from north to south for a distance of 50 miles from the sea, and of this distance 30 miles have been obtained by the process of dredging. The second scheme undertaken by the company is independent of the first, and though called a "fresh water canal," is, more strictly speaking, only an aqueduct. It is not intended to be navigable as the term canal generally implies in England. It is better described as a large trench or cutting, for the purpose of conveying the water of the Nile from Cairo northward, curving to the east, through a tract of land "purchased by the company," to Lake Timsah, before-mentioned, and then southward to Suez. At present all the fresh water to be obtained at Suez is brought from Cairo by the railway. Large trains, conveying iron tanks filled from the river, are constantly passing along the line that conveys the passengers by the overland route, from sea to sea. The whole line of the proposed Ship Canal from Suez to Port Said, runs either through the two salt water lakes on the Isthmus, the wide expanse of Lake Menzaleh on the sea coast, or the soil of the Desert, "a barren land, where no water is." Labour is impossible without a certain and abundant supply of this element, for the want of which travellers in similar arid regions have often perished. This aqueduct is, therefore, a work of necessity, if the larger undertaking is to be carried on. It will also be employed to irrigate such portions of the soil through which it passes as may be worth cultivating; and of this secondary purpose a beginning seems to have been made. The portion of the Ship Canal still to be excavated is the whole of the line from Lake Timsah, southward, through another large sheet of salt water called the "Bitter Lakes," and the Desert that lies between them and the northern point of the Red Sea. This last section of the line will run parallel with the ancient canal, and a little to the westward of it. The course of the old work can be traced, but no part of it has been taken into the modern scheme. The works of the new harbour will carry the canal through the water of the Red Sea, past Suez, and terminate near a point on the eastern or Arabian shore marked as the "Fountain of Moses." It is scarcely necessary to say that the portion of the line described as completed and "navigable" is very far from the accomplishment of the object in view. What has to be done exceeds what has been finished in about the proportion a large heavily-freighted merchant ship bears to a "small flat-bottomed boat of small draught of water." In fact, the Suez Canal at present is a narrow and shallow cutting, marking out what is to be the course of an artificial channel that must be navigable for large ships of heavy burden, or be useless. It has been ascertained that the seas on both sides of the Isthmus have nearly the same level, and as the soil along the whole line across it is strewed with shells common to the Red Sea and the Mediterranean, it is evident that "at no distant period, geographically speaking," those seas spread over the desert track through which it is proposed to unite their waters again. But by far the greatest portion of the work has yet to be done. Without reference to the plans and sections by which the report is illustrated, it is difficult to convey a very clear idea of the proportion of what has to be excavated to what has been marked out by the cutting on land and the dredging through shallow water; but if the reader will suppose that the furrow drawn by a subsoil plough marks the course of what is to be enlarged into a ditch, he will have a rough notion of the approximation of what exists, compared to what is proposed. Nothing has yet been done between Suez and the northern end of Lake Timsah; and from that point northwards to the Mediterranean nearly five times the amount of work completed has yet to be executed. The earthwork done is estimated at 7,848,000 cubic yards; the amount still to be performed is 34,000,000 yards. The cost of the works so far has been, by the French estimate, 1,220,000*l.* Mr. Hawkshaw states that he sees no unusual difficulty in the execution of the plan, nor does he conceive that any contingencies can arise which engineering skill could not surmount; and, if completed, he thinks the canal could be maintained without any extraordinary yearly expenditure. But, considering the possibility of meeting with rock at the Red Sea entrance, and that the deep-sea dredging at the Mediterranean end may cost more than the first estimate—considering also "the money already expended compared with the work done"—he thinks it would be prudent for the promoters of the scheme to calculate on having to expend 10,000,000*l.* sterling and five years of labour before a single cargo can be towed across what is now a neck of dry land. This is the least encouraging part of the report to those customary victims of modern enterprise, the "original shareholders." Times.

Obituary.

Field Marshal Lord Clyde died yesterday at Chatham. His remains will be brought to his house in Berkeley Square.

The Ven. Archdeacon Lane Freer, D.D., Archdeacon and Prebendary of Hereford, and Rector of Bishopstone, near that city, died on Tuesday at his rectory house, after a long illness. He was one of the most popular clergymen in Herefordshire, and, as a leading Freemason, held a high position in the city and neighbourhood. He was the only surviving son of the Rev. Thomas Lane Freer, Rector of Handsworth, near Birmingham, by the daughter of the Very Rev. Dr. Wetherell, Dean of Hereford and Master of University College, Oxford, so that he was nephew of the late Sir Chas. Wetherell and of Mr. Spooner, M.P. He was born about 1806, and was sent as town boy to Westminster School, to which he was always warmly attached, officiating as a Steward of the old Westminster's dinner in 1845, and signing in 1847 the memorial to Dean Buckland in favour of the continuance of the Westminster Play, his constant attendance at which was the signal for a hearty welcome, as his death will be certainly alluded to in the prologue this winter. He graduated at Christ Church, Oxford, in 1828, and became D.D. in 1858. In 1829 he was ordained to his father's curacy of Handsworth, which he held till his father's death in 1835, when he retired, and in 1838 was presented by Sir Robert Price, Bart., to the rectory of Bishopstone with Yazor, near Hereford. In 1847 Bishop Musgrave gave him the prebendal stall of Gorwall and Overbury, in Hereford Cathedral, and in 1852 Bishop Hampden appointed him Archdeacon of Hereford, on, the resignation of his relative, Archdeacon Wetherell. In 1861 he became prelector of the cathedral, and there is little doubt that the next vacant canonry would have been conferred on him had he lived. Dr. Freer was a man of conciliatory manners and moderate views in the Church, and was an officer of rank in the masonic body. He published a volume of hymns, some charges and sermons. He married, in 1848, the daughter of the Rev. Dr. Clutton, canon of Hereford.

General Sir Hugh Halkett, C.B., G.C.H., whose death at the age of 80 was recently announced, was the younger brother of Sir Colin Halkett, and served throughout the greater part of the Peninsular campaign with Alten's Germans, and afterwards at Waterloo. The father of the deceased had served with distinction in that celebrated Scotch brigade which fought for two centuries under the banner of the Dutch Republic, and his own commission in the brigade bore the date of 1794, so that he entered the service when only ten years of age. His brother Colin had already attained high rank in the brigade which had been turned over to the English service, when Holland was overrun by the French revolutionary armies. After being quartered for some time in Ireland, he went to India with his regiment, but returned in 1803, and his first active service was in 1805 in an unsuccessful expedition to Hanover, under the King of Sweden. In 1807 he took part in the expedition to the Baltic, and in 1809 was with Sir John Moore, in his retreat and at the battle of Corunna. He took part in the Walcheren expedition, which cost him an illness that was nearly fatal, but recovering he went to the Peninsula, where he fought at Albuera and Salamanca, sharing the day after the latter battle, in the famous charge in which the French squares were broken by the German cavalry. With the campaign of 1812 his Peninsular experiences terminated, but in 1813 he commanded the first Hanoverian Brigade which took part in some auxiliary operations on the Elbe and the Weser, in the campaign of the Allies against the French, and distinguished itself at the battle of Gohrde. He was Commandant of the Third Hanoverian Brigade at Waterloo, and did good service, though the incident for which he will be best remembered was his making prisoner of Cambronne, the famous colonel of the French Guard. After this battle he was made a C.B., and here terminated his English service. The German Legion was disbanded, and Sir Hugh being strongly urged to do so by the Horse Guards, entered the Hanoverian service, where he acquired the highest distinction as the general in command of the Hanoverian army, with the rank of a Baron. He continued until within the last few years in command of that army, but failing eyesight made it at last necessary for him to retire from active service, and, during the closing years of his life, he has lived peacefully with his family at Hanover, in the full possession of his faculties to the very last, and enjoying the affection and esteem of every one, from the King downwards.

Sir Frederick Slade, Bart., Q.C., died suddenly on Saturday night at Maunsell Grange, his seat in Somersetshire. He had conducted a case in the Nisi Prius Court at Wells on the previous day, and was apparently in robust health. Having concluded his day's work, he returned to Maunsell; in the evening he complained of fatigue, and on Saturday morning he called in a medical friend, but there was not much the matter. He went to bed rather early on Saturday night, and about 11 o'clock Lady Slade, who was by his side, discovered that he had ceased to exist. At the inquest on Wednesday the medical evidence proved that death had been caused by apoplexy, arising from fatty degeneration of the heart. The Jury therefore returned a verdict of Death from Natural causes. The late Baronet was in his 60th year, and leaves a numerous family. He was the eldest surviving son of the late General Sir John Slade, Bart., G.C.H., by his first wife. He was born in 1803, and educated at Winchester and Brasenose College, Oxford, where he took the degree of B.A. He was called to the bar at the Middle Temple in 1830. He was a bencher of the Middle Temple, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Somersetshire, and lieutenant-colonel of the West Somersetshire Yeomanry. He married in 1829 a sister of Lord Vaux of Harrowden, and is succeeded in the title by his eldest son, Captain Alfred Frederick Adolphus Slade, who served in the 57th Regiment through the Crimean campaign, and was twice severely wounded.

Mr. Beriah Botfield, M.P. for Ludlow, died on Friday last, at his residence in Grosvenor Square. For the last four months he had been in a precarious state of health, and of late little or no hopes were entertained of his recovery. He was the eldest son of the late Mr. Ralph Botfield, of Norton Hall, Northamptonshire, and was born in 1807. He was educated at Harrow and Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated B.A. in 1828, and M.A. in 1847. Although of a literary and studious turn of mind, he entered into political life, and in 1847 was returned to the House of Commons as member for Ludlow, in the Conservative interest. At the ensuing general election in 1841 he was again returned, but in 1847, at the general election which succeeded the exhaustion of Sir Robert Peel's Parliament, he was defeated, and remained out of the House of Commons until a vacancy presented itself by the retirement of the Hon. Colonel Percy Herbert. Since that period he has continued to represent the borough without interruption. Mr. Botfield had from his scholastic and antiquarian attainments acquired a reputation not only in England but abroad. He was a fellow of the Royal Society, the Society of Antiquaries, and a prominent member and secretary of the Roxburghe Club, besides other learned institutions; and, for his merits as a scholar, was made a Chevalier of the Saxon Order of Albert the Brave, and a Knight of the Belgian Order of Leopold. At Harrow he was highly honoured for his munificent contributions to the library, and for the medal he established in 1853. He was the author of a long series of works, among others, his "Notes of the Libraries of the Cathedrals of England," his "Notices of Libraries," and a very elaborate and expensive work, "The History of the Botfield Family." He married in 1858 the second daughter of Sir Baldwin Leighton, Bart., of Luton Park, Salop. He was a deputy-lieutenant of Northamptonshire and Shropshire, and served the office of high sheriff of the former county in 1831.

Mr. James William Gilbart, F.R.S., Manager of the London and Westminster Bank, the chief promoter of the joint-stock system of banking, died on the 8th inst. in Brompton Crescent, in his 69th year. Mr. Gilbart came of a Cornish family, but was born in London in 1794. Failing in obtaining a Government appointment, he became clerk in 1813 in a London bank, which suffered and collapsed during the panic of 1825. While a clerk he took an active part in the Athenian Debating Society with the late Right Hon. M. T. Baines, Mr. Edward Baines, M.P., Mr. Edwin Chadwick, and Baron Channell. He was also connected with the Union Society, of which Mr. J. S. Mill and Lord Macaulay were members, and did much to found the City of London Literary and Scientific Institute. He also found time to write articles for various periodicals—"The Preacher and the Platform" (1822-3), and a remarkable answer to Cobbett's book on the Reformation, pointing out the various social benefits of the Reformation. From 1825 to 1827 he was a cashier in a Birmingham office, and in 1826 he returned to London and published his "Practical Treatise on Banking," with reference to the evidence delivered by London and county bankers before the Parliamentary Committee appointed to consider the propriety of the suppression of notes under 5*l.* He then removed to Kilkenny as manager of the Kilkenny branch of the Provincial Bank of Ireland, and contributed various papers on banking to the local papers. From 1829 to 1833 he held a similar office of higher importance at Waterford, where he established a literary and scientific institution, and delivered lectures on all sorts of subjects. In 1833 he was appointed manager of the London and Westminster Bank, then in course of formation, and discharged the duties of that office till 1859. In 1846 he was presented with a handsome service of plate by the directors and shareholders of joint stock banks, in recognition of the services he had rendered to the principles of banking, and on his retirement from the office of manager he received a pension of 1500*l.* a year, and was elected a director of the company. Mr. Gilbart was the author of many works, among which may be mentioned, "The History and Principles of Banking," "A History of Banking in Ireland," "The Logic of Banking," "Banking and the Currency," "History of Banking in America," "Logic for the Million." He was a Fellow of the Royal Society, and in the International Statistical Congress, held in July, 1860, he was appointed one of the committee of the section of commercial statistics, and read a paper on "The Statistics of English Banks," which was printed in the "Transactions of the Congress."

Wills.—The will of Lord Monson, of Burton Hall, Lincoln, Chart Lodge, Kent, and Gatton Park, Surrey, has been sworn under 35,000*l.* personalty. Mr. George Augustus Bruxner, formerly of Binfield Manor House, Berkshire, but late of Regency Square, Brighton, 200,000*l.*

BIRTHS.—5th inst, at South Park, Penshurst, Viscountess Hardinge, of a son—6th inst, Lady Gardiner, of Roche Court, of a daughter—5th inst, at Seggieden, Perthshire, Mrs. Drummond Hay, of a son and heir—5th inst, at Mulbarton Hall, Norfolk, the Lady of Donald Mackinnon, Esq., of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.—On the 8th inst, in St. George's, Hanover square, Viscount Dangan, eldest son of the Earl and Countess Cowley, to Gwendoline, second daughter of Colonel Thomas Peers Williams, M.P. for Marlow—6th inst, at St. George's, Hanover Square, Captain the Hon Charles Edward Hobart, fourth son of the Earl of Buckinghamshire, to Lucy Pauline, only daughter of the late John Wright jun., Esq., of Lenton Hall, Notts—8th inst, at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, Lieut.-Colonel George Grant Gordon, Scots Fusilier Guards, eldest son of the late Lord Francis Gordon, to Constance Augusta Lennox, daughter of Laurence Peel, Esq., and of the late Lady Jane Peel—11th inst, at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, Hugo Meynell, eldest son of Hugo Charles Meynell Ingram, Esq., of Hore Cross, to Miss Wood, eldest daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Charles Wood, Bart., M.P., and Lady Mary Wood—12th inst. in Westminster Abbey, Eustace John Wilson Patten, Esq., of the 1st Life Guards, son of Colonel Wilson Patten, M.P., to Emily Constantia, daughter of the Hon. and Rev. Lord John Thynne, sub-dean of Westminster—5th inst, at St. James's, Piccadilly, the Rev. William Henry Fremantle, second son of the Right Hon. Sir Thomas F. Fremantle, Bart., Fellow of All Souls, vicar of Lewknor, and Chaplain to the Lord Bishop of London, to Isabella Maria, second daughter of the late Sir Culling Eardley, Bart., of Bedwell Park, Herts—5th inst, at Crickett Malherbie, in the county of Somerset, Francis Philip Egerton, Esq., Commander R.N., son of the late General Sir Charles Egerton, G.C.M.G., to Georgiana Augusta, eldest daughter of the Rev. G. Pitt, vicar of Audlem, Cheshire.

DEATHS.—On the 9th inst, at Cheltenham, Frances Anna, fourth daughter of the late Thomas March Phillipps, Esq., of Garendon Park, Leicestershire, aged 76—8th inst, at Cromer, Norfolk, Arthur John Vernon, only child of Francis G. M. Boileau, Esq., of Tacolnestone Hall, Norfolk, aged 2—4th inst, at 13, Stanhope Street, Gloucester Gate, Catherine Jane Mayhew, widow of Colonel E. Warner, and eldest daughter of the late Major-General Sir C. Shipley—6th inst, at Lewisham, Kent, Margaret, widow of Major Hillary Harcourt Torriano, of the Hon. East India Company's Corps of Engineers on the Madras Establishment, aged 92—July 30, at Southampton, Lieut.-Colonel Thomas Vincent, aged 68—8th inst, at Woolwich Common Margaret Young Spearman, youngest daughter of the late Major A. Y. Spearman, of the Royal Artillery—10th inst, at Phœbe Cottage, Crabtree, Plymouth, Henry Richard Vansittart, eldest son of Captain H. Hillyar, R.N., C.B., aged 7 years and 3 months—11th inst, at Balham Hill House, Surrey, Joshua Field, Esq., C.E. and F.R.S., aged 76—8th inst, at Lowestoft, the Rev. F. Cunningham, M.A., Vicar of that parish, Hon. Canon of Norwich and Rural Dean, aged 78—6th inst at Buckworth, Huntingdon, the Rev. John Duncombe Shafto, Rector of that parish, and Hon. Canon of Durham, aged 55.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Aug. 15.

Fruit and vegetables are still plentiful, especially Peaches and Nectarines, which are abundant from open walls. Greengage Plums of good quality are still included in foreign imports, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Strawberries are nearly over, as are also Raspberries. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good supply, and Oranges are also plentiful. Kent Filberts are coming in plentifully at from 45s. to 55s. per 100 lbs. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 5s | Currants, p. ½ sieve, 3s to 3s 6d |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Gooseberries, do., 2s 6d to 3s |
| Strawberries, p. lb., 6d to 1s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 1s 6d to 2s 6d | Oranges, per box, 40s to 45s |
| Figs, per doz., 5s to 6s | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Peaches, per doz., 6s to 10s | Nuts, small, per bush, 14s to 18s |
| Nectarines, do., 3s to 6s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Melons, each, 2s to 4s | Walnuts, do., 7s 6d |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | French Beans, p. sieve, 2s to 6s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 70s to 90s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| „ Shaws, do., 50s to 70s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 6d to 8d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

Smithfield, Thursday, Aug. 13.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 70s to | 80s | Clover, old .. .. | 90s to | 120s |
| Superior do. .. | 80 | 90 | New Clover .. | 80 | 105 |
| Inferior do. .. | 40 | 70 | Do. second cut .. | 80 | 110 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 60 | 84 | Straw .. .. .. | 26 | 34 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | — | — | | | |

Harvey & Easton.

Cumberland Market, Thursday, Aug. 13.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay .. | 86s to | 95s | Inferior Clover .. | 80s to | 98s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 65 | 76 | New do. .. .. | 90 | 110 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 75 | 86 | Straw .. .. | 34 | 38 |
| Superior Clover .. | 108 | 115 | | | |

Joshua Baker.

Whitechapel, Thursday, Aug 13.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 90s | Prime Clover .. | 120s to | 126s |
| Inferior do... .. | 75 | 80 | Inferior do... .. | 110 | 115 |
| Prime New Hay .. | 80 | 84 | New do. .. .. | 100 | 105 |
| Inferior .. .. .. | 70 | 75 | Inferior do. .. | 90 | 100 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 33 | Prime 2d cut .. | 100 | 108 |

BRITISH WOOLS.—London, Aug. 14.

Our market remains in a satisfactory state, stocks being only moderate for the season, and prices fully as high for fleeces, and higher for all descriptions of skin combing and clothing suitable either for the worsted or the flannel trade.

| | s. d. s. d. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ to 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto .. | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ — 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 — 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 — 1 8 |
| | | Blanket ditto .. .. | — .. |

HOPS.—Borough Market, Friday, Aug. 14.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report the arrival of the first pocket of new English Hops in the Borough this morning, grown by Mr. C. Manwaring, of Brenchley, Kent, and sold by W. Austen & Co. to R. & T. Collis, on account of Messrs. Boddington & Co., brewers, Manchester. The market is not likely to be supplied until the 16th or 18th September. Prices firm.

COAL MARKET.—Aug. 12.

Bates's West Hartley, 15s. 6d.; Byass's Bebside West Hartley, 17s. 3d.; Davison's West Hartley, 17s. 3d.; Hastings Hartley, 17s. 3d.; Holywell Main, 17s.; Lambert's West Hartley, 17s.; North Pelton Gas, 13s. 3d.; Tanfield Moor, 12s. 6d.; Tanfield Moor Butes, 12s. 6d.; Walker Primrose, 12s. 9d.; West Wylam, 16s.; Walls End Harton, 15s. 9d.; Eden Main, 16s; Walls End Braddylls Hetton, 16s. 9d.; Walls End Haswell, 18s.; Walls End South Hetton, 18s.; Walls End Stewarts, 18s.; Walls End Tunstall, 15s. 9d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 20s.—106 ships at market.

NEWGATE.—Monday, Aug. 10.

| Per 8 lbs. by the carcase. | | |
|---|---|---|
| Inferior Beef .. 2s 6d to 2s 10d | Inferior Mutton 2s 6d to 3s 0d |
| Middling .. 3 0 — 3 2 | Middling do. .. 3 2 — 3 6 |
| Prime large .. 3 4 — 3 6 | Prime do. .. 3 10 — 4 2 |
| Do. small .. 3 8 — 3 10 | Lamb .. .. 4 0 — 4 8 |
| Large Pork .. 3 0 — 3 6 | Veal .. .. 4 0 — 4 4 |
| | Small Pork .. 3 10 — 4 2 |

BUTTER.

Best Fresh Butter .. .. 14s. per dozen lbs.
Second do. do. .. .. 12s. „
Pork, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

Monday, Aug. 10.

We have not quite so many Beasts as on Monday last; the demand, however, is so limited that it is difficult to realise that day's quotations. The number of Sheep and Lambs is much smaller, but still quite equal to the demand. Trade is very heavy for Sheep at about late rates, but more cheerful for Lambs, although it is difficult to advance prices. Calves are selling about the same as on Thursday. From Germany and Holland there are 1950 Beasts, 7260 Sheep, 254 Calves, and 60 Pigs; from France, 19 Calves; from Scotland, 30 Beasts; from Ireland, 280; and 2770 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 6 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools .. | — .. |
| Best Short-horns | 4 2 — 4 6 | Do. Shorn .. | 4 4 — 4 6 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 2 8 — 3 4 | Ewes & 2d quality | .. — .. |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | .. — .. | Do. Shorn .. | 3 8 — 4 2 |
| Do. Shorn .. | 4 10 — 5 0 | Lambs .. .. | 5 0 — 6 0 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 0 |

Beasts, 5380; Sheep & Lambs, 26,780; Calves, 308; Pigs, 540.

Thursday, Aug. 13.

The number of Beasts is smaller than for many weeks past, consequently they met with a ready sale at an advance on Monday's quotation. There is also a considerable falling off in the supply of Sheep and Lambs. A clearance is effected at higher rates. We are still largely supplied with Calves. There is rather more demand, but we cannot quote higher. Our foreign supply consists of 295 Beasts, 2540 Sheep, and 512 Calves. Milch Cows, 70.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 4 6 — 4 8 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 3 8 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 0 — 4 4 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 0 — 5 2 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. | Lambs .. .. | 5 6 — 6 4 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 0 |

Beasts, 880; Sheep & Lambs, 8230; Calves, 653; Pigs, 180.

MARK LANE.—Monday, Aug. 10.

The little old English Wheat at this morning's market was taken at about the prices of this day week. Of new there were about 3000 qrs., mostly fine quality, and in good condition, but some portion soft, from being hurried to market before maturity; fine quality of white was sold at 48s. to 52s. per qr., and red at 44s. to 48s. per qr. For foreign the demand was very limited, and to effect sales it was necessary to submit to a decline of 1s. per qr. Barley was rather easier, and Beans and Peas were unaltered in value. The Oat trade is dull, and prices are against the seller. Flour was but little inquired for.

| Per Imperial Quarter. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 46—50 | Red ..... | 40—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 48—52 | Red .... | 42—48 |
| — — Talavera ............ | 48—52 | | |
| — Norfolk ............ | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign ............ | 38—60 | | |
| Barley, grind. & dist., —s to —s., Chev. | — | Malting .. | — |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| Oats, Essex and Suffolk ............ | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ............ Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 19—23 | Feed .... | 18—20 |
| Rye ............ | 30—33 | Foreign .. | — |
| Rye-meal, Foreign ............ | — | | |
| Beans, Mazagan .... 33s to 35s... Tick | 34—36 | Harrow .. | 34—36 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s.. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ............ Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 30—32 |
| Peas, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—40 |
| — Maple .... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 32—38 |
| Maize ............ White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| Flour, best marks delivered .. per sack | 42—47 | | |
| — 2d do ............ ditto | 30—38 | Country .. | 30—38 |
| — Foreign ............ per barrel | 20—26 | Per sack | 34—45 |

Friday, Aug. 14.

The weather during the past week has again been exceedingly hot and dry, favouring harvest work, and a considerable portion of this year's crop is now housed in good order south of the Humber, while cutting has commenced in Scotland under favourable auspices. Owing to large supplies, combined with this very promising and early harvest, the Wheat trade has remained inactive, and prices have declined 1s. per qr. on old English and foreign qualities, while new has receded more; 48s to 52s. having been accepted for heavy white, and 48s. for best red, down to 42s. for ordinary sorts. The root crops and Grass having suffered from drought, more attention has been directed to feeding stuff, and this has no doubt prevented a further reaction in the value of Barley, Beans, Peas, and Oats. Flour remained a slow sale. The supply of foreign grain and Flour into the United Kingdom was the largest we remember for one week, exceeding 600,000 qrs. of all sorts. Since Friday last 29 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has been quiet, last week's prices are scarcely obtainable for Wheat, but spring corn remained unaltered in value, and Maize is 6d. per qr. dearer. In Paris (Aug. 14), the Flour trade had been very quiet throughout the week, and prices are tending downwards. The six marks are quoted equal to 36s. per 280lbs. The present stock is estimated at 5870 cwts. Wheat is extremely slow, and 3s. per 480 lbs. cheaper. The arrivals of English and foreign Grain and Flour since Monday have been moderate. There was a thin attendance at this day's market, and but little business was transacted in any article. Prices of all grain remain nominally the same as on Monday.

Arrivals this Week.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 1010 qrs. | 10 qrs. | 120 qrs. | 280 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 1500 | — „ |
| Foreign .. | 5890 „ | 960 | 26,570 „ | 180 „ / 12,220 brls |

ARRIVALS LAST WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Malt. | Oats. | Beans. | Peas. | Linseed. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Qrs. | Qrs. | Qrs. | Qrs. | Qrs. | Qrs. | Qrs. |
| English and Railway | 5560 | 580 | 17,613 | 549 | 444 | 276 | — |
| Irish .. | — | — | 15 | 640 | — | — | — |
| Scotch . | — | 105 | — | 82 | — | 80 | — |
| Foreign | 42,673 | 8162 | — | 30,321 | 1515 | 4559 | 3443 |

Liverpool, Aug. 11.—We had a very fair attendance of buyers at to-day's market; they showed little disposition however to operate, and only a retail business resulted in Wheat at a reduction of from 1d. to 2d. per cental on Friday's rates. Flour met a fair inquiry at a decline of 6d per barrel; no change in sacks. Indian Corn would find numerous buyers both on the spot and to arrive, if sellers showed a little more disposition to do business; the quantity offering, however, is most limited, and we raise quotations 3d. per qr. Oats and Oatmeal slow of sale. Beans, Peas, and Barley steady at late rates. The market closes quiet but firm.

Friday, Aug. 14.—Fair attendance. Wheat a low dragging sale at about 1d. per cental decline. Flour very little doing, and rather easier. Indian Corn a little weaker; mixed, 26s. 3d. Transactions moderate. Egyptian Beans steady. Oats and Oatmeal rather lower. Very little doing.

| Averages | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| July 4 | 46s 11d | 30s 9d | 23s 11d | 32s 10d | 39s 6d | 38s 0d |
| — 11 | 46 10 | 30 10 | 23 6 | 34 5 | 40 2 | 39 0 |
| — 18 | 46 7 | 28 10 | 22 6 | 32 9 | 40 0 | 37 1 |
| — 25 | 45 11 | 29 10 | 22 9 | 32 8 | 39 3 | 35 11 |
| Aug. 1 | 45 11 | 31 0 | 23 0 | 37 11 | 39 11 | 36 3 |
| — 8 | 46 3 | 31 6 | 23 0 | 31 6 | 33 8 | 34 9 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 5 | 30 6 | 23 1 | 33 8 | 39 7 | 36 10 |

Fluctuations in the Last Six Weeks' Averages.

To Engine Drivers.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, TWO steady MEN to Drive and Attend to TRACTION ENGINES used for Steam Cultivation. Wages 1l. per week.—Apply by letter or personally to Mr. Joseph Nicholls, Drainage Engineer and Contractor, Queen-Camel, Ilchester, Somersetshire.

WANTED, for India, a practical AGRICULTURIST, to superintend a Plantation of Oil Seeds on the Malabar coast. Must be young, unmarried, and Scotch preferred. References must be unexceptionable. One having had experience in growing Rape, or Sunflower seed, will be preferred.—Apply by letter, with full particulars, to Mr. G., 13, Buccleuch Terrace, Upper Clapton, N.E.

WANTED, as HEAD-GARDENER, a married Man, accustomed to the northern climate, to take the entire charge of a gentleman's Garden and Grounds in the county of Cumberland. It is essential that he be experienced in the management of Stoves, Vineries, and other Forcing Houses, and Peach Orchard Houses; and especially that he have a competent knowledge of the Propagation and Culture of high class Stove and Conservatory Plants and Flowers. Good wages, and a superior Gardeners' House on the spot.—Apply by letter, with references, to O., at the Post Office, Keswick, Cumberland.

WANTED, TWO respectable MEN for JOBBING, age from 30 to 40. Constant place. They must be experienced men and good Mowers. Also a respectable single young MAN, aged about 30, who thoroughly understands the Cultivation of Plants under Glass; also to attend to the fires.—Apply to C. Grimbly, the Albion Nursery, Stoke Newington, London, N.

WANTED, as SHOPMAN, a Young Man who has a good general knowledge of Plants and Seeds, and is a good Salesman.—Address, stating salary and experience, to A. B., Barr & Sugden, 12, King Street, Covent Garden, W.C.

WANTED, as SECOND SHOPMAN, an active young Man in a Wholesale Seed Warehouse.—Apply by letter, in own handwriting, A. B., Nutting & Sons, 60, Barbican, E.C.

WANTED, at Michaelmas, a BAILIFF and WIFE, without incumbrance; the latter to Manage Dairy and Poultry. He must understand thoroughly the duties of a Bailiff on a gentleman's estate. The farm is between 200 and 300 acres.—Apply to G. Westbury, Esq., 44, Lincoln's Inn Fields, or at Andover.

WANTED, a WORKING BAILIFF and his WIFE.—The Man to Manage a small Farm, Kitchen Garden, and make himself generally useful; Wife to Milk, attend Poultry, and wait upon a small family. Must have a good character, and without incumbrance.—Apply to Mr. T. Smith, 83, Oxford Street, London, W.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, as DAIRYMAID, in a gentleman's family, a strong active person, who thoroughly understands the Dairy and Care of Poultry. An excellent character for honesty, sobriety, and general good conduct will be required. Good wages given to a competent person.—Apply personally, or by letter to Mrs. Littledale, Scarlets, Twyford, Berks.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. Henderson & Son, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

LANDSCAPE GARDENER.—The Advertiser having had many years experience in Designing and Laying Out New Grounds, and effecting Alterations and Improvements, is open to an engagement with any lady or gentleman requiring the services of a first-class Gardener. Satisfactory references and testimonials.—Gardener, Mr. John Kernan, Seed Merchant, 4, Russell Street, Covent Garden, W.C.

GARDENER (Head).—A young Man, with good references. No single-handed place accepted.—Please state terms to Charles Canning, Gardener, Ascog, Rothesay, by Glasgow.

GARDENER (Head), where two or more are kept.—Married; has had considerable practice. Good character from past and present employer.—F. D., Mark Hall, Harlow, Essex.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 33, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands Forcing of Vines, Melons, Cucumbers, Greenhouse Plants, and Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Good reference.—H. B., Little Plumstead Hall, Norfolk.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands his profession in all its branches. Can be well recommended. Three years' character from the nobleman he last lived with.—F. M. I. C., Messrs. Cutbush & Son, Highgate, London, N.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, single; has a practical knowledge of his profession, the Growing and Forcing of Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables. Can take charge of Land if required. Can be highly recommended.—J. F., Mr. Rivers' Nursery, Sawbridgeworth, Herts.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, sober and active; thoroughly understands the Early Forcing of Grapes, Cucumbers, Melons, &c., and is a good Flower and Kitchen Gardener. Four years' unexceptionable character from the gentleman he has just left.—T. W., 14, Raglan Street, Forest Hill, S.E.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30; thoroughly experienced in all branches of his profession, more especially in all kinds of Forcing, and in the Laying-out and Planting of Flower Gardens on the Bedding-out system. Satisfactory references.—A., Messrs. J. & J. Fraser, Lea Bridge Road, Leyton, Essex, N.E.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30, married, one child aged 3 years; can be highly recommended by his late employer as a successful Cultivator and Forcer of all kinds of Fruit, Flowers, and Vegetables, and as being a strictly sober and trustworthy servant; good Manager of Land and Stock.—S. E., Messrs. Protheroe & Morris, American Nursery, Leytonstone, Essex, N.E.

GARDENER (Head), age 28, married, without incumbrance.—Wm. Wood & Son are desirous of recommending a first-rate Gardener; one thoroughly acquainted with the Management of Forcing Vines, Pines, Melons, &c.; Plant-houses, Kitchen and Flower Garden, &c. Messrs. W. & S. feel perfectly satisfied he would give any lady or gentleman requiring a good Gardener thorough satisfaction.—Wm. Wood & Son, Nurseries, Maresfield, Uckfield, Sussex.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; a thorough practical knowledge of his profession in all its branches, viz., Early and Late Forcing, Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Nectarines, &c., Flower, Kitchen, and Fruit Gardens. Character will bear the strictest inquiries.—M. J., —Woods, Esq., Hale End, Woodford, Essex, N.E.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30, married, no incumbrance; successful Cultivator of Pines, Vines, Peaches, &c., accustomed to the Orchard House, the growing of fine Foliaged and other Stove specimen Plants for exhibition, Orchids, Ferns, &c., and is a first-class Kitchen and Flower Gardener. Good reference.—W., Wm. Bull's Establishment for New and Rare Plants, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (Head), will shortly be disengaged.—Age 32, married; is extensively known, and recommended as one of the best scientific practical men of the present day. Has lived in some of the largest and best Gardens in England; and for years has been successful as a Grower and Early Forcer of Vines, Pines, Peaches, Cucumbers, Melons, Strawberries, &c.; is a first-class Grower of Orchids, Stove, fine Foliage, and Greenhouse Plants, also the Orchard House and Kitchen Garden. Is well known to most of the leading men of Horticulture round London. Character and testimonials of the highest order.—Alpha, Mr. Wm. Bull's Establishment for New and Rare Plants, King's Road, Chelsea, London, S.W.

GARDENER (Head Working or Single-handed).—Married, no incumbrance; has a practical knowledge of his profession. Good character.—A. B., 26, North Street, Edgware Road, London, W.

GARDENER (Head or Single-handed).—Age 24, married; understands Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Two years' character.—J. C., 196, High Holborn, W.C.

GARDENER.—Age 24, married, no incumbrance; well understands his profession. No objection to a Cow. Twelve months' good character.—W. B., 4, Maple Terrace, Maple Road, Penge, Surrey, S.E.

GARDENER.—J. Morris, Gardener to T. White, Esq., Manor House, Wethersfield, wishes to recommend an industrious and trustworthy Gardener, married, with one child.—For particulars apply as above.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. Davies, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. Lindley, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER.—Age 31, married, two children; understands Forcing in its various branches, and the Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens. Thirteen years' experience in gentlemen's gardens. No objection to look after Cattle. Good character from last situation.—J. D., Post Office, Lower Tooting, Surrey.

GARDENER (Single-handed).—Age 24, single; has been used to all branches in Gardening. Can look after a Horse. Two years' good character.—A. B., 24, Fitzroy Place, St. Mark's Square, Regent's Park, N.W.

GARDENER (Under or Single-handed).—Understands his work well.—T. Pankhurst, Post Office, Fordcomb, near Tunbridge Wells.

GARDENER (Under or Single-handed).—Age 22, single; has had practical experience in every department of Horticulture; good Plant and Fruit Grower. Excellent character.—J. P., Bute House, Campden Hill, Kensington, W.

GARDENER (Under).—Age 19; not much accustomed to the work, but is very desirous to learn. Would not object to a situation under a Keeper.—W. Mawby, Fillongley Hall, Coventry, Warwickshire.

GARDENER (Under).—Age 21; good references can be had from last employers.—T. G., Mrs. Eales, Meadfoot Row, Torquay.

GARDENER and STEWARD.—Age 32, married; 18 years' practical experience in all branches of Horticulture, also has a thorough knowledge of Agriculture, Buying and Selling Cattle, and Stock of all sorts. Five years' unexceptionable testimonials from present employer.—R. B., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

FOREMAN in a nobleman's or gentleman's Garden, or to take the general Management under a Steward.—Age 27, single. Can have first-rate testimonials for ability, sobriety, and industry.—A. B., 61, Orchard Street, Plumstead, Kent.

To Gardeners.

FOREMAN or IMPROVER, under a first-class Gardener.—Age 21; possesses good abilities. A good Premium will be given.—X. Y. Z., Gardeners' Chronicle Office.

NURSERY FOREMAN or MANAGER.—An energetic young Man, married, and possessing a good practical knowledge of the Nursery business in all its branches, is desirous of obtaining a situation in the above capacity, or a place in a Nursery where a confidential man is required. Commands a good address, and is a competent Salesman and correspondent. The Advertiser would have no objection to treat with any respectable party already established in a moderate-sized Nursery, or about to commence one, with a view to a Partnership. A liberal capital could be found.—Hortus, Post Office, Birmingham.

IMPROVER.—Accustomed to all kinds of Forcing and Flowers. Good premium given.—D. Tanly, 24, Park Street, Dorset Square, London, N.W.

STEWARD or BAILIFF.—Middle-age, married; has had 14 years' practical experience in the above capacity; well understands the cultivation of all kinds of Soil, Breeding and Rearing of all kinds of Stock, Buying and Selling; likewise the Valuation and Measuring of Timber, Building, &c., and every other branch connected with a gentleman's estate. The highest reference can be given.—G. H., Messrs. Sutton & Sons, Seed Growers, Reading, Berks.

BAILIFF and GARDENER or GENERAL MANAGER on an Estate.—No incumbrance; 20 years service in the Northern and Midland Counties of England with noblemen and gentlemen. References on application.—Samuel Brown, Wheldrake, Yorkshire.

FARM BAILIFF (by a Norfolk Man).—Age 41, married, one child; well understands Breeding and Rearing of Stock. Has lived in Hampshire. Good references.—B. R., 176, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

BAILIFF, or BAILIFF and GARDENER.—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; has had 20 years' practical experience in Farming, both Heavy and Light Land, Buying and Selling of Stock, and has a thorough knowledge of Gardening in all its branches. Wife can take the Management of a Dairy and Poultry if required.—F. D., Mr. Jones, Stationer, Woodford, Essex.

WORKING BAILIFF.—Single; has had several years' experience in different counties, in the Management of Stock, Roots, Crops, Woods, &c. Several years' references. Has a Sister who could attend to Poultry, &c., if required.—A. B., Mr. T. Smith's, Poplars, Godstone, Surrey.

To the Seed Trade.

SHOPMAN.—Well experienced in the business.—A. T., Messrs. James Carter & Co., 237, High Holborn, London, W.C.

Landscape Gardening, Ireland.

MR. J. W. CHAPMAN offers his services to the nobility and gentry of Ireland in the formation of Gardens and Pleasure Grounds, and the general improvement of Estates. Plans and Drawings for these purposes will be furnished, and where it is desired, experienced men will be sent to any part of the country to superintend the carrying out of the works.

Mr. C. will be happy to refer to gentlemen in this country and elsewhere, with whom he has been professionally engaged.

27, Molesworth Street, Dublin.—August 15.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.

CHUBB'S FIRE PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS. CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.

Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.

Chubb & Son, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF.—The foundation for all Mattress Bedding should be elastic, and the usual Spring Mattress is too heavy and cumbersome for general use. Heal & Son's new Patent LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF is made in three separate parts, and is therefore light and portable; it is also cheap and durable; and as it has no stuffing on the top, it cannot harbour moth.

HEAL and SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Designs and Prices of 100 Bedsteads, as well as of 150 different articles of Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.

Heal & Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham Court Road, W.

BEDSTEADS, BATHS, and LAMPS.—William S. Burton has SIX LARGE SHOW ROOMS, devoted exclusively to the SEPARATE DISPLAY of LAMPS, BATHS, and METALLIC BEDSTEADS. The stock of each is at once the largest, newest, and most varied ever submitted to the public, and marked at prices proportionate with those that have tended to make his establishment the most distinguished in this country.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bedsteads, from .. .. | 12s. 6d. | to | £20 0s. | each |
| Shower Baths, from .. | 8 0 | to | 6 0 | " |
| Lamps (Moderateur), from | 6 0 | to | 8 10 | " |

(All other kinds at the same rate).

Pure Colza Oil .. .. .. 4s. 6d. per gallon.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post paid. It contains upwards of 500 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-Plate, Nickel Silver and Britannia Metal Goods, Dish-Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimney-pieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers, Tea-Trays, Urns and Kettles, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed Room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with Lists of Prices, and Plans of the 20 large Show Rooms, at 39 Oxford Street, W.; 1, 1a, 2, 3, and 4, Newman Street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's Place; and 1 Newman Yard, London.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS.—Prize Medal awarded to Thresher & Glenny for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.

Lists of Prices on application to Thresher & Glenny, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

FAMILY JARS for PRESERVES.—Many a Lady has had to lament the total loss of her Preserves and Pickles for want of a good cork for her Jars. JENNING'S PATENT CAPSULE hermetically seals any Bottle or Jar on which it may be placed, is proof against the attacks of Mice or Insects, can be fixed or removed in a moment, and will last for years.

Descriptive Illustrations and Prices from Jennings's Wholesale Depôt, Palace Road, Lambeth.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.—This delicious Condiment, pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE," Is prepared solely by Lea & Perrins.

The public are respectfully cautioned against worthless imitations, and should see that Lea & Perrins' Names are on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.

Ask for Lea and Perrins' Sauce.

 Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. Crosse & Blackwell; Messrs. Barclay & Sons, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

Manufacturers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

FRY'S | HOMŒOPATHIC / ICELAND MOSS / PEARL | COCOA

FRY'S SOLUBLE CHOCOLATE.

J. S. Fry & Sons were the only English Manufacturers of Cocoa who obtained the Prize Medal, 1862.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, and CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. Metcalfe's celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2s. per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2s., 3s. 6d., and 5s. each. 130 b, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by Dinneford & Co., 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

CORNS and BUNIONS.—A gentleman, many years tormented with Corns, will be happy to afford others the information by which he obtained their entire removal in a short period, without pain or any kind of inconvenience.

Forward address, on a stamped envelope, to W. Goodall, Esq., Epsom, Surrey, S.

KEATING'S PERSIAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.—Fleas in Dogs, Poultry, &c., are instantly destroyed, as also Bugs, Beetles, and every other Insect, by this Powder, which is perfectly harmless to animal life; Sportsmen particularly will therefore find it invaluable.

Sold in Packets, 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for 14 or treble size for 36 postage stamps, by Thomas Keating, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C. Take notice, each genuine packet bears the above name and address.

For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to Price's. Most medical men prescribe "Price's Glycerine" where purity is of importance.

Patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8, 4, or 2 oz. bottles, with capsules over the stoppers marked—

"Price's Patent," Belmont, Vauxhall.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by Du Barry's health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2s. 9d.; 2 lb., 4s. 6d.; 5 lb., 11s; 12 lb., 22s.; 24 lb., 40s.

Barry du Barry & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, 1863.

ROYAL SCHOOL of MINES.
Director.
Sir Roderick Impey Murchison, K.C.B., F.R.S., &c.

During the SESSION 1863-64, which will COMMENCE on OCTOBER 6, the following COURSES of LECTURES and PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS will be given :—

1. CHEMISTRY. By A. W. Hofmann, LL.D., F.R.S., &c.
2. METALLURGY. By John Percy, M.A., F.R.S.
3. NATURAL HISTORY. By T. H. Huxley, F.R.S.
4. MINERALOGY. } By Warington W. Smyth, M.A., F.R.S.
5. MINING. }
6 GEOLOGY. By
7. APPLIED MECHANICS. By Robert Willis, M.A., F.R.S.
8. PHYSICS. By T. Tyndall, F.R.S.
Instruction in Mechanical Drawing, by Rev. J. Haythorne Edgar, M.A.

The Fee for Students desirous of becoming Associates is 30*l*, in one sum on entrance, or two annual payments of 20*l*., exclusive of the Laboratories.

Pupils are received in the Royal College of Chemistry (the Laboratory of the School), under the direction of Dr. Hofmann, and in the Metallurgical Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. Percy.

Tickets to separate Course of Lectures are issued at 3*l*. and 4*l*. each.

Officers in the Queen's Service, Her Majesty's Consuls, acting Mining Agents and Managers, may obtain tickets at reduced prices.

Certificated Schoolmasters, Pupil Teachers, and others engaged in education, are also admitted to the Lectures at reduced fees

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has granted two Scholarships, and several others have also been established.

For a Prospectus and information, apply at the Museum of Practical Geology, Jermyn Street, London, S.W.

Trenham Reeks, Registrar.

SCIENCE and ART DEPARTMENT of the COMMITTEE of COUNCIL on EDUCATION,
South Kensington, W.

The ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS for SCIENCE CERTIFICATES for TEACHERS will take place in London, Dublin and Edinburgh, in NOVEMBER. A Table of the days and hours appointed for each subject, and the places of Examination, will be sent on application by letter to the Secretary, Science and Art Department, South Kensington, London, W.

All applications for Examination must be made before October 16.

By Order of the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education.—August 22.

LOANS.—THE BRITISH MUTUAL INVESTMENT, LOAN, and DISCOUNT COMPANY (Limited), is prepared to GRANT LOANS, in sums not exceeding 1000*l*., upon approved personal or other security, repayable by easy instalments, extending over any period not exceeding 10 years.

Forms of Proposal, Prospectuses, and every other information, may be obtained at the Offices of the Company, 17 and 18, New Bridge Street, Blackfriars, E.C.

Charles James Thicke, Manager.
Joseph K. Jackson, Secretary.

HINTS on the DESTRUCTION of RED SPIDER, GREEN FLY, and other Insects that infest GREENHOUSES. Price 1s.

London: Kent & Co. Birmingham: William Willey.

Murray's Handbooks for the Continent.

HANDBOOK—TRAVEL-TALK, in English French, Italian, and German. 18mo. 3*s*. 6*d*.

HANDBOOK — NORTH GERMANY. Holland, Belgium, Prussia, and the Rhine to Switzerland. New and Revised Edition. Map. Post 8vo. 10*s*.

HANDBOOK—SOUTH GERMANY. The Tyrol, Bavaria, Austria, Salzburg, Styria, Hungary, and the Danube from Ulm to the Black Sea. New and Revised Edition. Map. Post 8vo. 10*s*.

HANDBOOK — SWITZERLAND. The Alps of Savoy and Piedmont. A New and Revised Edition. Maps. Post 8vo. 9*s*.

HANDBOOK — FRANCE. Normandy, Brittany, the French Alps, Dauphiné, Provence, and the Pyrenees. Maps. Post 8vo. 10*s*.

HANDBOOK — SPAIN. Andalusia, Grenada, Madrid, &c. With a Supplement of Inns and Railways, 1861. Maps. 2 vols. Post 8vo. 30*s*.

HANDBOOK — PORTUGAL. Lisbon, &c. Map. Post 8vo. 9*s*.

HANDBOOK—NORTH ITALY. Piedmont, Nice, Lombardy, Venice, Parma, Modena, and Romagna as far as the Val d'Arno. New and Revised Edition. Maps. Post 8vo. 12*s*.

HANDBOOK — CENTRAL ITALY. Lucca, Tuscany, Florence, the Marches, and the Patrimony of St. Peter. Maps. Post 8vo. 10*s*.

HANDBOOK — ROME and its ENVIRONS. Map. Post 8vo. 9*s*.

HANDBOOK — SOUTH ITALY. Two Sicilies, Naples, Pompeii, Herculaneum, Vesuvius, Abruzzi, &c. Maps. Post 8vo 10*s*.

HANDBOOK — GREECE. The Ionian Islands, Albania, Thessaly, and Macedonia. Maps. Post 8vo. 15*s*.

HANDBOOK — EGYPT. The Nile, Alexandria, Cairo, and Thebes. Map. Post 8vo. 15*s*.

HANDBOOK—SYRIA, PALESTINE. Sinai, Edom, Syrian Desert, &c. Maps. 2 vols. Post 8vo. 24*s*.

HANDBOOK— INDIA. Bombay and Madras. Map. 2 vols. Post 8vo. 24*s*.

HANDBOOK — DENMARK, NORWAY and SWEDEN, and ICELAND. Maps. Post 8vo. 15*s*.

HANDBOOK—RUSSIA. St. Petersburg, Moscow, Finland, &c. Maps. Post 8vo. 12*s*.

John Murray, Albemarle Street, W.

In the Press.

JAMES CARTER and CO.'S AUTUMN LIST of BULBS and PLANTS, forwarded gratis on application to 237, 238, High Holborn, London, W.C.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

An Imperial decree was published in Paris on Thursday condemning the bishops' letters on the subject of the elections, and declaring them to be an abuse of ecclesiastical authority. The decree states that it is a fundamental maxim of French public law that the Chief of the Church and the Church itself have control solely over spiritual, and not over temporal and civil affairs; and that the bishops and archbishops are not empowered to deliberate together or pass common resolutions without the special permission of the Government.

The Congress of Sovereigns convened by the Emperor of Austria at Frankfort for the reform of the Germanic Confederation was opened on Monday by the Emperor in person. Of the 35 States of which the Confederation consists, 32 were represented on the occasion, the only absentees being Prussia, Denmark, and Lippe Detmol. The minor sovereigns, however, had previously held a meeting, at which it was unanimously resolved to send a deputation to the King of Prussia, for the purpose of inviting him to attend the conference. The King of Saxony, at the request of the meeting, undertook to convey the invitation in person, and on Wednesday last proceeded to Baden and had an interview with his Majesty, who is credibly reported to have declined the invitation.

Accounts from St. Petersburg state that the notes of the three Powers were to be presented to Prince Gortschakoff on Wednesday or Thursday. The contents of the Austrian Note are not known, but those of France and England are said to be thoroughly courteous and pacific in their tone, though the English communication is somewhat reserved. Both Powers again urge the "six points," and express the hope that Russia will adopt such measures in regard to Poland as will lead to the restoration of peace. If she does not, the Powers, having done their utmost in the cause of humanity, will hold Russia responsible for any consequences which may hereafter ensue. Dissensions are said to have broken out among the chiefs of the insurgents in Poland, and it is said to be not improbable that the movement will henceforth be directed wholly by the extreme party. A telegram from Posen states that Prince Roman Czartoryski has been arrested by the Prussian authorities, and conducted to Berlin.

From the United States we learn that General Meade has insisted on the acceptance of his resignation, and that General Grant is spoken of as his successor. The army of the Potomac is to be re-organised and reinforced, and it is reported from Baltimore, that by the middle of August General Lee's army will be increased to 150,000 men, with 300 pieces of artillery, and will assume the offensive if the Federal army has not advanced. Accounts from Louisiana state that the Confederate General Taylor has routed the Federals under General Banks, and captured 6000 prisoners. The siege of Charleston was still in progress on the 6th inst., though the idea of taking Fort Wagner had been abandoned, in consequence of the little impression made on the fortifications by the guns of the assailants. The Federal steamer Ironsides was within 500 yards of Fort Sumter, and General Gilmore's batteries were expected to open fire from Morris Island on the 8th. The New York papers state that an offensive and defensive treaty has been concluded between the United States and Russia against France and England, and that, after discussing the Mexican question at several cabinet meetings at Washington, it has been resolved to demand from France the abandonment of the scheme for establishing an empire in that country. A despatch from Baltimore says that the Confederate Government has determined to arm the whole able-bodied negro population to resist Federal aggressions.

By the overland mail we learn that there is some doubt of the identity of the prisoner supposed to be Nana Sahib; the evidence of the blind Brahmin, who turned Queen's evidence, and denounced him as the Rajah of Bithoor, being considered to require confirmation.

Despatches from Japan state that on the 13th June ambassadors from Yedo had an interview with Colonel Neale, and paid the 400,000 dollars demanded for the murder of Mr. Richardson; but excused the Tycoon from surrendering the offenders, because his authority was insufficient to enable him to capture them. The Mikado has since issued imperative orders for the expulsion of foreigners and the closing of the ports. From China we learn that Nanking had been attacked by the Imperialists, and the outworks carried.

Home News.

The Queen in Germany.—On Friday afternoon the Queen, accompanied by the Royal family and suite, took leave of the King of the Belgians, and left Laeken for Germany. Her Majesty passed through Cologne at a quarter past 7 in the evening, and arrived at the Castle of Rosenau shortly before 10 on Saturday morning. The Duke of Coburg being absent at the Congress at Frankfort, the Duchess received the Queen and the Royal family on their arrival, and visited her Majesty in the evening. The Queen was much fatigued by the intense heat in the journey from Laeken, and has remained in perfect quiet since her arrival.

The Prince and Princess of Wales.—The Prince went out to the hills on the 12th, and was exceedingly successful, having killed no fewer than 95 brace. The Princess frequently promenades and drives in the neighbourhood of Abergeldie. On Friday their Royal Highnesses, accompanied by the Count of Flanders, drove through Braemar on a visit to the Earl and Countess of Fife at Mar Lodge. On Saturday the Royal party drove by Clachinturn and Lochnagar distillery, on their way to Loch Muick, on an angling excursion. On Sunday, the Prince and Princess attended service at Crathie Church. The Rev. A. Anderson preached the sermon. It is announced that their Royal Highnesses will be present at the Braemar Gathering on the 27th inst., and that the Prince and Princess, accompanied by the Count of Flanders, will remain at Mar Lodge on a visit to the Earl and Countess of Fife till Saturday, the 29th.

Parliamentary Movements.—The election for the Montgomery Boroughs has terminated in the return of the Hon. Mr. Tracy, the Liberal candidate, by a majority of 109 over Mr. Pugh, the numbers being 439 to 330.

The Channel Fleet anchored at Kirkwall on the 12th inst., and were expected to leave on Friday for the Clyde. The Lord Provost and magistrates of Glasgow have invited Admiral Dacres and the officers of the fleet to a public dinner on their arrival in that city; and the corporation and people of Derry have resolved to invite the Admiral and his officers to a grand ball and supper on their arrival in Lough Foyle.

Foreign.

France. — The Moniteur publishes the following important decree signed by the Emperor, and countersigned by M. Baroche, Keeper of the Seals and Minister of Justice and Public Worship :—

"A pamphlet having been published, having for its title, 'Reply of various Bishops to Consultations addressed to them relative to the forthcoming Elections,' the said pamphlet being signed by the Archbishops of Cambrai, of Tours, of Rennes, and by the Bishops of Metz, Nantes, Orleans and Chartres, we have decreed and decree as follows :—Considering that it is an established principle that, at all times, by the canonical law and confirmed by the bull and decree which fixed the new circumscription of the dioceses, that the powers of bishops are limited within the bounds of that circumscription, and cannot be exercised except within their respective dioceses: Considering that the archbishops and bishops have no right to deliberate together or adopt resolutions in common without the express permission of the Government: Considering that, according to the terms of the declaration of 1682, it is a fundamental maxim of the public law of France that the head of the Church and the Church itself have not received any power except upon spiritual matters, and not upon temporal things; that, consequently, the pastoral letters which bishops may address to the faithful of their diocess only must be confined to instructing them in their religious duties: Considering that the pamphlet in question has been addressed by the archbishops and bishops who have put their names to it, not only to the faithful and clergy of their respective dioceses, but to the faithful and clergy of the French Empire, by the medium of the daily newspapers and by a pamphlet distributed in the departments: Considering that the said pamphlet is evidently the result of a common agreement and joint resolution: Considering that its object is by no means to instruct the faithful in their religious duties; that it is in fact a political programme. Relative to the letter of the Archbishop of Tours: Considering that the letter challenges the right of the Government to enforce the respect due by the bishops to the laws imposed upon them by the Empire: Considering that it contains a censure upon certain acts attributed to the Government and concerning its foreign policy: That, under this double head, it constitutes a violation of the laws of the Empire and an abuse of power: Having consulted our Council of State, we have decreed as follows: — Art. 1.—There is abuse of power in the pamphlet entitled 'Reply of certain Bishops to the consultations addressed to them relative to the forthcoming Elections,' signed and published by the Archbishops of Cambrai, Tours, and Rennes, and by the Bishops of Metz, Nantes, Orleans, and Chartres. The said pamphlet is suppressed. Art. 2. There is abuse of power in the letter addressed to our Minister of Public Instruction and Worship by the Archbishop of Tours on the 4th June last. The said letter is suppressed. Art. 3. Our Minister of State, and our Keeper of the Seals, Minister of Justice and of Public Worship, are charged, each as far as he is concerned, with the execution of the present decree, which will be inserted in the Bulletin des Lois.

"Approved, Aug. 16, 1863. "NAPOLEON.
"Countersigned. "BAROCHE."

The Emperor presided at a Council of Ministers on Sunday, and left on Monday for the camp at Châlons, where his Majesty was very warmly received. The Emperor is expected to return on Monday to St. Cloud, and will go to Biarritz in September. It is rumoured that the Emperor will have an interview in the course of a few days with the Emperor of Austria at Baden, where the King of Prussia is now staying. It is also reported from Vienna, that the Archduke Maximilian is about to visit the Emperor at Paris or Biarritz, and that the Archduchess Charlotte will accompany him. The Emperor of Russia sent to the French Ambassador at St. Petersburgh his congratulations on the Napoleon fête. At the State dinner given by M. Drouyn de Lhuys, as Foreign Minister, to the diplomatic body, the Papal Nuncio proposed the health of the Emperor. M. Drouyn de Lhuys drank to the health of the Sovereigns who are friends and allies of France. The whole of the Corps Diplomatique, with the exception of Prince Richard Metternich, who had gone to Frankfort, were present at this dinner. M. Drouyn de Lhuys will preside at the inauguration of the statue erected to Marshal Serrurier. He will subsequently preside at the Council-General, and will return to Paris when the Emperor returns from Châlons. It is said that his intended resignation has been withdrawn at the request of the Emperor. La France states that the Corps Législatif will meet on the 6th of November for the transaction of public business. The same journal says that the Archbishop of Mexico has left St. Nazaire for Vera Cruz, bearing with him the conditions on which the Archduke Maximilian will accept the throne. The Moniteur states that General Forey's confiscation decree has not only not been confirmed, but was revoked as soon as it came to the knowledge of the Government. The arrival of Ambassadors from Cochin China is expected shortly at the Tuileries. They are bringing with them a large cargo of presents, including a palanquin and four parasols; and have likewise taken the precaution of bringing their provisions in 500 huge boxes. The Correctional Tribunal on Tuesday acquitted the newspaper the Sémaphore de Marseilles, which received a warning from the Government a short time back. The Gironde of Bordeaux has received a second warning for publishing an article accusing the policy of the Emperor of wishing to avoid a war at any price, of being easily satisfied, and endeavouring to make the public believe that the review of the 14th inst. was not countermanded on account of the heat, but from fear of manifestations being made contrary to this policy. The Nation of Tuesday evening, under the heading "Our Allies at Frankfort," publishes an article which says—

"It is clear that if the Emperor of Austria had no other thought than that of Federal reforms, the idea of the Congress at Frankfort would not have been a sudden inspiration. It must be that the Court of Vienna is desirous of avoiding a snare which it thinks is being laid for it. It is our duty to foresee that Austria will shortly astonish the world by a startling defection. Her pro-Polish enthusiasm must come to an end. Another step and she would be compelled to draw the sword, and give up Galicia and Venetia. Instead of rushing to the rescue of Poland, Austria is thinking only of her personal defences behind the phalanx of German princelets. This melancholy spectacle does not scandalise England, since quite by accident the Queen of England finds herself in the neighbourhood of Frankfort. If, then, a plot against France be on foot, England is implicated therein. More than ever is it urgent that France should look for allies elsewhere than at Vienna and London."

SPAIN.—The Democrats have requested permission to hold a Meeting preparatory to the elections. This has not yet been granted. Señor Matamoros, the Spanish Protestant, who with several others was prosecuted and condemned in Granada for disseminating his religious opinions, and subsequently pardoned by the Queen of Spain, has left Gibraltar, where he has been for some time past, with his companions, for Oran. Previous to their leaving, he delivered a farewell address to his friends at Gibraltar, in the Presbyterian Chapel, on the evening of Sunday, the 9th inst.; and on the following Tuesday evening a public service was held in the Wesleyan Chapel, when the Rev. George Alton gave them a farewell address.

PORTUGAL.—The King and the Court have assisted at a solemn funeral mass over the remains of the Duke de Terceira in the Church of St. Vincent. The Portuguese journals are unanimous in their expression of sympathy with Poland. The Duke de Saldanha is said to have formally denied any intention to return to Lisbon. The rumour that the Duke will take the place of Count Lavradio as Minister at London is not credited. The vine disease continues to increase. The wheat crops are very abundant.

AUSTRIA.—The Vienna Presse says that it believes it to be the unanimous opinion of the Austrian people that the acceptance of the crown of Mexico by the Archduke Maximilian, at the hands of a Napoleon, would be rather a fatality than good fortune.

FRANKFORT.—The Emperor of Austria, accompanied by the Crown Prince of Wurtemberg, arrived at Frankfort at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening. His Majesty, who was attended by Count Rechberg, was received by all the members of the Senate, by the military and civic authorities, by the Archduke William of Austria and the representatives of the German States at the Federal Diet. Great crowds of people thronged the streets through which the Emperor passed, greeting his Majesty with vociferous cheers. The King of Bavaria arrived very shortly after the Emperor, and was received with great enthusiasm. The Grand Dukes of Weimar and Baden, the Dukes of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Brunswick, and Saxe-Meiningen, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, the Prince of Rudolstadt, and the representatives of the free cities of Hamburg, Lubeck, and Bremen, also arrived on Saturday. The Grand Dukes of Baden and Saxe-Weimar and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha held a conference in the course of the afternoon. The Dukes of Saxe Meiningen, Nassau, and Brunswick likewise held a private conference. The streets at night were crowded with people. The German tricolour was hoisted upon the Palace of the Federal Diet. The Emperor of Austria, on his journey through Stuttgart, received an address from the Burgomaster. His Majesty, in reply, said:—

"I am about to meet the wishes of the German people, and to undertake a work in which I hope to be successful. It affords me great pleasure to find myself supported therein by the counsels of your King, and the sympathies of the people of Wurtemberg."

The Princes of the different States were received by the Emperor on Saturday night. On Sunday they exchanged visits. The Emperor attended mass at 8 o'clock in the morning at the Cathedral, where he was received by the Bishop of Limburg. In the afternoon the minor Princes held several sittings, and resolved that a collective Note should be forwarded to the King of Prussia, in which His Majesty should be respectfully requested to attend the Congress. The King of Saxony undertook to convey the invitation to His Majesty in person. The Emperor afterwards gave a State dinner at the Palace of the Federal Diet. The opening of the Congress took place at 11 o'clock on Monday morning, under the presidency of the Emperor. The Members of the Congress were pledged to secrecy, but it has transpired that His Majesty delivered a very conciliatory speech, in which he said that his object in convoking the assembly was to bring about a reform of the German Bund that should be in keeping with the necessities of the times. He declared that he was actuated by no selfish motives, and expressed a hope that his Federal allies would assist him in the task which he had undertaken. He concluded by lamenting that Prussia was not represented, "a Power which in Germany is on the same level with Austria." The first sitting of the Congress lasted an hour and a half, and it is rumoured that it was a satisfactory one. In the evening the members of the Congress dined with the Burgomaster and Corporation of the city. At this banquet the Burgomaster proposed as a toast "The Princes and Free Towns of Germany." The Emperor of Austria replied in the following terms:—

"I take this opportunity of thanking the Senate and citizens, in the name of the Princes assembled, for the hospitable reception extended to us. I think we cannot display our gratitude to patriotically disposed citizens in a more worthy manner than by testifying as Princes that we are all united in hearty love to our common Fatherland. We are all further united in best wishes for this memorable town. The illustrious guests will joyfully drink with me to Frankfort's welfare and prosperity. May Frankfort prosper!"

The following are stated to be the bases of the Austrian programme of Federal reform:—

A Directory of five, consisting of Austria, Prussia, Bavaria, and two other German Powers to be chosen. A Federal Council of permanent representatives of German States; an Upper House, to be composed of the Princes; and an Assembly of Delegates from the German Diet, 300 in number, half of whom will be sent by the Austrian and Prussian Diets, the remainder by the other German Diets. Two-thirds of the Delegates are to be chosen by the Lower Houses of the Diets of the German States, and one-third by the Upper Houses. The powers of the Federal Assembly to be increased. The sessions to be triennial. Some principles for general national legislation to be adopted—viz., a law regulating the right of domicile, a general press law, a general law respecting associations, and a law for the establishment of Federal tribunals.

There was no sitting on Tuesday on account of the Emperor's birthday. On Thursday the permanent committee of the popular delegates of the German Diets held a sitting. The following questions were upon the order of the day:—"The German question; the more enlarged organisation of the Congress; the Schleswig-Holstein question. Meetings of the Congress were to take place yesterday and to-day. Herren Schultze, Delitsch, Bennigsen, Metz, &c., are among the deputies who have already arrived. The King of Holland attended at the gala performance in the theatre on Thursday. Thirty-two sovereign Princes, with their Ministers and the corps diplomatique, were present upon the occasion. The Earl of Clarendon, Earl Granville, and the Duke of Cambridge, who are now at Frankfort, have had interviews with the Emperor, and paid frequent visits to the different Princes and German Ministers. Prince Richard Metternich, Count Apponyi, and other Austrian diplomatists are also at Frankfort for the purpose of discussing European questions, notably the affairs of Poland and the German difference with Denmark.

PRUSSIA.—The King of Saxony arrived at Baden on Wednesday afternoon to deliver to the King of Prussia the Austrian project of reform, together with an invitation to his Majesty to attend the Congress at Frankfort. The King of Prussia and Count von Bismark arrived at midnight. An interview between the two Sovereigns took place on Thursday. Yesterday morning the King of Saxony returned to Frankfort, and it is credibly reported that he is the bearer of a letter from the King of Prussia declining the collective invitation of the German Princes.

ITALY.—The Turin papers announce that public subscriptions have been opened to offer a testimonial to Sir James Hudson as a token of Italian gratitude. The report that the Chevalier di Nigra, the Marquis d'Azeglio, and the Marquis Pepoli were to be recalled from Paris, London, and St. Petersburg is entirely unfounded. Letters from Rome announce that Cardinal Antonelli has again tendered his resignation. The Pope declined to accept it. The Cardinal, however, insisted, and it is said that Cardinal Alfieri will be his successor. A loan for the establishment of better means of communication throughout the little Republic of San Marino has been negotiated in Paris by the Chargé d'Affaires of the Republic with the banking house of Messrs. J. Pic and Co. Advices from Constantinople state that the Italian Minister at the Ottoman Porte has protested to the Austrian Internuncio, on the ground that the latter opposes obstacles to the exercise of his diplomatic functions.

RUSSIA.—Letters from St. Petersburg state that the Notes of the Western Powers were to be presented to Prince Gortschakoff on Wednesday or Thursday. They add that the purport of the French Note is thoroughly pacific, and that the English Note, although couched in terms of the most perfect courtesy, is rather more reserved, although maintaining the same sense. Both Notes persevere in the proposals formerly made by the Powers to Russia. They regret that Russia has not consented to accept the six points, the project of a conference, and an armistice, but hope that after mature consideration the Government of the Emperor will arrive at a different conclusion. While both Powers make Russia responsible for future consequences, they declare that, after having fulfilled the duties imposed upon them by humanity and the right interpretation of treaties, they must for the present confine themselves to repeating their former observations with increased emphasis. M. Drouyn de Lhuys and Earl Russell further declare themselves willing to await the measures which the Russian Government may adopt, in the hope that they will lead to peace. Nothing authentic has transpired with respect to the contents of the Austrian Note. It is believed that Prince Gortschakoff will take some time before forwarding his replies to the Notes, as the Emperor left on the 16th for Novgorod, and will certainly not return for at least 10 days. The Vienna Presse mentions the rumour of an offensive and defensive alliance between St. Petersburg and Washington, affecting principally the bearings of the Mexican and Polish questions. The Bank of Russia at St. Petersburg has suspended payments in imperials.

POLAND.—La France of Friday evening states that differences have sprung up among the chiefs of the Polish party, and that the extreme party had the chance of taking the lead in the movement. The insurgents attacked and dispersed three companies of Russian infantry and a squadron of cavalry, on the 8th inst., at Zarzyn, in the palatinate of Lublin. Upwards of 300 Russians were killed and 110 taken prisoners; the latter, however, were sent back. The insurgents captured 200,000 roubles in this engagement. Two sanguinary engagements took place in the palatinate of Cracow on the 15th, the first at Grodzisko, the second at Czcruschan, on the Galician frontier. A Polish detachment, after having destroyed a company of the enemy near Grodzisko, was attacked near Glanow by the Russian forces from Olkusz and Miechow. A sanguinary conflict ensued, and the Poles, after making a heroic resistance until dusk, recrossed the frontier. At the commencement of the engagement the Poles were 250 strong, of which number only 36 succeeded in retreating into Galicia. In the village of Glanow several persons, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Rutkowski, were burnt in their houses by the Russians, who also burnt the village of Korzkiez and massacred several of the inhabitants. Numerous desertions of Poles serving in the Russian army have taken place. Prince Roman Czartoryski has been arrested by the Prussian authorities at his estate of Ruchberg, and conducted to Berlin.

GREECE.—Intelligence from Athens states that the Greek National Assembly has resolved on the re-organisation of the Senate. Another decree orders a change in the Insignia of the Order of the Saviour.

TURKEY.—Russian troops are concentrating at Gumri. The Porte has demanded explanations from the Russian Government on the subject. Hussein Pasha has been appointed Minister of War, in place of Halil Pasha, who has resigned. A Turkish camp of observation is to be established at Schumla. Omer Pasha is seriously ill. The old Seraglio has been totally destroyed by fire. The Inland Custom Houses have been abolished, and an octroi substituted.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—The Bishop of Cape Town has cited Bishop Colenso to appear before him on the 17th of November next. The House of Assembly has passed, by an overwhelming majority, the Loan Bill, which is intended to provide for the revenue deficit. As regards the manner in which the loan should be negotiated, the Government advocated 6 per cent. Debentures of the usual character. The Government has been defeated on their Crown lands policy of reassuming the disposal of these lands. The railway Bills have passed, but merely empower the Government to prepare surveys. The Roads Bill is likely to last another year. The Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from the Governor, declining to introduce a Bill to abolish the general clauses in special mortgages. The frontier mail arrived on the 8th of July, but brought no news of importance. The Union Company has offered, for 4000*l.* subsidy, to run a steamer between Natal and Mauritius.

India.—Lord Elgin has been laid up with fever at Simla, but was convalescent at latest dates. The Council of the Governor-General for making laws and regulations will assemble at Lahore in January next. The man captured at Ajmere as the Nana Sahib of Bithoor has not yet been satisfactorily identified. Information has been received from Rajpootana that the blind Brahmin who was captured with him has become Queen's evidence, and has himself identified the Nana. But the story is not credited in its present form. A plan for a general rising in the cold weather is said to have been organised. Authentic intelligence and full details regarding the capture of Herat, the death of the old Ameer Dost Mahomed, and the arrangements made by him, and by his sons previous to his death, for the Government of the country have been received from Cabul. An order went from Poonah on the 10th July relieving Colonel Crawley of the command of the 6th Inniskillings, and appointing Colonel Prior as his successor. It has also intimated that Colonel Crawley was not to leave the Presidency of Bombay without permission. Government has sanctioned the enlistment of men from the Punjab into the native regiments throughout India. The number of Punjabees in any one regiment is not to exceed 100 men.

Australia.—The colony of Victoria is in the midst of a ministerial crisis, the O'Shannasy Cabinet, which has long since lost the confidence of the country, having been beaten by a large majority in the Legislative Assembly. The Age says that the Romanism of the late Ministers had long long been a serious obstruction to measures of general benefit. The removal of Sir H. Barkly to the Mauritius is viewed with regret, and little interest was excited by the announcement of Sir Charles Darling as his successor.

New Zealand. The Maoris have been completely routed at Taranaki by General Cameron, of Crimean renown, who has adapted his tactics to his enemy, and has surprised the Maories in one of their strongholds at Tataraimaka, killing about 40, and wounding many more, with a loss to his own force of only two killed, two mortally wounded, and eight slightly wounded. It appears that the rebel natives concerned in the massacre of the 4th of May retired to a strongly fortified pah on the spur of a range of hills, from which they occasionally sallied in detached parties, with the view of cutting off any unfortunate settlers or soldiers whom they might encounter. A party of the 57th Regiment, under Lieut. Brutton, who were patrolling the district, in the hope of being able to revenge the death of their comrades, stumbled upon a party of natives that were out on a similar errand, and killed eight of their number. The General, having determined to attack the rebel pah, where the enemy were supposed to be lodged in considerable force, despatched on May 25, a force consisting of 500 men of the 70th, 108 of the 40th, 55 of the 65th, and two guns, under the command of Major Murtoch, of the 70th Regiment, with the intention of attacking the rebel position. The weather, however, set in so wet and cold that the troops were marched back to town after having proceeded a short distance in the direction of the enemy. On the 4th June another attack was determined on, and accordingly plans were adopted by which to conceal the real intentions of the General. For some days prior to the expedition, rumours were allowed to circulate of a supposed intention to withdraw the troops for the winter, and, to give some colouring to the statement, baggage waggons and carts were made to pass continually to and from the various redoubts, accompanied by escorts which were so disposed as to convey the impression that they did not return. On the evening of the 3d, the volunteers under Captain Atkinson were ordered to ambuscade in the bush, and a large number of civilians were told off for patrol duty. At 9 o'clock in the evening, the attacking force quietly left the town and began its march to the pah. The force consisted of 81 men of the 65th Regiment, under Captain Gresson, with Lieutenants Lewis and Chevalier; 90 men of the 40th, under Lieut Hobbs and Ensign Ducrow; 228 men of the 70th, under Major Murtock, with Captains Rutherford, Tovey, Ralston, and Cay, Lieutenants Huskinson and Grierson, Ensigns Clarke and Young, and Dr. Meikleban; 119 dismounted men of the Royal Artillery, under Captain Mercer, R.A., and Lieutenants Rait and Larcom; Lieut.-Colonel Hutchins, Military Secretary; Major Paul, Dr. Mouat, C.B., Lieut.-Col. Gamble, Deputy Quartermaster-Gen.; Capt. Travers, of the Land Transport Corps; Major M'Neil, Aide-de-Camp; Capt. Gorton, Aide-de-Camp; Dr. Tomlinson and Deputy Assistant-Commissary-General Innes, the whole under the command of General Cameron, who, accompanied by the Governor and Staff, steamed to the scene of action in her Majesty's ship Eclipse. On reaching the Pontoko redoubt, the garrison, under Colonel Warre, was replaced by the detachment of the 40th. Before reaching the Tataraimaka redoubt, the force was increased by the addition of a party of the 70th regiment, from the Oakuru redoubt. On mustering in the rear of the Tataraimaka redoubt, the force consisted of 650 men from the 57th, 70th, and 65th regiments, three Armstrong guns, the greater portion of Captain Mercer's men, and a few Engineers. The Taranaki correspondent of the Otago Daily Times, an eye-witness of the affair, gives the following particulars:

"The Katikara river—the southern boundary of the block—runs towards the coast almost at a right line from the mountain; its banks, mostly precipitous and rugged, are covered with dense vegetation. About a mile up the river, so as to command the back of the block, a short distance from the precipitous banks the enemy had constructed earthworks, the strength of which was chiefly in the underground excavations, the country in the neighbourhood being literally honeycombed with zig-zag rifle pits. The proper road for crossing the river wends down an incline towards the shore, where it divides into two, one passing to the south, the other leading up the steep cliff towards the enemy's works. The plan of attack adopted was to storm in two parties—one from the road up the cliff from the beach, under cover of the Armstrong guns of the Eclipse; the other from a party who were to ascend the river, cross it, rush the rifle-pits on the opposite gully, and join the other party in storming the main earthwork. In accordance with this well-concerted plan, at about a quarter to 7 A.M., Major Mercer's battery of artillery, consisting of three Armstrong 12-pounders, with detachments of the 57th and 70th under the command of Colonel Warre, marched up the river. At about 400 yards' distance from St. George's and 800 from the enemy's works the guns unlimbered and commenced throwing shell with beautiful precision; at the same time the skirmishers lined the banks of the river and the cliffs. Under this united protection Colonel Warre's party doubled down through the broken country, crossed the river, and, climbing the opposite incline, which was very steep, in dead silence, but with great rapidity, came at once on to the rifle-pits, in which were two native sentinels, who were immediately despatched with the bayonet, and the other works one after the other 'rushed.' By this time the garrison of the main work awoke, and fired upon the 57th. It was now that our greatest casualties occurred. One old chief, in bold defiance, waving his hand as he retired, became a perfect target for the rifles; at last he leaped into a pit and was bayoneted. He had in his hand a handsome spear, for which one of the officers gave to the man who took it 10*l.* The other party, under the command of Colonel Logan, with Captain Short acting as the support, now coming up, a rush in extended order of about 600 yards was made on the southern redoubt. As Colonel Logan's party came up a shell from the Eclipse drove the natives from the pah; when, seeing the party advancing, they rushed back again for shelter. In a very few minutes our men were in possession. Major Murtock, with a detachment of the 70th, came to the attack from the beach road. Colonel Logan, who had dismounted from his horse, was quietly standing, imagining all to be over, when a Maori deliberately covered him with his piece, but was prevented from firing by the presence of mind of one of the 57th, who bayoneted the man in his eye. Another Maori rushed forward with a tomahawk, but was shot by a soldier, who in the struggle received a gash across the shin. A party of men were standing, regardless of danger, over a pit in the ground that had been covered with a hurdle, when a Maori from beneath endeavoured to stab a man with a bayonet at the end of a stick, in which he fortunately failed. The covering was immediately removed, when six natives, refusing to yield, met their death at the point of the bayonet in the first rush. A woman threw herself over her husband to protect him, and was run through with the bayonet. A hut in which our men had despatched many now caught fire, and some of the bodies were burnt. In one hour from the commencement of the attack all was again quiet. The natives fled in two directions—one party sought the shelter of the bush towards the ranges, while the other escaped by the gullies through the high fern on to the beach. Those who fled inland were harassed by the 65th and 70th skirmishers, while Lieutenant Rait with his artillerymen pursued them with revolver and sabre. The number of the enemy killed in this part of the field has not been ascertained, but it must have been heavy. The bodies of the enemy killed are stated to be Wanganui and Waitara natives. The Taranakis witnessed the whole affair from their pah in the ranges."

One of the natives engaged in the late massacre was captured. He had in his possession the watch and chain of Lieut. Tradgett, of the 57th. The native is to be tried before the Supreme Court. The New Zealand settlers are elated with this success, and with such generalship anticipate a speedy termination of the war.

China.—The city of Shanghai was quiet on the 4th July. The Imperialists have attacked Nankin, and captured the outworks.

Japan.—The New York papers publish intelligence from Kanagawa to the 24th of June, viâ San Francisco, stating that the Japanese Government had paid the indemnity of 400,000 dollars demanded by England for the murder of Mr. Richardson, but had refused to surrender his murderers under the pretence that they were unable to take them forcibly. Negotiations concerning the surrender of the murderers were still pending. The foreign residents were apprehensive that war was inevitable. Subsequent accounts received through China confirm the news that the Japaneese have paid the indemnity, but state that the Mikado had issued orders to expel foreigners and to close the ports.

Manilla.—The loss of property caused by the earthquake at Manilla amounts to 40,000,000 dollars.

United States.—It is reported that General Meade has twice tendered his resignation, and now insists upon its acceptance. General Grant is spoken of as his successor. The army of the Potomac is to be reorganised. Drafted men and substitutes are now reinforcing it. A considerable force of all arms from General Meade's army, under General Buford, crossed the Rappahannock on the 1st inst., and encountered the Confederates near the river. A desperate conflict commenced. The Confederates retreated, fighting, upon Culpepper, when they were reinforced and in turn drove back the Federals. The Federals were shortly afterwards also reinforced by a whole army corps, and gained a strong position, when the Confederates again retreated towards Culpepper. The loss on both sides is reported to have been heavy. It is stated that further reinforcements were pushed forward by both Generals Lee and Meade during the night. The Federal pickets now extend two miles and a half beyond the south bank of the Rappahannock. The railroad bridge across the river at Rappahannock station has been rebuilt. Skirmishes occur daily; but no general engagement is immediately anticipated, though the Richmond journals announce that General Lee has massed his forces, and is prepared for another battle. It is said that by the middle of August he will be reinforced to the number of 150,000 men, with 300 pieces of artillery, and if by that time the Federals have not advanced, he will assume the offensive, and move from Fredericksburg direct on Alexandria, or on Arlington Heights. The Richmond papers state that General Meade has been reinforced by 15,000 men from Grant's army. It is reported that General Taylor has defeated General Banks in a battle in Louisiana, and captured 6000 prisoners. The raid of General Spear into North Carolina, previously reported as successful, is now asserted to have been a total failure. New Orleans papers of the 26th ult. report the sacking and destruction of Yazoo City, Mississippi, by the Federals. Telegrams from Charleston, dated the 31st ult. to the Richmond Whig, announce that the batteries at Cumming's Point, on Morris Island, were bombarded by three ironclads for five hours during the previous day. At the end of that time the vessels withdrew, having inflicted no serious injury to the works. All the Confederate forts within range replied to the Federal fire. At daylight on the 31st a heavy bombardment was opened upon the Federal position on Morris Island, which was continued until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the result of which is not stated. The bombardment of Fort Wagner still continued on the morning of the 4th. The garrison of the Fort had made a sortie upon one of the Federal batteries, but were repulsed. General Gilmore's heavy batteries, which are said to mount the largest guns ever cast at the North, were expected to open fire from Morris Island on Fort Sumter on the 8th inst. The steamer Ironsides was within 500 yards of Fort Sumter. A letter from Charleston, published in the Boston Traveller, confirms the statement that the Confederate shot pierced the plating in the decks of the Monitors. Three of these shots struck the Nahant during the recent attack upon Fort Wagner, and considerably damaged that vessel. The Tribune reports that fears exist in Washington that the insufficiency of the reinforcements for General Gilmore, and the delay in sending them to him, may result in the failure of the present siege of Charleston. General Bragg is at Chattanooga. Part of his army is at Rome, Georgia. It is rumoured that Bishop Polk has superseded General Bragg. General Foster has made a reconnaissance up the James River, during which his vessels were fired at by artillery and sharpshooters stationed along the banks. A torpedo exploded under one of the vessels, doing considerable damage. The Federal expedition from Vicksburg has arrived at Port Hudson. It is stated that 100,000 negro troops will be organised to defend the navigation of the Mississippi. President Lincoln has issued a proclamation announcing that the Federals will adopt a system of retaliation if the South refuse to treat negroes as prisoners of war. For every Federal soldier killed in violation of the laws of warfare a rebel soldier will be executed; and for every one enslaved or sold into slavery a rebel soldier will be placed at hard labour on public works, and kept at labour until the other be released and receive the treatment due to prisoners of war. Mr. Cisco, the United States' Assistant-Treasurer, has given notice that the interest on the temporary loan of United States' notes to the Government will, after the expiration of the several periods of the current six months, be paid in legal-tender notes, instead of coin as heretofore promised. The 6th being the day appointed by President Lincoln for a general thanksgiving for the Federal successes in the South-west, services were held in the different churches. The Maine Democratic State Convention has passed strong resolutions denouncing the course of the Lincoln Administration. The draft was resumed in New York on the 3d. 1500 names were drawn, a third being those of negroes. The Governor of New York has written to President Lincoln complaining of the injustice done to the State by the mode of enrolment, and asking for a suspension of the draft until the errors are corrected. He urges volunteering to be substituted for the draft, and claims that, by the constitution, the Conscription Act should be tested in the State courts. President Lincoln has replied that the draft must be enforced, but that the districts where there is any irregularity could be re-enrolled. The President does not object to submit the constitutionality of the Conscription Act to the decision of the courts, but cannot consent to lose time while obtaining judgment, "as the enemy is driving every man into his ranks very much as a butcher drives bullocks into his slaughter pen, thus producing an army which will soon turn upon the victorious Federals if not sustained by recruits. The volunteer system is so far exhausted as to be inadequate." The New York Herald states that several Cabinet meetings have been held at Washington, at which the Mexican question was discussed, and it was decided to demand from France the entire abandonment of the monarchical scheme. It is also reported from Washington that Mr. Cassius Clay has concluded an offensive and defensive treaty with Russia, agreeing to declare war with the Western Powers in the event of their going to war with Russia on the Polish question. The Richmond Whig of the 31st ult. announces the death of the Hon. W. L. Yancey, of the Confederate Congress. On the 1st inst. President Davis issued a proclamation exhorting all the men of the Confederacy to come to the rescue of their country in this its hour of peril. He declares that victory is still within their reach if they will but stretch forth their hands to grasp it. To all soldiers who are absent without leave he promises full pardon, provided they return immediately to their duty. He finally conjures all the women of the Confederacy to use their influence in aiding this call, and to take care that none who owe duty in the field shall be sheltered at home. The Confederate Secretary of the Treasury has written a letter stating that as the fall of Port Hudson and Vicksburg exposes to the enemy the Government cotton purchased in Mississippi and Louisiana, many planters will probably leave their plantations. The military authorities will therefore, he says, destroy all cotton they cannot preserve from the enemy. The cotton will be destroyed only when there is imminent danger of the enemy capturing it. It is reported from Baltimore that the Confederate Government has determined to arm all the able-bodied negro population. The Richmond Examiner says—

"It appears to be the determination of the British Government and people to do no act that shall tend to abridge the war, help the South, or involve itself in a quarrel with the United States. The South has no worse enemies than the British Government—not that the British Government is a friend to the North, but it hates the whole American people, and all their diplomacy will be to prolong war by preventing the interference of any other nation. Napoleon's possession of Mexico, however, will render his interference compulsory whenever it shall become evident that the Southern Confederacy shall cease to exist without it, for the Crown of Mexico will be untenable on the day when the subjugation of the South shall be completed and the United States power restored."

Captain Moffit, of the steamer Florida, writes that up to May 11 he had destroyed 9,700,000 dollars worth of Northern commerce, and had eluded 13 Federal cruisers sent to destroy him. The following are the points decided by Judge Betts, of the United States' District Court at New York, in the case of the prize steamer Peterhoff:—

"1. That the ship Peterhoff, in the premises mentioned, was knowingly on the voyage aforesaid laden in whole or in part with articles contraband of war, and had them in act of transportation at sea. 2. That her voyage with the said cargo was not truly destined to the port of Matamoras, a neutral port, and for purposes of trade and commerce, within the authority and intendment of public law, but, on the contrary, was destined for some other port or place, and in aid and for the use of the enemy, and in violation of the law of nations. 3. That the ship's papers were simulated and false as to her real destination. Wherefore, it is considered by the Court that the said vessel and her cargo are subject to condemnation and forfeiture, and it is ordered that a decree therefore be entered accordingly."

Decrees of condemnation and forfeiture were also issued in the cases of the Springbok, Stephen Hart, Gertrude, and Sally Magee. The value of these vessels and their cargoes is estimated at more than 1,500,000 dollars. The Government has repudiated an article in the Washington Republican, a semi-official organ, representing war with England as imminent, stating that the article was not authorised by the Government, nor made up with any knowledge of its views. The following is the article:—

"If there should be a slight occasion for hostilities, and England and America were likely to be involved in war, the Federal steam marine will at once be converted into privateers, and British commerce will be driven from the ocean. War is not desirable with England, but war is not the highest of evils. A spirited nation cannot submit to injustice, insolence, and outrage through a series of years and make no effort to avenge its wrongs. The course pursued by England has alienated every American of the loyal States. These facts indicate what the future has in store for America."

Mexico.—Intelligence from Vera Cruz to the 17th ult. confirms the news of the proclamation of the Archduke Maximilian as Emperor of Mexico. Cobos and Benavides have agreed with Juarez to demand in common of the Powers that the French intervention shall be limited to the application of the Treaty of London. A French steamer arrived on the 8th at Vera Cruz, with the English schooner Carolina Goodyear in tow. The schooner was captured at Rio Grande, with a cargo of arms for Juarez. She had cleared from Liverpool for Matamoras, and it is said to be the vessel to which Mr. Adams gave a permit a few months ago to secure her from seizure by the United States navy.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: August 14.—BANKRUPTS.—J. Ashby, Northampton, Butcher—J. Alpe, Kingston on-Hull, Lincolnshire, Grocer's Assistant—E. G. Alchmann, High Street, Whitechapel, Oilman—S. Brown, Walkley, near Sheffield, Quarryman—J. Brown, Aspatria, Cumberland, Farmer—F. Brain, Stanmore Place, High Street, Camden Town, Ivory Cutter—J. Burton, Macclesfield, Cheshire, Pig Dealer—T. Bradney, Wolverhampton, Attorney's Clerk—G. Buckingham, Beckford Row, Walworth Road, Bootmaker—J. Bennett, Bristol, Grocer—A. Butcher, late of Birmingham, Draper—T. Baker, Selby, Yorkshire, Potato Merchant—W. Cowell, Thirsk, Yorkshire, Horse Dealer—J. Child, late of Felton, Winford, Somersetshire, Farmer—J. Cushion, Stamford, Lincolnshire, Coal Merchant—D. Carruthers, Blackburn, Lancashire, Reed Maker—R. Cosnett, Wolverhampton, Market Gardener—W. Creasy, Tonbridge Wells, Butcher—J. Chick, Hereford, Baker—H. D. Davis, Cheltenham, Gloucestershire, Cattle Dealer—S. T. Dickinson, Stanley Street, Pimlico, Accountant—J. Ellis, Weston Street, King's Cross, Confectioner and Biscuit Baker—T. Fries, William Street, Regent's Park, General Commission Agent—W. R. Griffiths, Bristol, Horticultural Engineer—T. M. Harding, Stourbridge, Worcestershire, Apothecary—G. T. Hemphris, Birmingham, Eating House Keeper—H. Harper, Houghton-le-Spring, Durham, Publican—W. Horsfoot (known as Horsfool), Montagu Street, Russell Square, Grocer—J. Hussey, Bath, Beerhouse Keeper—J. Juson, jun., Clarendon Terrace, Maida Hill, Horse Keeper—J. Jones, Mold, Flintshire, Watch and Clock Maker—S. Johnson, Great Wigston, Leicestershire, Baker—S. Jones, Longton, Staffordshire, late Currier—W. Knowles, Bollington, Cheshire, Stone Mason—J. Keates, Willenhall, Staffordshire, Furniture Broker—J. Lockley, Wolverhampton, Tobacconist—A. M'Connell, Guildford, Surrey, Draper—R. Morgan, Usk, Monmouthshire, Innkeeper—R. Marr, Kingston-upon-Hull, Draper's Assistant—J. Moor, Kingston upon-Hull, Seed Merchant—W. Nicholls, Bromley, Middlesex, Pattern Maker—G. Newman, Tunbridge Wells, Kent, Auctioneer—W. Northam, Exeter, Whitesmith—J. Pickering and S. R. Sanders, Rotherham, Yorkshire, Railway Waggon Builders—H. F. Perry, Tatsfield, Surrey, Farmer—W. Pritchard, Derby, Tobacconist—John Page, Stucley Terrace, High Street, Camden Town, Baker—John Reynolds, Lower Belgrave Street, Pimlico, Licensed Victualler—Thomas Roebuck, Rusholme, near Manchester, Attorney's Clerk—W. Reid, Birmingham, Draper—F. Smith, Boston, Lincolnshire, Grocer—John Matthew Sykes (known as and using the name of John Sykes), Upper Clifton Street, Finsbury Market, Chair Maker—Y. Shorrock, Over Darwin, Lancashire, Licensed Victualler—A. Sax, late of Birmingham, Glass Dealer—R. Smith, Gloucester Street, Hoxton, Painter—C. Townsend, Birmingham, Surgeon—R. Taylor, Princes Street, Edgware Road, Licensed Victualler—J. Tanner, Weston super-Mare, Somersetshire, Cabinet Maker—B. Vickers, Charles Terrace, Victoria Park, Beershop Keeper—William Newman Vincent, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, Messenger to the Comptroller-General's Office of Exchequer—W. Wilson & S. Forster, Kingston-upon-Hull, Iron Founders—J. Wilson & W. Slater, Liverpool, Merchants—J. F. Wills, High Street, Whitechapel, Oil and Spice Merchants—E. A. Wade, Augustus Square, Regent's Park—J. Harrison Wilding, Bexley, Kent, late Corn Dealer—H. White, Bilston, Staffordshire, Plumber—J. H. Whittem, Menden, Warwickshire, late Draper's Assistant—C. Wilcombe, Doulting, Somersetshire, Baker—T. Wiggins, Guildford, Surrey, Bargeman—E. Wilson, Leicester, Carpenter—F. Young, Chapel Place, Cold Harbour Square, Camberwell, Literary Writer—T. Young, Eastbourne, Sussex, Market Gardener.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATION.—A. Tregarthen, Glasgow.

TUESDAY: August 18.—BANKRUPTS.—J. Atkinson, Bishopwearmouth, Durham, Plasterer—A. Autty, Daw Green, Dewsbury, Yorkshire, Grocer—J. Allan, Kendal, Westmoreland, late Innkeeper—T. Adams, Southampton, Licensed Victualler—J. Atkinson, Misson, Lincolnshire, late Innkeeper—W. Arnold, Cardiff, Grocer—J. Burgoine, Sheffield, Painter—J. Beard, Wolverhampton, Licensed Victualler—N. Brown, Manchester, late Commission Agent—C. E. Butler, Birmingham, Wire Worker—E. Bunning, Market Harborough, Leicestershire, Pastrycook—R. B. Coltman, Brewer Street, Golden Square, Manufacturer of Sewing Machines—M. Charlesworth, Overton, Yorkshire, Farmer—W. Coward, Grasmere, Westmoreland, late Licensed Victualler—G. Cavill, Cardiff, Miller's Foreman—Andrew Christy, Sun Court, Cornhill, Commission Agent—T. Collins, Silver Terrace, Millwall, Builder—James Dove, North Witham, Lincolnshire, Licensed Victualler—Charles Ellet, Wicken, Northamptonshire, Butcher—W. Eisenstein, Hatton Garden, Exporter of Watches—J. W. French, Manchester, Innkeeper—G. Furness, jun., Cannon Street, Provision Merchant—J. Farrall, Hanley, Staffordshire, Commission Agent—J. N. Galleux, Haberdasher's Place, Hoxton, Merchant—W. Hicks, Cardiff, Builder—C. Holden, Brunswick Grove, Cromer Street, Gray's-inn road, Undertaker—J. Harrison, Bradford, Yorkshire, Waste Dealer—J. High, Cold Harbour Street, Hackney Road, Machine Sawyer—E. Hill, North Nibley, Gloucestershire, Coal Dealer—T. H. Harris, Old Ford Bridge, Victoria Park, Beershop Keeper—H. Hewitt, Kildare Terrace, Bayswater, Lodging House Keeper—M. Hawkesworth, Leicester, late Licensed Victualler—G. Hodges, Green Street, Bethnal Green, Cheesemonger's Assistant—T. Higley, sen., Habberley, Shropshire, Wheelwright—H. Holland, Rusholme, near Manchester, Engine Packing Maker—G. Harris, Aldersgate St., Working Watch Jobber—M. Hood, Plaitford, Wiltshire, Wheelwright—A. D. Hopkins, Neath, Glamorganshire, Lime Burner—D. Jones, Manchester, Tailor—L. Jenkins, Mountain Ash, Glamorganshire, Joiner—W. Jackson, Coningsby, Lincolnshire, Farmer—G. D. Jones, Glasgow Terrace, Pimlico, Commercial Clerk—T. Johnson, late of Southampton Terrace, Lambeth, Attorney-at-law—W. Jefferies, Weston super-Mare, Shopkeeper—J. Linsdale, Birmingham, Coppersmith—F. Lister, Great Grimsby, Lincolnshire, Butcher—B. Lawrence, Great May's Buildings, St. Martin's Lane, Woollen Draper's Assistant—George Manchee, Southampton, Merchant's Clerk—Andrew M'Dowall, Southampton, Saddler—A. McMullin, Cockermouth, Cumberland, Watchmaker—William Medder, Liverpool—Thomas Masters, Park Street, Camden Town, Cook—Ennis M'Donald, Birmingham, Travelling Draper—C. Overall, Great Bardfield, Essex, Bootmaker—S. Pridgeon, Luton, Bedfordshire, Draper—T. Poultney, Coventry, Licensed Victualler—A. Riddit, Over Wallop, Hampshire, Baker and Grocer—E. Smith, Blackburn, Lancashire, Tinplate Worker—J. W. Smith, Birmingham, Trimming Manufacturer—E. Stern, Threadneedle Street, Ship Broker—J. Smith, Millbrook Road, Brixton—F. Sherrington, Charlotte Terrace, New Cut, Lambeth, Biscuit Baker—S. Starling, High Holborn, Hosier—A. S. Teagle, Redruth, Cornwall, Grocer—D. Taylor, York Road, Lambeth—T. G. Taylor, Cheltenham, Builder—T. Trendall, Brunswick Street, Grocer—J. Williams, Llanfair, Montgomeryshire, Saddler—J. T. West, Gillingham, Kent, Caulker in her Majesty's Dockyard at Chatham.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—S. Corrie, Dumfries, Coal Agent—A. Young, Glasgow, Tea Merchant.

Erratum: In the Bankrupts last week, for Friday, July 31, read Friday, August 7.

City Intelligence.

Money Market, Friday.—British Funds: Consols closed at $93\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ for Money, and $93\frac{1}{4}$ for Account; Three per Cents. Reduced, $93\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$; New Three per Cents., $93\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Bank Stock, 240 to 238; India Five per Cent. Stock, $108\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$; Ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1863, 100; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, $107\frac{5}{8}$; Exchequer Bills, 1*s.* dis.—Foreign: Chilian, $87\frac{7}{8}$; Danish, 1863, $91\frac{1}{4}$; Dutch Certificates, $102\frac{3}{4}$; Egyptian, 105; Ditto, second issue, $104\frac{1}{8}$; Greek Coupons, 16; Italian, $71\frac{3}{4}$; Mexican, $38\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; New Granada, $15\frac{5}{8}$; Ditto Two per Cents., 32; Portuguese, 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., $48\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Russian, 1862, $92\frac{3}{4}$ to 93; Spanish Passive, for Acct., $34\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{8}$; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., $12\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{7}{8}$; Turkish, 1854, for Acct., $93\frac{1}{4}$ to 93; Ditto 1858, for Acct., $72\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto, 1862, for Acct., $68\frac{7}{8}$ to 69; Venezuela, 1862, for Acct., $57\frac{1}{2}$.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued | £28,903,490 | Government Debt | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion | 14,253,490 |
| | | Silver Bullion | — |
| | £28,903,490 | | £28,903,490 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) | £11,088,426 |
| Rest | 3,449,113 | Other Securities | 18,317,701 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) | 6,126,668 | Notes | 7,582,160 |
| Other Deposits | 13,005,322 | Gold and Silver Coin | 827,662 |
| Seven days and other bills | 681,846 | | |
| | £37,815,949 | | £37,815,949 |

August 20, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

Funeral of Lord Clyde.—By desire of her Majesty's Government, the remains of Lord Clyde are to be buried to-day in Westminster Abbey, instead of Kensal Green. In accordance with his own desire, the funeral will be conducted in the simplest and most private manner. The procession will leave Berkeley Square at 11 o'clock.

The Metropolitan and City Police.—Sir Richard Mayne has addressed a letter to Sir George Grey on the comparative cost, work, and efficiency of the City and the Metropolitan police, from which the following are extracts:—

The expenditure for the metropolitan police, amounting to 400,389*l.*, divided by 6116, the number of the metropolitan police force in the metropolitan divisions, exclusive of those employed in the dockyard and war department stations, gives an annual cost of 65*l.* 9*s.* 3*d.* for each man, and the expenditure for the city police, amounting to 48,172*l.*, divided by 608, the number of the city police, gives an annual cost for each man of 79*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* The cost of each man is therefore 13*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, or 21 per cent. higher in the city police. The difference of cost thus shown arises partly from the higher rate of pay, and cost of clothing, equipments, &c., amounting to 7*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.* per man, and the remainder is from the greater expense of the establishment for the management of the city police. The additional cost thus caused to the city on the whole number of the city police amounts to 8370*l.* a year more than it would be if the pay, expenses, and management were according to the metropolitan scale. The additional cost to the metropolitan district on the whole number of the metropolitan police, if the pay, expenses, and management were according to the city scale, would be 84,196*l.* a year more than it now is, which sum may therefore be considered as so much saved by the more economical administration of the metropolitan establishment. The cost of the maintenance of the police, considered as a tax per head of the whole population of each district, is, in the metropolitan district, 2*s.* 10*d.*, and in the city, 8*s.* 4*d.*, or 194 per cent. higher in the city. The cost as a tax for each house, inhabited and uninhabited, is, in the metropolitan district, 19*s.* $0\frac{1}{2}$d.; in the city, 3*l.* 2*s.* 10*d.*, or more than 200 per cent. higher in the city. The cost of police, whether considered as a tax on the population or houses, being, as thus shown, so much higher in the city, it was asserted that the inhabitants of the city pay the higher rates for the greater security of person and property afforded them. In answer to the assertion that there is a greater security of person and property in the city, I have to refer to the criminal returns in the latest volume of the "Judicial Statistics" presented to Parliament for the year 1861; it is there shown that the number of crimes committed in the year was—in the city, 1029; in the metropolitan district, 11,203. The area of the city is little more than one square mile; the population, 111,784 persons, and the number of houses inhabited and uninhabited, 1479. The area of the metropolitan district is 571 square miles; the population, 3,110,684 persons; the number of houses inhabited and uninhabited, 461,848. The proportion of crimes to population is—in the city, 1 crime to 108 persons; in the metropolitan district, 1 crime to 277 persons. In this relation crimes in the city are upwards of 156 per cent. higher than in the metropolitan district. The proportion of crimes to inhabited houses is—in the city, 1 crime to 12 houses; in the metropolitan district, 1 crime to 37 houses. In this relation crimes in the city are upwards of 208 per cent. higher than in the metropolitan district. The proportion of number of persons apprehended to number of crimes committed is—in the city, 10 apprehensions to 15 crimes; in the metropolitan districts, 10 apprehensions to 28 crimes. But since, as it will be observed presently, half the number of persons apprehended by the city police were discharged by the magistrates, it is necessary to compare the number of efficient apprehensions, which resulted in bringing the offenders to trial, with the amount of crime in each district. This ratio was—in the city, 10 efficient apprehensions to 32 crimes; in the metropolitan district, 10 efficient apprehensions to 37 crimes. The proportion of prisoners discharged by magistrates in respect of those apprehended—by the city police, 1 in 2; by the metropolitan police, 1 in 4. If the whole value of a police were to be measured by the number of magisterial committals in comparison with the number of police apprehensions, it would appear from these figures that the number of persons improperly apprehended by the city police is double that so apprehended by the metropolitan police. The metropolitan police are concerned with much graver classes of crimes, or they get up their evidence more satisfactorily; of the suspected and accused persons apprehended by the city police less than one-half, of those apprehended by the metropolitan police fully three-fourths are committed for trial. The precise number of criminals committed for trial in the year was—in the city, 321; metropolitan district, 2997. Comparing the ratio of those figures to the respective populations of each district, it is found that such crimes are—in the city as 3; in the metropolitan district, 1. Crimes of a serious character, both those against persons and houses, as well as crimes of every description, are relatively to population and houses much higher in the city than in the metropolitan district. The inference is, that the metropolitan police are more efficient than the city police for the prevention of crime. The per centage of the persons apprehended who are committed for trial is much greater in the metropolitan districts than in the city. These results show that a greater number of persons are improperly apprehended in the city. The metropolitan police act with better discretion and more regard to the evidence against the persons apprehended. The metropolitan district comprises the metropolis, except the small portion called the city, besides suburban and rural districts, extending over an area of 571 square miles; the population and houses are largely increasing, whilst there is a constant decrease of population and houses in the city. The India House, with its great offices and storehouses, no longer exists. The metropolitan cattle market is removed from Smithfield to Islington, and a large city prison is built at Holloway. The establishment in the metropolitan district of branch banks of the Bank of England, and many others, all denote the progressive transfer even of quarters of wealth and business out of the city, and the consequently increasing duties and responsibilities of the metropolitan police. In the suburban and rural districts houses are greatly exposed to depredations from the facility with which criminals can get into gardens and enclosed grounds out of sight of the police, effect an entrance into the house undisturbed, and take an opportunity to escape without observation; also thefts of fruit and vegetables from gardens, poultry, &c., from detached buildings may be committed with comparative facility, and often with small means of detection. The railway stations, theatres, and numerous places of amusement open at night, the great assemblages at Ascot, Epsom, Hampton, and other races, fairs, &c., which afford opportunities for the commission of crime and escape of the criminals—none of these exist in the city. The city police are far more numerous in proportion to the extent of ground they have to cover than the metropolitan police, but it need scarcely be stated that the protection of any place is not to be estimated merely by the numbers of the police employed there. Under a combined system of action, and mutual observation maintained at other and even distant places, information communicated throughout an extensive district, and the additional numbers of police that may be occasionally brought to bear upon each point when required, protection may be given, and a degree of police efficiency obtained much greater than would be possible by the separate action of the police at the several places. Such combined action and intercommunication can never be effected between bodies of police under different authorities, without any real antagonism; and, indeed, with every desire for cordial co-operation on the part of the superior officers, which has at all times existed between those of the metropolitan and city police—it cannot be expected that either force will take much interest in the prevention of crime out of their own district. Another very important consideration arises in times of public commotion and on great public occasions. The numbers and organisation of the metropolitan police give the means of bringing together whatever amount of the civil power may be required to preserve the peace and maintain good order without the intervention of military or other extraordinary force. The small numbers of the city police do not admit of such arrangements, and the city authorities, therefore, if left to their own resources, are unable to provide for the public safety, and lamentable consequences have ensued. This was foreseen, and in some degree provided for by the City Police Act (2 and 3 Vict., cap. 94, sec. 24), by which the Secretary of State for the Home Department, on the application of the Lord Mayor, in any case of special emergency, may grant the assistance of the metropolitan police to act within the City; but the Lord Mayor can hardly judge of the actual necessity, or know the amount of assistance that ought to be applied for. Moreover, the principle of such dependence is unfair to the inhabitants of the metropolitan districts, who are thus at times (most frequently times of great general excitement) deprived of their proper protection, and for which they can receive no equivalent from the city force. I beg leave, in conclusion, to state that the existence of a detached police force in the heart of the metropolis is at variance with the principle on which the police is established in every other town in the kingdom. The continuance of such an extraordinary exception in the metropolis has, after lengthened inquiry and careful consideration, been condemned by two select committees of the House of Commons and by two royal commissions appointed to inquire into the state of the corporation of the City of London. On the last occasion, in the year 1854, the commissioners, the Right Hon. H. Labouchere (now Lord Taunton), the late Sir George C. Lewis, and Mr. Justice Patteson, in their report to the Queen, expressed their deliberate opinion that the incorporation of the city with the larger district by which it is surrounded is a measure recommended alike by considerations of efficiency and economy."

The Polish Legion.—Mr. Alfred Styles was again brought up before the magistrate of Bow Street on Tuesday, charged with a violation of the Foreign Enlistment Act in having attempted to raise an Anglo-Polish Legion in this country. No fresh evidence was adduced, and the magistrate, at the request of the counsel for the Russian Government, committed him for trial at the next Old Bailey Sessions. The prisoner reserved his defence. It is not yet known whether the English Government intend to take up the prosecution.

Foresters' Fete. — The annual festival of the Ancient Order of Foresters took place on Tuesday at the Crystal Palace. About 70,000 persons were present, many of whom had travelled all Monday night from Edinburgh, Glasgow, Liverpool, Manchester, Southampton, and indeed from almost every part of the country, in order to be present on the occasion, and a large number of them wore the dress of their order. The special business of the day began by the procession of the members in their uniform, and, after they had perambulated the ground they amused themselves with dancing, and other demonstrations. The great fountains were displayed in honour of the occasion, and in the evening Mr. Coxwell made an ascent in his balloon.

Omnibus Accident in Holborn.—On Thursday week a fatal accident occurred immediately in front of Furnival's Inn. Two omnibuses were racing towards Holborn Hill, when the foremost one stopped to take up a fare. The conductor ran across to the pavement, and before he could return the hinder one, attempting to cut in between him and the pavement, knocked him backwards with the pole, when the wheels passed over his head, killing him instantaneously, and scattering his brains and even his teeth into the kennel. The tragic character of the disaster was increased by the fact that deceased's wife and child were riding in his omnibus and witnessed his death. At the inquest on Monday some of the witnesses stated that deceased, whose omnibus was foremost, called to the driver to pull across the road so as to stop the omnibus which was racing with it, while he went to take up a passenger. Other witnesses gave their opinion that the driver of the hindmost omnibus must have seen deceased in the road, and might have pulled up before striking him. After a long consultation the jury were discharged, being nearly equally divided on the question whether their verdict should be Manslaughter against the driver or Accidental Death.

The Public Health. — The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London, in the week that ended Saturday, August 15, were 1320. The average number in the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62, omitting 720 deaths from cholera in 1854, and corrected for increase of population, was 1256; the present return is therefore 64 above the average. During the week the births of 979 boys and 930 girls, in all 1909 children, were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1806.

Provincial.

Godalming.—On Sunday night an attempt was made to burn down the church of St. Peter's, in this town. The attempt fortunately did not succeed, but it was found next morning that a quantity of partially-burnt paperhanging was lying about in the aisles, and that several of the doors of the pews were much scorched. Suspicion fell on a man named Hackman, who had been seen near the spot on the previous night, and on searching his lodgings it was found that the paperhanging which covered his room had been stripped off in several places, and corresponded in pattern to the unburnt fragments lying about in the church. He was consequently apprehended, and, after being examined by the magistrates, was remanded.

Halifax.—Mr. Marshall Wood has received a commission from the Mayor of Halifax to execute marble busts of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, to be placed in the Town Hall, in commemoration of the recent royal visit.

Maidstone.—The execution of Alfred Holden the soldier, who was convicted at the late assizes of having in a fit of delirium tremens murdered his infant child, and of Alfred Eldridge, a labourer, who was convicted of the murder of Richard Steed, a letter carrier, with whom he formerly lodged, took place on Thursday in front of the county gaol, in the presence of about 6000 persons. Both prisoners confessed their guilt, and acknowledged the justice of their sentence.

Manchester.—At the weekly meeting of the Central Executive Committee on Monday, the Earl of Derby in the chair, Mr. Maclure reported there was a balance in the bank of 314,596*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.*, and that 513*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.* had been received during the week. Mr. Farnall's report stated that on the 8th inst. there was an increase of 91 in the number of persons receiving parochial relief in the 27 unions as compared with the number relieved in the previous week, but as the provisions of the Public Works Act will shortly come into operation, he anticipated that a great number of able-bodied unemployed operatives would soon be removed both from the poor rate and the charitable funds. Colonel Wilson Patten inquired whether measures were taken in the places applying for loans to show eventually what number of men had been employed upon public works and the number taken off the relief committee books. Mr. Farnall said he should take care to see these men at work, and to report to this committee as to the number of previously unemployed operatives who were included amongst them. Mr. Goodair, in reply to an inquiry from Mr. Farnall as to the cause of the increase of 501 persons in receipt of parochial relief in Preston, said that during the past week two mills had been reduced to short-time working, and that the local relief committees were throwing off their books a certain number of persons who might possibly be finding their way to the books of the guardians. In answer to the Chairman, he also said that in the present state of the markets for cotton and manufactured goods it was impossible to predict with any degree of certainty how long these mills might continue on short time. Mr. Rawlinson stated that the following towns had sent in applications, accompanied by plans and estimates, for loans:—Blackburn, 78,300*l.*, for main sewers, cleansing river, deepening, forming, and paving the beck through the town, forming and paving streets, and other works; a further sanction to be asked for during the winter. Preston, 28,500*l.*, to form public parks and recreation grounds, complete sewers and streets, paving and repairing the footpaths on the banks of the Ribble, and other works. Dukinfield, 2000*l.* for main sewers and other works. These applications had been reported upon, and sanctions would be granted. Blackburn would have a first instalment of 10,000*l.*, and additional instalments as the work proceeded. Preston would have the same; and Dukinfield would have the 2000*l.* asked for, as it was part of 10,000*l.* to be asked for when the plans could be got ready. Denton is preparing plans for main sewers; and Wigan has given notice for 5000*l.* Bolton was about to apply for a sanction to borrow 100,000*l.* for water works extension, cleansing and improving river, sewering, forming, paving, and completing streets, recreation grounds extension, markets extension, new town hall. The plans and specifications were now in course of preparation. Stockport was about to make application for 50,000*l.* for making sewers and streets, cleansing river, and other works. Most of the boroughs and towns in the district would apply for loans as soon as plans and estimates could be prepared. The Chairman asked if the public works carried out under the new Act in the places named would absorb a large amount of unskilled labour. Mr. Rawlinson replied that they would. At the present moment something like 550 unskilled labourers were employed at Blackburn. At Bolton a large number were also at work. In Dukinfield public works had been commenced, in anticipation of obtaining a loan for the purpose of finding employment for applicants to the relief committee there. All the men were employed in gangs, and paid for measured work. The Chairman suggested that in the event of a larger amount than the million and a half at present appropriated to public works being applied for and granted, the Poor Law Board might exercise a discretion in limiting its application to such works as would employ the largest amount of unskilled labour. Mr. Farnall said he had no doubt that, under the circumstances mentioned, some such discretion would be exercised. Grants were then made to various towns to the amount of 3955*l.*, including 1000*l.* to Blackburn. The Chairman asked Mr. Rawlinson what steps had been taken there to put the new Public Works Act into operation? Mr. Rawlinson replied that Blackburn was the first place to accept the provisions of the Act; and as regarded the preparation of the necessary plans and specifications and the carrying out all the other preliminary details, that town might serve as a model for the rest of Lancashire, for nothing could be more complete and perfect. He begged also to remark that in Blackburn they had forestalled the Act, in setting men to work for wages in the way provided for in the Act itself. They certainly deserved the warmest praise of the committee and of the country.

Portsmouth.—On Saturday afternoon the Portsmouth and Ryde steamboat, Her Majesty, ran on the Coles Rocks, off Bembridge, in fine weather and open day. She had started from Ryde at noon for a trip round the island, with about 50 excursionists. The water was perfectly smooth, and all went well until she neared Bembridge Point, when, with an open, safe, and perfectly well known passage on either side of the ledge, she was steered directly on the Coles Rocks, striking heavily and knocking a hole in her bottom, which soon put out her fires. There was time however to run her on the sands before she filled, and the passengers were taken off by a pilot boat without injury. This is the second boat which has met with a similar mischance on the coast of the Isle of Wight during the present season. The Challenger grounded on the rocks off Ventnor a few weeks back, and became a total wreck, happily in that case also without injury to passengers.

Ryde.—The great sailing match of the Royal Victoria Yacht Squadron from Ryde to Cherbourg took place on Tuesday, when the prize was won by Mr. Broadwood's schooner Galatea, which accomplished the distance in 5 hours 21 minutes, beating The Shark, Marina, Christabel, Julia, Albatross, Gleam, Fernandé, Audax, and Miranda. The Commodore's schooner Aline took only 4 hours 48 minutes, but she was not entered in the race. The American yacht Gipsy was also not in the race, but came in ninth of the squadron, performing the distance in 6 hours 22 minutes. It blew very heavy from the time the yachts left the Isle of Wight until their arrival in Cherbourg Roads.

Wolverhampton.—A terrible crime has been committed in this town. About five or six weeks ago, a young man and woman, who seemed to obtain a livelihood by making and selling forks and skewers of iron wire, took a small house in the court called the barracks. The woman appeared to be employed in selling the goods, and the man remained mostly in the house. About three weeks ago the woman locked up the house and told the neighbours that they were going into the country for a time. Last week, the neighbours, being annoyed by an offensive smell from the house, broke open the door, and found in one of the upstair rooms the body of a man lying on a mattress on the floor in such an advanced stage of decomposition that it was literally swarming with maggots. The body was blackened and the sheets and mattresses were discoloured, not simply by the progress of decomposition, but by what appeared to have been hot gas tar poured upon it during life. With this blood was mixed on the sheets, the mattress, and the floor, and was also found apart from the tar. One eye had been gouged out, and lay upon the cheek. The nose, jaw, and thumb were broken, and there seemed to be an incised wound on the thigh and other parts of the body. The murdered man had on a shirt and waistcoat; and his head was covered with the bed clothes fastened over the face, tight enough to secure suffocation if death had not previously taken place. He was subsequently identified as a young man called William Williams, who had lived with a woman calling herself Sparrow. A few days after the man's body had been discovered, the body of a woman was found dead in an empty house at Dudley with a half pint bottle of laudanum by her side, and from inquiries which have been made by the police there is no doubt that the corpse was that of the woman Sparrow, but who appears to have been a widow named Steadman, whose father lives in Birmingham. Her husband died in that town about eight years ago, leaving her a widow at the early age of 22. After the death of her husband she went to Liverpool, and has since lived with the man she is supposed to have murdered.

Ireland.

Conclave of Roman Catholic Bishops.—The Roman Catholic bishops last week held a conference in Dublin which lasted five days. Their deliberations embraced the land question, emigration, the Poor-law, and its administration, the education question, the Protestant Church Establishment, and the Civil Service. Ecclesiastical discipline and education, however, were the chief matters under consideration. The completion of the University was one of the most important matters discussed. The building is to be erected at a cost of 100,000*l.*, the collection of which is to be extended over five years, and appeals are to be made in Great Britain, in America, and in Australia, all to be done under the sanction of the Bishops of the respective countries. All the diocesan and middle-class schools connected with the Roman Catholic Church in Ireland are already affiliated with the Catholic University, and are thus brought directly under the control of the central authority in Dublin. The primary schools remain to be brought into the same condition of dependence upon the Church. This it is proposed to effect, not by employing the National Schools, but by training the National teachers. The parish priests have been already forbidden to send their teachers to be trained in the model schools of the National Board, and now the prelates have decided on establishing "Catholic training colleges for teachers, masters, and mistresses." The staff of the Catholic University will be made available for this purpose, and the schools of the Christian Brothers in Dublin and the Roman Catholic parochial schools are to serve for imparting the art of teaching, and all that is wanted is a domestic establishment in which the teachers can be lodged.

ANOTHER IRISH AGITATION.—A "monster" meeting of Irish Nationalists was convened on Saturday, on the summit of Slievenamon, in the county of Tipperary, "to hear the suggestions of several patriots on the wrongs of this grand old country, and the best means to restore to her the blessing of nationality." The weather was unfavourable, and this circumstance no doubt prevented many who would otherwise have attended. There were about 700 present, chiefly of the labouring class. Mr. C. J. Kickham, of Mullinahone, one of the contributors to the Nation during the repeal agitation, was called to the chair, and addressed his "brother Nationalists" at some length, calling on them to imitate the example of other oppressed people, and to woo the goddess Freedom in the only way in which she ever could be won. He might be told it was dangerous to do this, but the goal could never be reached without sacrifice and suffering. He hoped that ere long, upon that spot they would again assemble with their tried and trusted chief, O'Mahony, at their head. Mr. Gill, proprietor of the Tipperary Advocate, moved a resolution to discountenance parliamentary agitation as senseless and illusory. He said that Lord Palmerston did not care if 20 Irish landlords were shot per day—a sentiment which elicited loud cheers and cries of "Down with the landlords!" and "there would want to be more of them shot." The meeting was subsequently addressed in a nearly similar strain by a Mr. Finnerty, from North Tipperary, who said they did not want aristocrats, but men whose hands were hardened by manly labour, whose hearts were stout and brave, and whose hands would not be blistered by the pike-handle. But Irishmen should remember that no nation ever earned independence without spilling more or less blood. If after years of petitioning the British Parliament; if after years sending representatives and misrepresentatives to Parliament they had won nothing, how was it to be won? They were unarmed, but scythes could be turned to some use if they provoked them too far. He concluded by calling on Nationalists to rally round the green flag till they planted it for ever above the red on the highest parapets of Dublin. The resolution having been put by the chairman, was carried by acclamation. A tricolor flag, bearing the harp without the crown, was displayed during the meeting from an elevation called Meagher's Rock.

THE CONFEDERATE WAR STEAMER FLORIDA was seen off Queenstown on Monday, when she sent ashore three persons by a fishing boat. On Wednesday afternoon the Cork steamer Falcon passed the Florida lying to off Tuskar. Three hours afterwards the Falcon passed a large American ship, outward bound from Liverpool, running right into the track of the Florida.

Scotland.

THE FREE CHURCH AND THE CHANNEL FLEET.—At a meeting of the Commission of the Free Church General Assembly, held at Edinburgh on Wednesday week, under the presidency of Dr. Candlish, as moderator, a discussion took place with reference to the proceedings of the Channel fleet while off the coast of Scotland. The discussion was introduced by the Rev. Dr. Begg, who first called attention to what took place last year, when there were offensive scenes of Sabbath desecration in the east; but this was thought to be purely inadvertent, since on application to the admiral in the Clyde not to allow visitors on Sundays, he acquiesced, and no such scenes occurred in the west. A similar application was made this year by the Sabbath Alliance of Scotland, but it had not been complied with. Admiral Dacres wrote from Sunderland that Divine service would be regularly performed on board her Majesty's ships, and no irregularity would be permitted to desecrate the day. No visiting would be permitted during Divine service; but, said the admiral, "my orders are to give every facility to the inhabitants in the vicinity of the ports I call at to visit the squadron; and, although they will not be specially invited to do so on Sunday more than on other days, I see no reason to fear a greater amount of desecration of the day than will happen in officers and others landing from the squadron, which I do not suppose the memorialists will endeavour to prevent." Upon receipt of this reply a communication was addressed to the Duke of Somerset, as First Lord of the Admiralty, who replied on July 31, that he was "not prepared to lessen the facilities afforded to the inhabitants of the ports at which the Channel fleet touches, of seeing the ships of which it is composed, by making any new regulations to prevent her Majesty's ships from being visited by the public on Sundays." Well, then, continued Dr. Begg, it would appear that the responsibility of opening the ships on the Sabbath day rests with the Admiralty; that they have issued orders under which the admiral acts, and that these ships shall be thrown open on the Sabbath, as well as on other days, as objects of curiosity to the general community. I wish the commission further to understand how this arrangement has been carried out. In the letter of Admiral Dacres he states that Divine worship is performed on Sabbath, and evidently hints that, Divine worship being performed, the Sabbath is at an end, and that the ordinary processes of sight-seeing may go on uninterruptedly with perfect propriety. Now, a fair interpretation even of that would have been that Divine service would be conducted in the fleet at the usual hours of worship in this country, and that only after these hours of worship had passed away would the fleet be thrown open. But what has been the fact? The worship—whatever worship there was—seems to have been hurried over at a very early part of the day, because the newspapers inform us that these ships were thrown open at 11 o'clock—that is to say, that they were thrown open to the public at the very time that the ordinary worship of the Sabbath commences. Of course, even had it been otherwise, there would have been no real excuse. We do not hold the idea of what are called "canonical hours." We hold that the Lord's day is just a day of twenty-four hours, like any other day of the week, and that it is equally a desecration to violate the Sabbath after public worship as at any other time. But here is the monstrous nature of the arrangement as it stands, that at 11 o'clock the ships of the fleet were thrown open, crowds of people flocked towards the shores of Leith, steamboats plied from the pier to the ships—these steamboats loaded with multitudes of people; and Leith was more crowded, it is said, than at almost any other time, and the whole of that day after 11 o'clock was desecrated by this process of sight-seeing. Now, this comes to be a very important question in many aspects of it. It seems to me a most important question even in reference to the government of the country. It is a most melancholy thing to find any connected with the government of the country acting as ringleaders in inducing the people to violate the Lord's Day. No doubt, men say, "If people choose to violate the Lord's Day, how can they be hindered?" But that is not the question. If people violate the Lord's Day the sin is with themselves; but if the government of the country hold out temptations to the people to violate the Lord's Day, the sin will rest to a large extent with them. It seems to me a most solemn consideration that the rulers of this country should take part—if the Admiralty are acting under the authority of the Government, which I presume they are, for I could mention another fact to show that the Government themselves have refused to interfere—I say it is a most solemn thing that they should violate, and teach the people to violate a part of the Divine law. It is a very important question what this commission ought to do, and it seems to me that there are two things specially incumbent on us—the one is to instruct our special committee to use their utmost influence to bring before the Government the important question which has thus been raised, and to endeavour to induce them so to alter their regulations that these ships shall not be used as places of sight-seeing on the Sabbath; and on the other hand it seems to me that all our ministers, especially in those places at which the fleet may touch, should be urged to deal faithfully with the people in regard to the duty and the privilege of observing the day of God. After some discussion the commission instructed the Sabbath committee to take such steps as they might think expedient in the way of communicating with presbyteries and ministers on the subject to abate the evils complained of.

Sporting.

CRICKET.—On the 12th inst. a match was played in the Home Park, Windsor, between 11 players selected from the firms of Messrs. Beck, Henderson, & Child, Adelphi, and Messrs. Carter & Co., Holborn, and a like number in the employment of Mr. Turner, Slough. At noon the "Metropolitans" took possession of the wickets, from which they were dislodged for a total of 36 runs. The Nursery hands then took their innings, and were all got rid of for 45 runs, or 9 ahead of their opponents. An adjournment then took place, after which the London players took their second innings, and made but 31 runs. This left the home party but 23 runs to win the match, which they obtained with the loss of but one wicket. At 7 o'clock some 40 persons sat down to a substantial supper at an inn in Eton, and, an agreeable day having been passed, it was fervently hoped by both sides that it would be a matter of annual recurrence.

Law.

HOME CIRCUIT: CROYDON. — The Hammersmith Railway Accident.—Ogden v. Bummens.—This was an action brought under Lord Campbell's Act, by the widow of a labouring man, to recover compensation for the loss of her husband, whose death was alleged to have been caused by the negligence of the defendant. The defendant was the contractor for building a viaduct at Hammersmith for the West-end Junction Railway, and the husband of the plaintiff was a labourer employed on the works, and at the time he lost his life was earning 1*l.* a week wages. The accident occurred in November last, when several of the arches suddenly fell, and deceased and four or five others were killed. The cause of the accident appeared to be that one of the arches had been built over a swell ditch, which had been filled up, and had given away and dragged the others along with it; but it was clearly established that it was impossible by any foresight to have provided against such an occurrence, and that the defect in the foundation was not discovered until after the accident. It was also proved that the best materials had been used in making the arches, and that every ordinary care and caution had been exercised to erect the work in a solid and proper manner. It also transpired that the defendant had paid the funeral expenses of deceased, and had given plaintiff 10*l.* The jury returned a verdict for the defendant, accompanied with an expression of sympathy for the widow, and with the hope that something would be done for her. Baron Bramwell said he concurred with the jury in a feeling of sympathy for the poor woman who had lost her husband under such circumstances, but as to anything being done for her he did not see who was to be called upon to do it. The defendant certainly ought not to be looked to with that object, and now that the case was concluded he had no hesitation in expressing his opinion that there was no ground for the action, and that it ought never to have been brought against him.

NORTHERN CIRCUIT: LIVERPOOL.—The Liverpool Murders.—Jose Maria Alvarez, a Spanish sailor, was indicted for the wilful murder of James Harrison, on the 12th May. It appeared that Harrison was in company with two other men, Cohen and Howell, who all spent some time in a public-house. The men were not drunk, and were walking along Old Hall Street, when Cohen jostled against the prisoner. He turned round and apologised, but the prisoner, who appeared to be in a great rage, drew his dagger and stabbed Cohen twice, once in the breast and once in the back. When Cohen cried out that he was stabbed, the deceased rushed upon Alvarez with the intention of seizing him, and a scuffle ensued, during which deceased received two wounds, one in the stomach proving fatal. The prisoner made his escape, and as he passed some women, he took hold of the apron which one wore, and wiped his knife upon it. The women called him a villain, but he took no notice of them, and on reaching his lodgings, told his landlord that he had stabbed an Englishman, thinking that the men were going to kill him. He afterwards left the house, but was speedily arrested and identified. The defence was that the prisoner, ignorant of English usages and language, might have been under the impression that deceased had some design upon him, which it was necessary to resent, and that thus the crime would be reduced to manslaughter. The jury after a brief consultation, returned a verdict of guilty, but with a strong recommendation to mercy, on the ground of the prisoner being a foreigner. Mr. Justice Blackburn passed sentence of Death in the usual form, stating that the recommendation of the jury should be forwarded to the proper authorities; but from the nature of the crime he would not advise the prisoner to entertain any hopes that the recommendation would be carried into effect. The sentence was translated to the prisoner by the Spanish Consul; and the prisoner, who did not seem to be at all moved, then left the dock.—Benjamin Thomas, 24, was indicted for the murder of Mary Rowlands, the wife of a captain, at Liverpool. On the 8th of May the prisoner requested deceased, with whom he lodged, to follow him down stairs, as he wished to speak to her privately. Accordingly deceased went down into the cellar, but instead of the prisoner speaking to her, he dashed her brains out with a potato crusher. A woman named Benbow hearing a noise went down stairs, when she also was furiously attacked by the prisoner. A woman named Evans likewise went down stairs, when the prisoner chased her into the yard, and he was then taken into custody. The only reason assigned for this outrage was that the deceased woman wished to get Thomas shipped, as he had received an advance note, and in accordance with articles was bound to go on board ship or render himself liable to imprisonment. The woman Benbow was dreadfully wounded about the head, and was for a long time in the hospital. Evans also sustained injuries from the violence of the prisoner, but they were of a less serious character. During the trial the prisoner at intervals broke out into fits of great violence, and it required the exertions of three or four turnkeys to keep him from scrambling over the side of the dock. The barristers in front of the dock fled to the right and left, evidently anticipating that their wigs might be sacrificed to the frenzy of the accused. At length the prisoner's legs being tied and his hands manacled, the proceedings went on with some degree of order. A surgeon, who was examined, and who had seen the man in prison, said that he believed he was sane, though his brain appeared to be imperfectly developed. One of the turnkeys, who was called as a witness, said that the prisoner, when in gaol, frequently resisted the attendants with great violence, and positively objected to the washing process. The defence was that the prisoner when he committed the murder was labouring under an insane impulse. The jury found him Guilty, and Mr. Justice Blackburn passed sentence of death in the usual form. Murder on the High Seas.—John Lloyd, a man of colour, and a native of Madras, was indicted for the wilful murder of Benjamin Jack on the high seas, on the 11th October. The prisoner and deceased were seamen on board the Ethiopian, and on the day in question were at New Calabar. The deceased, who was a West Indian negro, and a very quarrelsome fellow, commenced an altercation with the prisoner relative to the supply of grog, and would have struck him, but the prisoner said, "Ben, if you strike me, I will put a mark upon you that you will not get rid of." After this the prisoner armed himself with a knife, which he obtained from the pantry, and deceased tried to take it from him. A struggle ensued, and deceased received his death wound. One of the witnesses deposed that when the prisoner was leaving the pantry he was told to be cautious what he did, and that he replied, "I know very well what I am about, I am not going to do anything." The same witness said the prisoner had stated in conversation that he had stabbed deceased in self-defence; that Jack had his hand on his throat and was pressing upon his breast; and that he thought his own life was in danger. The Jury found the prisoner Guilty of Manslaughter, and he was sentenced to 10 years' penal servitude. Wife Murder.—John Hughes was indicted for the wilful murder of Mary Ann Hughes, his wife, at Liverpool, on the 28th of April. The prisoner, who was a shoemaker, was addicted to habits of intemperance, during which he had been accustomed to ill-use and threaten deceased, who was a sober, industrious woman, and conducted a small greengrocery business for the support of her husband and herself. The prisoner had been drinking excessively for several days prior to the 26th of April, when his wife refused to give him any more money. He then struck her, and said he would be "hanged for her yet." He continued his course of intemperance and ill-usage daily up to the morning of the 28th of April, when he struck her twice on the back of her neck while she was asleep. The second blow threw her off the bed upon the floor. He then jumped upon her and kicked her several times. She was found lying on the spot completely paralyzed, and after lingering two days she died. A post mortem examination showed that the fifth cervical vertebra had been dislocated and fractured, causing pressure on the spinal cord, from which paralysis ensued. There were contusions and other marks of injury from the prisoner's violence. The defence was that the prisoner having been drinking for some time, was in such a state of excitement that he had no deliberate intention to inflict the injuries. The jury, after a short deliberation, returned a verdict of Guilty, upon which the prisoner fainted. Mr. Justice Blackburn passed sentence of Death in the usual form, holding out no hope of mercy. DURHAM.—Marley v. Thompson and Another.—This was an action for a nuisance, consisting in the erection of a patent brick manufactory, within 100 yards of the plaintiff's house. The plaintiff was a coal agent, who in 1844 went to reside in his present house, near to the railway station at Darlington; and the defendants were manufacturers, who were engaged in many undertakings in the town, and, among others, in the patent brick manufactory in question, which was established in 1853. The plaintiff enjoyed his house undisturbed up to that time, and, what was of much importance to him, for he was a great horticulturist and amateur, especially in Tulips, having as many as 2500 flowering bulbs of tulips in his garden, worth 150*l.*; but, after the completion of the works in 1854, he began to experience gradually increasing detriment and discomfort until in June of last year, when the weather was foggy, the nuisance arising from the noxious smoke became so intense that the plaintiff and his wife were unable to sleep, and the lady shortly after became insensible. In the course of three or four days all vegetation in the garden was destroyed, everything crumbling to pieces under the touch, and the bees, of which the plaintiff was also an amateur, were lying about dead in thousands. The doctor ordered that the plaintiff's wife should be immediately removed from the house, and she had never been able to return to it again. Various cases were quoted to show that the plaintiff was entitled under them to recover in respect of these injuries, especially as the brickworks might have been put in a much less injurious situation in the same district, and the coal used in them contained such a percentage of sulphur as to render it totally unfit for any heating purposes whatever, and was burnt in ovens capable of great improvements, partly, indeed, carried into effect since the present action was commenced. The cross-examination of the plaintiff went to show that there were a great many other foundries, brick-kilns, and works in the neighbourhood, and that the plaintiff was very fortunate in being driven, with his wife, to pleasant country quarters from such a smoky place as Darlington; and it was suggested that the extraordinary destruction in the garden in June 1862 was caused by blight, independent of the brickworks. It was, however, difficult to account for the death of the bees under this theory. Evidence was called on behalf of defendants to prove that the district in which plaintiff's house stood was used, generally, for manufacturing purposes, and that the works in question were not more injurious than those surrounding them, and were properly conducted. The jury found a verdict for plaintiff, with 10*l.* damages.

Oxford Circuit: Gloucester.—Attempting to Upset a Railway Train.—James Weins was charged with maliciously placing two stones on the Bourton-on-the-Water railway, with intent to endanger the safety of the passengers travelling on the said railway. The offence was clearly proved. There could be no doubt that the prisoner placed the stones on the line, but he declared that he had no idea that the act would endanger the lives of passengers. Mr. Justice Byles, in sentencing him to eight months' imprisonment, said that if the malice had been proved he should have sentenced the prisoner to penal servitude for life. Garotte Robbery.—Thomas Jones and George Smith were convicted of a garotte attack on John Suter, and stealing 28s. from his person. The prosecutor was very badly used, and the prisoners being convicted were sentenced to seven years' penal servitude, his lordship remarking that had the offence not been committed before the Act was passed authorising corporal punishment for this class of offences, he should have sentenced the prisoners to be whipped. More Garotters.—Two men, named Phillips and Adams, were charged with garotting William King, and robbing him of 2*l.* 8s. in money, a gold watch, and valuables to the amount of 15*l.* Mr. King was returning home to Bristol, when, on passing under an archway, he was attacked by two men. He called out "murder" three times, and was as often struck in the bowels by his assailants. As however he could not satisfactorily identify Adams he was acquitted, but Phillips was convicted. The prisoners were then charged with a similar attack on John Harding at Bristol, and robbing him of his watch. In this case there was no doubt about the identity of both the prisoners, who were convicted. Sentence deferred.

Central Criminal Court.—Forgery of Austrian Notes.—Peter Rinaldi, 33, an Italian, was indicted for having feloniously made on glass a copy of a promissory note for the payment of one gulden, Austrian currency, contrary to the statute. It appeared that on the 18th of June last the prisoner sent to the premises of Mr. Maguire, a photographic artist in Aldgate, and after having had his portrait taken engaged Mr. Maguire to make copies of Austrian bank-notes. Mr. Maguire at once communicated with the police, and ultimately the prisoner was apprehended. The case was fully proved but as the forgery was done by means of photography the prisoner's counsel set up the defence that forgery by means of photography was not contemplated, and therefore not prohibited by the statute. The judge reserved the point, and as the prisoner was found Guilty on the facts, sentence was deferred.

Obituary.

Field-Marshal Lord Clyde, G.C.B., K.S.I., died on Friday afternoon at Government House, Chatham, after a long illness. Lord Clyde, better known as Sir Colin Campbell, was the son of a working man at Glasgow, but the name of Campbell was that of a maternal uncle, and not his by right of birth. His father, John M'Liver, was apprenticed to a Glasgow cabinet-maker, and his son Colin—born in 1792—at the close of the last century might have been seen running about the workshop. Mr. M'Liver lived till December, 1858, his son having been for six months previously Lord Clyde, a Grand Cross of the Bath, a D.C.L. of Oxford, a general in the army, with orders of the highest rank in France, Sardinia, and Turkey, and decorated with innumerable medals and clasps. He entered the army in 1808, and became lieutenant in the following year. He served in the Walcheren expedition, at Barossa, at Tarifa, at the relief of Tarragona, at Corunna under Sir John Moore, at Osma, Vittoria, and at the relief of the posts in the valley of Malaga. He was severely wounded at the passage of the Bidassoa, a musket shot passing through his thigh, and at the assault on St. Sebastian in 1813 he was again twice wounded. The Duke of Wellington afterwards appointed him his aide-de-camp, and repeatedly urged his claims to promotion on the Duke of York. But in spite of the Duke's patronage he was still a captain at the close of the Peninsular War. He was then sent to America, and served with the Rifles in Canada and Demerara. He was not gazetted a major till 1825, and it was not till 1832 that, while not in active service, he became a lieutenant colonel. In 1842 he served with the 98th Regiment in China, and took part in the capture of Chin-Kiang-foo and in the operations near Nankin. Towards the end of that year he became a full colonel. His first Indian career commenced about 1844, when he led the 98th regiment at Maharajpore. In the Punjaub war in 1848-9 he commanded the third division at Ramnugger, at the passage of the Chenab, at the affair of Sadoolapore, at Chillianwallah, and at Goojerat. He next commanded at Peshawur, and against the hill tribes, forced the Kohat Pass, and subdued the Ootmankail and Ranazai tribes. He was created a K.C.B. and received the thanks of Parliament for these Indian services. On the outbreak of the Crimean war in 1854, while only a colonel, Sir Colin Campbell was appointed to command the Highland Brigade, which, with a brigade of Guards, formed the Duke of Cambridge's division. He shortly afterwards became a major-general. At the Alma he and his Highlanders were eminently distinguished by their bravery and impetuosity. At Balaklava he ranged the 93d Highlanders into what has become historically famous as "the thin red line" of single file, and successfully repulsed the successive charges of the Russian cavalry. On the retirement of Sir James Simpson from the command of the army of the Crimea, which had devolved upon him after Lord Raglan's death, it was supposed that Sir Colin Campbell would have succeeded him, but he was again passed over in favour of a Colonel of the Guards who had never seen a shot fired by an enemy till he led up his division at the Alma. Sir Colin Campbell feeling that, after 40 years of service in the field, this slight was more than he could be fairly called on to tolerate, returned to England, and it was only at the request of the Queen herself that he resumed his command in the Crimea. At the close of the campaign, which took place soon afterwards, he was made a Lieut.-General for his services, created a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath, a D.C.L. of Oxford, Knight of the Legion of Honour, of the Sardinian order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus, and the Turkish order of the Medjidie, 1st class. He also received the Turkish medal, the Crimean medal, with clasps for Alma, Balaklava, and Sebastopol, the war medal with five clasps, and was nominated military aide-de-camp to the Queen. In 1856 his fellow-citizens of Glasgow voted him a sword of the value of 250 guineas, and the Corporation of London presented him with the freedom of the city. In 1857, on the outbreak of the Sepoy rebellion, Sir Colin Campbell was sent out with full powers to save India. He was nominated Commander-in-Chief on the 3d July, 1857, requested only 24 hours for preparation, and landed in Calcutta on the 29th August. He arrived at Alumbagh in November; and, after occupying Dilkooshah and Martiniere, hastened to the relief of Lucknow. He succeeded in relieving that garrison on the 17th November, but the English were forced to retire five days afterwards. He recaptured it, however, on the 4th March, but was wounded in the siege. In 1857 he fought the famous battle of Cawnpore, defeated the Gwalior Contingent, at Futtehghur defeated another body of rebels, marched to Lucknow once more—one of the grandest marches on record—and finally reconquered the Doab, Rohilcund, and Oude. For these eminent services he was created a peer, as Lord Clyde, in 1858; received the thanks of both Houses of Parliament in 1859, with a pension of 2000*l.* a year; and was nominated a Knight of the Star of India in 1861. In May, 1858, he was appointed colonel of the 93d Highlanders; and in June, 1860, colonel of the Coldstream Guards. He was also honorary colonel of the London Scottish Volunteers, and more than once evinced his interest in the volunteer movement by reviewing volunteers on a grand scale at Brighton and elsewhere as the representative of the Horse Guards. He was much shaken by the death of Lord Herbert of Lea, and has since that time been gradually breaking up. His lordship was never married, and his title and honours have died with him.

Vice-Admiral Octavius Vernon-Harcourt died at his residence, Swinton Park, near Masham, on Friday. He was a younger son of the Right Rev. Dr. Vernon, late Archbishop of York, who took the surname of Harcourt by royal sign manual in 1831, on coming to the estate of the last Earl Harcourt. He was born in 1793, and was consequently in his 70th year. He entered the Navy as midshipman in 1806, and in the following year witnessed the surrender of Alexandria, while he was afterwards employed in boat service up the Nile. After assisting at the blockade of Toulon, and at the destruction of two French ships-of-the-line—the Robuste and the Lion—in 1809, he served until he received his first commission, in 1814, when he served on shore with the troops on the south-east coast of Spain, and did duty in the batteries at the siege of Tarragona. His subsequent services were in the Mulgrave, 74, in which he captured a martello tower at Piombino, and brought out or destroyed a convoy anchored under it. In the Amelia, 38, he served at the blockade of Elba, and after the battle of Waterloo remained on half-pay until 1818. He subsequently served on the West India station, whence he brought home, in 1827, upwards of a million dollars. He had been on half-pay for some time, and attained his rank as vice-admiral in 1861. In 1838 he married the daughter of Mr. W. Gater, and relict of Mr. Danby, of Swinton Park, Yorkshire. He built, at his own expense, a very handsome church and parsonage, at Healey, near Masham, which he amply endowed, and another church at Brentford, Devon, the endowment of which he considerably augmented. He also restored at his own cost the parish church at Masham, besides contributing largely to the funds for the restoration of several other churches in the midland and northern counties. He contributed munificently to the Riddell Memorial Mechanics' Institute, the Masham Grammar School and Free School, the Infant School and Free School at Kelbank, and to other local charities.

Sir Angus Campbell, Bart., died on the 13th inst., at Dunstaffnage Castle, Argyllshire, in his 36th year. He was the eldest son of Sir Donald Campbell, who obtained the baronetcy in 1836 for his civil services, and was Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward's Island from 1847 to 1850. He succeeded his father in 1850, having previously entered the navy, and obtained the rank of lieutenant in 1849. He has died unmarried, and is succeeded in the baronetcy and estates by his next brother, Donald.

The Rev. Dr. Raffles, of Liverpool, one of the most prominent members of the Independent body, died in Mason Street, in that town, on Tuesday, from dropsy, in his 75th year. He was cousin of the late Sir Stamford Raffles, the founder of Singapore, and father of Mr. T. S. Raffles, the stipendiary magistrate of Liverpool. He had occupied a leading position in the religious, literary, and scientific circles of Liverpool since the year 1812, when he became the minister of Great George Street Chapel, occupying that pulpit for upwards of half a century, and retiring from active duty only two years ago. Since his retirement Dr. Raffles preached occasionally in different parts of the county, and his services were eagerly sought after at the opening of new chapels and the induction of ministers of the congregational body, up to within a few days of his death.

Wills.—The will of the Right Hon. Sir George Cornewall Lewis, Bart., D.C.L., M.P., of Harpton Court, near Radnor, and Kent House, Knightsbridge, has been sworn under 20,000*l.*

BIRTHS.—On the 18th inst, at 6, Tilney Street, Park Lane, the Countess Manvers, of a son—7th inst, near Copenhagen, Lady Paget, of a daughter—5th inst, at Boulogne-sur-Mer, Lady Hearsey, wife of Sir J. B. Hearsey, of a son—14th inst, at Castle Irvine, the wife of H. Mervyn D'Arcy Irvine, of a son and heir.

MARRIAGES.—13th inst, at St George's, Hanover Square, Henry Dalrymple Des Vœux, Esq., to the Lady Alice Egerton, youngest daughter of the Earl of Wilton—14th inst, at St George's, Hanover Square, H. Blundell, Esq., Captain in the P.C.O. Rifle Brigade, eldest son of the late R. B. B. H. Blundell, Esq., of Daysbrook, West Derby, to the Hon. Beatrice Byng, Maid of Honour to the Queen, and youngest daughter of the late Vice-Admiral the Hon. H. D. Byng—18th inst, at Knockyn, Shropshire, Arthur Philip Lloyd, eldest son of the late Rev. Henry J. Lloyd, rector of Selattyn, to Katrine Selina, youngest daughter of the late Admiral the Hon. Charles Orlando Bridgeman—18th inst, at St. Mary's, Bryanston Square, the Rev. Charles Dallas Marston, rector of St. Mary's, to Katharine, eldest daughter of J. H. Calcraft, of Rempstone, Dorset, Esq., and the Lady Caroline Calcraft—11th inst, at St. Michael's Church, St. Alban's, Sir Charles Lawrence Young, Bart., of the Inner Temple, to Mary Florence, younger daughter of Henry H. Toulmin, Esq., of Childwickbury, Herts—13th inst, at Richmond, Surrey, the Rev. Theodore Chambers, eldest son of the Rev. S. C. Wilks, M.A., Rector of Nursling, to Agnes Maria, youngest daughter of the late Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Loraine Baker, Bart., C.B.—18th inst, at St. Mary's Church, Birkenhead, Joseph Richard, second son of W. D. Busk, Esq., of St. Petersburg, to Mary Hamilton, fourth daughter of John Laird, Esq., M.P., Birkenhead.

DEATHS.—On the 10th inst, at Georgiana House, Cheltenham, Lady Agar, wife of Sir Felix Agar—9th inst, at Bridlington Quay, Yorkshire, Joshua Hincks Morris, youngest daughter of the late Rear-Admiral Henry Gage Morris, aged 34—12th inst, at East Lodge, Belmont, Brighton, Sophia Eliza, widow of the Ven. Richard Panton, D.D., Archdeacon of Jamaica, aged 57—15th inst, in Russell Square, George Magnay, Esq., fifth son of the late Alderman Christopher Magnay, aged 63—17th inst, at 35, Upper Grosvenor Street, Anna, eldest daughter of the late Rowley Lascelles, Esq.—12th inst, at Bent House, Prestwich, near Manchester, Frances Isabella, youngest daughter of Cuthbert E. Ellison, Esq., aged two years—July 28, off the Island of St. Thomas, on his passage to England, Captain Thomas Bruce, 21st R.N.B. Fusiliers, eldest son of Thomas Bruce, Esq., of Arnot, N.B., aged 27—16th inst, at Lowestoft, Richard Lambert Jones, Esq., of 49, Porchester Terrace, Kensington Gardens, aged 80—16th inst, at Stoke Newington Green, E. S. Bowerbank, Esq.—12th inst, the Rev. Charles Douglas, curate of Trinity Church, Whitehaven, aged 33—14th inst, at the Rectory, Upper Clatford, Andover, the Rev. Edward Frowd, rector of that parish.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Aug. 22.

Vegetables and most kinds of Fruit still continue plentiful. Greengages fetch from 6s. to 8s. a sieve; other Plums may also be had in great abundance at nearly the same price, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Of Melons, both English and foreign, there is a good stock. Kent Filberts are coming in plentifully at from 45s. to 55s. per 100 lbs. For Potatoes the market is heavy, and prices about from 5s. to 10s. per ton lower than those of last week. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 5s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Oranges, per box, 40s to 45s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 1s 6d to 2s 6d | — per 100, 5s to 10s |
| Figs, per doz., 5s to 6s | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Peaches, per doz., 6s to 10s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Nectarines, do., 3s to 6s | Walnuts, do., 7s 6d |
| Melons, each, 2s to 4s | |
| Gooseberries, do., 2s 6d to 3s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | French Beans, p. sieve, 2s to 6s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 60s to 80s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| „ Shaws, do., 50s to 70s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 6d to 8d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Tomatoes, each, 4d to 6d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

Smithfield, Thursday, Aug. 20.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 70s to | 80s | Clover, old | 90s to | 120s |
| Superior do. | 80 | 95 | Do. second cut | 80 | 110 |
| Inferior do. | 50 | 70 | New Clover | 70 | 105 |
| New do. | 70 | 85 | Straw | 26 | 32 |
| Rowen | — | — | | | |

Harvey & Easton.

Cumberland Market, Thursday, Aug. 20.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay | 88s to | 95s | Inferior Clover | 84s to | 100s |
| Inferior do. | 68 | 80 | New do. | 90 | 110 |
| New do. | 80 | 90 | Straw | 34 | 38 |
| Superior Clover | 112 | 120 | | | |

Joshua Baker.

Whitechapel, Thursday, Aug. 20.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 90s | Prime Clover | 118s to | 126s |
| Inferior do. | 78 | 84 | Inferior do. | 100 | 110 |
| Prime New Hay | 80 | 86 | New 1st cut do. | 105 | 112 |
| Inferior | 70 | 75 | Inferior do. | 90 | 100 |
| Straw | 28 | 34 | Prime 2d cut do. | 95 | 110 |

BRITISH WOOLS.—London, Aug. 21.

There has been more inquiry for wool the last few days, and full rates are easily realised.

| | s. d. | s. d. | | s. d. | s. d. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| South down Hoggets | 1 9½ to | 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to | 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto | 1 10 — | 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs | 1 9 — | 1 10 |
| Down Ewes | 1 8½ — | 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — | 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces | 1 9 — | 1 10 | Flannel Wool | 1 6 — | 1 8 |
| | | | Blanket ditto | — | |

Colonial Wool Sales.—These sales will conclude to-morrow evening. The concluding rates are rather improved in comparison with the commencement of the series.

COAL MARKET.—Aug. 19.

Haswell Gas, 12s. 6d.; Tanfield Moor Butes, 12s. 9d.; Walker Primrose, 12s. 9d.; West Hartley, 17s. 3d.; Wylam, 16s. 6d.; Eden Main, 16s. 3d.; Walls End Braddylls Hetton, 17s.; Walls End Haswell, 18s.; Walls End Hetton, 18s.; Walls End Russel's Hetton, 17s.; Walls End South Hetton, 18s.; Walls End Tunstall, 16s.; Walls End Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 16s. 9d.; Walls End Kelloe, 16s. 9d.; Walls End South Kelloe, 16s. 9d.; Walls End Trindon Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 20s.—60 ships at market.

NEWGATE.—Aug. 21.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Fresh Butter | 15s per dozen lbs. |
| Second do. do. | 13s. „ |

Pork, 4s. 4d. to 4s. 8d. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

Monday, Aug. 17.

The number of Beasts is nearly as large as on Monday last; the demand has improved, and the choicest descriptions make rather higher prices. The supply of Sheep and Lambs is much shorter, and Thursday's advance is well maintained. Indeed some of the choicest qualities are rather dearer. Trade is rather better for Calves on the average, but we can scarcely quote higher. From Germany and Holland there are 1800 Beasts, 8180 Sheep, 265 Calves, and 45 Pigs; from Spain, 60 Beasts; from Ireland, 320; and 2600 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d | s d | | s d | s d |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 10 to | 5 0 | Best Long-wools | — | |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — | 4 8 | Do. Shorn | 4 6 — | 4 10 |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — | 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | — | |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | — | | Do. Shorn | 4 0 — | 4 4 |
| Do. Shorn | 5 0 — | 5 4 | Lambs | 5 8 — | 6 4 |
| | | | Calves | 3 4 — | 4 8 |
| | | | Pigs | 3 4 — | 4 4 |

Beasts, 5360; Sheep & Lambs, 24,190; Calves, 298; Pigs, 240.

Thursday, Aug. 20.

We have a larger number of Beasts than on Thursday last, still the demand is good, and Monday's quotations are pretty generally realised. The supply of Sheep and Lambs is also larger. There is very little alteration from Monday, but the demand is scarcely as active for Lambs as on that day. Good Calves are in demand, but inferior meet with a dull sale. Our foreign supply consists of 375 Beasts, 2360 Sheep, and 584 Calves. Milch Cows, 75.

| | s d | s d | | s d | s d |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 8 to | 5 0 | Best Long-wools | 4 6 — | 4 10 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — | 4 8 | Do. Shorn | — | |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — | 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 0 — | 4 4 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | 5 0 — | 5 2 | Do. Shorn | — | |
| Do. Shorn | — | | Lambs | 5 8 — | 6 4 |
| | | | Calves | 3 0 — | 4 8 |
| | | | Pigs | 3 4 — | 4 4 |

Beasts, 1215; Sheep & Lambs, 10,580; Calves, 678; Pigs, 130.

HOPS.—Borough Market, Friday, Aug. 21.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report the demand entirely confined to the immediate wants of consumers; stocks of the 1862 growth nearly exhausted, and prices firm. The accounts from the plantations are slightly more favourable; the blighted districts will do but little, but those not so much affected are improving.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, Aug. 17.

To this morning's market there was a good supply of English Wheat, consisting almost entirely of the new crop, to effect sales of which it was necessary to submit to a decline of 4s per qr., at which a fair clearance was made. For foreign there was a very limited demand, and the little business done was at prices 1s. to 2s. below those current this day se'nnight. Barley was in good demand at late rates. Beans and Peas were unaltered in value. Oats 6d per qr. cheaper. The top price of town-made Flour was reduced to 43s. per sack. In barrels the little business done was at about late rates.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 44—47 | Red ..... | 40—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 46—52 | Red .... | 44—48 |
| — — Talavera ............ | 48—52 | | |
| — Norfolk ............ | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign ............ | 38—56 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist., 30s to 33s .. Chev. | 36—40 | Malting .. | 35—38 |
| — Foreign grinding and distilling | 26—29 | Malting . | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk ............ | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ............ Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 19—27 | Feed .... | 18—20 |
| RYE ............ | 30—33 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign ............ | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan ... 29s to 33s .. Tick | [illegible] | Harrow | [illegible] |
| — Pigeon ... 37s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ............ Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 30—32 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—40 |
| — Maple ... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 32—38 |
| MAIZE ............ White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 38—43 | | |
| — 2d do ............ ditto | 30—34 | Country | 30—34 |
| — Foreign ............ per barrel | 20—26 | Per sack | 34—45 |

FRIDAY, Aug. 21.

The weather, which had continued fine up to Monday last, changed that night, and since then we have had some heavy showers, which are very beneficial to the Grass and root crops, but have partially interfered with harvest work. Where new Wheats have appeared in the country markets the quality has been mostly good, some parcels very fine and heavy; the trade, however, remained inactive, prices still declining, so that we must write old English and foreign Wheat 1s. to 2s. per qr. down; new sold at irregular rates, showing a reduction of from 1s. to 4s. per qr. upon the week. Flour was a difficult sale at lower rates for all sorts. Barley, Beans, and Peas remained unaltered. Oat prices incline downwards. Since Friday last 35 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has been rather slow this week. Wheat is about 2s. per qr. cheaper, and prices for all other descriptions of grain are looking downwards. In Paris (August 21), the Flour trade was extremely slow, and notwithstanding holders are ready to make concessions of 1s. per 280 lbs., very little has been sold. The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 36s. 3d per 280 lbs. The present stock is estimated at 9140 cwts. Wheat is very dull, and 9d. per 480 lbs. cheaper. The arrivals of English Grain, foreign Barley and Oats since Monday have been small, but good of foreign Wheat and Flour. This morning's market was very badly attended, and scarcely any business was transacted in any article. The value of all grain remains nominally the same as on Monday.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 1150 qrs. | 170 qrs. | 10 qrs. | 340 sks. |
| Irish .. | — | — | 780 | — |
| Foreign | 27,810 ,, | 3520 | 14 130 ,, | 79 ,, / 18,920 brls |

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 18.—We have had only a small attendance of buyers at to-day's market, who have shown little disposition to buy Wheat; holders, however, are not anxious to force sales, and prices cannot be quoted more than 1d. per cental cheaper than on Friday last. Flour slow of sale at a reduction of 3d. per barrel. Indian Corn is offered quite sparingly, and the market is cleared of all prime mixed American at 26s 6d., which is an improvement of 3d. per qr. on the rates lately current. Oats are somewhat scarce and no cheaper, but Oatmeal is down 6d. per load. Beans, Peas, and Barley are each steady at full prices. The market closes irregular.

FRIDAY, Aug. 21.—Wheat in retail demand, at a decline of fully 1d. per cental. Flour very difficult to sell, and rather lower. Indian Corn a slow sale, at about Tuesday's rates. Egyptian Beans steady. Oats and Oatmeal slow, at less money. Egyptian Wheat quiet.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| July 11 | 46s 10d | 30s 10d | 23s 6d | 34s 5d | 40s 2d | 39s 0d |
| — 18 | 46 7 | 28 10 | 22 6 | 32 9 | 40 0 | 37 1 |
| — 25 | 45 11 | 29 10 | 22 9 | 32 8 | 39 3 | 35 11 |
| Aug. 1 | 45 11 | 31 0 | 23 0 | 37 11 | 39 11 | 36 3 |
| — 8 | 46 3 | 31 6 | 23 0 | 31 6 | 38 8 | 34 9 |
| — 15 | 45 11 | 31 4 | 23 7 | 36 4 | 40 7 | 35 7 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 3 | 30 7 | 23 1 | 34 3 | 39 9 | 36 5 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

WANTED, as HEAD GARDENER, a married Man: no Second Man kept.—Must understand the Management of Stoves, Vineries, and other Forcing Houses; likewise Peach and Orchard Houses; and especially that he have a competent knowledge of the Propagation and Culture of first-class Stove and Conservatory Plants and Flowers. Wages 20s. per week.—Apply by letter, with references, to Mr McGARRISON, Bookseller, Tewkesbury, Gloucestershire.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, a GARDENER, who understands his profession in all its branches. A Man whose Wife is a good Laundress would be preferred.—Address, Mrs. T. MATHEWS, Crewkerne, Somerset.

WANTED, a WOODRANGER, who has thorough knowledge and experience in the Management of Timber, Plantations, and Coppice. He should also understand how to Fix Iron Railing, as well as the Erection of other descriptions of Fencing, and be a good Judge of the Value and Labour of Work of the above kind.—Apply, stating age, family (if any), wages, references, &c., addressed to Mr. MOON, Maristow, Plymouth.

WANTED, an active and experienced ASSISTANT, to take charge (under the Foreman) of the Hard and Soft-wooded Greenhouse and Stove Plants in a Country Nursery.—Address, stating where experience has been gained, and the wages required, to Z. A., Messrs. Hurst & Son, 6, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

WANTED, a steady active Young Man as YARDSMAN and GARDENER in a small place. He would live in the House; Washing found him.—Address A. Z., Post Office, Sidmouth, Devon.

WANTED, as SHOPMAN, a Young Man who has a good general knowledge of Plants and Seeds, and is a good Salesman.—Address, stating salary and experience, to A. B., Barr & Sugden, 12, King Street, Covent Garden, W.C.

WANTED, a COWMAN, married, by a gentleman an hour from London by rail. He will have to help in the Garden, attend Pigs, &c. Wages, 15s. and a cottage.—Apply to R. B., Post Office, Dartford.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 35; 6 years' good character from the place he is now leaving.—A. B., Post Office, Portland Place, St. John's Wood, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Married; thoroughly understands his business. Three years' good character.—A. B., 44, Clark Street, Stepney, E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Married, two children; understands his profession in every department. Eight years' character.—JOHN BUTLER, Princess Street, Pembroke Dock, South Wales.

GARDENER (HEAD), to any nobleman or gentleman.—Age 32, single; a good Gardener. Two years' excellent character from last employer.—F. S., Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 28; understands Early and Late Forcing of Fruit, &c., Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Six years' unexceptionable character.—J. C., Marfleet's, Grocer, High Street, Carshalton.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Married, no incumbrance; seven years' first-class character as a Grower of Pines, Grapes, Peaches, &c., Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Kitchen Gardening, Laying out Ground, and General Management of Land and Stock.—G. H., Mr Kitters, Lowfield Street, Dartford.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 28, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands his profession in all its branches. Thirteen years' experience. Wife could undertake Dairy or any place of trust if required. Good testimonials.—ALPHA, Fitch's Library, 72, Leinster Terrace, Bayswater, W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 26, unmarried; thorough knowledge of his profession in all its branches; well experienced in Early and Late Forcing, the Management of Greenhouses, Flower and Kitchen Gardens, &c. References unexceptionable from last and former situations.—X. Y., Post Office, Budleigh Salterton, Devonshire.

GARDENER (HEAD), age 42.—H. MUGGLETON, more than seven years Head Gardener to W. Cubitt, Esq., Penton Lodge, is leaving his situation, and offers his services to any nobleman, lady or gentleman, requiring a first rate Gardener; he is an excellent Forcing Gardener, including Pines, Grapes, Peaches, &c., is a good Plant Grower and Kitchen Gardener. Character excellent.—The Gardens, Penton Lodge, Andover.

GARDENER (HEAD) to a nobleman or gentleman.—D. WICKS, Head Gardener to W. Wilson Saunders, Esq., Hon. Secretary to the Horticultural Society, will be at liberty to engage after the 25th September. Has a thorough practical knowledge of Forcing in all its departments; likewise the Growth of Plants from most parts of the world, and the Management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Ten years' good character.—Hillfield, Reigate, Surrey.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40; versed in Forcing Fruit and Kitchen Gardening, Propagating, Specimen Plant Growing, Bedding and British Botany, Ground work and Planting; Forester; the greatest experience in removing large specimen Shrubs and Trees; treatment of Conifers especially successful. Eight years' character.—C. S. J., Post Office, Wimbledon Common.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—A gentleman is desirous of procuring a situation for his Gardener, a married man, aged 39, who has lived with him nearly five years, and is leaving him solely in consequence of change of residence. He can with confidence recommend him in every respect as an excellent and experienced Gardener, thoroughly trustworthy and fully competent to take the entire Management of a first-rate place.—A. B., Post Office, Maidenhead.

GARDENER (HEAD), where one or more are kept.—Age 30, single; first-class testimonials as to character and ability.—W. J., Paul's Nurseries, Waltham Cross, N.

GARDENER (HEAD), where two or three are kept.—Married; has had considerable practice. Good character from past and present employer.—F. D., Post Office, Melton Mowbray, Leicestershire.

GARDENER (HEAD OR SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 32, married; understands his profession in all its branches. No objection to the Management of a Cow and a few acres of Land. Good character.—Y. Z., 12, Evelyn Street, Lewisham Road, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD OR SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 24, married; understands the Management of Greenhouse, Kitchen and Flower Garden, Vines, &c.; would have no objection to a Horse or Cow.—C. INNES, Colmer Rectory, Alton, Hants.

GARDENER.—Middle-aged, married, no incumbrance; the Wife as Laundress, if required. Unexceptionable reference.—Y. Z., Mr. Batten, Upper Clapton, N.E.

GARDENER, to any nobleman or gentleman.—Thoroughly competent in every branch of Gardening. No single-handed place accepted. Good character.—A. B., Lamroux, Clark & Co., Seed Merchants, 4, Cornwall Street, Plymouth.

GARDENER.—Age 33, married; has had good experience in Forcing Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables, Pruning Roses, Wall Fruit, &c. Good character.—Address, stating wages, E. B., 9, Norman Road North, Bow, E.

GARDENER.—Married, one child; thoroughly understands his profession in all its branches. Five years' good character.—J. T., 4, Henry Street, Upper Kennington Lane, S.

To Noblemen and Others.

GARDENER.—A. COOK, late Head Gardener to W. Riley, Esq., Pymmes Park, Edmonton, is disengaged and desirous to engage with any one requiring a thorough Gardener. Can be highly recommended from his late employer.—Address as above.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER.—Age 30, married; has a thorough practical knowledge of his profession in all its branches; good Accountant, &c. Character will bear the strictest investigation for 10 years or more if required.—W. B. B., Post Office, Daventry, Northamptonshire.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 30 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER (SINGLE HANDED).—Age 22; understands Greenhouse, Vinery, Flower and Kitchen Garden. Six years' character.—JOHN GUEST, Dodbrooke, Kingsbridge, South Devon.

GARDENER and STEWARD.—Age 32, married; 15 years' practical experience in all branches of Horticulture, also has a thorough knowledge of Agriculture, Buying and Selling Cattle, and Stock of all sorts. Five years' unexceptionable testimonials from present employer.—R. B., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

GARDENER (UNDER).—Age 22; wishes to improve himself; will pay a Premium. Three and a half years' good character in present situation.—W. R., Daylesford Gardens, near Chipping Norton, Oxon.

GARDENER (UNDER).—Has lived several years experience where Pines, Grapes, Peaches, &c., Stove and Greenhouse Plants, have been grown in great perfection. Can also Mow and Nail well.—H. L., Kingswood House, Dartford Heath.

FOREMAN or PLANT GROWER in a Nursery.—Has had great experience in Stove and Greenhouse Plants; also Orchids and Ferns. Good character.—F. C. E., 12, Pickering Place, Bayswater, London, W.

FOREMAN.—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; can Manage a gentleman's Estate, good knowledge of Land, Stock, Gardening, and Butchering; Wife can Manage Dairy. Eleven years' good character.—H. B., Willesden Lodge, Willesden, Middlesex.

To Noblemen, Gentlemen, or Estate Agents.

GENERAL FOREMAN, or CLERK of WORKS (Carpenter and Joiner by trade)—can prepare Working and Detail Drawings, Set Out, Superintend, and Measure up Works; has had upwards of eight years' experience in the Erection of Agricultural and other Buildings on a large Estate. Good references and testimonials.—C. W. W., Post Office, Salisbury, Wilts.

To Gardeners.

FOREMAN or IMPROVER, under a first-class Gardener.—Age 21; possesses good abilities. A good Premium will be given.—X. Y. Z., Gardeners' Chronicle Office.

To Nurserymen.

ROSE GROWER and PROPAGATOR of Conifers, Rhododendrons, Camellias, Azaleas, and Hard and Soft-wooded Plants generally. Good reference.—G. M., Post Office, East Grinstead, Sussex.

To Nurserymen.

PROPAGATOR of Hard and Soft-wooded Plants, Grafter and Grower.—Practical, good testimonials.—A. B., Messrs. Rollisson & Son's, Tooting Nursery, Surrey.

IMPROVER.—Accustomed to all kinds of Forcing and Flowers. Good Premium given.—D. TANLY, 24, Park Street, Dorset Square, London, N.W.

STEWARD and GARDENER.—Unmarried; has had the Management of a large Estate, including Draining on the Government system, Plantations, Repairs, &c., with a thorough knowledge of Gardening. Good character from the nobleman he has just left, with undeniable references.—A. B., Messrs. Ivery & Son, Dorking, Surrey, S.

BAILIFF and GENERAL MANAGER (Resident or otherwise).—Can undertake all kinds of Improvements in Land, Agriculture, Horticulture, Draining, &c.—DELTA, 30, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

BAILIFF.—Married; thoroughly understands the Management of Stock and Gardening. Wife to Manage the Dairy and Poultry.—Mrs. RICHARDSON, 3, Addington Place, Addington Road, Croydon, S.

FARM BAILIFF, by a Norfolk Man.—Age 41, married, one child; well understands Breeding and Rearing of all kinds of Stock. Has lived in Hampshire. Good references.—B. R., 156, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

SHOPMAN, PLANT SALESMAN, and NURSERY FOREMAN.—Age 33; well up in Landscape Gardening. First-class testimonials and character.—A. B., 3, Omega Cottages, Ealing, Middlesex, W.

ASSISTANT in a Seed Shop.—Age 18; no objection to Nursery work. Has had 3 years' experience in the above trade.—A. F., Post Office, Reading.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to PRICE'S. Most medical men prescribe "PRICE'S Glycerine" where purity is of importance.

Patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8, 4, or 2 oz. bottles, with capsules over the stoppers marked—

"PRICE'S Patent," Belmont, Vauxhall.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by DU BARRY'S health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2s. 9d.; 2 lb., 4s. 6d.; 5 lb., 11s; 12 lb., 22s.; 24 lb., 40s.

BARRY DU BARRY & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1863.

ROYAL SCHOOL of MINES.

Director.

Sir RODERICK IMPEY MURCHISON, K.C.B., F.R.S., &c.

During the SESSION 1863-64, which will COMMENCE on OCTOBER 6, the following COURSES of LECTURES and PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS will be given:—

1. CHEMISTRY. By A. W. HOFMANN, LL.D., F.R.S., &c.
2. METALLURGY. By JOHN PERCY, M.A., F.R.S.
3. NATURAL HISTORY. By T. H. HUXLEY, F.R.S.
4. MINERALOGY. } By WARINGTON W. SMYTH, M.A., F.R.S.
5. MINING. }
6. GEOLOGY. By
7. APPLIED MECHANICS. By ROBERT WILLIS, M.A., F.R.S.
8. PHYSICS. By T. TYNDALL, F.R.S.

Instruction in Mechanical Drawing, by Rev. J. HAYTHORNE EDGAR, M.A.

The Fee for Students desirous of becoming Associates is 30*l.* in one sum on entrance, or two annual payments of 20*l.*, exclusive of the Laboratories.

Pupils are received in the Royal College of Chemistry (the Laboratory of the School), under the direction of Dr. Hofmann, and in the Metallurgical Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. Percy.

Tickets to separate Course of Lectures are issued at 3*l.* and 4*l.* each.

Officers in the Queen's Service, Her Majesty's Consuls, acting Mining Agents and Managers, may obtain tickets at reduced prices.

Certificated Schoolmasters, Pupil Teachers, and others engaged in education, are also admitted to the Lectures at reduced fees

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has granted two Scholarships, and several others have also been established.

For a Prospectus and information, apply at the Museum of Practical Geology, Jermyn Street, London, S.W.

TRENHAM REEKS, Registrar.

Land Drainage.

WORKS of DRAINAGE of any extent are EXECUTED by the GENERAL LAND DRAINAGE and IMPROVEMENT COMPANY on all Descriptions of Property, whether Freehold, Entailed, Mortgaged, Trust, Ecclesiastical, Corporate, or Collegiate.

Repayment may be made by the Landowner as successive portions of the works are completed; or the actual expenditure, with a commission thereon, may be charged on the property improved, by way of rent charge on the estate created for various terms of years, so as to adapt the rate per cent. of annual charge to the circumstances of the tenants.

No investigation of title being required, or notices given to Reversioners or Mortgagees, no legal expenses are incurred.

Works of Irrigation, Enclosing, Wood Grubbing, Road Making, and Farm Buildings are executed in a similar manner.

Landowners desirous to execute any of the Improvements by their own Agents, and charge the outlay and expenses on the Estate, may obtain Loans for the purpose.

Applications to be made to WILLIAM CLIFFORD, the Secretary, at the Offices of the Company, 52, Parliament Street, S.W.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.

CHUBB'S FIRE-PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS. CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.

Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.

CHUBB & SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS. —PRIZE MEDAL awarded to THRESHER & GLENNY for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.

Lists of Prices on application to THRESHER & GLENNY, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

BEDSTEADS, BATHS, and LAMPS.—WILLIAM S. BURTON has SIX LARGE SHOW ROOMS, devoted exclusively to the SEPARATE DISPLAY of LAMPS, BATHS, and METALLIC BEDSTEADS. The stock of each is at once the largest, newest, and most varied ever submitted to the public, and marked at prices proportionate with those that have tended to make his establishment the most distinguished in this country.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bedsteads, from .. .. | 12*s.* 6*d.* | to | £20 0*s.* | each |
| Shower Baths, from .. | 8 0 | to | 6 0 | ,, |
| Lamps (Moderateur), from | 6 0 | to | 8 10 | ,, |

(All other kinds at the same rate).

Pure Colza Oil .. .. .. 4*s.* 6*d.* per gallon.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post paid. It contains upwards of 500 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-Plate, Nickel Silver and Britannia Metal Goods, Dish-Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimney-pieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gasaliers, Tea-Trays, Urns and Kettles, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed Room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with Lists of Prices, and Plans of the 20 large Show Rooms, at 39 Oxford Street, W.; 1, 1A, 2, 3, and 4, Newman Street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's Place; and 1 Newman Yard, London.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, AND CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. METCALFE'S celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2*s.* per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2*s.*, 3*s.* 6*d.*, and 5*s.* each. 130 B, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

PARAWAX CANDLES, Three to the Pound.— These Candles, manufactured by PRICE'S Patent Candle Company expressly for dinner-table chandeliers, recommend themselves by their beauty of appearance and brilliancy of light. Price 1*s.* 8*d.* per lb.

Can be had of all Chandlers and Grocers.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.— This delicious Condiment, pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE,"

Is prepared solely by LEA & PERRINS.

The public are respectfully cautioned against worthless imitations, and should see that LEA & PERRINS' Names are on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.

ASK FOR LEA AND PERRINS' SAUCE.

 Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL; Messrs. BARCLAY & SONS, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

Murray's Handbooks for the Continent.

HANDBOOK—TRAVEL-TALK, in ENGLISH, FRENCH, ITALIAN, and GERMAN. 18mo. 3*s.* 6*d.*

HANDBOOK — NORTH GERMANY. HOLLAND, BELGIUM, PRUSSIA, and the RHINE to SWITZERLAND. New and Revised Edition. Map. Post 8vo. 10*s.*

HANDBOOK—SOUTH GERMANY. THE TYROL BAVARIA, AUSTRIA, SALZBURG, STYRIA, HUNGARY, and the DANUBE from ULM to the BLACK SEA. New and Revised Edition. Map. Post 8vo. 10*s.*

HANDBOOK — SWITZERLAND. THE ALPS of SAVOY and PIEDMONT. A New and Revised Edition. Maps. Post 8vo. 9*s.*

HANDBOOK — FRANCE. NORMANDY, BRITTANY, the FRENCH ALPS, DAUPHINÉ, PROVENCE, and the PYRENEES. Maps. Post 8vo. 10*s.*

HANDBOOK — SPAIN. ANDALUSIA, GRENADA, MADRID, &c. With a Supplement of Inns and Railways, 1861. Maps. 2 vols. Post 8vo. 30*s.*

HANDBOOK — PORTUGAL. LISBON, &c. Map. Post 8vo. 9*s.*

HANDBOOK—NORTH ITALY. PIEDMONT, NICE, LOMBARDY, VENICE. PARMA, MODENA, and ROMAGNA as far as the VAL D'ARNO. New and Revised Edition. Maps. Post 8vo. 12*s.*

HANDBOOK — CENTRAL ITALY. LUCCA, TUSCANY, FLORENCE, the MARCHES, and the PATRIMONY of ST. PETER. Maps. Post 8vo. 10*s.*

HANDBOOK — ROME and its ENVIRONS. Map. Post 8vo. 9*s.*

HANDBOOK — SOUTH ITALY. TWO SICILIES, NAPLES, POMPEII, HERCULANEUM, VESUVIUS, ABRUZZI, &c. Maps. Post 8vo. 10*s.*

HANDBOOK — GREECE. THE IONIAN ISLANDS, ALBANIA, THESSALY, and MACEDONIA. Maps. Post 8vo. 15*s.*

HANDBOOK — EGYPT. THE NILE, ALEXANDRIA, CAIRO, and THEBES. Map. Post 8vo. 15*s.*

HANDBOOK—SYRIA, PALESTINE. SINAI, EDOM, SYRIAN DESERT, &c. Maps. 2 vols. Post 8vo. 24*s.*

HANDBOOK— INDIA. BOMBAY and MADRAS. Map. 2 vols. Post 8vo. 24*s.*

HANDBOOK — DENMARK, NORWAY and SWEDEN, and ICELAND. Maps. Post 8vo. 15*s.*

HANDBOOK—RUSSIA. ST. PETERSBURG, MOSCOW, FINLAND, &c. Maps. Post 8vo. 12*s.*

JOHN MURRAY, Albemarle Street, W.

ADVERTISEMENTS for the ROYAL AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL, intended for insertion in No. LI., must be forwarded to the Printer without delay, accompanied with an order for their payment and insertion, as no attention will be paid to them otherwise.

WILLIAM CLOWES & SONS, Printers, Duke Street, Stamford Street, Blackfriars, S.

HINTS on the DESTRUCTION of RED SPIDER, GREEN FLY, and other Insects that infest GREENHOUSES. Price 1*s.*

London: KENT & Co. Birmingham: WILLIAM WILLEY.

Third Edition, with Engravings, price 5*s.*,

A PRACTICAL TREATISE on the CULTIVATION of the GRAPE VINE. By WILLIAM THOMSON, Gardener to His Grace the Duke of Buccleuch, K.G., &c., Dalkeith Park, Scotland. With Additions, and a Chapter on the Open-Air Cultivation of the Vine.

WILLIAM BLACKWOOD & SONS, Edinburgh and London.

Second Edition, in demy 8vo, price 10*s.* 6*d.* half-bound,

THE FARMER'S CALENDAR. By JOHN CHALMERS MORTON, Author of the "Cyclopedia of Agriculture." "Farmer's Almanac," &c. Illustrated by numerous Wood Engravings.

GENERAL CONTENTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| The Cultivation of all kinds of Soil | Rent, Lease, Tenant's Rights, Wages. Improvements of Land by Buildings, Roads, Drains, Fences, &c. |
| The Cultivation of all Farm Crops | The Influence of Weather, month by month, in reference to 30 or 40 stations in England, Scotland, and Ireland |
| The Breeding, Rearing, and Feeding of all the Live Stock of the Farm | |
| The Use of all kinds of Agricultural Tools and Machines | |

London: ROUTLEDGE, WARNE, & ROUTLEDGE, Farringdon Street.

Mechi's System of Farming.

Price 3*s.* boards, or 3*s.* 6*d.* half-bound.

HOW to FARM PROFITABLY, or the SAYINGS and DOINGS of Mr. ALDERMAN MECHI. With a Portrait and three other Illustrations, from Photographs by MAYALL. New Edition, with additions.

The above work contains:—Mr. Mechi's account of the Agricultural Improvements carried on at the Tiptree Estate—his Lectures, Speeches, Correspondence, and Balance Sheets—and is a faithful history of his agricultural career during the last fifteen years.

 In this Edition is incorporated Mr. Mechi's Pamphlets on TOWN SEWAGE and STEAM PLOUGHING.

London: ROUTLEDGE, WARNE & ROUTLEDGE, Farringdon Street.

Will be published in a few days, price 1*s.*

BARR AND SUGDEN'S FLORAL GUIDE to WINTER and SPRING GARDENING, with copious LISTS of DUTCH, CAPE, and FRENCH BULBS, a copy of which will be presented to each of their customers.

BARR & SUGDEN, 12, King Street, Covent Garden, W.C.

News of the Week.

THE Congress of German Sovereigns at Frankfort has adopted, with scarcely any modifications, the principal articles of the Austrian project of reform, including that relating to the Directorate. This article provides that the Directorate shall consist of six members:—Austria, Prussia, and Bavaria to have each one vote; Saxony, Hanover, and Wurtemburg together to have one vote in turn; Electoral Hesse, and the seven Grand Duchies to nominate the fifth member, and the remaining German States to elect the sixth. The question of the presidency of the Directorate is left open in order that Austria and Prussia may come to a mutual understanding on the subject. The report which was current last week that the KING OF PRUSSIA had declined the collective invitation of the Princes to attend the Congress is confirmed. HIS MAJESTY has refused on the ground that he had not received any official communication of the propositions to be discussed, and that it would be impossible to participate in the deliberations of the Congress without entering into binding engagements, which he could not do without consulting his advisers.

Despatches from St. Petersburg state that the Notes of the Three Powers were delivered to Prince GORTSCHAKOFF on the 19th inst., and that the Grand Duke CONSTANTINE has been summoned from Warsaw by telegram for the purpose of taking part in the deliberations of the Cabinet on the affairs of Poland. It was rumoured on the Paris Bourse on Tuesday that General MOURAVIEFF had been assassinated, but the report has not been confirmed from any authentic source.

From the United States we have a doubtful report that the Cabinet of Washington has formally protested against the proceedings of the French in Mexico. The protest is based upon the Monroe doctrine, and declares the establishment of a Mexican empire under French influence to be a menace to the United States, and a direct encouragement to the South. Great excitement has been caused in California by a contemplated rising of Secessionists. Outbreaks are said to have occurred at the extreme portions of the State, and the military Governor has commenced fortifying San Francisco for the purpose of repressing any renewal of the disturbances. The latest accounts from Charleston state that a combined land and naval assault was appointed for the 13th, and the Federals are sanguine that it will result in the capture of Forts Sumter and Wagner, and of Cumming's Point. General LEE has a considerable force between the Rapidan and the Rappahannock, holds all the mountain passes of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and has a strong force in the Shenandoah Valley. The dispute between President LINCOLN and the Governor of New York on the subject of the draft is still unsettled, and as the law officers of the State have pronounced the Conscription Act to be unconstitutional and despotic, it is feared that the working classes, supported by the Governor, will again attempt a forcible resistance. It is reported from the Canadian frontier that the Federal Government have erected a new fort at Rouse's Point, 45 miles from Montreal, with magazines capable of containing supplies for 100,000 men, and accommodation for a permanent garrison of 5000.

By the Overland mail we learn that the Japanese Government, finding that Admiral KUPER was preparing to assume hostilities, communicated to Colonel NEALE through the French Minister, that they were willing to pay the indemnity by instalments as originally agreed upon. Colonel NEALE, in reply, intimated that as the matter had been suffered to go so far, the whole sum of 440,000 dollars must be paid at once. The money was accordingly paid before 7 on the next morning. At the same time the Japanese Ministers informed the representatives of foreign Powers that the TYCOON had instructed them to obey the MIKADO's orders to expel foreigners and close the ports.

Home News.

THE QUEEN IN GERMANY.—The Queen and the Royal family have taken walks and drives in the neighbourhood of the Rosenau and to Coburg, and have visited the Duchess of Coburg at the Kallenberg. Her Majesty is everywhere received with marks of affection and respect, but her privacy is nowhere intruded upon. The Princess of Wied and her daughter, who were staying for a few days at Coburg, have been received at the Rosenau by the Queen. The Crown Princess of Prussia arrived on the 19th on a visit to the Duchess of Coburg, and drove over to the Rosenau to visit the Queen. Her Royal Highness has dined with her Majesty every day. The Duchess of Coburg has also dined with her Majesty. On Saturday Prince and Princess Augustus of Saxe Coburg, with their son and daughters, visited the Queen. On Sunday morning the Queen, accompanied by the Princess Helena, attended divine service in the Chapel at the Kallenberg. The service was performed by General Superintendent Dr. Meyer. Her Majesty and the Princess remained for luncheon at the Kallenberg, where the Duke of Coburg and the Crown Prince of Prussia had arrived that morning. Her Majesty and the Princess afterwards visited the Prince and Princess Augustus of Saxe-Coburg at Coburg. It is announced that her Majesty will proceed to Potsdam for a few days, on a visit to the Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia.

Parliamentary Movements.—Sir William Fraser was elected for Ludlow yesterday in the room of the late Mr. Botfield, without opposition.

Court of Probate.—The Queen has directed letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal, appointing Sir James Plaistow Wilde, Knt., one of the Barons of the Exchequer, to be Judge of the Court of Probate.

The Channel Fleet, under the command of Admiral Dacres, arrived in Lough Foyle at 6 o'clock, on Wednesday morning. Great efforts are making by the corporate authorities of Belfast, Dublin, and Cork, to obtain a visit from the fleet in its passage down channel.

American Interference with British Trade.—A long diplomatic correspondence between this country and the United States was published on Friday, on the subject of the regulations established by the Federal Government at the port of New York as to vessels trading to the Bahamas. The correspondence originated in May last year, when complaints were made by merchants and others in Nassau that the Custom House at New York required shippers there for the Bahamas to give bonds that none of the goods would be delivered at Confederate ports, and this they complained of as an undue restriction upon trade. It appeared that the restrictions were directed by an Act of Congress of 1861. Earl Russell accordingly directed remonstrances to be made against such restrictions as violating the treaty of 1815 between this country and the United States, giving English ships freedom to trade in American ports; and in August and September last Lord Lyons remonstrated with Mr. Seward. Mr. Seward replied by maintaining that the restrictions complained of were internal acts of administration applying equally to American and English ships, and he pointed to the vast increase of the commerce of Nassau since the outbreak of the war as a proof that the restrictions did not interfere with the "legitimate" trade to that port. Earl Russell replied that this was no answer to his complaint, and it was perfectly lawful for British ships at Nassau to tranship their cargoes for American ports. In his despatch, dated Dec. 17, he, however, expressed the hope that, notwithstanding Mr. Seward's defence, the remonstrance would have the practical effect of preventing the continuance or repetition of similar proceedings. Mr. Seward rejoined on January 9, but at the close of his arguments he gave the assurance that the laws of the United States would continue to be executed in such a way as to afford no just ground for complaint of partiality or injustice. Earl Russell, however, having discontinued the correspondence, hoping that his remonstrances would have practical effect, wrote to Lord Lyons again on the 18th July, noticing the representation of Messrs. Tootal, Broadhurst, and Co., that such a bond had been required of them when making a shipment to Nassau on the 13th of June last. His lordship considers this as a proof that the interference of the United States authorities with the trade is still persisted in, and instructs Lord Lyons to address a fresh remonstrance on the subject.

Foreign.

France.—The Emperor arrived at St. Cloud on Wednesday night from the Camp at Chalons, and will preside at a Council of Ministers to-day. M. Drouyn de Lhuys was expected to return yesterday. Prince Napoleon and the Princess Clotilde are about to leave shortly for Lisbon. The Patrie states that the last steamer brought a protest from the Washington Cabinet relative to late political events in Mexico. It says that the Government of the North bases its protest upon the Monroe doctrine, and considers that the establishment of an Empire in Mexico by French influence would be a menace to American independence and encouragement given to the South. The Patrie adds that letters from New York attribute this step of Mr. Lincoln to the advice of the English and Russian Ministers at Washington. La France, however, denies that the American Government has addressed any such protest to France. It is said that the French Ambassador at Frankfort has been instructed to ask for explanations of the conduct of the American Consul in hoisting the Mexican flag over his door by the side of the "stars and stripes,' in the presence of the German Sovereigns assembled in that city. M. Boudet, the new Minister of the Interior, has issued a circular to the Presidents of the Councils-General, requesting them not to touch upon politics in their speeches at the opening of the session of the Councils. M. Aladenize, known chiefly by his share in the Boulogne expedition, died a few days since. The death of General Count de Rochefort, who ordered the Lancers to charge the Parisians on the Boulevard Poissonière on the 4th December, 1851, is also announced. An important boon is about to be granted to several cities of France, which, from their being fortified, are compelled to close their gates at certain hours, to the great inconvenience of the citizens and of travellers, who in some towns are shut out for the night, or compelled to obtain permission to enter after a certain hour. It is intended in future to allow a free passage at all hours of the night, and prevent the necessity of guarding the city gates from sunset to sunrise. M. Renan's volume, "La Vie de Jesus," has brought upon him the censures of the heads of the Catholic Church in France. The Archbishop of Toulouse has interdicted his flock from reading it, and in Bretagne the peasants of some of the villages have made an auto-da-fé, consigning to the flames every copy that can be obtained. Father Passaglia, also, has undertaken to reply to it, a task which was somewhat unexpected in one who has been so adverse to the supremacy of the Pope and to many of the dogmas of the Church. The work has nevertheless a prodigious sale. The Confederate frigate Atalanta has arrived at Brest and been subjected to a short quarantine, as she has no bill of health. The responsible editor of the Courrier de St. Etienne, who was acquitted in the first instance of an offence against the laws relating to the press, growing out of the late elections, has been condemned by the Court at Lyons to a term of imprisonment, and the journal is suppressed.

Spain.—The King is very ill at La Granja. Several German banking-houses have offered Spain a loan of 500,000.000 reals, at 6 per cent., to repair the disaster which has taken place at Manilla. The Correspondencia states that the Ministry will not enter upon the consideration of the Mexican question until after the Archduke Maximilian has accepted the Crown. The electoral meetings in the various districts have been authorised by the Government. The Liberals in Catalonia refuse to follow the advice of General Prim on the subject of the elections.

Sweden.—It is asserted that Sweden has given notice to several of the Powers that she will side with Denmark in the event of hostilities breaking out between that Power and Germany. It is also said that Prince Oscar, after having had interviews with the Emperor of Austria at Vienna and Frankfort, has left the latter town with the conviction that a conflict between Denmark and Germany is inevitable.

Denmark and the Duchies.—The King of Denmark was to preside at a sitting of the Privy Council on Saturday, to resolve upon the reply to be given by Denmark to the resolution of the Federal Diet of the 9th July. The Committee of the University of Kiel have given their decision upon the constitutional conflict between the German majority of the Schleswig Diet and the Government Commissioner. The award of the committee considers the Government Commissioner not justified in preventing the Diet from deciding upon the validity of the elections.

Belgium.—A clerical congress was held last week at Malines for the purpose of devising the means of propagating Roman Catholic influence in Europe. Among other matters the Congress has decided, with only one or two dissentients, that the establishment of a journal is the best means of securing the objects in view. After serious deliberations many important points in relation to the production of a newspaper were settled. Theatrical advertisements, and a dramatic criticism every Monday, are to be permitted, and the printers are to be allowed to work on Sundays. It was moved that the journal should not appear on Sundays, and that theatrical news, crimes, accidents, and offences should be excluded from its columns, but these motions were rejected. It was however resolved that accounts of suicides should be omitted, the occurrence of suicides from imitation having been unquestionably proved by medical observation. A discussion took place as to the proscription of works of art from churches. Two opinions were started: one that there was a nudity that was immoral, and another artistic; that the latter ought to be received. The other opinion was that nudity belonged to Paganism, and that every statue ought to be dashed to pieces. The congress came to no decision on the subject. During a discussion on the sufferings of Catholics in Italy, Garibaldi and his chaplain Pantaleone were branded with reprobation. Count de Montalembert, who was present at the sitting, and was received with great enthusiasm, read a paper advocating the necessity of a reconciliation between democracy and Catholicism. He contended that the ancien régime, whatever its grandeur might have been, had one fault which nothing could redeem. It was dead and gone; it would never return to life. Democracy existed in part of Europe; it would exist in the remaining part to-morrow. The Catholics must make up their minds frankly to accept liberty—complete liberty—not political, apart from religious freedom; not civil apart from political liberty—but liberty in all things—liberty in every manifestation of social life, for they would ruin the interests of Catholicism if they persisted in clamouring for liberty for themselves, and denying it to others. Cardinal Wiseman also addressed the meeting, and was listened to with marked attention. He rendered justice to the generosity and sense of fair play of the English people, and bestowed much praise on the conduct of the Government. He was well aware that strong prejudices, arising from historical circumstances, continued to exist against Catholicism in England, but acknowledged that there was every desire to give free exercise to the rites of religion. The British Parliament did equal justice to Catholics and Protestants; upon all committees his co-religionists were heard and their claims attended to, and he gratefully acknowledged the complete enjoyment of civil and religious rights by her Majesty's Catholic subjects. The Congress was brought to a close on Saturday, its fifth day of meeting. A despatch from the Pope was received, thanking the assembly for the address which it had voted to him, and giving his Apostolical benediction in return. The proceedings terminated by an address and benediction from the Cardinal Archbishop of Malines, followed by a banquet in the evening.

Frankfort.—There was no sitting of the Princes on Tuesday, on account of the Emperor's birthday. At the sitting of Saturday the reply of the King of Prussia, declining the invitation to be present, was read. Some of the articles of the Austrian project of reform were discussed. The first article was adopted unanimously, after some opposition on the part of the Duke of Oldenburg, whose arguments were replied to at length by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. The 2d article was discussed and adopted. Bavaria, Saxony, and Hanover strongly advocated reforms being granted, in accordance with the propositions of Austria. In the sitting of Monday the 3d article, relating to the Directorate, was adopted with some modifications. The Directorate will consist of six members—Austria, Prussia, and Bavaria having each one vote; Saxony, Hanover, and Würtemberg, together, will have the fourth vote in turn; Electoral Hesse and the seven Grand Duchies will choose the fifth member; and the remaining German States will elect the sixth. As regards the 5th article of the project, relating to the Presidency of the Directorate, it was proposed that Austria and Prussia should preside alternately, but decided to leave those two great Powers to come to a mutual understanding. The 6th article, establishing the general principles of the privileges of the Directorate and Federal Council, was adopted. Baden has entered a protest, pointing out that the acceptance of the Austrian propositions as fit bases of reform amounts to a binding engagement to interpret important points in the sense laid down by Austria. In the sitting of Tuesday, Articles 8 to 14 were agreed to. On Wednesday, Article 16, relative to the composition of the Assembly, was agreed to. It was also resolved that in the event of it happening in the sittings of the Directorate that there should be the same number of votes for and against any proposition, the vote shall be in favour of the proposition supported by the States which have the greater number of inhabitants. On Friday there was another sitting of the popular delegates, at which more than 300 were present. M. Benningsen was President. The proposition of the committee relative to the German question was unanimously adopted, after a discussion of eight hours' duration. The following were the resolutions on the subject:—

"1. That although the Austrian proposals are in many points of doubtful utility, they ought not to be absolutely rejected. 2. The members of the Lower House should be freely elected. 3. That Prussia should be placed on an equal footing with Austria in every respect. 4. That East and West Prussia should be admitted to the Confederacy. 5. That the acceptance of the Austrian proposals should be voted by a National Assembly, to be elected in conformity with the resolutions passed by the Federal Diet in March and April, 1848."

In the sitting of the Delegates on Saturday the proposals of the Committee relative to the Holstein question were adopted. In the sitting of Wednesday the Committee communicated the resolutions passed by the Assembly on the German question to the Princes present in Frankfort, to the representatives of the free towns, and to the foreign Ministers. In the sitting of the Federal Diet on Thursday, the declaration of the Danish Government with reference to Schleswig which has been received was referred to the committees. The Danish ambassador, who was unable to be present on account of illness, reserved further explanations. On Saturday evening Baron von Bethmann, the wealthy owner of Dannecker's famous statue of Ariadne, who fills the office of Consul-General of Prussia at Frankfort, gave a grand ball to the Sovereigns. The Prussian Government has since expressed its dissatisfaction at the fête having been given without its consent. Count Rechberg, in the name of the Emperor of Austria, has remitted to the Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the various German States a memorial pointing out the best and most speedy mode of bringing the project of reform submitted by the Emperor of Austria for the approval of the German Sovereigns to a satisfactory solution. The memorial states that it is highly important the Princes should agree upon the essential points of the programme, and should not separate before the termination of this preliminary and fundamental work. The Emperor of Austria was to have an interview with Queen Victoria at Rosenau on Thursday.

Prussia.—Prince Alfred of England has arrived in Potsdam. The King of Saxony returned to Frankfort on Friday, with a letter from the King of Prussia declining the collective invitation of the Princes, on the same grounds as those he had already communicated to the Austrian Government during his stay at Gastein. The reply of the King was published on Monday. His Majesty repeats the refusal he had already given on the 4th inst., observing that he feels it the more incumbent upon him to do so from not having yet received any official communication of the propositions. His Majesty states that it would be impossible to participate in the deliberations of the Congress without entering into binding engagements, which he could not do without consulting his advisers. Every communication, however, made to his Majesty by his Federal allies will be readily and carefully taken into consideration. A despatch of Count von Bismark to the Prussian representative at Frankfort has also been published, dated Baden, the 21st inst. It concludes as follows:—

"For the present I must declare the Austrian project of Federal reform, according to our opinions, neither adequate to the actual position of the Prussian monarchy, nor to the just interests of the German people. Were Prussia to accept the propositions, she would renounce the position her power and history have created for her in the family of European States. She would run the risk of devoting the strength of the country to ends foreign to its interests, and over whose employment we should not have that degree of influence and control we are justly entitled to claim."

An Adjutant-General of the Czar left Berlin on the 24th for Baden. It is reported that he has been sent to the King of Prussia on an extraordinary mission from St. Petersburg.

Bavaria.—At the special sitting of the House of Representatives at Munich on Saturday, the President of the Chamber delivered a speech, in which he called upon the members to avail themselves of the opportunity of sho·ing that they unanimously approve the exertions of the Sovereigns to bring about German unity. The House gave three cheers for the Princes assembled at Frankfort.

Saxony.—The King of Saxony intends returning to Dresden, and leaving the Crown Prince as his representative at Frankfort.

Austria.—The Town Council of Vienna have resolved to give the Emperor a most brilliant reception on his return from Frankfort, and have granted the committee appointed for that purpose an unlimited credit.

Italy.—The Stampa of Wednesday says that it is rumoured that M. Baroche, the Minister of Justice, has reported in favour of the extradition of the five brigands. The news however is not yet officially announced. Signor Massari's Report on Brigandage has been published, and has produced a great sensation. It clearly proves the complicity of the Roman Government. The new law for the suppression of brigandage was promulgated on the 21st. The Stampa, in an article on the subject, regrets that certain special conditions connected with public safety have compelled the Government to declare 11 provinces infested by brigandage, although all of them are not equally agitated. The Minister, it says, is preparing the way for the execution of the law, and very shortly special tribunals will be instituted, juntas established, the relations between the civil and military authorities regulated, and volunteers enrolled. It points out the advantage which may be expected from the voluntary enlistment of riflemen, and concludes by saying that the political character of brigandage has almost disappeared, and would disappear entirely if Francis II. were driven from Rome, it Italy recovered her capital, and confided in the efficacy of the new measures. The railway from Castel Borghese to Ravenna was opened on Sunday in presence of a large concourse of people. Prince Carignan and the Ministers Minghetti, Peruzzi, and Menabrea were enthusiastically cheered. The Bill for the cession of the Victor Emmanuel Railway to the State received the Royal assent on Tuesday.

Russia.—The replies of the Western Powers were delivered to Prince Gortschakoff on Wednesday the 19th inst. The Patrie says that it does not expect that Russia will make any concessions. The old Muscovite party is averse to a temporising policy, and public opinion pronounces energetically against every concession. The Courrier du Dimanche of Saturday believes itself able to guarantee that the Notes of the three Powers contain an identical conclusion, couched in the following terms:—

"One imperious duty now remains to be fulfilled by the Government. This is to call the most serious attention of Prince Gortschakoff to the gravity of the situation and the responsibility it imposes upon Russia. Austria, France, and England have pointed out the urgency of putting an end to a deplorable condition of affairs, filled with peril to Europe. They have indicated the means which it appears to them their duty to be employed to attain this end. If Russia does not do all that depends upon her, to realise the moderate and conciliatory intentions of the three Powers, if she does not enter upon the course indicated by their friendly counsels, she will become responsible for the serious consequences which the prolongation of disorder in Poland may bring about."

Finland.—It is asserted that the Fins have sent delegates to St. Petersburg demanding a Constitution for Finland and a separate Finnish army.

Poland.—Private letters from Warsaw state that the Grand Duke Constantine left the Polish capital for St. Petersburg on the 25th inst. The Grand Duchess remained. It is reported that the Grand Duke has been summoned by the Emperor to deliberate upon the affairs of Poland. A rumour was current at the Bourse on Tuesday of the assassination of General Mouravieff. The Pays states that it is without foundation. General Mouravieff is now endeavouring to compel the peasants to sign addresses of loyalty to the Emperor. Five peasants have been banged in the district of Mariopol; a number were arrested, and 30 conducted to Wilna to sign the address. Gen. Mouravieff has also hung without trial, at Wilna, two brothers, Joseph and Alexander Bewkowki, suspected of participation in the attempt to assassinate the Marshal of the Lithuanian nobility. The engineer Zeglinski was hanged at Gledamek on the 17th. The pretext for his execution is unknown. Marszewski and Dombrowski have been hanged at Warsaw. Jablouski and Sipowicz were hanged at Wilna on the 19th. Madlle. Slanianoff, a young Polish lady, 20 years of age, has just died near Dubbein, in consequence of a flogging with the knout, inflicted by the orders of Mouravieff, because she wore mourning. At the beginning of the present month General Mouravieff confiscated 162 estates in the palatinate of Wilna. Since then he has issued a decree for the confiscation of 193 more. The landed proprietors are forced to sell their cattle, their carriages, and even their furniture, to pay the extraordinary tax of 10 per cent. levied by the Governor of Wilna. The property of one lady of large fortune has been confiscated because one of her sons joined the insurgents, although she has four other sons who are officers in the Russian army. A convoy of 47 condemned persons were transported last week to Siberia. Officials, with strong military escorts, are to traverse the kingdom of Poland to collect the taxes, and sequestrate the estates of those who refuse payment. The latest intelligence from Lithuania announces that the detachment commanded by Mackiewicz has gained a victory over a superior Russian force near Kiesdany. Ten thousand Russians have been sent into the palatinate of Lublin. Insurgent detachments, under Eminowicz and Cwick, are hastening with reinforcements from the government of that province. The Polish leaders are taking care to avoid an engagement. The Galician frontier is unguarded. The Presse states that an engagement unfavourable to the Russians had taken place at Obiachow, in the palatinate of Cracow. Railway and telegraphic communication between Cracow and Warsaw has been interrupted. A rising of the peasantry has taken place in the palatinate of Sandomir. The first engagement between them and the Russian forces is said to have already taken place at Jedlna, in the vicinity of Radom. Cavalry engagements of Taczanowski's corps, favourable to the insurgents, took place on the 18th at Kusno, and on the 12th at Poddembic. The insurgents were victorious in cavalry engagements at Dobra on the 21st, and at Gluchow on the 23d in the voyvodeship of Kalisz. The railway communication between Warsaw and Zombkowire, near the Prussian frontier, has been interrupted. The insurgents have destroyed six bridges, and interrupted telegraphic communication. A considerable insurrection of the peasants against Russia has broken out in the Ukraine.

Greece.—The King of the Greeks, according to the Copenhagen papers, will soon take his departure for Athens. His Majesty will arrive in Greece in the latter half of October, after the vote for the annexation of the Ionian Islands by the Ionian Parliament. The King will stay in London 10 days, and a similar time in Paris.

The Principalities.—Prince Couza has addressed a Note to the Powers who protested against his sequestration of the property of the Greek convents, declaring that this sequestration is definitive, but that he is disposed to grant an indemnity to the Greek priests for the sequestrated property. Holland has demanded of Prince Couza a modification in the Roumain flag, on account of its resemblance to her own.

Syria.—Some disturbances have taken place in the vicinity of Damascus. The Bedouins, under Djibel, attacked a detachment of gendarmes, of whom five were killed. Similar attacks took place at Kesronet. These outbreaks have caused some uneasiness, but it is believed that energetic measures on the part of the Turkish Government will soon put a stop to them.

Egypt.—The Viceroy has gone for a visit of a fortnight to Upper Egypt. M. de Lesseps has arrived at Alexandria. The Annamite Ambassadors have arrived at Suez. The statements published by some journals relative to the Suez Canal settlement are erroneous. Forced labour is absolutely abolished, the company having six months allowed them to make other labour arrangements. The Viceroy has already provided 900 labourers to work at the Canal.

Cape of Good Hope.—Accounts from the Cape to the 21st ult. state that the dissolution of the Cape Parliament was expected in a few days. Only two of the taxing Bills proposed by the Governor had passed, i. e., the Transfer Duties Bill and the Succession Duties Bill. They were expected to yield only 2000*l.* additional revenue this year, but 25,000*l.* next year. The Governor had introduced another Bill to amend the stamp tariff. A Bill has been passed authorizing the Government to raise a loan in England of 150,000*l.* upon debentures at 6 per cent. interest. A motion for introducing a responsible or party Government has been rejected. The Assembly has voted an address to the Governor to summon the next Session of Parliament in the Eastern province. The Council had passed a resolution for the introduction of Lancashire emigrants at the expense of the Home Government, but the Assembly rejected the motion. There was some danger of hostilities upon the frontier between the Basutos and the Free State from a dispute about their boundaries. News had been received from the Zambesi to May 18. Bishop Tozer and his companions had arrived safely, and landed at the mouth of the Congone River. The bishop intended to proceed to the mission station as speedily as possible to take council with Mr. Proctor, and also with Dr. Livingstone, as to future opinions.

Persia.—The capture of Herat is reported to have aroused an extremely warlike spirit at Teheran.

China.—From Pekin and the Northern Ports there is no political news. An embassy from the Netherlands was about to proceed to Pekin. At Hankow, everything was quiet; at Kiuikiang also tranquillity prevailed, though the Taepings were known to be in the neighbourhood. Nankin had been attacked by a considerable Imperialist force, and some important outworks taken. A few Englishmen who were engaged in an illicit traffic in the creeks, were killed or wounded by the imperial troops; others fled to Chinkiang, 50 miles to the eastward. At Ningpo an Englishman charged with selling arms to the rebels, was tried by a court-martial, consisting of four British officers, presided over by a French colonel. The four officers, it is said, were in favour of his acquittal; but the French colonel held a different opinion, and having ordered the man to be sent to the head-quarters of the Franco-Chinese contingent, he was there taken out at night and shot.

Japan.—Advices from Yokohama state that the indemnity claimed by England was being paid at the departure of the mail, on the 27th June. Colonel Neale and Admiral Kuper had, however, been compelled once more to threaten hostilities in eight days in order to obtain payment. The Japanese finding that preparations were making by the fleet, communicated to Colonel Neale through the French Minister that they were ready to pay the money as agreed upon, by instalments. Colonel Neale replied that as the Japanese had suffered matters to go so far, the whole sum must be paid at once, in 440,000 Mexican dollars, to be delivered at 7 the next morning. The money was paid accordingly. At the same time, the Japanese Ministers informed the foreign Ministers that the Tycoon, then at Miako, had instructed them to obey the Mikado's orders to expel foreigners and close the ports, and expressed themselves willing to enter into negotiations on the subject. The foreign Ministers declined to discuss any such matters, but promised to convey the communication to their respective Governments. The Japanese also requested that foreigners would hold their settlements by their own military forces. The Prince of Satsuma still refused to deliver up the murderers of Mr. Richardson.

United States.—General Lee has a considerable force between the Rapidan and the Rappahannock, holds all the passes of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and has a strong force in the Shenandoah Valley. It is anticipated that he may send a portion of his forces through one of the gaps to Gainsville or Manassas, in order to attack simultaneously the front and rear of General Meade's position. A new Confederate camp has been discovered at Poney Mountain, near Culpepper, and the Confederate cavalry have captured a Federal signal station near Warrenton. General Meade has had a conference with the President, General Halleck, and Mr. Stanton, at Washington. Considerable excitement has been caused throughout California by a contemplated rising of Secessionists. An affray has occurred at Vasalia, in the northern part of the State, between the soldiers and Secessionists. The citizens were arming, and cavalry was sent to Vasalia. Secession outbreaks are also rumoured to have occurred in Santa Clara and Salano counties, north and south of San Francisco Bay. The fortifications of San Francisco are to be commenced immediately, and General Wright, the military Governor, has instituted other measures to meet the contingency. A vessel which passed Charleston on the night of the 7th states that Fort Sumter and the batteries on Morris Island kept up a terrific bombardment on the Federal position. A combined land and naval assault on Charleston was appointed for the 13th, which Admiral Dahlgren and General Gilmore are sanguine will result in the capture of Forts Sumter and Wagner and of Cumming's Point. Deserters assert that the Confederates have removed guns from Sumter and mounted them on James Island. The Confederates are actively at work on James Island preparing to defeat the Federal plans. Federal reinforcements of coloured troops continue to be sent to Charleston. It is rumoured that the 300 pounder Parrot gun sent to be used against Fort Sumter was lost overboard at Morris Island. Commander Bell has superseded Admiral Farragut in the Gulf department. Numerous guerilla bands are marauding throughout the interior counties of Missouri. General Grant in his official report of the siege of Vicksburg, published in the Official Gazette, attributes his success to the efficiency of his army and the prompt co-operation of Admiral Porter and his officers. The value of war material and general merchandise which has run the blockade at Wilmington, South Carolina, since the commencement of the present month, is estimated to be 3,000,000 dollars. On the 4th inst. 18 Federal negro soldiers from Island No. 10, on the Mississippi, proceeded to Beckham's Landing, in Tennessee, and murdered Mr. Beckham and his whole family of six persons. A number of the murderers have been arrested, and state that they were incited to the act by the chaplain of their regiment, who had been unsuccessful in the attempt to obtain the freedom of a coloured girl belonging to Mr. Beckham. The British, French, Russian, Spanish, Prussian, Italian, and Swedish Ministers have left Washington, accompanied by Mr. Seward, upon an excursion to the Northern Lakes. The municipality of New York has unanimously passed a vote of 3,000,000 dols. to provide substitutes for drafted men. Judge M'Cann, of New York, has officially declared the Conscription Act to be unconstitutional. The Judge Advocate General has declared it to be a gigantic political fraud intended to deprive the Democratic party of their rights, and the German Democratic Club has denounced it as despotic and unconstitutional. The Orangetown Democratic Society on the 11th resolved to recognise Governor Seymour alone as the Commander-in-Chief of the Militia of New York. Governor Seymour has again written to the President, emphatically repeating his request for the proper adjustment of the quotas of the several districts before the draft should be finally ordered. The President replied that he should adhere to his intention of immediately resuming the draft. Much alarm prevails in New York in consequence of this correspondence, as it is feared that the working classes, supported by the opinion of the Governor, will again attempt a forcible resistance. The New York Herald says:—"If a riot and anarchy should arise out of the quarrel between President Lincoln and the Governor of New York, the country will hold to a rigid reckoning the two actors playing political parts so full of peril to domestic peace and the very existence of the nation." The trials of the parties accused of participating in the recent riots are in progress before Recorder Hoffman. Several of the prisoners have been sentenced to terms in the State prison varying from three months to 10 years. The New York Herald states that a convention of prominent Republicans was about to be held at Washington. The object of the meeting is not known, but the Herald asserts that information has reached Washington that the Confederates were willing to return to the Union if terms were offered them, and that the Republican party is desirous to stop the war and to avoid the unpopularity of the conscription. The New York Tribune denies the statement that any such convention is to be held. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger states that it is the intention of the parties interested in the Peterhoff to appeal against the decision of Judge Betts, and in the event of his decision being confirmed by the higher courts, to petition the British Government to interfere. The Richmond Examiner denounces the military appointments made by President Davis, and says, "The spirit of resistance to the North is as strong as ever, but the Southern people are weary of the flagrant mismanagement of the Government by President Davis's Administration." On the departure of the Royal Mail steamship Shannon from St. Thomas's, a rumour had reached that place that the Alabama had engaged and sunk the Federal war steamer Vanderbilt, off Havannah. The report, however, requires confirmation.

CANADA.—Mr. D'Arcy M'Gee has addressed a letter to the Montreal Gazette, stating that the Federal Government has erected a new fort at Rouse's Point, 45 miles from Montreal, with magazines capable of containing supplies for 100,000 men, also barrack accommodation for a permanent garrison of 5000 men. The plan contemplated at Washington for an invasion of Canada is to march 100,000 men up the district of Montreal, to cut the connection between Upper and Lower Canada; to abstain from meddling in local affairs, but to force the separation of the upper and lower provinces by the mere force of the army of occupation interposing its military barrier to their intercourse. What would follow such a separation has not escaped the calculation of the Federal Government. Mr. M'Gee urges the appointment of a Crown Prince for Canada, adopting other means for her closer connection with England; otherwise, in the day of need, England will only give nominal assistance. The Canadian Parliament assembled on the 13th. The Governor-General directed the special attention of the Legislature to the Militia Law, which required extensive amendment to make it effective. He asked Parliament to sanction the outlay incurred in consequence of the last Parliament ending without voting supplies, and also for a pledge for the necessary expenses for the current year. He recommended the establishment of telegraphic and postal communication between Lake Superior and the Pacific.

MEXICO.—Intelligence from Vera Cruz to the 24th of July says that the towns of Jalapa, Cordova, Orizaba, Tlascala, and Cholula had adhered to the vote of the Notables of Mexico. Comonfort had issued an order recommending his troops to submit to the will of the nation. A French corps d'armée is marching upon San Luis Potosi, which is held by Juarez with 15,000 men. Miramon has re-entered Mexican territory with a few thousand adventurers collected in Texas.

CUBA.—La France says that letters have been sent to Madrid from Havannah, by the principal inhabitants of Cuba, demanding that Spain should come to an agreement with France for the organisation of Mexico in a strong and durable manner, on the ground that the interests of Havannah are intimately allied with those of Mexico.

City Intelligence.

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at $93\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ for Money, and $93\frac{3}{8}$ for Account; Three per Cents. Reduced, $93\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$; New Three per Cents., $93\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$; India Five per Cent. Stock, $108\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto Bonds, 19*s*. pm.; Exchequer Bills, 2*s*. to 1*s* pm.—FOREIGN: Egyptian, $104\frac{3}{4}$; Greek, for Acct., $34\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto Coupons, for Acct., $1\frac{5}{8}$ to $\frac{7}{8}$; Italian, $71\frac{5}{8}$; Ditto Maremmana Railway, 79; Mexican, 38; Ditto for Acct., $38\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$; Peruvian, 1862, 86; Ditto for Acct., $86\frac{1}{2}$ to 87; Portuguese, 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, 49; Ditto for Acct., $49\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$; Russian, 1862, $92\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$; Sardinian, for Acct., $89\frac{1}{2}$; Spanish Passive, 34 to $\frac{1}{8}$; Ditto for Acct., $34\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., 13; Turkish, 1854, for Acct., 94 to $93\frac{1}{2}$; Ditto 1858, $72\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{8}$; Ditto 1862, $69\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$; Ditto for Acct., $69\frac{7}{8}$ to 70; Venezuela, for Acct., 24; Ditto 1862, $57\frac{1}{2}$.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued | £29,134,010 | Government Debt | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion | 14,484,010 |
| | | Silver Bullion | — |
| | £29,134,010 | | £29,134,010 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) | £11,091,284 |
| Rest | 3,412,076 | Other Securities | 18,134,473 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) | 6,713,801 | Notes | 8,141,350 |
| Other Deposits | 12,806,568 | Gold and Silver Coin | 825,374 |
| Seven days and other bills | 707,036 | | |
| | £38,192,481 | | £38,192,481 |

August 27, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: August 21.—BANKRUPTS.—G. ASBEY, Chester, Painter—J. BRADLEY, Hulme, Lancashire, Tailor—W. E. BULL, St. Helen's, Isle of Wight, Baker—A. P. H. BOWEN, Everton, Liverpool, Drysalter—E M. DU BLAISEL, Gloucester Crescent, Regent's Park, Commission Agent—J. CHAMBERS, Broom, Bedfordshire, Ginger Beer Manufacturer—G. COOKE, late of Carlton-le-Moreland, Lincolnshire, Baker—K. CHANDLER, jun., Blechynden Terrace, Lancaster Road, Notting Hill Builder—T. COUPLAND, Lincoln, Farmer—W DENSEY, Seymour Place, West Brompton, Carpenter—L. DARE, Bridgwater, Somersetshire, Stonemason—A ENGLISH, Shoreham, Sussex, Sailmaker—E. FINCKENSTADT, Southampton, Sugar Refiner—W. GOODWIN, Belper, Derbyshire, Framework Knitter—E. GREENHALGH, late of Liverpool, Dealer in Oils—B G. PEARSON, late of Liverpool, Dealer in Plaster of Paris—T. R. GIDDY, Newport, Monmouthshire, Innkeeper—K. GRAVES, Brook Street, Hanover Square, Widow—W. GRIFFITHS, Fishguard, Pembrokeshire, Saddler—W. GILLARD, jun., Regent Street, Oxford Street, Artist—S. GOODE, New Street, Bethnal Green, Willow and Manilla Square Manufacturer—W. GEORGE, Trinity Street, Liverpool Road, Islington—GEORGE HEYES, Little Lever, Lancashire, Manufacturer—E. HALL, Duke Street, Grosvenor Square, Beer Retailer—W. HALL, Kidderminster, Gardener—H. HOCKING, Penzance, Cornwall, Widow—W. H. INMAN, Harmood Street, Camden Town, Billiard Room Proprietor—J. JEFFERIES, Stone, Staffordshire, Journeyman Joiner—T. JONES, late Llynegr, Flintshire, Brewer—T. JONES, Hooper Street, Westminster Road, Manager to a Beershop Keeper—M. JERDEIN, Stafford Street, Bond Street, Gentleman—G. JAY, Norwich, Fish Merchant—I. LOTINGA, Sunderland, Shipbroker—G. LAROCHE, Bath, Milliner—A. MURDOCH, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Hatter—T. MOLLART, Fenton, Staffordshire, Coal Dealer—W MAKINGS, Lees Mews, Grosvenor Square, Farrier—J. MARTIN, London Fields, Cabinet Maker—H. W. MILES, King Street, Hammersmith, Greengrocer—W. NORTH, Torquay, Devonshire, Corn Dealer—J W. NOWELL, Brixham, Devonshire, Shipowner—R. NISBOUR, Brighton, Sussex, Professor of Music and Singing—H. W OLIPHANT, late of Torrington Square, Contributor to the Public Press—G. PHILLIPS, The Cottage, Dudley Mews, Dudley Grove, Paddington Green, in the employment of the London General Omnibus Company—W. POWER, Tettenhall, Staffordshire, Gamekeeper—P. P. SMITH, Huntington, Yorkshire, Agricultural Labourer—R. PICKLES, Burnley, Lancashire, Grocer—T. ROWE, late Liverpool, Corn and Flour Dealer—C. H. ROSS, Museum Street Bloomsbury, Clerk—WILLIAM RULE, Workington, Cumberland, Builder—H. D. RAWLINGS, Falmouth, Cornwall, Grocer—T. ROBINSON, Bishop's Cleeve, Gloucestershire, Butcher—W. H. RYDER, Leicester, Grocer—D. SMITH, North Ormesby, Yorkshire, Tailor—R. STROUD, Northam, Southampton, Milkman—W. STONES, jun., late of Kington, Herefordshire, Licensed Victualler—W. A. SANDERS, Old Bailey, City, Corn Dealer—H. THURSTAN, Walsall, Staffordshire, Commission Agent—J. TUCKFIELD, Great Sutton Street, Watch Manufacturer—R. THOMAS, Southwark Bridge Road, Grocer—J. THOMAS, Swansea, Glamorganshire, Tailor and Draper—J. THEAKER, Morley, Yorkshire, Oil Dealer—R. THOMPSON, Bilston Staffordshire, Butcher—J. UNSWORTH, late Prestwich, Lancashire, Butcher—C. WYATT, Sun Street, Bishopsgate Street, City, Beer Retailer—GEORGE WILLIAM WHITE (sued as GEORGE WHITE & G— W— WHITE, King's Road, Chelsea, Boot and Shoe Manufacturer—C. WINSPEAR, Middleton, Durham, Shipwright—J. WILLIAMS, Llandrillo-yn rhos, Carnarvonshire, Cordwainer—W. H. WALKER, Leeds, Yorkshire, Maltster—J. WATSON, Barnsley, Yorkshire, Innkeeper A. WOOD, Brighouse, Yorkshire, Pig Jobber—A. W. S. WATKINS, New North Road, Islington, Commercial Clerk—C. WRIGHT, Lincoln, Attorney's Clerk.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—A. G. GILMOUR & J. SAGE, Glasgow, Chemists—T. REID & J. TOWART, Glasgow, Printers.

TUESDAY: August 25.—BANKRUPTS.—J. ANDERSON, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, late Secretary—J. ATKINSON, Misson, Lincolnshire, late Innkeeper—T. BLACKMORE, Aller, Somersetshire, Shoemaker—C. BAILEY, Wharf Street, Leicester, Fishmonger—R BORRILL, Kingston-upon-Hull, Fruiterer—W. BAUM, Duke Street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, late Man Servant—W. D. BOWEN, Bransford, Worcestershire, Brewer's Assistant—T. COPLAND, Greenside, Durham, Commission Agent—W. CROSSLEY, Bradford, Yorkshire, Commission Agent—H. CONEY, Tottenham Court Road, Boot and Shoe Maker—J. P. COOKE, Crowndale Place, Oakley Square, Attorney-at-Law—T. CRUMMACK, Size Lan, City, Wholesale Stationer—H. CLARK, Salisbury Street, Strand, Doctor of Medicine—J. HILL CHEATLE, Birmingham, Brushmaker—J. COOMBES, Paignton, Devonshire, Carpenter—W. T. COWPER, Lower Broughton, Lancashire, Joiner—W. CHANTLER, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Merchant Tailor—J. CLOUGH, Salford, Lancashire, Drover—E. COOKE, Redditch, Worcestershire, Needle Manufacturer—J. DAWSON, Aldershott, Mess Cook—ABRAHAM DEAL, Deptford, Kent, Baker—EDWARD HARDEMAN DUNN, Abbey Gardens, St. Marylebone, Mariner—FRANK CHARLES DRAYTON, Ryde, Isle of Wight, Painter—WILLIAM DARLINGTON, Monks Coppenhall, Cheshire, Grocer—R. S. ELLIOTT, Tonbridge, Kent, Tobacconist—J. FARRANCE, Anthony Street, St. George's-in-the East, Licensed Victualler—E. FALVEY, Hall Place, Paddington, Coal Merchant—A. FIRTH, Cleckheaton, Yorkshire, Cabinet Maker—E. M. FEAR, Old Street Road, Shoreditch, Veneer Seller—G. FELDWICK, St. Martin's Court, Leicester Square, Patent Spring Roller Blind Manufacturer—A. FORBES, Tatton, Hampshire, late Stationer—R. FORSTER, Sussex Street, Pimlico, late Paint and Colour Manufacturer—W. GABB, Birmingham, Commission Agent—J. GOOD, Newcastle upon-Tyne, Plasterer—T. R. GIDDY, Newport, Monmouthshire, Innkeeper—A. GLEDHILL, Sheffield, Cutler—J. HIGGS, Tipton, Staffordshire, Miner—T. HUGGAN, Dublin, Engineer—J. W. HAMMOND, Hove, Sussex, Builder—G H. HALLIDAY, Manchester, Artificial Florist—G. HORNSBY, Gateshead, Durham, Commission Agent—G. G. HUGHES, Everton, Lancashire, late General Dealer—J. HALLIWELL, Tonge, Lancashire, Weaver—W. HUNTER, Preston, Lancashire, Coal Dealer—J. HALLIWELL, Middleton, Lancashire, Labourer—R. JOHN, Lampeter Velfrey, Pembrokeshire, Farmer—Y. KING, Stockbridge, Hampshire, Trainer of Horses—G. KERRISON, Norwich, Grocer and Tea Dealer—J. LUNN, Froyle, Hampshire, Shopkeeper—W. H. LEAVER, Redditch, Worcestershire—J W. LAW, Sale, Cheshire, Plumber—M. MORGANS, Tynllidiart, Cardiganshire, Grocer—B MITCHELL and J. MITCHELL, Leeds, Commission Agents—J. MOORE, Alphington, Devon, Gardener—W. MADDOCKS South Tranmere, Cheshire, Beerhouse Keeper—J. P. MARTIN, Washington Place, Peckham, Clerk to a Benevolent Society—E. MAIDMENT, Albany Road, Camberwell, Bread and Biscuit Baker—J. NAYLOR, Carlisle, Chorister—J NEWTON, Scarborough, Butcher—J. ORTON, Chelmsford, Butcher—J. O'BRIEN, Tonbridge Wells, Kent—C. H. ORGAN, Sittingbourne, Kent, Eating House Keeper—G. M. ORD, Bishop Auckland, Durham, Emigration Agent—J. W. PROCTOR, Borough Market, Southwark, Fruit and Vegetable Salesman—G. J. POUCHER, Old Broad Street, City, Accountant—R. PALMER, jun., Stokesley, Yorkshire, Attorney-at-law—JOHN PEPPER, Wakefield, Yorkshire, Provision Dealer—GEORGE PATTISON, Newcastle-upon Tyne, Joiner—THOMAS RICHARDSON, Wavertree, Lancashire, late Beerseller and Cowkeeper—D. RICHARDS, Maesteg, Glamorganshire, Innkeeper—J. C. ROSSITER, Moorgate Street, City, Merchant—N. SHARP, Binstead, Isle of Wight, late Yeoman—T. SMITH, Keighley, Yorkshire, Reedmaker—E. SKEFFINGTON, Carnforth, Lancashire, Timekeeper—A. SWONNELL, Ponsonby Terrace, Pimlico, Commission Agent—S. SHAW, Tonbridge, Coal Merchant—S. E. STRIDE and F. CLARKE, Conduit Street, Bond Street, Outfitters—FREDERIC TAYLER (sued and committed as FREDERICK TAYLER), Greenwich, Bill Broker—E C. B TUDOR, Shiffnal, Shropshire, Plumber—W WILKINSON Salford, Lancashire, Printer—J. WESTCOTT, Kingston upon Hull, Smack Owner—F B WORTH, Rothwell, Yorkshire, late Plumber—J. WOODGATES, Birmingham, Journeyman Coffee Mill Maker—W. WAKEFIELD Gloucester, Grocer—H. WARD, Tunstall, Suffolk, Widow—W. WEEKS, Foot's Cray, Kent Ostler.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—J. M'GIBBON, Glasgow, Grocer—J. M'LAY, Glasgow, Rope Manufacturer—W. M'LEAN, Dundee, Auctioneer.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

FUNERAL OF LORD CLYDE.—The funeral of Field-Marshal Lord Clyde took place on Saturday, as previously announced, in Westminster Abbey. The procession on leaving Berkeley Square passed through Piccadilly, St. James's Street, Pall Mall, Cockspur Street, Charing Cross, Whitehall, Parliament Street, and to the Abbey entrance in Dean's-yard, preceded by a body of police to clear the way. The hearse, without any emblazonments in the shape of escutcheons, was drawn by four horses, and followed by fourteen mourning coaches, the carriage of the Queen, drawn by six horses, the carriage of the Prince of Wales, drawn by four horses, the carriage of the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief; the carriage of the Duchess of Cambridge, and by a great number of carriages of the nobility and gentry. Among the mourners in the 14 coaches were—Major General Eyre, Commandant of Chatham Garrison; Colonel M'Murdo, Colonel Alison, the Duke of Wellington, Earl de Grey and Ripon, Secretary of State for War; General Forster, the Earl of Longford, the Marquis of Donegal, Lord Gough, General Arbuthnot, General Sir Richard Airey, Major-General Lord Francis Paulet, the Earl of Lucan, Lord Rokeby, Sir Henry Horsford, Earl St. Maur, Sir E. Lugard, Sir R. Walpole, Major Alison, General Coke, Major Dormar, Viscount Dangan, Major Mansfield, Sir R. Hamilton, and other officers and friends. On reaching the cloisters at the south-eastern corner of Dean's Yard, the coffin was removed from the hearse, and it was then discovered that its lid was ornamented with the most beautifully woven chaplets and immortelles, which had been worked by the children of General Eyre, to whom the deceased was very much attached. At this point the procession was joined by the Earl of Ellenborough, Major General Beresford, Mr. Peter Stewart Macliver, of Iona House, Clifton, the cousin of deceased, and others, who followed as mourners. The pall-bearers then took their places on either side of the coffin, consisting of—The Duke of Wellington, Major-General Eyre, Earl de Grey and Ripon, General Forster, Sir Richard Airey, Quartermaster-General; Lord Longford, Lord Frederick Paulet, and Sir Robert Hamilton. On reaching the south door of the Abbey, the corpse was met by the Rev. Lord John Thynne, sub-dean, the Rev. Canon Nepean, the Rev. Canon Jennings, and other dignitaries attached to the Abbey, and headed by the High Bailiff of Westminster, and preceded by the vergers, beadles, and choristers, the procession began to move along the south aisles to the western porch, where it entered the nave; the choir pealing forth the choral service and anthems by Croft, Purcell, and Handel. The service was read by Lord John Thynne, and the coffin was borne to the grave in the nave, close to that of General Outram. The coffin bore the simple words, "Field Marshal Lord Clyde, died 14th of August, 1863, aged 70 years." In connection with these details we may mention that the following general order has been issued from the Horse Guards to the Army, by the special command of the Queen:—

> "His Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief has received her Majesty's commands to express to the army her grief at the lamented death of Field Marshal Lord Clyde. The great military services performed by Lord Clyde in different parts of the world, the success with which in most trying circumstances he restored peace to her Majesty's Indian empire, and the personal regard which her Majesty and her beloved Consort entertained for his high and honourable character, make her Majesty deeply deplore the loss which the Queen, in common with her Majesty's subjects, has sustained."

NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—The Council of this Association have made an appeal to the public for a more extended support than they have hitherto received. They state that their annual expenditure, including the sums they expend in prizes, exceeds 8000*l*. a year; and that their annual income, arising from subscriptions, is little over 2000*l*. For the difference of nearly 6000*l*. they are dependent on the attractions of the annual competition; attractions which a week of wet weather at the time of the competition would suffice to destroy, or at any rate seriously impair, and convert a precarious surplus into a serious deficit. They therefore hope that the present appeal will double or triple the thousand subscribers which is the whole number that the association can at present boast of.

LANCASHIRE RELIEF FUND.—At a meeting of the Mansion House Committee on Friday, the financial statement showed that out of 509 200*l*., the total amount of subscriptions up to that day, the Committee had an available balance in hand of 71,815*l*. 14*s*. The receipts during the last fortnight had amounted to 695*l*. odd, of which 405*l*. had come from the colonies. The report also stated that the interest of the floating balance invested at call, a matter of economy, had more than paid all the working expenses of the fund, including advertisements of lists of subscription. Mr. Childers, M.P., at the head of a large deputation of Australian merchants in the city, representing the Victoria (Australia) Emigrants' Assistance Society, appeared before the Committee to ask for a further grant of 2000*l.* to aid 500 or 600 more people to emigrate, with some supplemental assistance from the Manchester Committee. The Committee, on the motion of Mr. Cubitt, seconded by Mr. Cotton, voted a sum of 1000*l.*, or 2*l.* a head, to which they had limited themselves by a previous general resolution, towards assisting these 500 people to emigrate from Lancashire and Cheshire, under the care of the society, and a further sum of 160*l.* to recoup the society in respect of 80 emigrants at 2*l.* a head, who had exceeded the number of 500 for whom the Committee had voted 1000*l.* in the spring of this year. Mr. Childers, in returning thanks on the part of the deputation, said that a letter received by the society by the last mail contained the gratifying announcement that, under a Bill which was about to pass, at least 150,000*l.* a year would be expended by the Colonial Government for purposes of emigration. The Committee also granted 364*l.* 15*s.* to the Manchester Emigrants Aid Committee, and 54*l.* to a similar body at Carlisle, making the whole sum voted for purposes of emigration 1578*l.* 15*s.* Grants were then voted to various places in the distressed districts to the amount of 1940*l.*; and set apart a fresh sum of 5000*l.* to their emigration fund.

THE NELSON COLUMN.—Sir Edwin Landseer has completed his model of the lion which is to be the type of the other three; and report says that it is in all respects worthy of his fame. The lion is couchant, with his massive arms extended straight before him; his huge head, calm in the consciousness of might, erect and watchful, but with no anger or defiance, except that which is inseparable from such strength. It is not much above the size of a large full-grown animal, but the actual lion cast in bronze for the pedestals of Trafalgar Square will be 20 feet long, all the other dimensions being enlarged in proportion, according to a regular scale. When this is done with one lion, a slight turn of the head, the movement of a limb, or the shifting of a paw, will give variety and life to the group, still preserving that harmony of action and character required for so large a monument.

THE LATE SIR FREDERICK SLADE.—Legal proceedings, involving circumstances of a most romantic character, are likely, says the Sherborne Journal, to arise out of a claim made by the brother of the late Sir Frederick Slade to the title and estate of the deceased baronet. It is alleged that, when Sir Frederick married Lady Slade, the latter was then the wife of an Austrian gentleman, who died in 1857; and not only so, but that, when the Austrian alliance was formed, there was a previous marriage. It is believed to be a fact that Sir Frederick, for obvious reasons, repeated the marriage ceremony as often as children were born to him. The defence will turn, it is said, upon the legality of the second marriage, which is held to be no marriage if the first husband was then living—it being contended that the third one, if contracted after the first husband died, is thereby a strictly legal and binding engagement. The case will probably come on for trial at an early date, and Lady Slade, of course, will be the most prominent and important witness. Eminent counsel are already engaged for the occasion.

BLONDIN IN DANGER.—The Seville journals state that during a performance in that city, a few days since, the celebrated Blondin was nearly losing his life, and only owed his escape to his presence of mind. While performing in a head-dress, to which was attached a piece of firework in the shape of a wheel, the fireworks assumed a rotary motion so violent that Blondin was unable to resist the movement; and feeling his danger, let go the barrow he had been driving as well as his balancing pole, and endeavoured to undo the strings which attached the burning head-dress to his neck. He dropped from the rope, keeping himself suspended from it by one leg, while he divested himself of the apparatus, the fireworks still exploding. At length he succeeded, and came down in safety, amidst the cheers of the spectators.

ACCIDENT AT BLACKFRIARS BRIDGE.—On Saturday afternoon an alarming accident happened at the new bridge now erecting at Blackfriars for the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway. A travelling crane upon which seven men were at work was crossing a tramway between two of the wooden piers, when one of the cross girders suddenly gave way, and the crane with the men upon it fell into the water. A barge which was passing at the time was between the piers when the scaffolding broke, but the men on it escaped with a few cuts and bruises. One of the men on the crane was crushed under some part of the machine and drowned. The others had a marvellous escape, only three of them being seriously hurt. One of these had his ribs broken, but is doing well at his own residence in Camberwell. Another received a scalp wound and a severe cut in the leg, and was taken to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, but will be able to leave it in a few days. The third, who was carried to Guy's Hospital, left as soon as his wounds were dressed. One of the river steamboats passed the spot where the accident occurred, only two or three minutes before the crane fell; had it been underneath the tramway at the time the consequence would have been fearful. Divers were at work on Sunday during nearly the whole of the day recovering the broken crane, which was safely landed on the Surrey side of the river on Monday afternoon, and was found to have sustained little or no injury.

SUICIDE OF DR. NARNI.—An Italian physician named Narni has been in London for some time displaying certain instruments of torture, which were said to have been in use in the Neapolitan prisons under the Bourbon dynasty, and he employed Madame Seyton-Sicard to lecture upon them and explain their use. The exhibition, however, did not appear to meet the English taste, and on Saturday, Dr. Narni, oppressed, it is said, with the want of means to meet his engagements, committed suicide.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.—A shocking case of suicide, preceded by an attempt to murder, took place a few days since at the East end of London. A man named Williamson, a dock labourer, and member of a rifle corps, had been out drinking all night. In the morning he went home and demanded more money from his wife, and, as she did not give him all he wanted, he attempted to cut her throat. She burst from him, however, and escaped from the house. An hour or two afterwards it was discovered that he had shot himself through the head with his rifle. The Jury returned a verdict of "Suicide while suffering from delirium tremens, the effect of drink."

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.—The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London in the week that ended Saturday, the 22d August, were 1337. The average number in the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853—62, corrected for increase of population, was 1324. The present return is therefore 13 above the average. During the week the births of 912 boys and 876 girls, in all 1788 children, were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1811.

Provincial.

MANCHESTER.—At the weekly meeting of the Central Executive Committee on Monday, the Earl of Derby in the chair, the financial report stated that the balance in the bank was 310,588*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*, and that 190*l.* 18*s.* 10*d.* had been received during the week. Mr. Farnall reported that on the 15th inst. there was an increase in the number of persons receiving parochial relief in the 27 unions, as compared with the previous week, of 382. A discussion followed on the general prospects of the district. Mr. J. R. Kay said that the condition of things in Bury appeared more gloomy now than a few weeks ago; and that one of the largest manufacturing firms in his neighbourhood, that of Messrs. Grant Brothers, were about to close their mill and retire from business. Mr. T. Ashton thought there were no new grounds to warrant any important variation from the estimate put forth by the Committee at Christmas last. The imports of cotton in the interval had been, if anything, rather less than was calculated upon; but the difference was inconsiderable. There was no doubt that every bale of cotton imported would be used, and next year a large supply might be looked for, as they ought not to anticipate another failure in the Indian crop. Mr. Hugh Mason mentioned that a manufacturer with whom he was well acquainted, employing 700 hands, and whose works had been stopped for several months, bought cotton about eight weeks ago, and again opened his works, thinking that at the then price of the raw material there would be less loss in working than in keeping the machinery idle. Since he went into the market, however, the price of cotton had advanced 2½*d.* per lb., and it became a question with him whether he should not close again. Mr. Ashton said that similar changes in the market had been occurring during the last 18 months. Mr. E. Ashworth expressed the opinion, as a member of the Cotton Supply Association, that there would not be more than 22,000 bales per week for consumption till the close of the year, leaving the stock in Liverpool at that time the same as in the present month, viz., in round numbers, 150,000 bales less than at the commencement of the year—that was to say, the trade would lessen the stock in Liverpool, beyond the imports, to 150,000 bales. This 22,000 bales per week would be equivalent to three days' working. He could show from correspondence received by the Cotton Supply Association, a promise based upon crops of cotton now growing, of a supply equal to 4½ days per week employment for 1864. The Earl of Derby inquired from what countries the increased supply was expected? Mr. E. Ashworth replied that 350,000 bales, equal to 250,000 bales of American, were expected from the Turkish dominions; there would be a small increase from Italy and the Mediterranean Islands, an increase of 50,000 bales from Egypt, and of 100,000 more from Brazil and Peru. Sir C. Wood had stated that, owing to the unfavourable season in India in 1862, we had a much smaller excess of quantity than might have been anticipated from the increased breadth of land placed under cotton. They might now take into their calculation, however, last year's increased breadth of land and the increased breadth this year; and he thought they might safely estimate an enlarged import from India for 1864 to the extent of 250,000 bales. The Earl of Derby said if these calculations were accurate, they were most important. Heretofore these districts had been dependent on America for at least five-sixths of their cotton; and according to the estimate now made, there would next year be a supply equal to nearly five days' working per week, wholly independent of America. Mr. Ashton said he had no doubt that the whole of Lancashire might be at full work in 1865 or 1866 without a bale of cotton being received from America, supposing the war were still progressing in that country. In reply to Mr. Worrall, he added that he believed there would be a sufficient supply for four-and-a-half days' working immediately after Christmas. Mr. E. Ashworth observed that the time at which the four-and-a-half days' employment should commence would be regulated, to some extent, by the extent of stocks in hand. If they were sufficiently reduced at Christmas to keep prices at the point which would permit of immediate recourse to fuller working, extended operations would then commence. The Indian cotton crops did not arrive till towards Midsummer, but prices would bring the Mediterranean and some other crops by January. During the past year the exports of manufactured goods from England had exceeded the imports of the raw material, and therefore the old stocks in the warehouses must have been considerably lessened. The Earl of Derby asked if there was any prospect of an increased supply of cotton from South Africa,—Natal, for instance, or Australia? Mr. E. Ashworth: Very little indeed. We shall not have 10,000 bales from all Africa, excluding Egypt. Lord Egerton of Tatton inquired what was the prospect with regard to the export of manufactured goods. He understood that the exports depended upon the price of cotton here. Mr. E. Ashworth said that in 1860 or 1861 we exported cotton goods to the value of 60,000,000*l.* sterling. When the price of cotton rose the exports began to fall off, but the Times twitted them by saying that they still sent out 60,000,000*l.* worth of goods—that was, half the exports at double the price. The question was whether, when the bulk of raw cotton imported was 50 per cent. more than at present, the 60,000,000*l.* of money would be raised to 90,000,000*l.* Mr. T. Ashton believed that with the low price of cotton formerly prevailing, the trade would again extend in proportion. They could not enlarge their operations at the present prices of cotton. The cotton-growing districts of India had, owing to the high price paid for their produce, enjoyed a degree of prosperity never before witnessed. The effect was beginning to be seen in Calcutta. An estimate had been arrived at as to the quantity of goods they could use in the six months, from January to the end of July, and this was one of the causes of the large business done in Manchester last week. The usual consumption in Calcutta was, in spite of present high prices, only 25 per cent. per month more than that of the first six months of this year. In addition to this they knew that the stocks of goods up country had been reduced materially during the same period. Mr. E. Ashworth said the money paid to India during this last year for cotton had been about 20,000,000*l.* sterling more than had been customary, and the increased amount to Egypt,—to a population of 3,500,000, was about 7,000,000*l.* sterling. Some portion of that money would be sure to come back to this country for manufactured goods. Mr. Stern did not think there would be any difficulty in selling all the goods they could produce, provided there was no very sudden fall in the price of cotton. Lord E. Howard, M.P., said they could not be too thankful for the hope of brighter prospects which had been held out to them, but he gathered from the conversation that a period of something like two years must elapse before they could be realised, and thought, therefore, that they must bear in mind what they had to encounter in that long interval. He was sure they would have as winter approached plenty to do, both in applying the money under the Public Works Act and in finding employment by other means for the distressed population. These people, if he mistook not, would soon be badly off for clothing, and that might interfere with their going to a distance in search of work. He should be glad to learn what had been the result of efforts made by certain benevolent persons to employ these cotton operatives in outdoor work. It would be well, especially as a long period had to be tided over before brighter times arrived, if such persons would publish the result of their experience in the employment of factory operatives at a distance. It might probably encourage others to follow their example by finding occupation for the same unfortunate class. Lord Egerton said the expense of removing deterred married men with families from going in search of work to long distances; they had also a natural repugnance to breaking up their homes. Mr. Maclure said that wherever operatives had gone to avail themselves of specific offers of work through this committee, he had taken care to inquire how they had conducted themselves as regarded their general behaviour and suitability for their new employments. In every instance the reports had been most satisfactory, and on more than one occasion he had laid those reports before this committee. There was a great advantage in offers of work of a temporary nature, as they enabled single young men to employ themselves for a time, and yet be within reach when a better state of the cotton trade came. The great difficulty was, as Lord Egerton remarked, the expense of transit. He stated that he had received an offer from Mr. Haig, of Newtown, North Wales, for the employment of 20 men for five months, which he hoped to be able to make available. Such offers showed great consideration, and would always be gladly received by the committee. Mr. E. Ashworth inquired whether, if the whole of the money provided under the new Act were borrowed, employment would not be found thereby for the whole of the operative population not occupied in the cotton trade. It would be better in every sense not to send them away till it was ascertained that there was no work for them at home. He estimated 4½ days' work in the mills from January next. The Earl of Derby thought it highly important that the facts detailed in the conversation should be made public, particularly as they might tend to reconcile an apparent inconsistency with which the manufacturers had been charged—namely, that of endeavouring to prevent the people to disperse to other districts, at the same time that they made the most dismal statements regarding the present state of things. The Mayor of Manchester said that in all probability Manchester would make application for 100,000*l.* under the Public Works Act. The corporation were most anxious to follow out the intentions of Parliament, and assist in finding employment for the distressed population. Mr. Rawlinson reported applications from Ashton, Denton, Bollington, and Bolton, to the aggregate amount of nearly 200,000*l.*, in addition to amounts previously reported in connection with other places. Grants were then made to the amount of 4850*l.* to about 20 local committees.

Newcastle-on-Tyne.—The annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science commenced in this town on Wednesday, when the opening address was delivered by Sir William Armstrong, as President for the year. In his address, which was listened to with great attention, he described at some length and with great clearness the mechanical forces of Nature and the recent discoveries of science in that direction. He next proceeded to consider the properties of heat, and then described the application of coal, which he said was at present applied both for steam and domestic purposes in a reckless and wasteful manner, that would, if it were not checked, exhaust the coal in the Newcastle district in about 200 years. The regular business of the sections commenced on Thursday, in accordance with the programme published in our Paper of the 15th inst.

Nottingham.—A grand fête was held on Monday in the park of Mr. North, at Basford, near this town. Among the other amusements, it was announced that Mr. Coxwell would ascend in his balloon at 6 o'clock in the evening. The balloon was almost new, but of not very large dimensions. After it had been fully inflated Mr. Coxwell tried it, and found there would be some difficulty in his ascending by it. Just at this time Mr. Chambers, the son of a well-known aëronaut, offered to go up in the balloon. Mr. Coxwell, fearing the balloon could not carry his weight, and knowing that Mr. Chambers was lighter, and wished to make the ascent, agreed that he should do so, but told him not to attempt an ascent unless he felt quite confident he could manage the balloon. Chambers replied that he had no fear about managing it, and accordingly was allowed to make the ascent. The balloon rose steadily, and was carried somewhat rapidly in a north-easterly direction towards Nottingham. It proceeded as far as Arnold Vale, when it was seen suddenly to collapse while still at a considerable altitude, and then to fall quickly in an unshapely mass in a field near Scout Lane, three miles from Nottingham. The car struck the ground and rebounded several feet, and then fell again, when it was caught hold of by some young men and stopped. At the bottom of the car lay the body of Mr. Chambers just breathing, but quite insensible, having his handkerchief in his mouth. He was conveyed to the nearest dwelling, and means adopted to restore animation, but without effect. Drs. Robertson and Maltby afterwards saw him, and discovered that his left thigh was fractured, and some of the ribs on his left side broken; but they considered it probable that he had died from suffocation, as the handkerchief which was found in his mouth had been evidently placed there by himself when he found himself in danger of being stifled by the gas from the collapsing balloon. Mr. Chambers was a married man, 36 years old, and leaves a family. As soon as his fate was known, the music and amusements at the fête were stopped, and the visitors gradually dispersed. At the inquest on Tuesday, Mr. Coxwell stated his opinion that deceased became insensible from the gas, previously clutching the valve line round his wrist and violently opening the valve. In all probability he fell to the bottom of the car, and as the valve cord was round his wrist it kept the valve open to its full dimension. As the balloon naturally elongated by losing the gas the strain on the cord became greater and greater, until nearly all the gas escaped. Had the cord not been fast to his wrist the gas could not possibly have escaped from the balloon, no tear or fracture having been found in it. The jury returned the following verdict:—

"That the deceased, ascended by his own free will; that through inhaling gas he became insensible, and was unable to work the balloon properly, and the balloon coming into violent collision with the earth caused his death."

Ryde.—The return match of the Victoria Yacht Club from Cherbourg to Ryde was won by the Commodore's schooner Aline, which arrived an hour before the Julia. The match for the smaller class of yachts was won by the Christabel, beating the Syren by 7 minutes. The match from Ryde to Plymouth for three prizes of 60*l.*, 40*l.*, and 50*l.*, took place on Monday. Eleven yachts started from Ryde at 9 A.M., and the winners arrived at Plymouth on the following morning as follows:—Schooner Aline, 216 tons, Mr. Charles Thellusson, commodore, at 9.55 A.M.; yawl Julia, 122 tons, Mr. G. Fielder, 11.2½ A.M.; cutter Marina, 65 tons, Mr. J. C. Morice, 12.15 A.M. The only other vessel in sight was the cutter Syren, 48 tons, Mr. T. Groves, jun. The other vessels were nowhere.

Wirksworth.—On Friday evening a horrible murder was committed at Wigley Hall, near this town. The victim was Miss Elizabeth Margaret Goodwin, a young lady of prepossessing appearance, 21 years of age, the grand-daughter of Captain Goodwin, one of the oldest magistrates in Derbyshire, and niece of W. Milnes, Esq., of Stubbing Edge, near Ashover. The murderer is Mr. George Victor Townley, a cotton spinner in business in Manchester, the son of Mr. Townley, stock and share broker of that city. On Friday morning Mr. Townley left Manchester and travelled to Whatstandwell station, on the Matlock railway, where he engaged a bed for the night at the inn and paid for it. He then walked forward to Wirksworth, where he arrived about half-past one o'clock. He then called upon the Rev. Herbert Harris, head master of the Grammar School, and an intimate friend of the family. He told Mr. Harris that he had been engaged to Miss Goodwin for some time, and said that she had written to him to break off the engagement, desiring that her letters might be returned. He further added that he wished to hear her make this determination from her own lips. He said to Mr. Harris—"Are you aware whether a clergyman has been visiting her lately? I presume you know, as you are in the confidence of the family." Mr. Harris replied, "I do not feel bound to reveal confidential communications. I may, however, tell you that a clergyman had been visiting at Captain Goodwin's." Mr. Townley said, "What is his name?" Mr. Harris said, "I must decline to give you his name." Mr. Harris advised him to write by post asking for an interview, and he added "or you may go up to Wigwell and see her if you can." Mr. Harris being about to resume his duties in the school asked him to call again. Mr. Townley then went away, and called again upon Mr. Harris about half-past four o'clock, and had a further interview. He then went to Wigwell, the seat of Captain Goodwin. A servant answered the door, and announced to Miss Goodwin the visit of Mr. Townley. Miss Goodwin directed him to be shown into the hall, and having conversed with her for about two minutes, Miss Goodwin and Mr. Townley left the hall and walked together in the pleasure grounds for about half an hour. Previously to going out Miss Goodwin told the servant to come to her at the end of that time, and say she was wanted. The servant went to them in the grounds according to appointment, and found Mr. Townley reading the newspaper, and Miss Goodwin in conversation with him. She went into the hall again, and in a short time returned to the grounds, but before leaving she told the servant to call her when tea was ready. At tea time she called Miss Goodwin, who said she would come directly, but it would appear that they walked away together out of the grounds, and into the turnpike road. They appear to have been together for some time, until a labourer named Conolly, who was returning from work, heard groans, and as he proceeded onwards he saw Miss Goodwin by the side of a wall on the footpath. She asked him to take her home, when he supported her with his arm round her waist for about twenty yards. She said to him, "There is a gentleman down there who has cut my throat." He looked around and saw Mr. Townley, who said, "I have murdered Miss Goodwin, and I shall be hanged." Just at this moment Mr. Leeds of Cromford, a boot and shoe maker, who had been attending Alfreton market, was returning home between eight and nine o'clock, in company with his brother. They saw something lying on the road, and pulled up, when they found a lady's straw hat in the middle of the road. They put it in the cart and drove a short distance further, when they found Miss Goodwin laid on the road dying, and the murderer Townley sitting down beside her. When Mr. Leeds and his brother got up to them Conolly said to them, "This is Miss Goodwin." They said "Who has done this?" Townley said, "I have done it." It was suggested that they should put the body in the cart, but as this was inconvenient owing to its being loaded with bones, and as they were not more than 200 yards from the Hall, they agreed to carry her. Before they could lift her she was dead. Mr. Leeds and Conolly then took hold of Miss Goodwin's feet and the murderer laid hold of her head, and they conveyed her into the kitchen. Mr. Mant, surgeon, of Wirksworth, was called in, and he found three wounds on her body, one on the right side of the neck about 3 inches long, extending down to the spine and dividing the principal vessels of the throat. There was one behind the ear, and another which penetrated the left shoulder-joint. Death had resulted from excessive bleeding. The instrument of murder was a large clasp pocket knife about 6 inches long, the end of which was broken, owing it is supposed to its having come in contact with the back bone. Parnham, the police-constable, was sent for immediately the body was brought to the hall, and on his entering the kitchen at half-past nine o'clock, the murderer went to him and said, "I give myself in charge for murdering the young lady. Recollect, policeman I give myself in charge." The policeman cautioned him as to what he said being used in evidence against him, when he said "I understand you perfectly." He was then taken into custody to the Wirksworth lock-up, and on the road he said he felt much happier since he had done it, and he added, after he had talked about the weather, "I hope Miss Goodwin is in a better world." In his pockets were found 12*s.* 10*d.*, a tobacco pipe, and also a letter, which was addressed to Miss Goodwin. There was also a draft copy of another letter addressed to the unfortunate young lady, which was written in his pocket-book. When at the lock up he tried to destroy the letter, but sufficient could be gathered from it to show that he admitted he was willing to release her from her engagement. It began, "Dear Bessy, I won't stand in your way." Friday night's reflection in the cell at Wirksworth seemed to have induced a thought for his parents, as he remarked when being brought out of his cell, "My poor father and mother will soon be gone when they hear of this." There was a great crowd of people collected in Wirksworth, and as he was removed to the house where the inquest was to be held he was hooted by the people. The inquest was held on Saturday afternoon. The prisoner was brought up in custody, but was not the least concerned at his position. Several witnesses were examined, but no material facts were adduced beyond those narrated above. The jury without hesitation found a verdict of Wilful Murder against the prisoner, and he was committed for trial at the assizes. On Monday he was brought up for examination before the magistrates, by whom he was fully committed for trial. During the inquiry he stood perfectly erect, apparently not the least affected by what was going on, and never speaking except to his solicitor, which he did frequently throughout the inquiry. Much sympathy is felt at the unhappy fate of this young lady, who was highly respected. The excitement in the neighbourhood, owing to the nature of the murder and the respectable position of the parties, is intense.

Ireland.

The Florida.—The Confederate steamer Florida after making a long cruise on the Irish coast, has left for one of the French dockyards, where she will be repaired and her bottom cleaned. On Friday the 21st she burnt the ship Anglo-Saxon, bound from Liverpool for New York, 30 miles from Kinsale. The crew were landed at Brest. On Monday she was seen by some boatmen about 12 miles from Cork harbour, shaping her course up channel on the track of American vessels, and soon steamed out of sight. Shortly after she appeared again, pursuing the opposite course, with her mizenmast unstepped, so that she had the appearance of a brig instead of a barque-rigged vessel. Her movements were like those of a vessel lying in wait for a prize, and seeking to disguise her appearance.

Railways.

The Late Accident on the Lynn and Hunstanton.—Another death has occurred from the fatal accident near Lynn; Mrs. Laird (whose husband was killed on the spot) having lingered till Tuesday, when death put an end to her sufferings. This makes seven deaths, and the life of another is despaired of. The Great Eastern Company are endeavouring to settle amicably the claims for compensation arising out of the accident, and in a large number of cases the terms have been satisfactorily adjusted.

Law.

Northern Circuit: Liverpool.—The Liverpool Murders.—Elizabeth Benyon, 17, was indicted for the murder of her child, about 12 months old. The circumstances of this case were of a peculiarly painful character. The prisoner had been driven from the shelter of her father's house, after the father had polluted her by incestuous intercourse. In misery and destitution the poor girl wandered about the neighbourhood of Eccles, not knowing what to do with herself and child. While in this condition a man came up to her, entered into conversation and ultimately suggested that she should get rid of the child by throwing it into the river. Goaded to desperation by her miserable state of mind, she yielded to the suggestion, and having tied a stone in a cape fastened it round the infant's neck, and threw it into the Irwell. She then went to the house of a woman whom she knew in Eccles, and with whom she had found shelter for a few nights. When asked what had become of the child, she told a confused story about having given it to a woman, but afterwards she admitted that she had thrown it into the river, and the police on dragging the river at the point indicated, found the body. Mr. Justice Blackburn in summing up, told the jury that the painful circumstances under which the crime had been committed might form ground for a recommendation to mercy, but must not be permitted to interfere with the performance of their duty. The jury found the prisoner Guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy, and she was sentenced to Death, his lordship remarking that he would forward the recommendation to the proper authorities. The prisoner was removed in a state of insensibility. James O' Brien, a tall young sailor of 26, was indicted for the wilful murder of Elizabeth Callaghan on the 20th June. The deceased was a woman of ill repute, and the prisoner visited a girl at her house. While he was asleep the girl rose, took some money from his pockets, and treated the other inmates of the house to drink. She took about 6*s.*, and on going up stairs again she found that during her absence four sovereigns had been taken out of the sailor's pocket. She then awoke the prisoner, who accused the landlady of robbing him. She denied that she knew anything of it, and the prisoner then took the girl with him to the police office; but the police declined to interfere. The prisoner then swore that he would have satisfaction of his own, and he subsequently purchased a sheath knife, went to the house of deceased and plunged the knife into her stomach, causing almost immediate death. The jury found the prisoner guilty of Wilful Murder, and he was sentenced to Death. The prisoner bore the sentence with great calmness.—George Gibson, aged 39, was charged with the murder of his wife on the 21st June, at 55, Circus Street, Liverpool. It appeared that the prisoner lived most unhappilly with his wife. On the night in question he returned home under the influence of drink and asked for his supper, to which deceased replied that he had not provided her with the means to get any. Some words ensued, and deceased struck him a blow on the face. Later in the evening deceased was going into the house, when the prisoner rushed out of his room. Deceased called out, "Oh, see what he has got in his hand!" and immediately afterwards she gave a scream and ran into the kitchen, when it was found she had been wounded in the side, and was bleeding profusely. The prisoner, after inflicting the wound, returned to his own room, where he was apprehended with a long chisel in his hands, on which were marks of blood. An attempt was made to convey deceased to the Infirmary, but she was too weak to move, and, after suffering acutely, she died six days after the injury had been inflicted. For the defence it was urged, from the medical evidence, that deceased might have died from natural causes; but if by the violence of the prisoner, it was a case of "manslaughter," as he was through drink bereft of reason. The jury returned a verdict of Guilty of Manslaughter, and his lordship sentenced him to be kept in penal servitude for the remainder of his life.—George Boyd, 36, was indicted for the murder of his wife, at Liverpool, on the 22d June. The prisoner and deceased dwelt in a court off St. Andrew's Street, and as both were very intemperate they passed a miserable life. On the night of the 22d deceased went to bed intoxicated, and shortly afterwards the prisoner came home in a similar state. He asked deceased to get up and prepare his supper, but she refused, telling him to "go and get it where he came from." Some further squabbling took place, during which deceased said "Hold your noise." Almost immediately afterwards the prisoner, seizing a poker with a sharp end hurled it at his wife with such violence that the end entered her head and caused the blood to flow profusely. Deceased exclaimed, "Oh, George, you have killed me!" The prisoner was then much alarmed, and ran to her, took the poker from the wound, and endeavoured to stanch the blood with an apron. He expressed the greatest regret for what he had done, and accompanied his wife to the dispensary, where her wound was dressed. On the following day the woman commenced drinking again, and in a few days she was so ill that it became necessary to remove her to the infirmary, where she died from an abscess on the brain, the result of the wound inflicted by the poker. The prisoner was found guilty of Manslaughter, and sentenced to penal servitude for six years. The Manchester Murder.—Evan Wilcox, 16, was indicted for the wilful murder of Mary Cullen, at Manchester, on the 26th March. The prisoner, a stupid-looking youth had been playing with some children and girls in Barton Street, Liverpool Road, on the evening in question, when he was observed to go to the light of a shop window and charge a pistol. Shortly afterwards he advanced towards the deceased girl, who was about 16 years of age, and when about eight yards from her, pointed the pistol at her, and fired. She was carried to the Infirmary, where she died six or seven hours after from the effects of a wound which had penetrated her forehead and entered the brain. There did not appear to have been any motive to induce the prisoner to commit the crime. The defence was that there was no intention by the prisoner to injure any one, but that he had discharged the pistol in frolic, and that the paper wadding had probably inflicted the wound. The boy was a quiet and inoffensive lad. His lordship in summing up directed the jury that, if in their opinion the prisoner had fired the pistol with culpable negligence, that would constitute the offence of manslaughter, if his act had caused the death of deceased. The wound probably might have been inflicted by something in the nature of a ramrod being left in the pistol, but of that there was no evidence. The jury found the prisoner Guilty of Manslaughter. His lordship sentenced him to be imprisoned, with hard labour, for two calendar months. He did not think the circumstances of the case called for any severe punishment, and he thought he might well have been spared the pain of the charge of wilful murder which had been preferred against him.

Obituary.

THE RIGHT HON. AND REV. LORD DE FREYNE died a few days since after a brief illness. He fell a victim to the same disease as carried off Sir C. Cresswell and Sir F. Slade—fatty degeneration of the heart. He is described as an indulgent landlord, who always resided on his property, and took the greatest interest in the welfare of his tenantry. In 1856 he succeeded his brother Arthur, who was raised to the peerage in 1839. The title and estates devolve upon his brother, Captain Charles French, late of the 81st Foot.

MR. W. MELTON BRIDGER, Recorder of Chichester, and a magistrate for Bradford-on-Avon, died on the 12th inst. from the effects of injuries sustained by being run over by a railway van. It appeared that deceased, who was a member of the United University Club, had come to town to be under the professional care of Mr. Charles Hawkins, of Saville Row. On Wednesday the 12th he had dined at his club, and was walking up Regent Street; and when near Argyl Place, one of Chaplin & Horne's vans was turning into that street, but being deaf he could not hear the carman, and was knocked down by the pole, and one of the wheels passed over him, killing him on the spot. The driver had been taken before a magistrate and discharged on his own recognisance until after the verdict. He now attended, and after several witnesses had been examined, it appeared that the accident had occurred from deceased being deaf, and not from any negligence on the part of the driver. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, and said there was no blame attached to the carman.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.—The Will of Sir Culling Eardley Eardley, Bart., has been sworn under 45,000*l*. He directs his executors to offer to the Commissioners of the National Gallery the "Madonna," by Murillo, for the sum of 10,000*l*.; and, in the event of its being accepted, to present the "Flight into Egypt" by the same master, as a gift to the National Gallery. The will of Mr. Thomas Corbyn Janson, of Stamford Hill and Abchurch Lane, banker, has been sworn under 60,000*l*. Mr. Elijah Eyre, of King's Lynn, Norfolk, 70,000*l*.

BIRTHS.—On the 17th, at Scarborough, Lady CAMPBELL, of Barcaldine, of a daughter—21st inst., at Geneva, Lady FORBES, of Craigievar, of a son and heir—15th inst., at Paragon Grove, Surbiton, the wife of Major General J. V. HUGHES, of a son, stillborn—20th inst, at Bailbrook Villa, Bath, the wife of Lieutenant-Colonel G. NEWBOLT, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.—On the 15th, at the Swedish and Norwegian Embassy, his Excellency Count WACHTMEISTER, Minister Plenipotentiary from the King of Sweden and Norway, to Madlle. CONSTANCE GEORGINA LOUISE DE BOURBEL, younger daughter of HAROLD AUGUSTE, 16th Marquis de Bourbel, of Montpinçon, Normandy—25th inst, at Hurst Church, Berks, Capt. J. C. BYNG, R.N., youngest son of the late Vice-Admiral the Hon. H. D. Byng, to PENELOPE MARGARET, third daughter of the late Captain GARTH, R.N., of Haines Hill, Wilts—26th inst, at St. Mary Abbotts, Kensington, Colonel LAW, eldest surviving son of the late Hon. Charles Ewan Law, M.P. for Cambridge University, and Recorder of London, to ISABELLA, only child of the late ALEX. OGILBY, Esq., of Pelligier, Londonderry—20th inst, at Skendleby, Lincolnshire, the Rev. GEO WM. MURRAY, vicar of Shrivenham, Berks, only son of George St. V. T. N. Murray, Esq., of Chichester, and grandson of the late Vice-Admiral Sir George Murray, K.C.B., to JULIA MARY, younger daughter of the late WILLIAM BROWN CLARK, Esq., of Belford Hall, Northumberland, and the late Lady Brackenbury, of Skendleby Hall—15th inst, at St. Stephen's Church, Dublin, BRUCE BRINE, Esq., Royal Engineers, son of the late Major James Brine, of Sidmouth, Devonshire, to INA FRANKS, second daughter of Robert Fergusson Franks, Esq., of Upper Mount Street, Dublin, and granddaughter of the late Chief Justice Bushe—18th inst, at the parish church, Streatham, CHARLES JAMES ELWORTHY, Esq., of Wellington, Somerset, to SARAH, daughter of JAMES KERSHAW, Esq., M.P., of the Manor House, Streatham—25th inst, at St. John's Church, Paddington, JAMES ERSKINE OLIPHANT, Esq., H.M.'s Bombay Civil Service, eldest son of Lieutenant-Colonel James Oliphant, late of the Madras Engineers, to MARGARET ELIZA, youngest daughter of Major-General ROBERT ALEXANDER, of H.M.'s Madras Army.

DEATHS.—On the 18th inst, at Brooklands, BLANCHE EDITH, youngest daughter of the Hon. LOCKE KING, M.P.—12th inst, at Wimbledon, HENRY STORMONT MURRAY, Esq., son of the late General the Hon. Sir Henry Murray, K.C.B.—7th ult, at Benares, AMELIA JANE, youngest daughter of Captain Sir WM. HAMILTON, Bart., Royal Horse Artillery, aged 14 months—21st inst, in Charlotte Square, Edinburgh, MARY JULIANA FORESTIER, the infant daughter of Major-General and Lady JULIANA WALKER—18th inst, at Willoughby Rectory, SARAH ELIZABETH, wife of the Ven. Archdeacon GILES, aged 40—16th inst, at Knockmullen, Gorey, Ireland, Rear-Admiral RICHARD OWEN, aged 67—23d inst, at Belle Cottage, Barnes, Surrey, Lieutenant-Colonel HENRY BARRINGTON, formerly of the 3d or King's Own Light Dragoons, aged 75—17th inst, at Weston-super-Mare, Lieut.-Colonel GODLEY, of 13, Lansdowne Crescent, Bath, aged 76—23d inst, at Bad Ems, Germany, BARBARA CAMPBELL, wife of Colonel EVELYN POCKLINGTON, aged 40—15th ult, at Kamptee, East Indies, Major WM. R. NEWLYN, Assistant Commissary-General H.M.'s Madras Army—21st inst, at 18, Lower Ward, Windsor Castle, Captain JOHN DUNCAN KING, Military Knight of Windsor, aged 74—18th inst, at the Charter House, Capt. THOS. LIGHT, late of the 14th Reg. Foot, aged 86—5th inst, on board H.M.S. Trafalgar, Lieut. F. H. BLAIR, R.N., son of Captain H. Blair, R.N., aged 26—14th ult, at Lucknow, THOMPSON COPELAND CAPPER, Lieutenant Royal Artillery, youngest son of the late Samuel James Capper, Esq., of Leyton, Essex, aged 20—23d inst, at Lansdowne Road, Kensington Park, ALEX. STEWART, Esq., M.D., Inspector-General of Army Hospitals, aged 73—22d inst, at 29, Queen Anne St., of apoplexy, R. SUTTON, Esq.—25th inst, JOSEPH MASTERS, Esq., Publisher, of 33, Aldersgate Street, aged 68—22d inst, at Hammersmith, FRANK FOWLER, Esq., Secretary of the Library Company, aged 30—22d inst, the Rev. WILLIAM S. P. WILDER, Rector of Carlton and Great Bradley, eldest son of the late Lieutenant-General Sir Francis S. Wilder, of the Manor House, Binfield, Berks, aged 67—17th inst, at Ellesborough Rectory, the Rev. WM. M. FARISH, late incumbent of St. Peter's, Preston, aged 60—23d inst, at Southsea, the Rev. JAMES SAMUEL UPTON, Rector of Tankersley, Yorkshire, aged 65—24th inst, at Fletching, the Rev. SPENCER DODD WILD, vicar of that parish, aged 63—23d inst, in Grosvenor Square, the Rev. G. K. HOLDSWORTH, vicar of Withernwick and Aldborough, Yorkshire.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Aug. 29.

Vegetables and most kinds of Fruit still continue plentiful. Greengages fetch from 6s. to 8s. a sieve; other Plums may also be had in great abundance at nearly the same price, and of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Of Melons there is a good stock. Kent Filberts are improving in price, the supply of them being rather short. Kent Cobs are coming in, but at present they are very unripe; price 40s. to 50s. per 100 lbs. For Potatoes the market is still heavy, and prices low. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s to 6s | Melons, each, 2s to 4s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 1s 6d to 2s 6d | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Figs, per doz., 2s 6d | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Peaches, per doz., 3s to 8s | Walnuts, do., 7s 6d |
| Nectarines, do., 2s to 5s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | French Beans, p. sieve, 2s to 6s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 100s to 110s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| „ Shaws, do., 60s to 70s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 4d to 6d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 4d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 3s 6d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| [illegible]toes, each, 2d to 3d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

SMITHFIELD, Thursday, Aug. 27.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 70s to | 80s | Clover, old .. .. | 90s to | 120 |
| Superior do. .. | 80 | 95 | Do. second cut .. | 80 | 110 |
| Inferior do. .. | 50 | 70 | New Clover .. | 70 | 105 |
| New do. .. .. .. | 70 | 85 | Straw .. .. .. | 26 | 32 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | — | — | | | |

HARVEY & EASTON.

CUMBERLAND MARKET, THURSDAY, Aug. 27.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay .. | 86s to | 96s | Inferior Clover .. | 84s to | 100s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 70 | 78 | New do. .. .. | — | — |
| New do. .. .. .. | 80 | 90 | Straw .. .. | 24 | 33 |
| Superior Clover .. | 108 | 120 | | | |

JOSHUA BAKER.

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, Aug. 27.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 92s | Prime Clover .. | 120s to | 126s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 80 | 84 | Inferior do. .. .. | 100 | 110 |
| Prime New Hay .. | 80 | 86 | New 1st cut do. .. | 110 | 116 |
| Inferior .. .. .. | — | — | Inferior do. .. | 95 | 110 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 27 | 30 | Prime 2d cut do. .. | 100 | 116 |

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, Aug. 28.

Our trade continues firm, and a fair amount of business transacted.

| | s. d. s. d. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ to 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto .. | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ — 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 — 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 — 1 8 |
| | | Blanket ditto .. | .. — .. |

HOPS.—BOROUGH MARKET, FRIDAY, Aug. 28.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report a fair demand for 1862's at steady prices. About 50 pockets of the new growth have arrived at market, and realised 7*l*. 10s. to 8*l*. 8s. per cwt., the quality being excellent at so early a period.

COAL MARKET.—Aug. 26.

Davison's West Hartley, 16s.; Lambert's West Hartley, 16s.; North Pelton Gas, 13s. 3d.; Tanfield Moor, 12s. 6d.; Tanfield Moor Butes, 12s. 6d.; West Hartley, 16s; Walls End Haswell, 17s. 9d.; Walls End Russel's Hetton, 16s 9d.; Walls End Tunstall, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 16s. 9d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 16s. 3d.; Walls End South Kelloe, 16s. 9d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 20s—42 ships at market.

NEWGATE.—Aug. 28.

Best Fresh Butter .. .. 15s. per dozen lbs.
Second do. do. .. .. 13s. "
Pork, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, Aug. 24.

We have a much larger supply of Beasts, and consequently on the average prices are lower, yet there is not much reduction in choicest descriptions. There is a considerable increase in the number of sheep, but the average quality is not nearly as good as on Monday last. Prices therefore are fully as good. Lambs are not quite so dear. Trade is very dull for Calves, and prices are rather lower. From Germany and Holland there are 2100 Beasts, 9210 Sheep, 390 Calves, and 30 Pigs; from France, 11 Calves; from Ireland, 350; and 3190 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools. | 4 6 — 4 1 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 2 8 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 0 — 4 4 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 0 — 5 2 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. | Lambs .. .. | 5 4 — 6 0 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 6 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 5890; Sheep & Lambs, 29,060; Calves, 436; Pigs, 340.

THURSDAY, Aug. 27.

The number of Beasts is not quite so large as on Thursday last; it is, however, sufficient for the demand. The quotations of Monday are well supported in most instances. We have a shorter supply of Sheep. The choicest qualities are readily disposed of, but on the average prices have not improved. Trade is dull for Lambs, and late prices are barely realised. Calves are more plentiful, but choice descriptions are not lower. Our foreign supply consists of 385 Beasts, 2420 Sheep, 620 Calves, and 20 Pigs. Milch Cows, 85.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 4 10 | Best Long-wools. | 4 6 — 4 10 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 0 — 4 4 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 0 — 5 2 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. | Lambs .. .. | 5 0 — 6 0 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 6 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 1175; Sheep & Lambs, 9620; Calves, 726; Pigs, 180.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, Aug. 24.

The supply of English Wheat to this morning's market was moderate, and no progress could be made with sales until a decline of 1s. to 2s. per qr. was submitted to. For foreign there was scarcely any demand, and the few sales made were at irregular prices, mostly at a decline of 1s. per qr. upon red, and 2s. per qr. upon white. Barley, Beans, and Peas brought last week's quotations. The Oat trade was heavy at a decline of 6d. per qr. Flour was rather cheaper. Of new Mustard Seed there were about 1200 qrs. on the market; the condition was generally good, but the quality poor; a few picked samples were sold at 9s. 6d. per bushel.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 43—45 | Red ..... | 40—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 45—50 | Red .... | 42—48 |
| — — Talavera .............. | 48—52 | | |
| — Norfolk .................. | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign .................. | 38—58 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist., 30s to 33s .. Chev | 36—40 | Malting .. | 33—38 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 26—29 | Malting . | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk ........ | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ............... Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 19—22 | Feed .... | 18—20 |
| RYE .......................... | 30—33 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign ............ | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan .... 33s to 35s .. Tick | 34—36 | Harrow .. | 34—36 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ............. Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 30—32 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—40 |
| — Maple .... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 32—36 |
| MAIZE .................. White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 38—48 | | |
| — 2d do ............... ditto | 30—34 | Country .. | 30—34 |
| — Foreign ............ per barrel | 20—26 | Per sack | 34—45 |

FRIDAY, Aug. 28.

Excepting a few showers the weather has continued fine up to Monday last; since then we have had some heavy rain, which may retard harvest operations in the North; in the home counties, however, the fields are mostly cleared. The yield of Wheat is generally well spoken of, and the crop will probably prove to be one of the largest for some years past, and as the condition renders it fit for immediate use it is not surprising that our markets during the past week have continued very dull at a further reduction of 1s. to 2s. per qr. on English, while business in Foreign was very restricted and sales difficult at a greater decline and irregular prices. Grinding Barley met an improved demand at late rates, but offers for further delivery increase, and for such there are no buyers at 1s. to 2s. less money. Oats 6d. to 1s. per qr., Maize 6d. per qr. cheaper. Beans and Peas about as last quoted. Flour is a drug, and must be quoted 6d. per barrel and 1s. per sack lower. Since Friday last 96 vessels have been reported off the coast. A good number of cargoes have changed hands at declining prices. Wheat is 1s., Maize 6d. per qr. cheaper. In Paris (August 27), business in Wheat and Flour has been very dull during the last week, but was a trifle better today. The prices have remained unaltered; only inferior descriptions of Wheat declined about 1s. per 480 lbs. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 5000 cwts. The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 36s. 4d. per 280 lbs. The arrivals of English Wheat and foreign Barley have been good, of English Barley and Oats small, of foreign Oats, Wheat and Flour large. This morning's market was very thinly attended, nevertheless the little English Wheat on offer was taken at the full prices of Monday last. The inquiry for foreign Wheat is of an extremely retail character, for which late rates are realised. In spring corn the business transacted was very trifling, and prices remain unaltered.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 2040 qrs. | 10 qrs. | 370 qrs. | 650 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | — | — " |
| Foreign | 28,980 " | 2750 | 31,890 " | — " / 20,080 brls |

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 25.—We have had a fair attendance of buyers at to-day's market. Wheat was in good demand at 1d. decline. Flour dull, and to effect sales a reduction must be taken. Indian Corn quiet. Beans steady. Oats, Oatmeal, and Egyptian Wheat unaltered.

FRIDAY, Aug. 28.—There was a moderate attendance at market, and a fair business transacted in Wheat at about Tuesday's prices for red; white rather easier. Flour dull. A moderate trade in Indian Corn at late rates. Egyptian Beans steady. Oats and Oatmeal a slow dragging sale. Egyptian Wheat unchanged.

| AVERAGES. | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| July 18 | 46s 7d | 28s 10d | 22s 6d | 32s 9d | 40s 0d | 37s 1d |
| — 25 | 45 11 | 29 10 | 23 9 | 32 8 | 39 3 | 35 11 |
| Aug. 1 | 45 11 | 31 0 | 22 0 | 37 11 | 39 11 | 36 3 |
| — 8 | 46 3 | 31 6 | 23 0 | 31 6 | 38 8 | 34 9 |
| — 15 | 45 11 | 31 4 | 23 7 | 36 4 | 40 7 | 35 7 |
| — 22 | 46 5 | 31 1 | 23 0 | 33 2 | 40 4 | 34 9 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 2 | 30 7 | 23 0 | 34 1 | 39 9 | 35 9 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

To the Trade.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, as PARTNER in a Provincial Nursery, within 50 miles of London, a thorough active business Man, of good address, to take the Travelling Department more particularly. A person having some knowledge of Landscape Gardening and giving Plans and Estimates of Ground Work is very desirable, and a perfect knowledge of the Seed Trade is indispensable.

The Nursery consists of 15 acres of ground in good condition, and well stocked, with the opportunity of adding 15 acres more land if desirable. The present occupier and predecessor have held it for nearly 50 years. The opportunity that now offers itself to an intelligent respectable Man will be found very advantageous. The Advertiser is 50 years of age; no family. Some Capital will be required.—Apply to Messrs. BECK, HENDERSON, & CHILD, Seed Merchants, 11, Adelphi Terrace, Strand, London, W.C.

WANTED, a CLERK and PLANT SALESMAN.—Mr. WILLIAM BULL has a Vacancy for a person in the above capacity. Application to be made personally between the hours of 10 and 1.—Establishment for New and Rare Plants, King's Road, Chelsea, London, S.W.

WANTED, a YOUNG MAN, quick and clever at Budding Roses, Fruits, &c., one who has been in a Country Nursery preferred.—State age, wages expected, and former experience, to GEORGE CLARKE, Nurseryman, Brixton Hill, S.

WANTED, a WOODRANGER, who has thorough knowledge and experience in the Management of Timber, Plantations, and Coppice. He should also understand how to Fix Iron Railing, as well as the Erection of other descriptions of Fencing, and be a good Judge of the Value and Labour of Work of the above kind.—Apply, stating age (family if any), wages, references, &c., addressed to Mr. MOON, Maristow, Plymouth.

WANTED, a MAN and WIFE (without family preferred, as they have to occupy a Cottage in the grounds)—The Wife as LAUNDRESS, and must know her business well, and the Man as UNDER GARDENER and COWMAN, and be willing to make himself generally useful.—Apply by note to C. M., Gresham Club, London, E.C.

WANTED, a first-class DAIRYMAID.—The Undersigned require before the end of September, for a nobleman in North Wales, an experienced DAIRYMAID, who can make first-class Butter and Cream Cheese. She must be single, and no one need apply who has not held similar situations in good families, and who cannot be recommended as skilled in Dairy work, thoroughly cleanly in her work and person, and of respectable appearance and good moral character. Wages 30l. per annum, with Furnished Sitting and Bed-rooms, Coal, Candles, Soap, Potatoes, &c. A Man allowed for Churning. The work is not heavy, but requires good management.—Apply, stating age and all particulars of former servitude, thus—"DAIRYMAID," Messrs. Francis & Arthur Dickson & Sons, Seed Merchants, &c., Chester.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 29, married, one child; thoroughly understands his profession.—H. H., 47, Stafford Street, Marylebone Road, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD), age 42. — H. MUGGLETON, more than 7 years' Head Gardener to W. Cubitt, Esq., Penton Lodge, is leaving his situation, and offers his services to any nobleman, lady, or gentleman, requiring a first-rate Gardener. He is an excellent Forcing Gardener, including Pines, Grapes, Peaches, &c.; is a good Plant Grower, and Flower and Kitchen Gardener. Character excellent.—The Gardens, Penton Lodge, Andover.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD). — Age 32, married; will shortly be disengaged; is extensively known and recommended as one of the best practical Gardeners of the present day. Has lived in some of the largest and best Gardens in England, and for years has been successful as a Grower and Early Forcer of Vines, Pines, Peaches, Cucumbers, Melons, Strawberries, &c.; is a first-class Grower of Orchids, Ferns, Stove, Fine Foliage and Greenhouse Plants. Thoroughly understands the Management of Orchard Houses, Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Character and testimonials of the highest order.—ALPHA, Mr. W. Bull's Establishment for New and Rare Plants, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD). — Married, two children; understands his profession in every department. Eight years' character.—JOHN BUTLER, Princess Street, Pembroke Dock, South Wales.

GARDENER (HEAD).—A successful Cultivator of Stove and Greenhouse Plants; understands the Forcing of Fruits, Vegetables, &c. A good character given.—W. W., Mr. Scott, Victoria Road, Norbiton, Kingston, Surrey.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 39, married, no incumbrance; understands his profession in all its branches; can have a good character, and be well recommended by the nobleman he last lived with.—J. C., Messrs. Cutbush & Son, Highgate, London, N.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 28; has had first-rate experience in the Management of Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Pleasure Grounds, &c. The highest testimonials from the gentleman he has just left.—G. B., Messrs. Downie, Laird & Laing, Stanstead Park Nursery, Forest Hill, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 32, married, one child; thoroughly understands Early and Late Forcing of Vines, Pines, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Cucumbers, Melons, Orchard House, &c., together with Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens. Character unexceptionable.—G. COLE, Paradise Nursery, Seven Sisters' Road, Holloway, London, N.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 36, married; has a thorough knowledge of his profession in all its branches, having had the advantage of serving in some of the best places in England. Six and a-half years' unexceptionable character from last employer.—H. H., care of Mr. Veitch, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD) to a nobleman or gentleman. —D. WICKS, Head Gardener to W. Wilson Saunders, Esq., Hon. Secretary to the Horticultural Society, will be at liberty to engage after the 25th September. Has a thorough practical knowledge of Forcing in all its departments; likewise the Growth of Plants from most parts of the world, and the Management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Ten years' good character.—Hillfield, Reigate, Surrey.

GARDENER (HEAD), where two or more are kept.—Middle age, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands his profession in all branches; has lived in some of the leading families of the North of England. The highest testimonials from the lady he has left, and to whom any lady or gentleman can refer for character and ability. Wife capable of taking charge of Mansion, having lived upwards of 20 years as Upper Housemaid in some of the leading places in England.—A. Z., Mr. Adams (late Noble), Bookseller, Hull.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—A gentleman is desirous of procuring a situation for his Gardener, a married man, aged 39, who has lived with him nearly five years, and is leaving him solely in consequence of change of residence. He can with confidence recommend him in every respect as an excellent and experienced Gardener, thoroughly trustworthy, and fully competent to take the entire Management of a first-rate place.—A. B., Post Office, Maidenhead.

GARDENER (HEAD, WORKING). — Middle-aged, married, with one child, Scotch; understands Gardening in all branches. Can Manage Land or Plantations. Wife an excellent Baker and Dairywoman. The best references.—J. H., Lee's Nursery, Hammersmith, W.

GARDENER (HEAD OR SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 30; understands the general routine of Flower and Kitchen Garden; also the Growing of Grapes, Melons, Cucumbers, &c. Can have a good character.—H. K., Mr. H. Smith, Calcot, near Reading, Berks.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD), or GARDENER and STEWARD.—Age 28, married; offers himself to any nobleman or gentleman who is in want of a Gardener. Has a thorough practical knowledge of every branch of his profession. Can have first class character from late employer.—A. B. Gardener, 1, Upper Woodcote Place, Lower Norwood, Surrey, S.

GARDENER.—Age 22, single; experienced in all kinds of Forcing, Plant Growing, Kitchen and Flower Gardening.—C. E., 5, Polygon Place, Clapham Common, S.

GARDENER.—Age 25, married; has a thorough knowledge of his profession. Good character.—M. R., Prospect Cottage, South Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

GARDENER.—A gentleman wishes to procure a situation for a very respectable married Man, who has lived several years in his service. An under man required.—Apply to J. B., 3, Nevill Park, Tunbridge Wells.

GARDENER.—Thoroughly competent in every branch of Gardening. No single-handed place accepted. Good character.—A. B., Lamroux, Clark & Co., 4, Cornwall Street, Plymouth.

GARDENER.—Age 25, married; where one or two only are kept. In spare time no objection to attend to a Horse, &c. Thoroughly understands the Greenhouse, Pits, Frames, &c.—F., Mr. Albery's News and Advertising Office, Horsham, Sussex.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER.—THOMAS ROBY is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly experienced person in the above capacity. No objection to the Management of Land, &c. Thirteen years' excellent character from his late employer, A. K. Barclay, Esq., Bury Hill, Dorking.—THOMAS ROBY, Dorking, Surrey.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER.—Age 38, married; fully competent to Manage an important Establishment. Experienced in the successful Growing of all kinds of Fruit and Flowers, Forced or otherwise; an excellent Flower and Kitchen Gardener. Can take charge of Wood. Five years' excellent character from last place. Can have valuable recommendations from other noblemen.—M. D. W., 6, Carlton Place, Kilburn Gate, London, W.

GARDENER, in a good Single-handed place.—Age 34, married, no incumbrance; has been second in a situation where all kinds of Forcing has been well done, including Pines, Vines, &c. Has a good knowledge of Flower and Kitchen Gardening.—R. S., Post Office, Croydon, Surrey.

GARDENER (SINGLE HANDED).—Age 22; understands Greenhouse, Vinery, Flower and Kitchen Garden. Six years' character.—JOHN GUEST, Dodbrook, Kingsbridge, South Devon.

GARDENER (SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 24, single; has been used to Gardening in all its branches. Can Manage a Horse or Cow. Two years' good character.—H. B., 24, Fitzroy Place, St. Mark's Square, Regent's Park, N.W.

GARDENER (UNDER or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 25; thoroughly understands his profession in its various branches. Seven years' good character.—A. B., Post Office, Aberdare, Glamorganshire, South Wales.

FOREMAN.—Age 27; ten years' experience. Has had the management of Stove and Greenhouse Plants.—A. B., Messrs. Downie, Laird, & Laing, Stanstead Park Nursery, Forest Hill, London, S.E.

FOREMAN, or FOREMAN and PROPAGATOR.—Married; thoroughly understands every branch of Propagating, Budding, and Grafting, the growing of Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Conifers, Hardy and Tender Shrubs, &c. An excellent character.—R. B. J., Railway Cottage, Far Cotton, Northampton.

IMPROVER.—Accustomed to all kinds of Forcing and Flowers. Good Premium given.—D. TANLY, 24, Park Street, Dorset Square, London, N.W.

IMPROVER (under a nobleman's or gentleman's Gardener for further experience).—Age 20; has had four years' experience in general Gardening. A weekly Premium given. Good character. — A. D., The Gardens, Abernant, Aberdare, Glamorganshire, South Wales.

BAILIFF.—Married; thoroughly understands the Management of Stock and Gardening. Wife to Manage the Dairy and Poultry.—Mrs. RICHARDSON, 3, Addington Place, Addington Road, Croydon, S.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

BAILIFF, at Michaelmas next. — Middle-aged, married, without incumbrance. Wife first-class Dairywoman and to Manage the Poultry.—AGRICOLA, 11, Princess Street, Cavendish Square, W.

FARM BAILIFF.—Understands Buying and Selling Stock, and general Farm Management, in which he has been occupied for years. Good references as to character and capability.—S. J., Mr. Coote's, Long Down Farm, Ewell, Surrey.

SHOPMAN, PLANT SALESMAN, and NURSERY FOREMAN.—Age 33; an experienced, well educated Man, wishes for a permanent appointment as above. Well up in Landscape Gardening. First-class testimonials and character.—A. B., 3, Omega Cottages, Ealing, Middlesex, W.

SHOPMAN, WAREHOUSEMAN, or ASSISTANT CLERK.—In a Wholesale house preferred. Sixteen years' experience in a country Seed Shop. Good references, &c.—J. G., 10, Air Street, Brighton.

SHOPMAN, in the Seed Trade.—Can assist in Counting-house. First-class character.—X. Y., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

SHOPMAN (UNDER).—Age 19, son of a Nurseryman and Seedsman; has been accustomed to the care of Greenhouses, and to attend occasionally in the Shop. Is a good Salesman.—Apply by letter to Messrs. HURST & SON, 6, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

HERDSMAN.—Married, one child; has had great experience in all kinds of Stock. No objection to taking charge of a Small Farm or Grass Land. Can have a good character.—W. S., South Lodge, near Southgate, Middlesex, N.

KEATING'S PERSIAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.—Fleas in Dogs, Poultry, &c., are instantly destroyed, as also Bugs, Beetles, and every other Insect, by this Powder, which is perfectly harmless to animal life; Sportsmen particularly will therefore find it invaluable.

Sold in Packets, 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for 14 or treble size for 36 postage stamps, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C. Take notice, each genuine packet bears the above name and address.

For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by DINNEFORD & Co., 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to PRICE'S. Most medical men prescribe "PRICE'S Glycerine" where purity is of importance.

Patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8, 4, or 2 oz. bottles, with capsules over the stoppers marked—

"PRICE'S Patent," Belmont, Vauxhall.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by DU BARRY'S health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2s. 9d.; 2 lb., 4s. 6d.; 5 lb., 11s; 12 lb., 22s.; 24 lb., 40s.

BARRY DU BARRY & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

CORNS and BUNIONS.—A gentleman, many years tormented with Corns, will be happy to afford others the information by which he obtained their entire removal in a short period, without pain or any kind of inconvenience.

Forward address, on a stamped envelope, to W. GOODALL, Esq., Epsom, Surrey, S.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1863.

Card.

SAMUEL N. McGERROW, GENERAL HORTICULTURAL BUILDER, Knotty Ash, near Liverpool.

Reference permitted to the Nobility and Gentry throughout Great Britain and Ireland.

W. J. HOLLANDS, IRON MERCHANT, 31, Bankside, London, S.E.

HOT WATER PIPES, from Stock, per yard:—2-inch, 1s. 2d.; 3-inch, 1s. 10d.; and 4-inch, 2s. 4d. BENDS, from stock, 1s. 7d., 2s. 6d., and 3s. 3d. each. THROTTLE VALVES, 10s. 6d., 13s. 6d., and 15s. each. Other Connexions at equally low prices, and all goods of first-class manufacture. Estimates given, and orders by post punctually attended to the same day.

Greenhouses, Orchard Houses, and Conservatories.

H. FREEMAN'S Horticultural Works, Triangle, Hackney, London, N.E., established 20 years.—Good substantially made GREENHOUSES, glazed, ready for fixing, 42 feet by 13 feet, 50l.; 21 by 13, 28l.; 12½ by 10, 15l. Orchard Houses 10 per cent. cheaper. A large assortment kept. Estimates given for Heating or any branch in Iron or Wood.

HOT-WATER PIPES, at Reduced Wholesale Prices, with Elbows, Syphons, Tee Pipes, and every other connection; Wrought and Cast-iron Boilers, Saddle, Conical, Cylinder, TUBULAR, and Elliptic, from 24s. each. Improved Boilers and Iron Stands to use without brickwork, 56s each. Valves from 10s. 6d. each. Patent Valves, Improved Furnace Doors, Furnace Bars, Supply Cisterns, and Builders' Castings of every description in stock, at

Mr. LYNCH WHITE's Iron Wharf, Upper Ground Street, Blackfriars Bridge, London, S. Price List on application.

LATEST IMPROVEMENTS IN
Heating by Hot Water.
THE IMPROVED
CONICAL BOILERS,
For HEATING PINERIES, CONSERVATORIES, GREENHOUSES, MANSIONS, HALLS, WAREHOUSES, &c., SOLELY MANUFACTURED BY

BURY AND POLLARD (Successors to JOHN R. PEILL, Late STEPHENSON & PEILL).

Annexed Sketch shows BURY & POLLARD's improved arrangement, requiring

NO BRICKWORK SETTING.

These Boilers have for their durability and economy attained a celebrity far surpassing any other Boilers ever invented. They have been for many years past in use at many Public Establishments, Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew, at the Regent's Park, the Crystal Palace, and at most of the Nobility's and Gentry's Seats throughout the United Kingdom. References where they have been 20 years in constant use.

Price Lists on application to BURY & POLLARD, Park Iron Works, New Park Street, Southwark, London, S.

T. M. LOBJOIT'S PATENT HOT-WATER BOILERS are acknowledged by all who have them in use to be the most powerful Boilers now known, and are the most economical, requiring less fuel and attention than any other. They are made of various sizes, suitable for heating the smallest Greenhouse to the largest Conservatory, Churches, and Buildings of all descriptions.

Testimonials forwarded on application to THOS. M. LOBJOIT, Horticultural Builder and Hot-Water Apparatus Manufacturer, Turnham Green, W., and at Acton, Middlesex, W The Trade supplied.

RIDDELL'S PATENT SLOW-COMBUSTION COTTAGE BOILER for HEATING CONSERVATORIES, ENTRANCE HALLS, BATHS, &c., by the Circulation of Hot Water.

Requires no brickwork setting; will keep in action from 12 to 18 hours without attention, at an expense of about 3d. per day. Is perfectly safe, requires no additional building, and may be seen in operation daily at the Patentee's Warehouse, 155, Cheapside, London, E.C.

Price complete from 3l. 10s.

Illustrated Prospectus free, and Estimates prepared for Erecting Hot-Water Apparatus of any magnitude.

Hothouses for the Million.—AWARDED A PRIZE MEDAL AT THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1862.

HOTHOUSES for the MILLION.—On the principle invented and patented by Sir Joseph Paxton, M.P., combining simplicity, cheapness, excellence, and durability, being capable of fulfilling, in the most perfect manner, all the requirements of Horticulture.

Illustrated Circulars, with Lists of Prices, can be had on prepaid application to SAMUEL HEREMAN, 7, Pall Mall East, London.

Also, A HANDBOOK on VINE and FRUIT TREE CULTIVATION, price 1s.; post free, 1s. 1d.

DENNIS'S PATENT METALLIC HORTICULTURAL BUILDINGS are made from the best Wrought Iron, upon an entirely new principle. The combination of Iron and Glass under this patent is perfect; the possibility of fracture is prevented, and a permanently Water tight Roof insured.

The leading practical advantages are extreme smallness of Framing, admitting a maximum of light and heat, great strength, durability, and perfect ventilation. They are speedily erected, partake of more desirable outline, and do not exceed the cost of a perishable wooden structure.

For Prospectus, &c., address T. H. P DENNIS, Horticultural Builder, Hot-Water Engineer, &c., High St., Chelmsford, Essex.

T. G. MESSENGER, HORTICULTURAL BUILDER and ENGINEER, Loughborough.

T. G. M.'s PATENTED BUILDINGS combine all the modern improvements, are most effectually ventilated by means of his unequalled Apparatus, can be made either plain (and which are at the same time elegant in appearance), or of the most elaborate design. They can be fixed as permanent buildings, or made to be portable.

T. G. M.'s HEATING APPARATUS continues to give the greatest satisfaction for its heating qualities and small consumption of fuel.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES of the above, Glazing without Putty, Garden Engines, &c., sent upon application.

Cast Tubular Boilers.

ORMSON'S PATENT, entitled "AN IMPROVEMENT in the MANUFACTURE of CAST TUBULAR BOILERS."—TAKE NOTICE, that a DISCLAIMER has been filed in the Patent Office and allowed by the Attorney-General, by which such part of the above Patent as was considered questionable by the Court of Exchequer Chamber has been disclaimed. Any person infringing the said Patent after this Notice will be proceeded against according to Law.

Disclaimer allowed, Sept. 1, filed Sept. 2, 1863.

I BEG to NOTIFY, that having by leave of her Majesty's Attorney-General DISCLAIMED such part of my Patent as was considered by the Court of Exchequer Chamber as questionable, the said Patent is now absolutely confirmed; and any person infringing the same will be proceeded against according to law.

HENRY ORMSON, Horticultural Builder and Hot-water Apparatus Manufacturer, Stanley Bridge, King's Road, Chelsea, London, S.W.

Heating.

HEATING APPARATUS fitted in every description of HOTHOUSES. Estimates given for Building Hothouses, and Laying out Kitchen Gardens and Vineries. Advice given in Planting, &c.

Apply to JOSEPH MEREDITH, Vine Cottage, Garston, near Liverpool.

N.B. References to Noblemen and Gentlemen and their gardeners sent on application.

HINTS on the DESTRUCTION of RED SPIDER, GREEN FLY, and other Insects that infest GREENHOUSES. Price 1s.

London: KENT & Co. Birmingham: WILLIAM WILLEY.

Now Ready, fcp 8vo, cloth, 2s. 6d.

MENTONE in its MEDICAL ASPECT. By JAMES LEWIS SIORDET, M.B., M.R.C.P.,' formerly Physician to the Blenheim Dispensary.

JOHN CHURCHILL & SONS, New Burlington Street, W.C.

Now ready, Third Edition, price 10s.

SCOTT'S FARMER'S ACCOUNT BOOK, containing Forms of Day Labour, Contract Work, Separate Accounts of the Different Varieties of Corn and Live Stock, Dairy Produce, &c.; Rent, Tythes, Rates and Taxes; Tradesmen's Bills, Manures and Food for Live Stock, Incidental Expenses, Valuation at the Beginning and End of the Year, General Account for the Year and Cash Account.

May be had with the following additional Accounts—Permanent Improvements, Woods, Buildings, Gardens, Stables, Hall, Summary of Fortnightly Payments, Timber Sold, &c. Price 12s. (More suitable for Landowners and Farm Bailiffs)

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"This is as complete an account book as can be desired."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"A complete system of book-keeping, including in its "bill of fare" every item of expense in rural economy that a farmer or a gentleman of landed property can be subject to."—Mark Lane Express.

"We would recommend this book to the attention of our agricultural readers."—Magnet.

Woodstock: Printed and Published by W. ECCLES.
London: LONGMAN & Co.

Mechi's System of Farming.

Price 3s. boards, or 3s. 6d. half-bound.

HOW to FARM PROFITABLY, or the SAYINGS and DOINGS of Mr. ALDERMAN MECHI. With a Portrait and three other Illustrations, from Photographs by MAYALL. New Edition, with additions.

The above work contains:—Mr. Mechi's account of the Agricultural Improvements carried on at the Tiptree Estate—his Lectures, Speeches, Correspondence, and Balance Sheets—and is a faithful history of his agricultural career during the last fifteen years.

 In this Edition is incorporated Mr. Mechi's Pamphlets on TOWN SEWAGE and STEAM PLOUGHING.

London: ROUTLEDGE, WARNE & ROUTLEDGE, Farringdon Street.

Second Edition, in demy 8vo, price 10s. 6d. half-bound,

THE FARMER'S CALENDAR. By JOHN CHALMERS MORTON, Author of the "Cyclopedia of Agriculture." "The Farmer's Almanac," &c. Illustrated by numerous Wood Engravings.

GENERAL CONTENTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| The Cultivation of all kinds of Soil | Rent, Lease, Tenant's Rights, Wages, Improvements of Land by Buildings, Roads, Drains, Fences, &c. |
| The Cultivation of all Farm Crops | |
| The Breeding, Rearing, and Feeding of all the Live Stock of the Farm | The Influence of Weather, month by month, in reference to 30 or 40 stations in England, Scotland, and Ireland |
| The Use of all kinds of Agricultural Tools and Machines | |

London: ROUTLEDGE, WARNE, & ROUTLEDGE, Farringdon Street.

THE LANDS IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.—Incorporated by Special Act of Parliament in 1853. 2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, S.W.

TO LANDOWNERS, THE CLERGY, ESTATE AGENTS SURVEYORS, &c. IN ENGLAND AND WALES AND IN SCOTLAND

The Company advances money, unlimited in amount, for the following works of Agricultural Improvement, the whole outlay and expenses in all cases being liquidated by a rent charge for 25 years.

1. Drainage, Irrigation and Warping, Embanking, Inclosing, Clearing, Reclamation, Planting, for any beneficial purpose, Engines or Machinery for Drainage or Irrigation.
2. Farm Roads, Tramways and Railroads for agricultural or farming purposes.
3. Jetties or Landing places on the sea coast or on the banks of navigable rivers or lakes.
4. The erection of Farm Houses, Labourers' Cottages, and other Buildings required for Farm purposes, and the improvement of and additions to Farm Houses and other buildings for farm purposes.

Landowners assessed under the provisions of any Act of Parliament, Royal Charter, or Commission, in respect of any public or general works of drainage or other improvements, may borrow their proportionate share of the cost, and charge the same with the expenses on the lands improved.

No investigation of title is required, and the Company being of a strictly financial character do not interfere with the plans and execution of the Works, which are controlled only by the Government Enclosure Commissioners.

For further information, and for forms of application, apply to the Honourable WILLIAM NAPIER, Managing Director, 2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster S.W.

ROYAL SCHOOL of MINES.
Director.
Sir RODERICK IMPEY MURCHISON, K.C.B., F.R.S., &c.

During the SESSION 1863-64, which will COMMENCE on OCTOBER 6, the following COURSES of LECTURES and PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS will be given:—

1. CHEMISTRY. By A. W. HOFMANN, LL.D., F.R.S., &c.
2. METALLURGY. By JOHN PERCY, M.A., F.R.S.
3. NATURAL HISTORY. By T. H. HUXLEY, F.R.S.
4. MINERALOGY. } By WARINGTON W. SMYTH, M.A., F.R.S.
5. MINING. }
6. GEOLOGY. By
7. APPLIED MECHANICS By ROBERT WILLIS, M.A., F.R.S.
8. PHYSICS. By T. TYNDALL, F.R.S.

Instruction in Mechanical Drawing, by Rev. J. HAYTHORNE EDGAR, M.A.

The Fee for Students desirous of becoming Associates is 30l. in one sum on entrance, or two annual payments of 20l., exclusive of the Laboratories.

Pupils are received in the Royal College of Chemistry (the Laboratory of the School), under the direction of Dr. Hofmann, and in the Metallurgical Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. Percy.

Tickets to separate Course of Lectures are issued at 3l. and 4l. each.

Officers in the Queen's Service, Her Majesty's Consuls, acting Mining Agents and Managers, may obtain tickets at reduced prices

Certificated Schoolmasters, Pupil Teachers, and others engaged in education, are also admitted to the Lectures at reduced fees

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has granted two Scholarships, and several others have also been established.

For a Prospectus and information, apply at the Museum of Practical Geology, Jermyn Street, London, S.W.

TRENHAM REEKS, Registrar.

THOMAS MILLINGTON,
GLASS MERCHANT.
ESTABLISHED 1750.
87, BISHOPSGATE STREET WITHOUT, LONDON, E.C.

REDUCED TARIFF FOR SHEET GLASS AND HORTICULTURAL GOODS.

The Agricultural Hall, Islington, containing an Acre of Glass, was supplied by T. MILLINGTON.

Mr. Rivers, and the leading men in the Horticultural profession, as well as the Nobility, Gentry, and Merchants, have favoured T. M. with orders for Home Use and for Exportation.

☞ For prices see Advertisement of August 1.

News of the Week.

THE French papers announce the important news that the EMPEROR OF RUSSIA has determined to meet the representations of the three Powers on the Polish question by granting a Constitution to his whole Empire. HIS MAJESTY's proposal, as submitted to an Extraordinary Council, embraces two Chambers, the first being a Senate of 300 members appointed for life, and the second being a representative assembly of 450 members elected under specified conditions. These Chambers will constitute a central representation for the whole Empire; but, besides these, separate and independent Constitutions will be granted to eight great provinces. Thus the Kingdom of Poland, while sending representatives to the central Government, will have an independent internal organization, and a separate Diet sitting at Warsaw for the regulation of its own affairs. The same plan will be adopted with regard to Finland and the other provinces. These measures will of course go, not only far beyond all that the three Powers have asked from the CZAR, but beyond any hopes that they could have entertained; and though the old Muscovite party are said to be opposed to them, it is believed that the EMPEROR will not allow himself to be influenced by their opposition.

The sittings of the Congress of Princes at Frankfort were brought to a close on Tuesday. All the articles which had been decided upon in the special debates having been definitively accepted, the remaining articles of the Austrian project were agreed to unanimously, with the exception of Baden, Saxe Weimar, Mecklenburgh-Schwerin, Luxemburg, and Waldeck, which refused their adhesion to the protocol. The final result of the Conference will be communicated to the KING OF PRUSSIA in a letter signed by all the Sovereigns who agreed to the resolutions. A telegram from Vienna states that on the return of the EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA from Frankfort a number of Hungarian notables will assemble under the presidency of HIS MAJESTY for the purpose of coming to a settlement of the Hungarian question.

A despatch from Copenhagen announces that the Germanic Diet having threatened Denmark with Federal execution on the affairs of Holstein, a treaty of alliance has just been concluded between Denmark and Sweden, with a view to the defence of Danish territory from any German aggression.

The latest accounts from Charleston state that a combined land and naval assault commenced on the 14th ult., and had been continued for four days without result. General LEE's army has been increased to 150,000 men by the arrival of reinforcements, of whom 30,000 are veteran troops; and his pickets have been extended to the Rappahannock. It is reported that General MEADE, fearing a flank movement by the Confederates on his left, has fallen back to a position nearer Washington. The draft was resumed at New York on the 19th ult. without opposition. The Federal Government had made extensive preparations to suppress any attempt to renew the riots, and Governor SEYMOUR had issued a proclamation, enjoining the citizens to submit quietly to the action of the law until it should be pronounced void by the Courts or repealed by Congress. It is stated that Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS has sent an envoy to Mexico, with proposals of mutual recognition.

Home News.

THE QUEEN IN GERMANY. — On Tuesday week the Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia took leave of her Majesty, and left Coburg for Potsdam. Prince Alfred accompanied the Prince and Princess. On Wednesday week, being the Prince Consort's birthday, her Majesty planted a tree in remembrance in front of the Schloss in which the Prince was born. The Duchess of Coburg paid an early visit to the Queen. Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse arrived on a visit to the Duchess of Coburg, and immediately visited her Majesty at the Rosenau, and remained there till the evening. On Friday evening the Queen drove to the Kallenberg and took tea with the Duchess of Coburg. On Saturday Prince Alfred, accompanied by the Prince of Leiningen, returned to Rosenau from Potsdam. On Sunday morning the Queen, Princess Helena, and Prince Alfred attended Divine service at the Chapel at the Kallenberg. On Monday the King of Prussia visited the Queen at Rosenau. The Emperor of Austria was expected to visit her Majesty on Thursday. Her Majesty and the Royal family continue to take drives in the neighbourhood, and have visited the widow of Baron Stockmar and the Prince Consort's former tutor, M. Florschutz, at Coburg. Her Majesty's health is much the same. She is unable to bear any great exertion or fatigue.

THE QUEEN'S RETURN JOURNEY.—It is understood that the Queen will leave Rosenau on her return to England on Monday, the 7th September. It is expected that her Majesty will spend one day with the King of the Belgians, and arrive at Windsor on Thursday, the 10th. The Princess Louisa and Prince Arthur will meet her Majesty at the Castle. The Queen will remain at Windsor till the 14th, and then leave for Balmoral.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES honoured the Braemar Gathering with their presence on Thursday week. The meeting took place at the seat of the Earl of Fife, Mar Lodge. Great preparations had been made to make the occasion worthy of the visit, her Royal Highness never having seen this picturesque sight. There was a gathering of the clans; followed by races, tossing the caber, putting the stone, Highland dances, including the sword dance, reels, &c. The Prince and Princess were received enthusiastically by the spectators. Her Royal Highness took her seat on a raised dais, and watched the progress of the sports with considerable interest. The Prince stood behind her chair. Both their Royal Highnesses were dressed partially in tartan. The weather, unfortunately, was very unfavourable, heavy showers falling all the time. The games, however, passed off as well as could be expected under such a drawback. At their conclusion the spectators dispersed, and the Prince and Princess, with their suite, went to Mar Lodge, and remained there till Saturday.

PRINCE NAPOLEON left Havre on Tuesday morning in the Imperial yacht, Jerome-Napoleon, on an excursion to the Isle of Wight. The Prince, after visiting Cowes, landed at Ryde on Wednesday, and embarked in the evening on his return to Havre.

THE ARMY.—The Colonelcy of the Coldstream Guards, vacant by the death of Lord Clyde, has been conferred on General Sir William Gomm; and the Colonelcy of the 13th Foot, vacated by this promotion, has been conferred on Major-General M'Pherson.

THE CHANNEL FLEET left Lough Foyle on Monday evening for the Clyde. It will sail from the Clyde on Monday, the 7th inst., for Belfast, where it will remain for three days, and will then proceed direct for the Mersey. The stay of the fleet at Liverpool is uncertain, but will not be less than six days.

COURT OF PROBATE AND DIVORCE.—On Thursday morning Sir James Plaisted Wilde, late one of the Barons of the Exchequer, was sworn in as Judge of the Court of Probate, in the room of the late Sir Cresswell Cresswell.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—The Emperor presided on Saturday at a Council of Ministers, which lasted five hours. His Majesty presided at another Council on Wednesday, and at another on Thursday. The Empress left for Biarritz on Monday, and the Emperor will follow on the 10th inst. The camp of Châlons was raised on Tuesday. An Imperial decree, published on Tuesday, fixes the octroi duty in Paris on bread and corn at 1c. per kilogramme, on flour 1c. 3 dixièmes per kilogramme; the proceeds to go to the Caisse de Boulangerie. The decree further orders that whenever the price of bread exceeds 50c. the Caisse de Boulangerie is to bear the surplus. A decree has been issued for striking a medal commemorative of the Mexican expedition, to be distributed to all who have taken part in the campaign. La France states that Count Goltz had several interviews with the King of Prussia at Baden, relative to the attitude of Prussia in the Polish and German questions and the policy which should be adopted towards France and Austria. Since his return to Paris Count Goltz has had frequent audiences of the Emperor upon foreign affairs. The Courrier du Dimanche of Saturday gives the following summary of the Note which has been appended to the despatch sent by M. Drouyn de Lhuys to Prince Gortschakoff:—

"M. Drouyn de Lhuys explains the European character of the stipulations which were accepted by Russia, Austria, and Prussia at the Congress of 1815. The Minister recalls:—1st. That Russia has entered into an engagement to bestow on the kingdom of Poland a distinct constitutional régime. 2d. That Russia, in making the reservation to approximate the Polish institutions to those of Russia, could only allude to the Polish provinces, without the Kingdom of Poland Proper. The Powers have a direct and positive right to claim for Poland a faithful execution of the treaties. The same paper believes itself able to state that on the 19th inst. M. Drouyn de Lhuys addressed a circular to the French agents abroad, stating that the attitude of Russia had strengthened the good understanding between the Powers. It stated also that the Emperor's Government was convinced that the Polish question was an European one, and would continue to watch events in Poland with the solicitude which it will expect to be also manifested by all the other Powers. The Emperor's Government will act in concert with the other Cabinets in the path which will be considered most in conformity with the principles of public law and the exigencies of the situation."

The Patrie says that a special courier arrived on Wednesday from St. Petersburg with important despatches. La France says:—

"It is asserted that the family council held at Tzarskoe-Selo pronounced itself in favour of granting a Constitution. Prince Gortschakoff was the only person not belonging to the Imperial family who was present at the Council. All the Commissioners intrusted with the elaboration of the scheme of the Constitution belong to the enlightened portion of Russian society."

The same paper in another article expresses its opinion that the new phase into which the negotiations on the Polish question have entered will not weaken the good understanding between France, England, and Austria. The Pays, in common with the Journal des Débats, says that before entering into a discussion on the Russian projects of reform it would be wise to wait until they have obtained more consistency. The Constitutionnel of Sunday publishes an article signed by M. de Limayrac, pointing out the injustice of the American pretensions with regard to the form of the government in Mexico. A pamphlet has also appeared in Paris under the title of "France, Mexico, and the Confederate States," setting forth the interest which France has to recognize the Confederate States, and the impossibility of a re-establishment of the American Union. The pamphlet maintains that the American war will only be useful to France if the separation between North and South be definitely pronounced, "for," it continues, "the Confederate States will be our allies, and will guarantee us from attacks by the North. Mexico, being thus guaranteed against attack from the North, will fulfil our hopes, and our manufacturers will obtain the cotton which is absolutely necessary for them." The Marquis de Montholon, Consul-General of France at New York, has arrived in Paris, and is about to leave for Mexico as Minister Plenipotentiary, accredited to the Provisional Government. The France Centrale, published at Blois, has been suspended for two months, for having announced that the Ambassador of France at St. Petersburg had demanded an audience of Prince Gortschakoff, but had not obtained a word of answer. This statement is declared to be false, calculated to disquiet the public, and excite hatred against the Government. The Confederate steamer Atalanta, reported as being under repair in the dockyard at Brest, is said to be no other than the celebrated Alabama, whose bottom was so foul that her speed was materially lessened. The Confederate corvette Florida has since arrived at Brest with the crew of the Anglo-Saxon, which she had captured and burnt not far from the English coast. The men, 23 in number, were landed at Brest and left to themselves in the public street, but the American Consul took measures to obtain for them board and lodging until their fate is decided on. The English pilot, who was on board the captured vessel, was also landed at Brest. The Florida, which has received free pratique, has met with some damage to her engine.

SPAIN.—The recent circular of the Ministers restricting the rights of the people at the elections has caused great offence to the Progressistas. General Prim has had an interview with the Queen on the subject, at which he urged that the Ministry should either modify its pretensions or resign. The Queen replied that as a constitutional Sovereign she could not, in the absence of the Chambers, entertain a different opinion to that of the Ministry, whose services had merited her confidence. At a meeting of Progressistas at the house of Senor Olozaga, it has been resolved to summon the deputies and senators of that party to Madrid, to debate the question of abstaining from taking part in the elections.

BELGIUM.—The ratifications of the convention concluded between Belgium and Great Britain, for the redemption of the Scheldt dues, were exchanged at Brussels last week. By this convention Great Britain undertakes to pay to Belgium the sum of 8,782,820 fr., and the sum of 17,141,600 florins will be paid by Belgium to Holland in full compensation for the relinquishment of the right of the latter Power to exact dues on vessels navigating the Scheldt.

SWEDEN.—Count Manderström, the Swedish Minister for Foreign Affairs, arrived at Copenhagen from Malins at 9 A.M. on Saturday, and left again at noon. His journey is supposed to be connected with the question of an eventual conflict between Denmark and Germany. During his stay he had a conference with M. Hall, the President of the Danish Council of Ministers. The volunteer system, on the model of that in England, is to be introduced into Sweden.

DENMARK AND THE DUCHIES. — The Europe of Friday publishes the declaration made by Denmark on the 27th ult. respecting Schleswig. Denmark states that, though not in a position to withdraw the proclamation of the 30th of March, she is ready to take into consideration the proposals of the German Confederation, and to carry out in the non-Germanic provinces those resolutions of the Federal Diet compatible with the sovereign and legislative power of the King. Denmark, in conclusion, states that, having recognised the political autonomy of the Duchies, and declared herself ready to enter into negotiations concerning the realisation thereof, she would be compelled to regard a Federal execution as falling under the provisions of international law. The Botschafter says there is every reason to believe that the Federal execution, with which the Germanic Diet has menaced Denmark, and the occupation of the Duchy of Holstein, will take place. "Sufficient forces," it says, "will be placed in the field to put these measures into execution." The Berlingske Tidende of Friday says that England has protested against the blockade of the Hanse Towns in case the German Diet proceeds to Federal execution in Holstein. This statement has since been contradicted on authority.

FRANKFORT.—In the sitting of the Congress of Princes on Saturday the special debate on the several articles was brought to a close. A proposal made by Mecklenburg Schwerin to submit the entire transactions to Prussia for the expression of an opinion, was referred to a sub-committee after an animated debate. The question of the Directorate was solved in accordance with the proposal of Saxony and Nassau. It is to consist of six members. Austria, Prussia, and Bavaria are to have one representative each; Saxony, Hanover, and Würtemburg one; the Grand Duchies and the Duchies which have two votes in the Plenary Assembly of the Bund, one; the Princes who have one vote in the Plenary Assembly, and the four Free Cities, to have the sixth vote. The three kings are to sit alternately in the Directory. The last sitting of the Congress took place on Tuesday. The Emperor of Austria expressed his satisfaction at the complete fulfilment of his hopes of a direct co-operation on the part of the German Sovereigns. He said that the first Congress of German Princes had dissolved itself, with the wish that a second might soon follow, that all the members might be united into one great body, and their endeavours be crowned with success. The King of Bavaria responded to the Emperor's speech. Before the adoption of the Protocol the articles decided upon in the special debates were definitely accepted. The privilege of Austria to preside at the Directorate was agreed to by a majority. All the remaining articles of the Austrian project were accepted en bloc, so that a conference of Ministers will be unnecessary. Baden, Saxe-Weimar, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Luxemburg, Waldeck, and the junior branch of the House of Reuss, refused to give in their adhesion to the resolutions. The final result of the Conference will be communicated to the King of Prussia in a letter signed by the Sovereigns who voted for the resolutions. The Earl of Clarendon left Frankfort on Friday evening, after having had several interviews with the Emperor of Austria, and conferred with the different statesmen of Germany now assembled there. The unexpected arrival of Prince Oscar of Sweden at Frankfort, has produced a great sensation. The Prince has had an audience of the Emperor of Austria, and is staying at Nauheim, whence he can visit Frankfort as often as he pleases. In consequence of the request made by the Frankfort Senate that the American consul would cease to parade the Mexican flag, the Consul has hauled down his own as well as that of Mexico.

Austria.—La France asserts that an Aide-de-camp of the Archduke Maximilian of Austria embarked on Wednesday at Southampton, charged with a mission to Mexico. The Note of Austria to Russia on the Polish question was published on Saturday. The following is a summary of its contents:—

"Austria expresses great regret that Russia had not given a more satisfactory reply to the Notes of the Great Powers. The Note then proceeds to state that the interest of Europe demands an early fulfilment of the work of conciliation in Poland. Foreign influences, it says, are not the only cause of the insurrection. Poland would be tranquil if Russia had fulfilled the political and religious engagements which she had contracted. The proposed conference of the eight Powers ought certainly to be acceptable to Russia. In conclusion, Prince Gortschakoff is requested to give his most serious attention to the present state of things, for the consequences of which Austria declares Russia alone will be responsible."

Hungary.—Rumours are current that a number of Hungarian Notables will shortly assemble at Pesth, under the presidency of the Emperor, to discuss measures tending to bring about a solution of the Hungarian question.

Russia.—Letters from St. Petersburg to the 30th ult. announce that an Imperial ukase has been issued, ordering the incorporation of 48 regiments of the reserve with the active army. The Grand Duke Constantine has arrived at Tzarskoi Selo, and attended a Council of Ministers held under the presidency of the Emperor, at which the question of replying to the Notes of the three Powers was discussed. The Grand Duke has been received in the most friendly manner by the Emperor since his return from Warsaw. Accounts from Moscow state that the Emperor has devised the scheme of a Constitution, according to which the Russian Government would become constitutional, with a Senate of 300 members, and an Elective Chamber of 450. Independently of the central representation, the Empire would be divided into 10 great provinces, each of which would receive a special Constitution. The Kingdom of Poland would have a Diet, and a self-governing internal organisation, and would, besides, send deputies to the Chamber of Representatives at St. Petersburg. Diets would also be granted to Finland and the other large provinces of the Empire. The special Government of Poland would be conducted under the sole direction of the Diet at Warsaw, and the Emperor's lieutenant would fill the post of Chief of the Executive power. The Court and retrograde party is opposed to the project, but it is probable that the Emperor, who is animated by liberal intentions, will not allow himself to be influenced by this opposition. Prince Gortschakoff, who was also opposed to the scheme, is said to have modified his ideas. The Patrie publishes in prominent type letters from St. Petersburg, stating that a report was current there that a Russian Ambassador was about to be sent to Paris with the mission of preparing the French Government for the resolutions which the Russian Government is about to take in reference to Poland, and also to explain the scheme of a separate Constitution for Poland, which would place that kingdom under exceptional conditions going beyond the claims of the Powers. The same letters announce that the recent visit of the Prince of Hohenzollern to Chalons is considered to indicate an endeavour on the part of the King of Prussia, who exercises great influence over the decisions of the Czar, to establish more intimate relations between the French and Russian Cabinets. The Imperial Bank resumed specie payments on Friday at the September rates —viz., 2 per cent. premium.

Poland.—Ignatius Wroblewski, a nobleman of the Government of Wilna, was hanged at Wilna on the 25th ult., for having participated in the insurrection. The landowner Warzkiewicz was hanged at Kowno on the 25th for having served the insurgents in the capacity of spy. Four peasants have been hanged at Sawalki for taking part in the insurrection. Several hundreds of others have been sent to Siberia. In the palatinate of Bialystok, the village of Dzika has been burnt to the ground, and all its inhabitants—men, women, and children, numbering about 1000 souls—have been sent to Siberia, and their estates confiscated. The reason of this act was the execution by the insurgents of a Russian spy in the vicinity of the village. The National Government has issued a decree forbidding the exercise of the censorship in Warsaw. The chief censor, M. Sobieszczanski, has consequently tendered his resignation. It is said that the main body of the insurgents gained a considerable victory over the Russians at Janow on Sunday. Seven insurgent corps were engaged in the affair. Two engagements have taken place in the Government of Augustowo, at Szezencin and Suwalki. Eminowicz and Waskiewicz defeated the Russians on the 21st at Kowal, not far from Radom, in the woyvodeship of Sandomir. A body of insurgents under Taczanowski was attacked and defeated by an overwhelming Russian force under General Bremsen on the 29th ult. at Kruszyna. His force retreated to Koniecpol, and is being re-organised. The Russians burnt several villages and murdered Madame Gaczynska. A considerable insurrection of the peasants against Russia has broken out in the Ukraine.

Italy.—The trial of the Princess Sciarra Barberini and the Cavaliere Quattromani for treasonable conspiracy, commenced at Naples on Tuesday morning. The court was crowded. The examination lasted till 6 p.m. The Stampa says that several small bands of brigands, coming from the States of the Church, have entered the Neapolitan provinces through the Terra di Lavoro. The Cardinal Vicar of Rome has issued a printed notice relating to a solemn procession ordered for the 6th inst. It says:—

"It is the desire of the Pope that special prayers shall be offered up for unhappy Poland, which his Holiness observes with grief to have now become the scene of sanguinary massacres. Poland, always Catholic and a bulwark against the invasion of error, deserves that the Almighty should be implored to deliver her from the evils by which she is afflicted. Petitions should be put up that, while retaining her character, she may remain faithful to the mission God has given her, and may maintain the Catholic banner thoroughly intact."

Japan.—There is reported to be a growing affinity between the Tycoon's Government and foreigners. The Tycoon has chartered British steamers to convey troops.

United States.—The Baltimore correspondent of the Herald, writing on the 13th, states that General Lee has received reinforcements to the number of 30,000 veteran troops, and that he is also receiving conscripts, by which his army will be increased to 150,000 men. The main body of this army is massed on the Rapidan river, with General Lee's head-quarters at Gordonsville, and the pickets extended to the Rappahannock, so that the army stretches from Madison Courthouse to Fredericksburg. It is stated that General Meade earnestly desires to change his base of operations to the peninsula, but that the Government at Washington will not consent. A reconnaissance in force was made by the Confederates upon the Federal left on the 17th, the particulars of which have not yet transpired. General Lee's movements indicate offensive operations, and the Washington correspondent of the Tribune says that he is preparing to invade Maryland, the Secessionists of which State will aid him with all the men, money, and provisions they can provide. He adds, that General Lee has been for some time past secretly organising a reserve of 40,000 men, who are to be stationed at Winchester or some other point in the Shenandoah Valley. It is reported that General Meade, fearing a flank movement by the Confederates on his left, has fallen back to a position near Washington. Federal advices from Charleston to the 14th ult. state that the "Monitors" were all prepared for action on the evening of the 13th. At daylight on the 14th the Federal batteries on Morris Island opened fire, which lasted for an hour or two, when they ceased. The "Monitors" did not fire a shot. As soon as the batteries ceased firing the "Monitors" put up their awnings, and the bombardment was postponed till the 15th, when it was resumed, and continued to the next day. A Chattanooga paper describes the bombardment as being awful. Another grand attack took place on the 17th, when the Ironsides engaged Fort Wagner, while the "Monitors" and shore batteries engaged Fort Sumter, and the wooden fleet engaged Fort Moultrie. A report has been received from Philadelphia that Fort Sumter has been captured, and that the Federal gunboats have passed that fort. The Federal Government has received no such intelligence, and little credence is given to it. If it were true it would not terminate the siege, as it has been determined to defend the city, street by street, house by house, as long as a foot of earth is left. The Governor has urged all non-combatants to leave Charleston as soon as possible. Official circles put little faith in the anticipation of immediate triumph, but entertain no doubt of ultimate success. News from New Orleans to the 11th ult. states that there were numerous cases of yellow fever at quarantine. Five hundred sick soldiers have arrived at New Orleans from Vicksburg. A malignant typhoid fever is raging in Vicksburg; seven out of ten cases prove fatal. The Confederates have been heavily reinforced at Mobile. The Cincinnati Gazette announces that General Burnside's army commenced its march towards Knoxville, Tennessee, on the 19th ult. The draught was resumed in New York on the 19th without opposition. The Federal authorities had made extensive preparations to quell disturbances during the draught. 20,000 troops, 1000 seamen, 20 field batteries, several gunboats, and all the available force at the Navy Yard were in readiness in case of emergency. The Governor of New York had previously issued a proclamation admonishing the judicial executive officers to put down riotous assemblies, and call upon the military if necessary. Should this prove insufficient, the Governor said he would exert the full power of the State to preserve order. Disregard of the sacredness of the Constitution, of the majesty of the law, and of the decisions of the judiciary were now the greatest dangers threatening American liberty; and though he felt that it would have been wise and humane to procure a decision concerning the constitutionality of the Conscription Laws, failure to do this did not justify violent opposition. The Executive Committee of the National Democracy, of which Mr. Belmont is chairman, at a meeting held at Newport, Rhode Island, on the 15th, resolved to call a meeting of the National Democracy Committee, at New York on the 7th September. A meeting had been held at Rochester for the organisation of a Conservative party for the Presidential campaign of 1864. The resolutions adopted denounced Abolitionism, Nativism, and Secession, and advocated a convention of all the States for the nomination of a President and Vice President, and a vigorous prosecution of the war until the Seceded States should return to the Union. General Halleck has officially ordered that General Lee and Captain Winter should be executed immediately upon information being received of the execution of two Federal officers in Richmond. He says —"The United States will retaliate for every similar barbarous violation of the laws of civilized war." It is reported from Newbern, North Carolina, that within a few days 17 large steamers had run the blockade at Wilmington, in that State, laden with 96,000 rifles, 160,000 army blankets, 131,000 uniforms, 22,000 cases of shoes, 11 locomotives, 6 rifled cannon, and five cargoes of railroad iron. Judge Betts has ordered the appraisement of the Peterhoff, which the Government are anxious to purchase before the decision of the Supreme Court, which will take a long time. The New York Herald asserts that the owners of the ship Nord, destroyed by the Alabama, have filed a claim in the State department of 80,500 dollars against the British Government, alleging that the Alabama is a British vessel. The New York Herald urges President Lincoln to send strong columns from General Grant's and Banks's armies through Texas to Rio Grande, opposite Matamoras, in order to counteract any coalition between the Emperor Napoleon and the South, or any attempt of Napoleon to annex Texas to Mexico. The New York Times contains an article attacking England and lauding Russia. It says:—"We are bewildered at England's treachery, which has subsided into a fixed, unchangeable policy. There can be no oblivion of the past. Henceforth America will recognise no ties to England. It will go hard with America if England has not enough of these relations before America has finished." Mr. Seward has addressed a long circular to the Federal agents abroad, stating that the insurgents "have been enabled to protract their resistance by means of sympathy and aid received from abroad," and that "the expectation of further and more effective foreign assistance is now their chief resource." He requests his agents to use the facts contained in it for the purpose of convincing the Governments of Great Britain and France that the quickest and shortest way to the restoration of their trade is "to withdraw support and favour from the insurgents, and to leave the adjustment of our domestic controversies entirely with the people of the United States." Articles urging peace, written by Mr. Davidson, a member of the State Legislature, in the Raleigh Standard, are said to have received the sanction of the Confederate Governor of North Carolina. Southern papers assert that the French Consul at Richmond has informed the Confederate Government the Emperor Napoleon had desired him to transmit his very warm thanks to the Confederate Government and the Charleston authorities for the assistance rendered to the steamer Renaudin. The Confederate Secretary of State replied that the Government was gratified at the opportunity of testifying to the sentiments of cordial regard the Government entertained for the Emperor Napoleon and the French people.

Mexico.—La France alleges that President Davis has sent an extraordinary mission to the Provisional Government of Mexico, with proposals of recognition.

The New York papers publish intelligence from the city of Mexico to the 22d ult., stating that the French and Mexican papers urge Mexico to recognise the Southern Confederacy, which is in favour of a Mexican monarchy. Extravagant statements have been received to the effect that the French were imprisoning and shooting the Mexicans who refuse to take the oath of allegiance to the monarchy. It is also reported that a Mexican man and woman were flogged for refusing quarters to French officers. A French corps d'armée is marching upon San Luis Potosi, which is held by Juarez with 15,000 men.

City Intelligence.

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at 93¾ to ⅞ for Money, and 93¾ for Account; Three per Cents. Reduced, 92⅝ to ¾; New Three per Cents., 92⅝ to ¾; India Stock, 226 to 224; Ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 108¾; Four per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 98; Ditto Five per Cent., 107½; Exchequer Bills, 1s. dis. to 2s. prem.—FOREIGN: Brazilian Old Five per Cents., 103½; Belgian Four and a Half per Cents., 100 to 99½; Chilian Four and a Half per Cents., 87¾; Equador New Consolidated, 16½; Egyptian, 102, ex div.; Greek, for Acct., 37⅛ to ¼; Ditto Coupons, for Acct., 18; Mexican, for Acct., 40 to 40½; Peruvian Four and a Half per Cents., for Acct., 99½; Ditto, 1862, for Acct., 88½ to 88⅝; Portuguese, 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., 49⅞ to 50; Russian, 1862, 93¼ to ½; Sardinian, for Acct., 89¾; Spanish, for Acct., 54⅝; Ditto New Deferred, for Acct., 48⅞; Ditto Passive, for Acct., 35 to 34⅞; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., 13⅛; Turkish, 1854, for Acct., 94; Ditto 1858, for Acct., 69⅞, ex div.; Ditto, 1862, 71; Ditto, for Acct., 71 to ¾; Venezuela, 1862, for Acct., 59.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: August 28.—BANKRUPTS.—J. Allen, Stalybridge, Cheshire, late Licensed Victualler—E. C. Alfiatt, Malvern Link, Worcestershire, Architect—A. T. Bish, Bloomfield Street, North Dalston, Assistant to a Warehouseman—W. Burgess, Combmartin, Devonshire, Mason—J. Bryant, Diss, Norfolk, Tailor—J. Brown, Poulton with Fernhead, Lancashire, Basket Manufacturer—A. Blackwood, Liverpool, Jewel-cabinet and Leather-case Maker—H. Bust, Wray's Terrace, Old Bethnal Green Road, Grocer—T. Banks, of Shap, Westmoreland, Provision Dealer—J. Brockley, Hanley, Staffordshire, Cabinet Maker—J. Brooker, Charles Street, Brandon Street, Walworth, Corn Dealer—T. Clark, Russell Street, Yassall Road, Camberwell New Road, Cashier to a Lamp Manufacturer—J. Currey, Dover Place, New Kent Road, Law Clerk—C. Colborn, Westbourne Park Villas Mews, Paddington, Cab Proprietor—G. Curtis, Newmarket, Trainer of Horses—A. A. Carter, Clifton, Bristol, late Milliner and Dressmaker—E. Coleman & E. C. Coleman, Latcham, Wedmore, Somersetshire, Tailors—J. Dyson, Sheffield, Hosier—T. Den, Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, Bookseller—J. Davies, Blaina, Monmouthshire, Innkeeper—J. Evison & I. Evison, Woodside, Worcestershire, Coke and Breeze Manufacturer—H. Elphee, Ockenden Road, Southgate Road, Islington, Commercial Traveller—T. Free, Hughenden, Buckinghamshire, Stone Cutter—F. C. Francis, Swansea, Glamorganshire, Grocer—C. Fowiston, Rotherham, Yorkshire, Tailor—M. Fitzgerald, King's Road, Chelsea, Oil and Colourman—J. Fielder, Norbiton, Surrey, Gardener—R. R. Grant, Grove Cottage, Newington—J. Gronkowsky, Sewardstone Road West, Victoria Park, Waterproof Clothing Manufacturer—H. A. Greetham, Landport, Hampshire, Photographer—H. A. Gilbee, Marylebone Road, Marylebone—J. Gilbert, Fitzroy Square, Picture Dealer—G. Grey, Exeter, Boot and Shoe Maker—S. Hill, jun., Totnes, Devonshire, Grocer—T. Howden, Sheffield, Scale Presser—C. Hill, Bowling, Yorkshire, Butcher—F. Higginson, Hampstead, Submarine Engineer—C. Haslam, Braintree, Essex, Grocer—T. Heatherley, Weston Street, Pentonville—J. Hedgethorn, jun., New Shoreham, Sussex, Shipwright—J. Hubbard, Foleshill, Warwickshire, Brickmaker—H. Heaven, Shirehampton, Gloucestershire, Mason—F. Hetherington, Dartmouth Terrace, Lewisham, Commission Agent—G. Harris, Bridgwater, Somersetshire, Butcher—T. Heatley, sen., Turnagain Lane, Farringdon Street, Carpenter—J. Jackson, Wednesbury, Staffordshire, Grocer—T. Jarvis, Earl's Court, Kensington—H. W. Jackson, Skinner Street, Snow Hill, Tobacconist—G. Kammerer, Lombard Street, Commission Agent—R. B. Kettle, Spittlegate, Lincolnshire, Plumber and Glazier—J. Lamb, Liverpool, Coal Dealer—S. Lloyd, Birmingham, Brass Caster—G. P. Moore, Blackheath, Carpenter—H. M'Nulty, late of Seacoal Lane, Snow Hill, Master Mariner—R. Morley, Wormwood Street, City, Accountant's Clerk—Jonathan Massey, Macclesfield, Music Seller—William Wilson Murray, Darlington, Durham, Dealer in Hardware—Benjamin Marks, Cambridge, Hardwareman—Samuel Smith, Mickleburgh, Kingston, Surrey, Common Brewer—T. Milroy, Everton, Lancashire, Draper—E. H. Nolan, Abingdon Villas, Kensington, Author—S. Osborne, Alfred Terrace, Queen's Road, Bayswater, Stay Maker—G. Perkins, Kidderminster, Worcestershire, Schoolmaster—W. Pollitt, Manchester (in formâ pauperis)—T. Tollitt, Manchester (in formâ pauperis)—M. G. Price, Bratton, Wiltshire, Farmer—S. Pethick, Stoke Damerel, Devonshire, Builder—G. Rhodes, Ilkeston, Derbyshire, Colliery Agent—T. Rowland, late of Dover, Kent, Watchmaker—F. Ronca, Birmingham—J. Rooney, Liverpool, Porter—W. A. Robbs, Star Street, Shadwell, Publican—S. Sutton, Upper Park Place, Dorset Square, Coffee House Keeper—A. Steele, Little Britain, Boot and Shoemaker—J. H. Saunders, late Crescent Place, Burton Crescent, Commission Agent—W. Salmon, Rattlesden, Sussex, late Maltster—S. Sharp, Euston Square, Schoolmaster—J. Shippam, Nottingham, Greengrocer—W. Stapleton, St. Stephen's-by-Launceston, Blacksmith—E. Sawtell, Sheffield, Comb Maker—W. Thomas, Troedyrhiw, Glamorganshire, Postmaster—G. Thornley, Altrincham, Cheshire, Saddler—R. Tye, Spalding, Lincolnshire, Clock and Watch Maker—J. Wingrove, Peterborough, Fishmonger—D. Wilks, Walsall, Staffordshire, Cabinet Lock Maker—G. West, Mint Stables, South Wharf Road, Paddington, Carman—E. Weaver, Regent Street, Tailor—T. Ward, Laurence Pountney Lane, City, Merchant—R. Williams, Presteign, Radnorshire, Tailor—T. Williams, Penyrch, Glamorganshire, Builder—H. Yates, Sheffield, Joiner.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—R. Barclay, Hamilton, Lanarkshire, Spirit Dealer—R. Reid & Son, Elgin, Cabinet Makers.

TUESDAY: Sept. 1.—BANKRUPTS.—J. Adamson, Wakefield, Yorkshire, Maltster—W. Aspinwall, Grosvenor Street, Bond St., Upholsterer—A. W. Barr, Brighton, late Cattle Agent—D. Boyers, Boston, Lincolnshire, Grocer—G. Barrett, Birmingham, Electro Plater—W. Bayliss, Hereford, Plumber—F. Bull, Barton-under-Needwood, Staffordshire, Farmer—F. D. Barigot, Newport, Monmouthshire, Accountant—J. Booth and T. Wrigley, Saddleworth, Yorkshire, late Cotton Doublers—S. Baller, Worcester, Plumber—W. Bird, Runton, Norfolk, Wheelwright—W. Courtney, Woodbury, Devonshire, Blacksmith—E. Caine, Wolverhampton, Wheelwright—F. Coulton, Lincoln, Widow, late Licensed Victualler—G. Cook, Chorley, Lancashire, Draper—J. Carter, Liverpool, Licensed Victualler—S. Coultas, Scarborough, Yorkshire, Tailor—J. Cross, Bilston, Staffordshire, Butcher—T. Elton, late of Birmingham—W. Field, Brighton, Cabinet Maker—J. Goldsmith, Fletching, Sussex, Licensed Victualler—J. Hill, Newcastle-under-Lyme, Staffordshire, Insurance Agent—W. Hague, Birmingham, Agent for Fire and Life Assurance Companies—W. F. Hammond, Carey Street, Lincoln's-inn Fields, Auctioneer—L. Ingham, Elton, Cheshire, Agent to a Cheese Factor—J. Jackson, Willenhall, Staffordshire, Keysmith—W. J. Kain, late of Birmingham, Retail Brewer—T. W. Keatts, Birmingham, late Draper—H. J. King, Swansea, late Man Milliner—J. Lacy, late of Cornhill, City, Insurance Broker—Robert Gordon Latham, Upper Southwick Street, Hyde Park Square, Doctor of Medicine—William Lea, Hockley, Warwickshire, Milkman—C. P. M'Kay, De Beauvoir Road, Kingsland, Salesman to an Upholsterer—W. P. Miller, Winchester, Clerk to an Estate Agent—W. Morgan, late of Birmingham, General Dealer in Skins—T. H. Manton, Birmingham, late Retail Brewer—M. Mills, Rossendale, Lancashire, Bread Baker—W. H. Nisbour, Brighton, Musician—L. Ogilvie, Workington, Cumberland, Grocer's Traveller—I. Pearson, Illonby, Cumberland, Innkeeper—T. Pearce, late of Illogan, Cornwall, Miner—W. Rhodes, Leeds, Grocer—C. Long & F. W. Ralfe, Mincing Lane, City, Colonial Brokers—R. Rook, Leeds, Corn Miller—J. Stanley, late of High Street, Wapping, Wine Merchant—F. J. Street, Birmingham, Journeyman Plane Maker—T. South, Talbot Road, Notting Hill, Stone Mason—W. Timmins, Kingswinford, Staffordshire, Miner—S. Towan, Plymouth, Currier—J. Tattersall, Queen Street, Edgeware Road, Builder—R. Thompson, Whitehaven, Cumberland, Finishing Potter—C. Walker, Spring Street, Sussex Square, Hyde Park, Wine Merchant—R. Williams, Kingswinford, Staffordshire, Night Watchman—Christopher Warwick, Scarborough, Yorkshire, Painter—W. Wilkins, Eastbourne, Sussex, Retailer of Beer—H. Wooderson, Commercial Street, Whitechapel, Potato and Fruit Salesman—J. W. Whitfield, Ryde, Isle of Wight, Gasfitter—G. Williams, Kingswinford, Staffordshire, Iron Moulder—W. H. B. Weeks, Paternoster Row, Bookseller—J. Wilkinson, Birmingham, Journeyman Tailor—H. Wood, Tunstall, Staffordshire, Engraver.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—R. G. Dunn and A. Dunn, Muiravonside, Stirlingshire, Farmers—J. Nisbet, Glasgow, Coal Master.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued .. .. .. | £29,383,880 | Government Debt .. .. | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities .. .. | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 14,733,880 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. | — |
| | £29,383,880 | | £29,383,880 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,091,284 |
| Rest .. .. .. .. .. | 3,674,187 | Other Securities .. .. | 18,992,10[illegible] |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | 6,818,182 | Notes .. .. .. .. .. | 8,193,2[illegible]5 |
| Other Deposits .. .. .. | 13,261,512 | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 780,339 |
| Seven days and other bills | 730,107 | | |
| | £39,036,988 | | £39,036,988 |

Sept. 3, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

THE CONFEDERATE STEAMERS.—A memorial was sent last week by the Executive Committee of the Emancipation Society to Earl Russell, calling upon the Government to "make immediate investigation into the fact, that two powerful iron-plated steam-rams, which for some time have been in preparation in the Mersey by the builders of the Alabama, are now almost ready for sea; that the vessels are equipped and armed with steel prows and turrets, and are intended for the purpose of committing hostilities against the Government and people of the United States of America." The memorial further stated that one was expected to sail on or about the 27th of August, and was to be received by the Confederate war vessel Florida, now hovering off the British coasts for the purpose, and that another iron-plated war vessel, destined for the same service, is approaching completion in the Clyde. Earl Russell, in reply, stated that his attention had long been directed to the subject, and that both the Treasury and the Home Department had, at request, made the most anxious inquiries on the subject of these steam-rams. His lordship at the same time regretted that the memorialists had not furnished him with any evidence upon which he could act. The Times, in commenting on this memorial argued that to let these vessels go forth to prey on Federal commerce would be an offence against international law, and also against the spirit, and probably against the words, when correctly interpreted, of our municipal law. It also insisted that it was the duty and interest of the country to prevent this offence from being committed, and not to let it take place and lament over it when it had become irremediable. Mr. Nassau W. Senior has since addressed a letter to the Times on the subject of this article, stating that a very important motive for the immediate interference of our government is the effect which its "torpidity" will produce on the feelings and conduct of the Federals. Mr. Senior says that he has conversed during the last month with Americans of both parties, who are unanimous only on one subject, and that is that the escape of these vessels will produce the evil which we have exercised so much forbearance and endured such sufferings to prevent—a war with the North. They all believe, he says, that, whatever be the wish of the Northern Government, the indignation and rage of the people will force it to declare war. This is the expectation of the Federals, who look on a war against us with horror, and of the Confederates, who exult in its approach, and have always looked to foreign support. They long hoped that want of cotton would lead the English Government to attack the Federals. They now bribe English shipbuilders to do so. Mr. Senior then gives the following notes of a conversation which he had a few months ago with Mr. Dayton, the Federal Minister in Paris, whom he describes as a man of great talents, knowledge, and calmness:—

"Paris, May 2, 1863.

"I called on Mr. Dayton, the Federal Minister. I said to him that during the last five weeks I had conversed with many persons of political eminence on American affairs; that I found fears that the conduct towards us of the Federal government would lead to war universal, and an opinion that it was intended to produce war prevalent; and that I thought it desirable that he should know the opinions as to that conduct of persons of political eminence not merely impartial, but favourable to the cause of the Federals. He answered that he should be grateful for the information. I then related to him the substance of several conversations with persons belonging to different political parties. 'I recognise,' he answered, 'in all that you have told me, the Times. I believe that it is useless for a Northern American to state any facts, to contradict any falsehoods, or to use any arguments in England or in France. You, all of you, French as well as English, take all your opinions, all your premises, and all your conclusions blindly from the Times. I have known men treat the Times sometimes with contempt, sometimes with indignation, describe it as the unscrupulous organ of the English aristocracy, and laugh at those under its influence, and immediately afterwards talk to me pure Times. The government of the United States would be frantic if it did not do everything and submit to everything in order to avoid a war with you.' 'That,' I answered, 'is precisely what they say, and the inference which they draw from your conduct is that you are frantic. If, they say, the President and his advisers wish for a war with England, they are mad. If they do not wish for it, and yet do all they can to bring it on, then also they are mad. Take the appointment of Captain Wilkes.' 'I do not know,' he answered, 'what are the rules of our service. Captain Wilkes is the most popular man in our navy. He may have had claims which could not be refused.' 'Captain Wilkes's popularity,' I answered, 'for having done all that he could to bring on a war with us, is a proof of the madness of the people. An English officer who had so acted would have disgusted everybody. What, then, do you think of Mr Cassius Clay, and of the motives which led his government first to publish his despatches, and afterwards to employ him?' 'You gave us,' he answered, 'great provocation, by assisting the rebels. The Alabama is manned by English sailors.' 'And is not your blockading fleet,' I answered, 'manned by English sailors? Can you tell me how to prevent a sailor from taking service where he likes?' 'You ought to have exerted,' he replied, 'greater vigilance to prevent her sailing. You ought not to have thrown on Mr. Adams the onus of proving her destination. When you complained during the Crimean war that we were building vessels for the Emperor of Russia, we did not throw on your minister the burden of proof. We examined ourselves, and ascertained that it was so, and stopped the ships.' 'I admit,' he continued, 'that it is difficult to prevent the people who are the greatest manufacturers of military supplies in the world from supplying belligerents with arms. But, if you cannot, as you say that you cannot, prevent Nassau from being a base of operations to the Confederate armies, you should use the utmost toleration of our efforts to prevent this. If your sympathies are with those who are endeavouring to ruin us, you should not parade them. If you think that you will gain in the rupture of the Union you are mistaken. Do you suppose that the Confederates sympathise with you, except so far as they believe that you hate us?' 'No,' I said, 'I have no doubt that the Confederates hate us as much as you do. An honest neutral is always hated by both the belligerents, but they have the merit of keeping their secret better. If we knew all that they think and feel, we probably should feel towards them as you seem to be trying to make us feel towards you.' 'Well,' he said, 'I do not believe, with your French friends, that our public men are mad. I do not believe, therefore, that they wish for war. Nor do I believe that yours do so. But each party is excited: each party is, whether voluntarily or not, doing great mischief to the other. I see no remedy but patience, and an earnest attempt to repress the evil passions of the educated mobs in your country and of the uneducated mobs in mine. Of one thing I am certain—that if you think that any interference on your part will stop the war you are wrong. Not England, and France, and Russia—not all Europe could influence us.' 'Not,' I answered, 'by persuasion?' 'Not,' he replied, 'by force. What the South wants is food, and that you cannot give her. She has arms enough; but she is starving, and will be starved out.' My expectations of peace between you and us,' he continued, 'depends much on the manner in which you deal with the ironsides which the Confederates are now building in England and Scotland. You excuse yourselves for not having stopped the Alabama on the ground that she was not obviously a ship of war. These ships are so. No merchant vessel is plated. We maintain they are intended for the Confederates—intended to prey upon the commerce of the Federals, your friends. How can we prove it except by the facts which are already as obvious as they can be made? For what other purpose can they be intended? The builders alone have the dosuments by which the innocent destination of the ships can be shown. You should call on the builders to produce them. If they refuse you may safely assume that they are intended to attack us. I do not ask you to confiscate them, or even to stop their progress, but merely to detain them until the builders prove, which they can do in a day, the innocence of their destination. In the Crimean war we did much more. We actually stopped the progress of the Alexandra on the suspicion that she was intended for the Russians. Not an axe or a hammer was allowed to be lifted in her. We found our laws, as you have found yours, insufficient. We amended them. You merely fold your arms and allow proceedings opposed to your own municipal laws and to international law, to good feeling and to good faith, to go on, because your municipal law has not sufficient detective power. Then give it that power. You are not, as we are, bound by a constitution. Your parliament is omnipotent. If it is not skilful enough to invent a law which shall enable such atrocities to be detected and prevented, let it copy the law which we passed for that purpose, and which was sufficient. If you refuse to do this, and, in consequence of your negligence, or of your self-inflicted impotence, these ironsides escape and plunder us, the American people, irritated enough already, will be ungovernable. You have seen enough of them to know that their resentment is not under the control of their interests. They will really become as mad as your French friends call them. They will be quite ready to ruin themselves in order to ruin you.'"

LAUNCH AT WOOLWICH DOCKYARD.—The Wolverine, of 21 guns, the last of the wooden ships which is ever likely to be added to the British navy, was launched at Woolwich on Saturday. She was laid on the slip some years ago, and when the necessity for iron casing became visible, her progress was suspended with a view to her conversion. The Admiralty, however, finally determined to finish her as she had been begun. She is a sister ship to the Orpheus, which was recently lost on the coast of New Zealand.

ECCLESIASTICAL CONGRESS.—A congress of clergy and laity, under the auspices of the Duke of Marlborough, the Earl of Derby, Lord Ebury, Lord Lyttelton, Lord John Manners, M.P.; the Hon. Algernon Egerton, M.P.; Mr. Bazley, M.P.; Mr. Buxton, M.P.; Mr. Hibbert, M.P.; Mr. Garnett, M.P.; Mr. Hubbard, M.P.; Mr. W. J. Laing, M.P.; Mr. Mowbray, M.P.; Mr. Giles Puller, M.P.; the Archbishop of York, the Bishop of Manchester, the Bishop of Oxford, and other noblemen and gentlemen, is to be held at Manchester next month, with a view to consultation as to the best means of promoting the efficiency of the Church. The congress is to be preceded by a service in the Cathedral, on Tuesday, the 13th October, and the meetings will be held in the Free Trade Hall on the following days, at which papers will be read introductory to discussions on the following subjects:—Church Extension, Supply and Training of Ministers, Lay Co-operation, the Church in Ireland, Management of a large Parish, Parochial Mission Women, Growth of the Church in Lancashire, the Law of the Colonial Church and the Supply of Native Ministers; Day and Sunday Schools, Free and Open Churches, Clergy Discipline, Modes of Augmenting Small Livings and Tithe Redemption, Rural Decanal Meetings, Diocesan Synods and Convocation.

ENCLOSURE OF WANDSWORTH COMMON.—Upwards of 200 copyholders and ratepayers have signed a memorial to Earl Spencer, as lord of the manor of Battersea, stating that during the past few years enclosures to the extent of upwards of 100 acres have taken place on Wandsworth Common, some of which have been effected by private individuals; while within the last few months an enclosure of eight acres has been made by the Brighton Railway Company, stopping up a footpath over a pleasant and much frequented part of the common. For centuries the parishioners and their families have enjoyed undisturbed the healthy walks on Wandsworth Common, and the custom of years, right or wrong, has given them an apparent right to this enjoyment. The memorialists view these encroachments with regret, and state that if permitted to go on the entire extinction of Wandsworth Common must be the result at no distant date. They therefore pray his lordship to exert his influence to preserve to the public those privileges which have been enjoyed from time immemorial, and to institute such inquiries with reference to enclosures not sanctioned by him as will lead to their speedy removal, and secure to the inhabitants and their children the continuance of those rights they have so long and freely enjoyed.

ILL-TREATMENT OF A CHILD.—On Tuesday evening Mr. Carttar, coroner for West Kent, after five adjournments, concluded an inquiry at Eltham, on the body of Augusta Constantia Engleheart, aged four years and nine months, who, it was alleged, had died from ill-treatment. The evidence taken was very conflicting. It appeared that on the evening of the 31st July, Dr. King, of Eltham, was sent for by the parents of the deceased, who was suffering from injuries to the head, and dying. Death ensued on the following morning. One of the witnesses examined, Jane Maynard, servant to Mrs. Engleheart, said that the child had been put into a cold bath on the day preceding its death, because of its dirty habits. When taken out of the bath it had a spoonful of cod-liver oil, some of which fell over the shoulder of the child, and was washed off by the mother holding the deceased under a pump in the kitchen and pumping water upon it. The witness also stated that the mother had, about a fortnight previously, compelled deceased to swallow four chilies, and that two or three days before her death the child had said that a tooth had been knocked down her throat by her mother. The latter, it was said, was in the constant habit of beating the deceased with a thick cane, used as a walking stick. Mrs. Engleheart, on being sworn, said that deceased was naturally very weak, of a peevish disposition, and of dirty habits. A former medical attendant had advised the cold bath, with salt, to be used, and on the child being taken from the bath, and some of the cod-liver oil administered falling on her shoulder, she held it under the pump while the servant pumped the water to wash the oil away, not more than a tumbler full of water being obtained by pumping. She then carried the child upstairs, but seeing it shivered she was about taking it downstairs, when her dress caught in the bolt of the gate at the top of the stairs, causing her to let deceased fall over the banisters on the steps, and to roll nearly to the bottom. She denied being in the habit, or, indeed, ever beating deceased with the cane, as alleged, and explained the accusation of causing the child to swallow chilies by saying that while emptying some pickles the deceased took one and swallowed it, and put a second chili in its mouth, but after holding it in its mouth she spat it out. She also said that on picking the child up after the fall she called the servant, but received no answer, owing to her having left the kitchen to empty the bath that had been used, and that she immediately sent the servant to neighbours for assistance and a medical man. The medical evidence was to the effect that death had resulted from concussion to the brain, caused either by a blow or a fall, and which, also, might have been occasioned by the head of the child being knocked against the stone sink when in the act of being pumped upon. Louisa Alvis, who had lived in service with the parents at Bermondsey, while stating that the deceased was very often beaten, said that the correction never took place except when the child had been in fault. Two of the neighbours who were called in deposed that the mother first told them that she was fearful she had kept the child too long in the cold bath, and that it was not until some minutes afterwards that she suggested that the injuries had been occasioned by her having let the child fall over the stairs' bannisters. In the course of the inquiry it was admitted by the father that the child had been born before marriage. The Coroner summed up at great length, and the jury, after an absence of three-quarters of an hour, returned an unanimous verdict of "Manslaughter" against Helen Hannah Margaret Engleheart, the mother, who was thereupon committed for trial. Substantial bail was tendered and accepted for her appearance.

WRECK OF A STEAMER IN THE RIVER.—On Thursday morning, as the well-known Belgian steamer, the Baron Osy, was coming up Limehouse Reach from Antwerp, she struck on a rock or the point of an old anchor, which made such a rent in her iron bottom that she immediately began to fill with water. The passengers were all got out, with the greater part of their luggage and of the steamer's cargo. As the tide flowed the vessel filled, and she now lies sunk in mid-channel, but immediate steps will be taken to raise her.

DISASTERS AT SEA.—There has of late been an unusual number of maritime disasters. A French naval steamer, running between Oran and Marseilles, went ashore a few days since, and though the crew and passengers were saved, the mails, and about a million of state bonds were lost. In the China Seas, the native crew of the ship Helmers rose upon the European captain, mate, and two seamen, murdered them, and scuttled the ship. The British ship Caribou has been destroyed by fire on her voyage from Liverpool to Bombay. The second officer had gone below to get some spirits of turpentine, and as he was holding a light in one hand and the vessel containing the turpentine in the other, the ship gave a lurch, which threw him off his balance. The spirits came in contact with the light, and the ship was soon in a blaze, which the crew were unable to extinguish. They took to their boats, and were finally landed in the Cape de Verde Islands. The British bark Frankfort, which left Cardiff in October with coals for Shanghai, was totally lost on the 19th of February, near Kalatna, in the Indian seas, with all hands except the boatswain, who endured severe sufferings before he was rescued. The steam-ship Georgia, which sailed from New York on the 31st July for Liverpool, ran ashore on the north-east bar of Sable Island in a dense fog, between 1 and 2 o'clock on the morning of the 4th ult., and was expected to become a total wreck. The passengers and baggage were all saved, and landed at Halifax on the 8th ult., by the revenue cutter Daring. The officers and crew of the vessel remained on board endeavouring to get her off, but the nature of the bar was such as to give little hope of saving her.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.—The deaths in London in the week that ended Saturday, the 29th August, were 1334. The average number in the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62, omitting deaths from cholera in 1854, and corrected for increase of population, was 1191. The present return is, therefore, 143 above the average. During the week the births of 865 boys and 840 girls, in all 1705 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1859.

Provincial.

MANCHESTER.—At the weekly meeting of the Central Executive Committee on Monday, the Earl of Derby in the chair, the hon. secretary reported that the balance in the bank was 307,297*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.*, and that 1470*l.* 0*s.* 9*d.* had been received during the week. Mr. Farnall's report stated that, on the 22d ult., there was a decrease of 1251 in the number of persons receiving parochial relief in the 27 unions, as compared with the previous week. Mr. Goodair, during a discussion on the application of the Public Works Act, said the experience in Preston was that the operation of the Act would be interfered with by the comparative scarceness of skilled labour, which would be required to a large extent for the execution of works already contemplated there, and if this could not be obtained there would be a difficulty in employing the full amount of unskilled labour which might otherwise be made use of. Major Egerton Leigh thought that the number of unskilled workmen out of employ would probably increase as winter approached. Mr. Goodair said he could express no opinion upon that point. He referred more especially to the scarcity of bricklayers and stonemasons, as proved by practical experience. Mr. Rawlinson said this difficulty was perhaps not to be regretted, as it might lead ultimately to highly beneficial results, by inducing the several local authorities to select as first experiments those works which would employ the largest amount of unskilled labour. Many applications have already been made for money to execute works involving large outlays upon skilled labour, and in some cases they were for objects which probably the public might think should not have been sanctioned. He was not sorry, therefore, on account of the fact mentioned by Mr. Goodair. Although the Poor-law Board did not wish to be too rigid on this point, it was certainly expected that the authorities would select works which would absorb the greatest number of unskilled labourers. In reply to the noble chairman, Mr. Rawlinson added that a considerable portion of the money asked for was to be applied to the erection of public buildings. He also stated that the whole of the applications which had been sent in to the Poor Law Board, up to the date of his last official report, amounted to 169,729*l.*, and applications had since been made for 529,000*l.*, making a total of 698,729*l.*, or very nearly half the sum sanctioned by Parliament. It should be remembered, however, that most of the large towns were included in this statement. The Mayor of Manchester had informed him that the corporation of Manchester contemplated asking for a much greater sum than he mentioned last week (100,000*l.*) The Earl of Derby said the Mayor had stated to him that nearly 200,000*l.* would probably be required for Manchester. Grants were subsequently made to the amount of 5460*l.*

NEWCASTLE ON TYNE.—At a meeting of the general committee of the British Association on Monday, the place of meeting next year was decided on. Nottingham, Dundee, and Bath put in their claims for a visit; but the council, by a large majority, decided in favour of Bath. Dundee obtained 27 votes, Nottingham only 3. At the same meeting Sir Charles Lyell was elected President for next year. Lord Portman; the Marquis of Bath; Mr. Tite, M.P.; Mr. Way, M.P.; Mr. William Saunders, F.G.S.; Lord Nelson; and Mr. T. H. Dickinson were elected Vice-Presidents; Mr. Charles Moon; Mr. C. C. Davis, and the Rev. W. W. Winwood, were appointed Local Secretaries, and Mr. Thomas Gill, Treasurer.—An alarming accident, closely resembling the Hartley catastrophe, took place on Monday at Burradon Colliery, about six miles from this town. Between 100 and 200 men and boys were working in the pit when the machinery by which the cages that bring the workmen and the coals to the surface are wound up gave way, and parts of the machinery, as well as the cages themselves, were precipitated to the bottom. All communication between the workmen in the mine and those on the surface was thus cut off, and it was feared that the ventilating apparatus had also been destroyed, in which case all hands must have perished from starvation. Fortunately some of their number, who knew the workings thoroughly, were aware of a passage to the shaft of Seghill Colliery, about three miles distant; and though constantly exposed to danger from stoppings and other obstacles they succeeded in reaching Seghill in about three hours, and were taken to bank without any one of them having sustained injury. It is expected that three or four days will suffice to place the machinery at Burradon in proper working order.

NEWPORT.—Edwin Gill, the young man convicted of stealing the will of the late Mr. Thomas Powell, the extensive colliery proprietor, has made a complete confession of his guilt. At his express request Mr. Thomas Powell, the eldest son of the deceased gentleman, has had an interview with him at the county gaol, where he confessed that he entered the house on his own account, with no other motive than plunder; that he carried off some papers at a venture, and on subsequent examination finding that one of them was the will, he tried to make a profit of its restoration. This statement has set at rest the mysterious rumours which were afloat at the time, that some member of the family had instigated him to the theft.

TAVISTOCK.—Sir John Trelawny, M.P. for this town, addressed his constituents a few days since at the Bedford Hotel. The following is a summary of his speech:—

After a few prefatory remarks, he referred to the question of reform, and said he thought it useless, especially in the present disturbed state of public opinion, to expect from Parliament any extension of the suffrage to the élite of the working classes. He thought it unwise to continue this exclusion from the franchise, as it might have the effect of driving many of the best of our artisans, who desired to exercise their rights as citizens, to a place where they could obtain that privilege, and thus diminish the chances of the future prosperity of this country. The line he would draw for the admission of this class would be the household suffrage. After alluding to the ballot, which there was no immediate prospect of being carried, and reminding electors that the question would be in their hands at the next election, he referred to the question of finance, and said there some reason for congratulation upon this subject, for there had been a diminution of the expenditure and an increase in the revenue of the country. It was gratifying also to find that, instead of being called upon, as was expected, to make up a considerable deficit in the Indian finances, the revenue of that country had balanced itself, and there was a prospect of a slight surplus. The prospects of our Indian Empire were rapidly improving, and the introduction of railways and the system of irrigation would be productive of most beneficial results. The withdrawal of troops from the Ionian Islands would likewise be a means of further diminishing the expenditure. He blamed Government on both sides for frequently allowing grants of small sums to be passed without due inquiry. Persons would get up in the House and say money was wanted for this or that matter, and if the demand proceeded from the Conservative side, the Government, if they saw there was a strong opposition, languidly yielded the point. The sums asked for might be necessary, but what he objected was, that these demands did not come before the House in a plain, straightforward way, on the recommendation of the Executive, and after careful inquiry as to the necessity of the sums asked for. He objected, as a rule, to mere arithmetical reductions, and adopted the principle of ascertaining before he voted whether sums applied for were or were not requisite for the efficiency of the service, and would not vote for 75 instead of 80 simply on the ground that it was a reduction. He had voted against the purchase of the Exhibition building because he believed it would have led, as in the case of the Houses of Parliament, to an enormous outlay in addition to the sum first asked for, the sum in that case having risen from 700,000*l.* to 3,000,000*l.* The Galway contract he had voted against, believing it to be a corrupt proposal intended to curry favour with the Irish representatives; and he had opposed the Dover contract because it was a job of much the same character. He next explained at some length the reasons why he had voted against Mr. Somes's Bill for closing publichouses on the Sabbath. He thought it was carrying the principle of interference with the liberty of a subject too far. No one more fully appreciated, both on sanitary as well as moral grounds, the vast importance of adhering to temperance, but it was possible to ride the hobby too far. If the Bill were adopted he believed that it would give rise to the strongest dissatisfaction throughout the country, and would occasion a repetition of those disturbances which resulted from the stoppage of the Sunday postage—an obnoxious measure that had to be repealed soon after it passed; and he believed that if the Sunday Closing Bill had been passed not even a fifth-rate Minister would be able or would consent, to hold the office of Home Secretary. Another ground of objection to the measure was that it proposed to exclude London from its operation, and for the same reason Liverpool and other large towns should also be excluded. It would be difficult also to work it, for no two magistrates would agree as to who was or who was not a traveller. The committee who, in 18[illegible]5, recommended certain restrictions in respect to the sale of beer recommended, pari passu, the opening of museums and places of amusement for the working classes on the Sabbath. It was fairly argued that if the men were deprived of one source of recreation another legitimate one should be provided for them. This was opposed by a great many persons; but if they took one proposition they ought to take the other. He next referred to the subject of county rates, and thought some alteration should be adopted as to the mode in which these rates should be levied and expended. He thought that those who paid the rates should have some control over the expenditure of them: and he was also of opinion that large woodlands and certain dues from mines, which were sources of great wealth, ought not to be exempted from taxation. This would not involve any great organic change that would be likely to frighten Conservatives, and he counted on the support of some of these at the next election. After some remarks on the competitive system of nomination for Government appointments, which ought to be entirely open to any one properly qualified, and not made a matter of secrecy and favour, as it is now, he spoke of several other measures that would be brought before Parliament during the next Session. Referring to the Church-rate Abolition Bill, he said he should leave the conduct of that question in future to younger and more energetic men, but would be happy to render any assistance. He enlarged upon the Irish Church question, which he regarded as a dangerous one, and demanding a speedy solution. He reviewed at some length the aspect of the Polish question, but said we must be careful, while manifesting our sympathy for that oppressed race, that we did not get drawn into any serious complications that might arise. He also explained his vote in opposition to the Burial Bill, which had surprised many persons who did not understand why he voted against a Bill which gave to Dissenters the right of burial in churchyards. He opposed the Bill on the ground that it was unnecessary; for it would simply have confirmed a right that already existed, Dissenters having the power to bury children in the churchyard if they had been baptized. But the Bill placed Dissenters in an undignified position by requiring them to go cap in hand as it were to the minister, and state which form of prayers and service they wished to be used; and it would also place the clergyman in a position of antagonism with persons in cases where he might have conscientious objections to the form of service proposed to be used.

WICKHAM MARKET.—On Thursday the 20th ult. the boiler of a steam threshing machine, which had been at work all day at a farm in the occupation of Mr. Burch, in the village of Charsfield, near this town, burst with terrific effect. Two men and a boy were killed; the corn, which was being threshed, became ignited, and the produce of 18 acres was consumed. An inquest was opened on Saturday and adjourned for the evidence of a professional engineer.

Ireland.

ILLNESS OF THE ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN.—The Irish papers announce with regret that Archbishop Whately has been for some weeks in a precarious state of health. It is reported that he is suffering from erysipelas in the foot; but some persons go so far as to say that mortification has attacked it. The latest accounts say that his Grace is becoming more feeble and passes restless nights. Much anxiety is manifested on his account by a large section of the public, by whom he is greatly esteemed for his moderation and Christian character.

GALWAY PACKET SERVICE.—The steamship Adriatic sailed from Galway on Tuesday afternoon with 550 passengers and 21 bags of mails. It was blowing a strong gale from the westward.

Scotland.

LADY ANGLERS.—The Banffshire Journal says that angling is now one of the most fashionable amusements for ladies. The Princess of Wales is frequently to be seen, rod in hand, on the banks of the Dee or its tributaries. Lady Caroline Gordon Lennox has been fishing on the Spey with remarkable success, having taken among others two grilses of 8 lbs. and 8½ lbs., and a salmon of 18 lbs.

Law.

HOME CIRCUIT, CROYDON: Kahnweller v. Dobson. This was an action to recover the value of two cargoes of goods, for which defendant was alleged to be responsible, under an agreement he had entered into with the plaintiff. The plaintiff is a merchant at Wilmington, in the Southern States of America, and defendant is a merchant in London, and although it was attempted on behalf of the plaintiff to make out that the transaction between them was one of an ordinary mercantile character, it was clearly established in the course of the case that he took a very warm interest in the cause of the Southern States, and that the real object of the adventure was to assist them in their struggle with the Federals. It appeared that in the commencement of last year the plaintiff came to England, and entered into communication with defendant, the result of which was that two vessels, named the Ladona and the Peterhoff, were chartered, defendant acting as the agent of plaintiff in the transaction. The proceedings connected with the two vessels were each the subject of a separate inquiry, and it appeared that with regard to the Ladona, a quantity of goods were shipped on board, some of which were of an innocent character; but by the orders of plaintiff 25 tons of saltpetre and other articles of the like description were made to form part of the cargo. A person, named Pardue, was sent out with the vessel, ostensibly as supercargo, and she cleared out from England as for a voyage to Bermuda, and her papers were made to appear to carry out the object of a regular mercantile transaction; but there was no doubt, and, indeed, it was admitted in the course of the inquiry, that the real intention of the parties was to run the blockade, and, if possible, convey the goods to some of the Southern ports, Wilmington being specially referred to as a place where every facility would be rendered by Colonel Lamb, who was in command of the Confederate troops in that neighbourhood, who was a friend of the plaintiff, and other persons, to discharge the cargo of the Ladona and put on board a cargo of cotton for England. If this plan had been carried out the speculation would no doubt have turned out a very profitable one; but it seemed that various difficulties presented themselves. On the arrival of the vessel at Bermuda, inquiries were of course made by Pardue, in order to guide him as to the best course to be taken, and the result led him to believe that there was very great risk in his endeavour to run the blockade, and that if he attempted to do so, his risk would be increased by his having the saltpetre on board, as, if he were to be overhauled by any of the Federal cruisers, this article would be treated as contraband of war, and the vessel would have been liable to seizure on that ground. The British authorities at Bermuda would not allow the saltpetre to be sent on shore, as they considered that, under the circumstances, the act might be construed into a breach of the neutrality which the English Government had determined to practise, and in this emergency Pardue resolved to send the saltpetre to New York to be disposed of. There was no doubt that this was a course not at all agreeable to the plaintiff, for in the course of his evidence he said, with a good deal of emphasis, that he would much rather the saltpetre had been thrown overboard than that it should have gone to New York, to be used against his friends the Southerners. The result, however, was, that the saltpetre was disposed of at that place, and in consequence of the great depreciation in the paper currency and the high rate of exchange the proceeds were remitted in this country in the shape of Clover seed and bacon, but the former article, it seemed, was accidentally destroyed by a fire before it came into the plaintiff's possession, and the latter was sold, and realised 900*l*. After the Ladona had got rid of what was considered the most dangerous portion of her cargo, an attempt was made to run the blockade with her, but this was unsuccessful, for she was encountered by one of the Federal cruisers, and as she did not bring to when signalled to do so, a 120 lb. shot was fired at her, which entered her hull, but did not materially injure her, and she endeavoured to escape, but a second shot had the effect of disabling her, and she was seized and condemned, and thus the expedition ended so far as the Ladona was concerned. With regard to the Peterhoff, it seemed that she also was laden with a cargo of the like description, among it being a quantity of sulphur, and she was placed under the charge of a person named Chambers, who, there was no doubt, had the confidence of the plaintiff, and who was appointed with his sanction, and in this case, as in the other, her papers were intended to convey that she was bound upon an ordinary voyage to Nassau. It should be stated that the Peterhoff is the same vessel whose capture by the Federals has just been announced, and it appeared that she was hired on this occasion for six months, at the rate of 1100*l*. per month. It was not seriously denied that the same intention was entertained with regard to the ultimate destination of the Peterhoff, as in the case of the Ladona; but when she arrived at Nassau, and Chambers ascertained the state of affairs, he came to the conclusion that it would be folly to attempt to run the blockade, and that if he were to do so the capture of the vessel was certain. He, therefore, determined to sell the cargo as well as he could at Nassau, and he accordingly did so; and the present action was brought to recover the value of the two cargoes on the ground that defendant had not carried out the instructions he had received, and that both Chambers and Pardue had exceeded the authority given to them. Baron Bramwell intimated his opinion that the case was one in which some arrangement might be come to. Neither party, however, was at first inclined to fall into this suggestion, but ultimately it was arranged, so far as the Peterhoff was concerned, that the dispute between the parties should be referred, and the case of the other vessel, the Ladona, was to be gone on with. The Judge in summing up left a good many questions to the jury, and in the result a verdict was taken for the plaintiff for 970*l*. in reference to the saltpetre sold at New York, upon one of the counts in the declaration for money had and received and not accounted for. On all the other counts the verdict was for defendant, and leave was also given to defendant to move for the verdict to be entered generally in his favour, if the Court should think that upon the facts the jury were not justified in law in finding the verdict they had done.

Obituary.

MR. EDWARD STANLEY, of Ponsonby Hall, died a few days since, at the age of 73. He represented West Cumberland in Parliament for 20 years. He was first returned in 1832 in conjunction with Lord Lowther, now the Earl of Lonsdale, Mr. Curwen, of Worthington Hall, being the defeated candidate. In 1835 he was again elected member, with Mr. Irton, as his colleague, Major Aglionby being the defeated candidate. In 1841 Mr. Stanley and Mr. Irton were again elected, and Mr. Stanley continued to represent the county until his retirement from public life in 1852.

MR. RAEBURN, OF ST. BERNARD'S, died recently at Charlesfield House, Midlothian, at the age of 80. He was the last surviving son of the late Sir Henry Raeburn, R.A., of St. Bernard's, and although not himself an artist, he inherited an enthusiastic love for the Fine Arts. He has left a valuable collection of his father's works, being chiefly the portraits of friends, including Sir Walter Scott, Sir J. Sinclair, Sir David Brewster, and other eminent persons. He assisted in promoting the success of the exhibitions in Manchester and other provincial towns, and to his liberality the National Gallery of Edinburgh owes some of its choicest specimens of portraits. He was also well known in Scotland for his devotion to agricultural pursuits, which he made his constant study during a great part of a long life. He was one of the first to introduce subsoil ploughing, tile draining, and other processes of scientific agriculture, which have since been generally adopted; and by his efforts to improve the land on his estates he did much towards providing employment for the poor in his neighbourhood.

WILLS.—The will of the Hon. Miss Sophia Wheatley, of Charles Street, Berkeley Square, has been sworn under 16,000*l*.; Mr. George Rainy, of Raasay, Inverness, 160,000*l*.; Dr. Edward Field, M.D., of Ipswich and Framlingham, 30,000*l*.

Sporting.

PRIZE FIGHT FOR 1000*l*.—The great fight for 1000*l*. between Mace, the ex-champion, and Goss of Wolverhampton, took place on Tuesday. The combatants left Paddington for Wootton Bassett, in Wiltshire, by special train at half-past 2 in the morning by the Great Western Railway. A ring was formed, about a mile from the Wootton Station. The ropes and stakes were adjusted by about 25 minutes past 6 o'clock. Mace won the toss for choice of sides, and of course, placed his antagonist so that the morning sun glared upon his face. Much time was lost in selecting a referee and other preliminaries, and it was past 7 when the men had shaken hands and stepped into the ring. Both seemed in admirable condition. Mace met his opponent confidently, but Goss had evidently made up his mind to act with great caution. For four minutes and 40 seconds the combatants dodged, made feints, and sought an opening, but not a blow had been exchanged when the police made their appearance. Their arrival was expected, as it was well known at Swindon the night before that the fight was to take place, and constables had been seen on the look-out at Reading, Didcot, and Swindon. The company were of course compelled to quit the field, and returned to London with the view of proceeding to Purfleet. The second journey was soon completed, and at half-past 3 the river was crossed at Long Reach. The Essex constabulary mustered in great force, but as the fight was beyond their jurisdiction they could do nothing. It was 5 minutes to 5 in the afternoon before the men had again taken their places in the ring. A fight of 18 rounds, lasting an hour and three quarters, ensued, in which Goss endeavoured to tire out his antagonist, and avoid his blows. In the last round, however, he received a blow on the jaw, the crash of which could be heard five or six yards off. It would have felled a bullock. Goss fell on his forehead insensible and apparently dead, and for nearly five minutes the utmost efforts of his backers could not restore him. Mace was then declared the winner, and the whole party soon afterwards returned to London by rail from Dartford.

BIRTHS.—On the 27th ult, at 21, Moray Place, Edinburgh, the Countess of KINTORE, of a son—1st inst, at 24, Bruton Street, the Countess of LONGFORD, of a daughter—2d inst, at Dover House, Whitehall, Viscountess CLIFDEN, of a son and heir—30th ult, the Lady CATHERINE WHEBLE, of a son—29th ult, at 44, Belgrave Square, the Hon. Mrs. PERCY WYNDHAM, of a son—27th inst, at Weymouth, the wife of the Hon. W. W. ADDINGTON, M.P., prematurely, of a son, still-born—26th ult, at Barwick House, Norfolk, the wife of Rear-Admiral SEYMOUR, C.B., of a son.

MARRIAGES.—On the 26th ult, at Norwood, Captain LITTLE, J.P., of Roswell, Wicklow, eldest son of the late Rev. Dr. Little, to the Hon. ANNE HENRIETTA BUTLER, daughter of the late Hon. Henry Butler, and sister of Henry Edmond, thirteenth Lord Viscount Mountgarret—25th ult, at Edinburgh, the Rev. JOHN MACLEOD, minister of Dunse, youngest son of the Rev. Dr. MacLeod, of Morvern, to ALEXA, youngest daughter of the late Lieutenant-General MACPHERSON, of the Bengal Army—27th ult, at St. Mary's, Bury St. Edmund's, Captain H. L. B. IBBETSON, son of Captain L. L. Boscawen Ibbetson, K.H., F.R.S., to SARAH ADELAIDE, elder daughter of the late Rev. JOHN WHITE, rector of Chevington, Suffolk—27th ult, at the parish church of Charlcombe, Somerset, ALEXANDER WM. HALL, Esq., of Barton Abbey, Oxfordshire, to EMMA GERTRUDE, second surviving daughter of the late EDWARD JOWETT, Esq., of Eltofts, Yorkshire.

DEATHS.—On the 29th ult, at Westrock House, Leamington, MARTHA, eldest daughter of the late Right Rev. WILLIAM CLEAVER, formerly Bishop of St. Asaph, aged 72—27th ult, at Bagnères de Luchon, after a very short illness, beloved and respected by all who knew her, ELEANOR FRANCES ELIZABETH, the youngest daughter of the late Lieutenant-General Sir JOHN and Lady HAMILTON—26th ult, at Rugby, CHARLOTTE ANNE, widow of WILLIAM FERDINAND COUNT WRATISLAW VON MITSOWITZ, aged 64—25th ult, at Villiers Cottage, Southsea, HORATIO W. HOLLINWORTH, Esq., second son of the late Admiral Hollinworth, R.N., aged 40—15th June, at Parliament House, Melbourne, Colonel H. H. FARQUHARSON, late 1st Royals, aged 68—25th ult, T. J. R. BARROW, Esq., R.N., of the Ryelands, Randwick, near Stroud, eldest son of the late Lieut.-Colonel Barrow, Coldstream Guards—23d ult, at Newnham, Gloucestershire, RAYNOR MASON, Esq., youngest son of the late Lieutenant-Colonel Mason, aged 61—29th ult, at Weston-super-Mare, Captain CHARLES PHILLIMORE, of 19, Connaught Square, London—31st ult., at his residence, Bushey Grove, near Watford, STEWART MARJORIBANKS, Esq., aged 88—25th ult, at Patterdale, WM. GOTT, Esq., of Wyther Grange, Kirkstall, and Bay Fort, Torquay, aged 65—23d ult, at Dawlish, MARIA, daughter of the late T. LANE, Esq., J. P., of Selsdon, Surrey—30th ult, at the Rectory, Swalecliffe, near Canterbury, PATTY BALDOCK, wife of the Rev. JACKSON DELMAR, rector of Swalecliffe, aged 55—25th ult, at Bournemouth, the Rev. FRANCIS MINDEN KNOLLYS, D.D., fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, aged 47—27th ult, at St. Nicholas College, Lancing, the Rev. WILLIAM STERNE RAYMOND, M.A., aged 31—26th ult, at Limerick House, Leamington, the Rev. JOCELYN WILLEY—16th ult, at Blo' Norton Hall, Norfolk, the Rev. CHARLES H. BROWNE, rector of the parish of Blo' Norton, aged 63—18th May, at the British Legation, Pekin, the Rev. WM. C. MILNE, M.A., assistant Chinese secretary to H.M.'s Legation in China, son of the late Rev. Dr. Milne, aged 48—30th ult., at Barton-on-Humber, the Rev. JAMES KNIGHT, M.A., formerly incumbent of St. Paul's Church, Sheffield, aged 70.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Sept. 5.

Vegetables and most kinds of Fruit still continue plentiful. Plums may also be had in great abundance at from 6s. to 8s. a sieve. Of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Of Melons there is a good stock of both English and foreign varieties. There is also a good supply of Williams's Bon Chrétien Pears. Kent Filberts are dear, the supply of them being rather short. Kent Cobs are coming in in better condition than last week; price 45s. to 50s. per 100 lbs. For Potatoes the market is still heavy. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 2s to 5s | Nectarines, do., 2s to 5s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 5s | Melons, each, 2s to 4s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 1s 6d to 2s 6d | Lemons, per 100, 12s to 16s |
| Pears, per ½ sieve, 2s 6d to 5s | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Plums, per ½ sieve, 3s to 4s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Figs, per doz., 2s 6d | Walnuts, do., 14s to 20s |
| Peaches, per doz., 3s to 8s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | French Beans, p. sieve, 2s to 6s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 100s to 110s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| " Shaws, do., 60s to 70s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 4d to 6d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 1s 9d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Tomatoes, each, 2d to 3d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.
SMITHFIELD, Thursday, Sept. 3.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 75s to | 80s | Clover, old .. .. | 95s to | 120s |
| Superior do. .. | 84 | 90 | Do. second cut .. | 90 | 108 |
| Inferior do. .. | 60 | 70 | New Clover .. | — | — |
| New do. .. .. .. | — | — | Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 34 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | 60 | 80 | | | |

HARVEY & EASTON.

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, Sept. 3.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 92s | Prime Clover .. | 120s to | 12?s |
| Inferior do... .. | 80 | 84 | Inferior do. .. .. | 100 | 110 |
| Prime New Hay.. | 80 | 86 | New 1st cut do... | 110 | 1?6 |
| Inferior.. .. .. | — | — | Inferior do. .. | 95 | 110 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 27 | 30 | Prime 2d cut do. | 100 | 11? |

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, Sept. 4.

Our market continues in a buoyant state, and prices firm for all descriptions of wool. The prices paid, however, of late to the farmers are too high to realise a profit on at present.

| | s. d. | | s. d. | | s. d. | | s. d. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ | to | 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 | to | 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto.. | 1 10 | — | 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 | — | 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ | — | 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 | — | 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 | — | 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 | — | 1 8 |
| | | | | Blanket ditto .. | .. | — | .. |

NEWGATE.—Sept. 4.

Best Fresh Butter .. .. 15*s*. per dozen lbs.
Second do. do. .. .. 18*s*. "
Pork, 4*s*. 0*d*. to 4*s*. 4*d*. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.
MONDAY, Aug. 31.

The number of Beasts is about the same as on Monday last. Trade is not so active, but prices cannot be quoted lower for choice qualities. The supply of Sheep is smaller, yet quite equal to the demand; indeed, it is difficult to realise late rates.

Trade is still very bad for Lambs, the season being now really over. Choice Calves are rather dearer. From Germany and Holland there are 2240 Beasts, 10,320 Sheep, 307 Calves, and 30 Pigs; from Ireland, 450 Beasts and 300 Lambs; and 2760 Beasts from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 4 6 — 4 10 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn .. | .. .. — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 4 4 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 0 — 4 4 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 0 — 5 2 | Do. Shorn .. | .. .. — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. | .. .. — .. | Lambs .. .. | 4 8 — 5 8 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 5870; Sheep & Lambs, 27,660; Calves, 353; Pigs, 320.

Thursday, Sept. 3.

The number of Beasts is about the same as on Thursday last. Trade is dull, yet prices cannot be quoted lower on the average. We have a shorter supply of Sheep, especially of English, one half being foreign. The demand is good, and some of the choicest descriptions have realised rather more money. Lamb trade is very dull, the season being nearly over. From Germany and Holland there are 390 Beasts, 4090 Sheep, 402 Calves, and 30 Pigs; from Spain, 40 Beasts. Milch Cows, 75.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 4 6 — 4 10 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn .. | .. .. — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 0 — 4 4 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 0 — 5 2 | Do. Shorn .. | .. .. — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. | .. .. — .. | Lambs .. .. | 4 8 — 5 8 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 1195; Sheep & Lambs, 8590; Calves, 491; Pigs, 280.

MARK LANE.—Monday, Aug. 31.

The supply of new Wheat to this morning's market was moderate, and met an improved inquiry at the full prices of this day se'nnight. Foreign Wheat was also in better demand, and a tolerable clearance was made of such parcels as were offering at the lowest rates of last week. Barley brought late rates. Beans and Peas were unaltered in value. Oats were a slow sale and rather cheaper. In Flour there was but very little doing.

| Per Imperial Quarter. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 43—46 | Red ..... | 40—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 45—50 | Red .... | 42—48 |
| — — Talavera ........ | 48—52 | | |
| — Norfolk ........ | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign ........ | 38—58 | | |
| Barley, grind. & dist., 30s to 33s .. Chev. | 36—40 | Malting .. | 33—38 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| Oats, Essex and Suffolk ........ | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ........ Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 19—22 | Feed .... | 18—20 |
| Rye ........ | 30—33 | Foreign .. | — |
| Rye-meal, Foreign ........ | — | | |
| Beans, Mazagan .... 33s to 35s .. Tick | 34—36 | Harrow .. | 24—36 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ........ Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 30—32 |
| Peas, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—40 |
| — Maple .... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 32—38 |
| Maize ........ White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| Flour, best marks delivered .. per sack | 38—48 | | |
| — 2d do ........ ditto | 30—34 | Country .. | 30—34 |
| — Foreign ........ per barrel | 20—26 | Per sack | 34—45 |

Friday, Sept. 4.

The weather since [illegible] was and continues to be wet and stormy, excepting on the 1st, and appears greatly to have retarded the harvest in the North and Scotland, and in such parts of the kingdom where it has been protracted. Wheat is said not to have suffered materially, and is undoubtedly a large crop, but a large portion of the Barley has probably been reduced from malting to grinding quality. The Wheat trade has been firm, and in several markets sellers have obtained a slight advantage, but the business in foreign Wheat has not been extensive. Since Friday last 102 vessels have been reported off the coast. A lively business has been done this week in Maize at a little lower prices; other descriptions of spring corn and Wheat have been quiet at unaltered rates. In Paris (Sept. 3), the Flour trade has been very slow, and prices have declined fully 1s. per 280 lbs The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 34s. per 280 lbs. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 7730 cwts. Wheat is firm, but there is only little doing. The arrivals of English and foreign Wheat and foreign Barley this week have been good, of other English grain, foreign Oats, and Flour small. The attendance at this morning's market was limited. English Wheat was scarce, and would readily have commanded the extreme rates of Monday. The inquiry for Foreign was not active, but holders displayed more firmness. Grinding Barley is in good demand at fully former prices. Beans and Peas are unaltered in value. The Oat trade is quiet, but our quotations for the finest descriptions are supported.

Arrivals this Week.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 2550 qrs. | 200 qrs. | 20 qrs. | 910 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 430 | — ,, |
| Foreign .. | 17,680 ,, | 3060 | 13,230 ,, | 560 ,, / 1310 brls |

Liverpool, Sept. 1.—We have had a very fair attendance at to-day's market, and Wheat has commanded rather a better inquiry than of late at the extreme prices of Friday last. Flour meets no improvement either in demand or value. Indian Corn is offered sparingly, but difficult to buy at late rates, the recent large arrivals being now pretty well cleared from the quay. New Irish Oats are selling at from 2s. 6d. to 2s. 9d. for black, and 2s. 9d. to 2s. 10d. for tawny; very few white are here yet. Old Oatmeal unchanged; new brings from 30s. to 31s. Beans steady and fully as dear. Peas and Barley fair sale. The market closes decidedly firm.

Friday, Sept. 4.—Wheat in good demand at 2d. advance. Flour steady. Indian Corn active. Egyptian Wheat and Beans steady.

| Averages | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| July 25 | 45s 11d | 29s 10d | 22s 9d | 32s 8d | 39s 3d | 35s 11d |
| Aug. 1 | 45 11 | 31 0 | 23 0 | 37 11 | 39 11 | 36 8 |
| — 8 | 46 3 | 31 6 | 23 0 | 31 6 | 38 8 | 34 9 |
| — 15 | 45 11 | 31 4 | 23 7 | 36 4 | 40 7 | 36 7 |
| — 22 | 46 5 | 31 1 | 23 0 | 33 2 | 40 4 | 34 9 |
| — 29 | 45 9 | 33 10 | 22 8 | 33 9 | 39 6 | 35 9 |
| Agg. Aver. | 46 0 | 31 5 | 23 0 | 34 3 | 39 8 | 35 6 |

Fluctuations in the Last Six Weeks' Averages.

COAL MARKET.—Sept. 2.

Byass's Bebside West Hartley, 16s. 3d.; Grey's West Hartley, 15s. 9d.; North Pelton Gas, 13s. 6d.; Walker Primrose, 12s. 9d.; Eden Main, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Hetton, 18s.; Walls End Russel's Hetton, 16s. 9d.; Walls End South Hetton, 18s.; Walls End Stewarts, 17s. 9d.; Walls End Cassop, 16s. 9d.; Walls End Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Kelloe, 16s. 9d.; Walls End East Hartlepool, 17s. 9d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 20s.—36 ships at market.

HOPS.—Borough Market, Friday, Sept. 4.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report that about 2500 pockets of the new growth of Hops have arrived at market, and are selling at the following prices:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Mid and East Kents, per cwt. .. | £6 0 to | £8 0 |
| Weald Kents .. .. .. .. | 5 5 — | 6 6 |
| Sussex .. .. .. .. .. | 5 0 — | 6 6 |

The trade for yearlings and old Hops continues steady at late prices.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

WANTED, a TRAVELLER.—A Nurseryman having a large and select stock of Conifers, Roses, Rhododendrons, &c., is in want of a good Traveller to represent him. He would be required to sell carefully, having a due regard to truth in his representations; a permanent trade being of more importance than a forced sale. As the Advertiser will only engage in the hope of securing an honest man, well up in his business, he will answer such applications as appear likely to be suitable; all those not answered will please understand that any correspondence would be useless.—Particulars, stating terms, where, and number of years engaged, may be addressed to A. B., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, a Single industrious trustworthy Man as NURSERY FOREMAN and MANAGER.—Apply by letter, stating age, wages expected, &c., to G. C. O., care of Messrs. Dawson & Sons, 74, Cannon Street, London, E.C.

WANTED, at Michaelmas next, a WORKING FOREMAN or BAILIFF on a Farm of 1000 acres.—Apply, stating Salary and qualifications, to J. M. Read, Elkstone, Cheltenham. No letters answered, unless to the person treated with.

WANTED, in a small Nursery, a respectable, energetic, trustworthy Young Man, of active, industrious habits, and obliging manners, as GENERAL PROPAGATOR, and GROWER of PLANTS and SHRUBS; also to attend to the Fires and make himself generally useful, and to act as Salesman in the absence of the Principal.—Apply in own handwriting, stating age, wages required, and references, to William Simons, Promenade Gardens, Great Malvern.

WANTED, in a Garden Establishment near London, a YOUNG MAN of industrious and steady habits, with a taste for Plants, and some knowledge of their Cultivation. Wages moderate.—Apply, stating references, to M. C., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

WANTED, TWO YOUNG MEN, from 16 to 18 years of age; some that have been in Houses and understand Plants. Character from last situation must accompany application, stating wages.—Adams & Co., The Horticultural Establishment, London Road, near Gloucester.

WANTED, a WOODRANGER, who has thorough knowledge and experience in the Management of Timber, Plantations, and Coppice. He should also understand how to Fix Iron Railing, as well as the Erection of other descriptions of Fencing, and be a good Judge of the Value and Labour of Work of the above kind.—Apply, stating age (family if any), wages, references, &c., addressed to Mr. Moss, Maristow, Plymouth.

WANTED, an unmarried MAN SERVANT, to live in the house, who understands the Cultivation of an ordinary Garden, can manage a Cow, attend a Horse, and Drive occasionally.—Apply, stating age, reference for character, and wages required, to T. C. F., Post Office, Lower Edmonton.

WANTED, a first-class DAIRYMAID.—The Undersigned require before the end of September, for a nobleman in North Wales, an experienced DAIRYMAID, who can make first-class Butter and Cream Cheese. She must be single, and no one need apply who has not held similar situations in good families, and who cannot be recommended as skilled in Dairy work, thoroughly cleanly in her work and person, and of respectable appearance and good moral character. Wages 30*l.* per annum, with Furnished Sitting and Bed-rooms, Coal, Candles, Soap, Potatoes, &c. A Man allowed for Churning. The work is not heavy, but requires good management.—Apply, stating age and all particulars of former servitude, thus—"Dairymaid," Messrs. Francis & Arthur Dickson & Sons, Seed Merchants, &c., Chester.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. Henderson & Son, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, married; a first-class Fruit Grower; understands Forcing Vines, Pines, Peaches, Melons, and Cucumbers; many years' experience in Orchard-house work, Orchids, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Flower and Kitchen Gardens, Laying-out, Re-arranging Shrubberries, and forming new Fruit Borders. Character unexceptionable.—T. H., 6, Markfield Road, Page Green, Tottenham, N.

GARDENER (Head) to a nobleman or gentleman.—D. Wicks, Head Gardener to W. Wilson Saunders, Esq., Hon. Secretary to the Horticultural Society, will be at liberty to engage after the 29th September. Has a thorough practical knowledge of Forcing in all its departments; likewise the Growth of Plants from most parts of the world, and the Management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Ten years' good character.—Hillfield, Reigate, Surrey.

GARDENER (Head), or GARDENER and BAILIFF.—Age 45, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly practical in either department, having been a most successful Cultivator of Stove and Greenhouse Plants of every description; good experience in Early and Late Forcing of Fruit and Vegetables, and the general Management of Flower and Kitchen Garden. Having had the management of [illegible] Acres of Land, he is well up in the Breeding and Rearing of all kinds of Stock, and understands Draining, Irrigation, the application of Artificial Manures, Road-making, and every description of Ground-work in either Light or Heavy Soils. Can produce the best testimonials for honesty, sobriety, and perseverance.—H., Mr. Maurice Young, Milford Nurseries, near Godalming.

GARDENER (Head).—Married, two children; understands his profession in every department. Eight years' character.—John Butler, Princess Street, Pembroke Dock, South Wales.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 40, married; thoroughly practical. Wife could take charge of Dairy and Poultry. Four years' unexceptionable character from the gentleman he is about to leave.—T. W., 14, Raglan Street, Forest Hill, S.E.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 31; very successful in the leading Branches; good Kitchen and Flower Gardener. Wife good Laundress if required. Three years' character.—H. T., 32, St. Catherine's Road, Notting Hill, W.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 28; understands Early and Late Forcing of Fruit, &c., Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Six years' unexceptionable character.—J. C., Marfleet's, Grocer, High Street, Carshalton.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 36, married; thoroughly understands Forcing Grapes, Melons, and Cucumbers; the Management of Greenhouses, Kitchen and Flower Gardens; well understands Wall and other Trained Trees.—J. C., Kennington Hall, Ashford, Kent.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30, married, two children; a thoroughly respectable man, of practical experience in Early and Late Forcing, &c. Nearly four years' unexceptionable character.—A. L., Messrs. Smith & Co., Ironmongers, Blackheath, S.E.

GARDENER (Head).—Married, no incumbrance; first-class Grower of Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Kitchen and Flower Gardener, Laying-out Grounds, &c. Seven years' character from last employer and 12 from former.—T. L., 6, Robertson Street, Lee, Kent.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 34, married, without incumbrance; understands his profession in all its branches, and competent to undertake the Management of a first-class Establishment. Character will bear the strictest investigation.—W. F. V., Messrs. Downie, Laird, & Laing, Stanstead Park Nursery, Forest Hill, S.E.

GARDENER (Head), in a nobleman's or gentleman's family.—Age 38, married, one child; has a good practical knowledge of Forcing Fruit, &c., Kitchen and Flower Gardening, takes a great interest in the Propagation and Arrangement of Plants, and Contrasting of Colours in Conservatory and Flower Beds.—A. G., Mr. Pegler, Chemist, Lower Norwood, Surrey, S.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 38, married, two children; perfectly understands his profession in all its branches, Early and Late Forcing, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Flower and Kitchen Garden, also Landscape and Ornamental Gardening, Laying out new Gardens, and the general improvement of Estates. Three years and a-half good character.—W. C., Pole Hill, Hillingdon Heath, near Uxbridge.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 35, married, no incumbrance; has had many years' experience in Horticulture, and gained a thorough knowledge of the modern growth of the choicest Fruits under Glass; is a first rate Cultivator of Stove and Greenhouse Plants, and has had for many years the Management of a nobleman's Garden Establishment, where Gardening has been carried out to the highest state of Cultivation. Can produce first-class testimonials.—John Osborne, Chippenham Park Gardens, near Newmarket.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (Head).—Age 30, single; has lived in some of the largest and best Gardens in England; has for years been successful as a Grower and Early Forcer of Vines, Peaches, Cucumbers, Melons, Strawberries, &c.; thoroughly understands the Cultivation of Ferns, Stove, Fine-foliaged and Greenhouse Plants; is a first-class Flower, Fruit, and Kitchen Gardener. Character and testimonials of the very highest order.—Gardener, Plas Machynlleth, Montgomeryshire, North Wales.

GARDENER.—Age 36; has a practical knowledge of his profession. Can take charge of Land and Stock. Good character.—A. B., Solomon's, Fruiterer, &c., Covent Garden, W.C.

GARDENER, where one Man or more are kept.—Age 30, married; thoroughly understands his profession in all its branches. Two-and-a-half years' character. Fourteen years' experience. Wages expected, 18*s.* per week, with Cottage.—A. B., 9, Albert Terrace, Queen Street, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. Davies, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. Lindley, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER (Single-handed).—Age 30, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly practical in all branches. Good character.—T. G., Williams, Hair Dresser, Wood Street, Walthamstow.

GARDENER (Under).—Age 21, single; steady; has been two years under a first-class Gardener. Can receive a first-class character.—F. B., Dewsbury, Yorkshire.

GARDENER (Under).—Age 23; would not object to pay a Premium where he can have a good opportunity of improving himself.—A. Z., 1, Salamanca Row, Upper Church Street, Chelsea, S.W.

STEWARD and GARDENER.—Single; is well acquainted with, and has had the Management of a large estate, including Draining on the Government system, Plantations, Repairs, &c., with a long experience of Gardening in all its branches. A good character from the nobleman he has lately left. Testimonials can be seen, with unexceptionable references.—A. B., Hanover Nursery, Peckham, S.

To Nurserymen.

GENERAL FOREMAN, SALESMAN, or TRAVELLER.—Has a good knowledge of the business generally, but more particularly the outdoor branches, with which he is thoroughly conversant. Considered a good Salesman; is also a good Correspondent. Good references.—W. H. B., Mr. Cottrell, Sexton, [illegible] Birmingham.

FOREMAN, to Manage a Gentleman's Estate.—Age 40, married, no incumbrance. Good knowledge of Land, Drainage, Stock, Butchering. Wife can Manage Dairy. Eleven years' good character.—Y. S., Willesden Lodge, Willesden, Middlesex.

FOREMAN (Out-door).—Has had extensive practice in the leading Nurseries in Scotland; well acquainted with the Propagation and Culture of general Nursery Stock. Good Salesman.—A. B. C., Stamford Nursery, Bowdon, Cheshire.

To Nurserymen.

PROPAGATOR, or PROPAGATOR and FOREMAN.—Well up in Propagating Hard and Soft-wooded Plants, good Grafter of Roses, Rhododendrons, &c. First-class testimonials.—A B , Mr. Wm Bull, New and Rare Plants Establishment, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

PROPAGATOR, or FOREMAN and PROPAGATOR.—A first-class Graftsman, and thoroughly experienced in the Propagation of Hard and Soft-wooded Plants. Good references.—A. B., 43, North Road, Great Yarmouth, Norfolk.

IMPROVER in the Gardening business; a situation wanted immediately.—H S , Millash, Whitwell, Derbyshire.

IMPROVER.—Accustomed to Forcing and Growing of all kinds of Fruit and Flowers. Good Premium.—D. Tanley, 24, Park Street, Dorset Square, London, N.W.

FARM BAILIFF.—Age 31; experienced; understands Light and Heavy Soils, and the Breeding and Rearing of Stock. Wife can take charge of Dairy and Poultry.—X. Z., Stent's Library, Guildford.

FARM BAILIFF.—Married, no incumbrance; understands Buying, Selling, Fatting, and Rearing Stock and General Farm Management. Wife to Manage Dairy and Poultry. Good reference.—A. B., Ackland's Library, Lymington, Hants.

FARM BAILIFF (from the West of England).—Married; perfectly acquainted with the most modern system of Agriculture in all its branches, Farm Buildings and Repairs, Woods and Plantations, Drainage and Irrigation, Mensuration and Accounts. Wife a first-class Dairywoman; understands Devonshire Creams and Butter, Rearing and Feeding all kinds of Poultry. Fifteen years' unexceptionable character.—A B., Messrs. Sutton & Sons, Royal Berkshire Nurseries Reading.

TRAVELLER or MANAGER.—Has had considerable experience, and well up in Business.—M. J., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

To Seed Merchants.

SHOPMAN.—Age 21; has had seven years' experience. Good references.—T. A. B., F. & A. Dickson & Sons, 106, Eastgate Street, Chester.

HERDSMAN.—Married, one child; has had great experience in all kinds of Stock. No objection to taking charge of a Small Farm or Grass Land. Can have a good character.—W. S , South Lodge, near Southgate, Middlesex, N.

Grove Nursery, Coleman Street, Camberwell, S.

MR. GEORGE WELLS having had upwards of 20 years' experience in the Erection of Horticultural and other Buildings, offers his services to the gentry and public in Planning and carrying out such Works by contract or otherwise. Also in Laying out Gardens and Pleasure Grounds, and the Improvement of Estates generally.

Plans and Estimates will be furnished on application. The nobility and gentry are invited to inspect his Nursery as above, Designed and Erected by himself, containing several thousand feet of Glass Gardens kept in order by the year or otherwise.

All kinds of Gravel, Peat Sand, Loam, Leaf-mould, &c., supplied at the lowest possible prices.

Experienced Gardeners recommended.

SHAW'S TIFFANY.

For samples and prices apply to

J. Shaw & Co., 29, Oxford Street, Manchester.

To the Trade.

Hyacinth Glasses Superseded by the

NEW REGISTERED ETRUSCAN HYACINTH VASE, the most beautiful Table Ornament extant. To be obtained only of

Hooper & Co , Seedsmen, Covent Garden Market, London, W.C.

WHOLESALE LIST of PRICES forwarded on application.

To Seed Merchants and Nurserymen.

SAYNOR and COOKE, Pruning and Budding Knife Manufacturers, beg respectfully to say that they will not be undersold by any House in the Trade. They also warrant one of their Knives to last two of any other make.

Paxton Works, Sheffield.

HAVE YOU a LAWN?—Use BELCHER'S PATENT PLANTAIN EXTRACTOR; which neatly removes Plantain and Daisies, and replaces them with fine Turf. Price 6s.: to be had of all Ironmongers.

Wholesale Agents, S. & E. Ransome & Co., 31, Essex Street, Strand, W.C.

MORTON'S NEW IMPROVED PATENT LAWN MOWER, with Sun and Planet Motion, having all the most recent Improvements, is allowed to be the best Machine for preventing Ribbing and Clogging.

To be had, with prices and particulars, of Grimmond, Laird, & Co , 15, Cannon Street West, London, E C ; or of the Patentee, Catherine Street Engine and Machine Works, Arbroath; and all the principal dealers throughout the country.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.—STEAM ENGINES, THRESHING MACHINES, CARTS, WAGGONS, PLOUGHS, HARROWS, CHAFF-CUTTERS for hand and power, PRIZE CHURNS, LAWN MOWERS, WIRE NETTING, GARDEN TOOLS of all kinds.

Illustrated Catalogue on receipt of six postage stamps.

Price Lists free.

Burgess & Key, 95, Newgate Street, E.C.

Works, Brentwood, Essex.

E. T. ARCHER'S "FRIGI DOMO."—Patronised by her Majesty the Queen, the Duke of Northumberland for Syon House, his Grace the Duke of Devonshire for Chiswick Gardens, Professor Lindley for the Horticultural Society, Sir Joseph Paxton for the Crystal Palace, Royal Zoological Society, late Mrs. Lawrence of Ealing Park, &c.

PROTECTION from the SCORCHING RAYS of the SUN.

"FRIGI DOMO," a Canvas made of patent prepared Hair and Wool, a perfect non-conductor of Heat and Cold, keeping, wherever it is applied, a fixed temperature. It is adapted for all horticultural and floricultural purposes, for preserving Fruits and Flowers from the scorching rays of the sun, from wind, from attacks of insects, and from morning frosts. To be had in any required lengths.

| | |
|---|---|
| Two yards wide .. .. .. | 1s. 6d. per yard run. |
| Four yards wide .. .. . | 3s. per yard. |
| An improved make, 2 yards wide, | 1s. 8d. per yard. |
| An improved make, 3 yards wide, | 2s. 6d. per yard run. |

Also "Frigi Domo" Netting, 2 yards wide, 1s. 4d. per yard run.

Elisha Thomas Archer, Whole and Sole Manufacturer, 7, Trinity Lane, Cannon Street, City, E.C., and of all Nurserymen and Seedsmen throughout the kingdom.

"It is much cheaper than Mats as a covering."

Gutta Percha Tubing for Watering Gardens.

THE GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY have the pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of the following

Testimonial from Mr. J. Farrah, Gr. to Boswell Middleton Jalland, Esq , of Holderness House, near Hull.

"I have had 400 feet of your Gutta Percha Tubing, in lengths of 100 feet each, with union joint, in use for the last 12 months for watering these gardens, and I find it to answer better than anything I have ever yet tried. The pressure of the water is very considerable, but this has not the slightest effect on the tubing. I consider this tubing to be a most valuable invention for Gardeners, inasmuch as it enables us to water our gardens in about one-half the time, and with one-half the labour required."

Manufactured by the Gutta Percha Company, Patentees, 18, Wharf Road, City Road, London, E.C., and sold by their Wholesale Dealers in town and country.

GARDEN BORDER-EDGING TILES.—These Tiles, manufactured in Terra-Cotta, Terro-Metallic Ware, and Red Ware (in the above and other patterns), are recommended in preference to Box and other "grown" Edgings for the following reasons:—They do not harbour slugs and insects, they take up less room, require no attention, are far more durable, and consequently, in the end, prove much cheaper. For Kitchen Gardens, Town, and Sea-side Gardens, they are invaluable.

To be obtained at F. & G. Rosher's Wharves, London; Ward's Wharf, Upper Ground Street, Blackfriars, S.; Old Swan Wharf, Queen's Road, Chelsea, S.W.; and Kingsland Road Wharf, near the Canal Bridge, Kingsland, N.E.

Illustrated Price Lists free on application. The Trade supplied.

ORNAMENTAL PAVING TILES for Conservatories, Halls, Corridors, Balconies, &c., as cheap and durable as Stone, in blue, red, and buff colours, and capable of forming a variety of designs.

Also WHITE GLAZED TILES, for Lining Walls of Baths, Dairies, Larders, Kitchen Ranges, &c. Grooved Terro metallic and other Stable Paving Bricks of great durability, Clinkers, Red and White Wall Copings, Glazed Drain Pipes, &c.

To be obtained of F. & G. Rosher at their Premises as above.

Paxton Works, Sheffield, Established 1738.

International Exhibition Prize Medal was Awarded to Saynor & Cooke for superiority of quality in Pruning and Budding Knives, &c.

SAYNOR and COOKE'S celebrated English and French Exhibition PRIZE PRUNING KNIVES, &c., can be obtained of any respectable Nurseryman or Seed Merchant in the three kingdoms, all Knives warranted both by the Seller and Maker.

Caution.—None are genuine unless marked Saynor. Other marks would cause disappointment, as these Knives are tempered by an improved process known only to the Makers.

Liquid Manure Distributor.

THE JUDGES of the Liverpool, Manchester, and Staffordshire Agricultural Shows, 1861, have each awarded the First Prize to I. James, Tivoli Works, Cheltenham, for his LIQUID MANURE DISTRIBUTOR, making a total of 17 Prizes. It is also well adapted for Watering Streets, supplying the Steam Plough, Irrigating, or for a Fire Engine. Also his last great improvement in WASHING MACHINES, which have been awarded several First Prizes, and will wash 20 Shirts in 20 minutes.

1000 GARDEN TARPAULINGS for Frames, 8 feet by 4 feet, with 8 brass eyelet-holes, strong, 32s. per dozen, or 2s. 9d. each; any size at 9d. per square yard, suitable for Roofing also. GARDENERS' CAPES, 3s. 6d. each, nearly 3 feet deep. POLICE CAPES from 1s 6d. to 3s. each. HORSES' LOIN CLOTHS, lined with Woollen and Strapped, 7s. each. HORSE CLOTHS, cut with breastplates in front, with straps, 10s 6d. WAGGON and CART COVERS, a quantity of good Second-hand ditto.

R. Richardson, 99, Euston Road, London, N.W.

FENDERS, STOVES, FIRE-IRONS, and CHIMNEY PIECES.—Buyers of the above are requested, before finally deciding, to visit William S. Burton's SHOW-ROOMS. They contain such an assortment of FENDERS, STOVES, RANGES, CHIMNEY-PIECES, FIRE-IRONS, and GENERAL IRONMONGERY as cannot be approached elsewhere, either for variety, novelty, beauty of design, or exquisiteness of workmanship. Bright Stoves, with ormolu ornaments, 3l. 15s. to 33l. 10s.; Bronzed Fenders, with standards, 7s. to 5l. 12s.; Steel Fenders, 3l. 3s. to 11l.; ditto, with rich ormolu ornaments, from 3l. 3s. to 18l.; Chimney-pieces, from 1l. 5s. to 100l.; Fire Irons, from 2s. 3d. the set to 4l. 4s. The BURTON and all other PATENT STOVES, with radiating hearth-plates.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post paid. It contains upwards of 500 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-Plate, Nickel Silver and Britannia Metal Goods, Dish-Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimney-pieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers, Tea-Trays, Urns and Kettles, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed Room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with Lists of Prices, and Plans of the 20 large Show Rooms, at 39 Oxford Street, W.; 1, 1a, 2, 3, and 4, Newman Street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's Place; and 1 Newman Yard, London.

Universal Microscope. Price £5 5s.

SMITH, BECK, and BECK, 31, Cornhill, E.C.; late 6, Coleman Street.

 Catalogues sent on receipt of 6 postage stamps.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.

CHUBB'S FIRE-PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS. CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.

Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.

Chubb & Son, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS.—Prize Medal awarded to Thresher & Glenny for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.

Lists of Prices on application to Thresher & Glenny, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

Glenfield Patent Starch.

MESSRS. WOTHERSPOON and CO. have been appointed STARCH PURVEYORS to H. R. H. the PRINCESS of WALES. This Starch is used in the Royal Laundry and was awarded a Prize Medal. Sold by all Grocers, Chandlers, &c.

Wotherspoon & Co., Glasgow and London.

PARAWAX CANDLES, Three to the Pound.—These Candles, manufactured by Price's Patent Candle Company expressly for dinner-table chandeliers, recommend themselves by their beauty of appearance and brilliancy of light. Price 1s. 8d. per lb.

Can be had of all Chandlers and Grocers.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, and CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. Metcalfe's celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2s. per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2s., 3s. 6d., and 5s. each. 130 b, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.—This delicious Condiment, pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE,"

Is prepared solely by Lea & Perrins.

The public are respectfully cautioned against worthless imitations, and should see that Lea & Perrins' Names are on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.

Ask for Lea and Perrins' Sauce.

 Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. Crosse & Blackwell; Messrs. Barclay & Sons, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

Manufacturers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

FRY'S | HOMŒOPATHIC / ICELAND MOSS / PEARL | COCOA.

FRY'S SOLUBLE CHOCOLATE.

J. S. Fry & Sons were the only English Manufacturers of Cocoa who obtained the Prize Medal, 1862.

CONCENTRATED BEEF TEA, with FARINACEOUS FOOD, in skins of 1 lb. each, containing the extract of 13 lb. of Beef, 7s.; invaluable to public speakers, tourists, and invalids, either as a lozenge, or dissolved in hot milk, water or tea. Also the Patent Tonic BEEF TEA LOZENGE, to create strength, sustain the stomach, and prevent fever. A few dissolved in boiling water will form a Cup of Beef Tea or Gravy for Game. 1s. Boxes.

Phythian, 430, West Strand, W.C.; Neighbour, 127, High Holborn, W.C.

Testimonial.—You can safely recommend Baker's Patent Tonic Beef Tea Lozenges. I was out examining pupils 11 hours, had no other food, and felt none the worse from my labours. —Rev. P. S.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by

Dinneford & Co , 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

KEATING'S PERSIAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.—Fleas in Dogs, Poultry, &c., are instantly destroyed, as also Bugs, Beetles, and every other Insect, by this Powder, which is perfectly harmless to animal life; Sportsmen particularly will therefore find it invaluable.

Sold in Packets, 1s , 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for 14 or treble size for 36 postage stamps, by Thomas Keating, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C. Take notice, each genuine packet bears the above name and address.

For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to Price's. Most medical men prescribe "Price's Glycerine" where purity is of importance.

Patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8, 4, or 2 oz. bottles, with capsules over the stoppers marked—

"Price's Patent," Belmont, Vauxhall.

CORNS and BUNIONS.—A gentleman, many years tormented with Corns, will be happy to afford others the information by which he obtained their entire removal in a short period, without pain or any kind of inconvenience.

Forward address, on a stamped envelope, to W. Goodall, Esq., Epsom, Surrey, S.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by Du Barry's health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2s. 9d.; 2 lb., 4s. 6d.; 5 lb., 11s; 12 lb., 22s.; 24 lb., 40s.

Barry du Barry & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1863.

ROYAL SCHOOL of MINES.

Director.

Sir RODERICK IMPEY MURCHISON, K.C.B., F.R.S., &c.

During the SESSION 1863-64, which will COMMENCE on OCTOBER 6, the following COURSES of LECTURES and PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS will be given :—

1. CHEMISTRY. By A. W. HOFMANN, LL.D., F.R.S., &c.
2. METALLURGY. By JOHN PERCY, M.A., F.R.S.
3. NATURAL HISTORY. By T. H. HUXLEY, F.R.S.
4. MINERALOGY. } By WARINGTON W. SMYTH, M.A., F.R.S.
5. MINING. }
6. GEOLOGY. By
7. APPLIED MECHANICS. By ROBERT WILLIS, M.A., F.R.S.
8. PHYSICS. By T. TYNDALL, F.R.S.

Instruction in Mechanical Drawing, by Rev. J. HAYTHORNE EDGAR, M.A.

The Fee for Students desirous of becoming Associates is 30*l.* in one sum on entrance, or two annual payments of 20*l.*, exclusive of the Laboratories.

Pupils are received in the Royal College of Chemistry (the Laboratory of the School), under the direction of Dr. Hofmann, and in the Metallurgical Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. Percy.

Tickets to separate Course of Lectures are issued at 3*l.* and 4*l.* each.

Officers in the Queen's Service, Her Majesty's Consuls, acting Mining Agents and Managers, may obtain tickets at reduced prices.

Certificated Schoolmasters, Pupil Teachers, and others engaged in education, are also admitted to the Lectures at reduced fees.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has granted two Scholarships, and several others have also been established.

For a Prospectus and information, apply at the Museum of Practical Geology, Jermyn Street, London, S.W.

TRENHAM REEKS, Registrar.

---

THE LANDS IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.—Incorporated by Special Act of Parliament in 1853.

2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster, S.W.

TO LANDOWNERS, THE CLERGY, ESTATE AGENTS, SURVEYORS, &c. IN ENGLAND AND WALES AND IN SCOTLAND.

The Company advances money, unlimited in amount, for the following works of Agricultural Improvement, the whole outlay and expenses in all cases being liquidated by a rent charge for 25 years.

1. Drainage, Irrigation and Warping, Embanking, Inclosing, Clearing, Reclamation, Planting, for any beneficial purpose, Engines or Machinery for Drainage or Irrigation.
2. Farm Roads, Tramways and Railroads for agricultural or farming purposes.
3. Jetties or Landing places on the sea coast or on the banks of navigable rivers or lakes.
4. The erection of Farm Houses, Labourers' Cottages, and other Buildings required for Farm purposes, and the improvement of and additions to Farm Houses and other buildings for farm purposes.

Landowners assessed under the provisions of any Act of Parliament, Royal Charter, or Commission, in respect of any public or general works of drainage or other improvements, may borrow their proportionate share of the cost, and charge the same with the expenses on the lands improved.

No investigation of title is required, and the Company being of a strictly financial character do not interfere with the plans and execution of the Works, which are controlled only by the Government Enclosure Commissioners.

For further information, and for forms of application, apply to the Honourable WILLIAM NAPIER, Managing Director, 2, Old Palace Yard, Westminster S.W.

---

Now Ready, fcp. 8vo, cloth, 2*s.* 6*d.*

MENTONE in its MEDICAL ASPECT. By JAMES LEWIS SIORDET, M.B., M.R.C.P., formerly Physician to the Blenheim Dispensary.

JOHN CHURCHILL & SONS, New Burlington Street, W.C.

---

ZADKIEL'S ALMANAC for 1864. Price 6*d.*—Fiftieth Thousand. Contains a full Report of the Action for Libel, and Verdict gained by the Editor. Stinging reply to the Critics of the Press. Letters from H.R.H. the late Prince Consort to Zadkiel!

London: G. BERGER, Holywell Street, Strand, London.

---

Now ready, Third Edition, price 10*s.*

SCOTT'S FARMER'S ACCOUNT BOOK, containing Forms of Day Labour, Contract Work, Separate Accounts of the Different Varieties of Corn and Live Stock, Dairy Produce, &c.; Rent, Tythes, Rates and Taxes; Tradesmen's Bills, Manures and Food for Live Stock, Incidental Expenses, Valuation at the Beginning and End of the Year, General Account for the Year and Cash Account.

May be had with the following additional Accounts—Permanent Improvements, Woods, Buildings, Gardens, Stables, Hall, Summary of Fortnightly Payments, Timber Sold, &c. Price 12*s.* (More suitable for Landowners and Farm Bailiffs)

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"This is as complete an account book as can be desired."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"A complete system of book-keeping, including in its "bill of fare" every item of expense in rural economy that a farmer or a gentleman of landed property can be subject to."—Mark Lane Express.

"We would recommend this book to the attention of our agricultural readers."—Magnet.

Woodstock: Printed and Published by W. ECCLES.
London: LONGMAN & Co.

---

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

THE Journal de St. Pétersbourg of Wednesday contradicts the statements of the French papers that it is the intention of the CZAR to grant a Constitution to Poland and to the various provinces of the Russian Empire. It says that the EMPEROR, whose sentiments on the Polish question have not changed, considers his first duty to be the re-establishment of order, after which the Government is determined to fulfil its international obligations, and at the same time to maintain the rights of Russia within the limits of treaties. The Grand Duke CONSTANTINE has left Warsaw for Berlin and Vienna on his way to the Crimea, and it is reported that he will be succeeded in the government of Poland by the Duke of LEUCHTENBERG.

The final results of the Frankfort Congress were communicated to the KING OF PRUSSIA on Saturday in a letter signed by all the Sovereigns, who at the same time invited HIS MAJESTY to favour the resolutions with his approval. The KING, in reply, stated that he had nothing to add to what he had already said to the EMPEROR on the subject. A Royal decree was published at Berlin on Friday dissolving the Prussian Chamber of Deputies. The Ministerial report upon which the decree is founded states that there is no prospect of coming to any understanding with the present Chamber, and that tendencies have recently mani fested themselves within the limits of the German Federal Constitution, the evident aim of which is to reduce Prussia from her position as a great Power.

A despatch from Copenhagen announces that the Germanic Diet having threatened Denmark with Federal execution on the affairs of Holstein, a treaty of alliance has just been concluded between Denmark and Sweden, with a view to the defence of Danish territory from any German aggression.

The French Government has consented to give up the five brigands taken from the Aunis, on the understanding that the Italian Government will spare their lives. The Confederate steamer Florida has been provisionally seized at Brest, at the suit of a shipowner named MENIER, who claims an indemnity of 100,000f. for one of his vessels which that cruiser had captured. It is rumoured in Paris that negotiations are pending with great capitalists in France and England for a Mexican loan, to be employed in reimbursing France for the expenses of the war, and in paying the debts due to the different Powers.

From America we learn that Fort Sumter, after seven days' bombardment, was reduced to ruins on the 23d ult., but had not surrendered, and that the Federals had commenced shelling the city of Charleston with Greek fire. In the south-west General ROSENCRANZ commenced the bombardment of Chattanooga on the 21st ult., but without damage to the Confederate works, which are reported to be next to impregnable. It is stated in the Confederate papers that President DAVIS has decided on calling out 500,000 black troops, who are to receive their freedom and 50 acres of land at the end of the war. The draft has been concluded in New York, and is about to commence at Brooklyn.

Telegraphic despatches from Bombay of the 24th ult. state that a dispute has arisen between the Indian Government and the Great Indian Peninsular Railway Company, the Government condemning the management of the line, and the directors blaming the interference of the Government. Cholera is raging at Shanghae, and a civil war has commenced in Japan. From New Zealand we learn that the natives of Waitara have declared war, 5000 of them having taken the field; and that General CAMERON has withdrawn his troops for the defence of Auckland.

The Morning Post states that the two steam rams recently launched at Birkenhead will not be allowed to leave the Mersey until a Court of Law has determined whether their construction is contrary to the terms of the Foreign Enlistment Act, in which case they will be seized by Government as violating the provisions of that measure.

Home News.

THE QUEEN'S RETURN TO ENGLAND.—Her Majesty the Queen left the Rosenau for Darmstadt on Monday night, at half-past 10 o'clock, with Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice, and accompanied by Earl Granville as Minister in attendance on her Majesty. The Royal party travelled by a special train during the night, and on Tuesday morning at half-past 7 arrived at a station near Darmstadt, where the Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse were awaiting her Majesty's arrival. The Queen and Royal family immediately drove to Kranichstein, a seat of the Grand Duke of Hesse, now occupied by Prince and Princess Louis, where the Royal family spent the day. Princess C. of Hesse, with Princess Anna and Prince William, and Prince Alexander of Hesse and Princess Battenberg visited the Queen during her stay. The Queen drove through Darmstadt in the afternoon. At 10 o'clock in the evening the Queen and Royal family left Darmstadt by special train for Antwerp. On Wednesday morning at half past 7 the King of the Belgians, with the Duchess of Brabant, met the Queen at the station at Malines, and, having entered her Majesty's carriage, accompanied her Majesty to Antwerp, where the train arrived at 20 minutes past 8. The Queen breakfasted at the station, and having taken leave of the King, embarked on board the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert in the Scheldt. After a fine passage, the Royal yacht anchored in Margate Roads at 7 P.M., accompanied by the Vivid, Osborne, and Black Eagle, and the Trinity House yacht Irene. The town of Margate was illuminated at night. On Thursday morning, at 6 A.M., the Royal yacht weighed anchor and steamed up to Greenhithe, where the Fairy was in waiting to convey the Queen to Woolwich. The Fairy, escorted by the Osborne, Vivid and Irene, arrived alongside Woolwich Arsenal at half-past 11, when the Queen and Royal family disembarked. Her Majesty, on landing, was accompanied by Captain His Serene Highness Prince Leiningen, and was followed by Prince Alfred and the remainder of the Royal family. No orders had been issued for the exclusion of the public, as on the last occasion, and consequently the artificers and labourers throughout the establishment, with their wives and families, congregated in thousands along the line of thoroughfare, and greeted her Majesty with the most respectful loyalty. A large number of persons also lined the thoroughfares leading to the Arsenal gates from the town, the streets of which, as well as the lower Greenwich Road, were crowded with visitors, who repeatedly cheered and waved their hats and handkerchiefs. The bells of Woolwich and Greenwich rang a merry peal, but no salutes or military demonstration took place. Preceded by some of the mounted police, the Royal carriages passed through Charlton, Greenwich, Deptford, Camberwell, and Kennington, to the Queen's private station at Vauxhall, whence her Majesty and the Royal party proceeded to Windsor by a special train on the South-Western Railway. The train arrived at the Windsor station at 10 minutes after 1 o'clock. The Princess Louisa and Prince Arthur received her Majesty on her arrival at the Castle. The Queen is expected to leave Windsor for Balmoral on Monday evening.

THE QUEEN IN GERMANY.—The King of Prussia paid a visit to the Queen on Monday week at Rosenau. His Majesty arrived by special train from Baden, soon after 5 o'clock, at Coburg, where he was met by Prince Alfred and Prince Louis of Hesse, who accompanied his Majesty in the Queen's carriage to the Rosenau, where he was received by the Queen, Princess Louis of Hesse, Princess Helena, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice. The King remained with her Majesty till half-past 7 o'clock, when his Majesty took leave of the Queen and drove to the railway station, accompanied by Prince Alfred and Prince Louis. Prince Alfred left on Tuesday week for Hummelsheim, on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Altenburg. The Duke of Coburg arrived at the Kallenberg, and, with the Duchess, visited the Queen on Wednesday afternoon. On Thursday morning Prince Alfred returned from Hummelsheim. In the afternoon the Emperor of Austria arrived at the Palace at Coburg, where the Queen, Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, Prince Alfred, and Princess Helena had proceeded previously. The Emperor was met at the railway station by the Duke of Saxe Coburg, who drove with him to the Palace, and was received at the entrance of the Palace by the Duchess of Coburg, who conducted the Emperor upstairs, where His Majesty met the Queen. There were also present Prince and Princess Augustus of Saxe Coburg, with their son and daughters, Prince Edward of Leiningen, and Earl Granville. A déjeûner was prepared for the Queen and Emperor and the Royal party, and another for the ladies and gentlemen of the Royal Households. Prince Leopold and Princess Beatrice came to the Palace from the Rosenau before the Emperor left. On Saturday King Ferdinand of Portugal visited her Majesty. The Duke of Saxe-Coburg accompanied the King from the Kallenberg, where his Majesty arrived the day before, after an absence of 27 years. The Queen received privately several of the ladies and gentlemen of the household of the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg. On Sunday morning the Queen, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service at the church at Oeslau. The Hofprediger Hansan performed the service. The Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg visited the Queen. The perfect peace and repose enjoyed by her Majesty at Rosenau, and the respite from public business, have been most soothing to her Majesty's feelings. With the exception of the visits from the Emperor of Austria and the King of Prussia, her Majesty did not feel strong enough to accept those kindly offered by other Royal personages assembled at Frankfort.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—On Monday

week the Prince went to the Glen of Girnock deer-stalking, and was very fortunate in securing three fine stags, carrying respectively 8, 10, and 12 points. In the evening, the three stags were exhibited to the Princess and suite by torchlight. On Tuesday week the Prince and party went to the moors for a few hours and in the afternoon went deer-stalking. The day was the Princess's birthday, but the occasion passed off very quietly. On Sunday their Royal Highnesses attended Divine service in the parish church of Crathie. The Rev. Dr. Fowler, of Ratho, preached the sermon. During the past week the Prince has killed five stags, while the Princess had her accustomed drives, fishing on the Dee, and sketching in the neighbourhood. On Friday the Royal party and suite drove by Ballater to Burn of Vat, commonly called Rob Roy's cave. A few of the domestic servants about Abergeldie being sent away previously with provisions, a fire was lighted, potatoes and other vegetables cooked, and the Royal party took their luncheon beside the cavern. The Princess afterwards sketched Loch Kinnord, Loch Davon, and adjoining scenery. Their Royal Highnesses returned through Ballater in the afternoon.

PRIVY COUNCIL.—The Queen will hold a Privy Council to-day at Windsor Castle.

THE ARMY.—The office of Colonel Commandant of the Royal Engineers, vacant by the death of General Oldfield, has been conferred on Lieut.-General Lewis Alexander Hall.

THE CHANNEL FLEET left the Clyde on Tuesday afternoon, and arrived in Belfast Lough on Thursday morning. It will remain at Belfast four days, and then sail for Liverpool.

THE CHURCH.—The Bishop of Hereford has conferred the Archdeaconry of Hereford, vacant by the death of the Ven. Dr. Lane Freer, on the Right Hon. and Rev. Lord Saye and Sele. The Bishop of Chichester has conferred the precentorship of his cathedral, vacant by the death of the Rev. Dr. Rowden, on the Rev. Mackenzie Walcott, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford, son of Admiral Walcott, M.P.

BISHOP COLENSO AND HIS CLERGY.—The Archdeacon and clergy of the diocess of Natal have transmitted the following address to Bishop Colenso, who is still in England:—

"To the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Natal. We, the licensed clergy ministering in the diocess of Natal, desire to address your Lordship upon a matter of the utmost importance to the Church planted in this colony. We have heard with the deepest pain of a work published by you, in which you state in effect that you no longer hold, believe, or are able to teach some, at least, of the most vital of the doctrines of the United Church of England and Ireland. We consider that in our relative positions it would have ill-become us to have been the first to draw attention to acts of yours done before the whole world, and therefore we remained silent until those in authority in our Church had publicly marked their sense of your lordship's proceedings. But we understand that, a very large majority of the Archbishops and Bishops having written to you suggesting the propriety of your resigning your office, you have answered that it is not your intention to comply with that suggestion. Under these circumstances, we consider that a longer silence on our part would be most culpable. There are, we are aware, legal questions which it belongs to others to decide; but we feel that we have a duty independently of any merely legal proceedings. The various offices which we hold, the emoluments we receive, are held on the faith of our upholding and defending the doctrines of the Church of England, and on that understanding alone could we honestly and conscientiously continue to hold those offices or to receive those emoluments. Unfeignedly believing all the canonical scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, and bound to banish and drive away all erroneous and strange doctrine, contrary to God's Word, we feel compelled, in the sight of God and his Church, and more especially before the people committed to our care and charge, to protest most solemnly against the position taken by you in the publication of this book and your determination to retain the office of Bishop, and we think it right to lay this our protest before the ecclesiastical authority to whom, next to your Lordship, we must look—the Metropolitan of Cape Town.—We are your Lordship's faithful servants, C. L. Grubbe, M.A., Archdeacon of Maritzburg; W. H. Cyuric Lloyd, Colonial Chaplain and Rector of Durban; James Walter, of Pinetown; A. Tonneson, of Umgababa; W. Baugh, of Umbazi; W. A. Elder, of Verulam; Joseph Barker, of Umzinto; A. W. L. Revett, of Addington," and other diocesan clergymen.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—The Emperor presided at a Council of Ministers on Monday, and at another on Wednesday. His Majesty left Paris on Thursday for Biarritz, for which place the Empress took her departure on Monday week. The Emperor and Empress will return to Paris towards the end of September, and will leave Paris for Compiègne in the beginning of October. Prince Napoleon left Paris on Thursday for Turin. The camp of Chalons was raised last week. An Imperial decree, published on Sunday, appoints the Mexican General, Marquez, Commander of the Legion of Honour. The Prince de la Tour d'Auvergne, French Ambassador at Rome; the Duke de Gramont, Ambassador at Vienna; and M. Barrot, Ambassador at Madrid, were received by the Emperor on Sunday at St. Cloud. M. Drouyn de Lhuys had interviews on Monday with Baron Budberg and Prince Metternich, the Russian and Austrian Ambassadors. The Minister of Marine left Paris for Cherbourg on Thursday. The Duke de Montebello, French Ambassador at St. Petersburg, has received permission, at his own request, to pass two months in France, where care for the health of the Duchess requires his residence. The leave of absence of the Duke will coincide with the stay of the Emperor Alexander in the Crimea and at Moscow. The representatives of France in foreign countries who are now on leave have received orders to return to their posts. The Pays in an article signed by the secretary of the paper, while criticising the exaggeration of other papers relative to the Frankfort Congress and the constitutional scheme attributed to Russia, says:—

"The incidents of the Frankfort Congress have neither interrupted nor changed the agreement of France, Austria, and England upon the Polish question. They have, however, caused an exchange of views which has brought to light a point of contact and an agreement of opinion between France, Prussia, and Russia creating greater facility for a friendly and satisfactory solution of the Polish question, without arousing any fresh embarrassment in the general situation. The guarantees for the maintenance of peace are rather strengthened than weakened."

The replies of the Russian Government to the Notes of the three Powers are expected to arrive this week. The Patrie and La France think that the English papers will immediately publish the reply to Earl Russell's Note. The Siècle publishes an article in reference to the recent declaration of the Journal de St. Pétersbourg, stating that it is impossible that France, England, and Austria should tolerate the present position of affairs. The France, referring to the same declaration, says:—

"If the party of resistance in St. Petersburg has definitively carried the day, it is to be lamented that Russia has not known how to seize the happy opportunity offered to escape the dangerous position created by her policy with regard to Poland."

It is stated that negotiations are pending with great capitalists in France and England for a Mexican loan, a portion of which is to be applied to reimburse France the expenses of the Mexican expedition and to pay the debts due to different foreign Powers. The surrender of the five brigands taken from the Aunis steamer has been granted. It is believed that the Italian Government will comply with the wish of France that no execution should take place. The Patrie declares that the Federal Diet has decided that Saxony and Hanover shall furnish 4000 men to occupy the German Duchies. A despatch from Brest announces that the Confederate frigate Florida has been seized in that port at the demand of M. Menier, who demands 100.000f. damages and interest on account of the capture of one of his ships by this Confederate vessel. Mr. Slidell, the Confederate Commissioner, has gone to Brest on the subject. The Moniteur of Friday contained the following article on the refitting of the Florida in Brest harbour:—

"The privateer Florida, sailing under the Confederate flag, has entered Brest, to repair damages. Her reception was in accordance with the ordinary principles of international law. At the opening of the war, the Emperor's Government, in accord with other Powers, recognised the Confederates in the character of belligerents, and declared its intention of observing a strict neutrality between the two parties. In like cases it is the right as well as the duty of neutrals to permit the vessels of belligerents to procure themselves means, not for fighting purposes, but for navigation. It has, therefore, been decided that the Florida could be permitted to procure all that was indispensable to maintain her in a good navigable state, without being able to make purchases tending to recruit her armament of war."

M. Drouyn de Lhuys granted an audience on Saturday to Nubar Pasha, who is the bearer of two firmans of the Sultan; the first withdrawing the concession of the lands bordering on the freshwater canal, which were granted to the Suez Company; the second abolishing forced labour on the public works in Egypt. It is asserted that Nubar Pasha will not prolong his stay in Paris. The French Government has expressed its desire that the existing Convention in reference to the Suez Canal should be completely carried out. Instructions to this effect have been forwarded to the French representative at Constantinople. Count de Persigny has recently pronounced at the Cercle des Arts et du Commerce at St. Etienne an address, giving an account of the progress of the Empire and of the development of its institutions. The following is a summary:—

After dwelling on the necessity of all parties forgetting their differences in order to consolidate the present Government under which the country has, arrived at so high a point of prosperity, he pointed out that the Emperor when he arrived at power was quite alone, not having round him even the old servants of his family, so that he was under the fortunate necessity of constituting his Government by employing men of all classes. He considers it a great error on the part of the Liberal party in France to endeavour to copy in a servile manner the institutions of England. He says:—"It is certainly a singular aberration of a political school. Forgetting that the indirect nomination of Ministers in England by the Parliament is only a result of the civil and political state of that country, men wished to make it a condition of liberty in France. There, where in consequence of a long existing state of universal decentralization the Crown interferes in nothing, and the aristocracy has a hand in everything, it is natural that the latter should choose its instruments. Here, on the contrary, in a democratic country, where the Sovereign, who is the delegate of the people, has the mission to do what is effected by the aristocracy in England, how is it to be imagined that his agents should be in other hands than his own? That under another régime any speaker whose sympathetic and impassioned voice had excited the applause of his auditory should imagine that it belonged to him to govern France; that he should think himself fitted, not only to charm, captivate, and overrule an assembly, but also to direct a whole vast political hierarchy, and even to handle our land and sea forces, there was nothing in that which exceeded the limits of human vanity. But how could pretensions of that kind interest liberty? What! if the most eloquent speaker of the Chamber is not at the same time Minister, there is no liberty in France? In truth, one is confounded when it is remembered with what seriousness such doctrines were affirmed. But liberty, which is of all times and of all countries, is susceptible of all forms, and those forms vary with the social state, manners, history, and a thousand circumstances of climate, race, and locality. In antiquity, the liberty of Athens did not more resemble that of Sparta than did the liberty of Rome that of Carthage; or, in the middle age, the liberty of Venice resemble that of Florence. Why, then, should liberty in France be copied after the model of England? In the place of a great aristocracy covering the soil with vast domains rendered immovable by the law of entail, and disposing of enormous means of influence, we have an administrative hierarchy which alone constitutes all the political organism of our democracy, and outside of which there are only grains of sand, without cohesion and without adherence. And it is that same hierarchy—that instrument of authority, order, and public peace—this essential organ of the every-day life of the country, that certain minds would wish to see again abandoned to the mercy of the agitations of the tribune, to be tossed about between the triumphant speaker of one day, and the victorious orator of the morrow. Thus, by restoring in our institutions the fundamental principle of authority as well as of liberty, the Emperor has re-established order in the State, as in creating a Government party removed from all antagonism of classes, he has re-established order in society." In conclusion he urged that to assure the destinies of the empire nothing more was required, and he trusted that posterity would appreciate the patriotism of those who had sacrificed their party to the country. "We have," he said, "a high and noble mission to perform, for the country expects from us the greatest service which the present generation can render to it—that of completing the foundation of its Government. We have faith in that mission. Yes, all, such as we are, from the dignitaries of State to the inhabitants of the most humble villages, we shall be honoured in our posterity for the work which we shall have accomplished. A day will come in which, under the reign of a Prince named Napoleon IV. or Napoleon V., our grandsons will say with pride of each of us—He belonged to that faithful and devoted party which, in founding the empire, put an end to our revolutions, and assured the greatness, prosperity, and liberty of France.""

SPAIN.—Senor Madoz and General Prim have declared that the Progressista party is in favour of Monarchical institutions and Constitutional liberty, and that it will never follow a policy of violence, but one of legal resistance. Another meeting of 50 members of the Democratic party has taken place, at which the policy of abstaining from voting was agreed to. It is asserted that the Ministry will pay no attention to this refusal to take part in the elections, and it is believed the Queen will not alter her views before becoming acquainted with those of the Deputies.

DENMARK.—The King of Greece was to leave Copenhagen yesterday for the Palace of Glucksburg in Schleswig, to take leave of his Danish Majesty, and intended to continue his journey to-day through Rumpenheim and Brussels to London. It is presumed that, previous to his departure, King George I. will sign the renunciation of his right of succession to the Danish throne in favour of his younger brother.

BELGIUM.—M. Charles Rogier, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has been elected for Tournai by a majority of 194 votes over his opponent, who was brought forward by the Ultra Catholic party. The number of electors on the register is 3330, and of these 3030 went to the poll. This election had been looked upon as involving the continuance in office of a liberal ministry or the ascendancy once more of the ultramontane party, and much enthusiasm has consequently been excited among the Belgian liberals by the result.

PRUSSIA.—An Aide-de-Camp of the Emperor of Austria arrived at Berlin on the 4th inst., with the protocol of the deliberations of the Congress, signed by the Princes, and an invitation to the King of Prussia to favour it with his approval. In this protocol the Princes expressed their deep regret at having been deprived of the King's personal co-operation in the great work they had undertaken, and stated that they nevertheless cherished the hope that a general understanding would be ultimately arrived at. The letter concluded thus:—

"Being all inspired by the wish for German unity, and ready to make sacrifices, we have come to a perfect agreement upon the project of reform. We shall consider it a great success for ourselves and for our people if resolutions are maturing in the mind of your Majesty by which, thanks to the unanimity of her Princes, Germany will realise her desire for a wholesome reform of her Constitution, based upon the laws of the Confederation."

The King of Prussia, in reply, stated that he had nothing to add to what he said to the Emperor on the subject of the Frankfort Congress. The following Royal decree was published at Berlin on Friday:—

"By virtue of Art. 51 of the Constitution, and on the proposition of the Ministry of State, we decree as follows:—Art. 1. The Chamber of Deputies is hereby dissolved. Art. 2. The Ministry is intrusted with the execution of the present decree.

"WILLIAM I."

The Ministerial report to the King, which precedes the decree, says:—

"There is no prospect that further negotiations with the present Chamber of Deputies would lead to any understanding. His Majesty the King, before his departure, was pleased to express his concurrence with these views of the Ministry, but a definitive resolution was reserved until His Majesty's return. The state of things in Prussia since that time has not offered any ground for a change in the propositions of the Ministry which His Majesty had approved. On the other hand, tendencies have manifested themselves within the limits of the German federal Constitution the evident aim of which is to reduce Prussia from that position as a great Power in Germany and Europe which is her well earned inheritance from our forefathers, and which the Prussian people has at all times been determined not to relinquish. Under these circumstances it will be incumbent on the Prussian people to give expression upon the occasion of the approaching new elections to the fact that no difference of political opinion is so deeply rooted in Prussia as to endanger the unity of the people, and the immovable fidelity with which they are attached to the Royal House when placed in face of efforts tending to diminish the independence and dignity of Prussia. The events of the last few days have only served to confirm us in our proposals, and as the new elections will require a period of two months, the measures approved by your Majesty in the sitting of the Council of Ministers held on the 16th of July must be executed without delay, in order to render it possible for the new Diet to be convoked to discuss the Budget within the current year."

The International Statistical Congress was opened at Berlin on Friday by the Minister of the Interior, who delivered a short address. The proceedings took place in the Chamber of Peers, which was decorated for the occasion. On the motion of the Marquis Aquila the Provisional Presidents and Vice-Presidents were confirmed in their functions. The Minister of the Interior was elected Honorary President, and M. Engel Acting President of the Congress. All the 89 non-German delegates were elected Vice-Presidents. MM. Böckh and Schwab were elected German Secretaries, MM. Raymond and Boucher French, and Mr. Hamilton the English Secretary. 283 members were present. The order of the day having been fixed, the Minister of the Interior called upon the Congress to divide into sections, and announced that the King would receive the members on the following day. At this reception on Saturday the King observed that he took a lively interest in the proceedings of the Congress, whose labours were of an important character, and hoped that their results would be beneficial to Prussia. On Wednesday the Congress elected the members of the International Committee charged with the preparation of the plan of organization. The Committee consisted of the following gentlemen:—For London, Dr. Farr; Berlin, Herr Engel; Konigsberg, Herr Doubert; Vienna, Herr Ficker; Paris, M. Legayt; Stockholm, M. Berg; St. Petersburg, M. Isemenow; and for Brussels, M. Visschers. Mitscherlich, one of the oldest and most distinguished chemists of the age, died a few days since at Berlin, where he was professor of chemistry. The Royal Society of London presented him with its great medal for his discovery of isomorphism.

Austria.—The Emperor of Austria arrived at Vienna on Friday. The streets were decorated with the Austrian and German flags, and hung with garlands. Immense crowds saluted the Emperor with hearty cheers. The Mémorial Diplomatique again announces the acceptance of the Mexican throne by the Archduke Maximilian, and adds:—"Since the opening of the negotiations the Archduke has only stipulated two conditions, viz.:—A spontaneous and unanimous appeal from the Mexican people, and the moral and material co-operation of the Western Powers in the establishment of a respected and stable Government."

Russia.—The Czar has nominated the Hereditary Grand Duke Hetman of all the Cossacks of the Empire. The Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Constantine arrived at Berlin on Tuesday. Their Imperial Highnesses paid visits to the Duke of Altenburg, the King of Hanover, the Grand Duke and Duchess of Baden, after which they left for Vienna, where they arrived yesterday and were received by the Emperor at the railway station. On leaving Vienna their Imperial Highnesses will proceed to the Crimea. A rumour is current at St. Petersburg that the Duke of Leuchtenberg will replace the Grand Duke in Poland. The Journal de St. Petersbourg of Wednesday denies the rumours published by the foreign press concerning new arrangements by Russia relative to Polish and German affairs. Speaking of the alleged radical reforms and new alliances, it says:—

"The conclusions drawn from these pretended news are as false as their premises. In Poland the Emperor, whose sentiments on the Polish question have not changed, considers his first duty to be the re-establishment of solid and material order, founded on the ground subverted by anarchical passions. From a diplomatic point of view, the Government remains determined to fulfil its international obligations, and at the same time to maintain the rights of Russia within the limits of treaties. As regards German affairs Russia sympathises with the union of the strength of Germany, based on the interests of all the States of which that country is composed. Russia has no more reason to provide against the dangers which might result to her from Germany, than Germany has to put herself on her guard against coming dangers from Russia. The rumours which are current have, therefore, no foundation, and evidence extreme indiscretion, if not malicious premeditation."

The number of peasants who have risen at Lisianka, in the Ukraine, is said to amount to 20,000. Their war cry is "Down with Muscovy!" "Down with the rule of the Lachs! but long live Poland." They have already had two engagements with the Russians. In the first they were defeated, but in the second they were victorious. An Imperial decree, dated the 12th of August, orders that, from the 13th inst., the peasants of the Ukraine shall become proprietors of their land, and shall pay a certain amount as purchase-money to the State.

Poland.—The last words of the Grand Duke Constantine upon quitting Warsaw were:—"The Czar wishes well to Poland, and regrets the measures adopted by General Mouravieff, but recognises their necessity." The Grand Duke expressed a hope that he should find the country tranquillised upon his return. An Imperial Ukase has been published, conferring fresh dignities upon General Mouravieff, in recompense for his services. Massalski, Zelmiez, and Yocz have been shot, by order of General Mouravieff. Messrs. Gicjsztora and Czechowicz, and Dr. Lubiczankowski, with his wife and daughters, have been banished to Siberia. The wearing of caps has been forbidden by General Mouravieff, on penalty of a fine of 10 roubles for the first offence, 25 for the second, and banishment to Siberia for the third. The wearing of grey colours has also been forbidden on the ground that they are mourning. A private letter from Warsaw, dated the 9th inst., states that on the following day all communication with the city would be cut off, and the strictest state of siege established for 10 days. An encounter resulting in favour of the insurgents took place at Rokiciny, on the Warsaw and Cracow line of railway, on the 4th inst. Fifty Russians fell. Lelewel, after his victory on the 3d, pushed forward in the direction of Turobin. He afterwards suffered a decisive defeat, and was left dead upon the field, pierced by two bullets. Grekowicz has undertaken the command of his corps.

Italy.—The trial of the Princess Sciarra Barberini and the Cavaliere Quattromani for treasonable conspiracy, terminated on Friday. The Princess was acquitted. Quattromani was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment, and a fine of 500 francs. The Duchess Casalnuovo was daily in Court with the Princess. It is announced from Turin that France has agreed to surrender the brigands taken from the Aunis to the Italian Government. The Papal Consul who was compromised at Genoa for intriguing in the interests of the ex-King of Naples, has received his passports for his return to Rome. At Rionero on Monday the brigand chiefs Crocco, Ninco Nanco, Carusa, and Fortora presented themselves to the commandant of the Italian troops, requesting a safe conduct for 250 other brigands who had promised to give in their submission to the Government. The chiefs left Rionero for Lagopesole with cries of "Viva Victor Emanuel!" and displaying the national flag. The Stampa publishes a letter from the Roman Penitentiary Court to the Italian Bishops, demanding a formal recantation from the priests who profess principles contrary to those of the Roman Curia, under pain of heavy ecclesiastical punishment.

Greece.—General Kalergis, formerly Greek Minister at Paris, has been appointed to accompany the young King of Greece on his journey to Athens. Four Greek Ministers of the Moderate party have sent in their resignation. The English Ambassador has required of the Government the punishment of the guilty parties in a recent riot at the Piræus, when several English sailors were attacked and wounded by Greek soldiers.

Turkey.—The Sultan has peremptorily refused to pay the debts of the ex-Sultanas and daughters of the late Sultan. His sister, the wife of Mehemet Ali, petitioned for a sum of 70,000*l*. to pay her debts, and the same answer has been returned as to the others—that they must sell their jewels and property, as not a piastre will be given from the public coffers in addition to the liberal allowance which they receive. The old Seraglio of Constantinople, the scene of so many historical events, has been entirely destroyed by fire. A conflagration has also taken place at Monastir, destroying the Bazaar and 3000 houses.

The Principalities.—The Porte and the Powers have decided upon compelling Prince Couza to submit the affair of the Greek monasteries to arbitration. Holland has demanded of Prince Couza a modification in the Roumain flag, on account of its resemblance to her own.

The Danube.—The Danube Commission has decided upon the St. George's Mouth as the definitive ship channel. The Porte has approved the negotiation of a special loan for the necessary works.

Egypt.—The Annamite Ambassadors have left Alexandria for Toulon. The rise of the Nile has been so rapid this season as to create uneasiness, and measures have been taken to avert disaster. The cattle disease is diminishing. The Pays also publishes a despatch asserting that Ismail Pasha does not continue the policy of his predecessor towards foreigners, whose position in Egypt is becoming more difficult. It is also said that the Pasha is unfavourable to the Suez Canal scheme.

Madagascar.—The Emperor of the French has received a letter from the Queen of Madagascar, notifying her accession to the throne. Letters received in Paris speak of anarchy existing in the country, and of apprehension of coming troubles.

India.—The Governor-General has recovered his health. His Excellency and Lady Elgin are staying at Chinee, in Thibet. The Government have condemned the mismanagement of the Great Indian Peninsular Railway. The directors of the company blame the interference of the Government. The unsettled state of Affghanistan, in which three political parties are striving for the mastery, gives rise to apprehension, and the Persians are not unlikely to make an attempt to recapture Herat. There is also some apprehension of a conflict with Burmah, on account of the oppressive commercial monopolies and exactions of the King. It is now a matter of doubt generally whether the man captured at Ajmere is the Nana Sahib of Bhitoor. A squadron of the Inniskillen Dragoons from Mhow, and two companies of the 28th Europeans from Nusseerabad, are to escort the prisoner to Agra; Captain Camell, of the Ajmere Police, going in political charge.

China.—Political affairs in China are generally quiet. Cholera was raging at Shanghai on the 22d July. A treaty of commerce has been concluded between China and Denmark.

Japan.—A civil war has commenced in Japan. The relations with foreigners are stated to be pacific. There is reported to be a growing affinity between the Tycoon's Government and foreigners. The Tycoon has chartered British steamers to convey troops.

Australia.—A despatch from Melbourne of July 25 says that the new Tariff Bill has passed the Assembly.

New Zealand.—The natives of Waitara have declared war, and 5000 of them have taken the field. General Cameron has withdrawn his troops for the defence of Auckland.

United States.—General Gilmore officially announces to General Halleck, under date of the 24th, the practical demolition of Fort Sumter as the result of seven days' bombardment at a distance of from 3330 to 4000 yards. He also states that he has established two batteries within effective range of the heart of Charleston, and had opened fire upon the city, and that General Beauregard had designated the projectiles thrown the most destructive missile ever used. From other sources we learn that the bombardment of Fort Sumter commenced on the 17th ult, and was kept up continuously till the 23d. The Fort was then a ruin; the north-west wall, with its arches, had fallen in, the guns were dismounted, the east wall cracked and breached, and the Federal shot swept through the ruins; but it had not surrendered, and Colonel Rhett, commanding the Fort, had been ordered to hold his outposts even as a forlorn hope until he was released or the fort captured. General Gilmore had demanded the surrender of Morris Island and Fort Sumter, threatening to shell Charleston in four hours if they were not surrendered. General Beauregard replied, charging General Gilmore with inhumanity and violation of the laws of war, and affirming that if the offence were repeated he would employ stringent measures of retaliation. During the night of the 21st ult. General Gilmore threw five shells charged with Greek fire into Charleston. General Beauregard, under a flag of truce, protested against the use of such missiles as barbarous, and also demanded time for the removal of women and children. The British, French, and Spanish Consuls likewise demanded time for the removal of their subjects. Gen. Gilmore replied by again demanding the unconditional surrender of the forts and public property. Gen. Beauregard then demanded a truce of 40 hours, which was refused by General Gilmore, who recommenced shelling the city with Greek fire on the night of the 22d, and continued doing so on the 24th. During this bombardment of the city a shot from Fort Wagner broke a piece of the interior lining of the iron-clad Catskill, and struck the heads of Commander Rogers and Paymaster Woodbury, killing them instantly. The ruins of Fort Sumter were commanded by the guns of Fort Moultrie, which prevented the Federals from taking possession of them, and consequently a small force of not more than 20 men was posted in what remained of the work for the purpose of keeping the Confederate flag flying, which was shot away every few hours. Confederate accounts state that during seven days' bombardment of Sumter by the battery of Parrott guns, which were distant 2½ miles, 4500 shots were fired, out of which 2623 took effect. The Richmond Examiner of the 24th says that the loss of Sumter is but of slight moment, as the harbour is effectually defended by new fortifications. Charleston harbour and Stono river are full of torpedoes. Two blockade runners entered the harbour on the 23d. Twenty-three Federal vessels, including the Ironsides and Monitors, are inside the bar of Charleston, and there are 13 more outside. A Federal gunboat arrived at Fortress Monroe, from off Wilmington, reports that the steamer Florida had arrived at the latter place with intelligence that the Federals occupied Forts Sumter and Wagner on the 24th. The news however is discredited by the government. General Lee's movements indicate a speedy attack on Washington, though it is rumoured that he is preparing to invade Maryland, the Secessionists of which State will aid him with all the men, money, and provisions they can provide. It is said that General Lee has been for some time past secretly organising a reserve of 40,000 men, who are to be stationed at Winchester or some other point in the Shenandoah Valley. It is reported that General Meade, fearing a flank movement by the Confederates on his left, has fallen back to a position near Washington. General Lee himself, with 60,000 men, is at Culpepper Courthouse. General Longstreet holds Fredericksburg, and General Stuart is guarding the fords of the Rappahannock. Twelve thousand deserters from the Federal army have been arrested within the three past months. The advance guard of General Rosencrans' army appeared before Chattanooga on the 21st ult., and opened fire upon the city, where General Joseph Johnstone commanded, having superseded General Bragg, who had gone to Atlanta. The Confederates opened fire from 19 guns, which did little damage, and were disabled by the Federal fire. The Federals disabled two steamers moored at the wharf, but were unsuccessful in their attempt to destroy the pontoon bridge opposite the city. The Confederate works upon the river are very strong, the parapets being 15 feet wide. There are several water batteries on a level with the river. Two Confederate divisions are at Chattanooga, and there is a large Confederate force in the neighbourhood. General Wilder crossed the Tennessee river on the 22d ult., and destroyed a small railway bridge which, it is said, severs the communication between the right and the left of the Confederate army. Immense numbers of deserters are reported to be in the mountains, awaiting the Federal advance. At Vicksburg, as the steamer City of Madison was loading with ammunition, a negro let fall a percussion shell which he was carrying on board, and which exploded. The fire was immediately communicated to the other ammunition, when a general explosion took place, blowing the steamer to atoms. Out of 160 men who were on board, only five are known to have escaped. General Pemberton, who surrendered Vicksburg to the Federals, is reported to have died at Selma, Alabama. Quantrell's guerillas have entirely destroyed Lawrence, Kansas. The attack was made at midnight. Fifty prominent citizens, including the Mayor, were killed, it is said, in their houses, surrounded by their families. More than 100 citizens were wounded, and 25 negro recruits shot. Senator Lane escaped. Lawrence is principally inhabited by New England emigrants, between whom and their Missouri neighbours there were strong antagonistic feelings. It is supposed that the Lawrence massacre will lead to sanguinary border warfare. The negotiations for an exchange of prisoners are progressing. The refusal of the Confederates to regard negroes as prisoners of war causes some difficulty. It is reported that the Confederates will now regard Colonel Streight as a prisoner of war. The Federals will place Morgan on the same footing. The Confederates have handed General Neale Dow over to the civil authorities. The Federals, in consequence, will place a Confederate brigadier-general in close confinement. The North Carolina troops have passed resolutions denouncing the peace party in that State. The conscription of all men between 16 and 60 was rigidly enforced in Richmond. President Davis has had a consultation with the Governors of the different Confederate States with reference to the arming of the slaves. He has since issued a proclamation calling out 500,000 negroes for the defence of the Confederacy. The slaves, in consideration of this service, are to receive their freedom and 50 acres of land each at the conclusion of the war. The draught was completed in New York city on the 28th, the full quota of conscripts having been drawn. The Board of Supervisors, at their meeting on the 28th, passed an ordinance, which was signed by the Mayor, providing for the appropriation of 2,000,000 dols. for the exemption of firemen, policemen, the militia, and the heads of families which may be dependent on them for support. The draught was to have commenced in Brooklyn on the 31st, and in preparation thereof a large number of United States' troops were sent there on the 28th. The military force in New York is estimated to number 30,000 men, infantry and cavalry. The artillery occupy Madison, Tompkins, and other public squares. An excited meeting of draughted Germans has been held in New York, at which the conscription was denounced as a cruel and inhuman measure, and organisations were urged against its consequences. A committee has been appointed to confer with Governor Seymour and test the legality of the Act. The desertions of substitutes for draughted men having become so frequent in the Federal army, it is officially announced that in all such cases the extreme penalty of martial law will be administered. The New York Herald states that the troops now in New York will be sent to Vera Cruz. The New York Times urges the Government to prepare for a war with France. Such a war, it says, is not certain, but it would be dangerous and foolish to act as if it were impossible. It says it has little doubt that Napoleon has made a secret treaty with President Davis for the cession of Texas, as the equivalent for recognition and substantial aid. The Florida has captured and bonded the ship Francis B. Cutting. The Confederate steamer Everslade has been sunk near Tybee Island. A privateer crew in uniform were on board. Several of them were captured. Twelve steamers entered Wilmington in five days. One of them was of 1,500 tons, and pierced for six guns. The blockading squadron has destroyed the British steamer Hebe off New Inlet. Vessels arriving at New York report a violent hurricane along the American coast line from the 18th to the 22d ult. The Federal brig Bainbridge has foundered; one man only was saved.

CANADA.—Lord Lyons and suite arrived at Hamilton, Canada West, on the 25th, and intended to proceed thence to Montreal and Quebec. The Toronto Leader of the 26th ult. announces that a treasonable plot has been discovered to betray Canada into the hands of President Lincoln's Administration. The British Consul at New York is stated to have communicated the fact to his Government. It is stated however from authentic sources that the British official circles in New York have no knowledge of the report. The Canadian Parliament has passed the address by a small majority, after several amendments, charging the present Ministry with illegal and unconstitutional conduct.

City Intelligence.

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at 93⅜ to ½ for Money, and 93⅜ to ⅝ for Account; Three per Cents. Reduced, 92⅛ to 92; New Three per Cents., 92 to ⅛; Bank Stock, shut; India Five per Cent. Stock, 108⅝ to ⅞; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 107¾ to ½; Exchequer Bills, 3s. pm., par.—FOREIGN: Equador Land Warrants, 7¾; Egyptian (first issue), 102¼, ex div.; Greek, for Acct., 37½ to 8; Ditto Coupons, for Acct., 18½ to ⅝; Italian, for Acct., 73 to 72¾; Mexican, for Acct., 42⅝ to ¾; Moorish, 95½; Peruvian, 1862, for Acct., 88¼; Portuguese, 1853, for Acct., 49⅝; Ditto, 1856, '57, '59, '60 and 1862, for Acct., 49¼ to ⅛; Russian, 1822, 93¾, ex div.; Ditto, 1862, 93⅜ to ⅝; Sardinian, for Acct., 89½; Spanish, for Acct., 54½ to 5; Ditto Passive, for Acct., 35¾; Committee's Certificates, 18½ to ⅛; Turkish, 1854, for Acct., 95½ to 5; Ditto 1858, for Acct., 70⅝ to ½, ex div.; Ditto 100*l.* Bonds, 73½; Ditto 1862, for Acct., 71½ to ⅝.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: Sept. 4.—BANKRUPTS.—H. BRIGDEN, Tunbridge Wells Builder—R. H BALLS, Coventry, Provision Dealer—M. BLAKE, Addington Place, Walworth, Boarding House Keeper—W. BLEASDALE, Great Harwood, Lancashire, late Cattle Dealer—T. BARKER, Brierley, Staffordshire, Beer Retailer—R. BROCK, Bournemouth, Hampshire, Grocer—M. BARKER, Batley, Yorkshire, Grocer—C. BROOK, Brighton, Bookseller—E. BROWN, Middlesborough, Yorkshire, Painter—J. COWPER, Oldham, Lancashire, Timber Merchant—R. CLARKE, Barton-upon-Humber, Lincolnshire, Coal Merchant—J. CLAYTON, Haughton, Cheshire, Builder—H. CRUTCHLEY, Kingswinford, Staffordshire, Haulier and Timber Dealer—W. DALE, Stanway, Essex, late Farmer—J. DERRICK, Nottingham, Shopkeeper—L. DEDLOW, Penrith, Cumberland, Watchmaker—G. DEWEY, Northam, Southampton, Licensed Victualler—H. DARGUE, Wetheral, Cumberland, Schoolmaster—T. DAVIS, Kintbury, Berks, Licensed Victualler—W. H. DARRACOTT, Appledore, Devonshire, late Shipowner—W. DIXON, Southampton, Chemist—G. EDGERTON, Graces Alley, Wellclose Square, Whitechapel, Boarding House Keeper for Seamen—J. FARMER, Lye Waste, Worcestershire, Miner—J. FORD, late of Tranmere, Cheshire, China and Earthenware Dealer—S. H. FITCH & F. J. CARR, Nottingham, Lace Manufacturers—J. GRAY, Breinton, Herefordshire, Builder—E. GROOM, Westmoreland Place, Pimlico, Cab Driver—G. M. GLASS, Brandon Street, Walworth, Gelatine Manufacturer—C. J. DE GERARDI, Augusta Square, Regent's Park, Commission Agent—T. HOLLAND, Liverpool, Licensed Victualler—T. J. D. HOLLAND, Outram Terrace, Hill Street, Peckham—T. HARRIS, Worcester, Rope and Sail Maker—P. HOWLEY, Liverpool, Greengrocer—D. HOLMES, Oxford Terrace, Commercial Road East, Tailor's Cutter—W. HUMPHREY, Hartlepool, Durham, Ship Compass Manufacturer—JACOB ALLEN HOWELL (using the name of JACOB HOWELL), Upper Whitecross St., St Luke's, Butcher—H. D. HOWL, Wednesbury, Staffordshire, Boot and Shoemaker—A. JONES, Queen Camel, Somersetshire, Stone Merchant—T. JACOBS, Gloucester Street, Camden Town, Pianoforte Maker—J. KIPP, Penrith, Cumberland, Labourer—J. G. KENNETT, Freshwater Gate, Isle of Wight, Carpenter—W. LONGSDALE, Old Lenton, Nottinghamshire, Cattle Dealer—E. LEESE, Stoke-upon-Trent, Boot and Shoemaker—J. LAIT, Chelsea Villas, Fulham Road, Brompton, Statuary and Stonemason—P. M'DOWALL, Smith Street, Stepney, Tailor—W. F. MEYER, Praed Street, Paddington, Cheesemonger—F. L. MITCHELL, Clifton, Bristol, Commercial Traveller—T. MARTIN, Caroline Terrace, Brook Green, Hammersmith, Clerk to an Attorney—M. OXLEY, jun., Wells, Somersetshire, Fishmonger—J. OUTLAW, Oatlands Park, Surrey, Builder—R. PARKER, Stoke-upon-Trent, Plumber—E. ROBERTS, Stoke upon-Trent, Saddler—T. ROBINSON, Kingston-upon Hull, Boot and Shoemaker—SAMUEL ROBINSON, Essex Place, Mile End Road, Carver and Gilder—W. SMITH, Great Cambridge Street, Hackney Road, Boot Manufacturer—PETER H. SHARP, Coventry—JOHN SHADBOLT, Sutton, Isle of Ely, Cambridgeshire, Baker—M. SEWELL, Mornington Street, Mornington Crescent, Draper's Assistant—W. SPRITT, Newport, Monmouthshire, Innkeeper—W. STROUTHER, Lenton, Nottinghamshire, Lacemaker—J. SANDERS, High Street, Lower Norwood, Shoemaker—T. STANFORD, Cotton Street, Poplar, Hawker of Fish—T. TEASDALE, Carstyn, Flintshire, Commission Agent—J. TONG, Ashford Road, Harrietsham, Kent, Builder—E. VACHER, Albert Terrace Bayswater, Commission Agent—D. WILLIAMS, Abersychan, Monmouthshire, Overlooker of Navigators—J. M. WALTON, Bolton, Lancashire, Brewer—W. WILLIAMSON, Peterborough, Northamptonshire, Fishmonger—J. WILSON, East Bridgford, Nottinghamshire, Licensed Victualler—B. WHITE, George Yard, Grosvenor Square, Retailer of Beer—C. WHITE, Upper Cornwall Street, St. George's-in-the-East, Private Boarding House Keeper—W. U. WILLCOCK, Graham Road, Dalston, Builder—J. WEBSTER, Bedfordshire—J. WOODWARD Derby, Manager of a Silk Mill.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS—W. BUCHANAN, Glasgow, Measurer—S. SUTHERLAND, Aberdour, Aberdeen, Farmer—W. TODD, Tranent, Haddington Farmer.

TUESDAY: Sept. 8.—BANKRUPTS.—R. ABRAHAM, Glyn Neath, Glamorganshire, Colliery Agent and Proprietor—W. BISHOP, Birmingham, Upholsterer—J. BRYAN, St. James's Place, Aldgate, Hardwareman—I. S. BLOMFIELD, Lowestoft, Suffolk, Dealer and Repairer of Clocks—J. BRADLEY, Hulme, Lancashire, Tailor—J. BERRY, Heywood, Lancashire, Fishmonger—J. CHARLES, Malvern Link, Worcestershire, Plumber—G. S. DOUBLE, Bury St. Edmund's, Suffolk, Beerseller—B. B. DAKEYNE, Gradbach, Staffordshire, Silk Spinner—J. DIXON, Toxteth Park, Lancashire, Window Blind Manufacturer—J. EVANS, sen., Preston Brockhurst, Shropshire, Blacksmith—J. ELLIS, Nottingham, Journeyman Lace Dresser—A. F. EDEN, Winchelsea, Sussex, Optician—W. H. FRISBY, Nottingham, Accountant—J. FISHER, Newcastle upon-Tyne, Tailor—A. GALZINI, Upper North Street, Brighton, late General Merchant—J. GILDERTHORPE, Nottingham, Printer—F. G. M. GALANTE, Poland Street, Oxford Street, late Licensed Victualler—C. H. HIRST, Leeds, Cloth Merchant—E. HEDLEY, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, late Licensed Victualler—A. JAMIESON, Gloucester Place, Brixton Road, Baker—J. LOCKWOOD, Mold Green, Yorkshire, Fancy Manufacturer—CHARLES LORIMER, Barnsley, Yorkshire, Coal Dealer—WILLIAM LOFTUS, Battersea Rise, New Wandsworth, Clerk—JAMES MILLS, Winsford, Somersetshire, Farmer—W. MASON, Newcastle upon Tyne, Provision Merchant—J. MARSH, Hulme, Lancashire, English Timber Dealer—R. MASTERS, Wellington Street, Woolwich, Appraiser—R. T. MUNDAY, Clarendon Square, St. Pancras, Commercial Clerk—THEODOR JOSEPH MANSFALD (trading under the style of T. G. MANSFALD, and generally signing the name of T. G. MANSFALD), Cambridge, Tailor—F. NEWMAN, Cambridge, Publican—T. PARTRIDGE, Chulmleigh, Devonshire, Baker—H. M. PUGH, Machynlleth, Montgomeryshire, Chemist—R. PURCHON, Leeds, Grocer—F. J. REES, Liverpool, Joiner—J. ROBINSON, Halifax, Yorkshire, Draper—E. RICHARDSON, Coventry, Watch Manufacturer—W. STILLINGS, jun., Manchester, Plumber—I. SMITH, Liverpool, Saddler—W. SIMS, Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, Fish Dealer—C. H. E TRUMPLER and J. PERILES, Manchester, Merchants—W. TAYLOR, Harmston, Lincolnshire, Licensed Victualler—W. TAYLOR, Stockport, Cheshire, Draper—J. WALTON, Manchester, Pawnbroker—M. WATSON, Sunderland, Joiner—F. W. WOODFORD, Sandown, Isle of Wight, late Licensed Victualler.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—D. BROWN, Glasgow, Grocer—J. MILLER, Airdrie and Coatbridge, Lanarkshire, Grocer and Spirit Dealer—A. MACLEMAN, Inverness, Flesher—A. MELVILLE, Galashiels and Melrose, Roxburghshire, Plumber and Gasfitter—J. A. NAPIER, Rothesay, Builder.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued.. .. .. | £29,185,030 | Government Debt .. .. | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities .. .. | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 14,535,030 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. .. | — |
| | £29,185,030 | | £29,185,030 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,091,284 |
| Rest .. .. .. .. | 3,711,334 | Other Securities .. .. | 18,731,259 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | 6,997,402 | Notes .. .. .. .. .. | 8,258,730 |
| Other Deposits .. .. .. | 12,909,484 | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 810,458 |
| Seven days and other bills | 720,511 | | |
| | £38,891,731 | | £38,891,731 |

Sept. 10, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

SHIPBUILDING FOR THE CONFEDERATES.—A memorial from the Union and Emancipation Society has been transmitted to the Foreign Office by the President, Mr. P. T. B. Potter, of Manchester, calling upon the Government to put a stop to the ship-building now going on in British yards for the Southern Confederacy. Another memorial has been addressed to Earl Russell by the committee of the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society, stating that material assistance is being extended to the slave-holding communities in America, by the equipment of iron vessels in British ports, in direct violation of the Foreign Enlistment Act and the Queen's proclamation. The committee say that though they could urge many urgent reasons for Government interference in the present case they consider that on anti-slavery grounds alone such interference is justifiable; and they therefore entreat her Majesty's Government peremptorily to prohibit the departure of the two steam rams recently launched from Mr. Laird's yard at Birkenhead, until the constructor shall produce satisfactory evidence that they are not intended for the Confederate States. The Morning Post of Tuesday announced that the two iron-clads referred to in this memorial are to be detained by Government under the terms of the Foreign Enlistment Act. The allegation against them is that though they were launched under the Egyptian names of El Toussoun and El Monastir, they are fitted out for the purpose of carrying on hostilities against the United States. On the other hand it is contended that they were built by order of a French house for the late Pasha of Egypt, who gave the firm a commission for the coinage of a large sum of money in France, and for the construction of two steam-rams in England. The money was duly coined and sent to Egypt. The vessels were in course of construction when the Pasha died, and his successor repudiated that part of the contract. What the French house intends to do with them is not known, but as it is reported that they are destined for war with a friendly Power, the Government has given notice to the builder that the ships will not be allowed to leave the Mersey, and if it is found that their construction is contrary to the terms of the Foreign Enlistment Act, they will be seized as violating its provisions.

THE BISHOP OF LONDON'S FUND.—The amount of subscriptions paid into this fund is nearly 22,000*l.*, while the aggregate amount of contributions promised is 82,535*l.* This large sum consists of the united subscriptions of only 400 persons. The largest contributors are the Duke of Bedford and the Marquis of Westminster, who have given 10,000*l.* each. Mr. Charles Morrison has contributed 5000*l.* In order to apply some immediate remedy to the most pressing wants of the metropolis, the executive committee have appropriated 5000*l.*, to be applied through the agencies of the Diocesan Church Building Society, the Diocesan Home Mission, and the Scripture Readers' Society, whereby they expect that 25 additional missionary clergy and 15 Scripture readers will be forthwith engaged.

THE PEACE SOCIETY.—The following memorial, signed by Mr. Joseph Pease as president, and Mr. Richard as secretary, has been transmitted by the Peace Society to Earl Russell, in reference to our relations with Japan:—

"My Lord,—We ask permission, as the committee of the Peace Society, respectfully to express to your lordship the deep regret and apprehension with which we have learnt the present menacing state of relations existing between this country and the kingdom of Japan. We cannot but regard it as a most painful and deplorable fact, that the first appearance of our countrymen among remote and heathen nations, instead of being the barbinger of peace and a higher civilisation, is so frequently the prelude to a course of aggression, violence, and blood. It seems clear, on the testimony of those most conversant with the fact, that the treaty of intercourse and commerce on which we ground our right of intervention in Japan, was in the first instance obtained from the authorities of that country under the coercion of fear, in opposition to the traditional policy of the Government, and the strong prejudices of the people. It is too evident, also, that we have failed in observing honourably on our part the stipulations of that treaty. From the first, our countrymen who, for purposes of commerce, entered into Japan in the wake of our diplomatists, have availed themselves of the advantages they thus acquired in a spirit which could not fail to prove both offensive and injurious to the Government and people, thereby confirming the prejudices against foreigners already existing, and most seriously aggravating the difficulties of the Japanese authorities in their attempts to enforce on their own countrymen a fair observance of the conditions of the treaty. It is obvious, moreover, that our official representatives in that country are quite powerless to restrain the irregularities of such lawless and unscrupulous characters as unhappily too often pioneer and represent British commerce and civilisation in the Eastern seas. If the facts be as above stated, it can hardly be a matter of surprise that an intercourse thrust upon the Japanese against their will, and commenced under such circumstances as we have described, should have led to an early and serious collision. Nor can we hope that a persistent attempt to force our acquaintance upon them at the mouth of the cannon can conduce to their advantage or to our honour as a professedly Christian and civilised nation. On the contrary, all the facts and appearances of the case, as well as our former experience in the East, but too clearly indicate that any further progress in the path of coercion cannot fail to lead to grave and dangerous complications, ending in all probability in a succession of ignoble and costly wars, and the introduction of an era of revolution and anarchy among a people who previous to our intrusion among them had enjoyed, according to the testimony of competent witnesses, a large measure of internal order, peace, and prosperity. We earnestly hope, therefore, that your lordship will send such instructions to our representatives in that country as shall save England and Japan from the calamity of such a course: and if intercourse between us and them cannot be conducted in a friendly spirit, we venture respectfully to submit whether it would not be better for us to withdraw altogether from their country. It is not likely that commerce can be successfully prosecuted with a reluctant and angry people; and even if it could it would be more honourable for a Christian nation to make some sacrifice of commercial advantage rather than inaugurate among another people what may prove to be a long course of disorder and blood."

THE TRIAL OF COLONEL CRAWLEY.—The charges on which Colonel Crawley is to be tried are said to be as follows:—1. For having caused the orders under which Sergeant-Major Lilley was placed in arrest in May, 1862, to be carried into effect with unnecessary and undue severity, whereby the sergeant-major and his wife were subjected to great and grievous hardships and sufferings. 2. For having stated, in his reply to Mr. Smales' defence before the court-martial, that it was Mr. Fitz-Simons' fault if the sergeant's wife was inconvenienced by having the sentries placed near her bed, whereas he knew well that Mr. Fitz-Simons had acted in the matter by his express orders and direction. Mr. Smales, late Paymaster of the Inniskilling Dragoons, having applied to the Secretary of State for War to be placed upon half pay, and for employment on active service, Lord De Grey replied on the 27th ult., that it is the opinion of the Judge Advocate General that, although her Majesty's pardon was intended to remove all stigma that might attach to Mr. Smales, through the finding of the recent court-martial, and to remove any prejudice to his advancement, still his position could now be viewed in the light of that of a civilian only. Lord De Grey added that it was not his intention to submit Mr. Smales's name to her Majesty for any appointment whatever.

Lancashire Relief Fund.—At a meeting of the Mansion House Committee on Friday the report stated that there was an available balance in hand of about 70,000*l*. Grants were voted to the amount of 3515*l*., leaving a balance at the disposal of the committee of about 66,757*l*.

Whitechapel Church. — About three or four months ago a great sensation was caused by the discovery that an undertaker at Stoke Newington had turned his back yard into a place of burial, for the sake of pocketing the fees. From a discovery made last week in the roof of Whitechapel Church, it appears that the Stoke Newington case is not a solitary one: and there is reason to believe that bodies have for years been regularly hidden away for the sake of the money which should have been expended in cemetery fees. The discovery of the dead body of a child in the roof of Whitechapel Church by some workmen engaged in repairing it, induced the Churchwarden to direct a thorough search to be made throughout the roof. The result was, that 11 coffins, three of which contained bodies of children, were brought to light. Eight of the coffins were broken in pieces, apparently from violence; three were in good condition, and one had written on it, in black-lead pencil, "Mrs. Foster, No. 35, Bedford Street." Two of the children are supposed to have been stillborn. Besides these remains about seven skulls of children were found, with some bones and dust and the remains of clothing. A cap was on the head of one of the bodies, and napkins were lying among the remains. At the inquest the sexton stated his opinion that the bodies must have been deposited in the roof 40 or 50 years ago. Other persons, however, were of opinion that at least one of the bodies has been dead only 12 months. The coroner ordered a post mortem examination to be made, and adjourned the inquest for a week.

St. Paul's, Covent Garden.—The Duke of Bedford has conferred the rectory of this parish, which became vacant some weeks since by the death of the Rev. Henry Hutton, on the Rev. C. E. Oakley, M.A., of Wadham College, rector of Wickwar, Gloucestershire. The rev. gentleman is married to Lady Georgiana, a sister of the Earl of Ducie, to whom he is chaplain. He entertains Evangelical views on church matters, and is reputed to be a good preacher.

The Sunken Steamer in the River.—On Monday operations were commenced for raising the Baron Osy steamer, which sank the other day in Limehouse Reach. The river has been dragged with the view of discovering the sunken object upon which she struck, but nothing of the kind could be traced, and it is now thought that she must have struck upon a ridge of a hard stony shoal which formerly extended down the Reach some distance, and was only removed a few years back.

The Great Eastern.—By advices from New York it appears that on the 17th ult., during a strong gale, some portion of one of the paddle-wheels of the Great Eastern was carried away, and that on the 23d the ship was overtaken by a tremendous hurricane, from which, however, no serious damage resulted beyond the loss of one of the boats, which was washed away by a heavy sea. The hurricane lasted about five hours, and, though the ship rolled considerably, no symptoms of straining were observed, and none of the passengers were injured. The third officer and one of the men, however, had their legs broken.

The late Sir Frederick Slade.—The Western Times says that there was no foundation for the paragraph recently published by some of the local papers relative to Sir F. Slade. It states that he was married once, and only once, to his wife Barbara, only sister of Lord Vaux, of Harrowden, at St. George's, Hanover Square, openly and publicly. His eldest son, Captain Sir Alfred Slade, Bart., has succeeded to his estate and title, and is prepared to defend them.

The Mediterranean Telegraph. — The screw steamer Hawthorne has succeeded in picking up the broken cable of this line at the distance of 64 miles off Alexandria. It had given way at the point where a stouter cable was spliced to the deep-sea cable, owing to the rocky nature of the bottom on that part of the coast. The faulty parts having been cut out, the final splice was made on the morning of the 18th ult. The line throughout from Malta to Alexandria is now perfect, and again open to the public.

Indian Telegraph.—The Assaye and Kirkham, sailing vessels, have just shipped from the works of Messrs. Henley, at North Woolwich, 560 miles of the Indian submarine cable. The Tweed and Cospatrick have been fitted out at the premises of Messrs. Wigram, of Poplar, for the reception of another 550 miles of the cable; and the Charente, screw steamer of 600 tons, which has been prepared by the same firm for permanent employment on the line, will take out all the requisites for keeping it in repair. This vessel is commanded by Lieutenant Stiff, of the Indian navy, who has recently surveyed the Persian Gulf, with especial reference to laying down this important line. The total length of the cable taken out will amount to 1250 miles, and it will weigh upwards of 5000 tons. The operations of laying it down will be under the superintendence of Lieut. Colonel P. Stewart, Royal Engineers, and it is confidently hoped that the work will be completed in February next, and that by March, 1864, London and Calcutta will be in direct telegraphic communication.

The Ludgate Viaduct.—At the meeting of the City Court of Sewers on Tuesday the plan of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company for the viaduct across Ludgate Hill was submitted for approval. The proposed structure will be of iron, with a span of 60 feet, and with ornamental brackets at each end, placed against the sides of the abutments, leaving a headway for carriage traffic of 18 feet, and for foot passengers of about 9 feet. There will be a great deal of surface ornamentation on the sides, which will give it the appearance at first sight of an open perforated bridge, but it will in fact have an interior lining to prevent the fall of burning cinders from passing trains. The design, as represented on paper, elicited some expressions of admiration from the Commissioners, but their engineer, Mr. Heywood, warned them that the thing itself, when put up, would probably fall short of the expectations which the drawing was calculated to produce. The Commissioners eventually passed a resolution to the effect that they saw no objection to the adoption of the design.

Thunderstorm in the Metropolis.—On Wednesday night, about 10 o'clock, the metropolis and its vicinity, for several miles round, were visited with continued and vivid flashes of lightning, with tremendous peals of thunder, until near midnight, when the rain came done in torrents, and continued without intermission for upwards of three hours.

A Ragged Church.—On Sunday week a ragged church and school in Brewer's Court, Wild Street, which have been enlarged and improved by the liberality mainly of a neighbouring congregation, were reopened by service and a sermon. This ragged church has three affiliated institutions—a ragged school, ragged mothers' meeting, and ragged Sunday school teachers. The congregation that meet every Sunday is perfectly unique. Their homes are in Lincoln's Court, Wild Court, and other dreary haunts of the refuse population of London. During the winter months the Church is crowded, and every hearer receives a loaf of bread on leaving it. Some of the congregation have no coats, some no shirts, and some a compromise between the Scottish kilt and English trousers. They are visited in their homes by the minister of the Ragged Church during the week, and seem to appreciate his kindness. About 150 of their children attend the Ragged School, and were lately treated to a holiday in the green fields a few miles out of London, and there experienced in fresh air and green grass, and bread and butter and tea, an enjoyment which they had never before experienced.

Model Lodging Houses for the Jews.—A set of model lodging-houses, built by the members of a limited liability company, composed mostly of Jews, and intended for families of that persuasion, was opened a few days since in Whitechapel, by the Chief Rabbi, Dr. Adler. They are intended for families belonging to what may be called the upper portion of the working classes, and contain accommodations which were beyond the reach of persons in a position far above them only a few years ago.

The Public Health. — The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London in the week that ended Saturday September 5th were 1232, which is a lower number than any that has been returned since the first week of July. During the week the births of 925 boys and 938 girls, in all 1863 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1830.

Provincial.

Birkenhead.—The two iron steam rams, recently launched at the works of Messrs. Laird, bear the Egyptian names of the El Monastir, or Victory, and El Toussoun. When launched both vessels bore the English flag astern and the French flag amidships. They are 230 feet long, 42 feet beam, and 19 feet deep. Their measurement is 1850 tons, and their engines of 350 horse power. They are plated with 4½ inch iron on a teak backing of great thickness bolted on to the frame of the ship, which supports the inner shell. The decks are also iron-plated, and the iron bulwarks are hinged at the lower edge so as to be thrown down in action. Each "ram" is pierced for six guns on each side, and they are fitted on the deck with large cupola towers on Captain Coles's plan, with two guns to each cupola. The bows project under the water, so as to form a "ram." The iron plates are so beautifully planed and fitted, that it is almost impossible to tell whether the vessels are plated or not. The cupolas are fore and aft of the vessel. Each "ram" is barque rigged, having the lower masts and yards of iron. The accommodation for the officers and men is above deck, in the poop and forecastle at each end, and below the deck.

Coventry.—An adjourned inquest was held on Thursday week at the village of Fillongley, near this city, on the bodies of William Henry and Julia Dalby, husband and wife, who were suspected of having died from the effects of poison. The deceased man was a miller, and son of a farmer living near Hinckley, in Leicestershire; the woman, who was only about 17 years of age, was the daughter of labouring people residing at Fillongley. They were married in February last, since which period they are believed to have lived very happily together. On Monday, the 24th ult., the wife was found dead. In consequence of the suddenness of her death an inquest was opened and adjourned, to enable a post mortem examination to be made. On Monday, the 31st ult., the husband exhibited reluctance to go to his work as usual, and went upstairs and lay down on the bed. A few minutes afterwards his mother-in-law saw him place a bottle on a box by the bedside, and immediately fall back as though in a fit. He died almost instantly. The bottle was labelled "Poison—prussic acid." A letter in his handwriting was found after his death, in which he stated that his wife had of her own accord taken poison at his suggestion, that they were too loving to live together in this world, and that he had promised to join her at the throne of God on that day week. A post mortem examination proved that death had been caused by prussic acid; but no evidence affording a clue to any motive for the crime was forthcoming. The jury returned a verdict, in the case of the wife, of "Wilful Murder" against the husband: and in the case of the latter a verdict of "Felo de se."

Claydon.—It is understood that the Bishop of Norwich has commenced proceedings against the Rev. G. Drury, rector of Claydon, Suffolk, for having introduced innovations into the celebration of Divine worship in the parish church.

Deal.—During the heavy squall and rain on Sunday evening a collision happened a few miles off Dungeness between the bark Elvira and the Ocean King steam-vessel, from London to Greece. The bark foundered with four of the crew. The steamer was much damaged, and returned to the river for repairs.

Leigh.—Messrs. Peter Cleworth, John Cleworth, Joseph Cleworth, and Robert Howarth, farmers in this parish, and Joseph Battersby, a farm labourer, were convicted a few days since by one of the Lancashire magistrates on the charge of saving a quantity of hay from an impending storm, on the Sabbath day; and warrants of distress have since been executed on their goods. It is said that the convictions are bad and the proceedings illegal, because the Act setting forth who shall not work on Sundays does not include farmers, and specially excludes works of necessity and charity. A subscription has been commenced for the purpose of assisting the defendants in testing the validity of the convictions.

Liverpool.—Elizabeth Benyon, who was convicted at the late assizes for the murder of her child, has had her sentence commuted by Sir George Grey to penal servitude for life. The three men who were condemned to death at the same assizes for murder, will be executed, it is said, this morning at Kirkdale gaol.

Manchester.—At the monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Central Relief Fund on Monday, a report from the Executive Committee, signed by the Earl of Derby and Mr. Maclure, was read, stating that the condition of the operatives in the cotton districts has considerably improved since July, and that of those who are still without employment in connexion with their regular occupation, not a few have been enabled to remain in the neighbourhood by availing themselves of the various forms of labour which have arisen from the liberality of landowners, as well as from the plentiful harvest. At a meeting of the Executive Committee on the same day, the report stated that 154*l*. 9*s*. 2*d*. had been received during the week, and that the balance in the bank was 301,767*l*. 5*s*. 1*d*. Mr. Commissioner Farnall reported that on the 29th ult. there was a decrease of 531 in the number of persons receiving parochial relief in the 27 unions as compared with the number relieved in the previous week. Grants were voted to various places to the amount of 3990*l*.

Oxford.—Prince Frederick of Denmark, brother to the Princess of Wales, has entered at Christ Church, and will become a resident member at the commencement of the ensuing term. The Rev. G. W. Kitchin, junior proctor, censor and student of Christ Church, has been appointed tutor to the young Prince, and Grandport House, the residence of Alderman Randall, has been engaged for his accommodation.

Sheffield.—The Cutlers' Feast was held on Tuesday week in this town, the Master Cutler in the chair. The dinner was attended by Lord Wharncliffe, Sir Charles Wood, Mr. Roebuck, and other notabilities. In returning thanks as Minister for India, Sir C. Wood said that he did not wish to take more credit to himself than was his due, but since he had been at the India Office the government of the country had been recast, natives admitted into the administration, the judicature had been revised, the penal code, civil proceedings, the army and the navy had all been remodelled. They were performing their mission to that country in governing it for the benefit of the great masses of the people, in whose welfare they would not only derive the best pecuniary reward, but would have performed, he hoped, that great mission to which they had been called —of improving and civilising the largest population which at present existed under the rule of any one sovereign. Mr. Roebuck spoke as follows :—

"It must be obvious to any one that we in England are peculiarly favoured at the present time, compared with any other great powers of Europe, and we have every reason to congratulate ourselves upon our position. As to the nearest power to us, there is no liberty there, whilst we are free to say and do what we like, so that we injure no man. Austria is in the very throes of establishing a constitutional government She is now in the very heart and mystery of that great attempt. Prussia is under the control of one whom it would be a great mercy to his people if he were to be—(after a short pause)—relieved of the trouble of government. Russia is in the very throes of a revolution, and if we stretch our views across the sea to our friends, as we call them—to our descendants, as we know them—what is there to be seen? Liberty gone. No man able to say that his soul is his own. Compelled to do the commands of two or three men in Washington creating misery throughout the world. Now, we here enjoy freedom such as mankind has never known. We are well governed—every man before the law is equal. The postman in the country is equal to the greatest man amongst us here. For all this we are not altogether indebted to our government There is in the people themselves a power, a prudence, a knowledge, a virtue which have vindicated to themselves this great power which they possess. I acknowledge that the rulers have very often paid due deference to public opinion, and that they have yielded to public opinion when it has been too strong for them At the present moment I feel very much tempted to talk, but I won't talk. I feel that there are things that press upon us here, and that we in this room shall know of before 12 months are over our heads, and I would ask Sir C. Wood to bear in mind what he will hear to-morrow. There has been one symptom of political advancement in this country. They have suffered calamity such as war had hardly ever thrown upon any country before. How have they borne it? Quietly and in patience. They have not turned round upon the Government, and why? Because political knowledge has reached them They know that neither their Government nor employers were answerable for the mischief of which they complained. Let my right honourable friend recollect that that knowledge and that that feeling will not very much longer continue. The sufferings they have to bear they will ask themselves if they could not have been relieved from (by the recognition of the Confederate States), and if they could, then the blame of the miseries which they suffer will be visited on the heads of those who created it."

WARWICK.—A meeting of the magistrates of this county, convened by the Lord Lieutenant, was held at the Shire Hall on the 15th ult. "to consider the reply of the Mayor of Birmingham to a letter addressed to him by command of her Majesty, in reference to the late fatal accident in Aston Park." The meeting was presided over by Lord Leigh, and amongst those present were the Right Hon. C. B. Adderley, M.P., Sir R. N. C. Hamilton, Bart., Sir Trevor Wheler, Bart., Mr. Spooner, M P., Mr. Newdegate, M.P., &c. On the motion of Mr. Dickens, chairman of quarter sessions, seconded by Mr. Spooner, the following resolution was unanimously adopted :—That the statement of the Mayor of Birmingham, that Aston Park is not within the jurisdiction of the authorities of Birmingham, has rendered it necessary that the lord lieutenant and magistrates of the county should express publicly their serious regret that a park, with the opening of which they must ever connect the most grateful recollections of gracious condescension of her Majesty and the deeply-lamented Prince Consort, should have been the scene of an occurrence so greatly painful to her Majesty as to have called forth expressions from her Majesty which they have read with cordial respect; and to whatever extent their jurisdiction may give them any control, or their influence may have weight, they would gladly promote such steps being taken as might secure the restriction of the future use of the park to its original and true intention —the rational recreation of the people." A resolution was also passed authorising the lord lieutenant to forward a copy of the above to Sir C. Phipps for submission to her Majesty. The following reply has since been received from her Majesty :—

"Abergeldie Mains, Ballater, August 29.

"My dear Lord Leigh,—I have received from Coburg the commands of the Queen to express the gratification with which her Majesty has heard that the magistrates of the county of Warwick have unanimously resolved to exercise whatever influence they possess to prevent the repetition of such dangerous and degrading exhibitions as that which lately ended fatally to the poor woman exhibiting.—Sincerely yours,

"C. B. PHIPPS."

WOLVERHAMPTON.—A few days since the body of a young man called William Cheenery, was found dead in this town in a small house, where for a fortnight previously he had lived with a woman called Rosanna Steadman. There were marks of severe violence on his person, his body was tarred, and in an advanced state of decomposition, and the bed on which he was lying was saturated with blood. On the day after a woman was discovered dead in an unoccupied house in Dudley, her body being even more decomposed and worm eaten than that of the man Cheenery. This woman much resembled Rosanna Steadman, who was known to have been the last person in the house before his body was found. It was quite clear that the man had been murdered, and there was reason to believe that the woman had been concerned in the murder, and had afterwards gone to Dudley, where she was herself murdered, it is supposed by poison, as a bottle labelled laudanum was found in her pocket. Her body, however, having been buried after the inquest without a post-mortem examination or any satisfactory proof of her identity, the Secretary of State sent down an order for its exhumation, which took place accordingly on Monday last. When the coffin was opened identification from the features was impossible, but the height and build of the corpse were quite those of the woman Steadman. The identification of the clothes however, was complete, most of the garments in which she was interred having been sworn to as those which she had been accustomed to wear. The post mortem examination of the woman showed that no trace of poisoning could be discovered, as laudanum being a vegetable poison must, if used for the purpose, have decayed as rapidly as the body, and that there were no external or internal injuries to be perceived. The post mortem examination of the man showed that the skull had been fractured and the nose and teeth cut through with some instrument like a hatchet, probably during sleep, that extensive injuries had been inflicted on the lower part of the body, from which great quantities of blood, apparently several quarts, had flowed; that after death the body was laid out, and a pillow placed under its head; and that after death the body was painted or brushed over with tolerably hot gas-tar, probably with a view of preventing detection from smell as long as possible. Some stains of this tar were found on the dress of the woman exhumed at Dudley. After some other witnesses had been examined the inquest was adjourned for a fortnight for further evidence.

Ireland.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN.—Prayers for Archbishop Whately were offered on Sunday in all the churches of Dublin. It is said that the unfavourable symptoms which were reported last week have not abated, and that his Grace suffers a good deal of pain and passes restless nights. Professor Henderson, of Edinburgh, has been called to the aid of his Grace's physicians, and saw him on Wednesday in consultation with them. It is understood that the Archbishop is under homœopathic treatment, in which he is a firm believer.

THE IRISH SOCIETY.—A deputation from the Irish Society of London, consisting of Alderman Humphrey, the Governor; Mr. W. Cox, M.P., Deputy-Governor; and 13 assistants, have recently made their annual visit to their estates in Londonderry. The visit is usually accompanied by festivities and an exchange of courtesies between the society and the tenants; but on the present occasion the inspection has not passed off so agreeably. A deputation from the corporation of Derry having requested an interview to confer with the society on subjects affecting their interests, the Mayor, at the opening of the conference, said that there was a strong feeling as regarded the leases for building; without these leases parties were not desirous of expending capital. The leases granted were generally shorter than those granted in other towns, and there was much trouble and uncertainty as to the renewal of a lease when it was granted at all. Mr. Colhoun next referred to the necessity of widening some of the streets, and to other desirable improvements, and observed that Derry, during the last 25 or 30 years, had increased in population by two-thirds, and a suitable public hall was badly wanted. The wish of the corporation was to go hand-in-hand with the society. For all the recent important improvements, and others in contemplation, the corporation demanded fixity of tenure on behalf of the people of Derry.' If the society gave the tenants fixity of tenure, they would have many gentlemen spending their money in improving and enlarging the town. Mr. Cox, M.P., in reply, commented upon some articles on the society which had been published in the Derry papers, recommending an appeal to Parliament. He said the society did not fear the corporation or their organs of the press, and would not for a moment be influenced by them. The society would consider a scheme proposed by the late Sir R. Peel—that when the society had discharged their duty to Derry, as they had done to the fullest extent, they should expend their funds on other places in Ireland—Connemara for instance. He, for one, would never consent to grant any portion of the land or property to a corporation who came "snivelling." This expression aroused the ire of the corporators, and the speaker's voice was drowned in a chorus of "Shame!" "Retract!" "Shameful language!" Mr. Cox explained that he applied the expression to the former corporation; but the town councillors said that their predecessors were as high-minded as themselves; and amid another chorus of disapprobation, Mr. Cox was understood to withdraw the expression. Some conversation relative to the details of the proposed improvements then took place, and it was ultimately arranged that the surveyors of the society and of the corporation should jointly inspect the sites and prepare plans and estimates for the consideration of the court in London. The incidents of the interview have produced a very unpleasant state of feeling in Derry.

Scotland.

OPENING OF THE BAXTER PARK AT DUNDEE.—On Wednesday last the magnificent Park presented by Sir David Baxter to the people of Dundee, was formally handed over to the trustees. The day was kept as a close holiday in the town. In the forenoon Earl Russell met the Town Council and Guildry in the Corn Exchange, and was presented with the freedom of the burgh, and created a Guild brother. His lordship was accompanied to the platform by the Countess Russell, Lady Georgina Russell, the Earl of Dalhousie, Earl of Camperdown, Sir J. Ogilvy, Sir David Brewster, and Sir D. Baxter. After the Provost had conferred the freedom of the burgh, and Dean of Guild had presented the freedom of the Guildry to Earl Russell, his Lordship rose and spoke as follows :—

"Sir and Gentlemen, I receive with gratitude the freedom of the ancient and Royal burgh of Dundee. I have come here for the first time to add my tribute of respect to one of your most distinguished citizens, who has nobly provided for the health and recreation of his fellow-citizens, and well deserves to be remembered to all time as a public benefactor. The increase of large towns is a proof of increasing wealth, and the effect of prosperous industry is not without accompanying evils. One of these evils is the exclusion of the face of nature; and happy is he who can give to those 'in populous city pent' a rest from exhausting toil, amid scenes which invigorate the body and turn the mind to the contemplation of the wonderful works of God. In referring to measures which I have contributed to promote during a long course of parliamentary exertion you have done me too much honour. I have been happy to contribute to the victory of those eloquent and distinguished men who were foremost in the cause of Catholic emancipation, and who won for the people the great battle of the repeal of the corn laws. With regard to the measures in which I had a more immediate part—in proposing the repeal of the Corporation and Test Acts, in framing a plan for parliamentary reform, and introducing a bill for the reform of our municipal corporations—I have been studious to build upon the ancient foundations, to adapt new measures to existing laws, and to put them in harmony with the institutions of a country long free and justly proud of its liberty. Thirty years of experience have shown that I have not been mistaken in my hope: every year has strengthened our political constitution, and confirmed, as you justly observed, our domestic tranquillity. As Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs it has been my object to preserve peace with honour. You may rely with confidence upon the administration of Lord Palmerston, who is so justly and so universally popular, for maintaining a line of strict impartiality in the lamentable conflict still raging in America. The duties of neutrality between parties violently hostile are not easily performed. It has been and will be our endeavour, however, to exercise the powers now entrusted, or which may be hereafter entrusted, to the Crown by parliament in such a manner as at once to defeat every attempt to engage our people in enterprises inconsistent with our neutral position, and to preserve for ourselves, our persons and property, those safeguards of British law and British justice to which alone they are indebted for the security they now enjoy."

At 1 o'clock the various bodies who took part in the grand ceremony of the day met in the Barrack Park. When the line had been formed the procession marched through the principal streets to the People's Park, which is situated at the north-east extremity of the town. The park occupies a space of 38 acres, and is tastefully laid out. In the centre stands a handsome pavilion in the Italian style, built at a cost of 6000*l.* At each entrance there are handsome lodges. The cost of the park, its embellishments, and the sum set apart by the donor for its maintenance, cannot be less than 50,000*l.* After the park had been opened in due form, Earl Dalhousie, the Earl of Camperdown, Sir David Baxter, and others addressed the meeting. In replying to a vote of thanks for his presence, Earl Russell said:—

"I hope you will allow me, as the youngest burgess of Dundee, to say a few words with regard to a matter which I think may tend to the usefulness of this park, for which the town of Dundee is so much indebted to Sir D. Baxter. I was speaking to him of a notion which has occurred to my mind, and I found it had also occurred to his, and, indeed, from his benevolence and sagacity it was not likely to have escaped him. I have been accustomed in the course of my life to pay a great deal of attention to education; and I have been told of late years by those who are occupied in education in great towns—such as Glasgow, Birmingham, and similar large towns—that there is one great difficulty they have to contend with in their schools, and that is that in those towns there is no such thing as a playground. I think a playground is quite as useful as a school; and it is still more easy to occupy a playground in these days, when we are told by some clever philosophers that the boy who is at school three days in the week learns quite as much, if not more, than the boy who goes six, and that the boy who is at school half a day learns quite as much as the boy who is at school the whole day. Whether that be true or not I am not going to say, but I think it would be a great advantage to the schools in this town if they were to ask the permission of Lord Dalhousie and the other trustees, that from time to time, at certain fixed hours, this park should be made a playground for certain games during the hours of recreation which the school allows. There is a very great tendency at the present time—which is a good tendency—of bringing people together in large towns, but it has a disadvantage, and that is that the children are brought up without having the least notion of the green fields, or a game at cricket, or a game at trap-ball. And it is quite as essential that the body of a boy should be educated, and his mind turned to these things, as that he should learn his alphabet and ciphers. I am in hopes that, being the youngest burgess in Dundee, my presumption may be excused. I think it would be a great pleasure to know that the young generation of Dundee could enjoy the advantages of this park as much as those who are their elders, and able to give themselves to more manly pursuits. I beg to thank you all in the name of Lady Russell. I have certainly found by experience that there needs no better place to come to for a wife than to Scotland, and I certainly shall recommend the practice to others which I have adopted myself."

The weather was fortunately dry and sunny, and the proceedings passed off with great éclat. There was a grand display of fireworks in the park, and illuminations in various parts. It was intended that Mr. Coxwell should make an ascent in his large balloon, but the wind was unfavourable.

Law.

HOME CIRCUIT: CROYDON.—The Burning of Campden House.—Wolley v. Pole, Treasurer of the Sun Fire Insurance Company.—This was one of several actions on policies effected by Mr. Wolley on Campden House, Kensington, its fixtures, furniture, and effects. It appeared from the evidence that Mr. Wolley, who commenced life as a person of small or no means, married, in 1849, a rich lady, named Coape. He took on lease a residence, since well known in London society, called Campden House, and commenced fitting it up and furnishing it with everything costly or curious in the mediæval style that he could pick up. He spent large sums in this manner, and the house became quite a show place in consequence. He took the precaution of insuring the property from fire, the house itself having been built in 1612, and it was so full of old timber that it was plain that if it once caught fire it would burn like touch paper. He accordingly insured the house and furniture in various offices for an amount of nearly 30,000*l*. There were several policies, one in the Sun on house and stables for 4500*l*., effected in 1854; another in the Sun, effected in 1860, for 10,000*l*. on house, fixtures and fittings; one in the Hand-in-Hand for 5000*l*. on house, fixtures and fittings; one in the Atlas, 5000*l*. on pictures; and one in the Sun, of November, 1861, for 5000*l*. on furniture—total, 29,000*l*. The fire took place on the 23d of March, 1862. It was on the last of the policies—the Sun furniture policy—on which any question or suspicion seems to have arisen, and the result of the inquiries and deliberations of the offices was that in February last, after nearly a year's delay, they intimated that they disputed all the policies on the grounds of fraud and arson. The action on the Sun furniture policy was immediately brought, and then the action on the Sun policy for 10,000*l*., and the other actions in succession. The present action is on the first of the Sun policies, the one for 4500*l*. on house and stables, on which 4000*l*. is claimed for the destruction of the house by fire. The company pleaded that the claim was fraudulent, and that the fire was caused by the "wilful act, means, and contrivance of the plaintiff." The only inmates of the house at the time of the fire were Mr. Wolley and his valet, Crozier, who slept in adjoining rooms, and a person named Temple, a carpenter, who had been employed some years on the premises, and who, with his wife and son, a youth of 15, slept in another part of the house. The other usual inmates of the house, Miss Coape, the sister-in-law of Mr. Wolley, and her brother, Captain Coape, were in a house he had taken at Brighton. He had gone down there with them and the servants in November, 1861. He had come up once or twice in December, January, and February, and he came up on the 3d of March with Crozier, and remained with him in the house, engaged a good deal in varnishing the old oak panelling and carving, &c., up to the night of Saturday, the 22d of March. Early on the morning of Saturday, the 23d, the fire was discovered some time between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, and although the night was wet and rainy, it burnt with such fury and rapidity that the house and contents were soon totally destroyed. Mr. Wolley made his escape in his shirt only, and was for some time exceedingly ill with the shock and the physical sufferings he had undergone. Temple, the carpenter, escaped by climbing over the roofs of some outbuildings, and was severely burnt in his hands; Mrs. Temple, his wife, narrowly escaped with her life, having had to jump from a window 60 feet high. The Insurance office at first attempted to damage Mr. Wolley's character by showing that he was originally a waiter at an hotel, then an actor, and then a clerk; that he married a lady of fortune, spent her money on the house, and then borrowed and spent half the property of her sister, mortgaging to her the house and its contents as her security. They also contended that he had hung tapestry and paper before the windows to prevent the fire being seen from outside, had brought varnish and candles into the place to feed the fire, and had laid out his books open on the tables for the same purpose. It was further alleged that many of the articles insured had been removed to Brighton, and that those which remained were overvalued. The principal witness in support of these allegations was the carpenter Temple, who contradicted himself on cross examination, and so plainly showed his determination not to furnish any answer which might be favourable to Mr. Wolley, as to draw upon himself a rebuke from the judge, and to convince the Court that he was actuated by a feeling of animosity against Mr. Wolley from having been under the false impression that that gentleman had left him and his family to shift for themselves at the fire, and to make their escape how they could. The rest of the case for the defence was equally weak. It failed to disprove the alleged value of the furniture; and some witnesses, who were called to show that the fire broke out in all parts of the house at once, thereby indicating premeditated incendiarism, were contradicted by others, who unexpectedly declared that one front was blazing a quarter of an hour before the other. Baron Bramwell in summing up almost told the jury what verdict they ought to return, and concluded by saying, that "though a wicked man might be ready to destroy property worth 50*l*. to obtain 1000*l*., it was difficult to conceive that any one would wilfully destroy property to a very large amount when, as really appeared to be the case in the present instance, the amount insured for would hardly cover the loss." The jury, without leaving the box, instantly returned a verdict in favour of the plaintiff. Mr. Bovill, as his counsel, claimed interest, and declared that he would not abate a halfpenny—and the verdict was accordingly entered for 4277*l*. 16*s*. 8½*d*.

Railways.

COLLISION ON THE STOCKTON AND DARLINGTON.—A serious collision took place shortly before 8 on Monday night at the Darlington junction. The Parliamentary train, which was due at Darlington shortly after that hour, ran into a mineral train, which was crossing the line, the result being that the tender and several of the carriages of the passenger train were thrown off the line, and were greatly damaged. One of the passengers, Mr. W. Petter, of Liverpool, was seriously injured, and several others were slightly bruised. Had the passenger train been one moment earlier in arriving at the crossing the consequences must have been frightful, as the whole weight of the 25 laden ironstone waggons would have come broadside upon it, and in all probability have caused a serious destruction of life.

THE CITY TERMINUS IN CANNON STREET.—The houses on the site of the old Steel Yard in Upper Thames Street are now being demolished to make way for the City branch of the Charing Cross Railway, and its proposed terminus in Cannon Street. These houses, which were extremely old and dilapidated, some of them having survived the fire of London, had of late years been occupied by the Victoria Dock Company for wharfage purposes. They had a river frontage of about 220 feet, and extended backwards to Thames Street about 100 yards. The intervening block of buildings between Thames Street and Cannon Street, and which is also doomed to destruction, is of great value. It lies between Dowgate Hill and Allhallows Lane, and consists mostly of merchants' warehouses and offices, including the head quarters of the Unity Bank, a modern structure with a handsome front in Cannon Street. The viaduct for carrying the line across the Thames is now in course of construction, and will resemble the railway bridge of the same company at Charing Cross, Mr. Hawkshaw being the engineer of both. It will rest on circular iron caissons, and have four, if not five, spans. It will cross the river about midway between London and Southwark bridges, and its abutments on the Surrey side will be of iron, and those on the opposite shore of brick. It will pass over the western end of the pontoon steam-boat pier recently erected by the Thames Conservancy Commissioners, of Allhallows Wharf, and will, it is thought, render necessary the removal of the pier, or some part of it. The railway will form a junction with the South-Eastern system in the Borough, and probably at some future time with the South-Western also, and the terminus, almost in the very centre of the city, will afford very great public accommodation. The Cannon Street station, it is understood, will be more spacious than that at Charing Cross, the intention being to make it 20 feet wider, and with a glass roof of corresponding span. The terminus will be within five minutes' walk of the Bank and the Exchange, and readily accessible by St. Swithin's Lane, Walbrook, Abchurch Lane, King William and Cannon Streets, the delay and danger occasioned by the crowded state of London Bridge being thus avoided. The contractor of the bridge is under covenant to complete it by the end of next year.

RAILWAY STATISTICS.—In the year 1862 the enormous number of 180,429,071 passengers travelled on the railways of the United Kingdom, besides 56,656 season-ticket holders, who of course all travelled very many times; and besides, also, 262,334 horses, 386,864 dogs, 3,094,183 cattle, 7,800,928 sheep, and 1,989,892 pigs. The passengers were more than in 1861 by about 7,000,000. They paid 12,295,273*l*. for their fares. The first-class passengers paid 3,332,380*l*.; the second-class, 4,018,221*l*.; the third-class, 4,639,250*l*. 12.80 in every 100 went first-class, 28.75 second-class, 58.45 third-class. The proportion of third class passengers is rather increasing, and of second-class rather diminishing. Thirty-five passengers were killed (nine of them owing to their own misconduct or want of caution), and 536 were injured. This is less than half the number who lost their lives in 1861 by railway accidents. The passenger trains travelled 57,542,831 miles, and the goods trains nearly as many more. The passenger traffic supplied 47.76 per cent. of the total receipts of the companies, and the goods traffic the larger half, 52.24 per cent. The receipts from all the traffic amounted to 29,128,558*l*., being nearly 3,000,000*l*. more than the interest of the national debt, and an increase of 563,000*l*. over the receipts of 1861; but the length of line open increased from 10,865 miles at the end of 1861 to 11,551 miles at the end of 1862. The working expenditure amounted to 49 per cent., and left the net receipts 14,820,691*l*., nearly 130,000*l*. more than in 1861. In the year 1862 the companies paid 220,970*l*. for law and parliamentary expenses, 158,169*l*. as compensation for personal injuries, 68,540*l*. for damages and loss of goods, 375,067*l*. for government duty, and 596,410*l*. for rates and taxes. It took 2,708,638*l*. to maintain the way and works, and 1,242,714*l*. to maintain the carriages and waggons, 3,966,005*l*. to provide locomotive power, and 3,987,637*l*. to conduct the traffic. The total sum raised by shares and loans reached 85,218,438*l*. at the close of the year 1862.

Obituary.

EARL BEAUCHAMP died on Tuesday night, at his seat at Madresfield Court, Worcestershire, in his 70th year, after suffering for several weeks from an internal complaint. His lordship was a General in the army, Colonel of the 2d Life Guards, and Gold Stick in Waiting to the Queen. He leaves two sons and a daughter—viz., Viscount Elmley, the Hon. F. Lygon, M.P. for Tewkesbury, and Lady Raglan. He is succeeded in his title and estates by his eldest son, Viscount Elmley, M.P. for West Worcestershire. The late earl, when General Lygon, sat in the House of Commons for the county of Worcester before the passing of the Reform Bill, and afterwards for the Western Division of the county, altogether for more than a quarter of a century. He was first elected for the county in 1816, and during the Reform agitation, being opposed to the measure, he was defeated. The Reform Bill passed in the next year, and Worcestershire was separated into two divisions, East and West—and at the election consequent upon that division General Lygon was elected for West Worcestershire, and continued to sit for the division until his elevation to the Upper House. In politics he was a Conservative of the old school.

BIRTHS.—On the 7th inst, at Godmersham Park, Canterbury, the Viscountess ST. VINCENT, of a son—2d inst, at 47, Sloane Street, Lady GERALD FITZGERALD, of a son—5th inst, at Offington, Sussex, the Lady EMILY GAISFORD, of a daughter—6th inst, at 40, Chester Square, the Lady FRANCES BUSHBY, of a son—31st ult, Lady DE C. BROKE, wife of R. F. EATON EDWARDS, Esq., of a daughter—1st inst, at 68, Park Street, the Hon. Mrs. HERVEY ST. JOHN MILDMAY, prematurely, of a daughter, who only survived a few minutes—4th inst, at Plas-Llynnon, Anglesey, the Hon. Mrs. FITZMAURICE, of a son—6th inst, at Ramsgate, the wife of Lieut.-General CHARLES BENTINCK, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.—On the 10th inst., at St. George's, Hanover Square, the Right Hon. Lord LONDESBOROUGH, to the Lady EDITH SOMERSET, youngest daughter of the late and sister of the present Duke of Beaufort—2d inst., at Bibury, Gloucestershire, EDWIN CORBETT, Esq., H.M.'s Secretary of Legation at Frankfort, to the Hon. EMILY ISABELLA CONSTANCE DUTTON, second daughter of the Lord Sherborne—3d inst, at Laverstoke House, Hants, Captain THOMAS DUNDAS, second son of the late Robt. Dundas, Esq., of Arniston, N.B., to JANE ELIZA PORTAL, youngest daughter of the late John Portal, Esq., of Freefolk Priors, Hants—3d inst, at St. Stephen's Church, Dublin, JOSEPH GUBBINS, Esq., of Kilfrush, Limerick, to FRANCES THOMASINE, second daughter of Sir BERESFORD B. M'MAHON, Bart.—8th inst, at Westminster Abbey, the Rev. GEORGE W. KITCHIN, M.A., censor of Christ Church, Oxford, and junior proctor, to ALICE MAUD, second daughter of BRIDGES TAYLOR, Esq., H.B.M.'s Consul for Denmark, and granddaughter of the late General Sir Hugh Halkett, C.B., G.C.H., of Hanover—5th inst, at St. George's, Hanover Square, WILLIAM DENT, Esq., only son of William Dent, Esq., of Cowper's Hill, Windsor, to JANE AMELIA, youngest surviving daughter of the late Lieut.-General Sir Colin Campbell, K.C.B., and widow of Colonel George Maclean, Royal Artillery—7th inst, at St. Marylebone Church, CHARLES WYNNE FINCH, Esq., M.P., to JAMESINA, relict of H. STYLEMAN LE STRANGE, Esq.—8th July, at Murree, Punjaub, India, Lieutenant FRANK WILLIAM CHATTERTON, third son of John Balsir Chatterton, of Manchester Street, Manchester Square, London, to SUSANNA PAGESIER MARY, eldest daughter of Major J. F. RICHARDSON, C.B.

DEATHS.—On the 8th inst, at Lowesby Hall, Leicestershire, the Dowager Lady FOWKE, aged 74—5th inst, at 8, Norfolk Street, Park Lane, Lady ELIZABETH EMILY DAWSON, aged 64—4th inst, at Kenward, Pembury, Kent, MARIA, the wife of Sir JOHN C. K. SHAW, Bart.—29th July, at Benares, JANET LOUISA, eldest daughter of Captain Sir WILLIAM HAMILTON, Bart., Royal Horse Artillery, aged 4 years and 3 months—1st inst, at Seapoint Terrace, Monkstown, county Dublin, GEORGE S. CARLETON, Esq., eldest son of the late Very Rev. Dean Carleton, aged 78—7th inst, at Belgrave House, Torquay, Major D. ARTHUR MONRO, late 12th Royal Lancers, and only son of the late David Monro, Esq., of Quebec, aged 44—5th inst, at York, Major HENRY PRATT GORE, late 5th Royal Regiment of Foot, aged 38—4th inst, at Helmsley Lodge, near York, Captain EUGENE THOS. C. WHITTELL, Esq., 2d West York Light Infantry, aged 30—31st ult, at De Ligne House, Hastings, Captain JOHN MACKAY MACKENZIE, adjutant 1st Cinque Ports Rifle Volunteers, and late 3rd Regt., aged 36—3d inst, at Athol House, Edgbaston, BENJAMIN GIBBONS, Esq., J.P. for the county of Stafford, aged 48—31st ult, at Wimbledon, CHARLES HENRY PAYNE, Esq., of the Middle Temple, barrister-at-law, and formerly a Commissioner of Bankruptcy for the city of Bristol, aged 72—7th inst, at Walthamstow, S. READ, Esq., member of the late School of Naval Architecture, honorary member of the Institution of Naval Architects, and late of H.M. Dockyard, Sheerness, aged 65—7th inst, the Rev. FREDERICK GAUNTLETT, rector of Fladbury, aged 74.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Sept. 12.

Vegetables and most kinds of Fruit still continue plentiful. Plums may also be had in great abundance at from 6s. to 8s. a sieve. Of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is sufficient for the demand. Of Melons there is a good stock of both English and foreign varieties. There is also a good supply of Williams's Bon Chrétien and Marie Louise Pears. Some good examples of Ribston Pippin Apples have also arrived from Jersey. Kent Filberts fetch from 55s. to 60s. per 100 lbs. Kent Cobs are coming in in better condition than last week; price 45s. to 50s. per 100 lbs. For Potatoes the market is still heavy. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Stocks, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 2s 6d to 6s | Nectarines, do., 2s to 5s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 6s | Melons, each, 2s to 4s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 1s 6d to 2s 6d | Lemons, per 100, 8s to 12s |
| Pears, per ½ sieve, 2s 6d to 5s | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Plums, per ½ sieve, 3s to 6s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Figs, per doz., 2s 6d | Walnuts, do., 14s to 20s |
| Peaches, per doz., 3s to 8s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | French Beans, p. sieve, 2s to 6s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 100s to 110s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| „ Shaws, do., 60s to 70s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 4d to 6d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 1s 9d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Tomatoes, each, 2d to 3d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

SMITHFIELD, Thursday, Sept. 10.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 78s to | 84s | Clover, old | 95s to | 126s |
| Superior do. | 86 | 92 | Do. second cut | 90 | 110 |
| Inferior do. | 60 | 70 | New Clover | — | — |
| New do. | — | — | Straw | 28 | 34 |
| Rowen | 60 | 60 | | | |

HARVEY & EASTON.

CUMBERLAND MARKET, THURSDAY, Sept. 10.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay | 92s to | 100s | Inferior Clover | 90s to | 108s |
| Inferior do. | 75 | 84 | New do. | — | — |
| New do. | — | — | Straw | 34 | 35 |
| Superior Clover | 116 | 126 | | | |

JOSHUA BAKER.

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, Sept. 10.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 92s | Prime 1st cut Clover | 120s to | 126s |
| Inferior do. | 80 | 86 | Inferior do. | 108 | 118 |
| Prime New Hay | — | — | New 1st cut do. | — | — |
| Inferior | — | — | Prime 2d cut do. | 105 | 112 |
| Straw | 28 | 32 | Inferior do. | 95 | 100 |

HOPS.—BOROUGH MARKET, FRIDAY, Sept. 11.

Messrs. Pattenden & Smith report a good demand for the new growth, of which at present there is only a limited supply. Prices are the turn dearer for fine samples.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Mid and East Kents, per cwt. | £5 10 to | £8 8 |
| Weald Kents | 4 15 — | 5 10 |
| Sussex | 4 10 — | 5 5 |

Very choice higher.

NEWGATE.—Sept. 11.

Best Fresh Butter .. .. 14*s*. per dozen lbs.
Second do. do. .. .. 12*s*. „
Pork, 4*s*. 4*d*. to 5*s*. 0*d*. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, Sept. 7.

We have a smaller supply of Beasts, and the average quality is very inferior; consequently choicest descriptions are very readily disposed of at rather higher rates. There is also a small advance in other kinds. The number of Sheep is unusually small for the time of year. Trade is not very brisk, yet the smallness of supply causes a considerable advance in prices. Calves are selling about the same as on Thursday. From Germany and Holland there are 2130 Beasts, 846 Sheep, and 211 Calves; from Ireland, 450 Beasts; and 2150 Beasts from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. | 4 10 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools | 5 0 — 5 2 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — 4 10 | Do. Shorn | .. — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 4 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 4 — 4 8 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds | 5 2 — 5 4 | Do. Shorn | .. — .. |
| Do. Shorn | .. — .. | Lambs | 4 4 — 5 8 |
| | | Calves | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 5190; Sheep & Lambs, 20,360; Calves, 239; Pigs, 460.

THURSDAY, Sept. 10.

We have rather a larger supply of Beasts than on Thursday last, and Monday's advance in price is barely maintained. The number of Sheep and Lambs is not larger. Trade is not brisk, and prices are rather lower than Monday's, yet there is scarcely a quotable difference on the average. There is no alteration in the Calf trade. From Germany and Holland there are 326 Beasts, 2560 Sheep, 511 Calves, and 30 Pigs and 76 Beasts from Spain. Milch Cows, 90.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 4 10 — 5 2 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 6 — 4 8 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 2 — 5 4 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. | Lambs .. .. | 4 8 — 5 8 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs .. . | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 1520; Sheep & Lambs, 8230; Calves, 595; Pigs, 210.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, Sept. 7.

The supply of English Wheat to this morning's market was very small, and was sold at an advance of 1s. to 2s. per qr. upon the prices of this day se'nnight. Foreign met a fair inquiry at the extreme rates of last week. Malting Barley was rather more inquired for, grinding unaltered. Beans and Peas brought late quotations. The Oat trade was dull, and prices were unaltered. For Flour there was but little demand, and we do not alter our quotations.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 44—46 | Red ..... | 42—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 46—50 | Red .... | 42—48 |
| — — Talavera .............. | 48—52 | | |
| — Norfolk .................... | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign .................... | 38—58 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist, 30s to 33s .. Chev. | 36—40 | Malting .. | 33—38 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk .......... | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ............... Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 19—22 | Feed .... | 18—20 |
| RYE .............................. | 30—32 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign ................ | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan .... 33s to 38s .. Tick | 34—36 | Harrow .. | 34—36 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ............... Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 30—32 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—40 |
| — Maple .... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 32—38 |
| MAIZE ...................... White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 38—43 | | |
| — 2d do ................. ditto | 30—34 | Country .. | 30—34 |
| — Foreign ........... per barrel | 17—26 | Per sack | 34—45 |

FRIDAY Sept. 11.

The weather during the past week has been changeable, and mostly wet with high winds. Harvest work has but partially progressed, and what was secured of the grain crop within the last few days must have been in poor condition, while a part of that still out has suffered to some extent, and is now in a precarious position. North of the Umber probably more than half the crop remains cut or standing in the fields. The interruption of harvest work gave increased firmness to the trade, and good conditioned home-grown Wheats sold readily at an advance of 1s. to 2s. per qr. upon former rates, while foreign realised in some markets 1s. per qr., and in Liverpool 1s. to 2s. per qr. more money, but the business was not brisk. Feeding Barley has continued in request at full prices; for malting the season has scarcely commenced, but as the reports about English are less satisfactory, there is an inquiry for foreign, and prices are 1s. to 2s. dearer. Beans, Peas, and Oats remain as last quoted. Flour moves off slowly, except at Liverpool, where an advance of 6d. per barrel and 1s. per sack has been established. Since Friday last 65 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating cargo trade has been moderately active, and 6d. to 1s. per qr. better prices have been established for Wheat and Maize. Barley and Beans have been steady. In Paris (Sept. 10), little business was done in Flour at unaltered prices. The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 34s. per 280 lbs. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 7980 cwts. Only very few transactions have taken place in Wheat, holders asking late rates, and buyers insisting upon a reduction of 9d. to 1s. 3d. per 480 lbs. The arrivals of English and foreign grain and Flour during the week have been small. This morning's market was poorly attended. English Wheat met with less inquiry than of late, and the business done in foreign was unimportant; prices remain nominally the same as on Monday. In spring corn but little was done, and we do not alter our quotations.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 810 qrs. | 30 qrs. | — qrs. | 250 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 600 | — " |
| Foreign .. | 7730 " | 10 | 18,050 " | 320 " / 830 brls |

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 8.—We have had a very fair attendance of both town and country millers and dealers at our Corn Exchange this morning, and the advance of 2d. per cental was maintained, but not so freely supported as had been anticipated. Flour was held for 6d. per barrel and sack more money. Indian Corn must be quoted 9d. per qr. dearer all round, but the rise is found to check the late activity. Fine old Oats are scarce and the turn dearer; all other descriptions, as well as Oatmeal, are dull and irregular in value. Beans are held for an advance of 6d. per qr. Peas and Barley steady at late rates. The market closes with less animation than it opened. Weather still unsettled.

FRIDAY, Sept. 11.—Wheat only in retail demand at 1d. to 2d. lower. Flour dull, and prices rather in favour of purchasers. Indian Corn in fair demand. Egyptian Wheat and Beans unchanged. Oats quiet. Oatmeal very quiet.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Aug. 1 | 45s 11d | 31s 0d | 23s 0d | 37s 11d | 39s 11d | 36s 3d |
| — 8 | 46 3 | 31 6 | 23 0 | 31 6 | 38 8 | 34 9 |
| — 15 | 45 11 | 31 4 | 23 7 | 36 4 | 40 7 | 35 7 |
| — 22 | 46 5 | 31 1 | 23 0 | 33 2 | 40 4 | 34 9 |
| — 29 | 45 9 | 33 10 | 22 8 | 33 9 | 39 6 | 35 9 |
| Sept. 5 | 44 2 | 34 8 | 22 0 | 32 11 | 38 10 | 37 2 |
| Agg. Aver. | 45 9 | 32 3 | 22 10 | 34 3 | 39 8 | 35 8 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

COAL MARKET.—Sept. 9.

Byass's Bebside West Hartley, 16s. 9d.; Pelew Main 14s. 3d.; Walker Primrose, 12s. 6d.; Eden Main, 16s. 9d. Walls End Braddylls Hetton, 17s. 3d.; Walls End Framwellgate, 16s. 6d.; Walls End Haswell, 18s. 6d.; Walls End Russel's Hetton, 17s. 3d.; Walls End South Hetton, 18s. 6d.; Walls End Cassop, 16s. 9d.; Walls End Hartlepool, 17s. 9d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 17s. 3d.; Walls End Kelloe, 17s. 3d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 17s. 3d.; Walls End South Kelloe, 17s. 3d.; Walls End Thorpe, 15s. 9d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 17s. 9d.; Walls End Whitworth, 15s. 6d.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 20s.—42 ships at market.

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, Sept. 11.

Our demand continues good, and prices buoyant for all descriptions of worsted and flannel wool, but blanket wool is not inquired after.

| | s. d. s. d. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ to 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto .. | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ — 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 — 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 — 1 8 |
| | | Blanket ditto .. | .. — .. |

To Propagators.

MR. JAMES VEITCH, of the Exotic Nursery, King's Road, Chelsea, is in want of a first-rate GENERAL PROPAGATOR in the Plant department. To a thoroughly competent person of known ability Mr. Veitch will give 100l. per annum. Unexceptionable references will be required.—Chelsea, Sept. 12, 1863.

WANTED, a FOREMAN in a Garden Establishment, near town; a single Man, well experienced in all branches of Fruit and Plant Growing, where everything is required. Good character. Must be unquestionable in every respect.—A. B., Messrs. Kitchen, Ironmongers, 533, New Oxford Street, W.C.

WANTED, a single YOUNG MAN, of active and industrious habits, as FOREMAN in a gentleman's Establishment. He must be sober, honest, &c., and have a good general knowledge of his business.—Apply by letter, stating reference, &c., to C. D., 1, Prospect Place, Larkhall Lane, Stockwell, S.

WANTED, in a London Nursery and Seed Establishment, a MAN with a good knowledge and experience of the business. He would be required to Manage the Flower Seed Department, and attend on Company visiting the Nursery in the summer season; to Travel one or two journeys, and if he had a knowledge of the French language sufficient to take a journey on the continent, he would be preferred.—Apply by letter, stating previous situations filled, and terms, to H. A., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

WANTED, by a gentleman in the neighbourhood of London, a MAN and his WIFE (without family preferred). The former must understand the care of Milch Cows, Sheep, Cattle, Pigs, &c., and make himself generally useful on the Farm; the latter must understand Dairy Work, Milking, the charge of Poultry and Baking. Wages, 40l. a year, with Cottage and Fuel. No one need apply, unless able-bodied, and with good references.—Address by letter, enclosing testimonials, prepaid, to W. A., care of Messrs. Ridgway, Publishers, 169, Piccadilly, W.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33, single; experienced in all branches. Lately returned from France, where he lived for two years in a private establishment. No objection to the continent.—Y., 19, College Street North, Camden Town.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 25, single, Scotch; has a good knowledge of his profession, acquired during 10 years' practice. Good testimonials from previous employers.—W. W., Post Office, Leyton, Essex, N.E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 34, married, no incumbrance; understands his profession, and can be highly recommended. Wife can take charge of Poultry if required.—A. B., 3, Grove Terrace, Grove Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD), in a gentleman's family.—Age 42, married; has had 23 years' experience in Gardening in all its branches. Can be well recommended. Three years' good character.—Y. Z., Mr. Marshall's, Baker, Lower Tooting, Surrey.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30, married, with two children; thorough practical experience in Early and Late Forcing of Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables. Nearly four years' unexceptionable character.—A. L., Messrs. Smith & Co., Ironmongers, Blackheath, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Has a thorough knowledge of his profession in all its branches; had great experience in Early and Late Forcing. Just lately disengaged from the service of W. S. Lindsay, Esq., M.P.—X. Y. Z., 23, Stanford Road, Fulham, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30, single; perfectly understands his profession, having had considerable practice in some of the best and most complete Forcing places in England, and competent to undertake the Management of any large establishment. Good character.—J. T., 10, Harrington Street, Hampstead Road, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Has been in his present situation nearly 14 years, and leaving in consequence of a reduction in the establishment; thoroughly understands the Erection and Heating of Horticultural Buildings, Laying-out and Planting Grounds, Forcing Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Strawberries, Melons, Cucumbers, and Mushrooms; the Growth and Treatment of Orchids, Ferns, Ornamental Foliage and Stove Plants, Azaleas, Camellias, Ericas, Epacris, and general Hardwooded Greenhouse Plants; likewise Pelargoniums and all Soft-wooded Plants. Has a perfect knowledge of Wall Trees and all hardy Fruits; understands the Early Forcing of Vegetables, and is an excellent Kitchen and Flower Gardener. Has taken many Prizes at Provincial Exhibitions. No objection to any part of the kingdom. Character will bear the strictest investigation.—JOHN BRADSHAW, Keresley, Coventry.

GARDENER (HEAD or good SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 23, single; understands his profession in all its branches.—G. V. W., 146, Upper Street, Islington, N.

GARDENER.—Age 25, married; has a thorough knowledge of his profession. Good character.—M. R., Prospect Cottage, South Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

GARDENER (age 28).—J. PRING, Newsells Park, can with confidence reccommend his Foreman to any lady or gentleman in want of a good Working practical Gardener, well acquainted with the Cultivation of Plants and Fruits, and the general routine of Gardening. Three years in present situation.—J. PRING, Newsells Park, Royston, Herts.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER.—THOMAS ROBY is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly experienced person in the above capacity. No objection to the Management of Land, &c. Thirteen years' excellent character from his late employer, A. K. Barclay, Esq., Bury Hill, Dorking.—THOMAS ROBY, Dorking, Surrey.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (age 30, married).—A gentleman is desirous of obtaining a situation for his Gardener; has a thorough practical knowledge of the Management of Stove and Greenhouse Plants, Vinery, Orchard House, &c.; first-rate Propagator of Hard and Soft-wooded Plants, and has had extensive practice in the Laying-out of Pleasure Grounds, British and Dutch Flower and Kitchen Garden, Early and Late Forcing; in every respect an excellent and experienced Gardener, thoroughly trustworthy, and fully competent to take the Management of a first-rate place. Five years' testimonials.—J. A. C., Post Office, Daventry.

GARDENER, WOOD FORESTER, and FARM BAILIFF, or GENERAL MANAGER on a gentleman's Estate.—Age 32, married, without incumbrance; a Native of the South of Scotland. Good references and testimonials as to character and ability. No objections to England or Ireland.—A. B. C., 27, Academy Street, Dumfries, N.B.

GARDENER (SINGLE-HANDED or UNDER).—Age 24; seven years' good character.—A. Z., R. Toy's, Mill Hill, Hendon, N.W.

GARDENER (UNDER).—Age 22; good character from last situation.—G. F., Post Office, Bath.

GARDENER (UNDER), where Gardening is done upon a good scale.—Age 20; intelligent, useful.—JOHN WILSHIRE, Seedsman, &c., Beaconsfield.

GARDENER (UNDER), or to manage a small Place.—Age 22, single; has worked four years in one of the best gardens in Derbyshire, and three years in his last place.—THE GARDENER, Butterley Hall, Alfreton, Derbyshire.

GARDENER (UNDER).—Age 20; has been brought up to Gardening from childhood, wishes to engage with a nobleman's or gentleman's Gardener for further experience. Can have a good character.—D. R., The Gardens, Duddon Hall, Broughton-in-Furness, Lancashire.

PROPAGATOR, or PROPAGATOR and FOREMAN.—Has had considerable experience in the London Trade.—R. W., 21, Buccleuch Road, West Dulwich.

PROPAGATOR or FOREMAN and PROPAGATOR.—First-class testimonials.—A. B., 5, Lacland Terrace, King's Road, Chelsea, S.W.

PROPAGATOR, or FOREMAN and PROPAGATOR.—A first-class Graftsman, and thoroughly experienced in the Propagation of Hard and Soft-wooded Plants. Good references.—A. B., 43, North Road, Great Yarmouth, Norfolk.

To Nurserymen.

GENERAL FOREMAN, SALESMAN, and PROPAGATOR.—Has had 22 years' extensive practice in two of the principal Nurseries in England; has a thorough practical knowledge of every branch of his profession, but more particularly the Indoor Department.—C. J. DYER, 15, Stanford Road, Fulham, S.W.

To Nurserymen.

ASSISTANT PROPAGATOR and IMPROVER, under the Foreman.—Age 21. Good reference.—A. R. H., Mr. Geo. Woollett, Nurseryman, Brixton, S.

IMPROVER.—Accustomed to all kinds of Forcing and Flowers. Good Premium given.—D. TANLY, 24, Park Street, Dorset Square, London, N.W.

To Landowners, Agents, and Others.

SUB-AGENT on an ESTATE, or as MANAGER of a FARM.—Age 24; thoroughly understands the Management of Stock, Dairy, and Arable Farms; the general details of Farm Management; the Drainage, Reclamation, and Planting of Land. Has received a good Scientific Education, holding the Diploma of the Royal College of Agriculture. Having spent a considerable period in the Laboratory of Dr. Voelcker, has a good knowledge of the Analysis and Value of Feeding Materials, Artificial Manures, Soils, and practical knowledge of Agriculture, gained in the North of England. Should prefer a situation where improvements were necessary. Has no particular objection to go abroad.—M. R. C. A., Post Office, Gateshead, Durham.

LAND STEWARD or BAILIFF.—Middle-aged, single; practical; thoroughly experienced in Agriculture in all its branches, the management of all description of Buying and Selling; has had great experience; a good Accountant. Has a Sister who would take charge of Dairy and Poultry if required. Can be highly recommended.—A. B., Post Office, Ottershaw, Chertsey, Surrey.

FARM BAILIFF, or WORKING FOREMAN.—The Employer of an active Working Bailiff is anxious to obtain for him another situation. He is an industrious superior Man, understands Stock and good Farming, and has long had the Management of a Steam Plough. His Wife is a good Manager of a Dairy.—Messrs. J. & F. HOWARD, Britannia Iron Works, Bedford.

FARM BAILIFF.—Married; Wife could undertake the Management of a Dairy and Poultry if required. Highest reference as to character and ability.—J. W., Post Office, Market Harborough, Leicestershire.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

FARM BAILIFF, at Michaelmas.—Age 44, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands Farming in all its branches, including Hops, Grazing, Breeding, and Rearing of Stock and Sheep; acquainted with different Soils; is also a good Accountant. Wife can take charge of small Dairy and Poultry if required. Satisfactory references.—A. B., Post Office, Cranbrook, Kent.

FARM BAILIFF or WORKING BAILIFF.—Age 42, married, no incumbrance; 18 years' experience in Farming business. Wife to undertake Dairy or Poultry.—W. J., Wandsworth Lodge Farm, Upper Tooting, Surrey, S.

FARM BAILIFF (WORKING).—Age 32, married. Four years' character.—J. C., Loudwater, near High Wycombe, Bucks.

SHOPMAN, in Seed Trade.—Age 26 years; eleven years' experience.—P. O., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

DAIRY MAID.—Age 24, single; excellent Butter maker; has been brought up in a gentleman's Dairy, where a large number of Cows are kept; and can be well recommended for honesty, cleanliness, &c. A situation in a nobleman's or gentleman's family preferred.—Mr. T. SCOTT, Home Farm, Great Barton, Bury St. Edmunds.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1863.

To Seed Merchants and Nurserymen.

SAYNOR AND COOKE, PRUNING and BUDDING KNIFE MANUFACTURERS, beg respectfully to say that they will not be undersold by any House in the Trade. They also warrant one of their Knives to last two of any other make.
Paxton Works, Sheffield.

Fresh Fruit all the Year Round.

JENNINGS' MODEL PRESERVING JAR affords the means to every one to lay by a store of Fruit or Vegetables for Winter use at a very small cost and little trouble.

This is effected by means of an AIR-TIGHT CAP or COVER, which can be placed or removed in a moment, and will last for years in any climate, superseding the use of Bungs, Corks, Bladder, &c., for all kinds of Preserved Meats, Fruits, or Pickles.

Descriptive Illustrations, Prices, &c., from the Wholesale Depôt, Palace Road, Lambeth, S. Retail from all China and Glass Dealers, Ironmongers, and others.

Paxton Works, Sheffield, Established 1738.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION PRIZE MEDAL WAS AWARDED TO SAYNOR & COOKE FOR SUPERIORITY OF QUALITY IN PRUNING AND BUDDING KNIVES, &c.

SAYNOR AND COOKE'S celebrated English and French Exhibition PRIZE PRUNING KNIVES, &c., can be obtained of any respectable Nurseryman or Seed Merchant in the three kingdoms, all Knives warranted both by the Seller and Maker.

CAUTION.—None are genuine unless marked SAYNOR. Other marks would cause disappointment, as those Knives are tempered by an improved process known only to the Makers.

Iron Works.

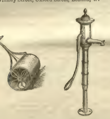
COTTAM AND CO.,
2, Winsley Street, Oxford Street, London, W.



COTTAM & Co. manufacture all kinds of Implements and Machines for Garden and Horticultural purposes, Verandahs, Greenhouses, Conservatories, Hot water Apparatus, &c.; Iron Fencing, Gates, and Hurdles.

Illustrated Catalogues free of COTTAM & Co., Iron Founders, &c., 2, Winsley Street (opposite the Pantheon), Oxford Street, London, W.

RIDDELL'S PATENT SLOW-COMBUSTION COTTAGE BOILER for HEATING CONSERVATORIES, ENTRANCE HALLS, BATHS, &c., by the Circulation of Hot Water.

Requires no brickwork setting; will keep in action from 12 to 18 hours without attention, at an expense of about 3*d*. per day. Is perfectly safe, requires no additional building, and may be seen in operation daily at the Patentee's Warehouse, 155, Cheapside, London, E.C.

Price complete from 3*l*. 10*s*.

Illustrated Prospectus free, and Estimates prepared for Erecting Hot-Water Apparatus of any magnitude.

DENNIS'S PATENT METALLIC HORTICULTURAL BUILDINGS are made from the best Wrought Iron, upon an entirely new principle. The combination of Iron and Glass under this patent is perfect; the possibility of fracture is prevented, and a permanently Water-tight Roof insured.

The leading practical advantages are extreme smallness of Framing, admitting a maximum of light and heat, great strength, durability, and perfect ventilation. They are speedily erected, partake of more desirable outline, and do not exceed the cost of a perishable wooden structure.

For Prospectus, &c., address T. H. P. DENNIS, Horticultural Builder, Hot-Water Engineer, &c., High St. Chelmsford, Essex.

BECK'S

PATENT HOT-WATER VALVES

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES, viz.:—

| 2 In. | 3 In. | 4 In. |
|---|---|---|
| 12s. 6d. | 16s. 6d. | 20s. 0d. |

Upwards of 4000 of the Patent Valves are now in use and giving the greatest satisfaction.

JOHN BECK can also supply large quantities of his

IMPROVED THROTTLE VALVES

on the shortest notice.

JOHN BECK,

PATENTEE AND MANUFACTURER

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF

GAS, WATER, and STEAM FITTINGS,

FIRE COCKS, WATER CLOSETS, ETC.

PATENT VALVE WORKS

AND SANITARY DEPOT,

GREAT SUFFOLK STREET, LONDON, S.E.

Card.

SAMUEL N. McGERROW,
GENERAL HORTICULTURAL BUILDER,
Knotty Ash, near Liverpool.

Reference permitted to the Nobility and Gentry throughout Great Britain and Ireland.

LATEST IMPROVEMENTS IN
Heating by Hot Water.
THE IMPROVED
CONICAL BOILERS,
FOR HEATING PINERIES, CONSERVATORIES, GREENHOUSES, MANSIONS, HALLS, WAREHOUSES, &c., SOLELY MANUFACTURED BY

BURY AND POLLARD
(Successors to JOHN R. PEILL, Late STEPHENSON & PEILL).

Annexed Sketch shows BURY & POLLARD'S improved arrangement, requiring

NO BRICKWORK SETTING.

These Boilers have for their durability and economy attained a celebrity far surpassing any other Boilers ever invented. They have been for many years past in use at many Public Establishments, Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew, at the Regent's Park, the Crystal Palace, and at most of the Nobility's and Gentry's Seats throughout the United Kingdom. References where they have been 20 years in constant use.

Price Lists on application to BURY & POLLARD, Park Iron Works, New Park Street, Southwark, London, S.

JAMES WATTS AND CO., HOTHOUSE BUILDERS and HOTWATER APPARATUS MANUFACTURERS, near the Green Man, 353, Old Kent Road, London, S.E.

200 CUCUMBER and MELON BOXES and LIGHTS, and from 400 to 500 LIGHTS for PITS of all SIZES kept in STOCK.

Glazed and Painted complete, ready for immediate use. Packed and sent to all parts of the kingdom.

10 dozen strong Zinc HAND GLASSES, Glazed and Painted complete, ready for immediate use, 18, 20, and 22, all shifting tops.

Reference to the Nobility, Gentry, and Trade in most of the counties in England.

JOHN WARNER & SONS,

BELL AND BRASS FOUNDERS TO HER MAJESTY,

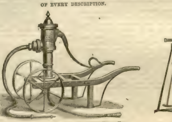
HYDRAULIC ENGINEERS, BRAZIERS, and MANUFACTURERS of PUMPS, COCKS, and CLOSETS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

No. 35.



No. 36½. IMPROVED CAST-IRON LIFT AND FORCE PUMP.

No. 42.

No. 35. PATENT CAST-IRON PUMP, fitted with J. W. & SONS' Metal Bucket and Valve, which cannot clog in action, for Wells not exceeding 25 feet.

2½ inches ... ... 1 foot 7 inches high ... £1 1 0 | 2½ inches ... ... 3 feet 3 inches high ... £1 10 0

2½ inches short, with 15 feet of Lead Pipe attached, ready for fixing ... ... £2 0 0

2½ inches long, ditto ditto ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... 2 14 0

No. 36½. WARNER'S IMPROVED 3-INCH CAST-IRON LIFT and FORCE PUMP, mounted on Barrow, with Suction and Delivery Screw, 18-inch Branch Pipe and Spreader, and Suction Rose ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... £5 15 0

1½-INCH 2-PLY RUBBER and CANVAS HOSE ... ... ... ... ... at per foot 0 1 4

2½-INCH LIFT and FORCE PUMP (Mounted on Plank, 3*l*. 3*s*.) ... ... ... ... ... 3 0 0

3-INCH LIFT and FORCE PUMP (Mounted on Plank, 3*l*. 15*s*.) ... ... ... ... ... 3 10 0

Larger sizes of any of the above.

By an improved and new action of the handle, this Pump is so constructed that a great deal of friction is avoided; an air vessel is secured, and by introducing a brass lining into the barrel, with brass bucket and sucker, many of the objections to iron pumps are overcome. By this Pump ONE MAN WILL FORCE THE WATER in a continuous stream TO A HEIGHT OF 50 FEET. When mounted on a barrow it forms a cheap, useful, and portable Fire Engine or Garden and Field Irrigator. The simplicity of its construction enables it to be offered to the public at a less price than any other Pump of equal capabilities.

No. 42. IMPROVED LIQUID MANURE or GENERAL PORTABLE PUMP.—These Pumps are fitted with J. W. & SONS' Patent Bucket and Valve, and cannot clog in action.

4½-inch LIQUID MANURE PUMP, with legs, 2*l*. 15*s*.; 2-inch Flexible Rubber and Canvas Suction Pipe, 2*s*. 5*d*. per foot. The Barrel is 27½ inches long, and the Legs are 5 feet high.

The above may be obtained of any Ironmonger or Plumber in Town or Country, or of the

PATENTEES and MANUFACTURERS,

JOHN WARNER AND SONS, 8, CRESCENT, CRIPPLEGATE, LONDON, E.C.

To the Trade.

HYACINTH GLASSES SUPERSEDED BY THE

NEW REGISTERED ETRUSCAN HYACINTH VASE, the most beautiful Table Ornament extant. To be obtained only of
HOOPER & Co., Seedsmen, Covent Garden Market, London, W.C.
WHOLESALE LIST of PRICES forwarded on application.

Glass for Orchard Houses or Conservatories.

ENGLISH MANUFACTURED SHEET GLASS. 15 and 21 oz. to the foot, in sizes from 9 × 7 to 24 × 20, packed in 100 feet boxes, to be sold cheap.
Apply to WM. H. JACKSON, Plate, Crown, and Sheet Glass Warehouse, 315, Oxford Street, W.

TREE and PLANT LABELS.—10,000 CLOTH or PATENT PARCHMENT PUNCHED LABELS for 30s. Delivered free in London on receipt of a Post-office Order or Stamps for the amount.
Address JOHN FISHER & Co., West Road Works, Boston, Lincolnshire.

ROCKWORK FERNERIES, WATERFALLS, CAVES, BANKS of STREAMS and PONDS, executed in the only way it should be, i.e., to imitate Natural ROCKS. Worked with pockets, for plenty of plants, by JAMES PULHAM, Broxbourne, Herts.
References to works executed in 10 counties, some by the recommendation of W. B. THOMAS, Esq., R. MARNOCK, Esq., and E. MILNER, Esq.

GARDEN BORDER-EDGING TILES. — These Tiles, manufactured in Terra-Cotta, Terro-Metallic Ware, and Red Ware (in the above and other patterns), are recommended in preference to Box and other "grown" Edgings for the following reasons:—They do not harbour slugs and insects, they take up less room, require no attention, are far more durable, and consequently, in the end, prove much cheaper. For Kitchen Gardens, Town, and Sea-side Gardens, they are invaluable.
To be obtained at F. & G. ROSHER's Wharves, London; Ward's Wharf, Upper Ground Street, Blackfriars, S.; Old Swan Wharf, Queen's Road, Chelsea, S.W.; and Kingsland Road Wharf, near the Canal Bridge, Kingsland, N.E.
Illustrated Price Lists free on application. The Trade supplied.

ORNAMENTAL PAVING TILES for Conservatories, Halls, Corridors, Balconies, &c., as cheap and durable as Stone, in blue, red, and buff colours, and capable of forming a variety of designs.
Also WHITE GLAZED TILES, for Lining Walls of Baths, Dairies, Larders, Kitchen Ranges, &c. Grooved Terro metallic and other Stable Paving Bricks of great durability. Clinkers, Red and White Wall Copings, Glazed Drain Pipes, &c.
To be obtained of F. & G. ROSHER at their Premises as above.

Oil Paint no longer Necessary.

HILL AND SMITH'S PATENT BLACK VARNISH for preserving Iron Work, Wood, or Stone. This Varnish is an excellent substitute for oil paint on all out-door work, and is fully two-thirds cheaper. It may be applied by an ordinary labourer, requires no mixing or thinning, and is used cold. It is used in the grounds at Windsor Castle, Kew Gardens, and at the seats of many hundreds of the nobility and gentry, from whom the most flattering testimonials have been received, which HILL & SMITH will forward on application.
Sold in casks of about 30 gallons each, at 1*s.* 6*d.* per gallon, at the Manufactory, or 1*s.* 8*d.* per gallon paid to any Station in the kingdom.
Apply to HILL & SMITH, Brierley Hill Iron Works, near Dudley, and 76, Cannon Street, E.C., from whom only it can be obtained.

Gutta Percha Tubing for Watering Gardens.

THE GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY have the pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of the following

Testimonial from MR. J. FARRAH, Gr. to BOSWELL MIDDLETON JALLAND, Esq., of Holderness House, near Hull.

"I have had 400 feet of your Gutta Percha Tubing, in lengths of 100 feet each, with union joint, in use for the last 12 months for watering these gardens, and I find it to answer better than anything I have ever yet tried. The pressure of the water is very considerable, but this has not the slightest effect on the tubing. I consider this tubing to be a most valuable invention for Gardeners, inasmuch as it enables us to water our gardens in about one-half the time, and with one-half the labour required."
Manufactured by the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, Patentees, 18, Wharf Road, City Road, London, E.C., and sold by their Wholesale Dealers in town and country.

BUY YOUR SEED BAGS from JAMES T. ANDERSON, SACK and BAG MAKER and RUSSIA MAT MERCHANT, 15, SHERBORNE LANE, KING WILLIAM STREET, LONDON, E.C., who will supply you with a first-rate article at a low price.
Prices sent free on application.

ANDERSON'S ARCHANGEL MATS are the best for all Garden purposes, also PETERSBURG and PRUSSIAN DUNNAGE MATS. Prices sent post free on application. N.B. The Trade supplied.
JAMES T. ANDERSON, Sack and Bag Maker and Russia Mat Merchant, 15, Sherborne Lane, King William Street, London.

E. T. ARCHER'S "FRIGI DOMO."—Patronised by her Majesty the Queen, the Duke of Northumberland for Syon House, his Grace the Duke of Devonshire for Chiswick Gardens, Professor Lindley for the Horticultural Society, Sir Joseph Paxton for the Crystal Palace, Royal Zoological Society, late Mrs. Lawrence of Ealing Park, &c.

PROTECTION from the SCORCHING RAYS of the SUN. "FRIGI DOMO," a Canvas made of patent prepared Hair and Wool, a perfect non-conductor of Heat and Cold, keeping, wherever it is applied, a fixed temperature. It is adapted for all horticultural and floricultural purposes, for preserving Fruits and Flowers from the scorching rays of the sun, from wind, from attacks of insects, and from morning frosts. To be had in any required lengths.

Two yards wide .. .. .. 1*s.* 6*d.* per yard run.
Four yards wide .. .. . 3*s.* per yard.
An improved make, 2 yards wide, 1*s.* 8*d.* per yard.
An improved make, 3 yards wide, 2*s.* 6*d.* per yard run.

Also "Frigi Domo" Netting, 2 yards wide, 1*s.* 4*d.* per yard run.
ELISHA THOMAS ARCHER, Whole and Sole Manufacturer, 7, Trinity Lane, Cannon Street, City, E.C., and of all Nurserymen and Seedsmen throughout the kingdom.
"It is much cheaper than Mats as a covering."

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.—STEAM ENGINES, THRESHING MACHINES, CARTS, WAGGONS, PLOUGHS, HARROWS, CHAFF-CUTTERS for hand and power, PRIZE CHURNS, LAWN MOWERS, WIRE NETTING, GARDEN TOOLS of all kinds.
Illustrated Catalogue on receipt of six postage stamps.
Price Lists free.
BURGESS & KEY, 95, Newgate Street, E.C.
Works, Brentwood, Essex.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.
CHUBB'S FIRE-PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS. CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.
Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.
CHUBB & SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF.—The foundation for all Mattress Bedding should be elastic, and the usual Spring Mattress is too heavy and cumbersome for general use. HEAL & SON's new Patent LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF is made in three separate parts, and is therefore light and portable; it is also cheap and durable; and as it has no stuffing on the top, it cannot harbour moth.

HEAL AND SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Designs and Prices of 100 Bedsteads, as well as of 150 different articles of Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.
HEAL & SON, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham Court Road, W.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, AND CO'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. METCALFE'S celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2*s.* per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET; the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2*s.*, 3*s.* 6*d.*, and 5*s.* each. 130 B, and 131, Oxford Street, W.

CONCENTRATED BEEF TEA, with FARINACEOUS FOOD, in skins of 1 lb. each, containing the extract of 13 lb. of Beef, 7*s.*; invaluable to public speakers, tourists, and invalids, either as a lozenge, or dissolved in hot milk, water or tea. Also the Patent Tonic BEEF TEA LOZENGE, to create strength, sustain the stomach, and prevent fever. A few dissolved in boiling water will form a Cup of Beef Tea or Gravy for Game. 1*s.* Boxes.
PHYTHIAN, 430, West Strand, W.C.; NEIGHBOUR, 127, High Holborn, W.C.
TESTIMONIAL.—You can safely recommend BAKER's Patent Tonic Beef Tea Lozenges, I was out examining pupils 11 hours, had no other food, and felt none the worse from my labours. —Rev. P. S.

CAPTAIN WHITE'S ORIENTAL PICKLE, CURRY or MULLIGATAWNY PASTE. CURRY POWDER and CURRY SAUCE, may be obtained from all Sauce Vendors, and Wholesale of CROSSE & BLACKWELL, Purveyors to the Queen, Soho Square, London, W.C.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.—This delicious Condiment, pronounced by Connoisseurs
"THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE,"
Is prepared solely by LEA & PERRINS.
The public are respectfully cautioned against worthless imitations, and should see that LEA & PERRINS' Names are on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.
ASK FOR LEA AND PERRINS' SAUCE.
 Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL; Messrs. BARCLAY & SONS, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

Glenfield Patent Starch.

MESSRS. WOTHERSPOON AND CO. have been appointed STARCH PURVEYORS to H. R. H. the PRINCESS of WALES. This Starch is used in the Royal Laundry and was awarded a Prize Medal. Sold by all Grocers, Chandlers, &c.
WOTHERSPOON & Co., Glasgow and London.

PARAWAX CANDLES, Three to the Pound.—These Candles, manufactured by PRICE's Patent Candle Company expressly for dinner-table chandeliers, recommend themselves by their beauty of appearance and brilliancy of light. Price 1*s.* 8*d.* per lb.
Can be had of all Chandlers and Grocers.

PRICE'S CHILD'S NIGHT LIGHTS are perfectly safe, and burn their time. The quality of these night lights can now be relied on.

SHERWOOD BED LIGHTS, Sixpence and Eighteenpence a box.—These candles are made to supply a want very generally expressed, a cheap, really good chamber candle. They will be found inferior only to "PRICE'S CANDLES, WHICH WILL NOT DROP GREASE WHEN CARRIED," which are sold in boxes, 1*s.* and 3*s.* each.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to Price's." Most medical men prescribe "PRICE'S GLYCERINE." Where purity is of importance patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8 oz., 4 oz., or 2 oz. bottles, with capsule over the stopper marked "Price's Patent."
Belmont, Vauxhall.

CORNS and BUNIONS.—A gentleman, many years tormented with Corns, will be happy to afford others the information by which he obtained their entire removal in a short period, without pain or any kind of inconvenience.
Forward address, on a stamped envelope, to W. GOODALL, Esq., Epsom, Surrey, S.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by DU BARRY's health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few.—Cure, No. 46,270. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of 30 years' diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure, No. 47,121. Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure, No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins 1 lb., 2*s.* 9*d.*; 2 lb., 4*s.* 6*d.*; 5 lb., 11*s.*; 12 lb., 22*s.*; 24 lb., 40*s.*
BARRY DU BARRY & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS. —PRIZE MEDAL awarded to THRESHER & GLENNY for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.
Lists of Prices on application to THRESHER & GLENNY, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

FENDERS, STOVES, FIRE-IRONS, and CHIMNEY PIECES.—Buyers of the above are requested, before finally deciding, to visit WILLIAM S. BURTON'S SHOW-ROOMS. They contain such an assortment of FENDERS, STOVES, RANGES, CHIMNEY-PIECES, FIRE-IRONS, and GENERAL IRONMONGERY as cannot be approached elsewhere, either for variety, novelty, beauty of design, or exquisiteness of workmanship. Bright Stoves, with ormolu ornaments, 3*l.* 15*s.* to 33*l.* 10*s.*; Bronzed Fenders, with standards, 7*s.* to 5*l.* 12*s.*; Steel Fenders, 3*l.* 3*s.* to 11*l.*; ditto, with rich ormolu ornaments, from 3*l.* 3*s.* to 18*l.*; Chimney-pieces, from 1*l.* 8*s.* to 100*l.*; Fire Irons, from 2*s.* 3*d.* the set to 4*l.* 4*s.* The BURTON and all other PATENT STOVES, with radiating hearth-plates.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post paid. It contains upwards of 500 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-Plate, Nickel Silver and Britannia Metal Goods, Dish-Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimney-pieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers, Tea-Trays, Urns and Kettles, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed Room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with Lists of Prices, and Plans of the 20 large Show Rooms, at 39 Oxford Street, W.; 1, 1A, 2, 3, and 4, Newman Street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's Place; and 1 Newman Yard, London.

Notice to Purchasers of Bulbs.

SUTTON'S AUTUMN CATALOGUE, containing Descriptive List of the best varieties of HYACINTHS, GLADIOLI, ANEMONES, CROCUSES, and other Bulbous Roots, with Instructions on Cultivation, is now ready, and may be had gratis and post free on application.
N.B. Those of Messrs. SUTTON's Customers who do not receive it in the course of a few days are respectfully requested to communicate with them.
Royal Berkshire Seed Establishment, Reading.

DOBSON'S UNEQUALLED CALCEOLARIAS.—A splendid Coloured Plate of Thirteen Varieties, by ANDREWS, will be forwarded post free for 30 stamps.
J. DOBSON & SONS, Woodlands Nursery, Isleworth, W.

CHEAPER EDITION OF
Loudon's Cottage, Farm, and Villa Architecture.
This day is published, in One large Volume, 8vo, with more than 2000 Woodcuts, price 42*s.* cloth,
LOUDON'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA of COTTAGE, FARM, and VILLA ARCHITECTURE and FURNITURE. Edited by Mrs. LOUDON.
London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

122, FLEET STREET, LONDON.
New Forthcoming Works.
MESSRS. JOHN MAXWELL AND CO. beg to announce for immediate publication the undermentioned Volumes, which will be issued during the month of September.

I.
NEW SPORTING NOVEL.
In Three Vols., post 8vo, price 31*s.* 6*d.*,
SACKVILLE CHASE.
By C. J. COLLINS. [Immediately.

II.
NEW INDIAN STORY.
In Two Vols., post 8vo, price 21*s.* 6*d.*,
STRONGHAND; or, the NOBLE REVENGE.
By GUSTAVE AIMARD. [Just out.

III.
NEW BOOK OF ESSAYS.
In One Vol., post 8vo, price 10*s.* 6*d.*,
BREAKFAST in BED.
By GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA. [Just out.

IV.
NEW CLERICAL NOVEL.
In One Vol., post 8vo, price 10*s.* 6*d.*,
THE REV. ALFRED HOBLUSH and his CURACIES.
By the Author of "Roman Candles," "The Night Mail," &c. [Just out.

V.
ROMANCE OF MERCANTILE LIFE.
In One Vol., post 8vo, 10*s.* 6*d.*,
SECRETS of MY OFFICE.
By A BILL BROKER. [In a few days

VI.
In One Vol., post 8vo, 10*s.* 6*d.*,
THE CROSS of HONOUR. By the Author of "Small House in Piccadilly," "Philip Morton," &c.
[On Sept. 30.

London: JOHN MAXWELL & Co., 122, Fleet Street, E.C.

OLD MOORE'S ALMANACK for the Year 1864, now ready, with Splendid Engravings, representing with great accuracy Hunting and Shooting Scenes in Europe, Asia, Africa, America, and Australia. Also, a fine Hieroglyphic Illustration, revealing events of the year 1864.
London: T. ROBERTS & Co., 8, Crane Court, Fleet Street, E.C.; and sold by all Booksellers and Newsmen. Three copies sent free by post on receipt of 4*d.*

ZADKIEL'S ALMANAC for 1864. Price 6*d.*—Fiftieth Thousand. Contains a full Report of the Action for Libel, and Verdict gained by the Editor. Stinging reply to the Critics of the Press. Letters from H.R.H. the late Prince Consort to Zadkiel!
London: G. BERGER, Holywell Street, Strand, London.

7th Edition, 10th Thousand, price 2*s.* 6*d.*, post free, 32 stamps.
DISEASES of the SKIN; a Guide to their Treatment and Prevention. Illustrated by Cases. By THOS. HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square.
"Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.
London: T. RICHARDS, 37, Great Queen Street, W.C.

MINERALOGY.—KING'S COLLEGE, London. Professor TENNANT, F.G.S., will COMMENCE a COURSE of LECTURES on MINERALOGY, with a view to facilitate the study of GEOLOGY, and of the application of Mineral Substances in the Arts. The Lectures will begin on FRIDAY, October 2, at 9 A.M. They will be continued on each succeeding WEDNESDAY and FRIDAY, at the same hour; Fee, 2l. 2s.

R. W. JELF, D.D., Principal.

ROYAL SCHOOL of MINES.

Director.

Sir RODERICK IMPEY MURCHISON, K.C.B., F.R.S., &c.

During the SESSION 1863-64, which will COMMENCE on OCTOBER 5, the following COURSES of LECTURES and PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS will be given:—

1. CHEMISTRY. By A. W. HOFMANN, LL.D., F.R.S., &c.
2. METALLURGY. By JOHN PERCY, M.A., F.R.S.
3. NATURAL HISTORY. By T. H. HUXLEY, F.R.S.
4. MINERALOGY. } By WARINGTON W. SMYTH, M.A., F.R.S.
5. MINING. }
6. GEOLOGY. By
7. APPLIED MECHANICS. By ROBERT WILLIS, M.A., F.R.S.
8. PHYSICS. By JOHN TYNDALL, F.R.S.

Instruction in Mechanical Drawing, by Rev. J. HAYTHORNE EDGAR, M.A.

The Fee for Students desirous of becoming Associates is 30l. in one sum on entrance, or two annual payments of 20l., exclusive of the Laboratories.

Pupils are received in the Royal College of Chemistry (the Laboratory of the School), under the direction of Dr. Hofmann, and in the Metallurgical Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. Percy.

Tickets to separate Course of Lectures are issued at 3l. and 4l. each.

Officers in the Queen's Service, Her Majesty's Consuls, acting Mining Agents and Managers, may obtain tickets at reduced prices.

Certificated Schoolmasters, Pupil Teachers, and others engaged in education, are also admitted to the Lectures at reduced fees.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has granted two Scholarships, and several others have also been established.

For a Prospectus and information, apply at the Museum of Practical Geology, Jermyn Street, London, S.W.

TRENHAM REEKS, Registrar.

LIVERPOOL and LONDON FIRE and LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

At the ANNUAL MEETING of the Proprietors in this Company, held on THURSDAY, February 25, 1863.

JAMES ASPINALL TOBIN, Esq., in the Chair.

The Report of the Directors for the year 1862 was read: it showed:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| That the Fire Premiums of the year were .. | £436,965 | 0 | 0 |
| Against those in 1861, which were .. .. | 360,131 | 0 | 0 |
| Giving an increase in 1862 of .. .. .. | £75,934 | 0 | 0 |
| That the new Life business comprised the issue of 785 Policies, insuring .. .. | 467,334 | 0 | 0 |
| On which the annual premium is .. .. | 13,935 | 7 | 11 |
| That 69 new Annuity Bonds have been granted, securing annual payments of .. .. | 39,446 | 17 | 11 |
| And that the aggregate of the annuities now payable is .. .. .. .. .. | 23,684 | 1 | 3 |
| That there has been added to the life reserve the sum of .. .. .. .. .. | 79,277 | 11 | 4 |
| That the balance of undivided profit was increased by the sum of .. .. .. | 25,725 | 9 | 7 |
| That the invested funds of the Company amounted to .. .. .. .. .. | 1,417,808 | 8 | 4 |

In reference to the very large increase of 76,000l. in the Fire premiums of the year, it was remarked in the Report, "The Premiums paid to a company are the measure of that company's business of all kinds, and whence derived; the Directors therefore prefer that test of progress to any the duty collected may afford, as that applies to only a part of a company's business, and a large share of that part may be, and often is, re-insured with other offices. In this view the yearly addition to the Fire premiums of the Liverpool and London Company must be very gratifying to the proprietors."

SWINTON BOULT, Secretary to the Company.
JOHN ATKINS, Resident Secretary, London.

Agents Wanted.

THE CALEDONIAN INSURANCE COMPANY (Established 1805 by Royal Charter and special Act of Parliament) is prepared to appoint additional AGENTS for either the Fire or Life Departments. Commission liberal.

Applications to be addressed to JAMES MUIR, Esq., Resident Secretary, Caledonian Insurance Office, 39, Lothbury, E.C.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

THE replies of Russia to the notes of France, Austria, and England on the Polish question were delivered to the Foreign Ministers of the respective Governments on Monday. It is said that they are expressed in even more courteous terms than the former notes, and that they put an end to all further negotiations by firmly intimating that the CZAR is prepared to assume the full responsibility of his acts, and that the re-establishment of order in Poland must precede any concessions which the Russian Government may contemplate. They are also said to confirm the recent statement of the Journal de St. Pétersbourg that there is no truth in the report of the intended political reforms, and that the EMPEROR is supported by the unanimous sentiment of the Russian people in declining to accept the remonstrances of the three Powers.

The announcement that the French Ambassador at St. Petersburg has obtained leave of absence for two months, has produced an unfavourable impression in Paris, and is looked upon as the forerunner of a diplomatic rupture between Russia and France. The Moniteur of Wednesday contained an article stating that the steamer Florida, now undergoing repairs at Brest, is not a privateer, but a vessel of the Confederate Navy. The officers, it says, hold regular commissions, and the ship has every character of an ordinary ship of war. This announcement has, of course put an end to all question of attachment or embargo, and at the same time has created a great sensation among the Northerners and their friends, as affording additional evidence of the good understanding between France and the Confederates.

A despatch from Vienna states that Austria has made a positive declaration to France, Russia, and England, that the question of the Danish Duchies must be settled, and that Federal execution, in the shape of the military occupation of Holstein, will become indispensable, if Denmark should persist in her refusal to accede to the conditions demanded by the German Diet.

Accounts from New York to the 3d inst. state that Fort Sumter had not then surrendered, and that General BEAUREGARD had mounted two new guns on its ruins, and determined to hold it by means of temporary fortifications. A general engagement between the iron-clads and Forts Sumter, Wagner, and Moultrie, took place on the 1st. The forts were much damaged, but the Federal iron-clads were ultimately obliged to withdraw. From the Rappahannock it is rumoured that General LEE is making a movement to flank General MEADE, and that General STUART has crossed into Maryland for another raid. In the South-west General ROSENCRANZ and General BURNSIDE are advancing in great force on Chattanooga from different points. The former has succeeded in passing a portion of his army over the Tennessee river almost without resistance, and before throwing his whole army across the river is endeavouring to destroy the Georgia railroad, and thereby intercept General BRAGG's line of communication. It is reported that an attack on Mobile by three Federal corps, under General BANKS, supported by the fleet of Admiral FARRAGUT, will be made shortly. A good deal of fighting has taken place in the neighbourhood of Vicksburg and in Arkansas without any great advantage on either side. President LINCOLN has addressed a letter to the New York Republican State Convention, stating that he does not think a compromise embracing the maintenance of the Union is now possible. The draft has been suspended in Ohio.

Advices from Japan have been received at New York, stating that the Japanese having fired into a British and an American ship, an English and American steamer proceeded to the scene of the outrage, destroyed the town forts, and spiked the guns. A French vessel was subsequently fired upon by the Japanese forts, whereupon several detachments immediately disembarked and routed a body of Japanese assembled on the shore.

Home News.

DEPARTURE OF THE COURT FOR SCOTLAND.—The Queen, accompanied by Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice, left Windsor for Balmoral at a quarter before 7 o'clock on Monday evening, travelling by the Great Western and North-Western Railways. The Royal party arrived at Perth on Tuesday morning at 8.40, and had breakfast in the Board-room of the Directors of the Scottish Central Railway. At half-past 9 o'clock the Queen, attended by part of the suite, left Perth for Blair Athole, to pay a visit to the Duke of Athole, who has for some weeks been in declining health. During the Queen's presence at Blair Athole, the Princess Louisa, and Princes Arthur and Leopold paid a visit to the Earl of Mansfield at Scone Palace, and joined her Majesty at Stanley Junction, on her return from Blair Castle. The last time her Majesty was at Blair was in October, 1861, in company with the Prince Consort, and was the last visit they paid together. The Duke and Duchess of Athole accompanied the Queen from the Castle to the railway station. The Royal train reached Aberdeen at 3.13, and her Majesty arrived at Balmoral at a quarter past 6.

THE QUEEN AT WINDSOR.—On Friday morning the Queen drove in the grounds. On Saturday the Queen drove in the grounds, accompanied by the Princess Helena. In the afternoon her Majesty held a Privy Council. The Hon. H. Elliot was presented to her Majesty at an audience. Sir Andrew Buchanan had an audience of her Majesty. Earl Granville and Lord Palmerston had audiences of the Queen. On Sunday morning the Queen, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince Arthur, and Prince Leopold, attended Divine service in the private chapel. The Rev. J. Ellison preached the sermon. Count Gleichen visited the Queen.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES will prolong their residence at Abergeldie till the close of the week after next, and will then go to Sandringham, Norfolk, for a few weeks.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS LOUIS OF HESSE and the Princess Victoria arrived at Buckingham Palace on Tuesday morning from Dover, and left town at 8 o'clock in the evening to join her Majesty at Balmoral.

DIPLOMATIC APPOINTMENT.—The Queen has appointed the Hon. Henry George Elliot to be her Majesty's Minister to the King of Italy.

PARLIAMENTARY MOVEMENTS.—At the Privy Council on Saturday, Parliament was ordered to be further prorogued from the 14th of October, to Tuesday, the 1st of December. The Hon. Henry Cowper, eldest son of Earl Cowper, and Mr. John Peel of Middleton Hall, are candidates for Tamworth, vacant by the accession of Lord Raynham to the peerage, the former in the Ministerial, the latter in the Conservative interest. The Hon. Frederick Lygon, M.P. for Tewkesbury, is about to vacate his seat and become a candidate for West Worcestershire, in the room of his brother, Viscount Elmley, now Earl Beauchamp. Mr. Edward Logan will become a candidate for the seat thus vacated at Tewkesbury.

THE SEE OF GIBRALTAR.—The Royal Warrant appointing the Right Rev. Dr. Trower, formerly Bishop of the Scottish Episcopal Church at Glasgow, to the see at Gibraltar, has passed the Privy Seal and is now at the Crown Office, from whence in a few days the letters patent under the Great Seal will issue. The Bishop will then, it is believed, only have to take some formal oaths before the Archbishop of Canterbury before proceeding to the Mediterranean to enter upon his duties.

THANKSGIVING FOR HARVEST.—The Archbishop of Canterbury has addressed a letter to the clergy of his diocese requesting them to set apart an early day for a harvest thanksgiving. He recommends them to have an offertory, and to devote the proceeds as a thank-offering to the Church Building Society. The Bishop of Winchester has addressed a letter to the Archdeacons of Surrey and Winchester, requesting them to appoint a day for a similar thanksgiving, and recommending that the alms collected in the archdeaconry of Surrey be given to the new hospital at Guildford, and those collected in the archdeaconry of Winchester be given to the fund for rebuilding the Hampshire County Hospital. The Bishop of Exeter has addressed a similar letter to his archdeacons.

THE POLISH QUESTION.—The London Gazette of Tuesday contained the following despatch addressed by Earl Russell to Lord Napier, her Majesty's Ambassador at St. Petersburg:—

"Foreign Office, Aug. 11, 1863.

"My Lord,—On the 18th of last month Baron Brunnow communicated to me a despatch which he had received the evening before from Prince Gortschakoff. This despatch, of which I enclose a copy, is far from being a satisfactory answer to the representation which, in concert with France and Austria, her Majesty's Government addressed to the Cabinet of St. Petersburg. The despatch begins, indeed, by stating that 'the Imperial Cabinet admits the principle that every Power signing a treaty has a right to interpret its sense from its own point of view, provided that the interpretation remains within the limits of the meaning that it is possible to put upon it according to the text itself.' Prince Gortschakoff adds, 'In virtue of this principle the Imperial Cabinet does not dispute this right on the part of any one of the eight Powers which have concurred in the General Act of Vienna of 1815.' Prince Gortschakoff, however, departing widely from the question of the interpretation of the Treaty of Vienna, proceeds to ascribe the continuance of the insurrection in Poland to the moral and material assistance which it receives from without; admits vaguely the six points; rejects the proposed suspension of hostilities; refuses to accept a Conference of the eight Powers who signed the treaty; and finally declares that the re-establishment of order must precede the serious application of any measures destined for the pacification of Poland. Her Majesty's Government will now proceed to examine calmly the principal topics of Prince Gortschakoff's reply to the considerations brought before him in my despatch. Prince Gortschakoff, while he admits that confidence on the part of the governed, and the ascendancy of law over arbitrary power, must be the foundation of order and stability, adds that the indispensable corollary to these principles is respect for authority. But the Russian Cabinet cannot be ignorant that clemency and conciliation are often more effective in establishing respect for authority than material force. It would be a lamentable error to seek to restore that respect by force of arms alone, without the addition of some adequate security for the political and religious rights of the subjects of the King of Poland. Such security the proposals of the three Powers held out to Russia and to Poland alike. It has pleased the Cabinet of St. Petersburg not to avail itself of this mode of restoring respect for authority. 2 Prince Gortschakoff affirms—and this view is the theme of the beginning and end of his despatch—that the re-establishment of order in Poland is dependent upon a condition to which he had called the attention of the Government of her Britannic Majesty, 'and which is not only not fulfilled, but is not even alluded to in the despatch of Lord Russell; we refer to the material assistance and moral encouragement [illegible] from abroad by the insurgents.' Her Majesty's Government would have been glad to have avoided this topic, and, instead of commenting on the past, to refer only to [illegible] for the future. But thus compelled by Prince Gortschakoff's reference to allude to the subject, her Majesty's Government have no hesitation in declaring their conviction, that the principal obstacle to the re-establishment of order in Poland is not the assistance obtained by the insurgents from abroad, but the conduct of the Russian Government itself. The Empress Catherine, in 1772, promised to the Poles the maintenance of their religion. The Emperor Alexander I., in 1815, promised to the Poles national representation and national administration. These promises have not been fulfilled. During many years the religion of the Poles was attacked, and to the present hour they are not in possession of the political rights assured to them by the treaty of 1815, and the Constitution of the same year. The violation of these solemn engagements on the part of the Russian Government produced disaffection, and the sudden invasion of the homes of Warsaw, in a night of January last, was the immediate cause of the present insurrection. Unless the general feeling in Poland had been estranged from Russia, the moral and material assistance afforded from abroad would have availed the insurgents little. It is true, however, that lively sympathy has been excited in Europe in favour of the Poles. In every considerable State where there exists a national representation—in England, in France, in Austria, in Prussia, in Italy, in Spain, in Portugal, in Sweden, in Denmark —that sympathy has been manifested. Wherever there is a National Administration the Administration has shared, though with prudence and reserve in expression, the feelings of the Legislature and nation. Russia ought to take into account these sympathies, and profit by the lesson which they teach. 3. Prince Gortschakoff lays much stress on the fact, which cannot be denied, that 'the insurgents demand neither an amnesty nor an autonomy, nor a representation more or less complete.' But it would be a mistake to suppose that in cases of this kind there are only two parties—viz., the Government occupied in suppressing the insurrection, and the leaders of the insurgents busy in fomenting and extending it. Besides these parties there is always in such cases a large floating mass who would be quite contented to see persons and property secure under a just and beneficent Administration. The confidence of this great mass has not been obtained, and their continued inaction can hardly be depended upon. Her Majesty's Government must again represent the extreme urgency of attempting at once the work of conciliation, which is so necessary for the general interest. In profiting by the loyal and disinterested assistance which is offered her by Austria, France, and Great Britain, the Court of Russia secures to herself the most powerful means towards making ideas of moderation prevail in Poland, and thus laying the foundations of permanent peace. 4. In referring to the Treaty of Vienna, Prince Gortschakoff says, that 'we should not be far from the truth if we affirmed that the first article of the Treaty of Vienna was prepared by and directly emanated from his Majesty the Emperor Alexander I.' Her Majesty's Government readily admit the probability of this supposition. In 1815 Great Britain, Austria, France, and Prussia would have preferred to the arrangement finally made a restoration of the ancient Kingdom of Poland as it existed prior to the first partition of 1772, or even the establishment of a new independent Kingdom of Poland with the same limits as the present Kingdom. The great army which the Emperor Alexander then had in Poland, the important services which Russia had rendered to the alliance, and, above all, a fear of the renewal of war in Europe, combined to make Great Britain, Austria, and Prussia accept the arrangement proposed by the Emperor Alexander, although it was, in their eyes, of the three arrangements in contemplation, the one least likely to produce permanent peace and security in Europe. But the more her Majesty's Government see in the decision adopted the prevailing influence of Russia, the more they are impressed with the conviction that the Emperor of Russia ought to be, of all Sovereigns, the most desirous to observe the conditions of that arrangement. It would not be open to Russia to enjoy all the benefits of a large addition to her dominions, and to repudiate the terms of the instrument upon which her tenure depends. In stating these terms Prince Gortschakoff says that the only stipulation which can have made it appear doubtful that the Emperor of Russia possessed the Kingdom of Poland by the same title as that by which he holds his other possessions—the only one which could make his rights dependent upon any condition whatever—is contained in two passages, which he proceeds to quote. But there is another passage which he does not quote. It is found in the beginning of the 1st Article, and says:—'The duchy of Warsaw, with the exception of the provinces and districts which are otherwise disposed of by the following articles, is united to the Russian Empire, to which it shall be irrevocably attached by its constitution, and be possessed by his Majesty the Emperor of All the Russias, his heirs and successors in perpetuity.' Were not a national representation intended by this Article it would have been sufficient to say, 'to which it shall be irrevocably attached,' without any mention of a constitution. It is, therefore, evident that the constitution is the link by which Poland was connected with Russia. It is important to know what this constitution was which united Poland and Russia. It was not prescribed by the treaty; it was not promulgated by the European Powers; its construction was left entirely to the Emperor Alexander; but, nevertheless, when once promulgated, it must be taken to be the constitution meant by the framers of the Treaty of Vienna. It was for this reason that her Majesty's Government proposed as the second of the six points laid before the Government of Russia, 'national representation with powers similar to those which are fixed by the Charter of the 15th (27th) November, 1815.' 5. Passing to the specific propositions of her Majesty's Government, Prince Gortschakoff says, in regard to the six points, that the greater part of the measures which were pointed out by the three Powers 'have already been decreed or prepared on the initiative of our august master.' Towards the end of the despatch an allusion is made to 'the measures which his Majesty adheres to, both in the germs already laid down, and in the development of them which he has allowed to be foreseen.' The passage, though far from a definite assurance either of a national representation with efficacious means of control, or of a national administration, gives some hope that the Emperor Alexander will ultimately listen to the inspirations of his own benevolent disposition and to the counsels of Europe. The proposal of a suspension of hostilities is rejected 'in justice to the Emperor's faithful army, to the peaceable majority of Poles, and to Russia, on whom these agitations impose painful sacrifices.' The proposal of a conference of the Powers who signed the Treaty of Vienna is rejected, and with it the prospect of an immediate and friendly concert. In the place of this fair and equitable proposal the Russian Cabinet suggests that the three Powers who proposed the separate treaties between Austria and Russia, and Prussia and Russia, previously to the general Treaty of Vienna, should meet together, and that France and Great Britain should be afterwards informed of the result of their deliberations. There are two reasons, either of which would be sufficient to condemn this suggestion:—1. The treaties in question, taken apart from the provisions inserted in the general Treaty of Vienna, have reference only to material objects,—the use of the banks of rivers, the regulations for towing paths, the free passage of merchandise from one province to another, and such other matters of convenience and of commerce. No political developments or details are contained in them. 2. It is obvious that such a conference would place Austria in a false position, and be inconsistent with her relations to France and Great Britain. His Majesty the Emperor of Austria, therefore, with a proper sense of his own dignity, has at once rejected the Russian proposal. In communicating their views to Prince Gortschakoff, it remains for her Majesty's Government to discharge an imperative duty. It is to call his Excellency's most serious attention to the gravity of the situation, and the responsibility which it imposes upon Russia. Great Britain, Austria, and France have pointed out the urgent necessity of putting an end to a deplorable state of things which is full of danger to Europe. They have at the same time indicated the means which, in their opinion, ought to be employed to arrive at this termination, and they have offered their co-operation in order to attain it with more certainty. If Russia does not perform all that depends upon her to further the moderate and conciliatiry views of the three Powers—if she does not enter upon the path which is opened to her by friendly counsels, she makes herself responsible for the serious consequences which the prolongation of the troubles of Poland may produce.—

"I am, &c., "RUSSELL."

THE CHANNEL FLEET arrived in Belfast Lough on Thursday week. It remained there until Sunday, and arrived at Liverpool on Monday afternoon.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—Baron de Budberg handed to M. Drouyn de Lhuys on Monday the Russian reply to the last French Note. It is said to be conceived in even more courteous terms than the previous ones, and to express sentiments favourable to the good relations existing between France and Russia; but it concludes in a manner which precludes any anticipation of an early resumption of the discussion between Russia and the three Powers, and is accompanied by a long memorandum replying to the document which accompanied the last French despatch. The Nord says:—

"This memorandum treats the question exclusively in an international point of view. It gives an historical sketch from the Congress of Vienna, and thoroughly examines how far Russia is bound by those treaties, and dwells at considerable length on the Congress itself. It endeavours to prove that the separate government already decreed for the Kingdom of Poland, and the application of which has not been suspended but obstructed by the revolution, satisfies the obligations contracted by Russia towards Europe, though a provincial elective representation does not constitute the limit of the Russian programme. As regards the despatch, it maintains the point of view which Russia has always advanced—that of the necessity of a lasting pacification as the condition of more extensive reforms. If the Russian Government does not again enter into a long discussion, it is simply from a desire not to envenom the debate. As regards the six points, Russia declares that she has agreed to them, and will do everything in her power to resolve a question which is a source of misunderstanding between the Cabinets."

The Nation says:—

"The reply of Russia avoids reverting to a discussion of the six points, in consideration of the harmony of the Cabinets on that subject. Nor does the reply refer to the question of the armistice or the Conference. Prince Gortschakoff confines himself to discussing the expediency of applying the measures claimed on behalf of Poland by the three Powers. The tone of the despatch is very conciliatory. Baron de Budberg has also received a long memorandum on the internal organisation of the Russian empire, which will be officially communicated to M. Drouyn de Lhuys."

A report is current that the Prince Imperial is to be proclaimed King of Algeria, Marshal Pelissier to be the Viceroy. Count de Persigny has been created a Duke, in testimony of regard for the services he has rendered to the State, and for his personal devotion to the Emperor. The Annamite Ambassadors have arrived in Paris and commenced their ceremonial visits; they will then visit the monuments and public buildings. The Emperor will receive them at Compiègne at a solemn audience in the early part of October. The Moniteur of Wednesday says:—

"The steamer Florida is not a privateer, as was believed. She forms part of the military marine of the Confederate States, and her officers are furnished with regular commissions. The Florida has all the character of an ordinary vessel of war."

La France states that the result of this note in the Moniteur is to give greater prominence to the belligerent quality acquired by the Confederate Government, and to allow the Florida to profit by all the rights and all the advantages enjoyed by neutrals in French ports. It adds:—

"The quality of a vessel of war gives certain particular rights. Such vessels cannot be seized, If persons having suffered loss claim indemnity, such claim can only be made by one Government to the other."

The Nation believes itself able to state that the English Cabinet, fearing that France may take possession of Mexico, is strongly endeavouring to persuade the Emperor of Austria to consent to the acceptance of the Mexican throne by the Archduke Maximilian. It also says that a Mexican loan is to be effected in London as soon as the Archduke Maximilian has been officially proclaimed Emperor; and that 8000 Irishmen will be enrolled for service in the new Empire. Alfred de Vigny, the well-known author and member of the Academy, is dead.

SPAIN.—Marshal O'Donnell and Sir John Crampton, the English Ambassador, have arrived at Madrid. The Washington Cabinet has demanded that the distance to which Spanish jurisdiction extends around the island of Cuba shall be reduced to three miles. It is asserted that the Government is little disposed to make this concession. It is asserted that if the Emperor of Morocco refuses to make the reparation demanded by Spain, the Government will send 10,000 men to Melilla under the command of the Marquis Novaliches. Several Progressistas have protested against the policy of abstaining from voting. It is stated that the Government will take no steps relative to Mexico before the acceptance of the throne by the Archduke Maximilian.

PORTUGAL.—The accouchement of the Queen of Portugal is daily expected. Great preparations are making for national rejoicings on the occasion. The railway to Evora has been successfully opened under the auspices of the Duke de Loulé.

DENMARK.—The King of Greece took his departure from Copenhagen on Thursday in great state. All the Ministers of State, the foreign Ministers, municipal authorities, and civil and military functionaries were present at the embarcation. Immense crowds of people cheered the young King; the streets were decorated with Greek and Danish flags; the military were paraded upon the line of route, and a Royal salute was fired from the fortress. The Chief President of the city of Copenhagen and the Minister of Marine addressed farewell speeches to King George, to which his Majesty replied, expressing his best wishes for the welfare and prosperity of Denmark. The King in the first place proceeds in a Danish man-of-war for Stettin, whence he will travel by railway to St. Petersburg, on a visit to the Emperor of Russia, who is on his way from Finland to meet him. On the 23d inst. King George will visit his maternal grandfather, the Landgraf Wilhelm of Hesse Cassel, at Rumpenheim, and will then go to Brussels, London, and Paris. He will probably embark at Toulon for Greece on the 21st or 22d of October. On Saturday the King signed the agreement relating to the succession to the Danish throne. By this document King George renounces his right of succession in favour of his younger brother and his heirs. King George himself and his own line thus become last in order of succession to the Danish crown.

SWITZERLAND.—The negotiations between Switzerland and France for the conclusion of a Treaty of Commerce will be resumed in October, as some questions, especially that relative to the free districts on the frontier of Savoy, have yet to be settled.

THE DANISH DUCHIES.—It is reported at Frankfort that Austria has made a positive declaration as regards Federal execution in Holstein to all the great Powers —to France, Russia, and England, especially to the latter—that the Dano-German question must be settled, and the Federal execution has become indispensable if Denmark should persist in her resistance, no matter what the consequences may be. Austria has also declared in a straightforward manner that it rests with the Copenhagen Cabinet to prevent armed intervention; that Denmark, not Germany, must give in. It is reported at Vienna that Earl Russell, at the request of Denmark, is endeavouring to bring about a simultaneous offer of mediation on the part of France and England. According to reliable information the Lower House of the Schleswig Diet has declined to elect delegates to the Danish Reichsrath.

FRANKFORT.—The Europe announces the departure of the Danish Minister on leave of absence, and regrets its coincidence with the decision of the Diet to carry out Federal execution in Holstein.

PRUSSIA.—The business of the Statistical Congress was concluded on Saturday. The next meeting will be held, it is said, either at Berne, Turin, or St. Petersburg.

AUSTRIA.—The reply of Prince Gortschakoff to the Austrian Note on the Polish question is brief, and announces that a more detailed memorandum will follow. It considers the six points to have been settled by the previous declaration of Russia. It gratefully acknowledges the pacific sentiments displayed in the Austrian Note, and shares Austria's wishes for the welfare of Poland. It regrets, however, that the expectations based on the diplomatic discussions and their results had not been fulfilled, and that the differences of opinion had not been removed. It thinks, therefore, that a further prolongation of these discussions appears superfluous. It finally states that Russia assumes the full responsibility of her acts. The semi-official General Correspondenz of Saturday denies the statement of the Europe that Prince Metternich had assured the French Government that Austria would unconditionally ally herself with France in the Polish question, even to the extent of war with Russia. The Grand Duke Constantine has met with a most distinguished reception from the public authorities of Vienna. It is semi-officially stated that this is to be considered merely as a courtesy extended to the Grand Duke personally, having no connection with the foreign policy of the Government.

RUSSIA.—The replies to the Notes of the Western Powers were despatched on the morning of the 10th inst. The Emperor Alexander will embark at Odessa for the Crimea, and will visit Theodosia, Kertch, Simferopol, Baktchiserai, and Nicolaieff successively. His Majesty is expected to return to St. Petersburg towards the 15th of November.

POLAND.—The Wilna Courier publishes a rescript of the Czar, expressing his thanks to General Mouravieff. A leading article of the Czas of Wednesday demands the recognition of Poland as a belligerent, declaring it would otherwise appear that the Powers approve the present condition of the conflict and the barbarous measures that are being taken. It says:—

"This recognition would only be the logical consequence of the armistice accepted by Poland and rejected by Russia. It would not cost a man nor a shilling, it would put an end to all conspiracy, secure Poland and Europe from revolutionary designs, and preserve the dignity of the Great Powers while it protected the interests of Poland."

The gates of Warsaw have been closed for 10 days to any person entering or going out, and the Russian authorities have imposed enormous taxes upon the ancient provinces of Poland. On Tuesday the Russian Government in Warsaw began to apply compulsory measures towards tradespeople who had not paid their taxes. The places of business of all such persons were closed by the police. The taxes in question were then paid. Makowieski has been shot, by order of General

Mouravieff, at Lukiszki; Raczkowski, Waszkiewicz, and Wroblewski, have been shot at Kowno, by order of his son, who has sentenced 30 more persons to death. Bienkowski and two of his companions, John Marczewski and Edward Czaplinski have been hung for the murder of Domijko. Joseph Kaminski has been hung for the murder of Skowrouski, although Skowrouski himself declared that he was innocent. General Mouravieff has had a peasant named Zybert hanged at Popielo. Zeglinski, who was condemned by the military tribunal to six years' exile in Siberia, has had his sentence altered by the Grand Duke Constantine to that of death. Count Ostrowski, son of the Minister of the Interior, has been arrested, and condemned to transportation to Siberia. Upwards of 80 political prisoners, including two ladies—Mrs. Bondzynska and her daughter—were sent from Wilna to Siberia on the 29th ult. The marshal of the nobility of the district of Groki, M. Jelenski, and M. Konoplauski, a high dignitary at Wilna, have been banished for refusing to sign an address of loyalty to the Czar. Engagements resulting in favour of the insurgents took place on the 3d inst, at Zambraw, in the government of Augustowo; on the 4th at Zelechow, in Podolia; and on the 8th at Gamow, in the woywodeship of Plock. Intelligence from Podlachia to the 7th inst. states that the insurgent leader Lutyski has surprised the Russians at Chotycz, and defeated them after a three hours' engagement. The arming of insurgent bands continues on the frontier, and an outbreak on the Russian side of the frontier is expected.

ITALY.—The King will review 51 battéries of artillery on the 21st inst., on the plain of Somma, after the other reviews have taken place at Milan. Several foreign officers have arrived in Lombardy to witness the manœuvres. The King will also hold a naval review before the commencement of November. The Italian squadron of evolution is about to leave for Lisbon with the Princes Amedée and Carignan on board. The report of a project for the marriage of Prince Humbert with a Portuguese Princess, is said to be unfounded. The rumour that the Italian Minister had issued a large quantity of Treasury bonds is also contradicted. In consequence of the reprisals adopted by the Papal Government towards the Italian Consul at Rome, the Italian Government has withdrawn the exequatur from all the Papal Consuls resident in the cities of Italy. The Turin papers publish a proclamation in favour of Italian unity, circulated in Rome by the Garibaldian Committee, and signed "Garibaldi." Despatches from Melfi, Potenza, and Caserta announce the surrender of numerous brigands with their chiefs. Much rejoicing prevailed among the people on this account. A Papal Bull has been published, creating several benevolent establishments at Sinigallia, the Pope's birthplace, and assigning them a revenue out of the private estates of his Holiness.

GREECE.—Owing to disquieting rumours, the National Guard is still nightly kept under arms. Disturbances have taken place in Messenia.

TURKEY.—It is stated that Turkey will reject the proposed scheme for improving the St. George's Channel of the Danube, as imposing too heavy a charge upon the Ottoman Treasury.

CHINA.—Accounts from Shanghai, of August 4, state that Major Gordon was victorious on the 27th July, and captured Vaking (Nankin?). Burgevine, with 500 vagabonds, has joined the rebels.

JAPAN.—Intelligence from Japan to the 24th of July states that the Japanese had fired into the British ship Medusa and the American ship Pemberton, between Ningaradi and Kanagawa, killing several men. The American steamer Wyoming and the British steamer Lauendale proceeded to the scene of the outrage, destroyed the town forts, and spiked the guns. The British lost three men and the Americans five. A French vessel was afterwards fired upon by the Japanese forts, when several detachments immediately disembarked and routed a body of Japanese assembled on the shore. The Japanese Princes have since been giving trouble. The Semiramis had landed a force at Negate, and engaged and defeated the Japanese troops. 2,000 Japanese were reported to have deserted towards British vessels, but it was thought they would not pass within range of the British guns.

UNITED STATES.—Federal advices from Charleston to the 31st ult. state that the Monitors moved up on the 31st abreast of Moultrie, and attacked that fort. Forts Moultrie, Gregg, and Wagner, and Sullivan's Island Battery replied. On the 1st a general engagement occurred between the ironclads and Forts Sumter, Wagner, and Moultrie. The forts were much damaged, but the Federal iron-clads were ultimately obliged to withdraw. The Confederates had remounted some guns on the ruins of Fort Sumter, repaired the front walls, and protected them by cotton bales chained together. It was reported by deserters that the garrison had been instructed to blow up the fort when they could no longer defend it. General Gilmore had driven the Confederates from the rifle pits on the left of his advance line, capturing 70 prisoners. He had also run a parallel against Fort Wagner. No further bombardment of the city had taken place. Rumours are current that General Lee is making a movement to flank General Meade. There is a considerable Confederate force north of the Rappahannock, belew Fredericksburg. The Confederate cavalry have made demonstrations at various points along the Potomac. It was reported on the 3d that Gen. Stuart had crossed into Maryland for another raid. The capture of the Federal gunboats Satellite and Reliance on the Rappahannock is confirmed. Advices from Cincinnati, Ohio, and Bridgeport, Tennessee, of the 4th inst., report that Gen. Burnside, after an exhausting march of several days through the Cumberland Mountains, had reached Kingston, within 30 miles of Knoxville. It is stated that the whole of eastern Tennessee, with the exception of the Chattanooga region, has been evacuated by the Confederates. General Rosencranz's head-quarters were at Stevenson, Alabama. A portion of his army crossed the Tennessee river on the 30th ult., at four points, with infantry and cavalry, and before taking his whole army across he intended to endeavour to destroy the Georgia railroad and thereby intercept General Bragg's line of communication. The Confederates are reported to be in force at Rome at Cleveland, along the Georgia railroad. The Confederates in the trans-Mississippi department are organising for concerted action. A formidable expedition is about to leave New Orleans for Mobile under Generals Banks, Franklin, Ord, and Herron, Admiral Farragut co-operating with the fleet, to prevent the French operations in Mexico. It is however reported that the expedition is in reality intended for Rio Grande. General Blunt crossed the Arkansas river on the 23d ult. The Confederates were falling back. General Blunt is reported to have fought a battle on the 28th ult., resulting in his defeat, with the loss of 3000 men. General Steele has driven Marmaduke's cavalry out of Brownsville, Arkansas, and scattered them. The report that he has driven General Price across the Arkansas river on the 29th ult. in full retreat, is not considered trustworthy. Senator Jim Lane has made a speech at Leavensworth, Kansas, of a most bloodthirsty character. He believed in a war of extermination of the frontier counties of Missouri. If that could not secure safety for Kansas people, all counties should then be exterminated until they were secure. He wanted to see every foot of ground in three counties burnt and laid waste. He urged the people to meet him on the 8th of September with what arms they could procure. Senator Wilson, in a speech delivered in the State of Maine, said that there were forty-four regiments in New York to help the Government to enforce the draft, and there was not one of them who would not sooner shoot a Copperhead, put a bullet through his brain, than he would shoot a rebel; and this assertion he repeated twice for greater distinctness. The New York Republican State Convention has resolved not to tender peace to men in arms nor to consent to a separation of the Union. The Convention repudiates intervention, promises to support the Government in maintaining the ascendancy of the American continent, and endorses the Emancipation Proclamation. President Lincoln has addressed a letter to the Convention, of which the following is an abstract:

"He does not believe that a compromise embracing the maintenance of the Union is now possible. The strength of the rebellion is in its army, and the offer of terms to men within the range of that army is nothing, such men having no power to enforce a compromise. An effective compromise must be made either with those controlling the rebel army or with the people under its dominion. No intimation from the rebel army or from the men controlling it, in relation to a peace compromise, has ever come to his knowledge or belief. If it does come it should not be rejected or kept secret. The President mentions that he suggested compensated emancipation, but the people objected to taxation to buy negroes. He then continues:—"The Emancipation Proclamation is constitutional. If valid as a law it cannot be retracted; if invalid it needs no retractation. The most that can be said is that slaves are property, and that armies, all the world over, destroy enemies' property when they cannot use it. The war progresses as favourably since the issue of the proclamation as before. Peace does not appear as distant as it did, still let us not be sanguine of a speedy final triumph, but be quite sober, diligently applying our means, never doubting that God will give the rightful result."

The draft has been suspended in Ohio. The New York World asserts that this is done by the Administration to carry the elections. The draft throughout the Eastern and Central States will produce very few men. In New York it is estimated that it will not produce over 2000 men. A case is being tried in the New York Supreme Court to test the constitutionality of the conscription. Mr. F. B. Smith, of Philadelphia, a conscript, has also determined to test the constitutionality of the draft in the Supreme Court of that city. The military authorities have been enjoined not to interfere with Mr. Smith pending the decision of the Court. The elections in Vermont and California have resulted in large Republican majorities. The Missouri State Convention has urged the Government to resist French influence in Mexico. It is said that Mr. R. M. T. Hunter will proceed to Mexico as Confederate representative, to organise an immediate alliance with the South, recognising the Archduke Maximilian, in return for which, it is supposed, Mexico will recognise the South. The steamers Warrior, Alice Vivian, and Crescent, the brig Atlantic, and the British schooners Cadmita and Artist, have been captured. Blockade running between Wilmington and the West India Islands is very active. A large steamer, with 10 guns, entered Wilmington on the 17th ult., being the fourth Confederate war vessel which has run the blockade within six weeks.

CANADA.—Mr. Sicotte's motion of want of confidence in the Ministry has been defeated in the Assembly by a majority of 63 against 60 votes. The New York press is taking advantage of Mr. Seward's visit to Canada to urge the Canadians to join the Federal Union. It says that such a step would insure their exemption for ever from all the horrors of war; save them the enormous expense the mother country is trying to impose upon them in the way of fortifications; give them the boon of absolute free trade with the Federal States; the benefit of Yankee energy and capital to develop their resources; and a share in the "destiny" of the great Yankee nation.

MEXICO.—Advices from Vera Cruz have been received at New York, stating that the French had occupied Minatitlan and Tampico. Mexican advices viâ San Francisco state that the Imperial press continually foreshadows the intention of the triumvirate to recognise the Confederate States as soon as the news of the Archduke Maximilian's acceptance of the Crown shall have reached Mexico.

City Intelligence.

MONEY MARKET, FRIDAY.—BRITISH FUNDS: Consols closed at 93⅜ to ½ for Money, and 93⅝ for Account; Reduced and New Three per Cents., 92 to ⅛; India Stock, 226; Ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 108¼ to ½; Ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 100½; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 107½; Bank Stock, for Acct., 240; Exchequer Bills, par to 3s. pm.—FOREIGN: Brazilian 1852, '58, '60, 94¾ to ¼; Buenos Ayres One per Cents., 38; Chilian Four and a Half per Cents., 87; Equador New Consolidated, 16⅜; Ditto Provisional Land Warrants, 9; Egyptian, second issue, 101½, ex div.; Greek, for Acct., 37⅞ to 38⅜; Ditto Coupons, for Acct., 18⅜; Italian, for Acct., 73 to ⅛; Ditto Maremmana Railway, 81; Mexican, for Acct., 45½ to 45⅝; New Granada, 16¾ to 17; Ditto Two per Cents., 33; Ditto Deferred, 10; Ditto Land Warrants (Hectares), 7¾; Portuguese, 1856, '57, 59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., 49½; Russian, 1822, 94½, ex div.; Spanish, for Acct., 55; Ditto New Deferred, for Acct., 48⅜; Ditto Passive, for Acct., 37; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., 14⅞ to ⅜; Turkish, 1854, 95¾; Ditto 1858, for Acct., 70½ to ¾, ex div.; Ditto 1862, for Acct., 71¾; Venezuela, 1862, for Acct., 60.

Bank of England.

ISSUE DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Notes issued .. .. .. | £29,334,460 | Government Debt .. .. | £11,015,100 |
| | | Other Securities .. .. | 3,634,900 |
| | | Gold Coin and Bullion .. | 14,684,460 |
| | | Silver Bullion .. .. | — |
| | £29,334,460 | | £29,334,460 |

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Proprietors' Capital .. | £14,553,000 | Government Securities (including Dead Weight Annuity) .. | £11,09[illegible] |
| Rest .. .. .. .. .. | 3,719,9[illegible]2 | Other Securities .. .. | 19,413,656 |
| Public Deposits (including Exchequer, Savings Banks, Commissioners of Nat. Debt, and Dividend Accts.) .. .. .. | 7,371,510 | Notes .. .. .. .. .. | 8,560,913 |
| Other Deposits .. .. .. | 13,489,939 | Gold and Silver Coin .. | 777,106 |
| Seven days and other bills | 713,560 | | |
| | £39,847,961 | | £39,847,961 |

Sept. 17, 1863. M. MARSHALL, Chief Cashier.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY: Sept. 11.—BANKRUPTS.—F. J. ARCHER, Albion Cottage, Alma Road, Hammersmith, Professor of Music—H. S. ANGELL, Coventry, Clothier—J. BAXTER, Clerkenwell Green, Clerkenwell, Japanner—E. BAKER, Montrose Terrace, Islington, Smith—A. BOWS, Kingston-upon-Hull, Milliner—T. BUTLER, Leckhampton, Gloucestershire, Manure Agent—R. COLTON, Caistor, Lincolnshire, Grocer—J. W. CHADWICK, Liverpool, Licensed Victualler—JOHN COOPER, Macclesfield, Silk Manufacturer—MARK THOMAS COOKE, Clerkenwell Green, Clerkenwell, Jeweller—AMELIA [illegible], Bristol, late Bookseller's Assistant—THOMAS LISTER CALVERT, Edward Street, City Road, Wholesale Milliner—W. [illegible], Leicester, Baker—J. [illegible], Shirland, Derbyshire, Farmer—J. CROCKER, Bristol, Carpenter—G. CORTESI, Whitechapel, Confectioner—C. CROSS, St. Alban's, Hertfordshire, Tinplate Worker—P. DICKINSON, Kingston upon Hull, Cab Proprietor—O. DAVIS, Feckenham, Worcestershire, Bricklayer—R. DAVIS, Steelhouse Lane, Birmingham, Milkseller—T. HALLIDAY DRUMMOND, Birkenhead, Stationer—LOTHIAN SHEFFIELD DICKSON, Stanhope Terrace, Hyde Park Gardens, late lieutenant colonel 2d Regiment Tower Hamlets Militia—J. FARRAND, Huddersfield, Journeyman Dyer—H. FISHER, East Stonehouse, Devonshire, Green grocer—J. GAMBELL, Denmark Terrace, Coldharbour Lane, Merchant's Clerk—H. GODDARD, Hathersage, Derbyshire, Grocer—J. GASKELL, Broughton, Manchester, Hairdresser—F. GREEN, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, Waiter—J. GREAVES, Sheffield, Razor Blade Grinder—A. GORTON, Great Windmill Street, Haymarket, Butcher—P. A. [illegible], College Street, Chelsea—T. HIGGINBOTHAM, Derby, Journeyman Tailor—H. H. HAGUE, Ashton-under-Lyne, late Wine and Spirit Merchant—J. HYDE, Ollersett, Derbyshire, Milk Dealer—H. HALL, Walsall, Staffordshire, Grocer—H. HAND, Pelsall, Staffordshire, Carpenter—D. HUTCHINSON, West Square, Southwark, Stonemason—J. [illegible], College Place, Pond Place, Chelsea, Cab Driver—A. JENNINGS, Birmingham, Electro-Plate Manufacturer—W. KIMBERLEY, Old Broad Street, Share Dealer—C. KING, Grove, Stratford, Grocer—E. LEACH, Waterbeach, Cambridgeshire, Builder—T. LAKEMAN, Willmott St., Brunswick Sq., Bloomsbury, Printer—J. LEE, St. Helen's, Lancashire, Ale and Porter Dealer—W. H. LEWIS, Birmingham—C. W. LAWRENCE, Keynsham, Somersetshire, Dealer in Jewellery—T. LAMBERT, Hawthorne Grove, Anerley, Wharfinger's Clerk—J. MURPHY, Worley Court, Minories, Merchant—J. [illegible], Sheepshed, Leicestershire, Gardener—H. MARTIN, Leominster, Herefordshire, Painter—T. [illegible] and E. [illegible], Mark Lane, Merchants—J. MASH, Oxford, Licensed Victualler—A. MORTON, Sheerness, Baker—P. MORRIS, Handsworth, Staffordshire, Coal Merchant—G. A. OWEN, Brighton, Licensed Victualler—W. T. PALMER, York Place, Manor Street, Old Kent Road, Commercial Traveller—S. [illegible], Langton, Staffordshire, Packer—T. D. PROTHERO, Belmont Villas, [illegible] Square, Newington, Clerk—R. T. PRITCHETT, Chamber Street, Goodman's Fields, Gun Manufacturer—G. REDWELL, St. Alban's, Hertfordshire, Boot and Shoemaker—J. S. RILEY, Birmingham, Powder Flask Manufacturer—J. E. RITCHIE, Fleet Street, Publisher—ROBERT RUSSELL, Lancaster Road West, Notting Hill, Builder—HIRAM HENRY SHAW, Nottingham, Auctioneer—JOHN SCHOFIELD, Holm, Yorkshire, Manufacturer—J. STEVENSON, Derby, Draper's Assistant—J. [illegible], Tipton, Staffordshire, Hatter—J. H. SMITH, Sandown, Isle of Wight, Clerk in the War Department—J. SKIDMORE, Amblecote, Worcestershire, Puddler—T. [illegible], Holywell Lane, Shoreditch, Confectioner—W. STEPHEN SHARP, Fremantle, Southampton, Merchant's Clerk—J. [illegible], Sheffield, Moulder—W. TILLEY, Manchester, late Rope Maker—C. [illegible], Great Marton, Lancashire, Wheelwright—C. [illegible], Stow Maries, Essex, Farmer—C. WOODWARD, [illegible], Derbyshire, Farmer—A. WILSON, Upper Chapman Street, Commercial Road, St. George's in the East, Grocer—W. WARING, Moulton, Northamptonshire, Maltster—C. J. WATTS, Durham, Grocer.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—H. C. M'[illegible], Glasgow, Hosier—MERRY, [illegible], & BURNET & JOHN MERRY, jun., GEORGE [illegible], & ANDREW BURNET, [illegible], Printers—W. M. LEES, Johnstone, Renfrewshire, Soap and Candle Maker—P. [illegible] & SON, A. PETER [illegible] & JAMES [illegible], [illegible], Saddlers—W. [illegible], Glasgow, Builder—T. WILSON, Hamilton, Joiner.

TUESDAY, Sept. 15.—BANKRUPTS.—H. ANDREW, St. Ives, Cornwall, Master Mariner—J. [illegible], Rowan Road, Barnsley, Carpenter—J. [illegible], late of Birmingham, [illegible]keeper—C. [illegible] and R. BOSTOCK, Hinckley, Leicestershire, Hosiery Manufacturers—J. BARNES and J. BARTON, jun., [illegible], Lincolnshire, Cattle Salesmen—S. [illegible], Leek, Staffordshire, Timber Dealer—H. BURTON, Darlaston, Staffordshire, late Grocer—W. H. BELL, Calthorpe Street, Gray's Inn Road, Warehouseman—M. [illegible], Nottingham, late Manager to a Boot and Shoe Manufacturer—G. CROSS, King's Arms Court, Finsbury, Journeyman Painter—E. CORBIN, Lewisham, Kent, Widow—A. DIXON, Northampton, Baker—T. DARBYSHIRE, late of Birmingham, Jeweller—REBECCA FISHER sued and committed and known as REBECCA HICKS, Devonshire Place, Edgware Road, Spinster—HENRY ISAAC GARFORTH, Bradford, York.

shire, Butcher—Charles Smith Gorton, Oldham, Lancashire, Painter—W. Heap, Huddersfield, Cotton Waste Dealer—J. Harper, New Romney, Kent, Farmer—J. Knighton, jun., Penselwood, Somersetshire, Innkeeper—J. Lee, Leicester, Engineer—G. Langman, Wolverhampton, Staffordshire, Auctioneer—D. Morecroft, Stockport, Cheshire, Butcher—J. Morris, late of Birmingham, Carpenter—W. Morgan, late of Birmingham, General Dealer in Skins—J. Matcheet, Enfield Highway, late Contractor—A. G. Montagu, Milford Haven, Assistant Paymaster in the Royal Navy—T. Meddings, Sheffield, Staffordshire, late Licensed Victualler—W. A. Minty, Cinderford, Gloucestershire, Grocer—W. Maltby, Nottingham, late Hosier—D. Newton, Sheffield, Joiner—V. H. Oldfield, Connaught Terrace, Edgware Road, late Beer Retailer—E. Price, Warminster, Wiltshire, Grocer—H. C. Poole, Bradford, Yorkshire, Manager for a Stuff Finisher—T. Phillips, Blackburn, Lancashire, Licensed Victualler—J. F. Paris, Ipswich, Suffolk, Berlin Wool Dealer—J. H. Quinley, Forest Hill, Kent, Saddler—T. Rogers, Portsea, Hampshire, Baker—W. Rock, Abbots Bromley, Staffordshire, Boot and Shoemaker—H. B. Russell, Gloucester Terrace, Commercial Road East, Carpenter—A. S. Shackleton, Gracechurch Street, City, Appraiser—A. Shingfield, Jubilee Street, Commercial Road East, Carpenter—D. Shaw, Wolstanton, Staffordshire, Boat Builder—F. K. Stone, Staffordshire, Innkeeper—J. Shaul, Bath, Somersetshire, Grocer—T. Scott, Roupell Street, Blackfriars, late Master Mariner—G. Smith, Johnson Street, Notting Hill, Painter—Joseph Seeley, Ponsonby Place, Pimlico, late Attorney's Clerk—C. Smith, New Square, Minories, Clerk in the London and North-Western Railway—J. Sapp, Swansea, Licensed Victualler—E. Taylor, Golcar, Yorkshire, Manufacturer—R. Thomas, Walthamstow, Essex, Spinster—W. Tuck, Holt, Norfolk, Innkeeper—J. Taylor, Bradford, Yorkshire, late Commercial Traveller—J. E. Watkins, Hampden Street, Paddington, late Confectioner—F. G. Williams, Rose Lane, Ratcliff, Wine Cooper—C. H. Waring, Neath, Glamorganshire, Mining Engineer—W. B. Willmott, Bishop's Hatfield, Hertfordshire, Coal Merchant—W. Watkins, Swansea, Glamorganshire, late Licensed Victualler—J. Yardley, Bilston, Staffordshire, Butcher.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

The Confederate Steamers.—On Saturday a French vessel from Brest arrived at Cardiff with about 80 seamen belonging to the steamship Florida. They appeared to be exceedingly fine men, and some of them hold prize bonds for enormous amounts. They afterwards left for Liverpool, where the Harriet Pinckney, the tender to the Confederate cruisers, arrived on Thursday from Bermuda.

The late Lord Clyde.—A committee, including his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, has been formed for the purpose of raising a memorial to the late Lord Clyde.

Whitechapel Church.—The adjourned inquest on the bodies of the children found in the tower of Whitechapel Church was resumed on Saturday, but no new facts were established. The jury returned a verdict that there was no evidence as to the cause of death; that it is the practice of undertakers to receive certificates for the burial of stillborn children from midwives or any other female; that such a practice affords facilities for the perpetration of abortion and infanticide, and that any one burying a stillborn child without a proper medical certificate ought to be held guilty of a misdemeanor. The jury severely censured the sexton, and directed a copy of their verdict to be sent to the Secretary of State.

The Public Health.—The Registrar-General's report states that the deaths in London in the week that ended Saturday, September 12, were 1257. The average number in the corresponding week of the 10 years 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1158. The present return is therefore 99 above the average. During the week the births of 938 boys and 985 girls, in all 1923 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1802.

Provincial.

Birkenhead.—The Times says that it has authority for stating that the two iron-clads now building at this place will not be allowed to leave the port pending further inquiries, and until fresh instructions are given. On Monday one of the rams was towed out of Messrs. Laird's dock and taken into the Morpeth basin, where it is understood the remainder of her fittings will be completed. It is expected that her trial trip will take place in a few days, and in the meantime her builders do not affect any mystery or secrecy with regard to what is going on in their works. On the contrary, they have invited Admiral Dacres and the officers of the Channel fleet to visit their yard, and inspect all that is going on there—a privilege of which they have availed themselves to a considerable extent. A similar privilege as to inspection has also been conferred on the officers of the fleet by the Mersey Steel and Iron Works.

Exeter.—The ceremony of inaugurating a statue to the memory of the late Earl Fortescue in the Castle Yard of this city, took place on Friday afternoon, in the presence of a large number of the nobility and gentry of the county, and a great muster of Yeomanry, Militia, and Volunteers. The statue, which is by Mr. E. B. Stephens, the sculptor, is erected just outside the railings of the Castle, in front of the entrance and the old Castle of Rougemont. It is executed in Sicilian marble, the figure being 8 ft. in height, standing upon a pedestal of the same height, the entire height, including the granite base, being 18 feet. The front of the statue bears the following inscription:—"Hugh, Earl Fortescue, K.G., Lord Lieutenant of Devon.

"Sanctus haberi,
Justitiæque tenax factis dictisque mereris?
Agnosco procerem."

On one side is the further inscription:—"This memorial, marking the love of friends and the respect of all, was erected 1863." On the other side is the inscription:—"In grateful remembrance of a noble and generous character, and of unwearied diligence in the discharge of public duty, continued to the last day of a long life, ended September 14, 1861." Lord Clifford, as Chairman of the Memorial Committee, in handing over the statue to the Duke of Somerset, as Lord Lieutenant of the county, said that so cordial was the support the committee had received that they were enabled to erect this statue in the place which was so long the scene of Lord Fortescue's labours, and also to commemorate his private worth, by adding a wing to the Barnstaple Infirmary, in which he took a lively interest. The statue having been uncovered, the Duke of Somerset, on the part of the magistrates of the county, accepted the memorial in an appropriate speech, in which he recounted the leading events in the late earl's public life. The High Sheriff then addressed the meeting, and handed a record of the proceedings to the present Earl Fortescue, who, in expressing the cordial thanks of the family for the honour done to his late father, concluded with the hope that this signal evidence of county appreciation and county services might stimulate all who heard of them to local feelings of attachment, whether they called it county, or municipal, or provincial—in reference to which an eminent statesman not long ago said that such a feeling was not only not incompatible with patriotism, but was its surest foundation and its best guarantee.

Liverpool.—On Saturday morning José Maria Alvarez, a Spanish seaman, convicted at the last assizes of the murder of James Harrison, in Oldhall Street; John Hughes, convicted of the murder of his wife in Great Homer Street; James O'Brien, an Irish sailor, convicted for the murder of Elizabeth Callaghan, in Spitalfields; and Benjamin Thomas, a Welsh sailor, convicted of the murder of Mary Rowlands, in Brook Street, Oldhall Street, were executed in front of Kirkdale gaol in the presence of a vast crowd, estimated as at least 100,000 persons, many of whom were brought into the town from a distance by excursion trains, which ran specially on the occasion. A black screen was hung in front of the scaffold to intercept the view of the bodies after the drop had fallen, but all the preliminary arrangements were distinctly visible. Alvarez and Hughes died penitent, but O'Brien and Thomas showed great recklessness on the scaffold. Thomas threatened violence to the minister who visited him in the condemned cell, and, when implored to repent, said that it then was too late; and O'Brien, who could not suppress the convulsions of his throat which showed the agony he was enduring, tried to throw his cap among the crowd.

Manchester.—At the weekly meeting of the Central Executive Committee on Monday, the Earl of Derby in the chair, the report stated that 149*l.* 3*s.* 3*d.* had been received during the week, and that the balance in the bank was 299,853*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* Mr. Commissioner Farnall reported that on the 5th inst. there was a decrease in the number receiving parochial relief in the 27 unions, as compared with the previous week, of 1669, making a total decrease of 129,203 since the 6th of December. He then, in conformity with notice given on the previous week, introduced the question whether it was expedient or desirable for district relief committees to undertake contracts for the execution of public works by the men on their relief lists, intimating that for his own part he was prepared to answer it distinctly in the negative. He said that committees, by entering into such contracts and employing the operatives on them simply as a labour test, would cause unfair competition with corporations and other contracting bodies who, under the Public Works Act, would be able to occupy the men upon work for a fair rate of wages, and thereby tend to the demoralisation of the operatives by maintaining them as paupers instead of allowing them to become independent labourers, in accordance with the intention of Parliament in passing the Act referred to. Mr. R. H. Hutchinson then moved a resolution to the effect that, with a view to extend the operations of the Public Works Act as much and as quickly as possible, it be recommended that the various relief committees during the winter months assist in procuring contracts so as to provide for the able-bodied unemployed operatives. Mr. Goodair seconded the motion. The Chairman read the following minute on the subject from Sir J. Kay Shuttleworth:—

"Minute as to Contracts by Relief Committees, and Employment of Indigent Cotton Workmen in such Contracts.

"The relief of indigence in the cotton districts has hitherto proceeded mainly from two sources—viz., the legal charge on property and the voluntary contributions of charity to public funds. These two sources of relief are subject to a law of economy. When the poor rates and the relief funds have provided to the indigent the means of sustaining health they have discharged their function. 1. The laws for the relief of the poor never were intended to provide employment with wages. Such an obligation would convert the poor-laws into an organised system of labour conducted by the state, which would destroy the relations between capital and labour—employers and employed—and establish a form of socialism destructive to private capital and demoralising labour. Every step, therefore, from that legitimate use of the poor rates, or of public charitable funds, which restricts them to the maintenance of health, to another which proceeds to assume obligations to provide wages from such sources, is full of danger. 2. Wages are given to the able-bodied, without respect to the wants of their families. A single able-bodied man receives as much, at piece work, as a man with a wife and four children. To find employment with wages, therefore, if general, necessarily creates a heavier charge than the simple maintenance of health. 3. A relief committee has no corporate power to enter into any contract to secure employment for those whom it relieves. Such a contract could only be legally entered into by individual members of the relief committee in their private capacity. If such private persons enter into such a contract they can receive no legal security for its fulfilment from the committee. 4. Supposing these technical difficulties to be overcome, and that the majority and most influential members of such a committee sign such a contract—if they determined to provide from their relief funds ordinary wages, either for piece-work or day-work, they have no warrant to expect any aid from the Central Executive Committee to carry out such a scheme inconsistent with the economy of funds intended simply to support health. 5. It is possible to adjust a scheme of labour to a scale of relief adapted simply to sustain health, by paying for work done by the hour at the usual rate, and not requiring more hours' work than will enable the workman to make his labour and that of his family equal at that rate per hour to the scale of relief intended to sustain health. Any other plan involves a very grave departure from the true principles of relief administration. 6. Contracts for public or private works can only be safely entered into by boards or committees charged with the execution of such works, apart from the question of relief of indigence. Such boards or committees of public works reduce the sum of indigence in the same way as any private capitalist may do by such works as they undertake. But they assume no obligations to find employment, and they strengthen the relations between capital and labour by increasing the employment of capital and the demand for labour. These functions, though they indirectly relieve indigence, are not to be in any degree confounded with the functions of boards or committees whose primary duty is to relieve indigence so as to sustain health. Adopted and printed by order of the Central Executive Committee.

"Derby, Chairman.
"John Wm. Maclure, Hon. Sec."

Mr. J. Platt thought the question was scarcely ripe for discussion. There was much to be said on both sides of it, and they would probably have done well in waiting to see how far corporate bodies were disposed to absorb the labour of cotton operatives before coming to any definite conclusion. The Chairman said that there were two distinct questions before the committee; one, that relief committees should be enabled to undertake contracts and employ those upon the relief funds at full wages, in pursuance of the provisions of the Public Works Act; the other, that the committee should be prohibited from engaging them on public works at all, and be thereby deprived of the only form of labour test open to them. The two questions should be differently considered, and decided upon separately. Lord Egerton was of opinion that they could not sanction the undertaking of contracts by district committees without seriously interfering with the operations of the Public Works Act. He agreed with Sir J. K. Shuttleworth that the committees had no other legitimate function than that of giving such an amount of relief as would sustain the people under their charge in unimpaired health. They could only obtain contracts by accepting them at a lower rate than would be offered by independent contractors, and the actual result would be that they would be appropriating to the advantage of those for whom the work was done funds contributed by the public for a charitable purpose. Lord E. Howard thought the great inducement for the adoption of the Public Works Act was the advantage it would afford to the districts availing themselves of its provisions, as the unemployed operative population would thus be made independent of relief, and the small shopkeepers and others correspondingly benefited. He generally agreed with the last two speakers, and referred to the facilities which the last report of the committee stated might be safely given to those who undertook out-door employment. After some discussion, Mr. M. Ross suggested the adoption of the minute as an amendment to the original motion. He considered that it was a clear exposition of the principles involved, and which the committee must alter with great caution. Mr. Maclure seconded the adoption of the minute, and suggested that it should be printed and circulated among the local committees, many of whom were waiting for the decision of the central committee. Mr. Hutchinson's motion was then put to the meeting and lost, and the minute of Sir J. Kay Shuttleworth was adopted and ordered to be printed and circulated among the local committees. Grants were voted to the amount of 5750*l.*

Norwich.—The musical festival of this city commenced on Monday in St. Andrew's Hall, which had been thoroughly renovated for the occasion. The vocalists comprised Mademoiselle Titiens, Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Weiss, Miss Wilkinson, Miss Palmer, Mlle. Trebelli, Mr. Sims Reeves, Signor Bettini, Mr. Montem Smith, Mr. Santley, Signor Bossi, and Mr. Weiss; Mr. Benedict officiating as conductor. On Monday evening Judas Maccabeus was performed; on Wednesday morning, a new oratorio, Joash, by Mr. Silas; on Thursday morning, Elijah; and yesterday morning the Messiah. The miscellaneous concerts in the evenings comprised Mr. Benedict's cantata, Richard Cœur de Lion, Mr. Leslie's Emmanuel, Mr. W. Cusin's Wedding Cantata, and a selection from Mr. A. Sullivan's Tempest.

Worcester.—The 140th meeting of the three choirs of Worcester, Hereford, and Gloucester commenced on the 8th inst. in the cathedral of this city with Mendelssohn's oratorio of Elijah. Full cathedral service had previously been performed, the sermon being preached by the Bishop of Worcester. The vocalists included Mademoiselle Titiens, Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Sainton-Dolby, Miss Banks, Miss Palmer, Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Wilbye Cooper, Mr. Weiss, Mr. Santley, and Mr. T. Harper. Four mornings were devoted to oratorios at the Cathedral. The performance of Monday included the rehearsals; that of Tuesday, Mendelssohn's Elijah; Wednesday, Mozart's Requiem and Beethoven's Mount of Olives; Thursday, Schachner's new oratorio, Israel's Return from Babylon, and selections from Handel's works and Friday, Handel's Messiah. On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings there were concerts of miscellaneous music in the College Hall, and on Friday evening there was a ball in the Guildhall. The festivities of the week were kept up with spirit by some of the most influential persons in the city. The Mayor gave a breakfast in the Guildhall, at which the Duc d'Aumale and an enormous company were present; the Dean kept open house daily to a large number of visitors; and the Bishop attended most of the performances in the Cathedral.

Ireland.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN.—Archbishop Whately remains in nearly the same state. He suffers less pain, but his debility increases and he is gradually sinking. The decay of the body has not at all affected the mind, which retains all its clearness and vigour. He is fully aware of his condition, and is not only resigned but cheerful; and if he expresses any wish it is that the spirit may soon be released from its earthly tabernacle.

THE GALWAY PACKETS.—The Anglia, the second vessel of the Galway line, having embarked her mails and passengers, left Galway on Tuesday afternoon. Fifty persons who had attempted to stow themselves away were detected and brought on shore, and escorted through the town by a file of police with fixed bayonets. Several unsuccessful attempts were made to rescue the prisoners, and the police were ultimately obliged to load their rifles with ball. During the riot the prisoners were put into a merchant's yard till the crowd had dispersed. When the excitement had abated the prisoners were taken to the Court-house, and sentenced, some to a week, and others to a fortnight's imprisonment.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO AN OFFICER OF THE FLEET.—An inquest was held at Carrickfergus on Saturday on the body of Lieutenant Clarence Gardiner, of the flagship Edgar. It appeared from the evidence that several officers were returning by railway from the déjeûner at Belfast on the previous night, when deceased and Mr. Hattersley, a brother officer, opened the door of the carriage and got upon the roof; that they ran and jumped from one carriage to another while the train was in motion; that they returned to their carriage for a few minutes, and then climbed up on the roof again, contrary to the remonstrances of the other officers who were in the same carriage; that Mr. Hattersley leaped from the roof to the tender, and fell among the coals, and it was supposed that deceased fell between the carriages while attempting the same freak, and was instantaneously killed. On the arrival of the train at Carrickfergus he was missed, and search being made, the body was found on the line, quite dead, and shockingly disfigured. The wheels of at least one carriage must have passed over his head, which was crushed into a shapeless mass; the ground was bespattered with his brains, and the fingers of one of his hands were cut off. The jury, after 20 minutes' deliberation, returned a verdict that deceased came by his death "by incautiously and imprudently going on the roofs of the carriages while in motion after having been cautioned not to do so, from which he fell and was accidentally killed." The funeral took place on Saturday evening with the usual naval honours.

Railways.

ACCIDENT ON THE NORTH LONDON.—On Saturday morning the engine of an ordinary train from Camden Town, while entering the Fenchurch Street station, ran off the metals against the wall of the viaduct, carrying a great portion of it away, and precipitating the fragments on some new buildings on which a number of men were at work in Cooper's Row, Crutchedfriars, beneath. The escape of both train and passengers was extraordinary, for had the engine proceeded but a foot or two further it must have gone over the viaduct, and probably dragged one or two carriages with it. As it was, only one second class carriage was upset, but no one was injured beyond being slightly shaken by the concussion.

COLLISION ON THE MIDLAND.—On Wednesday night, the 9th inst., a collision occurred on this line between Sheffield and Chesterfield, between an excursion train and some empty waggons. Several of the trucks were broken, but the passengers escaped without serious injury.

COLLISION ON THE GLASGOW AND SOUTH-WESTERN.—On Thursday night a collision occurred between two heavily laden luggage trains at Mauchline Station. The train which caused it had been uncoupled, and ran away four miles down an incline, where it ran into the other train. The guard, to whom it is thought the blame was due, was crushed to death, and one of the firemen was injured.

Sporting.

DONCASTER RACES.

TUESDAY.—The Fitzwilliam Stakes.—Mr. R. C. Naylor's Carnival beat Johnny Armstrong, Lady of Coverham, Welland, and 5 others. Match.—Mr. John Osborne's Prince Arthur beat Cœur de Lion. The Doncaster Plate.—Colonel Towneley's Newchurch beat Despair, Knave of Trumps, and 5 others. The Champagne Stakes.—Mr. W. S. Cartwright's Ely beat Fille de l'Air, Linda, and Rouge Crosse. The Selling Stakes.—Mr. H. Joice's Folly beat Daniel, Disdain, and 3 others. Match.—Mr. Chancellor's Wee Aggie beat Dawdle. The Great Yorkshire Handicap.—Lord Stamford's Dulcibella beat Drummer Boy, Brittfield, Oldminster, and 12 others. The Revival Plate.—Captain Christie's Lady Clifden beat Tattoo, Mother Carey's Chicken, and Lord Adolphus. The Filly Stakes.—Lord Zetland's Saragossa beat Gondola, Syren, and 3 others. The Glasgow Stakes.—Count Batthyany's Midnight Mass walked over.

WEDNESDAY.—Municipal Stakes.—Sir J. Hawley's Washington beat Lord Glasgow's b. f. Corporation Plate.—Sir J. Hawley's b. f. beat Despair, Man-at-Arms, and 10 others. St. Leger Stakes.—Lord St. Vincent's Lord Clifden beat Queen Bertha, Borealis, and 16 others. Betting: 100 to 30 agst. Lord Clifden, 9 to 2 agst. Avenger, 6 to 1 agst. Ranger, 7 to 1 agst. Queen Bertha, 10 to 1 agst. Golden Pledge, 100 to 7 agst. Borealis, 15 to 1 agst. Blue Mantle, 25 to 1 each agst. The Serf and Donnybrook, 33 to 1 agst. Cairncastle, 40 to 1 agst. Onesander, and 60 to 1 agst. National Guard. The start was a bad one for the favourite, who was left full three lengths behind, and in consequence was thought to be entirely out of the race. He, however, showed himself not unworthy of his blood, and his jockey did not hurry him until he got over the hill, when he began to act, and went through his horses in an instant. At the distance he was in front, with Queen Bertha and Borealis alone near him, and he won in very clever style by half a length, amid the most vociferous cheering heard for many years. Queen Bertha defeated Borealis by four lengths, Golden Pledge a bad fourth, Ranger fifth, Avenger sixth, Clarior seventh, Blue Mantle eighth, the next three being Dr. Syntax, Light Bob, and National Guard; Prince Leboo, The Serf, and Donnybrook walked in the last. Handicap Sweeps.—Mr. Wood's Rose beat Kapunda, Wild Thyme, and 6 others. Sweeps.—Mr. Phillips' Persuasion beat Light, Livingstone, and 5 others. Her Majesty's Plate.—Mr. S. Thellusson's Jack of Hearts beat The Knave, Brother to Rapid Rhone, and Caller Ou. The Stand Plate Handicap.—Mr. H. Goater's Creole beat Newmarket, Erin-go-Bragh, and 9 others.

THURSDAY.—The Zetland Stakes.—Lord Stamford's Onesander beat Sauterelle and Jarnicoton. Sweeps.—Mr. Naylor's Coast Guard beat Prince Arthur, Fille de l'Air, and 3 others. Match.—Lord Glasgow's br. f. beat Sir J. Hawley's b. f. The Portland Plate.—Mr. G. Bryan's Welland beat Bohemia, Peignoir, Creole, and 23 others. The Juvenile Selling Stakes.—Lord Westmoreland's Usher beat Prescription, Daniel, and 4 others. The Eglinton Stakes.—Mr. R. C. Naylor's Carnival beat Vanessa. The Cleveland Handicap.—Mr. Gordon's Johnny Armstrong beat Polynesia, Barter, and 5 others. The Scarborough Stakes.—Mr. Watt's Newmarket walked over.

CRICKET.—A friendly game was played on September 9, between eleven in the employ of Messrs. Smith, Dulwich; and eleven belonging to Mr. Woodroffe, Harrow Road. The following score will show that the latter were victorious, viz., Messrs. Smith's eleven, 1st innings, 27; 2d ditto, 38; Total 65. Mr. Woodroffe's eleven, 1st innings, 67.

Obituary.

THE MARQUIS TOWNSHEND died at Rayuham, Norfolk, on the 10th inst, from a paralytic attack. His lordship was son of the late Lord John Townshend, and married, in 1825, the daughter of the late Lord George Stuart, sister of the late Lord Dudley Stuart. After leaving Eton, where he was educated, he entered the Naval College at Portsmouth, and became a captain in 1834; naval aide-de-camp to the Queen in 1854; and rear admiral in 1856. He represented Tamworth in the Whig interest from 1847 to 1856, when on the death of his cousin he succeeded to the marquisate. His lordship was high steward of the borough of Hertford. He is succeeded in his title and estates by his son, John Villiers Stuart, Viscount Raynham, born in 1831, who has represented Tamworth since 1856.

VICE-ADMIRAL HENRY DUNDAS died on the 11th inst., at Craig Royston, near Edinburgh, from disease of the heart. He was the second son of the late Right Hon. Robert Dundas, of Arniston, Lord Chief Baron of the Court of Exchequer in Scotland. He was educated at the Royal Naval College, entered the navy as a volunteer in 1815, and during his early career served under Sir David Milne, the Hon. Captain Duncan, the late Earl of Lauderdale, and Sir Augustus Clifford. He commanded the Dartmouth, 42, and the Sapphire, 28, and had been on half pay since 1830. He attained the rank of Rear-admiral in 1853; and Vice-admiral in 1858.

SIR WARWICK HELE TONKIN died on the 11th inst., at Teignmouth. He was the son of the late Warwick Hele Tonkin, Esq., bencher of the Middle Temple, and was born in Plymouth, in 1783, and was consequently in his 81st year. At the time of the revolutionary war he was a captain in the Royal Devon Miners. He subsequently entered the army, and was at Walcheren and in the expedition to Sicily. He was brigade Major of the London district, and subsequently barrack master at Exeter, but retired at the peace. He was a magistrate, deputy lieutenant, and vice-admiral of the county of Devon. In 1826 he received a gold medal of the first-class from Charles X, of France, for aid in a case of shipwreck, and in 1838, for similar services, was nominated Chevalier of the Legion of Honour.

BIRTHS.—On the 7th inst, at Godmersham Park, Canterbury, the VISCOUNTESS ST. VINCENT, of a son—8th inst, in Edinburgh, Lady CAMPBELL, of Dunstaffnage, of a daughter—14th inst, at Felton Grange, Shrewsbury, the Lady FRANCES LLOYD, of a son—13th inst, at 19, St. George's Square, S.W., the Hon. Mrs. MAUDE, of a son—12th inst, at Manderston, Berwickshire, the wife of WM. MILLER, Esq., M.P., of a son—7th inst, at Murthly Castle, Perthshire, the wife of THOMAS DALLAS YORKE, Esq., of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.—On the 12th inst, at St. George's, Hanover Square, the Right Hon. the Earl of WILTON to SUSAN ISABEL, only daughter and heiress of the late Major ELTON SMITH—8th inst, at Huntsham, Devon, GEORGE GRIFFITH, Esq., to HARRIET DYKE, second daughter of the late ARTHUR H. D. TROYTE, Esq., and granddaughter of Sir Thomas Dyke Acland, Bart.—2d inst, at St. Paul's Cathedral, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Lieut.-Colonel JOHN WIMBURN LAURIE, inspector of militia, N.S., eldest son of John Laurie, Esq., of Hyde Park Terrace, London, to FRANCES ROBIE, youngest daughter of the Hon. ENOS COLLINS, of Gorse Brook, Halifax, N.S., and granddaughter of the late Sir Brenton Halliburton, Chief Justice of Nova Scotia.

DEATHS.—On the 4th inst, at Kenward, Pembury, Kent, Lady SHAW, wife of Sir JOHN G. K. SHAW, Bart.—14th inst, at Heathfield House, near Oxford, CHARLOTTE, wife of GEORGE RICHARD WALKER, Esq., and daughter of the late Rev. Sir John Robinson, Bart.—14th inst, at Chelsea, RICHARD PHILLIPS, Esq., eldest son of the late Sir Richard Phillips—10th inst, at Brenchley, Kent, ANN DURRANT, widow of JOHN RAWLINSON HARRIS, late M.P., of Winchester House, Southwark, aged 68—5th inst, at Malta, after a very short illness, ROBERT MYDDELTON BIDDULPH, 23d Royal Welsh Fusiliers, second son of Colonel Myddleton Biddulph, M.P., of Chirk Castle—12th inst, at Headington Hill House, near Oxford, JAMES MORRELL, Esq., formerly High Sheriff of the county, aged 53—12th inst, HENRY, youngest son of UVEDALE CORBETT, Esq., of Aston Hall, Shifnal, Salop, aged 39—10th inst, at Moorwood House, near Cirencester, EDWARD HAINES, Esq., aged 89—11th inst, at Grey's Lodge, Torquay, JAMES GRANT LUMSDEN, Esq., Bombay Civil Service, aged 56—14th inst, at South Hill, Henley-on-Thames, JOSEPH GWILT, Esq., F.S.A., Architect, aged 79—12th inst, at 39, St. George's Square, WILLIAM RANGER, Esq., C.E., F.R.S., aged 63—7th inst, at The Rectory, Priston, near Bath, after a few days severe illness, the Rev. CHARLES DOWDING, rector of that parish, aged 56—10th inst, at Brighton, the Rev. JOHN COX, rector of Fairsted, Essex, aged 72—12th inst, at Guilsborough, Northamptonshire, the Rev. JOHN B. BATEMAN, A.M., aged 58—8th inst, at Wellington College, the Rev. ROBERT JAMES DONNE, M.A., late fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and senior assistant-master of Wellington College, youngest and last surviving child of JOHN DONNE, Esq., aged 29

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Sept. 19.

Vegetables and all kinds of Fruit in season continue plentiful. Plums may be had in great abundance. Of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is also sufficient for the demand. Of Melons there is a good stock of both English and foreign varieties. There is also a good supply of Williams's Bon Chrétien, Louise Bonne of Jersey, and Marie Louise Pears. Some good examples of Ribston Pippin Apples have also arrived from Jersey. Kent Cobs and Filberts are now coming in in good condition, and for the Cobs a fair demand is springing up at from 60s. to 65s. per 100 lbs. For Potatoes the market is heavy, and prices are falling. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Marigolds, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 2s 6d to 6s | Nectarines, do., 2s to 5s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 6s | Melons, each, 2s to 4s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 1s 6d to 2s 6d | Lemons, per 100, 8s to 12s |
| Pears, per ½ sieve, 2s 6d to 5s | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Plums, per ½ sieve, 3s to 6s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Figs, per doz., 2s 6d | Walnuts, do., 14s to 20s |
| Peaches, per doz., 6s to 15s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 6d to 1s | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | French Beans, p. sieve, 2s to 6s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| Potatoes, York Regents, p. ton, 90s to 100s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| ,, Shaws, do., 50s to 60s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 4d to 6d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 2s |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 1s 9d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Tomatoes, each, 2d to 3d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

SMITHFIELD, Thursday, Sept. 17.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 75s to | 84s | Clover, old .. .. | 95s to | 126s |
| Superior do. .. | 86 | 92 | Do. second cut .. | 90 | 110 |
| Inferior do. .. | 60 | 70 | New Clover .. | — | — |
| New do. .. .. .. | — | — | Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 36 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | 60 | 80 | | | |

HARVEY & EASTON.

CUMBERLAND MARKET, THURSDAY, Sept. 17.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sup. Meadow Hay .. | 92s to | 100s | Inferior Clover .. | 88s to | 100s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 75 | 84 | New do. .. .. | — | — |
| New do. .. .. .. | — | — | Straw .. .. | 34 | 40 |
| Superior Clover .. | 114 | 120 | | | |

JOSHUA BAKER.

WHITECHAPEL, THURSDAY, Sept. 17.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 92s | Prime 1st cut Clover | 118s to | 123s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 80 | 84 | Inferior do. .. .. | 108 | 115 |
| Prime New Hay .. | — | — | New 1st cut do. .. | — | — |
| Inferior .. .. .. | — | — | Prime 2d cut do. | 105 | 110 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 30 | 34 | Inferior do. .. | 90 | 100 |

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, Sept. 18.

Our trade continues good, and at full rates; there being however still an indisposition to pay a profit on the extreme rates demanded by the growers in the country. Skin wool realises an advance in proportion to the increase of value arising from the addition to the length.

| | s. d. s. d. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hoggets .. .. .. | 1 9½ to 1 10½ | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto .. | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 8½ — 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — 1 8 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 9 — 1 10 | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 — 1 8 |
| | | Blanket ditto .. | .. — .. |

COAL MARKET.—Sept. 16.

Byass's Bebside West Hartley, 16s.; Hastings Hartley, 16s.; Holywell Main, 17s. 3d.; Lambert's West Hartley, 15s. 9d.; Tanfield Moor Butes, 15s. 3d.; Walker Primrose, 12s. 6d.; Walls End Riddell, 16s. 9d.; Eden Main, 17s.; Walls End Braddyll's Hetton, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Haswell, 18s 6d.; Walls End Hetton, 18s. 6d.; Walls End Russell's Hetton, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Cassop, 17s. 6d.; Walls End Caradoc, 17s 6d.; Walls End Heugh Hall, 17s 6d.; Walls End Kelloe, 17s. 6d.; Walls End East Hartlepool, 18s. 6d.; Walls End South Hartlepool, 17s. 6d.; Walls End South Kelloe, 17s 6d.; Walls End Thorpe, 16s. 3d.; Walls End Trimdon Hartlepool, 18s.; Carway and Duffryn Malting, 20s.—92 ships at market.

NEWGATE.—Sept. 18.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Fresh Butter .. .. | 14s. per dozen lbs. |
| Second do. do. .. .. | 12s. ,, |

Pork, 4s. 4d. to 4s. 8d. per 8 lbs.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, Sept. 14.

We have a larger number of Beasts than on Monday last; there is, however, a demand for them, and that day's quotations are fully maintained. Sheep are also more plentiful; trade is scarcely as brisk, yet there is no quotable reduction in price. Good Calves are scarce and rather dearer. Only a few choice Lambs are now wanted. From Germany and Holland there are 1890 Beasts, 8640 Sheep, 111 Calves, and 30 Pigs; from Spain, 870 Beasts; from Ireland, 470; and 2570 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 10 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 5 0 — 5 2 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — 4 10 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 4 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 4 — 4 8 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 2 — 5 4 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. | Lambs .. .. | 4 4 — 5 8 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 4 — 5 0 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 5710; Sheep & Lambs, 24,170; Calves, 111; Pigs, 290.

THURSDAY, Sept. 17.

The number of Beasts is nearly the same as on Thursday last. Trade is not brisk, but prices are about the same as on Monday; a clearance cannot be effected. The supply of Sheep is again short, and the choicest qualities are readily disposed of at a slight advance; but on the average trade can scarcely be quoted better. Lambs may now be considered out of season. Calves are selling about the same as on Monday. From Germany and Holland there are 410 Beasts, 2240 Sheep, 571 Calves, and 32 Pigs; from Spain, 120 Beasts. Milch Cows, 85.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 5 0 — 5 4 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — 4 10 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 0 — 4 10 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 4 — 5 6 | Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. | .. — .. | Lambs .. .. | 4 8 — 5 8 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 4 — 5 0 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 1445; Sheep & Lambs, 6570; Calves, 571; Pigs, 210.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, Sept. 14.

There was only a small supply of English Wheat to this morning's market. Trade was dull at a decline of fully 1s. per qr., and although factors were willing to submit to a like conession upon foreign, scarcely any business was transacted. Fine malting Barley was in request, other descriptions less inquired after, value unaltered. Beans and Peas sold at last week's rates. The Oat trade was slow, and sales could only be effected at a decline of 6d. per qr. Flour was 6d. per barrel cheaper.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 44—46 | Red ..... | 42—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 46—50 | Red .... | 42—48 |
| — — Talavera ............ | 48—52 | | |
| — Norfolk .................. | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign .................. | 38—58 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist, 30s to 33s .. Chev. | 36—40 | Malting .. | 33—38 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—29 | Malting .. | 28—32 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk ............ | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ..................Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ......Poland and Brew | 19—22 | Feed .... | 18—20 |
| RYE .............................. | 30—32 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign ................ | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan....33s to 38s...Tick | 34—36 | Harrow .. | 34—36 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s.. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ...............Small | 40—46 | Egyptian | 30—32 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent.. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—40 |
| — Maple .... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 32—38 |
| MAIZE ..........................White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 38—43 | | |
| — 2d do ................... ditto | 30—34 | Country .. | 30—34 |
| — Foreign ............ per barrel | 17—26 | Per sack | 34—45 |

FRIDAY Sept. 18.

We have had mostly dry weather during the past week, enabling farmers to get on rapidly with cutting and carting, so that the greatest part of this year's grain crop in England may be considered safely housed. The progress made with harvest work, and the increased quantities of new Wheat on our markets have had a depressing influence upon the trade, and prices have consequently given way 1s. to 2s. per qr. for good dry new and old, and 2s. to 4s. per qr. for samples of new in bad condition, of which a small portion which was too hastily carted consists. Foreign Wheat remained neglected, although holders were willing to accept lower terms. Millers are using new English largely, the crop coming dry and heavy at present. Feeding Barley was less active, Malting continues scarce, and prices still tending upwards. Oats are a drug, and gave way fully 6d. per qr. Beans and Peas were a slow sale, and must be written 1s. per qr. cheaper. Flour has participated in the downward movement of Wheat prices, and is neglected at 6d. per barrel and 1s. per sack decline. Since Friday last only 5 vessels with Maize have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has been very quiet during the week. Wheat remained nominally unaltered in value, there being no demand, and no, new arrivals pressing upon the market. Maize declined 6d. per qr. Rye is 1s. cheaper, and Linseed declining. In Paris (Sept. 17), Flour had declined 1s. per 280 lbs., and the transactions remain very limited. The six marks for delivery this month are quoted equal to 33s. per 280 lbs. The present stock is estimated at 8210 cwts. Very little has been doing in Wheat at late rates. The arrivals of grain and Flour since Monday are moderate, with the exception of Foreign Oats which are large. There was a thin attendance at market this morning, and scarcely any business was transacted in either English or foreign Wheat, although factors would have submitted to a reduction in prices. Barley was firm. Beans and Peas unaltered. Oats very dull.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 850 qrs. | 420 qrs. | — qrs. | 810 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 700 | — ,, |
| Foreign .. | 10,380 ,, | 4850 | 56,560 ,, | 20 ,, / 220 brls |

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 15.—With a fair attendance at to-day's market the demand for Wheat has been quite from hand to mouth, and all descriptions have declined 1d. to 2d. per cental on the rates of Friday last. Flour 6d. per barrel lower and very unsaleable; a great proportion of the stock offering is inferior or out of condition. Indian Corn is 3d. lower, and little inquired for. Oats are 1d. per bushel and new Oatmeal 1s. per load cheaper. Peas and Beans both the turn easier. Barley scarce and unaltered in value. The market closes heavy. Weather fine, but the barometer falling.

FRIDAY, Sept. 18.—Market thinly attended. Wheat in retail demand at 3d. per cental decline. Flour neglected; quotations nominal. Indian Corn dull. Egyptian Beans and Flour quiet; Oats 1d. lower. Oatmeal, 1s. cheaper.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Aug. 8 | 46s 3d | 31s 6d | 23s 0d | 31s 6d | 38s 8d | 34s 9d |
| — 15 | 45 11 | 31 4 | 23 7 | 36 4 | 40 7 | 35 7 |
| — 22 | 46 5 | 31 1 | 23 0 | 33 2 | 40 4 | 34 9 |
| — 29 | 45 9 | 33 10 | 22 8 | 33 9 | 39 6 | 35 9 |
| Sept. 5 | 44 2 | 34 8 | 22 0 | 32 11 | 38 10 | 37 2 |
| — 12 | 44 1 | 34 7 | 21 8 | 31 0 | 39 10 | 35 10 |
| Agg. Aver. | 45 5 | 32 10 | 22 8 | 33 1 | 39 8 | 35 8 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

WANTED, a PROPAGATOR and GENERAL FOREMAN in a London Nursery.—One accustomed to the London trade would be preferred.—Apply in the first instance by letter, stating where formerly employed, A. Z., 1, Red Lion Place, Giltspur Street, E.C.

WANTED, a Young Man as FOREMAN, in a gentleman's Garden, not under 23 years of age.—Wages, 15s. per week, with lodging, &c.—B. BOLTON, Gardener, Wyddial Hall, near Buntingford, Herts.

WANTED, a WORKING FOREMAN and PROPAGATOR in a Small Nursery; a sober, steady, industrious, middle-aged, married Man, without incumbrance, to have the care and Management of the Houses, attend to the Fires, and make himself generally useful. Wife occasionally to assist in the Flower and Plant Shop, and make up Bouquets, &c. House and Firing on the premises.—State where employed for the last 4 years, what references, and the lowest terms, to A. B., care of Messrs. Mudie & Sons, 15, Coventry Street, Haymarket, London, W.C.

WANTED, a NURSERY PACKER, of first-rate experience, who can produce unexceptionable references.—Apply to PETER LAWSON & SON, Edinburgh.

WANTED, as SHOPMAN, a Man of experience, accustomed to Manage and Travel in the Seed Trade.—Apply to H. BROWN, 4, Commutation Row, Liverpool.

Nursery Trade.

WANTED, a respectable Young Man, 18 years of age, or so, as CLERK or IMPROVER in a large Nursery.—Must write a good clear hand, and have unexceptionable references.—Apply in own handwriting, stating salary expected and all other particulars, to JAMES DICKSON & SONS, The Newton Nurseries, Chester.

WANTED, a Young Man as ASSISTANT in a Wholesale Seed Warehouse, to help at the Counter, and to make himself generally useful; he must write well, and have a good character.—Apply, by letter only, in own handwriting, stating age and where last employed, to A. B., Nutting & Sons, 60, Barbican, E.C.

WANTED, ONE or TWO handy FARM LABOURERS, who know their work well, to Plough, Sow, Mow, Reap, Thatch, and make themselves generally useful. Wages, 12s. a week, and Coal free. Characters must be good in all respects.—Address, R. A., Post Office, Llanelly, South Wales.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 26, single; thorough practical knowledge of his profession. Good character.—S. W., Mr. Parker, News Agent, Kingston, Surrey, S.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 27, married, no incumbrance. Wife can take the charge of a Dairy if required. Satisfactory references.—A. R. T., Gardeners' Chronicle Office.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Practically experienced in the Forcing of all kinds of Fruit, Flowers, and Vegetables; also the Management of Fruit, Flower, and Kitchen Gardens. Six years' references from a nobleman's situation.—C. W., The Nurseries, Foot's Cray, Kent.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30; thoroughly understands the Growing of Pines, Vines, Peaches, Melons, &c., Stove and Greenhouse Plants, the Management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens.—Character will bear the strictest inquiries.—L. W., The Gardens, Bishopstoke, Winchester.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Middle-aged, married; well versed in every branch of his profession, including the Growth of Pines, Grapes, Orchids, Ferns, Stove and Greenhouse Plants in general, and Management of Kitchen and Flower Gardens, &c. Unexceptionable character.—A. Z., 17, Charlotte Terrace, Lyham Road, Brixton Hill, S.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30; thoroughly understands the Management of the Hothouse, Peach-house, Greenhouse, Flower and Kitchen Garden, and Forcing in general upon the most approved principles. Highly respectable reference can be given as to character and ability.—HEAD GARDENER, Duddon Hall, Broughton-in-Furness, Lancashire.

GARDENER (HEAD). — Age 30, married, two children; industrious and sober; has practical experience in Early and Late Forcing; a good Kitchen and Flower Gardener, &c. Nearly four years' unexceptionable character, and first-class references of 12 years' standing.—A. L., Messrs. Smith & Co., Ironmongers, Blackheath, S.E.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 36; has had much experience in first-class establishments in the Culture of Fruit in general, Early and Late Forcing; also Stove and Greenhouse Plants, including Orchids and Fine-foliaged Plants, &c. Unexceptionable character from last employer.—A. B., Mr. W. Paul, The Nurseries, Waltham Cross, N.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 35, married, no incumbrance; has had many years experience in Horticulture, and gained a thorough knowledge of the modern growth of the choicest Fruits under Glass; is a first-rate cultivator of Stove and Greenhouse Plants, and has had for many years the Management of a Nobleman's Garden Establishment, where Gardening has been carried out to the highest state of cultivation. First-class testimonials.—JOHN OSBORNE, Chippenham Park Gardens, near Newmarket.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Has been in his present situation nearly 14 years, and leaving in consequence of a reduction in the establishment; thoroughly understands the Erection and Heating of Horticultural Buildings, Laying-out and Planting Grounds, Forcing Pines, Grapes, Peaches, Strawberries, Melons, Cucumbers, and Mushrooms; the Growth and Treatment of Orchids, Ferns, Ornamental Foliage and Stove Plants, Azaleas, Camellias, Ericas, Epacris, and general Hard-wooded Greenhouse Plants; likewise Pelargoniums and all Soft-wooded Plants. Has a perfect knowledge of Wall Trees and all hardy Fruits; understands the Early Forcing of Vegetables, and is an excellent Kitchen and Flower Gardener. Has taken many Prizes at Provincial Exhibitions. No objection to any part of the kingdom. Character will bear the strictest investigation.—JOHN BRADSHAW, Keresley, Coventry.

GARDENER (HEAD, or FOREMAN).—Age 28, single, Scotch; 11 years' practice in first class places in England and Scotland. References to men of well known ability.—M. E., Mr. Page, Tobacconist, Lower Tooting, Surrey.

GARDENER (HEAD) or FOREMAN (OUT-DOOR).—Age 25, highly recommended in either of the above capacities. Has lived eight years in various extensive establishments in England and Wales. Thoroughly understands the Management of Houses, and Gardening in general.—G. B., Post Office, Buntingford, Herts.

GARDENER (HEAD), or GARDENER and BAILIFF.—Age 42, married; 5½ years' character from his last situation.—A. B., Mr. Archer's, Summer Hill Road, Tottenham, Middlesex, N.

GARDENER.—Age 25, married; well understands his profession. Twenty years' experience in first-class places. Good character.—J. J., 38, Dartmoor Street, Notting Hill, N.W.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married).—Mr. WM. PAUL, Waltham Cross, N., can strongly recommend a good practical Gardener, with first-rate testimonials as to character and ability.

GARDENER.—Age 29; has had good practice in growing Pines, Vines, Peaches, Melons, &c., Kitchen and Flower Gardening, Stove and Greenhouse Plants. Good character from present and previous situations.—M. N., Post Office, Bishopstoke, near Winchester, Hants.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER, and to look after a Horse and Chaise, or Cows and Poultry.—Married, without incumbrance. Wife a good Laundress.—FLATT, Post Office, Chertsey.

GARDENER (UNDER).—Age 22; wishes to improve himself; will pay a Premium. Three-and-a-half years' good character in present situation. — W. R., Daylesford Gardens, near Chipping Norton, Oxon.

GARDENER (UNDER), or to manage a small Place.—Age 22, single; has worked four years in one of the best gardens in Derbyshire, and three years in his last place.—THE GARDENER, Butterley Hall, Alfreton, Derbyshire.

GROWER of ORCHIDS and FERNS (FIRST-CLASS), also Hard and Soft-wooded Plants, with a general knowledge of the usual routine of a gentleman's establishment, and had the management of one of the largest collections of Orchids in England. Testimonials as to character and ability.—A. B., Mr. Henderson's, Market Cross, Birkenhead.

FOREMAN, in a gentleman's Garden.—Age 26; has a thorough knowledge of Gardening in all its branches, Forcing, Propagating, Kitchen Garden and Pleasure Ground. Three years' good character from last situation.—Other information may be obtained of Mr. G. TRANTED, Westbrook, Hemel Hempstead, Herts.

FOREMAN, or FOREMAN and PROPAGATOR.—Married; has had great experience in London and Provisional Nurseries, and Propagating in every Department, Budding, Grafting, Plant Growing, &c. A good Salesman. First-rate character.—R. B. J., Railway Cottage, Far Cotton, Northampton.

PROPAGATOR, PLANT GROWER, or FOREMAN, &c.—Age 40; thoroughly experienced in all requirements connected with the trade.—ALPHA, 14, Lyham Road, Brixton Hill, S.

To Nurserymen.

GENERAL FOREMAN, SALESMAN, or TRAVELLER.—Has a good knowledge of the business generally, but more particularly the outdoor branches, with which he is thoroughly conversant. Commands a good address; is also a good Correspondent. Good references.—HORTUS, Post Office, Birmingham.

IMPROVER.—Good Premium given; accustomed to take care of Houses of all descriptions.—F. MOBLY, 35, George Street, Grosvenor Square, London, W.

BAILIFF and GARDENER, or GENERAL MANAGER.—No incumbrance; 20 years' service in the Northern and Midland Counties of England with noblemen and gentlemen. Salary 70*l.* per annum.—SAMUEL BROWN, Wheldrake, Yorkshire.

BAILIFF.—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; practical from his youth in all branches. Satisfactory references as to honesty, sobriety, and capability. Correct in accounts.—P. D., 18, Ratcliff Grove, Lever Street, City Road.

BAILIFF or STEWARD. — Age 40; is well acquainted with the Management of Stock, Woods, Draining, Arable and Pasture Land, &c. Leaving his present situation, where he has been 12 years, in consequence of the estate having been sold. Security given if required. Character unexceptionable, and can be well recommended by Messrs. GEORGE GIBBS & Co., Seedsmen, 26, Down Street, Piccadilly, London, W., who will attend to any communications.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

FARM BAILIFF, at Michaelmas.—Age 44, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands Farming in all its branches, including Hops, Grazing, Breeding, and Rearing of Stock and Sheep; acquainted with different Soils; is also a good Accountant. Wife can take charge of a small Dairy and Poultry if required. Satisfactory references.—A. B., Post Office, Cranbrook, Kent.

FARM BAILIFF.—Married; Wife could undertake the Management of a Dairy and Poultry if required. Highest reference as to character and ability.—J. W., Post Office, Market Harborough, Leicestershire.

LAND STEWARD or BAILIFF.—Is thoroughly acquainted with Farming in all its branches, the Buying, Selling, Breeding, and Rearing of all kinds of Stock, Marketing, &c. First-class references and testimonials.—HOMO, Post Office, Watford, Herts.

SHOPMAN.—Age 25, single; has had 11 years' experience in two large Provincial Seed Businesses; and can have unexceptional testimonials.—Y. G., Messrs. Hurst & Son, 6, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

Seed Trade.

SHOPMAN and TRAVELLER.—A Young Man of experience is desirous of obtaining an engagement. He has held his last situation for five years, and can give first-class references.—G. F., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

DAIRY MAID.—Age 24, single; excellent Butter maker; has been brought up in a gentleman's Dairy, where a large number of Cows are kept; and can be well recommended for honesty, cleanliness, &c. A situation in a nobleman's or gentleman's family preferred.—Mr. T. SCOTT, Home Farm, Great Barton, Bury St. Edmunds.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by DINNEFORD & Co., 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

KEATING'S PERSIAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.—Fleas in Dogs, Poultry, &c., are instantly destroyed, as also Bugs, Beetles, and every other Insect, by this Powder, which is perfectly harmless to animal life; Sportsmen particularly will therefore find it invaluable.

Sold in Packets, 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for 14, or treble size for 36 postage stamps, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C. Take notice, each genuine packet bears the above name and address.

For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1863.

BECK'S
PATENT HOT-WATER VALVES

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES, viz. :—

| 2 In. | 3 In. | 4 In. |
|---|---|---|
| 12s. 6d. | 16s. 6d. | 20s. 0d. |

Upwards of 4000 of the Patent Valves are now in use and giving the greatest satisfaction.

John Beck can also supply large quantities of his IMPROVED THROTTLE VALVES on the shortest notice.

JOHN BECK,

PATENTEE AND MANUFACTURER OF EVERY DESCRIPTION OF GAS, WATER, and STEAM FITTINGS, FIRE COCKS, WATER CLOSETS, ETC.

PATENT VALVE WORKS AND SANITARY DEPOT,

GREAT SUFFOLK STREET, LONDON, S.E.

West of England, Ireland, and Wales.

VINCENT SKINNER (late Partner with J. Weeks & Co.), Horticultural Builder and Hot-Water Apparatus Manufacturer. HEATING on the ONE-BOILER SYSTEM. Plans and Estimates on application.

Vincent Skinner, Bridewell Street, Bristol.

Greenhouses, Orchard-houses, and Conservatories.

H. FREEMAN'S Horticultural Works, Triangle, Hackney, N.E. Established 20 years.
Good substantially made GREENHOUSES, glazed, ready for fixing, 42 feet by 13 feet, 50*l.*; 21 feet by 13 feet, 28*l.*; 12½ feet by 10 feet, 15*l.* ORCHARD-HOUSES, 10 per cent. cheaper. A handsome CONSERVATORY, 46 feet by 19 feet, for Sale. Estimates given.

W. J. HOLLANDS, Iron Merchant, 31, Bankside, London, S.E.
HOT WATER PIPES, from Stock, per yard :—2-inch, 1*s.* 2*d.*; 3-inch, 1*s.* 10*d.*; and 4-inch, 2*s.* 4*d.* BENDS, from stock, 1*s.* 7*d.*, 2*s.* 6*d.*, and 3*s.* 3*d.* each. THROTTLE VALVES, 10*s.* 6*d.*, 13*s.* 6*d.*, and 15*s.* each. Other Connexions at equally low prices, and all goods of first-class manufacture. Estimates given, and orders by post punctually attended to the same day.

HOT-WATER PIPES, at Reduced Wholesale Prices, with Elbows, Syphons, Tee Pipes, and every other connection; Wrought and Cast-iron Boilers, Saddle, Conical, Cylinder, Tubular, and Elliptic, from 24*s.* each. Improved Boilers and Iron Stands to use without brickwork, 56*s.* each. Valves from 10*s.* 6*d.* each. Patent Valves, Improved Furnace Doors, Furnace Bars, Supply Cisterns, and Builders' Castings of every description in stock, at
Mr. Lynch White's Iron Wharf, Upper Ground Street, Blackfriars Bridge, London, S. Price List on application.

JOSEPH SMITH, New Road, Hammersmith, W., undertakes the ERECTION of GREENHOUSES, &c., in any part of the Kingdom, and begs to offer for Sale about 10,000 feet of GLAZED LIGHTS for GREENHOUSES, PITS, &c.

Those glazed with 21-ounce glass, 9*d.* per square foot.
16-ounce „ 8*d.* „

| | No. of Lights. | |
|---|---|---|
| 21-ounce.— | Eight. | 12 feet 3 inches by 5 feet 8 inches. |
| „ | Twenty. | 11 feet by 4 feet 8 inches. |
| „ | Nine. | 8 feet 6 inches by 4 feet 8 inches. |
| „ | Ten. | 7 feet by 3 feet 11 inches. |
| „ | Twelve. | 5 feet 2 inches by 4 feet 2 inches. |
| 16-ounce.— | Forty. | 7 feet by 4 feet 3 inches. |
| „ | Twenty. | 6 feet by 4 feet 2 inches. |
| „ | Twelve. | 5 feet 2 inches by 5 feet 8 inches. |

Also Span-roof Greenhouse, 27 feet by 16 feet, 47*l.*
Lean-to, 21-ounce glass, 46 feet by 14 feet, 55*l.*
„ 21-ounce glass, 24 feet by 11 feet, 30*l.*
„ 16 ounce glass, 50 feet by 14 feet, 55*l.*
Second-hand, 12 feet by 7 feet, 14*l.*
☞ ESTIMATES given for HEATING.

Hothouses for the Million.—Awarded a Prize Medal at the International Exhibition, 1862.

HOTHOUSES for the MILLION.—On the principle invented and patented by Sir Joseph Paxton, M.P., combining simplicity, cheapness, excellence, and durability, being capable of fulfilling, in the most perfect manner, all the requirements of Horticulture.
Illustrated Circulars, with Lists of Prices, can be had on prepaid application to Samuel Hereman, 7, Pall Mall East, London.
Also, A HANDBOOK on VINE and FRUIT TREE CULTIVATION, price 1*s.*; post free, 1*s.* 1*d.*

200 CUCUMBER and MELON BOXES and LIGHTS, and from 400 to 500 LIGHTS for PITS of all SIZES kept in STOCK.
Glazed and Painted complete, ready for immediate use. Packed and sent to all parts of the kingdom.
References to the Nobility, Gentry, and Trade in most of the counties in England.
James Watts & Co., Hothouse Builders and Hot-Water Apparatus Manufacturers, near the Green Man, 353, Old Kent Road, London, S.E.

HORTICULTURAL and AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS and MACHINES of every description.
Illustrated Catalogues on application.
Thomas Green & Son, Smithfield Iron Works, Leeds; and 2, Victoria Street, Holborn Hill, London, E.C.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.—STEAM ENGINES, THRESHING MACHINES, CARTS, WAGGONS, PLOUGHS, HARROWS, TURNIP CUTTERS, CHAFF CUTTERS for hand and power, LAWN MOWERS, PRIZE CHURNS, CASK STANDS, WIRE NETTING, and GARDEN TOOLS.
Illustrated Catalogues on receipt of 6 stamps. Price Lists free.
Burgess & Key, 95, Newgate Street, E.C.
Works, Brentwood, Essex.

Fresh Fruit all the Year Round.

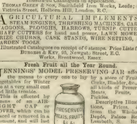
JENNINGS' MODEL PRESERVING JAR affords the means to every one to lay by a store of Fruit or Vegetables for Winter use at a very small cost and little trouble.
This is effected by means of an AIR-TIGHT CAP or COVER, which can be placed or removed in a moment, and will last for years in any climate, superseding the use of Bungs, Corks, Bladder, &c., for all kinds of Preserved Meats, Fruits, or Pickles.

Descriptive Illustrations, Prices, &c. from the Wholesale Depôt, Palace Road, Lambeth, S. Retail from all China and Glass Dealers, Ironmongers, and others.

PATENT WORCESTERSHIRE RANGE.



PRIZE MEDAL, 1862, AWARDED for EXCELLENCE.
The above RANGE is most complete, and strongly recommended for its unrivalled ECONOMY, CLEANLINESS, CONVENIENCE, DURABILITY, and is a certain CURE for SMOKY CHIMNEYS.
It is an entirely new invention, and consists of large MEAT ROASTER, PASTRY OVEN, and WROUGHT IRON BOILER. The top forms a HOT PLATE for BOILING, STEWING, &c. The whole heated by ONE SMALL FIRE. One 5 feet wide is equal to an ordinary Range 8 feet wide.

Extracted from the London Daily Telegraph, May 19, 1862.
"International Exhibition, Class 31.
"Of the most recent inventions it should be said that Messrs. Jones & Rowe's Patent Worcestershire Range has attracted very special attention, and has been commended by the best authorities. A valuable peculiarity of their Ranges is the placing of the OVEN and ROASTER one above the other instead of side by side; and the ROASTER is constantly replenished with fresh air."
Inventors and Manufacturers, Jones & Rowe, Worcester.
Agents for London: Barron, Son, & Wilson, 436, Strand, W.C.
Illustrated Catalogues, with Testimonials and Prices, forwarded on application.

Manufacturers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

FRY'S HOMŒOPATHIC ICELAND MOSS PEARL COCOA.
FRY'S SOLUBLE CHOCOLATE.
J. S. Fry & Sons were the only English Manufacturers of Cocoa who obtained the Prize Medal, 1862.

Sauce.—Lea and Perrins'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.—This delicious Condiment, pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
Is prepared solely by Lea & Perrins.
The public are respectfully cautioned against worthless imitations, and should see that Lea & Perrins' Names are on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper.
Ask for Lea and Perrins' Sauce.
 Sold Wholesale and for Export, by the Proprietors, Worcester; Messrs. Crosse & Blackwell; Messrs. Barclay & Sons, London, &c.; and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

DEANE'S (Monument), LONDON BRIDGE, E.C.
Established A.D. 1700.
FURNISH your HOUSE with the BEST ARTICLES: they are the cheapest in the end.
DEANE'S—Celebrated Table Cutlery, manufactured in every variety of style and finish.
DEANE'S—Electro-plated Spoons and Forks, best manufacture, strongly plated.
DEANE'S—Dish Covers and Hot-water Dishes. Prices of Tin Dish Covers in sets, 18*s.*, 30*s.*, 40*s.*, 63*s.*, 78*s.*
DEANE'S—Copper and Brass Goods, Kettles, Stew and Preserving Pans, Stockpots, &c.
DEANE'S—Moderator and Rock Oil Lamps, a large and handsome assortment.
DEANE'S—Domestic Baths for every purpose. Bath-rooms fitted complete.
DEANE'S—Fenders and Fire-irons, in all modern and approved patterns.
DEANE'S—Bedsteads in Iron and Brass, with Bedding of superior quality.
DEANE'S—Tin and Japan Goods, Iron Ware, Kitchen Requisites, and Culinary Utensils.
DEANE'S—Turnery, Brushes, Mats, &c., well made, strong, and serviceable.
DEANE'S—Horticultural Tools, Lawn Mowers, Garden Rollers, Wire-work, &c.
DEANE'S—Gas Chandeliers, newly designed patterns in glass and bronze—three-light glass from 63*s.*
NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE and PRICED FURNISHING LIST gratis and post free.
Deane & Co., The Monument, London Bridge, E.C.

LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF.—The foundation for all Mattress Bedding should be elastic, and the usual Spring Mattress is too heavy and cumbersome for general use. Heal & Son's new Patent LE SOMMIER ELASTIQUE PORTATIF is made in three separate parts, and is therefore light and portable; it is also cheap and durable; and as it has no stuffing on the top, it cannot harbour moth.

HEAL AND SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Designs and Prices of 100 Bedsteads, as well as of 150 different articles of Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.
Heal & Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham Court Road, W.

FENDERS, STOVES, FIRE-IRONS, and CHIMNEY PIECES.—Buyers of the above are requested, before finally deciding, to visit William S. Burton's SHOW-ROOMS. They contain such an assortment of FENDERS, STOVES, RANGES, CHIMNEY-PIECES, FIRE-IRONS, and GENERAL IRONMONGERY as cannot be approached elsewhere, either for variety, novelty, beauty of design, or exquisiteness of workmanship. Bright Stoves, with ormolu ornaments, 3*l.* 15*s.* to 33*l.* 10*s.*; Bronzed Fenders, with standards, 7*s.* to 5*l.* 12*s.*; Steel Fenders, 3*l.* 8*s.* to 11*l.*; ditto, with rich ormolu ornaments, from 3*l.* 3*s.* to 18*l.*; Chimney-pieces, from 1*l.* 8*s.* to 100*l.*; Fire Irons, from 2*s.* 3*d.* the set to 4*l.* 4*s.* The BURTON and all other PATENT STOVES, with radiating hearth-plates.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post paid. It contains upwards of 500 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-Plate, Nickel Silver and Britannia Metal Goods, Dish-Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimney-pieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers, Tea-Trays, Urns and Kettles, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed Room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with Lists of Prices, and Plans of the 20 large Show Rooms, at 39 Oxford Street, W.; 1, 1A, 2, 3, and 4, Newman Street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's Place; and 1 Newman Yard, London.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, the most secure against Fire and Thieves.
CHUBB'S FIRE-PROOF STRONG ROOM DOORS.
CHUBB'S PATENT DETECTOR LOCKS and STREET DOOR LATCHES; CHUBB'S CASH and DEED BOXES.
Illustrated Price List gratis and post free.
Chubb & Son, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

METCALFE, BINGLEY, and CO.'S NEW PATTERN TOOTH BRUSHES, Penetrating Unbleached Hair Brushes, Improved Flesh Brushes, genuine Smyrna Sponges, and every description of Brush and Comb and Perfumery for the Toilet. Metcalfe's celebrated Alkaline Tooth Powder, 2*s.* per box. The FAIRY BOUQUET, the OXFORD and CAMBRIDGE BOUQUET. In bottles, 2*s.*, 2*s.* 6*d.*, and 5*s.* each. 130 B. and 131, Oxford Street, W.

THRESHER'S COLORED FLANNEL SHIRTS.—Prize Medal awarded to Thresher & Glenny for very fine and superior FLANNEL SHIRTS, India Tweed Suits, and India Gauze Waistcoats.
Lists of Prices on application to Thresher & Glenny, General Outfitters, next door to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.

PRICE'S CHILD'S NIGHT LIGHTS are perfectly safe, and burn their time. The quality of these night lights can now be relied on.

SHERWOOD BED LIGHTS, Sixpence and Eighteenpence a box.—These candles are made to supply a want very generally expressed, a cheap, really good chamber candle. They will be found inferior only to "Price's Candles, which will not drop grease when carried," which are sold in boxes, 1*s.* and 3*s.* each.

GLYCERINE, which very simple tests show to be impure, is being sold on the statement that it is in every respect equal to Price's." Most medical men prescribe "PRICE'S GLYCERINE." Where purity is of importance patients can ensure it by desiring to have their Glycerine in 1 lb., 8 oz., 4 oz., or 2 oz. bottles, with capsule over the stopper marked "Price's Patent."
Belmont, Vauxhall.

CONSUMPTION.—All Nervous, Bilious, Liver and Stomach Complaints are only aggravated and accelerated by drugs of every description, but perfectly curable by Du Barry's health-restoring REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD, as proved by thousands of cases which had been considered hopeless. We quote a few:—Cure No. 46,170. Mr. James Roberts, of Frimley, Surrey, of [illegible] years diseased lungs, spitting of blood, liver derangement, and partial deafness.—Cure No. 47,[illegible] Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, of extreme nervousness, indigestion, gatherings, low spirits, and nervous fancies.—Cure No. 54,816. The Rev. James T. Campbell, Fakenham, Norfolk, "of indigestion and torpidity of the liver, which had resisted all medical treatment."—In tins, 1 lb., 2*s.* 9*d.*; 2 lb., 4*s.* 6*d.*; 5 lb., 11*s.*; 12 lb., 22*s.*; 24 lb., 40*s.*
Barry du Barry & Co., No. 77, Regent Street, London, W.; also at 61, Gracechurch Street, E.C.; 4, Cheapside, E.C.; 63 and 150, Oxford Street, W.; and all Grocers and Chemists in every town of the United Kingdom.

To Agricultural Implement Makers and Others.

JOHNSON AND SHAW'S FARMER'S ALMANAC and CALENDAR for 1864 will be published as usual on November [illegible]

ADVERTISEMENTS must be sent not later than October 12, and direct to the Publisher,

WILLIAM RIDGWAY, 169, Piccadilly, W.

CHEAPER EDITION OF

Loudon's Cottage, Farm, and Villa Architecture.

This day is published, in One large Volume, 8vo, with more than 2000 Woodcuts, price 42s. cloth,

LOUDON'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA of COTTAGE, FARM, and VILLA ARCHITECTURE and FURNITURE. Edited by Mrs. LOUDON.

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

Completion of Mr. W. Fairbairn's Work on Mills.

In 8vo, with 10 Plates and 146 Woodcuts, price 16s. cloth,

TREATISE on MILLS and MILLWORK, Vol. II. on Machinery of Transmission and the Construction and Arrangement of Mills, viz., [illegible] Engaging and Disengaging Gear; Mill Architecture; also [illegible] Flax [illegible] and Woollen Mills, with a Description of Oil [illegible] Mills, including a short Account of the Manufacture of Iron, and an INDEX to the whole work. By W. FAIRBAIRN, C.E., LL.D., F.R.S.

 [illegible] Motion [illegible] and [illegible] Woodcuts, price [illegible], and the work complete in 2 Vols. price 32s. cloth.

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

Price 4s. Quarterly [illegible] post free,

THE NATURAL HISTORY REVIEW, No. XII. (OCTOBER, 1863.)

CONTENTS:—

REVIEWS.—Bentham and Müller's Flora Australiensis—Harvey and [illegible] Flora Capensis—Agassiz, Natural History of the United States, Vol. IV., Part 2—Daubeny on Climate—Parlatore, Méthode Naturelle en Botanique—the Regensburg Flora—Pringsheim's Jahrbuch für Wissenschaftliche Botanik.

ORIGINAL ARTICLES.—On the Molar series of Rhinoceros Tichorhinus, by W. Boyd Dawkins, F.G.S.—on Animal Dextrine [illegible] M.R.I.A.—[illegible] U.S.A.—[illegible] Animals of Cambodia, by Dr. E. Blyth—on an Ancient Boat found in the Peat Moss near Flensburg—Bibliography (Physiology, Palæontology, and Botany).

WILLIAMS & NORGATE, 14, Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London; and 20, South Frederick Street, Edinburgh.

122, FLEET STREET, LONDON.

New Works.

MESSRS. JOHN MAXWELL AND CO. beg to announce for immediate publication the undermentioned Volumes.

I.

NEW SPORTING NOVEL.

In Three Vols., post 8vo, price 31s. 6d.,

SACKVILLE CHASE.

By C. J. COLLINS. [On Sept. 28.

II.

NEW INDIAN STORY.

In Two Vols., post 8vo, price 21s. 6d.,

STRONGHAND; or, the NOBLE REVENGE.

By GUSTAVE AIMARD. [Just out.

III.

NEW BOOK OF ESSAYS.

In One Vol., post 8vo, price 10s. 6d.,

BREAKFAST in BED.

By GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA. [Just out.

IV.

NEW CLERICAL NOVEL.

In One Vol., post 8vo, price 10s. 6d.,

THE REV. ALFRED HOBLUSH and his CURACIES.

By the Author of "Roman Candles," "The Night Mail," &c. [Just out.

V.

ROMANCE OF MERCANTILE LIFE.

In One Vol., post 8vo, 10s. 6d.,

SECRETS of MY OFFICE.

By A [illegible] [On Sept. 28.

VI.

In One Vol., post 8vo, 10s. 6d.,

THE CROSS of HONOUR. By the Author of "Small House in Piccadilly," "Philip Morton," &c. [Immediately.

London: JOHN MAXWELL & Co., 122, Fleet Street, E.C.

Now Ready.

A FEW USEFUL HINTS for FAMILIES.—One dozen copies sent free by post on receipt of two penny stamps addressed to

T. [illegible] & Co., 8, Crane Court, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

7th Edition, 10th Thousand, price 2s. 6d., post-free, 32 stamps.

DISEASES of the SKIN; a Guide to their Treatment and Prevention. Illustrated by Cases. By THOMAS HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square.

"Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.

London: T. RICHARDS, 37, Great Queen Street, W.C.

CORNS and BUNIONS.—A gentleman, many years [illegible] with Corns, will be happy to afford others the [illegible] entire removal in a [illegible] without pain or any kind of inconvenience.

For [illegible] a stamped envelope, to W. [illegible], Esq., Epsom, Surrey, S.

KEATING'S PERSIAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.—Fleas in Dogs, Poultry, &c., are instantly destroyed, as also Bugs, Beetles, and every other Insect, by this Powder, which is perfectly harmless to animal life; Sportsmen particularly will therefore find it invaluable.

Sold in Packets, 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for 14 or [illegible] postage stamps, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C. Take notice, each genuine packet bears the above name and address.

For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

DINNEFORD'S PURE FLUID MAGNESIA has been during 25 years emphatically sanctioned by the Medical Profession, and universally accepted by the public, as the best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild Aperient for delicate constitutions, more especially for ladies and children. It is prepared in a state of perfect purity and of uniform strength by

DINNEFORD & Co., 172, New Bond Street, London, and sold by all respectable Chemists throughout the world.

MINERALOGY.—KING'S COLLEGE, London. Professor TENNANT, F.G.S., will COMMENCE a COURSE of LECTURES on MINERALOGY, with a view to facilitate the study of GEOLOGY, and of the application of Mineral Substances in the Arts. The Lectures will begin on FRIDAY, October [illegible] at 9 A.M. They will be continued on each succeeding WEDNESDAY and FRIDAY, at the same hour; Fee, 2l. 2s.

R. W. JELF, D.D., Principal.

ROYAL SCHOOL of MINES.

Director.

Sir RODERICK IMPEY MURCHISON, K.C.B., F.R.S., &c.

During the SESSION 1863-64, which will COMMENCE on OCTOBER 5, the following COURSES of LECTURES and PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS will be given:—

1. CHEMISTRY. By A. W. HOFMANN, LL.D., F.R.S., &c.
2. METALLURGY. By JOHN PERCY, M.A., F.R.S.
3. NATURAL HISTORY. By T. H. HUXLEY, F.R.S.
4. MINERALOGY. } By WARINGTON W. SMYTH, M.A., F.R.S.
5. MINING. }
6. GEOLOGY. By [illegible]
7. APPLIED MECHANICS. By ROBERT WILLIS, M.A., F.R.S.
8. PHYSICS. By JOHN TYNDALL, F.R.S.

Instruction in Mechanical Drawing, by Rev. J. HAYTHORNE EDGAR, M.A.

The Fee for Students desirous of becoming Associates is 30l. [illegible]

Pupils are received in the Royal College of Chemistry (the Laboratory of the School), under the direction of Dr. Hofmann, and in the Metallurgical Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. Percy.

Tickets to separate Course of Lectures are issued at 3l. and 4l. each.

Officers in the Queen's Service, Her Majesty's Consuls, acting Mining Agents and Managers, may obtain tickets at reduced prices.

Certificated Schoolmasters, Pupil Teachers, and others engaged in education, are also admitted to the Lectures at reduced fees.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has granted two Scholarships, and several others have also been established.

For a Prospectus and information, apply at the Museum of Practical Geology, Jermyn Street, London, S.W.

TRENHAM REEKS, Registrar.

THE LIVERPOOL and LONDON FIRE and LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Established in 1836.

Offices—1, Dale Street, Liverpool; 20 and 21, Poultry, London.

PROGRESS OF THE COMPANY SINCE 1850.

| Year | Fire Premiums | Life Premiums | Invested Funds |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1851 | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] |
| 1856 | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] |
| 1861 | [illegible] | [illegible] | £1,311,986 |
| 1862 | £436,[illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] |

The Fire Duty paid by the Company in England in 1862 was £71,[illegible]

SWINTON BOULT, Secretary to the Company.

JOHN ATKINS, Resident Secretary, London.

Fire Policies falling due at Michaelmas should be renewed by the 14th October.

Agents Wanted.

THE CALEDONIAN INSURANCE COMPANY (Established 1805 by Royal Charter and special Act of Parliament) is prepared to appoint additional AGENTS for either the Fire or Life Departments. [illegible]

Applications to be addressed to JAMES [illegible], Esq., Resident Secretary, Caledonian Insurance Office, [illegible], Lombard [illegible], E.C.

THE NEW WEATHER INDICATOR. By L. CASELLA, for correctly foretelling Changes in the Weather, either for Rain, Wind, or Moisture. Particulars, with prices, by [illegible]

[illegible], Hatton Garden, London, E.C.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system), the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

THE despatches of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF, in reply to the last Notes of France, Austria, and England, were published on Saturday. They state that as the proposed end of the correspondence has not been attained, it would be contrary to the conciliatory dispositions of the Russian Government to seek to prolong it; that Russia prefers to fix her attention on essential points upon which she finds herself agreeing with the three Powers; that the EMPEROR desires to see tranquility restored to Poland, and continues to be animated with the most benevolent intentions to that country; and that until Russia has violated a fundamental principle of international relations, she has the right to expect and to claim the like respect from other Powers that she is in the habit of extending to them. In a memorandum which accompanied the despatches, Prince GORTSCHAKOFF says that encouragement of the Revolution is only to be feared from those Powers which may be determined to pursue, under an appearance of diplomatic action within the limits of international engagements, the realisation of the most extreme desires of the Revolutionary party and the subversion of the European equilibrium. As this remark cannot apply to either Austria or England, which have taken as the basis of their intervention the scrupulous execution of the Treaties of 1815, it is obviously intended to refer to France. The French Government has accordingly responded to the sarcasm which it conveys by publishing conspicuously in the Moniteur a letter addressed by the Polish National Government to Prince CZARTORYSKI, demanding for the Poles a recognition as belligerents, and accepting the challenge of Russia to decide the issue by war.

At the sitting of the Federal Diet at Frankfort on Saturday, the united committees recommended the taking possession of the administration of the Duchy of Holstein, and the entry of 6000 Hanoverian and Saxon troops, Austria and Prussia furnishing the reserve. On the other hand the Danish Government has commenced preparations for resisting the threatened attack, and has issued an order for filling up the regimental list to war strength by the 1st of October.

A despatch from Vienna states that the Archduke MAXIMILIAN has finally accepted the Crown of Mexico, and renounced his rights as the nearest collateral heir to the Austrian throne.

An attempt was made at Warsaw on Saturday, to assassinate General BERG by means of an Orsini bomb thrown from the window of the Zamoyski Palace, or from the pavement before it. The perpetrator has not been discovered, but the Russian authorities have avenged the act by allowing the two palaces of the ZAMOYSKI family to be pillaged by the military and converted into barracks, while the male and female inhabitants of both palaces have been conveyed to the citadel, and the two Counts ZAMOYSKI and Prince LUBOMINSKI have been imprisoned in chains. The Russian Count LEBOUCHINE has since been assassinated in retaliation for the active part he took in the plunder of the palaces.

Despatches from Charleston announce that after a gallant defence the Confederates have been compelled to evacuate Forts Wagner and Gregg, and that the whole of Morris Island is now in the occupation of the Federals. Fort Sumter however still holds out, and the Federals have been repulsed with loss in an attempt to occupy it. The bombardment of Charleston has not been renewed, but General GILMORE was preparing to reopen fire. In East Tennessee Cumberland Gap and Knoxville have been captured by General BURNSIDE, who has since resigned his command, and General ROSENCRANZ has officially reported the capture of Chattanooga. A good deal of excitement had been caused at New York by the expected departure of the iron-clads from Liverpool, and the papers urge war with England if such hostile measures are permitted by the British Government. The Confederate Government has recalled Mr. MASON, it's Commissioner in London, on the ground that his continued residence in England is neither conducive to the interests nor consistent with the dignity of that Government.

By the Cape mail we learn that the Confederate steamers Alabama and Georgia are cruising off the Cape for the purpose of intercepting the Federal shipping. The Alabama has already captured 56 vessels, and the Georgia 15. One of the Alabama's prizes was captured at the entrance of Table Bay, in full sight of thousands of colonists.

Home News.

THE QUEEN IN SCOTLAND.—On Wednesday week the Queen, accompanied by the Princesses, visited the cairn erected to the memory of the Prince Consort, and visited the Prince and Princess of Wales at Abergeldie. The Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse arrived at Balmoral. On Thursday the Prince and Princess Louis drove to Abergeldie to visit the Princess of Wales. The Prince and Princess of Wales dined at the Castle in the evening. On Saturday the Queen and the Princesses took a drive in the vicinity of Balmoral. On Sunday the Queen and the Princesses attended divine service at the Castle. The service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Stuart, of Edinburgh, one of her Majesty's Chaplains. The Prince and Princess of Wales, Prince Alfred, and Princess Helena attended divine service at the parish church of Crathie. On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, drove to Invercauld. Princess Helena and Princess Louisa rode on horseback. The Prince and Princess of Wales dined at Balmoral. On Tuesday afternoon the Queen, accompanied by the Princess Helena, drove out. Prince

Alfred dined with the Prince and Princess of Wales at Abergeldie Castle.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—On Saturday week the Prince went out deer-stalking in the forest of Invercauld, where he saw a herd of 300 noble stags, but the wind having suddenly veered, they passed beyond rifle range. At an after period of the day, when the Princess had joined the party, a deer drive took place from Craig Cluny; and two of the herd fell before the rifles of the Royal party. At the conclusion of the sport, the Prince and Princess visited the Falls of the Garrawalt. On Tuesday week the Prince went out shooting and killed two fine stags. The Prince and Princess afterwards visited the Lochnagar whisky distillery. On Wednesday week the Prince of Wales and Prince Alfred had good sport among the grouse, and in the afternoon the Princess enjoyed a hill-side pic-nic.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS LOUIS OF HESSE arrived at Balmoral on Wednesday week on a visit to the Queen, and were heartily welcomed by a number of the tenantry, who, by her Majesty's command, had been made aware of their coming. In driving up to the Castle, the Princess, who has been always a great favourite in the locality, gratified the tenantry in no ordinary degree by holding up her baby at the carriage window.

THE PRINCESS LOUISE OF DENMARK proposes to visit this country in a few days, on a visit to her daughter the Princess of Wales. Prince Christian will come to London subsequently, and as King George will arrive about the same time, he will thus have an opportunity of taking leave of his parents before his departure for Greece.

PARLIAMENTARY MOVEMENTS.—There is a vacancy at Barnstaple caused by the death of Mr. Potts. Captain Fraser of the 1st Life Guards, brother of Sir W. Fraser, Bart., M.P., is mentioned as a candidate for the vacant seat. The Hon. F. Lygon has announced himself a candidate for West Worcestershire. Four candidates are mentioned for the seat thus vacated at Tewkesbury—Sir E. A. H. Lechmere, of the Rhydd; Mr. Dowdeswell, of Pull Court; Mr. Talbot, nephew of Lord Lyttelton; and Mr. Logan, a gentleman connected with a large stocking factory lately established in the town.

COLONIAL APPOINTMENT.—The Gazette of Friday announces that the Queen has appointed Sir Henry Barkly, K.C.B., to be Governor of Mauritius and its dependencies.

THE POLISH QUESTION.—The following despatch in answer to the recent note of the British Government has been communicated to Earl Russell by the Russian Ambassador at this Court:—

"PRINCE GORTSCHAKOFF TO BARON BRUNNOW.

"Tsarkoe-Selo, Aug. 26—Sept. 7, 1863.

"Lord Napier has, by order of his Government, communicated to me a despatch from Lord Russell, of which your Excellency will find a copy hereunto annexed. It is an answer to my despatch of the 1st—13th of July last, which you were invited to communicate to the Principal Secretary of State of Her Britannic Majesty. The overtures which we had set forth in that document were dictated to us by the desire to arrive at an understanding. In receiving the observations which they have suggested to Lord Russell with the attention which we always pay to the opinions of her Britannic Majesty's Government, we cannot but regret that we must come to the conclusion that we have not attained the end which we had proposed to ourselves. From the moment that this discussion could only end in establishing and in confirming the divergence of our views, it would be contrary to our conciliatory disposition for us to seek to prolong it; and we believe that in this we are not acting at variance with the sentiments of the Principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty. We prefer to fix our attention only upon the essentials points of his despatches, upon which we find ourselves agreed, at least in intention. Her Britannic Majesty's Government desire to see promptly re-established in the Kingdom of Poland a state of things which shall restore tranquility to that country, repose to Europe, and security to the relations of the Cabinets. We entirely share in this desire, and all that can depend upon us shall be done to realise it. Our august master continues to be animated by the most benevolent intentions toward Poland, and by the most conciliatory towards all foreign Powers. To provide for the welfare of his subjects of all races and of every religious conviction is an obligation which his Imperial Majesty has accepted before God, his conscience, and his people. The Emperor devotes all his solicitude to the fulfilment of that obligation. As regards the responsibility which may be assumed by his Majesty in his international relations, those relations are regulated by public right. The violation of those fundamental principles can alone involve responsibility. Our august master has constantly respected and observed those principles with regard to other States. His Majesty has the right to expect and to claim the same respect on the part of the other Powers. You will be pleased to read and give a copy of this despatch to the Principal Secretary of State of her Britannic Majesty.—Receive, &c."

WITHDRAWAL OF THE CONFEDERATE COMMISSIONER.—Mr. Mason, the Commissioner from the Confederate States, has addressed the following letter to Earl Russell, announcing that he has been instructed by the Confederate Government at Richmond to withdraw from this country. Mr. Mason, it is understood, has proceeded to Paris, where he will remain for the present.

"24, Upper Seymour Street, Portman Square, September 21, 1863.

"The Right Honourable Earl Russell, her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

"My Lord,—In a despatch from the Secretary of State of the Confederate States of America, dated 4th day of August last, and now just received, I am instructed to consider the commission which brought me to England as at an end, and I am directed to withdraw at once from this country. The reasons for terminating this mission are set forth in an extract from the despatch, which I have the honour to communicate herewith. The President believes that 'The Government of her Majesty has determined to decline the overtures made through you for establishing, by treaty, friendly relations between the two Governments, and entertains no intention of receiving you as the accredited Minister of this Government near the British Court. Under these circumstances, your continued residence in London is neither conducive to the interests nor consistent with the dignity of this Government; and the President therefore requests that you consider your mission at an end, and that you withdraw with your Secretary from London.' Having made known to your Lordship, on my arrival here, the character and purposes of the mission entrusted to me by my Government, I have deemed it due to courtesy thus to make known to the Government of Her Majesty its termination, and that I shall, as directed, at once withdraw from England. I have the honour to be your Lordship's very obedient servant,

"J. M. MASON."

THE ADMIRALTY.—Captain George Henry Richards has been appointed Hydrographer of the Admiralty, in the room of the late Rear-Admiral Washington.

THE CHANNEL FLEET, with the exception of the Liverpool, left the Mersey yesterday morning for Dublin Bay, where it will remain if possible until Wednesday next. It is said that the Liverpool has remained behind for the purpose of watching the suspected Ironclads. An attempt to procure a visit from the Fleet to Bristol has proved unsuccessful. The Mayor has received a letter from the Lords of the Admiralty regretting that, owing to the lateness of the season, it will not be possible for the fleet to visit Bristol this year.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—The Moniteur of Friday published the despatch of M. Drouyn de Lhuys to the Duke de Montebello, dated August 3, and translations of the English and Austrian despatches. The conclusions of the French despatch are identical with those of the other Powers. Baron de Budberg, on Monday, handed to M. Drouyn de Lhuys the following despatch from Prince Gortschakoff in reply to this Note:—

"Tsarkoe Selo, August 26 (Sept. 7).

"I have the honour to transmit herewith to your excellency the copy of a despatch from M. Drouyn de Lhuys which the Duke de Montebello was desired to communicate to us. The Imperial Cabinet has considered this document with all the attention it deserves, and with the sincere desire to bring this exchange of ideas to an understanding. After mature examination we have not discovered therein any motive for us to depart from the points of view which I communicated to you in my despatch of the 1st (13th) July. We believe we anticipate the wishes of the French Minister for Foreign Affairs in abstaining from prolonging a discussion which would not attain the object of conciliation we have in view, if it had no other result than to confirm each of the two governments in its opinion upon a question on which we deeply regret not to agree with the Cabinet of the Tuileries. We shall only take up a single point of the despatch of M. Drouyn de Lhuys, because we are solicitous to remove beforehand any fresh subject of misunderstanding. I refer to the allusion several times and in various forms made by the French Minister for Foreign Affairs to the western provinces of Russia as participating in a certain degree in the international stipulations which in 1815 settled the destiny of the duchy of Warsaw. The Imperial Cabinet could not admit this point of view, even in the most restricted form; and your excellency is invited to reiterate to M. Drouyn de Lhuys the declaration already made in my preceding despatch, that his Majesty, ever ready to scrupulously fulfil his obligations towards all the Powers, must peremptorily exclude even from an amicable exchange of ideas any allusion to parts of his empire to which no international stipulation whatever applies. As regards the other points referred to in the despatch of the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, we prefer to dwell upon those on which we agree, at least in intention. The French Government wishes to see promptly re-established in the kingdom of Poland a state of things which would restore tranquillity to that country, repose to Europe, and give security to the relations between the Cabinets. We fully participate in this desire, and all that may depend upon us shall be done to realise it. Our august master continues to be animated by intentions the most benevolent towards Poland, and the most conciliatory towards the foreign Powers. The well-being of all his subjects, of all races and all religious convictions, is an obligation which his Imperial Majesty has accepted before God, his conscience, and his people. The Emperor devotes all his solicitude to fulfil it. As regards the responsibility which his Majesty may assume in his international relations, these relations are regulated by public right. The violation of these fundamental principles can alone entail responsibility. Our august master has constantly respected and observed these principles towards other states. His Majesty has a right to expect and claim the same respect on the part of the Powers. You will be good enough to read and remit a copy of this despatch to the French Minister for Foreign Affairs."

The Moniteur of Sunday published the memorandum which accompanied the preceding despatch, and of which copies were at the same time addressed to the Governments of Paris, London, and Vienna. The memorandum, of which the following is an abstract, fills 10 columns of the Moniteur:—

"It begins by proving that the right of Russia to Poland is derived from the incontestable right of conquest. It says that it would be strange if at the time when all the great Powers of Europe obtained an increase of territory, Russia, who gave the signal of a general independent struggle, and who was the bond of the great European alliance, should have been deprived of the advantage of a compensation. It discusses the different assertions in the notes of the three Powers, and concludes by saying that it cannot be expected that the Cabinets interested in the maintenance of the equilibrium of Europe will pursue, under the appearance of diplomatic action, the realisation of the most extreme wishes of the revolutionary party."

The Moniteur responds to this remark by publishing the letter addressed by the Polish National Committee to Prince Czartoryski, demanding for the Poles a recognition as belligerents, and accepting the challenge of Russia to decide the issue by war. This document fills no less than eight columns of the official journal, and the public were disposed to attach so much significance to its publication at the present moment, that a fall took place at the Bourse in consequence. The Opinion Nationale also attaches great importance to its publication in the official journal, and the Patrie says that its appearance in such an organ is a political event, an adoption as it were of the reasoning of the National Committee in favour of the recognition of the belligerent rights of the Poles as a just, logical, and generous act. The Temps, Gazette de France, and Siècle think it tantamount to moral recognition, the importance of which would be nullified were it not the precursor of the recognition of the Poles as belligerents. La France considers that its insertion in the Moniteur has acquired the proportions of an event, and will produce a lively impression in Europe. It also states that the last replies of Prince Gortschakoff have produced the same impression in London as in Paris; that the three Courts continue in perfect agreement, and it is not impossible that events may draw France and England into an intimate accord with the object of meeting the eventualities which may arise from the present situation of France. Russia, it says, has broken the treaties of 1815 in their stipulations relative to Poland, a grave fact, creating a new situation in Europe. It reminds Russia that in 1854 the Emperor Nicholas was firmly convinced that England would never ally herself with France in the East, and that Austria would not enter into an amicable understanding with the Western Powers, and facilitate, by placing armies on the frontier and in the Danubian Principalities, the active operations of the war. The Constitutionnel of Monday publishes an article signed by M. de Limayrac, in which he states that France does not stand alone in her opinion regarding the affairs of the western provinces of Russia, or upon the other points raised in the Russian reply. He calls to mind that Lord Castlereagh in 1815, and Lord Palmerston in 1831, treated the subject in the same sense as M. Drouyn de Lhuys; and concludes by saying that the Polish question has now evidently entered a new phase, and will require the most careful examination. The Patrie publishes a pastoral letter of the Bishop of Marseilles, desiring the prayers of the faithful for their Catholic brethren in Poland, and recommending that Providence should be implored to cover them with its protection and to afford them liberty and peace. It is again asserted that the Russian Ambassador is about to leave Paris for St. Petersburg on leave of absence. No interview has taken place between him and M. Drouyn de Lhuys since the communication of the last diplomatic documents. La France of Thursday states that the Duke de Montebello will be received on the 27th inst. by the Emperor of Russia, and will set out on the following day for Paris. It is asserted that Prince Napoleon is going to London. The Federal corvette Kearsage has arrived at Brest from Madeira in pursuit of the Florida, and is treated by the authorities of that port in the same manner as the Confederate cruiser, both belligerents enjoying the same rights and the same advantages. The repairs of the Florida were finished on Tuesday, and on the following day she was to leave the port, in order to meet a second Federal corvette, which is now at Lisbon, and prevent the junction of the two Federal ships-of-war. The Pays of Friday says:—

"The English journals are mistaken in looking upon the note lately published in the Moniteur respecting the Florida as a great step towards the recognition of the Confederate States. The note in question was the result of a declaration made two years ago recognizing the Confederate States in the quality of a belligerent. No act since then has announced an intention on the part of France to go further. If the Emperor's Government believed itself bound to recognize the Confederate States as a constituted Power, and to establish official relations with their Government, it would do so openly, and not by indirect means."

The Patrie says that the French colony of New Caledonia is likely to prove a valuable acquisition to France, gold fields having been discovered there.

SPAIN.—Marshal O'Donnell and Sir John Crampton, the English Ambassador, have arrived at Madrid. A rumour was current that Marshal O'Donnell would again be placed at the head of the Government. The Duc de Nemours and Señor Baez, ex-President of St. Domingo, have arrived at Madrid. The Epoca asserts that the Cabinets of Washington and Madrid have determined to submit the question of jurisdiction within Cuban waters to the arbitration of the King of the Belgians. It is said, however, that the Emperor has declared that he would without displeasure see Spain vigorously chastise the refractory tribes of the Riff. Troops have already been sent to Malaga. The King is about to proceed to the baths at Alama.

BELGIUM.—The Archduchess Charlotte has left Brussels for Miramar. She is the bearer of the decision of the King of the Belgians, who is said to advise the archduke to refuse the throne of Mexico.

HOLLAND.—The States-General were opened on Monday by the King in person. In his speech his Majesty said that the foreign relations of Holland continued to be friendly, while the good understanding with Belgium had been strengthened by the treaties recently made between the two States. He congratulated the country on its prosperity, and the good state of its military forces, and informed the States that projects of law for a new criminal and civil code, for the extension of railways, for a reform of the system of taxation, and for the improvement of the Dutch colonies, would be presented to them in the course of the session.

DENMARK.—As the first step towards placing the army on a war footing, the Minister of War issued an order on Monday that the regimental lists should be filled up to war strength by the 1st of October.

FRANKFORT.—At the sitting of the Federal Diet on Saturday, the United Committees upon the Holstein question reported in favour of Federal execution being carried out in that province. The Committees recommend taking possession of the administration of the entire duchy, and the entry of 6000 Hanoverian and Saxon troops, Austria and Prussia furnishing the reserve. The vote of the Diet upon the report will be taken on the 1st of October next.

PRUSSIA.—The Neue Preussische (Kreuz) Zeitung of the 23d publishes the reply of the King to the Princes and Burgomasters of the German free towns who communicated to his Majesty the resolutions of the recent Congress of Sovereigns. The reply rejects the propositions of Austria and her allies, and states the conditions upon which the King desires to establish Federal reform. These consist in the equality of Austria and Prussia in all Federal concerns, equal right of veto of both the great Powers, and a different organisation in the representation of the country at the Federal Assembly to that proposed by Austria. The Ministry have presented to the King a report on the question of Federal reform. The following are the main features of the report:—

It commences with a complaint that the Austrian reform project was imperfectly communicated to the King, and after the date of the invitation to the other Sovereigns. It is opposed to any declaration of war so long as Federal territory should not be assailed. It advocates the thorough equality of Austria and Prussia in the directorate, direct election of the popular delegates, and more extended powers for the national representatives. It proposes that the King shall decline assent to the Austrian plan and enter into negotiations with his Federal allies on the points indicated above, convoking a conference of Ministers of the different German States to agree upon another scheme of Federal reform; and that the scheme shall then be submitted either to elected representatives of the nation, or laid before the Diets of the different German States.

The trial of the editors of the seven Berlin papers took place on Friday. They were charged with having excited contempt and hatred against the orders of the authorities by publishing a declaration hostile to the press ordinances. The editors were defended by Herren Gneist, Holthoff, and Ulfers, and were all acquitted.

AUSTRIA.—The following is the text of the note addressed by Prince Gortschakoff to the Russian representative at Vienna, in answer to the Austrian note on the Polish question:—

"Tzarskoe-Selo, August 26.

"You will find annexed the copy of a despatch from Count de Rechberg, which the Austrian chargé d'affaires was charged to communicate to me. It contains the observations suggested to the Austrian Minister for Foreign Affairs by the overtures contained in my despatch of July 13, and states, to our great regret, that the Austrian Government differs with us in opinion on most of the points which we have mentioned. Our propositions had in view the work of conciliation, the urgency of which Count de Rechberg has pointed out to us. My despatch of July 18, had for object to precisely point out that idea, and to remove beforehand the objections and the misunderstanding to which it might give rise. We regret that it has not met with the adhesion of the Cabinet of Vienna. The more value we should have attached to coming to an understanding with it on a question in which we consider our interests to be identical, the farther are we from wishing to prolong a discussion which will do no more than prove a difference of opinion. We are persuaded that Count de Rechberg will share in this feeling. We prefer to confine ourselves to the essential points of his despatches, on which we at least intend to be in accord with him. The Austrian Government wishes to see a state of things promptly re-established in the kingdom of Poland which would restore tranquillity to that country, repose to Europe, and security to the relations between the Cabinets. We fully participate in that desire, and all that may depend on us shall be done in order to realise it. Our august master continues to be animated with the kindest intentions towards Poland, and with the most conciliatory feelings towards all foreign Powers. The welfare of all his subjects, of all races and of all religious creeds, is an obligation which his Imperial Majesty has accepted before God, his conscience, and his people. The Emperor devotes all his solicitude to fulfil it. As regards the responsibility which may be assumed by his Majesty in his international relations, those relations are regulated by public right. The violation of those fundamental principles can alone involve responsibility. Our august master has constantly respected and observed those principles with regard to other States. His Majesty has the right to expect and claim the same respect on the part of other Powers. You will please to read and give a copy of this despatch to the Austrian Minister of Foreign Affairs."

The Europe of Saturday states that this despatch has not been considered satisfactory by the Austrian Cabinet, and the Presse of Vienna dwells upon the arrogance of Russia, and declares that the only dignified and efficacious means of arriving at a solution would be to occupy Poland in the name of Europe; for the responsibility of the Powers will otherwise be great. The Mexican deputation commissioned to offer the crown to the Archduke Maximilian has arrived in France in the Tampico packet, and is about to leave for Trieste, where the Archduke has announced that he will receive it. The Europe of Monday says that the Archduke Maximilian has finally accepted the Crown of Mexico at all risks and peril, and even renounced his rights and prerogatives as the nearest collateral Prince to the Austrian Crown. The Memorial Diplomatique of Sunday says that England has expressed herself satisfied with the explanations given by the Archduke Maximilian as to the policy of the new Empire of Mexico, and is prepared to join France in acknowledging the new government as soon as the Archduke has announced his final acceptance. The Lower House of the Reichsrath having protested against the arrest of Deputy Rogawski as an infringement of members' privileges, he has been set at liberty.

ITALY.—The King reviewed the troops on Monday at Gallarate, near Milan. The review was a splendid affair, and his Majesty was enthusiastically cheered by the people. On Wednesday another review took place at Gallarate, and lasted three hours. The concourse of spectators was very large. His Majesty was accompanied by the Royal Princes, numerous officers of the Staff, and several foreign officers, and was received with great enthusiasm. Public fêtes were afterwards held in Milan. On Thursday 51 batteries defiled before the King at another grand review at Gallarate. The troops loudly cheered his Majesty and the Princes on their return to Somma. Count Launay, Italian Minister to Prussia, and the Marquis d'Azeglio, Italian Minister to England, have arrived at Turin on leave of absence. The Court of Assize of Santa Maria, near Caserta, has been designated for the trial of the brigands of the Aunie. Despatches from Melfi, Potenza, and Caserta announce the surrender of numerous brigands with their chiefs. Much rejoicing prevailed among the people on this account. Cardinal Marini, the most eminent man of the Sacred College, whose death was lately announced, is said to have died of grief. It appears that among the file of law papers relative to M. Fausti's trial which were stolen, a revelation from Madame Diotalleri was found stating that the Cardinals Marini, Mertel, and De Pietro were conspiring against the Pontifical Government, in conjunction with the Roman Committee. The tribunal did not hesitate in accepting such an accusation against three cardinals of great reputation, though the revelation in question is now known to be a calumny.

RUSSIA.—The Emperor returned to St. Petersburg on Sunday. The King of the Greeks arrived on Monday. The Grand Duke Constantine's journey to the Crimea is said to be partly owing to the opposition his views relative to the Polish question encountered at St. Petersburg. The Grand Duke will not return to Warsaw. Letters from St. Petersburg state that 11 iron-plated gunboats, with turrets, will be completed in the spring. Twenty thousand men are reported to be stationed in Finland. A decree has been issued recalling all superior and inferior cavalry officers at present on leave to their regiments; and the Russian Minister of Marine has decided not to grant any leave of absence to the officers of the navy. The Russian Admiralty is making experiments with vessels specially destined in the event of war to be sunk in the channels of Cronstadt. Intelligence from Odessa states that 26 battalions of the Russian reserve are being levied in Kiew, to act against the insurgent peasants in the Ukraine.

FINLAND.—The Finnish Diet was opened on Friday with a speech from the Emperor. His Majesty said that the revenue of the Grand Duchy had always sufficed to cover current expenses, and will still be sufficient to pay off the debt contracted for the expenses of constructing the last railway. No new loan will be undertaken without the consent of the Diet, except in case of a sudden invasion, or some other unforeseen misfortune. His Majesty said that he was desirous of remedying the imperfections of the fundamental laws, and that he should soon cause to be laid before the Diet Bills granting more extended privileges, upon the assessment of taxes, and the right of introducing bills, reserving to himself, however, the initiative in fundamental changes.

POLAND.—The Polish National Government has addressed a letter to Prince Czartoryski, of which the following is a summary:—

It commences by asserting the principles of national independence, political and religious liberty, equality in the eye of the law, and justice impartially distributed to all classes and creeds. The laws imposed on the country by foreign domination are rejected. It says that laws to be obeyed ought to be impressed with the spirit of the nation, should therefore be of Polish origin, and, founded on the eternal principles of right, should be the expression of the national sovereignty. Respect for authority, it says, is the necessary consequence of a system of things based on the confidence of the governed, on the justice of the rulers, and on the love of both for their common country. With regard to the application of the principles thus laid down the manifesto declares that the propositions submitted to the Cabinet of St. Petersburg do not offer sufficient security to the Polish nation, whose unquestionable rights do not seem to be recognised by them. The Polish question is presented in the light of a question of European order. "The proclamations of General Mouravieff are of themselves sufficient to prove that the Russian domination is only sustained by the upsetting of every principle on which organised societies are based. Family property, and social harmony are trampled under foot in these proclamations and by the acts of the Russian Government. In fact, social order, the principles which are its foundation, and the inviolable rights which it consecrates, have now in Poland no other security, no other protection, than what is afforded by the National Government and the insurrection which they direct." The manifesto then shows that the Polish movement is not of foreign origin, and complains that it is the object of surveillance and measures on the part of neighbouring Powers which amount to a real intervention. It demands for the Poles a recognition as belligerents, and declares that they were ready to accept the suspension of arms which Russia refused. "If," it says, "Russia will have no truce, we accept the challenge, and, the God of our fathers with us, we are ready to renew the struggle in the firm hope that the future is ours."

The leave of absence to go abroad granted by the Russian Government to the Marquis Wielopolski has been made permanent, and he has, at the same time, been definitively relieved of his functions as Civil Governor and Vice-President of the Council of State. On Friday afternoon an Orsini bomb was thrown at General Berg, from the pavement in front of Zamoyski-house as he was driving through Cracow, a suburb of Warsaw. A Circassian in General Berg's suite was killed, and the General himself was wounded. In consequence of this attempt the two palaces of the Zamoyski family at Warsaw have been sacked by the military, and the palaces condemned to be used as barracks for ever. All the male inhabitants of both mansions were carried off to the citadel, and the two Counts Zamoyski and Prince Thaddeus Lubominski were put in chains. The Public Library, the archives of the Vistula Steam Navigation Company, and the Oriental collection of Professor Kowalewski were also burnt; and the soldiers, in revenge, outraged women and pillaged the property of 1500 inhabitants of Warsaw. They also pillaged several shops, burning merchandise where they did not carry it away. The Russian Colonel Lebouchine, who took a prominent part in the destruction of Count Zamoyski's palace, was stabbed on Wednesday in Warsaw. André Woytulewicz, of the St. Petersburg Lancers, has been shot at Pownewej for having passed over to the ranks of the insurgents. On the 9th inst. the Russians began to destroy the forests bordering on the Warsaw and Vienna railroad. On the 13th the insurgent leaders Szumlanski and Malusiewicz defeated the Russians at Lutomierz, in the woywodeship of Kalisz. A sanguinary engagement took place on the 16th at Zask. Chmielinski's detachment skirmished with the Russians on the 17th and 18th, and defeated Czengery on the 21st and 22nd in the woywodeship of Cracow. Another engagement, terminating favourably for the insurgents, took place near Radom. An engagement, resulting in the defeat of the Russians, took place at Masovien on the 12th inst. between the Poles, under Sokolowsk, and the Russians, under Bornewo. Numerous bands of insurgents are operating in the woywodeships of Lublin and Kalisz. A great movement and constant armaments are taking place in the government of Lublin. There is no want of men nor of arms, but a deficiency in skilled officers. Six large detachments have already been formed in the district; some smaller detachments and numerous corps of gendarmes are being organised. The Polish detachments occupy Podlachia. A corps at Brzeselitewski, on the other hand, had to be dissolved to prevent its being surrounded by the Russians. On the 15th inst. the Russian troops massacred a great number of the inhabitants of Lutomicz. Count Pustowski has been wounded by the Cossacks. The National Government has decreed a life annuity to the sisters of Lelewel. Mr. Lawrence Oliphant, the well-known author and diplomatist, and the Hon. Evelyn Ashley, private secretary to Lord Palmerston, have arrived at Cracow. Mr. M. Johnson and Mr. H. M'Culloch have arrived at Czemowitz, and without delay will commence their plans for the Czemowitz and Lemberg Railway.

GREECE.—According to advices received at Trieste from Athens, four Ministers of State had withdrawn their resignation. The National Guard of Athens threatened to put down any insurrection. One of the squares in Athens was to receive the name of Palmerston Square.

THE PRINCIPALITIES.—An unsuccessful attempt has been made on the life of Prince Gregory Sturdza.

THE CAUCASUS.—Engagements are continually taking place with the Russians in the Caucasus.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—The Cape Parliament was prorogued on the 28th July. The Governor had announced his intention of summoning the next parliament to assemble at Graham's Town. He was to leave Cape Town for Graham's Town in the course of a few weeks. Great excitement prevailed at Cape Town in consequence of this arrangement, and meetings had been held in opposition to it. The whole colony had another cause of great excitement in the visit of the Confederate war steamers Alabama and Georgia. The Alabama captured, in full sight of thousands of the colonists, the Federal barque, Sea Bride, as she was running into Table Bay. The Georgia and Tuscaloosa, formerly the Conrad, were in Simon's Bay. The Alabama had captured altogether 56 vessels, and the Georgia 15. The United States consul had formally protested against some of these captures on the ground that they took place in British waters, and were a violation of the Queen's proclamation. Her Majesty's ship Valorous left on the evening of August 19 for Saldanha Bay to observe the movements of the Confederate squadron. The Federal war steamer Vanderbilt left St. Helena, August 20, and was said to be in pursuit of the Alabama.

INDIA.—By the Bombay mail we have intelligence to the 24th August. The Viceroy had returned to Simla, preparatory to his setting out on a northern tour, and will proceed as far as Cashmere, where he will have an interview with the Maharajah. The supposed Nana Sahib was on his way to Agra. It is now believed that he is a Brahmin personating the Nana for political purposes. Affghanistan was in a state of great agitation, and on the eve of a political convulsion. Cholera was making great ravages in Oude, and had carried off 2000 people in Lucknow alone. The supply of cotton in the Madras presidency will be greater than in any former year.

CHINA.—The Gazette of Tuesday contains an extract from a despatch from Major-General Brown, commanding the British troops in China, concerning the alleged torture of rebel prisoners by the Imperialists after the capture of Taitsan. The despatch states that the Chinese authorities have been informed that if any cruelty was exercised upon prisoners the British troops would cease to act with them. Many of the prisoners taken at Quang-san, so far from being tortured have been incorporated by Major Gordon into his own regiment, and they have been found most useful and efficient. The despatch also contains a letter from Lieut. R. E. Cane, R.A., in which he speaks of the treatment received by Imperialist soldiers at the hands of the rebels, and the difficulty of restraining them from retaliatory acts of vengeance for the torture of their comrades.

Japan.—A California telegram of the 7th inst. says that the Japanese Government appears desirous to avoid a war with foreigners, having not only paid all the indemnity demanded by England, but also made a satisfactory apology. This, however, displeased the Damios, and much discontent existed throughout the country. A Damio who owns the territory along the Strait of Simouskiski, in the province of Margal, and whose forts commanded both western entrances to the island from the sea, commenced recklessly firing upon ships of all nations that passed. He had also two steamers fitted up as war vessels with heavy guns aiding the forts in their attack. These are the vessels destroyed by the Wyoming, Semiramis, and Tancredi. At the latest dates a large British fleet was lying at Kanagawa, under Admiral Kuper, and was about to sail for the Straits of Simouskiski. The greatest fire that has occurred for many years took place in Yeddo on the 19th July. The residences of 30 Damios, several temples, and a vast amount of property were destroyed.

United States.—Despatches from Charleston of the 7th inst. announce the evacuation of Morris Island by the Confederates on the night of the 6th. The bombardment of Forts Wagner and Gregg began upon the 5th, and was continued with great fury throughout the 6th. On that day General Gilmore's sappers had reached the moat surrounding Wagner, and General Beauregard, seeing it impossible to longer hold it, ordered the evacuation of the whole of Morris Island, which was effected between the hours of 8 P.M. and 1 A.M. of the following day, with the loss of but 12 men captured. All the guns of the fort were spiked; 150 men of the garrison were killed or wounded during the bombardment. Admiral Dahlgren then demanded the immediate surrender of Sumter. General Beauregard replied that if Admiral Dahlgren took and held the fort he could have it, but until then his demand was useless. At 6 P.M. on the 7th the Monitors reopened fire at close range upon Fort Sumter, which was replied to by Fort Moultrie and the batteries on Sullivan's Island. On the 8th five Monitors bombarded Forts Moultrie, Beauregard, and Bee for nine hours without result. During the night a Federal naval force attempted to capture Fort Sumter by assault, but was repulsed, with the loss of 60 in killed, wounded, drowned, and captured. Among the latter were seven officers. The latest advices state that the Confederate flag still waved over Sumter, which had then held out for 22 days against the combined efforts of General Gilmore and Admiral Dahlgren. Of 7551 shots fired at it, 3495 took effect on the outside, and 2130 upon the inside. The flag had been shot away 14 times, and as often replaced. The universal belief at Charleston is that Wagner and Sumter will be taken, but that Charleston will not be, and that if the ironclads once enter the harbour they will never get out again. The Confederates have mounted at Charleston, but in what exact position is not known, two 800-pounder Blakely guns, recently arrived from England, with which they expect to do fearful execution to the Monitors whenever they come within range. The Richmond Examiner of the 8th says:—"The Yankee troubles have not yet commenced, nor will commence until they get into the harbour." General Gilmore was erecting batteries for the renewed bombardment of the city, and had 30 Parrott guns in position for shelling it, and was only awaiting the arrival of "Greek fire" shells, which are ignited by fuses, instead of the percussion principle, to open fire. During the bombardment by the Monitors of Fort Moultrie on the 31st, Fleet Captain Badger, while in the turret of the Weehawken, had his leg broken by a bolt, which was driven through the wall of the turret by the concussion of the Confederate shots. Each of the Monitors was struck from four to eight times, and the deck of the Weehawken was much damaged. General Rosencranz has officially reported that on the 9th inst. the Federal General Crittenden occupied Chattanooga, the Confederates having evacuated it on the 8th and retired southward and eastward, destroying the roads behind them to prevent pursuit by the Federals. General Burnside has reported that the Confederate General Fraser, with 2000 men and 14 cannon, at Cumberland Gap, Virginia, surrendered to him on the 10th inst., and that he has since occupied Cumberland Gap and Knoxville. With the despatch announcing these operations General Burnside tendered to the Government his resignation of the command of the department of the Ohio, which it appears he has long meditated. Accounts from Leavenworth, in Kansas, of the 10th inst. state that official intelligence had been received of the capture of Fort Smith, in Arkansas, by General Blunt, on the 1st inst.; also that the Confederates had evacuated Little Rock and retired to Washington, 40 miles distant which they were fortifying. 30,000 Federal troops had left New Orleans, it is supposed for Texas. It is reported from Washington, on the authority of well-informed military men, that General Lee has received heavy reinforcements, and that he meditates another aggressive campaign. The weakness exhibited by the Confederates at Chattanooga and other points lends strength to this belief. The troops continue to leave New York. A great portion of them have been sent to reinforce the Army of the Potomac. Governor Seymour, in a speech made at the convention of the United Democracy, said of the conscription that New York had given voluntarily upwards of 135,000 men for the war; but he ventured to predict that the Government would not get 6000 men under the infliction of the draught. In conclusion, he declared under no considerations would he consent to the dissolution of the Union, and he was convinced that it would be ultimately restored with the rights of the States unimpaired. Mr. Charles Sumner, chairman of the Committee of the Senate on Foreign Relations, has delivered a long address at the Cooper Institute on the Foreign Affairs of the Republic. He denounced the conduct of the British Government in permitting the building of war steamers in British ports for the Confederates, and recognising on the part of the South any belligerent rights upon the ocean. He disbelieved that either France or England would intervene in favour of a State that based itself upon negro slavery, and asserted that all intervention in the internal affairs of another nation was contrary to law and reason, unless such intervention were obviously on the side of human rights. The audience was one of the most numerous that ever assembled in New York, but was chiefly composed of ladies and clergymen. The reported departure of iron-clads from England causes considerable excitement. The New York Herald recommends war rather than submission to such hostile measures. It suggests that so soon as an Anglo-rebel steamer attacks a Northern port an embargo be laid on British shipping to compensate for the damage, and the British property should be sequestrated until a settlement is made by England. The Confederate Government has recalled Mr. Mason, its Commissioner in London, in consequence it is said of the difficulty raised by Earl Russell on the subject of the ships building in English ports for the Confederates.

Mexico.—General Miramon has declared his allegiance to France, and General Forey has appointed him Commander of the Mexican Forces. The Triumvirate has notified foreign ambassadors to recognise it as the general Government. The United States and Central American Ministers replied that they must acknowledge the Juarez Administration until further instructions from their Governments. M. Juarez is said to be incognito in Washington. He is reported to have had several interviews with Mr. Seward, to whom he has proposed a Continental alliance, with the assistance of the Federal Government, for the expulsion of the French from Mexico, and the resistance of European encroachments. The French have reoccupied Tampico without resistance. Marshal Forey and M. de Saligny have received the Grand Cross of Our Lady of Guadaloupe, and are about to return to France. It is said that Yucatan has expressed adhesion to the Mexican Empire.

City Intelligence.

Money Market, Friday.—British Funds: Consols closed at 93¼ to ⅜ for Money, and 93⅜ for Account; Reduced and New Three per Cents., 92 to 91¾; Thirty Years Annuities, 1885, 14¼; India Five per Cent. Stock, 108⅞ to ¼; Ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1864 or 1866, 100½; Ditto Bonds, 17s. to 20s. pm.; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 107½; Ditto Five and a Half per Cent., 117 to 116¾; Exchequer Bills, par to 3s. pm.—Foreign: Egyptian, 102 to 101½, ex div.; Greek, for Acct., 38 to 37½; Italian, 72¾; Mexican, for Acct., 47 to 46½; New Granada, 17¾; Ditto Deferred, 10⅞ to ¼; Portuguese, 1856, '57, '59, '60, and 1862, for Acct., 49¼ to ½; Russian, 1822, 93¾, ex div.; Ditto, 1862, 93¾; Spanish, for Acct., 55; Ditto New Deferred, for Acct., 49; Ditto Passive, for Acct., 36½ to ¼; Ditto Certificates, for Acct., 14½; Turkish, 1858, for Acct., 70¾ to ½, ex div.; Ditto, 1862, for Acct., 71½ to ¼; Venezuela, for Acct., 26½.

Gazette of the Week.

FRIDAY, Sept. 18.—BANKRUPTS.—J. E. Allen, Leader Street, Chelsea—J. Aspinall, Prescott, Lancashire, Licensed Victualler—[illegible] Brown, Kidderminster, Worcestershire, Stonemason—E. T. [illegible] Leamington, Dealer in Fancy Articles—J. [illegible] and R. F. [illegible] Abchurch Lane, City, Wine Merchants—[illegible] Licensed Victualler—T. L. Ball, Whitechapel Road, [illegible] man—S. S. Jennins & J. Burrel, late of Lawrence Lane, Cheapside—A. B. Bloxam, Southampton Street, Strand, Clerk—H. [illegible], Place, High St., Peckham, Watchmaker—J. Brock, Dudley, Worcestersh., Baker—R. Brayshford, late of Highhampton, Devonshire, Farmer—D. A. Barry, Liverpool, Grocer—C. Brown, late of Whitechurch, Devonshire, late Farmer—T. Clark, Portsmouth, Ginger Beer Manufacturer—[illegible] of Clovelly, Clayton, Shimpling, Suffolk, Baker—W. Claverdon, late of [illegible], Devonshire, Farmer—F. P. Cowe, Tailor, and M. A. Cowe, Milliner, [illegible] mouth, Devonshire—M. Creasy, West Winch, Norfolk, Bricklayer—T. W. [illegible] Liquorpond Street, Gray's Inn Road, [illegible]—J. Davey, Bedford, Carriage Builder—H. J. Davies, South Glamorganshire, Chemist—[illegible] Dew, Hatherleigh, Devonsh., [illegible]—J. M. [illegible] Liverpool, Commission Agent—C. Dawe, Fendock, Worcestersh., [illegible] Wood and Commission Agent—[illegible] Llangynider, M. [illegible] King's Lynn, Norfolk, Mariner—H. [illegible] Brecknockshire, Brick Maker—T. Garman, late of [illegible] Aston, Warwickshire, [illegible] Seller—C. Chasaway and R. [illegible], Lace Merchants—C. H. [illegible] ham, Sawyers—J. Gray, Littlehampton, Sussex—[illegible] H. Hayes, late of [illegible], late of Penn, Staffordshire, Butcher—W. Hood, late of [illegible], Northamptonshire, Coal Merchant—W. [illegible] Terrace, Shadwell, [illegible] Devonshire, Farmer—A. Har[illegible], [illegible] Coal Merchant—Boarding House Keeper—J. Hassall, late of Liverpool—[illegible] Heaps, Dean Pryor, J. J. H[illegible], Handsworth, Staffordshire, [illegible], Beverly, Yorkshire—[illegible] House and Coach Builder—W. D. H[illegible]—J. Hunt, Farnham, [illegible]—S. Hall, Birmingham, [illegible] Glamorganshire, [illegible] Wheelwright—J. Hall, Merthyr [illegible] Builder—J. Lewis, [illegible]—J. Jones, Everton, Liverpool, [illegible] Islington, Warwickshire, [illegible]—J. [illegible], Journeyman Cabinet Case Maker—J. [illegible] Innkeeper—M. M[illegible] monger—H. M[illegible], Hanley, Staffordshire, [illegible]—Liverpool, Merchant—Isaac Morris, Birmingham, [illegible] Merchant—Henry Martin Morrison, Longton, Staffordshire, [illegible]—James Wood Newton, Edwin Marston, Crediton, Devonshire, Innkeeper—James [illegible] Oswald, [illegible] Penarth, Denbighshire, Baker—Robert Randolph Oswald, Solicitor—W. [illegible] Warwickshire, Florist—W. H. B. Para, Bedford Row, [illegible] Paodin, Star Street, Shadwell, Licensed Victualler—W. Parr, sen., Preston, Journeyman Butcher—R. Pigott, Derby, Licensed Hawker—T. Pusey, Old Church Street, Paddington, Lodging House Keeper—G. Parkes, Witton-cum-Swambrookes, Cheshire, Waterman—W. Parkes, Handsworth, Staffordshire, Coal Dealer—W. Prom, Worthin, Shropshire, Miner—E. C. Prin, Lozells, Aston, Birmingham, Butcher—T. Ross, Needingworth, Huntingdonshire, Market Gardener—D. Roberts, Liverpool, Traveller to a Biscuit Manufacturer—J. Stead, Clifton, Yorkshire, Farmer—J. Scriven, late of Cross Lane, Monmouthshire, Farmer—T. E. Stone, E. J. Stone, and M. S. Stone, Bristol, Schoolmistress—A. Stidenham, Plymouth, Confectioner—J. White, Freemantle, Southampton, Schoolmistress—J. Williams, Liverpool, Victualler—R. Williams, late of Woodbrough, Somersetshire, Cattle Dealer—J. Wilkins, Bath, Draper—J. H. Young, late of Bath, Smith.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—R. Somerville, Edinburgh, Stationer—D. Hart & Co., Glasgow, Warehousemen.

TUESDAY, Sept. 22.—BANKRUPTS.—R. J. Bassford, Bristol, Tailor—M. Brown, late of Blackburn, Lancashire, Tailor—J. Barrow, sen., Grasby, Lincolnshire, Labourer—W. Bentley, Bloxwich, Staffordshire, Timber Merchant—J. Burns, Manchester, Travelling Draper—J. Bevan, Crown Street, Walworth, Dairyman—J. Clegg, Manchester, Ironmonger—J. Colling, Filey, Yorkshire, Livery Stable Keeper—J. T. Cooper, Woolwich, Kent, Butcher—G. Edwards, Swansea, Glamorganshire, Fireman—W. J. Epps, Maidstone, Kent, Nurseryman—G. Fowler, Scott's Place, Hornsey Road, Carpenter—J. Fieldhouse, Kemberton, Shropshire, Miller—William Fletcher, Churchstoke, Montgomeryshire, Innkeeper—Richard Greensmith, Nottingham, Butcher—Archibald Gray, Brockenhurst, Hants, Coal Dealer—J. Gregory, Warren Street, Fitzroy Square, late Bricklayer—J. Haste, Bradford, Yorkshire, Warehouseman—H. Harris, Brenchley, Kent, Plumber—W. Haskayne, late of Liverpool, Ship Agent—T. J. Hoy, Bishopwearmouth, Durham, Haberdasher—T. Heath, late of Sheffield, Cheese Factor—C. Halls, Surrey Villas, Nunhead Green, Journeyman Brewer—J. R. Holland, Liverpool, Tea Merchant—C. Harwood, Kingston-upon-Hull—T. J. Jackson, Metheringham, Lincolnshire, Chemist and Druggist—J. Jackson, late of Norton, Yorkshire, Builder—J. Kirkham, late of Atherton, Lancashire, Labourer—R. Lee, Billingborough, Lincolnshire, Tailor—M. Mayer, New North Road, Hat Manufacturer—H. M. Morrison, Longton, Staffordshire, Ale Merchant—W. Marratt, late of Doncaster, Solicitor—J. Morrall & T. J. Wentworth, Manchester, Needle Manufacturers—J. W. Newton, Pensarn, Denbighshire, Baker—J. Neal, Horsmonden, Kent, Fruit Dealer—Benjamin Robert Nevill, sometimes known as Benjamin Nevill, and sued as Benjamin Nevilly, Lambourn, Essex, Straw Carter—J. Ogden, Openshaw, Lancashire, Miner—M. Pope, Upper Terrace, Upper Street, Islington, Teacher of Music—James Frogsham Pearse, sued and committed as James George Pears, Vauxhall Walk, Surrey, Assistant to a Butcher—G. Phipps, Audley, Staffordshire, Beerhouse Keeper—William Henry Bellew Pain (and not William Henry Bellew Fair, as formerly advertised), Bedford Row, Solicitor—A. Richards, late of Botolph Lane, City, Commission Agent—E. Roberts, Dolgelly, Merionethshire, Milliner—D. Scammen, Ipswich, Cab Driver—T. Steel, Appleford, Berkshire, late Farmer—F. Scotson, Riverdale Terrace, Lower Road, Richmond, Commission Agent—J. Sallows, Wrentham, Suffolk, Farmer—Edward Turner, Sussex Road, Cold Harbour Lane, Brixton, Greengrocer—J. M. K. Williams, Lant Street, Southwark, Publican—J. Whittington, late of Ryde, Isle of Wight, Grocer—H. Whitehead, Whitehead's Grove, Chelsea, Solicitor—E. Y. Woods, Leather Bottle Lane, Upper Norwood, Beer Retailer—W. Webster, Leeds, Pattern Card and Case Maker—J. Wooding, Northampton, Beerseller—T. Wall, Wednesford, Staffordshire, Brickmaker—A. J. B. White, Barking, Essex, late Licensed Victualler—T. White, Lutterworth, Leicestershire, Butcher—J. Yewdall, late of Horsforth, Yorkshire, Woollen Manufacturer.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.—T. Anderson, Dumfries, Draper—J. Cameron, Edinburgh, Potato Merchant—C. Fraser, Glasgow, Grocer—R. M'Lachlan, Glasgow, Accountant.

Metropolis and its Vicinity.

Election of Lord Mayor.—The citizens of London have been cited to attend at Guildhall on the 29th inst. for the election of a Lord Mayor for the year 1863-4, in succession to Alderman Rose, whose term of office will expire on the 8th November. The following Aldermen "below the chair" will be put in nomination:—Alderman William Lawrence, of Bread Street Ward; Alderman Warren Stormes Hale, of Coleman Street; Alderman Benjamin Samuel Phillips, of Farringdon Within; Alderman Thomas Gabriel, of Vintry; Alderman John Joseph Mechi, of Lime Street; Alderman Edward Conder, of Bassishaw; Alderman James Abbiss, of Bridge Within; and Alderman James Clarke Lawrence, of Walbrook. The following Aldermen below the chair are ineligible, as they have not served the office of sheriff:—Aldermen Dakin, Besley, Gibbons, Waterlow. The Livery will, no doubt, return Alderman Lawrence and Hale, upon which the Court of Aldermen will select Alderman Lawrence as the Lord Mayor for the ensuing year. He carries on the business of a builder in Lambeth.

The Great Eastern arrived at Liverpool from New York on the 20th inst. On the 18th, off Cape Clear, she ran down the Jane Duff from Liverpool for Quebec, killing two of her men. The captain and the remainder of the crew were saved and taken on to Liverpool. The Great Eastern has brought 125 cabin and 118 steerage passengers. It is understood that the directors have decided not to send the ship to sea again this year, and that she will shortly be sold by auction.

Fatal Shipwreck in New Zealand.—The Otago journals of July 6, give the particulars of a mournful accident which proved fatal to the Rev. T. H. Campbell, his wife, five children, and two servants, on the day after their arrival from England. Mr. Campbell, who was formerly head master of the grammar school at Wolverhampton, took his departure from this country in April last to assume the office of Principal of the High School of that colony. They had a rapid and prosperous voyage, and arrived at Port Chalmers on July 3. On the next morning Mr. and Mrs. Campbell proceeded to Dunedin, and were welcomed by the chief authorities of the colony. They returned to Port Chalmers in the afternoon to take their children to their new home. On the voyage, which was not much longer than from Portsmouth to Southampton, their small steamer, the Pride of the Yarra, was run down in the darkness of a hazy evening by a large steamer, the Favourite. Eleven lives were lost, and nine of these were the family of Mr. Campbell. They were all in the cabin when the collision occurred, and nothing was heard or seen of them till the corpses were recovered next day by a diver. The Colonial Government voted them a public funeral, which was attended by the whole population of Dunedin with every mark of respect. Mr. Campbell was 34 years of age, and was the son of Duncan Campbell, Esq., of Chislehurst, and his wife, aged 27, was the daughter of the Rev. C. Dickens, rector of Balsham, Cambridge.

Alleged Murder of a Bank Clerk.—On the 10th inst. the body of a clerk in the City Bank was found in the Thames under circumstances which gave rise to a suspicion that he had been murdered and thrown into the river. It appears that on the night of the 3d September Mr. Hugh Dolvin Morris, about 22 years of age, had been dining with some friends near London Bridge, and left the tavern with the intention of meeting his brother and returning with him to Streatham. He was however never again seen alive by his friends, and although the walls of the metropolis had been placarded with descriptions of him, and the police had made inquiries in every direction, he could nowhere be found. His body however was discovered floating in the river on the 10th inst. off the St. Katharine's Docks. It was removed to the Aldgate dead-house, and upon examination marks and bruises were found on the face and body. There was no purse, watch, or other property in the pockets, but deceased was stated to have been in comparatively good circumstances, and not to have been in the least likely to have committed suicide. It was also ascertained that at midnight on the day when he was missed he had been seen in Arthur Street East, near London Bridge, talking to a woman, and had previously been standing with a man near the same spot, but whether the woman and the man were connected is not known. There appeared to be no doubt that he was robbed, and the fact of injuries being found on the face and head were considered to indicate that he had been robbed with violence. Such an outrage could hardly have taken place, even at midnight, in so open a spot, and therefore the inference was that he must have been enticed down the steps to the river side, where the crime might have been accomplished without observation. The inquest was adjourned from time to time for further inquiry, but nothing could be discovered to throw any new light upon the case, and the medical evidence founded upon a post-mortem examination, went to show that the wounds were mostly of a superficial character, and might have been caused by the floating vessels or timber moored off the wharves, where the tide runs so rapidly down the pool. On Saturday the jury, in the absence of any further evidence, were compelled to return an open verdict, that deceased was found dead in the river, with marks of violence; but how he became immersed, or the injuries occurred, there was no evidence to prove. The police however were directed to follow up their inquiries.

GREAT FRAUD IN THE CITY.—A reward of 1000*l.* is offered for the arrest of one Sigmund Ditrichstein, a Hungarian, late of the Jamaica Coffee House and Worthing, who is charged with obtaining upwards of 10,000*l.* of stock by means of forged cheques. He got the stock, raised over 8000*l.* in money on it, and at once absconded, and up the present time there is no clue to his whereabouts. The money is in bank notes, but only two of them, making up 1000*l.*, have been paid into the Bank from money changers in London, who gave smaller paper for them.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.—The Registrar-General's Weekly Return states that the deaths in London in the week that ended Sept. 19 were 1186. The average number in the corresponding weeks in the 10 years 1853-62, corrected for increase of population, was 1147. The present return is therefore 39 above the average. During the week the births of 946 boys and 984 girls, in all 1930 children, were registered in London. In the 10 corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number was 1846.

Provincial.

LEEDS.—A crowded meeting in support of emancipation in America, and the neutral policy of the British Government, was held on Monday night in the Music Hall of this town. Mr. W. E. Forster, M.P., presided, and among the speakers were the Rev. W. H. Channing, who is on a visit to this country from the United States, Mr. T. B. Baines, the Rev. George Mather, Alderman Carter, Mr. Councillor Tatham, Mr. Joseph Lupton, and other gentlemen. The proceedings throughout were of an enthusiastic character, and the following resolutions were carried unanimously:—

"1. That in the measures of the Federal Government in relation to the negro race, and in the rapid spread and growth of anti-slavery feeling in most parts of the Northern States, this meeting cannot but recognise the fact that the present calamitous war, begun by the slaveholders to perpetuate and extend slavery, is being overruled by Divine Providence for its destruction. 2. That this meeting most strongly condemns the building and equipment of ships of war in British ports to be employed against a nation with which this country is at peace, and especially if employed in support of a Slaveholding Confederacy, as calculated to embroil Great Britain in war with a friendly Power; and as strongly approves of the action of the British Government in detaining such vessels from their mischievous destination, and declares its determination to support the Government in the neutral policy it has hitherto pursued in relation to this war amongst our American kinsmen. 3. That the foregoing resolutions be signed by the Chairman, and forwarded to Earl Russell on behalf of the meeting.

LIVERPOOL.—On Monday night the officers of the Channel Fleet were entertained by the Royal Mersey Yacht Club at a magnificent banquet at the Philharmonic Hall, Commodore Graves presiding. In returning thanks for the toast of the Fleet, Admiral Dacres spoke as follows:—

"You are perfectly aware, as well as I am, that we have been going a tour of the British Isles, through what I think a very far sighted policy of the British Government. Wherever we have been we have been received with the greatest enthusiasm, and this has very often set me thinking, and raised in my mind a feeling of pride—pride that I belonged to a country where so much patriotism exists. When we sailors are at sea we feel, and the best of our men feel, influenced by kindness like this. Don't let me be misunderstood. I should like to speak in returning thanks as well as the gentlemen who proposed our health, but that gift is not given to me. But I have got one knack—and that is of saying what I mean. I would not for anything give up the command of this fleet, for two reasons—first, because I see all this enthusiasm given to the navy, and in the next place because I command some of the finest officers and gentlemen I wish to be among. It would be unworthy of you, and it would be unworthy of me, if I drew the slightest comparison between our reception at one place and another. Liverpool, I am sure, needs no praise for her hospitality from me, and good wine needs no bush. But in Liverpool there is this advantage, that you have the ships lying at your own doors. You see them, and you know them as well now as if you had seen them for months. You, gentlemen, have paid a good deal of money for these ships, you now know the terms of your insurance, and I hope you are satisfied with them. Two or three of the speakers who preceded me have spoken on the importance of keeping up a naval force, and this is a fact which cannot be too much impressed. It is not the fear of invasion, for I believe that our army and our Volunteers, whom nobody values more highly than I do, would be of the greatest service. But I should like to know how you, gentlemen, would look if the French fleet had the command of the Channel for only one week. But when I say that I would impress upon everybody the necessity of keeping up the naval resources of this country, I refer also to the naval reserves. The reserves of this great commercial port, I understand, are only 1000. I should like to see the reserve in proportion to the number of sailors, so that if we are beaten in the Channel—which I do not expect—there will be plenty of sailors to go on with. There is plenty of courage in the merchant service. I was in the Crimea with hundreds of merchant sailors, and I believe there are as good officers among them as any of us—and as they are British sailors they are sure to fight well. We must have something to fall back upon. The Government find ships, but the country must find men. There is another matter which to me has the greatest interest as the admiral of a fleet, from which there are necessarily a good many sailors always on shore. Of all the places at which the Channel fleet has yet been, there have been fewer reports of misconduct on the part of the sailors at Liverpool than at any other place. I believe that is owing, not to the fact that Liverpool has a better police, but because the sailors have been better treated. 'Jack' is a knowing fellow: he knows when he is well off, and will not kick up a row. With respect to the entertainment to the sailors on the morrow, I would take the opportunity of expressing the feeling of pleasure which I and my brother officers feel at this display of kindness. At the same time, I do not conceal from myself that the thing is an experiment, but it is an experiment which it would have been unworthy of my position to have forbidden. It was now for the men to show their appreciation of the kindness exhibited towards them by not abusing it. I value the men who form the British navy as much as a man can do, and though they have their faults, yet they have a hundred good qualities. But I beg you not to be too kind in your hospitality. Those connected with the Channel Fleet have been eating cake all round the coast, and I expect some of them will be getting sick of it."

In returning thanks for the two Houses of Parliament, Lord Stanley spoke as follows:—

"I thank you, gentlemen, for the opportunity which you have given me in my own name, in my father's name, and I think I may say in the name of the inhabitants of this neighbourhood, of thanking Admiral Dacres and the officers under his command, for the honour of this visit paid us by the Channel Fleet, and expressing the gratification which we have all derived from a sight which is not only interesting but unique. I believe the Chairman was strictly correct when he told you that at no time since Liverpool had been a borough—certainly at no time since the Channel Fleet has been an institution of this country—has the Mersey ever been visited by so considerable a portion of the Royal Navy. We hope that the first visit won't be the last. Admiral Dacres has found his way here once, and we will take very good care that he finds it again. And without disparagement to any other place, I am sure I may say this—that there is in all Great Britain no town where naval men are more honoured or naval acts more appreciated than here in Liverpool; the sea has made it what it is, and Liverpool men take pride in the sea. We have, as it has been said, in our yacht club no contemptible naval reserve, and though we cannot locally pretend to compete with those magnificent vessels which are now lying in our waters, yet I think we have a navy of our own not wholly unworthy to compete even with them—a navy existing, indeed, for purposes exclusively peaceful, but not the less a triumph of human industry and skill—those vast ocean steamers which have joined the New World to the Old, and crossed the Atlantic with the regularity of boats crossing a ferry, at a speed which is only surpassed by the railroad. But, gentlemen, it is not only to us, it is to every person, of whatever country he may be, that the sight of such vessels as we have now witnessed is not only interesting but novel. We are seeing that which is strictly an experimental fleet, a fleet in which almost every vessel is an experiment, or, perhaps I should say, a combination of experiments. We have seen, probably, the last of those old wooden two-decked line-of-battle ships which will ever carry the flag of a British admiral, and certainly a more splendid vessel of her class than the Edgar never sailed the sea. We have seen the first of those noble and mighty engines of destruction which are revolutionising naval warfare, and which our friends on the other side of the Atlantic are kind enough to us to be trying on so large a scale at their expense and for our instruction. Gentlemen, I confess I wish that the House of Commons as a body could feel what you and I have witnessed, for seeing is believing, and I am sure that sight will have impressed upon every mind two great facts which have been very strongly impressed upon mine; one, that for the money which we have expended pretty largely of late years we have value received; the other, that in this naval architecture we are literally feeling our way. I can speak of course upon this subject only on second hand, but if I may express what seems to be a very general opinion among those best competent to judge, it is more than doubtful whether we have as yet got that gun which is to be the gun of the future, and it is perhaps open to doubt, splendid as are those ships which now lie in our waters, whether we have got the exact mould of a ship which is to be the man-of-war for the future. Now, I think it is our duty, as members of the House of Commons, to bear in mind specially the tentative and experimental character of what we are now doing. It is our duty to grudge no outlay which is necessary for purposes of efficient defence, and that is a duty from which assuredly we shall not shrink. It is our duty above all to shrink from no outlay which may be necessary for the purpose of experiment, but it is not the less our duty at the same time to avoid that fault into which we have often fallen before, and into which, while men remain what they are, it is always possible we may fall again. I mean the fault of being satisfied with what we have accomplished, of resting upon our oars, and of assuming that what we consider as the perfect model of the day will be an equally perfect model ten years hence. Pardon me, gentlemen, for referring very momentarily to such a subject; and, as brevity is the order of the day, permit me at once and without further preface to return you my thanks on behalf of the House of Commons."

On Monday, by permission of the Admiral, upwards of 1000 men, including petty officers and sailors, marines, and marine artillery, belonging to the different vessels, were entertained at dinner in St. George's Hall by the members of the Royal Mersey Yacht Club, and a number of the leading merchants of the port. The men landed at half-past 12 o'clock, each wearing a sprig of oak in his jacket. They marched to the Exchange, where they received a most enthusiastic greeting, and they were also loudly cheered as they went along the streets, which were crowded with people, although the day was wet and stormy. The dinner was of a substantial character, consisting of hot roast beef and mutton, with a few other dishes, and vegetables, washed down by a reasonable allowance of grog and Allsopp's ale. The hall was completely filled, the galleries being occupied by a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen. The feast was presided over by Mr. S. R. Graves, Commodore of the Yacht Club, and the executive department of the feast was performed by the extensive staff of stewards belonging to the Cunard Company's establishment. After the cloth had been removed the Chairman proposed "The Queen," remarking that among all the great and glorious titles by which she was known there was no one of which she was so proud as that of being the friend of the sailor and the soldier. This announcement was received with loud and most enthusiastic cheering. The choir then sang the National Anthem, the chorus being joined in with an earnestness and heartiness of enthusiasm such as has seldom been heard, and which it is difficult to conceive being equalled by any vocalists but by a similar number of British sailors. The next portion of the programme was a song by one of the marines belonging to the ship Liverpool, which was sung in good style and heartily applauded. A song was then called for from one of the "blue jackets" of the Liverpool, when one of them gave in true "Jack-tar" style the song of "The Red, White, and Blue," the chorus being given by the whole of the men with a most exciting effect. The choir then sang in good style a four-part song, which was received in a most enthusiastic manner. The next musical performance was a song with a rattling chorus by the men of the Edgar flag ship. The chairman then proposed as a toast, "The Health of the Non-Commissioned Officers, Petty Officers, Seamen, and Marines of the Channel Fleet," paying them a high compliment for the excellent conduct which they had displayed since their arrival and during their stay in Liverpool. The toast was drunk with great enthusiasm, which was loudly joined in by the ladies and gentlemen in the galleries. After the applause had in some measure subsided the toast was acknowledged in modest and becoming terms by one of the seamen of the fleet. At the conclusion of his brief address he was loudly applauded by his messmates. Songs were then sung by members of the crews belonging to the Emerald and the Resistance. These, like the other musical performances of the seamen and marines, were loudly applauded by all present, and the proceedings were appropriately brought to a close by the performance of "Rule Britannia" on the great organ by Mr. Best. As a whole the banquet went off in the most satisfactory and successful manner, and every one seemed delighted with the entertainment. In the evening a thousand of the men belonging to the fleet were invited to the Theatre and the Amphitheatre by Mr. Copeland the lessee.

SIBLE HEDINGHAM.—An adjourned inquest on the body of an old deaf and dumb Frenchman who went by the name of Dummy was resumed in this town on Friday. It appeared that he was poor and eccentric, and had resided in a wretched hut, all alone, for seven or eight years, until the 3d of August last, when he met his death in consequence of a ducking to which he had been subjected by a Mrs. Smith, aided by two men, because Mrs. Smith believed that he had bewitched her, and refused to accept 3*l.* from her to go to her house and annul the charm. They determined to make him "swim" for a wizard, and accordingly pushed him two or three times into a mill stream, and when he escaped to his hut he slept all night in his wet and slimy clothes. He died in consequence, notwithstanding subsequent careful tending at the workhouse. The jury, after nearly two hours' warm discussion, were unable to agree to a verdict, and were accordingly discharged. It was understood that they were all unanimous for a verdict of manslaughter against Mrs. Smith, but two of them would not consent to a similar verdict against one of the men called Stammers. The case was brought before the magistrates of the district on Tuesday, when the Chairman said it was a disgraceful fact that at the present day an old man should meet with such a fate, and no one of all the crowd of men and women present should have interfered to save him, or even have told the police of what was going forward. The prisoners stood committed to Chelmsford gaol for trial at the March assizes. Bail was accepted afterwards for Stammers himself in 30*l.* and two sureties for 50*l.* each. Similar bail would have been taken for the female prisoner, but as it could not be procured she was conveyed to prison.

Ireland.

THE GALWAY LINE.—The Hibernia in her first trip has not realised the hopes of the friends of the Galway line. On her outward voyage she succeeded in reaching her destination within a few hours of the contract time; but on her return she was 20 hours late, and has incurred the heavy penalties prescribed in the contract, her news having been all anticipated by the Persia, which started at the same time. The passengers were 70 in number, of which 30 were "stowaways," who had gone out from Galway in the Adriatic on the 1st inst. They were landed at St. John's, Newfoundland, on the 8th, and detained there till the 11th, when they were put on board the Hibernia, and brought back to their native land, having been well fed at the expense of the Company there and back.

The Visit of the Channel Fleet.—An adjourned meeting of the Municipal Council of Dublin was held on Monday, for the purpose of considering what arrangements should be made to receive the Channel fleet on its visit to Dublin Bay. The report of the Committee, recommending that an address be presented to the admiral and officers of the fleet on the part of the corporation and citizens of Dublin, was proposed by Alderman Hudson for adoption, and seconded by Alderman Mackey. It was opposed by Mr. A. M. Sullivan, of the Nation, in a violent political speech, but was adopted by a majority of 22 to 4. A private meeting was subsequently held at the Mansion House to adopt further steps for the suitable reception of the officers of the fleet, and it was determined to appoint a deputation to visit Admiral Dacres at Liverpool, and request him to prolong the stay of the fleet until Wednesday, if possible, so as to admit of their being entertained at a ball.

Scotland.

The Queen and the Duke of Athole.—The Edinburgh Courant states that on the arrival of the Royal train at Blair Athole the Duchess of Athole and her son, the Marquis of Tullibardine, were in waiting to receive the Royal party. "Her Majesty having alighted from the carriage, at once proceeded to the spot where the Duchess of Athole was standing. The interview was of the most melancholy description—her Majesty and the Duchess embracing each other tenderly, and both burst into tears, while the onlookers, we need scarcely say, were deeply affected. Carriages were in attendance for the conveyance of the party to Blair Castle, where the Duke is residing, and here a stay of an hour was made. On her return to the station her Majesty was accompanied by the Duke of Athole, who, notwithstanding his great sufferings, made an effort to pay his Sovereign this mark of loyal regard. His Grace looked exceedingly ill. Before the starting of the train her Majesty took an affectionate farewell of the Duke and Duchess of Athole. On parting the Duke kissed her Majesty's hand, and bade her "farewell." The scene was deeply affecting, and her Majesty was evidently much moved. The train at length left Blair Athole at 12 o'clock, amid the cheers of a few hundred spectators, whose interest seemed quite divided, showing much gratification at the unexpected visit of the Queen and great sympathy with the noble Duke on account of whose serious illness her Majesty had come in person to offer her condolences."

Railways.

Metropolitan Junction with the Great Northern.—The Government Inspector on Thursday approved the junction lines with the Great Northern at King's Cross. Through trains will run between Farringdon Street and that line on and after Thursday next the 1st of October.

Law.

Central Criminal Court.—The Eltham Case of Manslaughter.—Ellen Hannah Elizabeth Englehеart, a well dressed young woman, surrendered to take her trial for the manslaughter of her child Constance Augusta Engleheart. In this case, which was fully noticed at the time in our Metropolitan news, the prisoner, it will be remembered, was charged with causing the death of the child by sundry acts of cruelty. She was acquitted of the charge of manslaughter and found guilty of a common assault. Her counsel applied for a postponement of judgment on account of the prisoner's pregnancy; but Mr. Justice Byles decided that there was no precedent for such a thing, and sentenced her to 18 months imprisonment; a sentence which created such an impression on her that she was borne out of the dock shrieking. The Polish Enlistment Case.—Lieut. Alfred Styles, late of the Garibaldian army, surrendered on a charge of committing a breach of the Foreign Enlistment Act, by endeavouring to raise a British Legion for service in Poland. The Russian Government before the commencement of the case intimated by their counsel that they had no desire to punish the defendant, but to put a stop to the system, which might lead to great mischief, and offered to abandon the prosecution if the defendant entered into his own recognisance to appear when called on, on the understanding that he was to discontinue enlisting. The defendant accepted the offer, and, entered into his own recognisances of 100*l.* to appear for judgment when called upon, which is a practical discharge. The Marylebone Child Murder.—The trial of the young woman Mitchell, charged with murdering her child in the Marylebone Road, was postponed till the October Sessions. Omnibus Racing.—The driver of the omnibus standing charged with the manslaughter of a conductor on Holborn Hill was acquitted, the evidence showing that the deceased himself was the cause of the accident by which he was killed.

Obituary.

The Marquis of Huntly died on Friday at his residence, Orton Hall, near Peterborough, in his 72d year. When in London during the past season, his lordship's health began to fail him, but after a time he rallied, and returned to Orton, where up to almost the last day of his life, he was able to take a drive in the grounds of the hall. His Lordship, Charles Gordon, Marquis of Huntly, Earl of Huntly, Enzie, and Aboyne, Viscount of Melgun and Aboyne, Lord of Gordon and Badenock, Baron Aboyne, and Baron Gordon of Strathavon, Glenlivet and Inverness, in the peerage of Scotland; and Baron Melrum of Morven, county Aberdeen, in that of the United Kingdom; Premier Marquis of Scotland and a baronet of Nova Scotia, was born in 1792, succeeded to the title 1853; married, first in 1826, Lady Elizabeth Henrietta Conyngham, eldest daughter of the first Marquis Conyngham; and secondly, in 1844, the only surviving daughter of the Rev. William Pegus, by the Countess Dowager of Lindsey. He leaves a family of eleven children, and is succeeded in his title and estates by his son Charles, Earl of Aboyne, who was born in 1847, and is now consequently in his 17th year.

The Right Hon. Edward Ellice, M.P., was found dead in his bed on Thursday morning, at Ardochy, on his estate of Glengarry and Glenquoich. It appears that he had retired on the previous night in his ordinary health, but his death had occurred before morning. Mr. Ellice was born in 1787, the son of a wealthy London merchant, and was consequently in his 77th year. For some years he carried on the extensive business of his father, and up to the time of his death retained a sleeping connection with the great mercantile undertakings of the City. He entered the House of Commons 45 years ago, as member for Coventry, and has represented that city ever since with an interval of only four years. He married first the widow of Captain Bette-worth, R.N., and sister of the late Earl Grey, who appointed him in 1830 to the Secretaryship of the Treasury, and afterwards to the post of Secretary at War. He married secondly, in 1843, a daughter of the Earl of Albemarle and the widow of the Earl of Leicester, who survived their union but a year. Mr. Ellice had some share in the preparation of the Reform Bill, on behalf of which he spoke in Parliament. On the retirement of the Grey Administration Mr. Ellice, while retaining his seat, appeared to abjure active political life; for although he has not been without considerable quiet influence on the Liberal benches, he has never since accepted office.

Rear-Admiral Washington, F.R.S., Hydrographer to the Admiralty, died at Havre, on the 16th inst. He entered the navy in 1812, and saw much service on the North and South American stations. In 1835 he succeeded Captain Maconochie as Secretary of the Royal Geographical Society, but resigned that office in 1841, on being appointed to continue the survey of the North Sea, which had for some time been in progress. This survey was his last service afloat. In 1845 he was appointed a Commissioner for inquiring into the state of the rivers, shores, and harbours of the United Kingdom. On the retirement of Rear-Admiral Sir Francis Beaufort in 1855 he was appointed hydrographer to the Admiralty, and subsequently attained the rank of rear-admiral. In 1833 he married the youngest daughter of the Rev. H. Askew, rector of Graystock, in Cumberland, by whom he has issue. He was a member of various learned societies, and the author of many papers of a scientific and useful character.

Mr. Cockerell, R.A., D.C.L., the distinguished architect, died in London on the 16th inst., after a short illness. He was the son of Mr. Samuel Pepys Cockerell, and was born in 1786. He was educated at Westminster School, on leaving which he adopted the profession of an architect. He was an excellent classical scholar, and adopted the "classical school" of architecture in opposition to the Gothic. In 1810 he went to Constantinople with despatches for the British Embassy, and when on his travels was seized with a desire to explore the antiquities of Greece. Between 1811 and 1812 he accompanied Messrs. Foster and Lynckh to Ægina. They spent the evening with Lord Byron, pouring out libations in propitiation to the god Neptune for his safe voyage to England. They left the Piræus, and bivouacked in an adytum under the Panhellenian Mount, the descendants of the Æacidæ looking on in amazement. Their discoveries excited great interest throughout Europe. There was the revelation of a specimen of the Archaic architecture in Greece, besides abundant examples of that school of sculpture which had never before been recognised distinctly in our monuments of art. Then, together with the architecture of Ictinus, the fellow-labourer of Phidias in the Parthenon, Mr. Cockerell brought to light a sculptured frieze, 102 feet long, of the most flourishing period of Greek art. Hitherto the great outlines only of the chief monuments of antiquity had been published by the Dilettanti Society, but many details of the elucidation of the architecture of the old Grecian temples and their correspondence with the principles handed down by Vitruvius, as derived from the old Hellenic race, remained to be explained. This was done by Mr. Cockerell. He found the interior of the Temple of Jupiter Panhellenius in Ægina, and restored it to perfection from the stylobates to the conformation of the tiles. One of his curious discoveries was 17 statues of Parian marble, with fragments of 10 more, buried for nearly 20 centuries, and undisturbed even by the curiosity of antiquaries, the cupidity of the Roman and Venetian conquerors, and the temptation of the natives. Unluckily these valuable antiquities, after considerable discussion, became the property of the Bavarian Government instead of being placed in the British Museum. In 1830 Mr. Cockerell published his "Researches in Greece," supplementary to the accounts of Messrs. Stuart and Revett, in which he insisted on the necessity of the union of sculpture and painting with architecture as a means of promoting religion. In 1857 he published, in conjunction with Mr. J. S. Harford, of Blaize Castle, and Commendatore Canina of Rome, illustrations of the genius of Michael Angelo in the architecture of St. Peter's, supplementary to a large coloured print of the ceiling of the Sixtine Chapel, published in 1854. Mr. Cockerell was formerly Professor of Architecture in the Royal Academy, and Architect to the Bank of England, and designed a great number of public buildings in the classic style. He retired, however, many years ago from the active duties of his profession, and resigned his professorship in the Academy. He was a fellow of the Institute of British Architects, a member of the Institute of France, an officer of the Legion of Honour, a member of the Academies of St. Luke in Rome, Munich, Copenhagen, and Geneva. He was buried on Thursday in St. Paul's at the request of the Institute of British Architects, many members of which, as well as Royal Academicians, were present at the funeral.

Mr. William Tooke, F.R.S., President of the Society of Arts, died on Sunday morning at his residence in Russell Square. He was born in 1777, was trained to the study of the law, and practised for some years in London as a solicitor. He became however at an early age associated with science and literature. In 1804 he published anonymously an edition of Churchill's poetical works, which were republished among the Aldine Poets, with the editor's name, in 1844. In 1855 he published a work entitled "The Monarchy of France, its Rise, Progress, and Fall," having meanwhile given to the world several smaller productions. In conjunction with Lord Brougham, Dr. Birkbeck, Mr. Grote, and others, he took an active part in the establishment of the University of London, and also of the Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge, and for a considerable period acted as their Treasurer. He was a Fellow of the Royal Society, and succeeded the Prince Consort as President of the Society of Arts. For two years—namely, from 1835 to 1837, during the administration of Lord Melbourne—he represented the borough of Truro in Parliament. He was born at St. Petersburg, and was the son of the Rev. William Tooke, an English divine and writer, who became chaplain to the factory of the Russian Company in that city, and was the author of a "Life of Catharine II.," "A View of the Russian Empire," and other works.

BIRTHS.—On the 16th inst, at Oaklands, Almondsbury, Gloucestershire, the Viscountess Glentworth, of a son and heir—18th inst, at Applecross House, Ross-shire, the Lady Middleton, of a son—16th inst, at Spa, Belgium, Lady Hunter Blair, of a daughter—22d inst, at 35, Eaton Place, the Hon. Mrs. Leveson Gower, of a son and heir—20th inst, at 42, Heriot Row, Edinburgh, the Hon. Mrs. Thos. G. Dickson, of a daughter—16th inst, at Lyme Park, Cheshire, the wife of William J. Legh, Esq., M.P., of a daughter—21st inst, at 99, Eaton Square, the wife of Colonel Taylor, M.P., of a son and heir—23d inst, at 15, Lower Belgrave Street, the wife of Philip Lutley Sclater, Esq., of a son.

MARRIAGES.—On Saturday the 19th inst, at St. George's Church, Hanover Square, and afterwards at the Swedish Legation, the Count Bonde, of Biorno, to Ida Horatio Charlotte, only daughter of Horace Marryat, Esq., and granddaughter of the late General the Right Hon. Lord Edward Somerset, G.C.B.—22d inst, at the Church of St Alphege, Greenwich, Henry S. King, Esq., of Manor House, Chigwell, Essex, to Harriet Eleanor, eldest daughter of Admiral and Lady Harriet Baillie-Hamilton—16th inst, at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, Edmund William, eldest son of the Rev. Sir Wm. Henry Cope, of Bramshill Park, Hants, Bart., to Edith Cockburn, only child of the late James Kerr Ewart, Esq., B.C.S., and granddaughter of the late Rev. Canon Repton—12th inst, at All Saints', Clapham Park, John, youngest son of the late Major Longley, R.A., to Louisa, eldest daughter of the late A. H. Kindermann, Esq., and granddaughter of F. Huth, Esq.—17th inst, at Wargrave, Berks, Cecil Willoughby Wigney, Esq., captain in H.M.'s Staff Corps, only surviving son of the late Newton Wigney, Esq., M.P., to Louisa Caroline Walsh, niece of Colonel Hervey Fuller, of Bear Hill, in the county of Berks—17th inst, at St. Olave's, York, James Paul Cobbett, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, barrister-at-law, third son of the late William Cobbett, Esq., M.P., to Marianne, daughter of Robert Hudson, Esq., York—15th inst, at Broadwater, Sussex, the Rev. Thomas Hugo, M.A., F.S.A., &c., incumbent of All Saints', Bishopsgate, and chaplain to the Hon. Artillery Company, to Agnes Jane, widow of Geo. Harkness, Esq., of Lloyd's.

DEATHS.—On the 16th, at Eastbourne, the Lady Margaret Stuart, daughter of the late Francis, 10th Earl of Moray—16th inst, at Norwood, Sir Arthur Nicolson, of Nicolson, Bart. Brough Lodge, Fetler, Shetland, aged 69—13th inst, at Gorey, Jersey, Lady Turner, widow of General Sir Hilgrove Turner, aged 88—14th inst, at Charlton Kings, Gloucestershire, Francis Price, late Captain in the 19th Reg. Foot, third son of Sir Rose Price, Bart., of Trengwainton, Cornwall, aged 59—19th inst, at 83, Victoria Road, Charlton, Major-General Robert Clarke, Royal Artillery, aged 73—4th inst, of dysentery, at Pembroke Camp, St. George's Bay, Malta, Ensign R. M. Biddulph, of the 23d Royal Welsh Fusiliers, son of Colonel Middleton Biddulph, M.P.—18th inst, at Gosport, David Compigné, Esq., aged 86—18th inst, at Frohsdorf, Eastbourne, Francis William, second son of Robert Hanbury, Esq., M.P., aged 11—17th inst, at Mount Auburn, Killiney, county Dublin, Colonel Joseph Kelsall, late of the 70th Regt.—16th inst, at Caskieben, Alexander Henderson, M.D., of Caskieben, Aberdeenshire, for more than 40 years a distinguished Member of the Horticultural Society of London, aged 83—15th inst, at Seaton Villa, Clevedon, Allan Webb, Esq., M.D., F.R.C.S.L., surgeon-major, Presidency surgeon, &c., of the Bengal Medical Staff, aged 55—14th inst, at Leamington Priors the Rev. H. B. S. Harris, master of the Earl of Leycester's Hospital, in the borough of Warwick, aged 63—13th inst, at Burton-on-Trent, the Rev. Wm. H. Coleman, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge, and late of Ashby-de-la-Zouch—14th inst, at St. Peter's Rectory, Dorchester, the Rev. Morton Colson, LL.B., rector of Dorchester St. Peter and of Linkenholt, Hants, domestic chaplain to the Rt. Hon. Lord Wynford—20th inst, the Rev. George W. Bridges, incumbent of Beachley, Chepstow, late rector of St. Ann's, Jamaica, aged 76—13th inst, at Kincardine Manse, Perthshire, the Rev. Dr. Gray, Minister of Kincardine, aged 89—16th inst, at Claverton Lodge, Bath, the Rev. Francis Kilvert, aged 70—19th inst, at 1, Lansdown East, Bath, the Rev. Henry William Allen, B.A., son of the late Rev. T. Edward Allen, Chaplain H.E.I.C.S., aged 30.

Markets.

COVENT GARDEN, Sept. 26.

Vegetables and most kinds of Fruit in season, with the exception of Peaches, which are scarcer, continue plentiful. Late Plums may be had in great abundance. Of Grapes and Pine Apples the supply is also sufficient for the demand. Of Melons there is a good stock of both English and foreign varieties. There is also a good supply of Williams's Bon Chrétien, Louise Bonne of Jersey, and Marie Louise Pears. Some good examples of Ribston Pippin Apples have also arrived from Jersey. Kent Cobs and Filberts are now coming in in good condition, and for the Cobs a fair demand is springing up at from 60s. to 65s. per 100 lbs. For Potatos the market is still heavy. Cut flowers chiefly consist of Orchids, Pelargoniums, Asters, Marigolds, Calceolarias, Mignonette, and Roses.

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pine Apples, per lb., 3s 6d to 7s | Melons, each, 2s to 4s |
| Grapes, per lb., 2s to 6s | Lemons, per 100, 8s to 12s |
| Apples, per ½ sieve, 1s 6d to 2s 6d | Nuts, small, per bushel, 14s to 18s |
| Pears, per ½ sieve, 2s 6d to 5s | Almonds, do., 18s |
| Plums, per ½ sieve, 3s to 6s | Walnuts, do., 14s to 20s |
| Figs, per doz., 2s 6d | |
| Peaches, per doz., 6s to 15s | |

VEGETABLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Cabbages, per doz., 1s to 2s | Celery, p. bundle, 1s 6d to 2s |
| Peas (shelled), p. qt., 1s to 1s 6d | French Beans, p. sieve, 2s to 6s |
| Cauliflowers, each, 3d to 6d | Shallots, per lb., 8d |
| Potatos, York Regents, p. ton, 60s to 80s | Garlic, per lb., 8d |
| ,, Shaws, do., 50s to 60s | Lettuces, each, 1d to 2d |
| Turnips, p. bunch, 4d to 6d | Endive, p. score, 1s to 1s 6d |
| Carrots, do., 6d to 8d | Horse Radish, p. bunch 1s 6d to 4s |
| Spinach, p. sieve, 1s 6d to 2s | Mushrooms, p. pott., 1s to 1s 9d |
| Cucumbers, each, 1s to 1s 6d | Parsley, p. 12 bunches, 3s to 4s |
| Beet, per doz., 1s 6d | Herbs, per bunch, 3d |
| Tomatoes, each, 2d to 3d | |

HAY.—Per Load of 36 Trusses.

Smithfield, Thursday, Sept. 24.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Prime Meadow Hay | 88s to | 94s | Clover, old .. .. | 90s to | 120s |
| Superior do. .. | 86 | 92 | Do. second cut .. | 80 | 108 |
| Inferior do. .. | 60 | 70 | New Clover .. | — | — |
| New do. .. .. .. | — | — | Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 34 |
| Rowen .. .. .. | 60 | 80 | | | |

Harvey & Easton.

Whitechapel, Thursday, Sept. 24.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fine Meadow Hay | 86s to | 92s | Prime 1st cut Clover | 115s to | 120s |
| Inferior do. .. .. | 75 | 80 | Inferior do. .. .. | 108 | 110 |
| Prime New Hay .. | — | — | New 1st cut do. .. | — | — |
| Inferior .. .. .. | — | — | Prime 2d cut do. . | 105 | 110 |
| Straw .. .. .. | 28 | 32 | Inferior do. .. | 93 | 100 |

BRITISH WOOLS.—LONDON, Sept. 25.

Our prices remain firm, and stocks low for the season of the year. The fact of an unprecedentedly large amount of business transacted for some months past accounts for less being done at the present time.

| | s. d. s. d. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| South-down Hog-gets .. .. .. | 1 10 to 1 11 | Leicest. Wethers | 1 8 to 1 9 |
| Half-bred ditto.. | 1 10 — 1 11 | Ditto Hoggs .. | 1 9 — 1 10 |
| Down Ewes .. | 1 9 — 1 9½ | Combing Skins | 1 4 — 1 7 |
| Kent Fleeces .. | 1 10 — 1 10½ | Flannel Wool .. | 1 6 — 1 9 |
| | | Blanket ditto .. .. | — .. |

METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.

MONDAY, Sept. 21.

We have a large supply of Beasts, and trade generally is dull. The choicest descriptions met with purchasers at nearly last week's rates, but other kinds are lower, and many remain unsold. The number of Sheep is also considerably larger than the demand. On the average prices are lower, and a clearance cannot be effected. Calves are selling about the same as on Thursday. From Germany and Holland there are 2550 Beasts, 8940 Sheep, and 859 Calves; from Ireland, 850 Beasts; and 2950 from the Northern and Midland counties.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 4 10 — 5 2 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 4 — 4 8 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 4 0 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 4 — 4 8 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 2 — 5 6 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. | Lambs .. .. .. | — .. |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 4 — 5 0 |
| | | Pigs .. .. | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 6650; Sheep & Lambs, 27,130; Calves, 390; Pigs, 450.

THURSDAY, Sept. 24.

The number of Beasts is rather smaller than on Thursday last, and the average quality is very indifferent. Choice qualities, therefore, are readily disposed of at fully late rates, but there is no improvement in other kinds. There are a few more sheep, but the increase is in the foreign supply. Best qualities are selling about the same as on Monday, but on the average prices are lower. Trade is dull for Calves at rather lower rates. Our foreign supply consists of 475 Beasts, 4960 Sheep, 454 Calves, and 70 Pigs. Milch Cows, 85.

| | s d s d | | s d s d |
|---|---|---|---|
| Best Scots, Herefords, &c. .. | 4 8 to 5 0 | Best Long-wools. | 4 10 — 5 2 |
| Best Short-horns | 4 6 — 4 10 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| 2d quality Beasts | 3 0 — 3 10 | Ewes & 2d quality | 4 4 — 4 8 |
| Best Downs and Half-breds .. | 5 2 — 5 6 | Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. |
| Do. Shorn .. .. | — .. | Lambs .. .. | 4 8 — 5 8 |
| | | Calves .. .. | 3 0 — 4 8 |
| | | Pigs .. . | 3 0 — 4 4 |

Beasts, 1225; Sheep & Lambs, 7900; Calves, 570; Pigs, 270.

MARK LANE.—MONDAY, Sept. 21.

There was a fair supply of Wheat from Essex and Kent to this morning's market, and sales proceeded slowly at a decline of fully 2s. to 3s. per qr., the stands not being cleared at a late hour. For foreign the demand was very limited at a reduction of 1s. to 2s. per qr. Fine malting Barley was 1s. per qr. cheaper, secondary sorts 2s. per qr., and grinding 6d to 1s. per qr. Beans and Peas were unaltered in value. The Oat trade was very flat, at a decline of fully 6d. per qr. Barrel Flour was dull and rather cheaper.

| PER IMPERIAL QUARTER. | s. s. | | s. s. |
|---|---|---|---|
| WHEAT, Essex, Kent, & Suffolk .. White | 42—46 | Red ..... | 38—44 |
| — — fine selected runs .. ditto | 44—50 | Red .... | 40—48 |
| — — Talavera ............... | 46—52 | | |
| — Norfolk ..................... | — | Red .... | — |
| — Foreign ..................... | 36—54 | | |
| BARLEY, grind. & dist. 30s to 32s .. Chev. | 36—40 | Malting .. | 30—36 |
| — Foreign .. grinding and distilling | 25—30 | Malting .. | 26—30 |
| OATS, Essex and Suffolk ............ | 20—22 | | |
| — Scotch and Lincolnshire—Potato | 22—25 | Feed .... | 20—22 |
| — Irish ..................Potato | 19—22 | Feed .... | — |
| — Foreign ...... Poland and Brew | 19—22 | Feed .... | 17—20 |
| RYE ............................. | 30—32 | Foreign .. | — |
| RYE-MEAL, Foreign ................ | — | | |
| BEANS, Mazagan .... 31s to 36s ... Tick | 32—35 | Harrow .. | 32—35 |
| — Pigeon .... 37s to 40s .. Winds. | — | Longpod | — |
| — Foreign ................Small | 36—42 | Egyptian | 30—32 |
| PEAS, White, Essex and Kent .. Boilers | 37—38 | Suffolk .. | 38—42 |
| — Maple .... —s to —s .... Grey | — | Foreign .. | 32—40 |
| MAIZE ........................White | — | Yellow .. | — |
| FLOUR, best marks delivered .. per sack | 38—43 | | |
| — 2d do ..................... ditto | 30—34 | Country .. | 30—34 |
| — Foreign ............ per barrel | 17—24 | Per sack | 32—42 |

FRIDAY, Sept. 25.

The weather during the last week has been wet and stormy, interfering with harvest work in Scotland. Great dulness continues to prevail in the Wheat trade, new experiencing a further decline of from 1s. to 3s. per qr., while old and foreign remained neglected, although offered at a reduction of 1s. to 2s. per qr., Liverpool being the only exception, no further decline having been conceded there since this day week. Should the wet weather continue it will soon effect the condition of our new Wheat, in which case we may look for a better demand for old. Malting Barley, except in the Scotch markets, which were very firm, gave way 1s. and 2s. per qr.; other qualities maintained late rates. Beans receded 1s. per qr. Peas were neglected but not cheaper. Oats a slow sale at 6d. to 1s. per qr. decline. Best marks of sweet Flour are scarce and unaltered in value; sour is quite neglected and easier to buy. Since Friday last 53 vessels have been reported off the coast. The floating trade has continued quiet. Wheat has declined 6d. to 1s., Maize 3d. to 6d. per qr.; no alteration can be quoted for other descriptions. In Paris (Sept. 24), the Flour trade is very quiet. The six marks only for delivery this month are in greater demand to cover former sales, and have risen to 33s. 9d. per 280 lbs. The present stock of Flour is estimated at 8820 cwts. Wheat has declined 1s. per qr. The arrivals of foreign Wheat and Flour since Monday have been good, of other grain small. There was a moderate attendance at this morning's market, and the little English Wheat fresh up brought the extreme prices of Monday; in foreign the business was very limited at the quotations of that day. Malting Barley 1s. per qr. cheaper. Beans and Peas were unaltered in value. The Oat trade was quiet, prices unchanged.

ARRIVALS THIS WEEK.

| | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Flour. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| English .. | 1260 qrs. | 730 qrs. | 40 qrs. | 580 sks. |
| Irish .... | — | — | 970 | — „ |
| Foreign .. | 20,110 „ | 7450 | 18,390 „ | 590 „19,670 brls |

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 22.—We have had a very good attendance of millers and dealers at this day's market, and the low range of prices attracting a better demand for Wheat than of late, holders were enabled to maintain the quotations of last market day, with a moderate extent of business. Flour very difficult to move, but good sweet lots are not to be bought cheaper. Indian Corn had only a retail inquiry, and we reduce our quotations 3d. per qr. Oats are down 1d. per bushel, and Oatmeal 6d. per load. Beans have given way fully 6d. per qr. Peas and Barley unchanged. The market closes firm at the decline.

FRIDAY, Sept. 25.—The general tone of the market remains unchanged. Wheat and Flour steady, but quiet. Other articles remain unaltered.

| AVERAGES | Wheat. | Barley. | Oats. | Rye. | Beans. | Peas. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Aug. 15 | 45s 11d | 31s 4d | 23s 7d | 36s 4d | 40s 7d | 35s 7d |
| — 22 | 46 5 | 31 1 | 23 0 | 33 2 | 40 4 | 34 9 |
| — 29 | 45 9 | 33 10 | 22 8 | 33 9 | 39 6 | 35 9 |
| — 5 | 44 2 | 34 8 | 22 0 | 32 11 | 38 10 | 37 2 |
| Sept. 12 | 44 1 | 34 7 | 21 8 | 31 0 | 39 10 | 35 10 |
| — 19 | 44 9 | 35 2 | 20 9 | 32 7 | 39 0 | 36 9 |
| Agg. Aver. | 45 2 | 35 5 | 22 3 | 33 4 | 39 8 | 35 11 |

FLUCTUATIONS IN THE LAST SIX WEEKS' AVERAGES.

WANTED, a FOREMAN, who has a knowledge of Planting, Hedging, Draining, Roadmaking, &c. Unexceptionable reference will be required.—Apply, FREDK. GILL & Co., The Dorset Nurseries, Blandford.

WANTED, as SHOPMAN, in a London Seed Warehouse, an experienced Man.—A married Man preferred.—C., Gardeners' Chronicle Office, W.C.

To Seedsmen.

WANTED, an energetic Man, age 30 to 40, as MARKET SALESMAN and SHOPMAN; he must have a general knowledge of the Seed Trade, and be a good man of business.—Apply, by letter, in own handwriting, to WM. TOOGOOD, 58, Above Bar, Southampten.

WANTED, ONE or TWO handy FARM LABOURERS, who know their work well, to Plough, Sow, Mow, Reap, Thatch, and make themselves generally useful. Wages, 12s. a week, and Coal free. Characters must be good in all respects.—Address, R. A., Post Office, Llanelly, South Wales.

WANT PLACES.—Letters to be Post Paid.

EXPERIENCED GARDENERS (or as GARDENER and BAILIFF), of various qualifications, recommended to gentlemen.—Further particulars given on application to Messrs. E. G. HENDERSON & SON, Wellington Nursery, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD). — Age 30, married, two children. Five years' character from a nobleman. Wages, 70*l*. per year, with house.—H.T., Kenward Lodge, Yalding, Kent.

GARDENER (HEAD), or to assist a Landscape Gardener.—Age 33, single; experienced in all branches. Speaks French. No objection to the Continent.—M. I., 19, College Street North, Camden Town, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD). — Age 26, single; has a thorough knowledge of Early and Late Forcing, and of all the branches. Five years' good character.—D. W., Edmonds, News Agent, High Street, Clapham.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40, married; understands the Forcing of Vines, Cucumbers, Melons, &c. Eight years' character.—S. W., R. C. Taylor, Esq., Boughton Place, Staplehurst, Kent.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33, married; can be well recommended, and is well acquainted with the various branches of his profession.—W. W., 50, Cirencester Street, Harrow Road, Paddington, N.W.

To Noblemen and Gentlemen.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 33; has had 15 years' practice in the Management of both large and small places. Character will bear the strictest investigation.—W. H., 10, Hamilton Terrace, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 30; thoroughly understands the Growing of Pines, Vines, Peaches, Melons, &c., Stove and Greenhouse Plants, the Management of Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Character will bear the strictest inquiries.—L. W., The Gardens, Bishopstoke, Winchester.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 34, married, no incumbrance; has a thorough knowledge of his profession, the Forcing of Pines, Vines, Peaches, Cucumbers, and Melons: also Stove and Greenhouse Plants for exhibition. Good character.—JOHN RAVEN, Great Blake Hall, Wanstead, Essex.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 34, married, no incumbrance; understands his profession, and can be highly recommended. Wife can take charge of Poultry or Dairy, if required.—A. B., Green's, 3, Grove Terrace, Grove Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 40, married, no incumbrance; has had 25 years' practical experience of Gardening in all its branches. Six years' Gardener to W. Ferrand, Esq., M.P., St. Ives, Bingley.—W. HEWITT, Micklethwaite, Bingley, Yorks.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Middle-aged, married, no incumbrance; thoroughly understands the Growing of Vines, Peaches, Melons, &c., and the Management of Greenhouse Plants and Flower and Kitchen Gardens. Satisfactory references.—E. D., Mr. E. P. Francis's Nurseries, Hertford.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Age 48, married, no incumbrance; understands Cattle well. Wife wishes to make herself useful in any gentleman's family; can take charge of Poultry or Dairy, or Laundry or Plain Cooking if required.—ROBERT EACOTT, Englefield Green, Staines.

GARDENER (HEAD).—Married, two children; a sober and industrious Man; of practical experience in Early and Late Forcing, &c., a thorough Kitchen and Flower Gardener. Nearly four years' unexceptionable character, and first-class references of 12 years' standing.—Messrs. SMITH & Co., Ironmongers, Blackheath, S.E.

GARDENER (HEAD), where two or more are kept.—Middle-aged, no incumbrance; understands his profession in all branches; has lived in some of the leading places in the North of England. The highest testimonials from the lady he has left, and to whom any lady or gentleman can refer for character and ability. Wife capable of taking charge of Mansion, having lived upwards of 20 years as Upper Housemaid in some of the leading families in England.—A. Z., Mr. Watson's, Chigwell Row, Essex.

GARDENER (HEAD). — Age 29, married; was employed for 11 years in the Garden of the Right Hon. the Earl of Yarborough, from which place he can have unexceptionable references; afterwards Foreman in the Botanic Garden, Hull, for 3 years. Has been upwards of 2 years in his present situation as Head Gardener, and can be well recommended by his employer. Wages not so much an object as a comfortable situation.—120, Post Office, Skirlaugh, Holderness, Yorkshire.

GARDENER (HEAD), age 31.—F. W. DURRANT, for the last four and a-half years Gardener to the Hon. Colonel Duncombe, is at liberty to engage with any nobleman, lady, or gentleman requiring the services of a first-class practical Gardener, thoroughly experienced in every branch of his profession. Good character.—F. W. DURRANT, Waresley Park, St. Neots, Hunts.

GARDENER (HEAD).—F. HAMLETT, for 16 years Gardener to the late Miss March Phillipps, and for many years a successful exhibitor at the Cheltenham Horticultural Society, will be happy to engage with any nobleman or gentleman requiring the services of a thorough practical Gardener.—Mr HOPWOOD, of Hewlett's Nursey, will give additional testimonials if required.

GARDENER (HEAD), or GENERAL FOREMAN.—Scotch; age 28, single; highly recommended by present and previous employers for character and ability. Practical experience in several large establishments in England and Scotland.—M. E., Mr. Page, Tobacconist, Tooting, Surrey, S.

GARDENER (HEAD, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 30; understands the Management of the Flower and Kitchen Garden, also the Growing of Grapes, Cucumbers, &c. Five years' good character.—J. K., Mr. King's, Church Street, Twickenham, S.W.

GARDENER (FOREMAN).—Age 23; well acquainted with the Management of Vines, Pines, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, &c.—G. BROOMFIELD, The Vyne House, Basingstoke, Hants.

GARDENER (middle-aged, married, without incumbrance).—D. DAVIES, who has been 19 years in that capacity with the Countess of Tyrconnel, is now at liberty to engage with any nobleman or gentleman in want of a thoroughly practical Gardener.—References as to ability, &c., may be made to Dr. LINDLEY, Acton Green, Middlesex, W.

GARDENER, where one or more are kept.—Age 29, married; has a thorough knowledge of his profession. Can be well recommended in every respect. Three years in last place.—C. B., Burgess, Post Office, Lewisham Road, S.E.

GARDENER (SECOND).—Accustomed to all kinds of Forcing. Good Premium.—F. MORLEY, 35, George Street, Grosvenor Square, London, W.C.

GARDENER (UNDER, or SINGLE-HANDED).—Age 24, single. Three and-a-quarter years' good character.—A. G., Mrs. Wright's, New Road, Harlow, Essex.

GARDENER (UNDER), in a nobleman or gentleman's Garden.—Age 22; steady and industrious; seven years' good experience. Good character.—H. P., Post Office, St. Neots.

GARDENER (UNDER) in a gentleman's Family.—A young Man, single.—J. B., Post Office, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

GARDENER (UNDER).—Age 21; wishes to improve himself. Has had good experience. Is leaving on account of the death of his employer. Can be well recommended by the Head Gardener, R. Cole, Cuffnall's Gardens, Lyndhurst, Hants.

GARDENER, or BAILIFF and GARDENER, or to take part in either capacity.—Age about 35, single.—Y. Z., Post Office, Totnes.

NURSERY FOREMAN or MANAGER. – Age 38; an extensive practice in Growing, &c., general Stock, Roses, Conifers, Shrubs, Fruits, Stove and Greenhouse Plants, &c.—D. J. N., Mr. Tibbs, Landscape Gardener, Upper Tooting.

FOREMAN and PROPAGATOR (IN DOOR).—Well understands his profession. Good reference may be obtained.—T. S., Mr. Fry, Nurseryman, &c., Homerton, Hackney, N.E.

IMPROVER, in any nobleman's or gentleman's Garden where Forcing is carried on to an extent.—Age 18. A Premium given if required.—G. M., Strawberry Hill Nurseries, Tunbridge Wells, Kent.

To Nurserymen.

SECRETARY, BOOK-KEEPER, CASHIER, or SALESMAN.—A gentleman possessed of a professional education (including Botany, by an eminent professor), and who has had considerable private experience in Floriculture, desires an engagement as above, with a view to ultimate Partnership. Unexceptionable references.—J. H. B., 154, King Street, Great Yarmouth.

LAND STEWARD or BAILIFF.—Is thoroughly acquainted with Farming in all its branches, the Buying, Selling, Breeding, and Rearing of all kinds of Stock, Marketing, &c. First class references and testimonials.—HOMO, Post Office, Watford, Herts.

BAILIFF or STEWARD. — Age 40; is well acquainted with the Management of Stock, Woods, Draining, Arable and Pasture Land, &c. Leaving his present situation, where he has been 12 years, in consequence of the estate having been sold. Security given if required. Character unexceptionable, and can be well recommended by Messrs. GEORGE GIBBS & Co., Seedsmen, 26, Down Street, Piccadilly, London, W., who will attend to any communications.

BAILIFF and GARDENER, or GENERAL MANAGER.—No incumbrance; 20 years' service in the Northern and Midland Counties of England with noblemen and gentlemen. Salary 70*l*. per annum.—SAMUEL BROWN, Wheldrake, Yorkshire.

FARM BAILIFF.—Married; Wife could undertake the Management of a Dairy and Poultry if required. Highest reference as to character and ability.—J. W., Post Office, Market Harborough, Leicestershire.

FARM BAILIFF.—Married, one child; thoroughly practical in modern Farming. A good judge in Breeding, Rearing, Buying, and Selling of Stock. The highest testimonials.—G. D., 16, Bute Street, Luton.

FARM BAILIFF, or WORKING BAILIFF.—Age 42, no incumbrance; 18 years' experience in Kentish Farming. Wife can take charge of Dairy or Poultry. Good characters.—W. J., Wandsworth Lodge Farm, Upper Tooting, Surrey.

SHOPMAN.—Eleven years' experience. First-class reference.—A. B., corner of Nine Elms Lane, Wandsworth Road, S.W.

SHOPMAN.—Age 25, single; has had 11 years' experience in two large Provincial Seed Businesses; and can have unexceptional testimonials.—Y. G., Messrs. Hurst & Son, 6, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

BUTLER, or BUTLER and VALET in a gentleman's Family.—Good reference. Character good. Country preferred. No objection to travel, &c., and perfectly understands his business in both capacities.—R. B., 45, Lower Canal Walk, Southampton.

The Gardeners' Chronicle Newspaper.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1863.

ROYAL SCHOOL of MINES, Jermyn Street.

The following COURSES of LECTURES will be COMMENCED on MONDAY, October 5:—Fifty Lectures on INORGANIC CHEMISTRY by Dr. HOFMANN, F.R.S., to be delivered at 10 o'Clock on every week day but Saturday. Fifty Lectures on METALLURGY by Dr. PERCY, F.R.S., to be delivered on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays, at Quarter to 12 o'Clock. Seventy Lectures on NATURAL HISTORY by Professor HUXLEY, to be delivered on every week-day but Saturday, at 2 o'Clock.

Fee for each Course, 4*l*. Tickets and Prospectuses of the School may be had on application.

TRENHAM REEKS, Registrar.

MINERALOGY.—KING'S COLLEGE, London. Professor TENNANT, F.G.S., will COMMENCE a COURSE of LECTURES on MINERALOGY, with a view to facilitate the study of GEOLOGY, and of the application of Mineral Substances in the Arts. The Lectures will begin on FRIDAY, October 2, at 9 A.M. They will be continued on each succeeding WEDNESDAY and FRIDAY, at the same hour; Fee, 2*l*. 2*s*.

R. W. JELF, D.D., Principal.

SCOTTISH UNION INSURANCE COMPANY (FIRE and LIFE), 37, Cornhill, London, E.C. Established 1824.

Fire Insurances on the most liberal terms and conditions.

New Life Policies were issued during the year ending 31st July last, for 490,000*l*.

By order of the Directors, F. G. SMITH, Secretary.

FIRE INSURANCE.—Each Policy issued by the SCOTTISH UNION INSURANCE COMPANY, established 1824, makes it imperative on the directors, in the event of doubts or difficulties arising, to submit the same to arbitration, thus avoiding the possibility of delaying a settlement. By order, F. G. SMITH, Secretary.

Scottish Union Insurance Company, 37, Cornhill, London.

Agents Wanted.

THE CALEDONIAN INSURANCE COMPANY (Established 1805 by Royal Charter and special Act of Parliament) is prepared to appoint additional AGENTS for either the Fire or Life Departments. Commission liberal.

Applications to be addressed to JAMES MUIR, Esq., Resident Secretary, Caledonian Insurance Office, 39, Lothbury, E.C.

Pear Culture.

A DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE of PEARS, by THOMAS RIVERS (separate from the Catalogue of Fruits) sent free on application.

Nurseries, Sawbridgeworth.

Roses.

THE DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE of ROSES for the present season, the 30th Edition, by THOMAS RIVERS, is now ready, and will be sent free on application.

THE ROSE AMATEUR'S GUIDE. By THOMAS RIVERS. 8th Edition, 4*s*.

London: LONGMAN & Co., or post free from the Author, Nurseries, Sawbridgeworth.

Completion of Mr. W. Fairbairn's Work on Mills.

In 8vo, with 10 Plates and 146 Woodcuts, price 16*s*. cloth,

TREATISE on MILLS and MILLWORK, Vol. II. on Machinery of Transmission and the Construction and Arrangement of Mills, viz., Wheels, Shafts, and Couplings; Engaging and Disengaging Gear; Mill Architecture; also Corn, Cotton, Flax, Silk, and Woollen Mills; with a Description of Oil, Paper, and Powder Mills, including a short Account of the Manufacture of Iron, and an INDEX to the whole work. By W. FAIRBAIRN, C.E., LL.D., F.R.S.

 Vol. I. on the Principles of Mechanism and on Prime Movers, with 8 Plates and 176 Woodcuts, price 16*s*., and the work complete in 2 Vols. price 32*s*. cloth.

London: LONGMAN, GREEN, & Co., Paternoster Row, E.C.

Drainage and Steam Cultivation.

PRACTICAL INSTRUCTIONS on DRAINAGE of LAND. Sixth Edition. Tenth Thousand. Price 9*d*.

Also,

FIRE and WATER versus CORN and HAY, an Essay on the Effects of Steam Cultivation. Third Edition. Fourth Thousand. Price 9*d*. By SIMON HUTCHINSON. To be had of Messrs. SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, & Co., London; or LAURENCE RIDGE, Grantham; and by order of any Bookseller.

Dr. Wynter's New Work.

SUBTLE BRAINS and LISSOM FINGERS. Being some of the Chisel Marks of our Industrial and Scientific Progress.

May be had at all the Libraries, or at any Booksellers, price 6*s*.

By the same Author,

CURIOSITIES of CIVILIZATION. Sixth Edition, 6*s*.

OUR SOCIAL BEES. Sixth Edition, 6*s*.

London: ROBERT HARDWICKE, 192, Piccadilly, S.W.

THE JOURNAL of BOTANY, BRITISH and FOREIGN, for October. 2*s*. Edited by Dr. SEEMANN, contains—

ON MAMMILLARIA SCHEERII, MÜHLENPF., A RARE MEXICAN CACTUS. BY THE EDITOR (With Coloured Plate).
ON A YORKSHIRE GALIUM ALLIED TO G. ERECTUM, HUDS. BY J. G. BAKER, Esq.
TRICHOMANES RADICANS.
COMPARISON OF LEAF-CELLS IN BRITISH HYMENOPHYLLEÆ. BY G. GULLIVER, F.R.S.
TITHYMALUS BRAUNI, A NEW EUPHORBIACEA FROM ABYSSINIA.
ON TWO FORMS OF PLANTS GROWING UNDER SAME CONDITIONS. BY DR J. E. GRAY, F.R.S.
ON THE ORIGIN OF HERBARIA. BY ERNST H. T. MEYER.
THE OWALA OR OPACHALA OF THE GABOON AND FERNANDO PO, AND THE OIL CONTAINED IN ITS SEED. BY J. ARNAUDON.
NEW BRITISH CRYPTOGAMIA. | NEW PUBLICATIONS.
CHRYSYMENIA ROSEA, HARV. | BOTANICAL NEWS.

ROBERT HARDWICKE, 192, Piccadilly, London, W.

Now ready, price 6*s*.,

JOURNAL of the ROYAL AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY of ENGLAND, Vol. XXIV., No. LI., containing—

STATISTICS:—METEOROLOGY; PUBLIC HEALTH; PRICE OF PROVISIONS.
BREEDING OF HORSES. BY W. DICKENSON.
RECLAIMING OF WASTE LANDS. BY C. BELCHER.
MILK. BY DR. VOELCKER.
BREEDING OF HUNTERS AND ROADSTERS. BY J. GAMGEE, Senior.
FIVE YEARS' PROGRESS OF STEAM CULTIVATION. BY J. A. CLARKE.
DEVELOPMENT AND ACTION OF AGRICULTURAL PLANTS. BY THE REV. J. BERKELEY, M.A., F.L.S.
M. J. REISET'S AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENTS. BY P. H. FRERE.
STATISTICS OF LIVE STOCK AND DEAD MEAT. BY R. HERBERT.
WORCESTER MEETING:—REPORT OF STEWARDS OF STOCK; REPORT OF JUDGES OF STEAM CULTIVATORS; REPORT ON SHOW YARD; AWARD OF PRIZES.
FURTHER REPORT OF EXPERIMENTS WITH DIFFERENT MANURES ON PERMANENT MEADOW LAND. BY J. B. LAWES & J. H. GILBERT.
MISCELLANEOUS COMMUNICATIONS AND NOTICES.
ABSTRACT REPORT OF AGRICULTURAL DISCUSSIONS.
AGRICULTURAL PATENTS FOR 1862.

London: JOHN MURRAY, Albemarle Street, W.

Annual Subscriptions, 12s.

THE JOURNAL of AGRICULTURE, and the TRANSACTIONS of the HIGHLAND and AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY of SCOTLAND. No. LXXXII. October. Price 3*s*. Published Quarterly.

WILLIAM BLACKWOOD & SONS, Edinburgh and London.

Price 4*s*. Quarterly; annual subscription, prepaid, 12*s*. post free.

THE NATURAL HISTORY REVIEW, No. XII. (OCTOBER, 1863).

CONTENTS:—

REVIEWS.—Bentham and Müller's Flora Australiensis—Harvey and Sonder's Flora Capensis—Agassiz, Natural History of the United States, Vol. IV., Part 2—Daubeny on Climate—Parlatore, Méthode Naturelle en Botanique—the Regensburg Flora—Pringsheim's Jahrbuch für Wissenschaftliche Botanik.

ORIGINAL ARTICLES.—On the Molar series of Rhinoceros Tichorhinus, by W. Boyd Dawkins, F.G.S.—on Animal Dextrine by Dr. R. McDonnell, M.R.I.A.—Annual Report of the Trustees of the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Cambridge, U.S.A.—Report on the Department of Natural History in the Bristol Museum for the year 1862—on the Wild and Tame Animals of Cambodia, by Dr. E. Blyth—on an Ancient Boat found in the Peat Moss near Flemburg—Bibliography (Physiology, Palæontology, and Botany).

WILLIAMS & NORGATE, 14, Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, London; and 20, South Frederick Street, Edinburgh.

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW, No. CCXLII.—ADVERTISEMENTS intended for insertion are requested to be forwarded to the Publishers immediately. ADVERTISEMENTS and BILLS cannot be received later than FRIDAY NEXT.

London: LONGMAN & Co., 39, Paternoster Row, E.C.

THE GARDENERS' CHRONICLE and AGRICULTURAL GAZETTE to be SOLD, at less than half price, extending from the beginning of its publication to the present time. Many volumes complete, a few not so. 2 vols. bound.

Application immediately to GEO. W. D., Post Office, Ixworth, near Bury St. Edmund's, Suffolk.

122, FLEET STREET, LONDON.

New Works.

MESSRS. JOHN MAXWELL AND CO. beg to announce that the undermentioned Works may be now had at every Circulating Library. Subscribers to those useful Institutions should not experience any delay in obtaining Copies, as adequate Editions have been printed, and the type is kept standing, to meet every demand as quickly as it arises.

1. SACKVILLE CHASE. Three Vols.
2. STRONGHAND. By GUSTAVE AIMARD. Two Vols.
3. BREAKFAST in BED. By GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA. One Vol.
4. THE REV. ALFRED HOBLUSH and his CURACIES. One Vol.
5. SECRETS of MY OFFICE. One Vol.

In One Vol., Post 8vo, 10*s*. 6*d*.,

THE CROSS of HONOUR. By the Author of "Small House in Piccadilly." [On Oct. 10.

London: JOHN MAXWELL & Co., 122, Fleet Street, E.C.

To Agricultural Implement Makers and Others.

JOHNSON AND SHAW'S FARMER'S ALMANAC and CALENDAR for 1864 will be published as usual on November 1.

ADVERTISEMENTS must be sent not later than October 12, and direct to the Publisher,

WILLIAM RIDGWAY, 169, Piccadilly, W.

DAILY or OCCASIONAL GOVERNESS.—A Lady who has resided many years in France, seeks a re-engagement in London, to instruct in English, French, and Music with Singing (by the new system); the rudiments of German and Drawing. Terms moderate.—H. H., 29, Queen's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

News of the Week.

IT was rumoured in Paris on Tuesday, that the English Government had addressed a note to Austria, proposing that the Powers should no longer recognise the title of Russia to Poland, since she had violated the treaties of 1815. This rumour probably had its origin in the declaration of Earl RUSSELL at Blairgowrie that the conditions of the Treaty of Vienna, by which Russia obtained the kingdom of Poland, have not been complied with; and that, without the conditions of the tenure, the title itself can hardly be upheld. The French Ministerial papers applaud this view of the question, and the Presse of Thursday asserts that France and England have decided to make a declaration to the effect that they consider the treaties of 1815 as no longer in force, and have consequently ceased to guarantee the possession of Poland to Russia.

The Danish Rigsraad was opened on Monday by commission. The Royal Speech referred to the dispute between Denmark and the German Diet on the affairs of Holstein, and stated that the late events at Frankfort had made it obvious that it was no longer a question of the Federal rights over Holstein, but of the independence of Denmark, who was firmly determined to protect herself against any attack. The Danish Government has since demanded of the Rigsraad authority to construct an iron-clad battery, to iron plate a frigate, and to call out 5000 sailors.

In the sitting of the Federal Diet on Thursday the proposition of the United Committees in favour of Federal execution in Holstein was almost unanimously adopted. The representatives of Baden-Baden and Luxembourg alone voted against the proposition, and the representatives of Hanover considered it insufficient.

Meanwhile the Swedish Government has addressed a note to the Ambassadors in London and Paris, denouncing the interference of Germany in the affairs of Denmark as intolerable, and stating that in the event of war, Sweden might perhaps be compelled to take an active part, inasmuch as the subjugation of Denmark would endanger the interests of Sweden.

From the United States we have the important news that the Federal army under General ROSENCRANZ has been defeated by the Confederates under General BRAGG, after a battle which lasted two days, and compelled to retreat to Chattanooga with a loss of 12,000 in killed and wounded. Accounts from Charleston state that the Monitors are unable to pass up to Charleston. The erection of Federal batteries in Fort Gregg and Cumming's Point is proceeding slowly on account of the continued fire of the Confederate batteries. Fort Sumter is still in the hands of the Confederates, who are reported to be repairing it. General LEE has fallen back from the line of the Rappahannock, and General MEADE has moved forward the whole of his forces to the Rapidan, where the two armies are confronting each other, and a general engagement is expected. President LINCOLN has issued a proclamation suspending the Habeas Corpus Act throughout the United States.

The Revenue returns for the year and quarter ended on the 30th ult., were published on Thursday. They show an increase of 808,842*l*. on the year, and a decrease of 189,479*l*. on the quarter. The decrease on the quarter is accounted for by the reductions on the income tax and tea duties; the loss on the former amounting to 108,000*l*., and the loss on the Customs to 329,000*l*. This large deficiency is, however, very nearly made up by the increase in the Excise, which amounts to 318,000*l*., while there is a steady increase in the Stamps, Taxes, and other branches of revenue.

On the 30th October, price 1s., the FIRST PART OF

THE GALLERY OF GEOGRAPHY,

BY THE REV. THOMAS MILNER, M.A., Author of the "Gallery of Nature," &c., &c.

The Work comprises a History of Geographical Discovery in Ancient and Modern Times; describes the boundaries of Countries and Provinces; sketches the Scenery, Cities, and Populations of the different Countries of the Globe, and their Social, Political, and Physical Condition. The whole profusely embellished with Steel Engravings, Maps, and Woodcuts, chiefly from Original Authorities.

W. AND R. CHAMBERS, 47, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON, E.C.; and 339, HIGH STREET, EDINBURGH.

Home News.

THE QUEEN IN SCOTLAND.—On Wednesday week the Queen drove out, accompanied by the Princess of Wales and Princess Helena. The Princess Louisa, attended by Lady Churchill, rode on horseback. On Thursday week the Queen, accompanied by the Princess Louis of Hesse and Princess Beatrice, drove to the Linn of Muick. Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse dined at Abergeldie Castle. The Chancellor of the Exchequer arrived, and succeeded Earl Russell in attendance on her Majesty. On Friday the Queen, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, Princess Helena, and Princess Louisa, drove to Loch Callater. Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, Prince Alfred, and Prince Arthur, drove to Loch Bullig. Prince Alfred dined at Abergeldie Castle. On Saturday the Queen, accompanied by Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse and Beatrice, drove to Alt-na-Guithsack. Prince Arthur, Princess Helena, and Princess Louisa, ascended Lochnagar. The Prince and Princess of Wales dined with her Majesty at Balmoral. On Sunday morning the Queen and Royal family attended Divine service at Balmoral. The service was performed by the Rev. Dr. Caird, one of her Majesty's chaplains, who is staying at Balmoral. The Prince and Princess of Wales, Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, and Princess Helena, attended the parish church at Crathie. On Monday the Queen, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, Princess Louis of Hesse, and Prince Alfred, drove to Gairnshiel. Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, and Prince Leopold drove to Mar Lodge, and honoured the Countess of Fife with a visit. On Tuesday the Queen went out in the morning with Princess Louisa. The Princess Louis of Hesse and Princess Helena rode on horseback. In the afternoon her Majesty, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, Princess Louis of Hesse, Prince Arthur, and Prince Leopold, drove and walked.

RETURN OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—The Prince and Princess left Abergeldie on Thursday on their return to London. Their Royal Highnesses arrived at Edinburgh on Thursday evening, and were met at the station by the Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia. Yesterday morning the Town Council presented an address to the Prince and Princess of Wales in Holyrood Palace, and the Edinburgh ladies' gift was presented to the Princess. Their Royal Highnesses are expected to arrive at Marlborough House this afternoon.

THE KING OF GREECE is expected to arrive at Marlborough House on Monday or Tuesday next, on a visit to the Prince and Princess of Wales. His Majesty will probably pay a visit to the Queen at Balmoral, before leaving for Paris on his way to Athens.

ARRIVAL OF THE CROWN PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF PRUSSIA.—The Crown Prince of Prussia and the Princess Royal, accompanied by their children, landed at Dover on Wednesday afternoon, and travelled direct to the Victoria Station by a special train on the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway. On their arrival in London their Royal Highnesses proceeded in the Queen's carriages to Buckingham Palace, and in the course of the evening left town for Scotland by the Great Northern Railway. The Crown Prince and Princess arrived at Edinburgh on Thursday morning, and proceeded to the Douglas Hotel in St. Andrew Square, where apartments had been engaged for them. During the day their Royal Highnesses visited Edinburgh Castle and Holyrood, passing through the principal streets and round the Queen's drive, and in the evening met the Prince and Princess of Wales on their arrival from Abergeldie. Yesterday morning the Crown Prince and Princess left Edinburgh for Balmoral on a visit to the Queen. It is understood that their Royal Highnesses will not return to Prussia for some time.

PRINCE NAPOLEON arrived at the Clarendon a few days since, and has visited during his stay the Crystal Palace, the South Kensington Museum, and other institutions of the metropolis. On Wednesday his Imperial Highness left town for Woburn Abbey, and on Thursday visited Windsor, where he inspected the private apartments of the Castle, St. George's Chapel, the gardens at Frogmore, the Mausoleum and royal farm.

THE VACANT JUDGESHIP.—Mr. Serjeant Pigott has been appointed one of the Barons of the Exchequer, in the room of Sir J. Wilde.

LEGAL CHANGES.—Sir William Atherton has resigned the office of Attorney-General, on account of continued ill-health. He was offered the puisne judgeship vacant by the appointment of Baron Wilde to the Court of Probate; but his state of health compelled him to relinquish all official work, and he has therefore deemed it his duty to resign the Attorney-Generalship. Sir William Atherton is succeeded by Sir Roundell Palmer, the Solicitor-General, and Mr. Collier, M.P. for Plymouth, has been appointed to the vacant office of Solicitor-General.

THE ARMY.—The Coloneley of the 2d Life Guards, vacant by the death of Earl Beauchamp, has been conferred on the Marquis of Tweaddale, and the Coloneley of the 42d Highlanders, vacated by this promotion, has been conferred on General Duncan Cameron.

PARLIAMENTARY MOVEMENTS.—The elevation of Mr. Serjeant Pigott to a seat on the bench has caused a vacancy at Reading. Mr. G. Shaw Lefevre, nephew of Viscount Eversley, is a candidate for the vacant seat. Mr. Bremridge and Mr. Thomas Lloyd of Spake Hall, near Birmingham, are candidates for Barnstaple, vacant by the death of Mr. Potts, the former in the Conservative, the latter in the Liberal interest. Captain Fraser has declined to come forward on this occasion.

THE REVENUE.—The Revenue returns for the year and quarter, ended September 30, show a decrease of 189,479*l.* on the quarter, and an increase of 808,842*l.* on the year. The quarter's account shows an increase in the Excise of 318,000*l.*; Stamps, 11,000*l.*; Taxes, 10,000*l.*; Post Office, 10,000*l.*; Crown Lands, 1000*l.*; and a decrease in the Customs of 329,000*l.*; Property Tax, 108,000*l.*; Miscellaneous, 102,479*l.* The year's account shows an increase in Stamps of 321,055*l.*; Taxes, 33,000*l.*; Property Tax, 73,000*l.*; Post Office, 200,000*l.*; Crown Lands, 4979*l.*; Miscellaneous, 706,808*l.*; and a decrease in the Customs of 92,000*l.*; Excise, 438,000*l.*

THE CHANNEL FLEET arrived in Dublin Bay on Saturday morning from Liverpool. The fleet remained off Dublin until Thursday, when it sailed for Plymouth.

Foreign.

FRANCE.—It is announced that the Emperor and Empress will return to St. Cloud on Tuesday next, and that the Empress will return by sea. It is rumoured that the French Chambers will be opened very shortly. The Constitutionnel of Wednesday, in an article signed by M. Pauline Limayrac, dwells upon the importance of the passage of Earl Russell's speech at Blairgowrie in which he said that since Russia had not fulfilled the conditions imposed by the treaties of 1815, her title to possess Poland could hardly any longer be vindicated. The Pays says the declaration of Earl Russell, surrounded though it be by a cloud of pacific protestations, is one of great importance, and will have a great retentissement in Europe. In another article it states that Russia, treading under foot the letter and spirit of the treaties of 1815, only occupies Poland de facto. The France applauds the declaration of Earl Russell, and believes it to be impossible for the other Powers to refrain from expressing their sentiments on the consequences of the attitude of Russia from the point of view of the abrogation of the acts of the Vienna Congress. The Patrie also extols the declaration of Lord Russell, and La Presse says that France and England have decided to make a declaration to the effect that they consider the Treaties of 1815 as no longer in force, and consequently have ceased to guarantee the possession of Poland to Russia. La France of Thursday evening says that up to that time the French Government had not addressed any fresh despatch to the Cabinets of London and Vienna on the subject of Poland. The Patrie of Saturday says that the question whether the Poles should be recognised in the quality of belligerents has been incidentally raised by one of the two great maritime Powers. The Mémorial Diplomatique contains a lengthy article on the present position of the Polish question, written throughout in a tone of considerable hostility towards England and Austria. The article concludes with the following words:—

"France has made all the concessions to England and Austria which have been asked of her by those Powers. It is for them to judge and to say what course they will adopt in consequence of the result at which we have arrived. Every courier who crosses the Channel brings us the most sounding declamations, but it would not be the first time that more talk than work came from London. If the English journals are faithful interpreters of the sentiments of the British nation and the intentions of the Cabinet of St. James's, that body, enlightened by striking experience, will understand the necessity of a plain attitude and practical propositions. At the moment when the last Notes of the three Powers left for St. Petersburg, France proposed to England and Austria to concert and arrange immediately what measures should be taken in case of a partial or complete refusal of Russia. England, and, following her example, Austria declined to engage herself in advance, and preferred to be guided by events. It is for those two Powers now to take the initiative, and, as events have spoken, to make known in what way they are willing to act. Upon this condition alone the concert established between the Powers can continue. France will not allow herself to be hurried away by British rhodomontade, or held back by Austrian hesitation. France, who did not believe it right to settle herself a question affecting the balance of power in Europe, does not think it incumbent upon her to carry out alone that which other Powers have declared to be of common interest. Equally inaccessible to discouragement or spite, she will willingly listen to every serious overture, but she will not lend herself to vain demonstrations. If, therefore, she should again be asked to raise a voice which will not be listened to, she will prefer to wait her time in the fulness of her liberty."

The Bishop of Orleans has ordered prayers to be put up for Poland. It was reported last week that Prince Napoleon had left for London on a mission to the English Government; that Baron Gros would be replaced at London by the Duke de Persigny or Count Walewski; and that M. Drouyn de Lhuys had tendered his resignation. The Pays contradicts all these rumours, and says that Prince Napoleon's visit to England has no political bearing. La France says that Count Walewski has intimated his intention not to return at present to active life, and that Baron Gros retains the post of French Ambassador in London. The Moniteur of Sunday says.—

"The journal La Presse has published several articles, throwing upon the Minister for Foreign Affairs the sole responsibility of our foreign policy, and including in the same censure the general direction of affairs and the mode of treating them. The journal in question misunderstands the spirit of our institutions under the present régime. The idea which directs public affairs emanates from the Sovereign, and the Minister is only responsible for its execution."

The Presse has since replied to this article, and by so doing has brought upon itself the punishment of a warning, to which it has likewise replied by challenging the justice of such arbitrary measures. The Emperor on Thursday week paid a visit to M. Fould at Tarbes. M. Drouyn de Lhuys received last week the members of the Mexican deputation, which has since left for Trieste, on its way to Miramor. It will be received by the Emperor at St. Cloud on its return. The squadron of iron-clad ships of war assembled at Cherbourg, consisting of two ships of the line and three frigates, sailed on Monday on an experimental cruise, under the command of Admiral Penaud, who hoisted his flag in the screw ship of the line Napoleon. Preparatory to sailing, Admiral Penaud, who is president of the commission appointed to examine the comparative merits of the ships composing the squadron, minutely inspected each ship. The Napoleon is to serve as the point of comparison, and the cruise is to be extended to the coast of Spain, and possibly to Lisbon. The Archbishop of Avignon died on Tuesday. The Rhone has overflowed its bed to a height of two metres along the line of Lyons. The country upon the banks of the river is submerged.

SPAIN.—It is officially announced that the Emperor of Morocco, acknowledging the justice of the Spanish demands, has replied that he will send a force under Muley Abbas to severely chastise the Riffs.

PORTUGAL.—The Queen was happily delivered of a Prince on Monday last. The ex-Regent, Dom Fernando, and Princess Clotilde will be sponsors to the Royal infant. The Southern Railway, from Barreiro to Goa, has been opened with great éclat, in the presence of the President of the Council of Ministers and several notabilities. The yield of wine and oil is reported to be scanty throughout Portugal.

FRANKFORT.—In the sitting of the Federal Diet on Thursday the proposition of the United Committees in favour of Federal execution in Holstein was almost unanimously adopted. The representatives of Baden Baden and Luxemburg voted against the proposition. The representative of Hanover considered it insufficient. The late despatch of the British Government on the question was referred to the Committee.

DENMARK.—The Rigsraad, the Common Assembly for Denmark and Schleswig, was opened on Monday. The President of the Council read the Royal speech, of which the following is a summary:—

"The Greek nation has called a Danish Prince to fill the vacant throne of Greece. I trust the event may lead to happy results. I have ordered Bills to be laid before you relating to a new constitution for Denmark and Schleswig, which will be based upon the existing constitution. Under the new constitution the Rigsraad will acquire such power that it will be able to meet the great demands of the immediate future, and at a later period bring about the complete constitutional development of the country. The subjoined temporary resolutions will indicate how, with the co-operation of the people, and in accordance with their wishes, the position of Holstein towards the other parts of the kingdom may be settled. The dispute between Denmark and the Federal Diet appears to be approaching a decision, as the resolutions passed at the Congress of German Princes anticipate a change in the relative positions of Holstein and Denmark in conformity with my proclamation of March last. I trusted that an understanding would be arrived at, but in reply to that proclamation came the demands of the Federal Diet. Our last despatch to the Federal Diet declared our readiness to carry out its resolutions in Holstein, if they were found to be compatible with my sovereignty over the Federal provinces, and did not impede independent legislation in the other parts of the kingdom. In case our hope should not be realised, it is obvious that it would no longer be a question of the Federal rights over Holstein, but of the independence of Denmark, which is firmly determined to protect herself against any attack." The speech concluded by expressing a conviction that his Majesty does not stand alone, and declaring that he rests his hopes on the people's love of their country and of liberty.

On Tuesday the President of the Council laid before the Rigsraad the draught of a new constitution for Denmark and Schleswig, by which all questions common to the two provinces are to be regulated. It shows great progress in the development of liberal ideas in Denmark. A property qualification will only be required of members of the Upper House. Members of the Lower House will be freely elected, without any condition relating to the income of either the electors or the persons elected. All matters concerning Denmark alone will be regulated by the Rigsraad, and those relating to Schleswig by the Estates of that Province. In the sitting of the Rigsraad on Wednesday, the Minister of Marine demanded authority for the construction of an iron-clad naval battery, the calling out of 5000 sailors, and the iron plating of a frigate.

SWEDEN.—The following is the summary of a Note on the Dano-German question, dated July 19, addressed by the Swedish Government to its Ambassadors in London and Paris:—

"The demand of the Federal Diet, that Denmark should withdraw her proclamation of March 30, has made the interference of Germany in the affairs of that kingdom intolerable. Denmark, in her reply, will probably refuse to comply with the demands of the Diet, and declare that Federal execution would be considered equivalent to a declaration of war. Such a reply would be justifiable, for the demands of the Diet relative to Holstein have been acceded to, and it has no right to interfere in the affairs of Schleswig, to which duchy, moreover, the Government has granted every liberty. The Western Powers could not remain indifferent to a war which may easily ensue if they do not protect Denmark. Sweden might, perhaps, in such an eventuality be compelled to take an active part, inasmuch as the subjugation of Denmark would endanger the interests of Sweden."

PRUSSIA.—The ceremony of the opening of the new Exchange at Berlin took place on Tuesday. The Staats Anzeiger publishes a circular issued by the Minister of the Interior, calling upon the chiefs of the Provincial Governments to devote their strictest attention to the conduct of the public functionaries during the forthcoming elections. The officials are expected to give their entire support to the State Government. Even a passive attitude will be considered as showing a want of devotion. Public officials are not released from their oath of allegiance to the King, either in their capacity as electors or elected. Jacob Grimm, the celebrated German writer, who, in conjunction with his late brother William, has been so long known not only in Germany but throughout all Europe, died on the 20th ult. at Berlin, after a short illness, in his 79th year.

AUSTRIA.—The Emperor arrived at the shooting fête at Innspruck on Tuesday. His Majesty remains incognito. The Mexican deputation was expected to arrive at Trieste on Thursday. The Imperial rescript requesting the Transylvanian Diet to send deputies to the Reichsrath was despatched to Hermandstadt on Monday. A rumour is current that the English Government has addressed a Note to Austria, proposing that the Powers should no longer recognise the title of Russia to Poland since she has violated the treaties of 1815.

SAXONY.—The first meeting of the National Verein has taken place at Dresden, under the presidency of M. Wigand, formerly a representative at the Frankfort Diet and compromised in the revolution of 1849. M. Schultze Delitschez severely criticised the proceedings of the Frankfort Congress. He said that on that occasion Austria had acted solely in her own dynastic interests, and added that the meeting of the Sovereigns had in reality been brought about by the National Verein. He declared that the German people would not give their adhesion to the project which their rulers had approved, and, in conclusion, warmly advocated a return to the Constitution which had been voted by the Parliament of Frankfort in 1849. M. Rewiszer, who spoke to the same effect, concluded his speech with the words, "We are the State." Both speeches produced a great sensation. The National Verein will shortly hold a meeting at Leipsic. MM. Clam Gallas, representative for Austria, Von Feder, for Bavaria, and Kleing Hoeffer for the Grand Duchy of Hesse, have arrived at Dresden for the purpose of inspecting the Saxon Federal Contingent.

SAXE COBURG.—The Coburg Zeitung publishes a project of Federal reform, drawn up by the Prince Consort in 1848. It contains many analogies with recently published plans, although it is in advance of these as regards the monarchical point and responsible ministries. The following are the leading features of the project :—

"The princes of the German federation, together with the four burgomasters of the free cities, will form a Diet of Princes, and choose from among them—for life, or for a term of 10 years, an Emperor of Germany and a Federal Commander. The chief people of the different German States will choose from among them, always from their two Chambers, a proportion of their members according to the number of inhabitants and the importance of their own States, and form of them a German Imperial Diet to assemble every three years. An Imperial Tribunal, over which an irremovable Chancellor shall preside, will form a supreme tribunal, composed of all the legal faculties of all the German nations, and deciding all questions arising among the single States, among the single Governments and classes, as well as on all questions of German succession and regency, and on all partitions and inheritances."

RUSSIA.—The Emperor of Russia left St. Petersburg on the evening of the 23d ult. for Moscow and the Crimea, where he was expected to arrive on the 1st of October. It is said that on his return from the Crimea he will pass through Warsaw. The Breslauer Zeitung asserts that the Grand Duke Constantine has fallen seriously ill, and that General Berg will be replaced. It is believed that the Grand Duke has definitively retired from public office, and certainly will never again return to Poland. The Opinion Nationale asserts that several Germans of high position, on learning that General Mouravieff had been decorated with the Order of St. Andrew, immediately sent back to the Czar the insignia of the Russian orders to which they belonged.

POLAND.—The Czas of Saturday publishes an article on English sympathy towards Poland. It considers that England ought to save Poland, as, wherever liberty and law are infringed, English interests are endangered. It says:—

"The attitude of public opinion in England is not indifferent to the Poles. Poland is not the satellite of any Power, and it is no mere form of words to declare that she will only incline towards those who give her actual help. Let England recognise the insurgents as belligerents and acquire a claim to the imperishable gratitude of Poland."

An Act of the Polish National Government appoints General Louis Mieroslawski general organiser of the Polish troops. The Act is dated Warsaw, August 16, and was delivered to General Mieroslawski on the 28th ult. by Joseph Grabowski. The Polish National gendarmes, Taniszewski, Racynski, Kosinski, Jageszewski, and Zelner, were shot on Wednesday morning in five of the public squares of Warsaw. Among the 200 persons recently sent to Siberia were Count Ostrowski, son of the Minister for Foreign Affairs, and L. Lewinski, a Councillor of State. The soldiers in Warsaw have taken possession of three convents, which they now occupy, printing offices and military tailoring establishments having been discovered in some of them. After pillaging the Zamoyski palaces, the troops entered the principal Jewish synagogue in the Rue Wierzbowa, during the celebration of religious service, arrested the congregation, and destroyed the sanctuary. They also searched Kreuz Church, threw out the coffins, defiled the corpses and stole the ornaments. Meisels, Chief Rabbi at Warsaw, has since been arrested. All the workmen employed on the official Russian journal of Warsaw have left the printing-office, and several persons have refused to accept the editorship of that journal. Baron Korff, chief of the police, has been summoned to St. Petersburg. The Police Gazette publishes an ordinance to the effect that in future every house from which a shot should be fired, or in which an attempt should be made on the life of a public officer, will be confiscated, and the inhabitants arrested and treated as accomplices. On the 23d ult. the Russians plundered the Jewish merchants of the town of Dzialoszyce. Isaac Sarna, a Jewish master tailor, was tortured, and his hair and beard were burnt, in order to extort the name of the person who had ordered him to make blouses for the National troops. The Lithuanian section of the National Government has permitted the citizens to sign the address of devotion to the Czar for the purpose of avoiding persecution by the Russians. On the 20th the insurgent corps under Zrembinski and Gostowski defeated the Russians at Rydzewo, in the Government of Plock. Captain Tigenset has since defeated the insurgents under Bielowiecki with considerable loss near Zuromin, in that government. The insurgents numbered 450 men. On the 19th the insurgents, under Gleba and Ostroga, encountered the Russians at Ringaliszki, in the government of Augustowo. An engagement between the Russian troops and the insurgents commanded by Nadmiler has taken place at Saine, in the same Government. The band of Celinski had a successful engagement with the Russians on the 21st. An engagement between the insurgents and Russians took place on the same day at Wieslcocieda, in the government of Kalisch. Another engagement was fought on the 23d at Nowabieda. On the 25th an engagement between Chmielinski's cavalry and the Russian troops under the command of Czengery took place in the palatinate of Cracow, and resulted in the retreat of the latter. The detachment of insurgents commanded by Otto joined Chmielinski's corps on the 27th, and on the 29th an engagement took place at Mipzow, in the woywodeship of Cracow, between Otto and the Russians. Fifty Cossacks with their arms and horses were captured. Several encounters have taken place in the Government of Radom. The insurgent leader Iskra defeated the Russians between Dzialoszyce and Skalmierz on the 24th, and advanced to Wodzislaw after the victory. Another engagement was fought on the 27th ult. near Sunworno, in the woywodeship of Kalisch. On the 28th the commander of the Russian troops in the palatinate of Kalisch held a council with several superior officers of the Prussian army relative to the measures to be taken to paralyse the movements of the insurgents. Fresh, well-armed detachments of insurgents have appeared in the environs of Tarczyn, four leagues from Warsaw. Mr. Lawrence Oliphant and Mr. Evelyn Ashley have been forbidden by General Kreuter, commanding the Russian forces at Radziwiloff, to enter Volhynia, in consequence of the "highly disturbed state" of the province, except by a route prescribed by himself.

ITALY.—Prince Carignan and Prince Amadée have left Genoa for Lisbon, on a visit to the Queen of Portugal. At Gibraltar their Royal Highnesses will meet an Italian squadron, composed of eight frigates, which will escort them to Lisbon. The Minister for Foreign Affairs has issued a circular granting to the Papal Consuls whose exequaturs have been withdrawn permission to remain in the kingdom of Italy. The territory infested with brigands has been divided into two military zones. The first, embracing the districts of Benevento, Molise, and Mateso, is placed under the command of General Pallavicini; and the second, comprising the districts of Malfi, Bovino, and Avellino, will be commanded by Franzini. The Pope has addressed an encyclical letter to the Bishops of New Grenada, deploring the cruel persecution conducted by the Government against the doctrines, authority, and rights of the Church, and condemning the laws promulgated against the clergy and ecclesiastical property. His Holiness censures the introduction of liberty of worship and the conduct of the ecclesiastics who obey iniquitous laws. He praises the firmness of the imprisoned Bishops, and enjoins the members of the clergy remaining faithful together with the people, to persevere in their faith, and to pray God that the persecution may cease.

GREECE.—Intelligence from Athens states that the attempts of the Greek National Assembly to unite the different military parties have failed. The Assembly has voted a sum of 150,000 drachmas for the reception of the King. The Treasury is at present in a better condition than formerly, owing to the National Guard having assisted to collect the taxes in the provinces.

IONIAN ISLANDS.—Advices from Corfu announce that the Ionian Parliament was opened on Thursday. Great enthusiasm prevailed among the members. The Islands of Corfu and Paxo at the elections pronounced in favour of union with Greece. The result of the elections in the remaining islands is not yet known, but it is not doubted that it will be favourable to the union.

TURKEY.—The Syrian indemnities will be paid in the new issue of 30,000,000*f.* of Consolidés. The question of foreigners holding property is approaching a settlement. It is reported that Franco Effendi will succeed Daoud Pasha as Governor of the Lebanon. A sanguinary riot at Chios has rendered it necessary to send a frigate from Smyrna to that island.

THE PRINCIPALITIES.—The rumour of the attempt on the life of Prince Stourdsa has been denied.

THE CAUCASUS.—A despatch from Constantinople states that the Russian Envoy has protested against the transfer of contraband of war from an English steamer to a Circassian vessel.

EGYPT.—The inundation of the Nile now covers 4000 hectares of land and five kilometres of the railway. The Government is taking precautions against further disasters, and the army is employed to watch the dykes.

INDIA.—The Ajmere prisoner has been finally proved not to be the Nana Sahib. An action for defamation of character brought by Major General Burney against Captain Eyre, of her Majesty's 38th Regiment, has been decided in favour of the plaintiff. Damages, 2000*r.*, with costs. Serious state convulsions had broken out in Affghanistan: Shere Ali, or Ameer the Second, has executed his brother, and another brother, having escaped the same fate, has fled, and is raising forces against the successor of Dost Mahomed.

CHINA.—A serious encounter has taken place in Hanchow Bay between her Majesty's gun boat Flamer, a Chinese steamer, and a number of piratical junks, which had seized the Rosina, belonging to Messrs. Dent & Co., during her voyage from Ningpo to Shanghae, and carried her off into the recesses of the bay.

JAPAN.—Advices from Kanagawa to the 10th of August state that the British fleet had sailed for the western shores to punish the Daimios. The Moniteur publishes details respecting the favourable impression produced on the Japanese by the chastisement inflicted by Admiral Jaures on the Japanese forts from which the Europeans were fired upon. The Tycoon had sent the pattern of a flag which belongs to him, with an intimation that his Government recognized the right of foreigners to seize any vessel which should not hoist this flag.

AUSTRALIA.—From Melbourne we learn that the ministerial crisis has passed over, and that Mr. M'Culloch has succeeded in forming an Administration. The Sydney Parliament was in session. The chief subject of discussion was the payment of the clergy by the state; a motion for placing on the estimates the sum of 25,000*l.* for the support of the clergy had been lost by a small majority. A motion for the payment of members was thrown out by the large majority of 39 to 12.

MADAGASCAR.—MM. Dupré and Lambert remain on board the French vessel Hermione, awaiting the ratification of the treaty with Madagascar. A price has been set upon their heads. The Hermione has not saluted the Malagasy flag. The Queen desires to modify the treaty, but M. Dupré insists that the arrangements concluded with King Radama shall remain intact. If the Queen refuses to execute the treaty, M. Laborde will strike his flag and retire to the Hermione.

UNITED STATES.—Accounts from Charleston to the 16th ult., state that Fort Sumter was still in the hands of the Confederates, who were reported to be repairing it. They had already strengthened Fort Moultrie, and continued to shell General Gilmore's position. General Gilmore was mounting heavy guns at Fort Wagner and Cumming's Point to bombard Charleston, but was proceeding slowly on account of the Confederate fire. The Monitors were unable to pass up to Charleston. A magazine in one of the batteries on James Island accidentally exploded on the 15th, causing the death of a lieutenant and five men. One of the 800-pounder Blakeley guns belonging to the Confederates burst on the 26th, owing to the piece being too much elevated in an attempt to make a long shot. General Beauregard, it is stated, unfavourably regards the use of these monster cannon, and has telegraphed to the authorities at Richmond not to send him any more of them. General Gilmore has tendered his resignation on account of a disagreement with Admiral Dahlgren. It is supposed the latter will be superseded. General Rosencrans has been defeated and compelled to retreat to Chattanooga, after two days' fighting, by General Bragg, who had been heavily reinforced by Lee, Beauregard, and Joe Johnstone. The following is an account of the first day's battle. On the morning of the 19th the Confederates attacked General Rosencrans near Chickamanga Creek. A fierce musketry engagement ensued, the woody nature of the ground preventing the use of artillery. Early in the engagement the Confederates captured five guns of the celebrated Loomas battery. Fierce fighting continued till 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when the Federal centre was pushed, broken, and retreated in disorder, pursued by the Confederates, who were, however, afterwards checked and driven back. The Confederates then drove General Davis's division back with heavy loss, capturing every gun of the 8th Indiana Regiment. Davis, however, succeeding in rallying his forces, and retook his guns. General Reynolds' division suffered severely, but maintained its position. Palmer's division lost two guns. Van Cleve's division lost ground, and did not regain its position. A general fight continued until long after dark. At its termination, both armies are said to have occupied the same ground as at the commencement. The Federals captured ten guns and lost seven. The following are the details of the second day's battle

